But let my Favours hide thy mangled Face,
And even in thy behalf, I'll thank my self
For doing these fair Rites of Tenderness.
Adieu, and take thy praise with thee to Heaven;
Thy ignominy sleep with thee in the Grave,
But not remembred in thy Epitaph! Sees Falstaff.
What? Old Acquaintance? Could not all this flesh
Keep in a little life? Poor Jack, farewell!
I could have better spar'd a better man.
O, I should have a heavy miss of thee,
If I were much in love with Vanity.
Death hath not struck so fat a Deer to day,
Though many dearer in this bloody Fray:
Imbowell'd will I see thee by and by,
Till then, in blood by Noble Percy lye. [Exit.
Scene X. Falstaff riseth up.
Falst. Imbowell'd! If thou imbowel me to day, I'll give you leave to powder me, and eat me too to morrow.
'Twas time to counterfeit, or that hot Termagant Scot had paid me scot and lot too. Counterfeit? I am no counterfeit; to die, is to be a counterfeit, for he is but the counterfeit of a man, who hath not the life of a man: But to counterfeit dying, when a man thereby liveth, is to be no counterfeit, but the true and perfect image of life indeed. The better part of Valour, is Discretion; in the which better part, I have saved my life. I am afraid of this Gun-powder Percy, though he be dead. How if he should counterfeit too, and rise? I am afraid he would prove the better counterfeit; therefore I'll make him sure;
yea, and I'll swear I ~~have~~ kill'd him. Why may not he rise as well as I? Nothing confutes me but Eyes, and no body sees me. Therefore, Sirrah, with a new wound in your thigh come you along with me. [Takes Hotspur on his back.
Scene XI.
Enter Prince and John of Lancaster.

Prin. Come, Brother John, full bravely hast thou flesht thy Maiden Sword.
John. But soft, who have we here?
Did you not tell me this fat man was dead?
Prin. I did, I saw him dead,
Breathless, ~~and bleeding~~ on the ground: Art thou alive,
Or is it Fantasie ~~that~~ plays upon our Eye-sight?
I prythee speak, we will not trust our Eyes
Without our Ears: Thou art not what thou seem'st.
Falst. No, that's certain; I am not a double man; but if I am not Jack Falstaff, then am I a Jack: There is Percy;
if your Father will do me any Honour, so; if not, let him kill the next Percy himself. I look either to be Earl or Duke, I can assure you.
Prin. Why, Percy I kill'd my self, and saw thee dead.
Fal. Did'st thou? Lord, Lord, how the world is given to Lying! I grant you I was down, and out of Breath, and so was he; but we rose both at an instant, and fought
a long hour by Shrewsbury Clock: if I may be believed,
so! if not, let them that should reward Valour bear
the sin upon their own heads. I'll take't on my death
I gave him this wound in the Thigh: if the man were alive, and would deny it, I would make him eat a piece of my Sword,
John. This is the strangest tale that e're I heard.

Prin.

Prin. This is the ſtrangeſt Fellow, Brother John.
Come bring your luggage nobly on your back:
For my part, if a lye may do thee grace,
I'le gild it with the happieſt terms I have.
A Retreat is ſounded.
The Trumpets ſound Retreat, the day is ours:
Come Brother, let's to the higheſt of the Field,
To ſee what Friends are living, who are dead. [Exeunt.
Fal. I'le follow as they ſay, for Reward. He that rewards me, Heaven reward him! If I do grow great again, I'le grow leſs; for I'le purge, and leave Sack, and live cleanly, as a Noble man ſhould do. [Exit.

Scena ~~Quarta.~~ XII.

The Trumpets ſound.
Enter King, Prince of Wales, Lord John of Lancaſter, Earl of Weſtmerland, with Worceſter and Vernon priſoners.

King. Thus ever did Rebellion find Rebuke.
Ill-ſpirited Worceſter, did we not ſend Grace,
Pardon, and terms of Love to all of you?
And would'ſt thou turn our Offers contrary?
Miſuſe the tenor of thy Kinſman's Truſt?
Three Knights upon our Party ſlain to day,
A Noble Earl and many a Creature elſe
Had been alive this hour,
If like a Chriſtian thou had'ſt truly born,
Betwixt our Armies, true Intelligence.
Wor. What I have done, my ſafety urg'd me to;
And I embrace this Fortune patiently,
Since, not to be avoided, it falls on me.
King. Bear Worceſter to death, and Vernon too.
Other Offenders we will pauſe upon.
[Exit Worceſter and Vernon.
How goes the Field?
Prin. The Noble Scot Lord Douglas, when he ſaw
The Fortune of the day quite turn'd from him,
The Noble Percy ſlain, and all his men,
Upon the foot of fear, fled with the reſt;
And falling from a hill, he was ſo bruiz'd
That the Purſuers took him. At my Tent
The Douglas is, and I beſeech your Grace,
I may diſpoſe of him.
King. With all my heart.
Prin. Then Brother John of Lancaſter,
To you this Honourable Bounty ſhall belong:
Go to the Douglas, and deliver him
Up to his pleaſure, ranſomleſs and free:
His Valour, ſhewn upon our Creſts to day,
Hath taught us how to cheriſh ſuch high Deeds,
Even in the boſom of our Adverſaries.
King. Then this remains, that we divide our Power.
You Son John, and my Couſin Weſtmorland
Towards York ſhall bend you, with your deareſt ſpeed,
To meet Northumberland, and the Prelate Scroop,
Who, as we hear, are buſily in Arms.
My ſelf, and Son Harry will towards Wales,
To fight with Glendower, and the Earl of Marche.
Rebellion in this Land ſhall loſe his way,
Meeting the Check of ſuch another day;
And ſince this buſineſs ſo far is done,
Let us not leave, till all our own be won. [Exeunt.

The Second Part of HENRY IV,

CONTAINING HIS DEATH:

And Coronation of King HENRY V.

Actus Primus, Scena Prima.

INDUCTION.

Enter Rumor.

OPen your Ears: For Which of you will ſtop
The vent of Hearing, when loud Rumor ſpeaks?
I, from the Orient, to the drooping Weſt
(Making the wind my Poſt-horſe) ſtill unfold
The Acts commenced on this Ball of Earth.
Upon my Tongue continual Slanders ride,
The which, in every Language, I pronounce,
Stuffing the ears of them with falſe Reports:
I ſpeak of Peace, while covert Enmity
(Under the ſmile of ſafety) wounds the World:
And who but Rumor, who but only I
Make fearful Muſters, and prepar'd Defence,
Whil'ſt the big year, ſwoln with ſome other grief,
Is thought with child, by the ſtern Tyrant War;

And no ſuch matter. Rumor is a Pipe
Blown by Surmiſe, Jealouſies, Conjectures;
And of ſo eaſie, and ſo plain a ſtop,
That the blunt Monſter, with uncounted Heads,
The ſtill diſcordant, wavering Multitude,
Can play upon it. But what need I thus
My well-known Body to Anatomize
Among my Houſhold? Why is Rumor here?
I run before King Harry's Victory,
Who in a bloody Field by Shrewsbury
Hath beaten down young Hotſpur, and his Troops,
Quenching the Flame of bold Rebellion,
Even with the Rebels blood. But what mean I
To ſpeak of Truth at firſt? My Office is
To noiſe abroad, that Harry Monmouth fell
Under the Wrath of Noble Hoſpur's Sword:
And that the King, before the Dowglas Rage
Stoop'd his Anointed head, as low as death.
This have I rumor'd through the Peaſant Towns,
Between the Royall Field of Shrewsbury,
And this Worm-eaten-Hole of ragged Stone,
Where Hotſpur's Father, old Northumberland,
Lyes crafty ſick. The Poſts come tyring on,
And not a man of them brings other News
Than they have learn'd of me. From Rumor's Tongues.
They bring ſmooth-Comforts-falſe, worſe than True-wrongs. [Exit.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Lord Bardolf, and the Porter.

L. Bar. Who keeps the Gate, hoa?
Where is the Earl?
Por. What ſhall I ſay you are?
L. Bar. Tell thou the Earl
That the Lord Bardolf doth attend him here?
Por. His Lordſhip is walk'd forth into the Orchard,
Pleaſe it your Honor, knock but at the Gate,
And he himſelf will anſwer.

Enter Northumberland.

L. Bar. Here comes the Earl.
Nor. What news, Lord Bardolf? Ev'ry minute now
Should be the Father of ſome Stratagem;
The Times are wilde: Contention (like a Horſe
Full of high feeding) madly hath broke looſe,
And bears down all before him.
L. Bar. Noble Earl,
I bring you certain News from Shrewsbury.
Nor. Good, and Heaven will.
L. Bar. As good as heart can wiſh:
The King is almoſt wounded to the death:
And in the Fortune of my Lord your Son,
Prince Harry ſlain outright: and both the Blunts
Kill'd by the hand of Dowglas, Young Prince John,
And Weſtmerland, and Stafford, fled the Field.
And Harry Monmouth's Brawn (The Hulk Sir John)
Is Priſoner to your Son. O, ſuch a Day,
(So fought, ſo follow'd, and ſo fairly won)
Came not, till now, to dignifie the Times
Since Cæſar's Fortunes.
Nor. How is this deriv'd?
Saw you the Field? Came you from Shrewsbury?
L. Bar. I ſpake with one (my L.) that came from thence
A Gentleman well bred, and of good Name,
That freely render'd me this News for true.
Nor. Here comes my ſervant Travers, whom I ſent
On Tueſday laſt, to liſten after News.

Enter Travers.

L. Bar. My Lord, I over-rode him on the way.
And he is furniſh'd with no Certainties,
More than he (haply) may retail from me.
Nor. Now Travers, what good Tidings comes from you?
Tra. My Lord, John Umfrevil turn'd me back
With joyfull tydings; and being better hors'd
Out-rode me. After him, came ſpurring hard
A Gentleman (almoſt fore-ſpent with ſpeed)
That ſtopp'd by me, to breathe his bloodied Horſe.
He ask'd the way to Cheſter: And of him
I did demand what News from Shrewsbury:
He told me, that Rebellion had ill luck,
And that young Harry Percie's Spur was cold.
With that he gave his able Horſe the head,
And, bending forward, ſtrook his able heels
Againſt the panting ſides of his poor Jade,
Up to the Rowel-head, and ſtarting ſo,
He ſeem'd in running to devour the way,
Staying no longer queſtion.
North. Ha? Again:
Said he young Harry Percie's Spur was cold?
(Of Hotſpur, cold-Spur) that Rebellion
Had met ill luck?
L. Bar. My Lord: I'le tell you what,
If my young Lord your Son, have not the day,
Upon mine Honour, for a ſilken Point
I'le give my Barony. Never talk of it.
Nor. Why ſhould the Gentleman that rod by Travers
Give then ſuch inſtances of Loſs?
L. Bar. Who he?
He was ſome hielding Fellow, that had ſtoln
The Horſe he rode on: and upon my life
Spake at adventure. Look, here comes more News.

Enter Morton.

Nor. Yea, this mans brow, like to a Title-leaf,
Foretels the Nature of a Tragick Volume:
So looks the Strond, when the Imperious Flood
Say, Morton, did'ſt thou come from Shrewsbury?
Mor. I ran from Shrewsbury (my Noble Lord)
Where hateful death put on his uglieſt Mask
To fright our Party.
Nor. How doth my Son, and Brother?
Thou trembl'ſt; and the whiteneſs in thy Cheek
Is apter than thy Tongue, to tell thy Errand.
Even ſuch a man, ſo faint, ſo ſpiritleſs,
So dull, ſo dead in look, ſo woe-be-gone,
Drew Priam's Curtain, in the dead of night,
And would have told him, half his Troy was burn'd.
But Priam found the Fire, e're he his Tongue:
And I, my Percie's death, e're thou report'ſt it.
This, thou would'ſt ſay: Your Son did thus, and thus:
Your Brother, thus. So fought the Noble Dowglas,
Stopping my greedy Ear with their bold deeds.
But in the end (to ſtop my Ear indeed)
Though haſt a Sigh, to blow away this Praiſe,
Ending with Brother, Son, and all are dead.
Mor. Dowglas is living, and your Brother, yet:
But for my Lord, your Son.
Nor. Why, he is dead.
See what a ready Tongue ſuſpition hath;
He that but fears the thing, he would not know,
Hath by Inſtinct, knowledge from others Eyes,
That what he fear'd is chanc'd. Yet ſpeak (Morton)
Tell thou thy Earl, his Divination Lies,
And I will take it as a ſweet Diſgrace,
And make thee rich, for doing me ſuch wrong.
Mor. You are too great, to be (by me) gainſaid:
Your Spirit is too true, your Fears too certain.
Nor. Yet for all this, ſay not that Percie's dead.
I ſee a ſtrange Confeſſion in thine Eye:
Thou ſhak'ſt thy head, and hold'ſt it Fear, or Sin,
To ſpeak a truth. If he be ſlain, ſay ſo:
The Tongue offends not, that reports his death:
And he doth ſin that doth belye the dead;
Not he, which ſays the dead is not alive:
Yet the firſt bringer of unwelcome News

Hath

Hath but a loſing Office: And his Tongue,
Sounds ever after as a ſullen Bell
Remembred, knolling a departing Friend.
L. Bar. I cannot think (my Lord) your Son is dead.
Mor. I am ſorry I ſhould force you to believe
That, which I would to Heaven I had not ſeen.
But theſe mine Eyes ſaw him in bloody ſtate,
Rend'ring faint acquittance (wearied and out-breath'd)
To Henry Monmouth, whoſe ſwift wrath beat down
The never-daunted Percy to the Earth,
From whence (with life) he never more ſprung up.
In few; his death (whoſe Spirit lent a Fire,
Even to the dulleſt Peazant in his Camp)
Being bruited once, took Fire and Heat away
From the beſt temper'd Courage in his Troops.
For from his Metal was his Party ſteel'd;
Which once in him abated, all the reſt
Turn'd on themſelves, like dull and heavy Lead,
And as the thing that's heavy in it ſelf,
Upon enforcement, flies with greateſt ſpeed,
So did our Men, heavy in Hotſpur's loſs,
Lend to this weight ſuch lightneſs with their fear,
That Arrows fled not ſwifter toward their aim,
Than did our Souldiers (aiming at their ſafety)
Fly from the field. Then was that Noble Worceſter
Too ſoon ta'ne Priſoner: And that furious Scot,
(The bloody Douglas) whoſe well-labouring Sword
Had three times ſlain th' Appearance of the King,
'Gan vail his ſtomack, and did grace the ſhame
Of thoſe that turn'd their back: And in his flight,
Stumbling in Fear, was took. The ſum of all,
Is, that the King hath won: And hath ſent out
A ſpeedy Power, to encounter you, my Lord,
Under the Conduct of young Lancaſter
And Weſtmerland. This is the News at full.
Nor. For this, I ſhall have time enough to mourn.
In Poyſon there is Phyſick: And this News
(Having been well) that would have made me ſick,
Being ſick, hath in ſome meaſure made me well.
And as the Wretch, whoſe Feaver-weakened Joynts,
Like ſtrengthleſs Hinges, buckle under life,
Impatient of his Fit, breaks like a fire
Out of his Keepers arms: Even ſo, my Limbs
(Weakned with grief) being now inrag'd with grief,
Are thrice themſelves. Hence therefore thou nice Crutch,
A ſcaly Gauntlet now, with Joynts of Steell
Muſt glove his hand. And hence thou ſickly Quoif,
Thou art a guard too wanton for the head,
Which Princes fleſh'd with Conqueſt, aim to hit.
Now bind my Brows with Iron, and approach
The ragged'ſt hour that Time and Spight dare bring,
To frown upon th' enrag'd Northumberland.
Let Heaven kiſs Earth: Now let not Nature's hand
Keep the wild Flood confin'd: Let Order die,
And let the World no longer be a ſtage
To feed Contention in a lingring Act:
But let one Spirit of the firſt-born Cain,
Reign in all boſoms, that each heart being ſet
On bloody Courſes, the rude Scene may end,
And darkneſs be the burier of the dead. (Honour.
L. Bar. Sweet Earl, divorce not wiſdom from your
Mor. The Lives of all your loving Complices
Lean on your Health, the which if you give o're
To ſtormy Paſſion, muſt perforce decay.
You caſt th' event of War (my Noble Lord)
And ſum'd the accompt of Chance, before you ſaid,
Let us make Head: It was your preſurmiſe,
That in the dole of blows, your Son might drop.
You knew he walk'd o're Perils, on an Edge
More likely to fall in, then to get o're:
You were adviſ'd his fleſh was capable
Of Wounds, and Scars; and that his forward Spirit
Would lift him, where moſt trade of danger rang'd,
Yet did you ſay, go forth: And none of this
(Though ſtrongly apprehended) could reſtrain
The ſtiff-born action: What hath then befaln?
Or what hath this bold Enterprize brought forth,
More than that Being, which was like to be?
L. Bar. We all that are engaged to this loſs,
Knew that we ventur'd on ſuch dangerous Seas,
That if we wrought out life, was ten to one:
And yet we ventur'd for the Gain propos'd,
Choak'd the reſpect of likely Peril fear'd,
And ſince we are o're-ſet, venture again.
Come, we will all put forth; Body and Goods.
Mor. 'Tis more than time: And (my moſt noble Lord)
I hear for certain, and do ſpeak the truth:
The gentle Arch-Biſhop of York is up
With well appointed Powers: he is a man
Who with a double Surety bindes his Followers.
My Lord (your Son) had onely but the Corps,
But Shadows, and the Shews of men to fight.
For that ſame word (Rebellion) did divide
The action of their Bodies, from their Souls,
And they did fight with queaſineſs, conſtrain'd,
As men drink Potions; that their Weapons only
Seem'd on our ſide: But for their Spirits and Souls,
This word (Rebellion) it had froze them up,
As Fiſh are in a Pond. But now the Biſhop
Turns Inſurrection to Religion,
Suppos'd ſincere, and holy in his Thoughts:
He's follow'd both with Body, and with Mind:
And doth enlarge his Riſing, with the Blood
Of fair King Richard, ſcrap'd from Pomfret ſtones,
Derives from Heaven his Quarrel, and his Cauſe:
Tells them, he doth beſtride a bleeding Land,
Gaſping for life, under great Bullingbrook,
And more, and leſs, do flock to follow him.
North. I knew of this before. But to ſpeak truth,
This preſent grief had wip'd it from my mind.
Go in with me, and counſel every man
The apteſt way for Safety, and Revenge:
Get Poſts, and Letters, and make Friends with ſpeed,
Never ſo few, nor never yet more need. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Falſtaff, and Page.

Fal. Sirrah, you Giant, what ſays the Doct. to my Water.
Pag. He ſaid, Sir, the water it ſelf was a good healthy Water: But for the Party that own'd it, he might have more Diſeaſes than he knew for.
Fal. Men of all ſorts take a pride to gird at me: The brain of this fooliſh compounded Clay-man, is not able to invent any thing that tends to laughter, more than I invent, or is invented on me. I am not onely witty in my ſelf, but the cauſe that wit is in other men. I do here walk before thee, like a Sow, that hath o'rewhelm'd all her Litter, but one. If the Prince put thee into my Service for any other reaſon, than to to ſet me off, why then I have no judgment. Thou horſon Mandrake, thou art fitter to be worn in my cap, than to wait at my heels. I was never maim'd with an Agot till now: But I will ſet you neither in Gold nor Silver, but in vile apparel, and ſend you back again to your Maſter, for a Jewel. The Juvenal (the Prince your Maſter) whoſe Chin is not yet fledg'd, I will ſooner have a Beard grow in the Palm of my hand, then he ſhall get one on his Cheek: Yet he will not ſtick to ſay, his Face is a Face-Royal. Heaven may finiſh it when he will, it is not a hair amiſs yet: he may keep it ſtill as a Face-Royal, for a Barber ſhall never earn ſix-pence out of it; and yet he will be crowing, as if he had writ Man ever ſince his Father was a Batchelor. He may keep his own Grace, but he is almoſt out of mine, I can aſſure him. What ſaid M. Dombledon, about the Satten for my ſhort Cloak, and Slops?

Pag. He ſaid, Sir, you ſhould procure him better aſſurance than Bardolph: he would not take his Bond and yours, he lik'd not the Security.

Fal. Let him be damn'd like the Glutton, may his Tongue be hotter, a horſon Achitophel, a Raſcally-yea-forſooth-knave, to bear a Gentleman in hand, and then ſtand upon Security? The horſon ſmooth-pates do now wear nothing but high ſhoes, and bunches of Keyes at their Girdles: and if a man is through with them in honeſt Taking up, then they muſt ſtand upon Security: I had as lief they would put Rats-bane in my mouth, as offer to ſtop it with Security. I look'd he ſhould have ſent me two and twenty yards of Satten, (as I am a true Knight) and he ſends me Security. Well, he may ſleep in Security, for he hath the horn of Abundance: And the lightneſs of his Wife ſhines through it, and yet cannot he ſee, though he have his own Lanthorn to light him. Where's Bardolf?

Pag. He's gone into Smithfield to buy your Worſhip a Horſe.

Fal. I bought him in Pauls, and he'll buy me a Horſe in Smithfield. If I could get me a Wife in the Stews, I were Mann'd, Hors'd, and Wiv'd.

Enter Chief Juſtice, and Servant.

Pag. Sir, here comes the Nobleman that committed the Prince for ſtriking him, about Bardolph.

Fal. VVait cloſe, I will not ſee him.

Ch. Juſt. What's he that goes there?

Ser. Falſtaff, and't pleaſe your Lordſhip.

Juſt. He that was in queſtion for the Robbery?

Ser. He, my Lord, but he hath ſince done good ſervice at Shrewsbury: and (as I hear) is now going with ſome Charge to the Lord John of Lancaſter.

Juſt. VVhat to York? Call him back again.

Ser. Sir John Falſtaff.

Fal. Boy, tell him I am deaf.

Pag. You muſt ſpeak lowder, my Maſter is deaf.

Juſt. I am ſure he is, to the hearing of any thing good. Go pluck him by the Elbow. I muſt ſpeak with him.

Ser. Sir John.

Fal. What?a young Knave and beg? Is there not Wars? Is there not Employment? Doth not the King lack Subjects? do not the Rebels want Souldiers? Though it be a ſhame to be on any ſide but one, it is worſe ſhame to beg, than to be on the worſt ſide, were it worſe than the Name of Rebellion can tell how to make it.

Ser. You miſtake me, Sir.

Fal. VVhy, Sir, did I ſay you were an honeſt man? Setting my Knight-hood, and my Souldierſhip aſide. I had lyed in my throat, if I had ſaid ſo.

Ser. I pray you (Sir) then ſet your Knighthood and your Souldier-ſhip aſide, and give me leave to tell you, you lye in your throat, If you ſay I am any other than an honeſt man.

Fal. I give thee leave to tell me ſo! I lay aſide that which grows to me! If thou gett'ſt any leave of me, hang me, if thou tak'ſt leave, thou wer't better be hang'd: you Hunt-counter: hence, avant.

Ser. Sir, my Lord would ſpeak with you.

Juſt. Sir John Falſtaff, a word with you.

Fal. My good Lord: Give your Lordſhip good time of the day. I am glad to ſee your Lordſhip abroad: I heard ſay, your Lordſhip was ſick. I hope your Lordſhip goes abroad by advice. Your Lordſhip (though not clean paſt your youth) hath yet ſome ſmack of age in you: Some reliſh of the ſaltneſs of time: and I moſt humbly beſeech your Lordſhip, to have a reverend care of your health.

Juſt. Sir John, I ſent for your before your Expedition to Shrewsbury.

Fal. If it pleaſe your Lordſhip, I hear his Majeſty is return'd with ſome diſcomfort from Wales.

Juſt. I talk not of his Majeſty: You would not come when I ſent for you?

Fal. And I hear moreover, his Highneſs is faln into this ſame whorſon Apoplexy. (you.

Juſt. Well, Heaven mend him. I pray let me ſpeak with

Fal. This Apoplexy is (as I take it) a kind of Lethargy, a ſleeping of the Blood, a horſon Tingling.

Juſt. What tell you me of it? be it as it is.

Fal. It hath its original from much Grief; from Study and perturbation of the Brain. I have read the Cauſe of its Effects in Galen. It is a kind of deafneſs.

Juſt. I think you are faln into that Diſeaſe: For you hear not what I ſay to you.

Fal. Very well (my Lord) very well: Rather (an't pleaſe you) it is the Diſeaſe of not Liſtning, the Malady of not Marking, that I am troubled withall.

Juſt. To puniſh you by the Heels, would amend the attention of your Ears, and I care not if I be your Phyſitian.

Fal. I am as poor as Job, my Lord; but not ſo patient: your Lordſhip may miniſter the Potion of Impriſonment to me, in reſpect of Poverty: But how I ſhould be your Patient to follow your Preſcriptions, the VViſe may make ſome dram of a ſcruple, or indeed, a ſcruple it ſelf.

Juſt. I ſent for you (when there were matters againſt you for your life) to ſpeak with me.

Fal. As I was then adviſ'd by my Learned Counſel, in the Laws of this Land-ſervice, I did not come.

Juſt. Well, the truth is (Sir John) you live in great Infamy.

Fal. He that buckles him in my Belt, cannot live in leſs.

Juſt. Your Means is very ſlender, and your waſte great.

Fal. I would it were otherwiſe: I would my Means were greater, and my Waſte ſlenderer.

Juſt. You have miſled the youthful Prince.

Fal. The young Prince hath miſled me. I am the Fellow with the great Belly, and he my Dog.

Juſt. Well, I am loth to gall a new-heal'd wound: your Days Service at Shrewsbury, hath a little gilded over your Nights Exploit on Gads-hill. You may thank the unquiet time, for your quiet o're-poſting that Action.

Fal. My Lord? (Wolf.

Juſt. But ſince all is well, keep it ſo: wake not a ſleeping

Fal. To wake a Wolf, is as bad as to ſmell a Fox.

Juſt. What? you are as a Candle, the better part burnt out.

Fal. A Waſſel-Candel, my Lord; all Tallow: if I did ſay of Wax, my growth would approve the truth.

Juſt. There is not a white Hair on your face, but ſhould have his Effect of Gravity.

Fal. His Effect of gravy, gravy, gravy.

Juſt. You follow the young Prince up and down, like his evil Angel.

Fal. Not ſo (my Lord) your ill Angel is light: but I hope, he that looks upon me, will take me without weighing: and yet, in ſome reſpects I grant, I cannot go: I cannot tell. Virtue is of ſo little regard in theſe Coſtermongers days, that true Valour is turn'd Bear-herd. Pregnancy is made a Tapſter, and hath his quick Wit waſted in giving Recknings: all the other Gifts appertinent to man (as the malice of this Age ſhapes them) are not worth a Gooſe-berry. You that are old, conſider not the Capacities of us that are young: you meaſure the heat of our Livers, with the bitterneſs of your Galls: and we that are in the vaward of our youth, I muſt confeſs, are wags too.

Juſt. Do you ſet down your Name in the Scrowl of youth, that are written down old, with all the Characters of Age? Have you not a moyſt Eye? a dry Hand? a yellow Cheek? a white Beard? a decreaſing Leg? an increaſing Belly? Is not your voice broken? your wind ſhort? your Wit ſingle? and every part about you blaſted with Antiquity? and will you call your ſelf young? Fy, fie, fie, Sir John.

Fal. My Lord, I was born with a white head, and ſomthing a round belly. For my Voice, I have loſt it with hollowing and ſinging of Anthems. To approve my youth further, I will not. The truth is, I am onely old in Judgment and Underſtanding, and he that will caper with with me for a thousand Marks, let him lend me the Money, and have at him. For the Box o'th'ear that the Prince gave you, he gave it like a rude Prince, and you took it like a sensible Lord. I have checkt him for it, and the young Lyon repents: Marry not in Sack-cloth, but in new Silk, and old Sack.

Just. Well, Heaven send the Prince a better Companion.

Fal. Heaven send the Companion a better Prince: I cannot rid my hands of him.

Just. Well, the King hath sever'd you and Prince Harry, I hear you are going with Lord John of Lancaster, against the Archbishop, and the Earl of Northumberland.

Fal. Yes, I thank your pretty sweet wit for it: but look you pray, (all you that kiss my Lady Peace at home) that our Armies joyn not in a hot day: for I take but two shirts out with me, and I mean not to sweat extraordinarily: if it be a hot day, if I brandish any thing but my Bottle, would I might never spit white again: There is not a dangerous Action can peep out his head, but I am thrust upon it. Well, I cannot last ever.

Just. Well, be honest, be honest, and heaven bless your Expedition.

Fal. Will your Lordship lend me a thousand pound, to furnish me forth?

Just. Not a penny, not a penny: you are too impatient to bear Crosses. Fare you well. Commend me to my Cousin Westmerland. [Exit.

Fal. I do, fillop me with a three-man-Beetle. A man can no more separate Age and Covetousness, than he can part young limbs and letchery: but the Gowt galls the one, and the Pox pinches the other; and so both the Degrees prevent my Curses. Boy?

Page. Sir.

Fal. What Money is in my Purse?

Page. Seven Groats, and two pence.

Fal. I can get no remedy against this Consumption of the Purse. Borrowing onely lingers, and lingers it out, but the Disease is incurable. Go bear this Letter to my Lord of Lancaster, this to the Prince, this to the Earl of Westmerland, and this to old Mistris Ursula, whom I have weekly sworn to marry, since I perceiv'd the first white Hair on my Chin. About it: you know where to find me. Apox of this Gowt, or a Gowt of this Pox: for the one or th'other plays the rogue with my great Toe: It is no matter, if I do halt, I have the Wars for my Colour, and my Pension shall seem the more reasonable: A good Wit will make use of any thing: I will turn Diseases to commodity. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Archbishop, Hastings, Mowbray, and Lord Bardolf.

Ar. Thus have you heard our Causes, and know our Means:
And my most noble Friends, I pray you all
Speak plainly your Opinions of our Hopes,
And first (Lord Marshal) what say you to it?

Mow. I well allow the occasion of our Arms,
But gladly would be better satisfied,
How (in our Means) we should advance our selves
To look with forehead bold and big enough
Upon the Power and Puissance of the King?

Hast. Our present Musters grow upon the File
To five and twenty thousand men of choice:
And our Supplies live largely in the hope
Of great Northumberland, whose bosom burns
With an incensed Fire of Injuries.

L. Bar. The question then (Lord Hastings) standeth thus,
Whether our present five and twenty thousand
May hold up head without Northumberland?

Hast. With him we may.

L. Bar. I marry, there's the point:
But if without him we be thought too feeble;
My judgment is, we should not step too far
Till we had his Assistance by the hand.
For in a Theam so bloody fac'd as this,
Conjecture, Expectation, and Surmise
Of Aids uncertain, should not be admitted.

Arch. 'Tis true, Lord Bardolf, for indeed
It was young Hotspur's case at Shrewsbury.

L. Bar. It was (my Lord) who lin'd himself with hope,
Eating the air, on promise of Supply,
Flattering himself with Project of a Power,
Much smaller than the smallest of his Thoughts,
And so with great Imagination
(Proper to mad men) led his Powers to death,
And (winking) leap'd into destruction.

Hast. But (by your leave) it never yet did hurt,
To lay down likely-hoods, and forms of hope.

L. Bar. Yes, if this present quality of War,
Indeed the instant Action: a Cause on foot,
Lives so in hope: As in an early Spring
We see th'appearing Buds, which to prove Fruit,
Hope gives not so much warrant, as Despair
That Frosts will bite them. When we mean to build,
We first survey the Plot, then draw the Model,
And when we see the figure of the House,
Then must we rate the Cost of the Erection,
Which if we find out-weighs Ability,
What do we then, but draw a-new the Model
In fewer Offices; Or at least, desist
To build at all? Much more, in this great work,
(Which is (almost) to pluck a Kingdom down,
And set another up) should we survey
The Plot of Situation, and the Model,
Consent upon a sure Foundation:
Question Surveyors, know our own Estate.
How able such a Work to undergo,
To weigh against his Opposite? or else,
We fortifie in Paper, and in Figures,
Using the Names of men, instead of men:
Like one that draws the Model of a House
Beyond his power to build it; who (half through)
Gives o're, and leaves his part-created Cost
A naked subject to the Weeping Clouds,
And waste, for churlish Winters tyranny.

Hast. Grant that our hopes (yet likely of fair birth)
Should be still-born: and that we now possest
The utmost man of expectation:
I think we are a Body strong enough
(Even as we are) to equal with the King.

L. Bar. What is the King but five and twenty thousand?

Hast. To us no more: nay not so much, Lord Bardolf.
For his divisions (as the Times do brawl)
Are in three Heads: one Power against the French,
And one against Glendower: perforce a third
Must take up us: So is the unfirm King
In three divided: and his Coffers sound
With hollow Poverty, and Emptiness.

Ar. That he should draw his several Strengths together,
And come against us in full Puissance,
Need not be dreaded.

Hast. If he should do so,
He leaves his back unarm'd, the French, and Welsh
Baying him at the heel: never fear that.

L. Bar. Who is it like should lead is Forces hither?

Hast. The Duke of Lancaster and Westmerland:
Against the Welsh, himself, and Harry Monmouth.
But who is substituted 'gainst the French,
I have no certain notice.

Arch. Let us on:
And publish the occasion of our Arms.
The Common-wealth is sick of their own choice,
Their over-greedy love hath surfeited,
An habitation giddy, and unsure
Hath he that buildeth on the vulgar heart.

O thou fond Many, with what loud applauſe
Did'ſt thou beat Heaven with bleſſing Bullingbrook,
Before he was, what thou would'ſt have him be?
And being now trim'd up in thine own deſires,
Thou (beaſtly Feeder) art ſo full of him,
That thou provok'ſt thy ſelf to caſt him up.
So, ſo, (thou common Dog) didſt thou diſgorge
Thy glutton-boſom of the Royal Richard,
And now thou would'ſt eat thy dead vomit up,
And howl'ſt to find it. What truſt is in theſe Times?
They, that when Richard liv'd, would have him die,
Are now become enamour'd on his grave.
Thou that threw'ſt duſt upon his goodly head,
When through proud London he came ſighing on,
After th'admired heels of Bullingbrook,
Cri'ſt now, O Earth yield us that King again,
And take thou this, (O thoughts of men accurs'd)
Paſt, and to come, ſeems beſt; things preſent, worſt.

Mow. Shall we go draw our Numbers, and ſet on?

Haſt. We are Times ſubjects, and Time bids, be gon.

Actus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Enter Hoſteſs, with two Officers, Fang, and Snare.

Hoſteſs. Mr. Fang, have you entred the Action?

Fang. It is enter'd.

Hoſt. Where's your Yeoman? Is it a luſty Yeoman? Will he ſtand to it?

Fang. Sirrah, where's Snare?

Hoſt. I, I, good M. Snare.

Snare. Here, here.

Fang. Snare, we muſt Arreſt Sir John Falſtaff.

Hoſt. I, good M. Snare, I have enter'd him, and all.

Sn. It may chance coſt ſome of us our lives: he will ſtab.

Hoſt. Alas-the-day: take heed of him: he ſtab'd me in mine own Houſe, and that moſt beaſtly: he cares not what miſchief he doth, if his Weapon be out. He will foyn like any Devil, he will ſpare neither Man, Woman, nor Child.

Fang. If I can cloſe with him, I care not for his thruſt.

Hoſt. No, nor I neither: I'le be at your Elbow.

Fang. If I but fiſt him once: if he come but within my Vice.

Hoſt. I am undone with his going: I warrant he is an infinitive thing upon my ſcore. Good M. Fang, hold him ſure; good M. Snare, let him not ſcape, he comes continually to Pie-corner (ſaving your Manhoods) to buy a Saddle, and he is invited to dinner to the Lubbars-head in Lombard-ſtreet to M. Smooths the Silkman. I pray ye ſince my Action is enter'd, and my Caſe ſo openly known to the world, let him be brought in to his anſwer. A hundred Mark is a long one, for a poor lone Woman to bear: and I have born, and born, and born; and have bin fub'd off, and fub'd off, from this day to that day, that it is a ſhame to be thought on. There is no honeſty in ſuch dealing, unleſs a Woman ſhould be made an Aſs and a Beaſt, to bear every Knaves wrong.

Enter Falſtaff and Bardolf.

Yonder he comes, and that arrant Malmſey-Noſe Bardolf with him, do your Offices, do your Offices: M. Fang, and M. Snare, do me, do me, do me your Offices.

Fal. How now? whoſe Mare's dead? what's the matter?

Fang. Sir John, I arreſt you at the ſuit of Miſt. Quickly.

Fal. Away Varlets, draw Bardolf: Cut me off the Villains head: throw the Quean in the Channel.

Hoſt. Throw me in the Channel? I'le throw thee there. Wilt thou? wilt thou? thou baſtardly Rogue. Murder, murder: O thou Hony-ſuckle Villain, wilt thou kill Gods Officers and the Kings? O thou hony-ſeed Rogue, thou art a hony-ſeed, a Man-queller, and a Woman-queller.

Fal. Keep them off, Bardolf.

Fang. A reſcue, a reſcue.

Hoſt. Good people bring a reſcue. Thou wilt not? thou wilt not? Do, do thou Rogue: Do thou Hempſeed.

Fal. Away you Scullion, you Rampallian, you Fuſtilirian: I'le tuck your Cataſtrophe. [Enter Ch. Juſtice.

Juſt. What's the matter? Keep the Peace here, hoa.

Hoſt. Good my Lord, be good to me. I beſeech you ſtand to me.

Ch. Ju. How now, Sir John? what are you brawling here? Doth this become your place, your time, and buſineſs? You ſhould have been well on your way to York. Stand from him Fellow, wherefore hang'ſt upon him?

Hoſt. Oh my moſt worſhipful Lord, and't pleaſe your Grace, I am a poor Widow of Eaſtcheap, and he is arreſted at my Suit.

Ch. Juſt. For what ſum?

Hoſt. It is more than for ſome (my Lord) it is for all: all I have, he hath eaten me out of houſe and home? he hath put all my ſubſtance into that fat belly of his: but I will have ſome of it out again, or I will ride thee o' Nights, like the Mare.

Fal. I think I am as like to ride the Mare, if I have any vantage of ground to get up.

Ch. Juſt. How comes this, Sir John? Fie, what a man of good temper would endure this tempeſt of Exclamation? Are you not aſham'd to inforce a poor Widow to ſo rough a courſe to come by her own?

Fal. What is the groſs Sum that I owe thee?

Hoſt. Marry) if thou wer't an honeſt man) thy ſelf, and the money too. Thou didſt ſwear to me upon a parcel-gilt Goblet, ſitting in my Dolphin-chamber, at the round table, by a ſea-cole fire, on Wedneſday in Whitſun-week, when the Prince broke thy head for likening him to a ſinging-man of Windſor; thou didſt ſwear to me then (as I was waſhing thy wound) to marry me, and make me my Lady thy Wife. Canſt thou deny it? Did not Good-wife Keech, the Butcher's wife, come in then, and call me Goſſip Quickly? coming in to borrow a meſs of Vinegar: telling us, ſhe had a good diſh of Prawns: whereby thou didſt deſire to eat ſome: whereby I told thee they were ill for a green wound? And didſt not thou (when ſhe was gone down ſtairs) deſire me to be no more familiar with ſuch poor people, ſaying, that e're long they ſhould call me Madam? And didſt thou not kiſs me, and bid me fetch thee thirty ſhillings? I put thee now to thy Book-oath, deny it if thou canſt?

Fal. My Lord, this is a poor mad ſoul: and ſhe ſays up and down the town, that her eldeſt Son is like you. She hath been in good caſe, and the truth is, poverty hath diſtracted her: but for theſe fooliſh Officers, I beſeech you, I may have redreſs againſt them.

Juſt. Sir John, Sir John, I am well acquainted with your manner of wrenching the true Cauſe, the falſe way. It is not a confident brow, nor the throng of words, that come with ſuch (more than impudent) ſawcineſs from you, can thruſt me from a level conſideration, I know you ha' practis'd upon the eaſie-yielding ſpirit of this Woman.

Hoſt. Yes in troth, my Lord.

Juſt. Prethee, peace: pay her the Debt you owe her, and unpay the Villany you have done her: the one you may do with ſterling-Money, and the other with currant Repentance.

Fal. My Lord, I will not undergo this ſneap without reply. You call Honorable Boldneſs Impudent Sawcineſs. If a man will curt'ſie, and ſay nothing, he is Virtuous: No, my Lord (your humble duty remembred) I will not be your Sutor. I ſay to you, I deſire deliv'rance from theſe Officers being upon haſty Employment in the Kings Affairs.

Juſt. You ſpeak, as having power to do wrong: But anſwer in the Effect your Reputation, and ſatisfie the poor woman.

Fal. Come hither, Hoſteſs. [Enter M. Gower.

Ch. Juſt. Now, Maſter Gower, what News?

Gow. The King (my Lord) and Henry Prince of Wales are near at hand: The reſt the Paper tells.

Fal. As I am a Gentleman.

Hoſt. Nay, you ſaid ſo before.

Fal. As I am a Gentleman, Come, no more words of it.

Hoſt. By this heavenly ground I tread on, I muſt be fain to pawn both my Plate, and the Tapiſtry of my Dining Chambers.

Fal. Glaſſes, glaſſes, is the onely drinking: and for thy walls a pretty ſlight Drollery, or the Story of the Prodigal, or the German hunting in Water-work, is worth a thouſand of theſe Bed-hangings, and theſe Fly-bitten Tapiſtries. Let it be ten pound (if thou canſt.) Come, if it were not for thy humours, there is not a better Wench in England. Go, waſh thy face, and draw thy Action: Come, thou muſt not be in this humour with me, come, I know thou was't ſet on to this.

Hoſt. Prethee (Sir John) let it be but twenty Nobles, I am loth to pawn my Plate, in good earneſt la.

Fal. Let it alone, I'le make other ſhift: you'l be a fool ſtill.

Hoſt. Well, you ſhall have it, although I pawn my Gown. I hope you'll come to Supper: You'll pay me altogether?

Fal. Will I live? Go with her, with her: hook on, hook on.

Hoſt. Will you have Doll Tear-ſheet meet you at ſupper?

Fal. No more words. Let's have her.

Ch. Juſt. I have heard bitter news.

Fal. What's the News, my good Lord?

Ch. Juſt. VVhere lay the King laſt night?

Meſ. At Baſing-ſtoke, my Lord.

Fal. I hope (my Lord) all's well. VVhat is the News, my Lord?

Ch. Juſt. Come all his Forces back?

Meſ. No: fifteen hundred Foot, and five hundred Horſe, are march'd up to my Lord of Lancaſter, againſt Northumberland and the Arch-Biſhop.

Fal. Comes the King back from Wales, my noble Lord?

Ch. Juſt. You ſhall have Letters of me preſently. Come, go along with me, good M. Gower.

Falſt. My Lord.

Ch. Juſt. VVhat's the matter?

Fal. Maſter Gower, I ſhall entreat you with me to dinner.

Gow. I muſt wait upon my good Lord here. I thank you, good Sir John.

Ch. Juſt. Sir John you loyter here too long, being you are to take Souldiers up in Countreys as you go.

Fal. Will you ſup with me, Maſter Gower?

Ch. Juſt. What fooliſh Maſter taught you theſe manners, Sir John?

Fal. Maſter Gower, if they become me not, he was a Fool that taught them me. This is the right Fencing grace (my Lord) tap for tap, and ſo part fair.

Ch. Juſt. Now the Lord lighten thee, thou art a great Fool.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Prince Henry, Poyns, Bardolf, and Page.

Prin. Truſt me, I am exceeding weary.

Poyn. Is it come to that? I had thought wearineſs durſt not have attach'd one of ſo High Blood.

Prin. It doth me, though it diſcolours the complexion of my greatneſs to acknowledge it. Doth it not ſhew vilely in me, to deſire ſmall Beer?

Poyn. VVhy, a Prince ſhould not be ſo looſly ſtudied, as to remember ſo weak a Compoſition.

Prin. Belike then, my Appetite was not Princely got: for (in troth) I do now remember the poor Creature, Small Beer. But indeed theſe humble conſiderations make me out of love with my Greatneſs. VVhat a diſgrace is it to me, to remember thy name? or to know thy face to morrow? or to take notice how many pair of Silk Stockings thou haſt? (viz. theſe, and thoſe that were the peach-colour'd ones:) or to bear the Inventory of thy Shirts; as one for ſuperfluity, and one other for uſe: but that the Tennis-Court Keeper knows better than I, for it is a low ebbe of Linnen with thee, when thou keepeſt not Racket there, as thou haſt not done a great while, becauſe the reſt of thy Low Countreys have made a ſhift to eat up thy Holland.

Poin. How ill it follows, after you have labour'd ſo hard, you ſhould talk ſo idlely? Tell me how many good young Princes would do ſo, their Fathers lying ſo ſick, as yours is?

Prin. Shall I tell thee one thing, Poyns?

Poyn. Yes: and let it be an excellent good thing.

Prin. It ſhall ſerve among VVits of no higher breeding than thine.

Poyn. Go to: I ſtand the puſh of your one thing, that you'll tell.

Prin. VVhy, I tell thee, it is not meet that I ſhould be ſad now my Father is ſick: albeit I could tell to thee (as to one it pleaſes me, for fault of a better, to call my Friend) I could be ſad, and ſad indeed too.

Poyn. Very hardly upon ſuch a Subject.

Prin. Thou think'ſt me as far in the Devils Book, as thou, and Falſtaff, for obduracy and perſiſtency. Let the end try the man. But I tell thee, my heart bleeds inwardly, that my Father is ſick: and keeping ſuch vile company as thou art, hath in Reaſon taken from me, all oſtentation of ſorrow.

Poyn. The Reaſon?

Pr. VVhat would'ſt thou think of me, if I ſhould weep?

Poyn. I would think thee a moſt Princely Hypocrite.

Prin. It would be every mans thought: and thou art a bleſſed Fellow, to think as every man thinks: never a mans thought in the world keeps the rode-way better than thine: every man would think me an Hypocrite indeed. And what excites your moſt VVorſhipful thought to think ſo?

Poyn. VVhy, becauſe you have been ſo lewd, and ſo much ingraffed to Falſtaff.

Prin. And to thee,

Poyn. Nay, I am well ſpoken of, I can hear it with mine own ears: the worſt that they can ſay of me is, that I am a ſecond Brother, and that I am a proper Fellow of my hands; and thoſe two things I confeſs I cannot help. Look, look, here comes Bardolf.

Prin. And the Boy that I gave Falſtaff: he had him from me Chriſtian, and ſee if the fat Villain have not transform'd him Ape. [Enter Bardolf.

Bar. Save your Grace.

Prin. And yours, moſt Noble Bardolf.

Poyn. Come you pernicious Aſs, you baſhful Fool, muſt you be bluſhing? wherefore bluſh you now? what a Maidenly man at Arms are you become? Is it ſuch a matter to get a Pottle-pots Maidenhead?

Page. He call'd me even now (my Lord) through a red Lattice, and I could diſcern no part of his Face from the Window; at laſt I ſpy'd his Eyes, and methought he had made two holes in the Ale-wives new Petticoat, and peeped through.

Prin. Hath not the Boy profited?

Bar. Away, you horſon upright Rabbet, away.

Pag. Away you raſcally Althea's dream, away.

Prin. Inſtruct us, Boy, what dream, Boy?

Pag. Marry (My Lord) Althea dream'd, ſhe was deliver'd of a Firebrand, and therefore I call him her dream.

Prince. A Crowns-worth of good Interpretation: There it is, Boy.

Poin. O that this good Bloſſom could be kept from Cankers: Well, there is ſix pence to preſerve thee.

Bard.

Bard. If you do not make him be hang'd among you, the Gallows ſhall be wrong'd.

Prin. And how doth thy Maſter, Bardolph?

Bard. Well, my good Lord: he heard of your Graces coming to Town. There's a Letter for you.

Prin. Deliver'd with good reſpect: And how doth the Martlemas, your Maſter?

Bard. In bodily health, Sir.

Poin. Marry, the immortal part needs a Phyſitian: but that moves not him: Though that be ſick, it dyes not.

Prin. I do allow this VVen to be as familiar with me as my Dog. And he holds his place, for look you how he writes.

Poin. Letter, John Falſtaff Knight: (Every man muſt know that, as oft as he hath occaſion to name himſelf:) Even like thoſe that are kin to the King, for they never prick their finger, but they ſay there is ſome of the Kings blood ſpilt. How comes that? (ſays he that takes upon him not to conceive) the Anſwer is as ready as a borrowed Cap: I am the Kings poor Couſin, Sir.

Prin. Nay, they will be kin to us, but they will fetch it from Japhet. But to the Letter:——Sir John Falſtaff Knight, to the Son of the King, neareſt his Father, Harry Prince of VVales, greeting.

Poin. VVhy this is a Certificate.

Prin. Peace.

I will imitate the honourable Romans in brevity.

Poin. Sure he means brevity in breath: ſhort-winded. I commend me to thee, I commend thee, and I leave thee. Be not too familiar with Poins, for he miſuſes thy Favours ſo much; that he ſwears thou art to marry his Siſter Nell. Repent at idle times as thou maiſt, and ſo farewell.

Thine, by yea and no: Which is as much as to ſay, as thou uſeſt him. Jack Falſtaff with my Familiars: John with my Brothers and Siſter: and Sir John with all Europe.

My Lord, I will ſteep this Letter in Sack, and make him eat it.

Prin. That's to make him eat twenty of his VVords. But do you uſe me thus, Ned? Muſt I marry your Siſter?

Poin. May the VVench have no worſe Fortune. But I never ſaid ſo.

Prin. VVell, thus we play the Fool with the time, and the Spirits of the VViſe ſit in the Clouds, and mock us: Is your Maſter here in London?

Bard. Yes, my Lord.

Prin. VVhere ſups he? Doth the old Boor feed in the old Frank?

Bard. At the old place, my Lord, in Eaſt-cheap.

Prin. VVhat Company?

Prin. Sup any VVomen with him?

Prin. What Pagan may that be?

Page. A proper Gentlewoman, Sir, and a Kinſwoman of my Maſters.

Prin. Even ſuch Kin, as the Pariſh Heyfers are to the Town-Bull?

Shall we ſteal upon them (Ned) at Supper?

Poin. I am your ſhadow, my Lord, I'le follow you.

Prin. Sirrah, you Boy, and Bardolph, no word to your Maſter that I am yet in Town.

There's for your Silence.

Bar. I have no Tongue, Sir.

Pag. And for mine, Sir, I will govern it.

Prin. Fare ye well: Go.

This Dol Tear-ſheet ſhould be ſome Rode.

Prin. I warrant you, as common as the way between S. Albans and London.

Prin. How might we ſee Falſtaff beſtow himſelf to night in his true Colours, and not our ſelves be ſeen?

Poin. Put on two Leather Jerkins, and Aprons, and wait upon him at his Table, like Drawers.

Prin. From a God to a Bull? A heavy declenſion: It was Jove's caſe. From a Prince to a Prentice, a low tranſformation, that ſhall be mine: For in every thing, the purpoſe muſt weigh with the folly. Follow me, Ned. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Northumberland, his Lady, and Harry Percie's Lady.

North. I prethee loving Wife, and gentle Daughter,
Give an even way unto my rough Affairs.
Put not you on the Viſage of the Times,
And be like them to Percie, troubleſome.

Wife. I have given over, I will ſpeak no more;
Do what you will: Your Wiſdom be your Guide.

Nor. Alas (ſweet Wife) my Honour is at Pawn,
And but my going, nothing can redeem it.

La. Oh yet, for Heavens ſake, go not to theſe Wars.
The Time was (Father) when you broke your word,
When you were more endear'd to it, than now,
When your own Percie, when my heart-dear-Harry,
Threw many a Northward look, to ſee his Father
Bring up his Powers: But he did long in vain.
Who then perſwaded you to ſtay at home?
There were two Honours loſt; yours and your Sons.
For Yours, may heavenly glory brighten it:
For His, it ſtuck upon him, as the Sun
In the grey Vault of Heaven: And by his Light
Did all the Chevalry of England move
To do brave Acts. He was (indeed) the Glaſs
VVherein the Noble-Youth did dreſs themſelves.
He had no Legs, that practis'd not his Gate:
And ſpeaking thick (which Nature made his blemiſh)
Became the Accents of the Valiant,
For thoſe that could ſpeak low, and tardily,
VVould turn their own Perfection to Abuſe,
To ſeem like him. So that in Speech, and Gate,
In Diet, in Affections of delight,
In Military Rules, Humors of Blood,
He was the Mark, and Glaſs, Copy, and Book,
That faſhion'd others. And him, O wondrous! him,
O Miracle of Men! Him did you leave
(Second to none) un-ſeconded by you,
To look upon the hideous God of VVar,
In diſadvantage, to abide the Field,
VVhere nothing but the ſound of Hotſpur's Name
Did ſeem ſenſible: So you left him.
Never, O never do his Ghoſt the wrong,
To hold your Honour more preciſe and nice
VVith others, than with him. Let them alone:
The Marſhal and the Arch-biſhop are ſtrong.
Had my ſweet Harry had but half their Number,
To day might I (hanging on Hotſpur's Neck)
Have talk'd of Monmouth's Grave.

North. Beſhrew your heart,
(Fair Daughter) you do draw my Spirits from me,
VVith new lamenting ancient Over-ſights.
But I muſt go, and meet with danger there.
Or it will ſeek me in another place,
And find me worſe provided.

Wife. O flye to Scotland,
Till that the Nobles, and the armed Commons,
Have of their Puiſſance made a little taſte.

Lady. If they get ground, and vantage of the King,
Then joyn you with them, like a Rib of Steel,
To make Strength ſtronger. But, for all our loves,
Firſt let them try themſelves. So did your Son,
He was ſo ſuffer'd; ſo came I a VVidow:
And never ſhall have length of Life enough,
To rain upon Remembrance with mine Eyes,
That it may grow, and ſprowt, as high as Heaven,

For

For Recordation to my Noble Husband.
Nor. Come, come go in with me: 'tis with my Mind
As with the Tyde, ſwell'd up unto his height,
That makes a ſtill-ſtand, running neither way.
Fain would I go to meet the Arch-Biſhop,
But many a thouſand Reaſons hold me back,
I will reſolve for Scotland there am I,
Till Time and Vantage crave my company. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter two Drawers.

1 Drawer. What haſt thou brought there? Apple-Johns? Thou know'ſt Sir John cannot endure an Apple John.
2. Draw. Thou ſay'ſt true: the Prince once ſet a Diſh of Apple-Johns before him, and told him there were five more Sir Johns: and, putting off his hat, ſaid, I will now take my leave of theſe ſix drie, round, old-wither'd Knights. It anger'd him to the heart: but he hath forgot that.
1. Draw. Why then cover, and ſet them down: and ſee if thou canſt find out Sneak's Noyſe; Miſtriſs Tear-ſheet would fain have ſome Muſick.
2. Draw. Sirrah, here will be the Prince, and Maſter Poins, anon: and they will put on two of our Jerkins, and Aprons, and Sir John muſt not know of it. Bardolph hath brought word.
1. Draw. Then here will be old Utis: it will be an excellent Stratagem.
2. Draw. I'le ſee if I can find out Sneak. [Exit.

Enter Hoſteſs and Dol.

Hoſt. Sweet-heart, methinks now you are in an excellent good temperality: your Pulſidge beats as extraordinarily, as heart would deſire; and your Colour (I warrant you) is as red as any Roſe; But you have drunk too much Canary, and that's a marvellous ſearching Wine; and it perfumes the Blood, e're we can ſay what's this. How do you now?
Dol. Better than I was: Hem.
Hoſt. Why that was well ſaid: A good heart's worth Gold. Look, here comes Sir John.

Enter Falſtaff.

Fal. When Arthur firſt in Court--(empty the Jordan) and was a worthy King: How now Miſtriſs Dol.
Hoſt. Sick of a Calm: yea, good-ſooth.
Falſt. So is her Sect, if they be once in a Calm, they are ſick.
Dol. You muddy Raſcal, is that all the comfort you give me?
Fal. You make fat Raſcals, Miſtriſs Dol.
Dol. I make them? Gluttony and Diſeaſes make them, I make them not.
Fal. If the Cook make the Gluttony, you help to make the Diſeaſes (Dol), we catch of you (Dol), we catch of you: Grant that, my poor Vertue, grant that.
Dol. I marry, our Chains, and our Jewels.
Falſt. Your Brooches, Pearls, and Owches: For to ſerve bravely, is to come halting off: you know to come off the Breach, with his Pike bent bravely, and to Surgery bravely; to venture upon the charg'd Chambers bravely.
Hoſt. Why is this the old faſhion: you two never meet, but you fall to ſome diſcord: you are both (in-good troth) as Rheumatick as two drie Toſtes, you cannot one bear with anothers Confirmities. What the good-yeer? One muſt bear, and that muſt be you: you are the weaker Veſſel, as they ſay, the emptier Veſſel.
Dol. Can a weak empty Veſſel bear ſuch a huge full Hogs-head? There's a whole Merchants Venture of Burdeaux ſtuff in him: you have not ſeen a Hulk better ſtuft in the Hold. Come, I'le be friends with thee, Jack: Thou art going to the Wars, and whether I ſhall ever ſee thee again, or no, there is no body cares.

Enter Drawer.

Draw. Sir, Ancient Piſtol is below, and would ſpeak with you.
Dol. Hang him, ſwaggering Raſcal, let him not come hither: it is the foul-mouth'dſt Rogue in England.
Hoſt. If he ſwagger, let him not come here: I muſt live amongſt my Neighbours, I'le no ſwaggerers: I am in good name, and fame, with the very beſt: ſhut the door, there comes no ſwaggerers here: I have not liv'd all this while, to have ſwaggering now: ſhut the door, I pray you.
Fal. Do'ſt thou hear, Hoſteſs?
Hoſt. 'Pray you pacifie your ſelf (Sir John) there comes no ſwaggerers here.
Falſt. Do'ſt thou hear? it is mine Ancient.
Hoſt. Tilly-fally (Sir John) never tell me, your ancient Swaggerer comes not in my doors. I was before Maſter Tiſick the Deputy, the other day: and as he ſaid to me, it was no longer ago than Wedneſday laſt: Neighbour Quickly (ſayes he;) Maſter Domb our Miniſter, was by then: Neighbour Quickly (ſayes he) receive thoſe that are Civil; for (ſaith he) you are in an ill Name: now he ſaid ſo, I can tell whereupon: for (ſayes he) you are an honeſt Woman, and well thought on, therefore take heed what Gueſts you receive: Receive (ſays he) no ſwaggering Companions. There come none here. You would bleſs you to hear what he ſaid. No, I'le no Swaggerers.
Falſt. He's no Swaggerer (Hoſteſs:) a tame Cheater, he: you may ſtroake him as gently, as a Puppy-Greyhound: he will not ſwagger with a Barbary Hen: If her Feathers turn back in any ſhew of reſiſtance. Call him up (Drawer.)
Hoſt. Cheater, call you him? I will bar no Honeſt man my houſe, nor no Cheater: but I do not love ſwaggering; I am the worſe when one ſays ſwaggerer: Feel Maſters, how I ſhake: look you, I warrant you.
Dol. So you do, Hoſteſs.
Hoſt. Do I? yea, in very truth do I, if it were an Aſpen Leaf: I cannot abide Swaggerers.

Enter Piſtol, and Bardolph, and his Boy.

Piſt. 'Save you, Sir John.
Fal. Welcome Ancient Piſtol. Here (Piſtol) I charge you with a Cup of Sack: do you diſcharge upon mine Hoſteſs.
Piſt. I will diſcharge upon her (Sir John) with two Bullets.
Faſt. She is Piſtol-proof (Sir) you ſhall hardly offend her.
Hoſt. Come, I'le drink no Proofs, nor no Bullets: I will drink no more than will do me good, for no mans pleaſure, I.
Piſt. Then to you (Miſtriſs Dorothie) I will charge you.
Dor. Charge me; I ſcorn you (ſcurvy Companion,) What? you poor, baſe, raſcally, cheating, lack-Linnen-Mate: away you mouldy Rogue, away, I am meat for your Maſter.
Piſt. I know you, Miſtriſs Dorothie.
Dol. Away you cut-purſe Raſcal, you filthy Bung away: By this Wine, I'le thruſt my Knife in your mouldy Chaps, if you play the ſawcy Cuttle with me. Away you Bottle-Ale Raſcal, you Basket-hilt ſtale Jugler, you. Since when, I pray you, Sir? what, with two Points on your ſhoulder? much.
Piſt. I will murther your Ruff, for this.
Hoſt. No, good Captain Piſtol: not here, ſweet Captain.

Dol.

Dol. Captain? thou abominable damn'd Cheater, art thou not aſham'd to be call'd Captain? If Captains were of my mind, they would trunchion you out, for taking their Names upon you, before you have earn'd them. You a Captain? you ſlay, for what? for tearing a poor Whores Ruff in a Bawdy-houſe? He a Captain? hang him Rogue, he lives upon mouldy ſtew'd-Prunes, and dry'd Cakes. A Captain? Theſe Villains will make the word Captain odious: Therefore Captains had need look to it.

Bard. Pray thee go down, good Ancient.

Fal. Heark thee hither Miſtriſs Dol.

Piſt. Not I: I tell thee what, Corporal Bardolph, I could tear her: I'le be reveng'd on her.

Piſt. I'le ſee her damn'd firſt: to Pluto's damn'd Lake, to the Infernal Deep, where Erebus and Tortures vile alſo. Hold Hook and Line, ſay I: Down: down Dog, down Fates: have we not Hiren here?

Hoſt. Good Captain Peeſel be quiet, it is very late: I beſeek you now, aggravate your Choler.

Piſt. Theſe be good humors indeed. Shall Pack-Horſes, and hollow-pamper'd Jades of Aſia, which cannot go but thirty Miles a day, compare with Cæſar, and with Cannibal, and Trojan Greeks? nay, rather damn them with King Cerberus, and let the Welkin roar: ſhall we fall foul for Toyes?

Hoſt. By my troth, Captain, theſe are very bitter words.

Bard. Be gone, good Ancient: this will grow to a Brawl anon.

Piſt. Die men, like Dogs; give Crowns like Pins: Have we not Hiren here?

Hoſt. On my word (Captain) there's none ſuch here. What the good-yeree, do you think I would deny her? I pray be quiet.

Piſt. Then feed, and be fat (my fair Calipolis) Come, give me ſome Sack, Si fortune me tormente, ſperato me contente. Fear we broad-ſides? No, let the Fiend give fire: Give me ſome Sack: and Sweet-heart lye thou there: Come we to full Points here; and are & cætera's nothing?

Fal. Piſtol, I would be quiet.

Piſt. Sweet Knight, kiſs thy Neaſſe: what? we have ſeen the ſeven Stars.

Dol. Thruſt him down ſtairs, I cannot endure ſuch a Fuſtian Raſcal.

Piſt. Thruſt him down ſtairs? know we not Galloway Nags?

Fal. Quoit him down (Bardolph) like a ſhove-groat ſhilling: nay, if he do nothing but ſpeak nothing, he ſhall be nothing here.

Bard. Come get you down ſtairs.

Piſt. What ſhall we have Inciſion? ſhall we embrew? then Death rock me aſleep, abridge my doleful days: why then let grievous, gaſtly, gaping Wounds, untwine the Siſters three: Come Atropos, I ſay.

Hoſt. Here's good ſtuff toward.

Fal. Give me my Rapier, Boy.

Dol. I prethee, Jack, I prethee do not draw.

Falſt. Get you down ſtairs.

Hoſt. Here's a goodly tumult: I'le forſwear keeping houſe, before I'le be in theſe tirrits, and frights. So: Murther I warrant now. Alas, put up your naked Weapons, put up your naked Weapons.

Dol. I prethee, Jack, be quiet, the Raſcal is gone: ah you whorſon little valiant Villain, you.

Hoſt. Are you not hurt i'th' Groyn? me thought he made a ſhrewd Thruſt at your Belly.

Falſt. Have you turn'd him out of doors?

Bard. Yes, Sir, the Raſcal's drunk: you have hurt him (Sir) in the ſhoulder.

Falſt. A Raſcal to brave me.

Dol. Ah, you ſweet little Rogue, you: alas, poor Ape, how thou ſweat'ſt? come, let me wipe thy Face: Come on, you whorſon Chops: Ah Rogue, I love thee: Thou art as valorous as Hector of Troy, worth five of Agamemnon; and ten times better than the nine Worthies: ah Villain.

Falſt. A raſcally Slave, I will toſs the Rogue in a Blanket.

Dol. Do, if thou dar'ſt for thy heart: if thou do'ſt, I'le canvaſs thee between a pair of ſheets.

Enter Muſick.

Pag. The Muſick is come, Sir.

Falſt. Let them play; play Sirs. Sit on my Knee, Dol. A Raſcal, bragging Slave: the Rogue fled from me like Quick-ſilver.

Dol. And thou followd'ſt him like a Church: thou whorſon little tydie Bartholmew Boor-pig, when wilt thou leave fighting on days, and foyning on nights, and begin to patch up thine old Body for Heaven?

Enter the Prince and Poins diſguis'd.

Fal. Peace, (good Dol) do not ſpeak like a Deaths-head: do not bid me remember mine end.

Dol. Sirrah, what humour is the Prince of?

Fal. A good ſhallow young Fellow: he would have made a good Pantler, he would have chipp'd Bread well.

Dol. They ſay Poins hath a good Wit.

Falſt. He a good Wit? hang him Baboon, his Wit is as thick as Tewkſbury Muſtard: there is no more conceit in him, than is in a Mallet.

Dol. Why doth the Prince love him ſo then?

Fal. Becauſe their Legs are both of a bigneſs: and he plays at Quoits well, and eats Conger and Fennel, and drinks of Candles ends for Flap-dragons, and rides the wild-Mare with the Boyes, and jumps upon Joyn'd-ſtools, and ſwears with a good grace, and wears his Boot very ſmooth, like unto the Sign of the Leg, and breeds no bate with telling of diſcreet ſtories: and ſuch other Gambol faculties he hath, that ſhew a weak Mind, and an able Body, for the which the Prince admits him: for the Prince himſelf is ſuch another: the weight of an Hair will turn the Scales between their Haberde-pois.

Prince. Would not this Nave of a Wheel have his Ears cut off?

Poin. Let us beat him before his Whore.

Prin. Look, if the wither'd Elder hath not his Poll claw'd like a Parrot.

Poin. Is it not ſtrange, that Deſire ſhould ſo many years out-live performance?

Fal. Kiſs me, Dol.

Prince. Saturn and Venus this year in Conjunction? What ſays the Almanack to that?

Poin. And look, whether the fiery Trigon, his Man, be not liſping to his Maſters old Tables, his Note-Book, his Counſel-keeper?

Fal. Thou do'ſt give me flatt'ring Buſſes.

Dol. Nay truly, I Kiſs thee with moſt conſtant heart.

Fal. I am old, I am old.

Dol. I love thee better, than I love e're a ſcurvy young Boy of them all.

Fal. What Stuff wilt thou have a Kirtle of? I ſhall receive Money on Thurſday: thou ſhalt have a Cappe to morrow. A merry Song, come: it grows late, we will to Bed. Thou wilt forget me, when I am gone.

Dol. Thou wilt ſet me a-weeping, if thou ſay'ſt ſo: prove that ever I dreſs my ſelf handſom, till thy return: Well, hearken the end.

Fal. Some Sack, Francis.

Prin. Poin. Anon, anon, Sir.

Fal. Ha? a Baſtard Son of the Kings? And art not thou Poins, his Brother?

Prin. Why thou Globe of ſinful Continents, what a Life doſt thou lead?

Fal

Fal. A better than thou: I am a Gentleman, thou art a Drawer.

Prin. Very true, Sir: and I come to draw you out by the Ears.

Hoſt. Oh, the Lord preſerve thy good Grace: Welcome to London. Now Heaven bleſs that ſweet Face of thine: What are you come from Wales?

Fal. Thou whorſon mad Compound of Majeſty: by this light Fleſh, and corrupt Blood, thou art welcome.

Prin. How? you fat Fool, I ſcorn you.

Poin. My Lord, he will drive you out of your revenge, and turn all to merriment, if you take not the heat.

Prin. You whorſon Candle-myne you, how vilely did you ſpeak of me even now, before this honeſt, vertuous, civil Gentlewoman?

Hoſt. 'Bleſſing on your good heart, and ſo ſhe is by my troth.

Fal. Didſt thou hear me?

Prince. Yes: and you knew me, as you did when you ran away by Gads-hill: you knew I was at your back, and ſpoke it on purpoſe, to try my patience.

Fal. No, no, no: not ſo: I did not think, thou waſt within hearing.

Prin. I ſhall drive you then to confeſs the wilful abuſe, and then I know how to handle you.

Fal. No abuſe (Hal) on mine Honor, no abuſe.

Prin. Not to diſpraiſe me? and call me Pantler, and Bread-chopper, and I know not what?

Fal. No abuſe, (Hal.)

Poin. No abuſe?

Fal. No abuſe (Ned) in the World: honeſt Ned, none. I diſprais'd him before the Wicked, that the Wicked might not fall in love with him: In which doing, I have done the part of a careful Friend, and true Subject, and thy Father is to give me thanks for it. No abuſe (Hal:) none (Ned) none; no Boys, none.

Prin. See now whether pure Fear, and entire Cowardiſe, doth not make thee wrong this vertuous Gentlewoman, to cloſe with us? Is ſhe of the Wicked? Is thine Hoſteſs here, of the Wicked? Or is the Boy of the Wicked? Or honeſt Bardolph (whoſe zeal burns in his noſe) of the Wicked?

Poin. Anſwer, thou dead Elm, anſwer.

Fal. The Fiend hath Prickt down Bardolph irrecoverable, and his face is Lucifer's Privy-Kitchin, where he doth nothing but roaſt Mault-Worms: for the Boy, there is a good Angel about him, but the Devil out-bids him too.

Prin. For the Women?

Fal. For one of them, ſhe is in Hell already, and burns poor ſouls: for the other, I owe her Money; and whether ſhe be damn'd for that, I know not.

Hoſt. No. I warrant you.

Fal. No. I think thou art not: I think thou art quit for that. Marry, there is another Indictment upon thee, for ſuffering fleſh to be eaten in thy houſe, contrary to the Law, for the which I think thou wilt howle.

Hoſt. All Victuallers do ſo: What is a Joynt of Mutton or two in a whole Lent?

Prin. You, Gentlewoman.

Dol. What ſays your Grace?

Falſt. His Grace ſays that, which his fleſh rebels againſt.

Hoſt. Who knocks ſo loud at the door? Look to the door there, Francis?

Enter Peto.

Prin. Peto, how now? what news?

Peto. The King, your Father, is at Weſtminſter,
And there twenty weak and wearied Poſts,
Come from the North: and as I came along,
I met, and over-took a dozen Captains,
Bare-headed, ſweating, knocking at the Taverns,
And asking every one for Sir John Falſtaff.

Prin. By Heaven (Poins) I feel me much to blame,
So idly to prophane the precious time;
When Tempeſt of Commotion, like the South
Born with black Vapour, doth begin to melt,
And drop upon our bare unarmed Heads.
Give me my Sword, and Cloak:
Falſtaff, good night. [Exit.

Falſt. Now comes in the ſweeteſt Morſel of the night, and we muſt hence, and leave it unpickt. More knocking at the door? How now? what's the matter?

Bard. You muſt away to the Court, Sir, preſently,
A dozen Captains ſtay at the door for you.

Falſt. Pay the Muſitians, Sirrah: farewel Hoſteſs, farewel Dol. You ſee (my good Wenches) how men of Merit are ſought after: the undeſerver may ſleep, when the man of Action is call'd on. Farewel, good Wenches: if I be not ſent away poſt, I will ſee you again, e're I go.

Dol. I cannot ſpeak: if my heart be not ready to burſt. Well (ſweet Jack) have a care of thy ſelf.

Falſt. Farewel, farewel. [Exit.

Hoſt. Well, fare thee well: I have known thee theſe twenty nine years, come Peſcod-time: but an honeſter, and true-hearted man. Well, fare thee well.

Bard. Miſtriſs Tear-ſheet.

Hoſt. What's the matter?

Bard. Bid Miſtriſs Tear-ſheet come to my Maſter.

Hoſt. O run, Dol, run: run, good Dol.

[Exeunt.

Actus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter the King, with a Page.

Kin. Go, call the Earls of Surrey, and Warwick:
But e're they come, bid them o're-read theſe Letters.
And well conſider of them: make good ſpeed. [Exit.
How many thouſand of my pooreſt Subjects
Are at this hour aſleep? O Sleep, O gentle Sleep,
Natures ſoft Nurſe, how have I frighted thee,
That thou no more wilt weigh my Eye-lids down,
And ſteep my Senſes in Forgetfulneſs?
Why rather (Sleep) lyeſt thou in ſmoaky Cribs,
Upon uneaſie Pallads ſtretching thee,
And huſht with buzzing Night, flyes to thy ſlumber,
Than in the perfum'd Chambers of the Great?
Under the Canopies of coſtly State,
And lull'd with ſounds of ſweeteſt Melody?
O thou dull God, why lyeſt thou with the vile,
In loathſom Beds, and leav'ſt the Kingly Couch
A watch-caſe, or a common Larum-Bell?
Wilt thou, upon the high and giddy Maſt,
Seal up the Ship-boys Eyes, and rock his Brains,
In Cradle of the rude imperious Surge,
And in the viſitation of the Winds,
Who take the Ruffian Billows by the top,
Curling their monſtrous heads and hanging them
With deaf'ning Clamors in the ſlip'ry Clouds,
That with the hurley, Death it ſelf awakes?
Canſt thou (O partial Sleep) Give thy Repoſe
To the wet Sea-boy in an hour ſo rude:
And in the calmeſt, and moſt ſtilleſt Night,
With all appliances, and means to boot,
Deny it to a King? Then happy Low, lye down,
Uneaſie lyes the Head, that wears a Crown.

Enter Warwick and Surrey.

War. Many good-morrows to your Majeſty.

King. It is good-morrow, Lords?

War. 'Tis one a Clock, and paſt.

King. Why then good-morrow to you all (my Lords:)
Have you read o're the Letters that I ſent you?

War. We have (my Liege.)
King. Then you perceive the Body of our Kingdom,
How foul it is: what rank Diſeaſes grow,
And with what danger, near the heart of it?
War. It is but as a Body, yet diſtemper'd,
Which to the former ſtrength may be reſtor'd,
With good advice, and little Medicine;
My Lord, Northumberland will ſoon be cool'd.
King. Oh Heaven, that one might read the Book of Fate,
And ſee the Revolution of the Times
Make Mountains level, and the Continent
(Weary of ſolid firmneſs) melt it ſelf
Into the Sea: and other Times, to ſee
The beachy Girdle of the Ocean
Too wide for Neptunes hipps; how Chances mocks
And Changes fill the Cup of Alteration
With divers Liquors. 'Tis not ten years gone,
Since Richard, and Northumberland, great Friends,
Did feaſt together; and in two years after,
Were they at Wars. It is but eight years ſince,
This Percie was the man, neareſt my Soul;
Who like a Brother, toyl'd in my Affairs,
And laid his Love and Life under my foot:
Yea, for my ſake, even to the eyes of Richard
Gave him defiance. But which of you was by,
(You Couſin Nevil, as I may remember)
When Richard, with his Eye, brim-full of Tears,
(Then check'd, and rated by Northumberland)
Did ſpeak theſe words (now prov'd a Prophecie!)
Northumberland, thou Ladder, by the which
My Couſin Bullingbrook aſcends my Throne:
(Though then, Heaven knows, I had no ſuch intent,
But that neceſſity ſo bow'd the State,
That I and Greatneſs were compell'd to kiſs:)
The time ſhall come (thus did he follow it)
The time will come, that foul Sin-gathering head
Shall break into Corruption: ſo went on,
Fore-telling this ſame Times Condition,
And the diviſion of our Amity.
War. There is a Hiſtory in all mens Lives,
Figuring the Nature of the Times deceas'd.
The which obſerv'd, a man may prophecie,
With a near aim, of the main Chance of things
As yet not come to Life, which in their Seeds
And weak beginnings lye entreaſured:
Such things become the Hatch and Brood of Time;
And by the neceſſary form of this,
King Richard might create a perfect gueſs,
That great Northumberland, then falſe to him,
Would of that Seed, grow to a greater falſeneſs,
Which ſhould not find a ground to root upon,
Unleſs on you.
King. Are theſe things then Neceſſities?
Then let us meet them like Neceſſities;
And that ſame word, even now cryes out on us:
They ſay the Biſhop and Northumberland
Are fifty thouſand ſtrong.
War. It cannot be (my Lord:)
Rumor doth double, like the Voice and Eccho,
The number of the feared. Pleaſe it your Grace
To go to bed, upon my Life (my Lord)
The Pow'rs that you already have ſent forth,
Shall bring this Prize in very eaſily.
To comfort you the more, I have receiv'd
A certain inſtance that Glendower is dead.
Your Majeſty hath been this fort-night ill,
And theſe unſeaſon'd hours perforce muſt add
Unto your Sickneſs.
King. I will take your counſel:
And were theſe inward Wars once out of hand,
We would (dear Lords) unto the Holy-Land.

[Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Shallow and Silence, with Mouldy, and Shadow, Wart, Feeble, Bull-calf.

Shal. Come-on, come-on, come-on: give me your Hand, Sir, give me your Hand, Sir: an early ſtirrer, by the Rood. And how doth my good Couſin Silence?
Sil. Good-morrow, good Couſin Shallow.
Shal. And how doth my Couſin, your Bed-fellow? and your faireſt Daughter, and mine, my God-Daughter Ellen?
Sil. Alas, a black Ouzel, (Couſin Shallow.)
Shal. By yea and nay, Sir, I dare ſay my Couſin William is become a good Scholar? he is at Oxford ſtill, is he not?
Sil. Indeed, Sir, to my coſt.
Shal. He muſt then to the Inns of Court ſhortly: I was once of Clement's Inn; where (I think) they will talk of mad Shallow yet.
Sil. You were call'd luſty Shallow then, (Couſin.)
Shal. I was call'd any thing: and I would have done any thing indeed too, and roundly too. There was I, and little John Doit of Staffordſhire, and black George Bare, and Francis Pick-bone, and Will. Squele a Cot-ſal-man, you had not four ſuch Swinge-bucklers in all the Inns of Court again: And I may ſay to you, we knew where the Bona-Roba's were, and had the beſt of them all at commandement. Then was Jack Falſtaff (now Sir John) a Boy, and a Page to Thomas Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk.
Sil. This Sir John, (Couſin) that comes hither anon about Souldiers?
Shal. The ſame Sir John, the very ſame: I ſaw him break Schoggan's Head at the Court-Gate, when he was a Crack, not thus high: and the very ſame day did I fight with one Sampſon Stock-fiſh, a Fruiterer, behind Greys-Inn. Oh the mad days that I have ſpent! and to ſee how many of mine old Acquaintance are dead?
Sil. We ſhall all follow, (Couſin.)
Shal. Certain: 'tis certain: very ſure, very ſure: Death is certain to all, all ſhall dye. How a good Yoke of Bullocks at Stamford Fair?
Sil. Truly, Couſin, I was not there.
Shal. Death is certain. Is old Double of your Town living yet?
Sil. Dead, Sir.
Shal. Dead? See, ſee: he drew a good Bow: and dead? he ſhot a fine ſhoot. John of Gaunt loved him well, and betted much Money on his head. Dead? he would have clapt in the Clowt at Twelve-ſcore, and carryed you a fore-hand Shaft at fourteen, and fourteen and a half, that it would have done a mans heart good to ſee. How a ſcore of Ewes now?
Sil. Thereafter as they be: a ſcore of good Ewes may be worth ten pounds.
Shal. And is old Double dead?

Enter Bardolph and his Boy.

Sil. Here come two of Sir John Falſtaff's men (as I think.)
Shal. Good-morrow, honeſt Gentlemen.
Bard. I beſeech you, which is Juſtice Shallow?
Shal. I am Robert Shallow (Sir) a poor Eſquire of this County, one of the Kings Juſtices of the Peace: What is your good pleaſure with me?
Bard. My Captain, (Sir) commends him to you: my Captain, Sir John Falſtaff: a tall Gentleman, and a moſt gallant Leader.
Shal. He greets me well: (Sir) I know him a good Back-Sword-man. How doth the good Knight? may I ask, how my Lady his Wife doth?

Bard.

Bard. Sir, pardon: a Souldier is better accommodated, than with a Wife.

Shal. It is well ſaid, Sir; and it is well ſaid indeed, too: Better accommodated? it is good, yea indeed is it: good phraſes are ſurely and every where very commendable Accommodated, it comes of Accommodo: very good, a good phraſe.

Bard. Pardon, Sir, I have heard the word. Phraſe, call you it? by this day, I know not the Phraſe: but I will maintain the Word with my Sword, to be a Souldier-like Word, and a Word of exceeding good Command. Accommodated: that is, when a man is (as they ſay) accommodated: or, when a man is, being whereby he thought to be accommodated, which is an excellent thing.

Enter Falſtaff.

Shal. It is very juſt: Look, here comes good Sir John. Give me your hand, give me your Worſhip's good hand: Truſt me, you look well: and bear your years very well. Welcome, good Sir John.

Falſt. I am glad to ſee you well, good Maſter Robert Shallow: Maſter Sure-card, as I think?

Shal. No, Sir John, it is my Couſin Silence: in Commiſſion with me.

Falſt. Good Maſter Silence, it well befits, you ſhould be of the Peace.

Sil. Your good Worſhip is welcome.

Falſt. Fie, this is hot weather, (Gentlemen) have you provided me here half a dozen of ſufficient men?

Shal. Marry have we, Sir: Will you ſit?

Falſt. Let me ſee them, I beſeech you.

Shal. Where's the Roll? Where's the Roll? Where's the Roll? Let me ſee, let me ſee, let me ſee: ſo, ſo, ſo, ſo: yea marry, Sir, Ralph Mouldy: let them appear as I call: let them do ſo, let them do ſo: Let me ſee, Where is Mouldy?

Moul. Here, if it pleaſe you.

Shal. What think you (Sir John) a good limb'd Fellow: young, ſtrong, and of good Friends.

Falſt. Is thy name Mouldy?

Moul. Yea, if it pleaſe you.

Falſt. 'Tis the more time thou wert us'd.

Shal. Ha, ha, ha, moſt excellent. Things that are mouldy, lack uſe: very ſingular good. VVell ſaid, Sir John, very well ſaid.

Falſt. Prick him.

Moul. I was prickt well enough before, if you could have let me alone: my old Dame will be undone now, for one to do her Husbandry, and her Drudgery; you need not to have prickt me, there are other men fitter to go out than I.

Falſt. Go to: peace Mouldy, you ſhall go. Mouldy, it is time you were ſpent.

Moul. Spent?

Shal. Peace, fellow, peace; ſtand aſide: Know you where you are? For the other, Sir John: Let me ſee: Simon Shadow.

Falſt. I marry, let me have him to ſit under: he's like to be a cold Souldier.

Shal. Where's Shadow?

Shad. Here, Sir.

Falſt. Shadow, whoſe Son art thou?

Shad. My Mother's Son, Sir.

Falſt. Thy Mother's Son: like enough, and thy Fathers Shadow: ſo the Son of the Female is the Shadow of the Male: it is often ſo indeed, but not of the Fathers ſubſtance.

Shal. Do you like him, Sir John?

Falſt. Shadow will ſerve for Summer: prick him: For we have a number of ſhadows to fill up the Muſter-Book.

Shal Thomas Wart.

Falſt. Where's he?

Wart. Here, Sir.

Falſt. Is thy name Wart?

Wart. Yea, Sir.

Falſt. Thou art a very ragged Wart.

Shal. Shall I prick him down, Sir John?

Falſt. It were ſuperfluous: for his apparel is built upon his back, and the whole frame ſtands upon pins: prick him no more.

Shal. Ha, ha, ha, you can do it, Sir: you can do it: I commend you well.

Francis Feeble.

Feeble. Here, Sir.

Shal. What Trade art thou, Feeble?

Feeble. A Woman's Taylor, Sir?

Shal. Shall I prick him, Sir?

Falſt. You may: But if it had been a Man's Taylor, he would have prick'd you. Wilt thou make as many holes in an Enemies Battel, as thou haſt done in a Woman's Petticoat?

Feeb. I will do my good will, Sir? you can have no more.

Falſt. Well ſaid, good Woman's Taylor: Well ſaid, Couragious Feeble: thou wilt be as valiant as the wrathfull Dove, or moſt magnanimous Mouſe. Prick the woman's Taylor well, Maſter Shallow, deep, Maſter Shallow.

Feeble. I would Wart might have gone, Sir.

Falſt. I would thou wert a Man's Taylor, that thou might'ſt mend him, and make him fit to go. I cannot put him to a private Souldier, that is the Leader of ſo many thouſands. Let that ſuffice, moſt forcible Feeble.

Feeble. It ſhall ſuffice.

Falſt. I am bound to thee, reverend Feeble. Who is the next?

Shal. Peter Bulcalf of the Green.

Falſt. Yea marry, let us ſee Bulcalf.

Bul. Here, Sir.

Falſt. Truſt me, a likely Fellow. Come prick me Bulcalf, till he roar again.

Bul. Oh, good my Lord Captain.

Falſt. What? do'ſt thou roar before th'art prickt.

Bul. Oh, Sir, I am a diſeaſed man.

Falſt. What diſeaſe haſt thou?

Bul. A whorſon cold, Sir; a cough, Sir, which I caught with Ringing in the Kings Affairs, upon his Coronation day, Sir.

Falſt. Come, thou ſhalt go to the Wars in a Gown: we will have away thy Cold, and I will take ſuch order that thy Friends ſhall ring for thee. Is here all?

Shal. There is two more called than your number, you muſt have but four here, Sir, and ſo, I pray you, go in with me to Dinner.

Falſt. Come, I will go drink with you, but I cannot tarry Dinner. I am glad to ſee you in good troth, Maſter Shallow.

Shal. O, Sir John, do you remember ſince we lay all night in the Wind-mill in Saint George's Fields?

Falſt. No more of that, good Maſter Shallow: No more of that.

Shal. Ha? it was a merry night. And is Jane Night-work alive?

Falſt. She lives, Maſter Shallow.

Shal. She never could away with me.

Falſt. Never, never: She would always ſay, ſhe could not abide Maſter Shallow.

Shal. I could anger her to the heart: ſhe was then a Bona-Roba. Doth ſhe hold her own well?

Falſt. Old, old, Maſter Shallow.

Shal. Nay ſhe muſt be old, ſhe cannot chuſe but be old: certain ſhe's old: and had Robin Night-work, by old Night-work, before I came to Clement's Inn.

Sil. That's fifty five yeares ago.

Shal. Hah, Couſin Silence, that thou hadſt ſeen that, that this Knight and I have ſeen: hah, Sir John, ſaid I well?

Falſt. We have heard the Chimes at mid-night, Maſter Shallow.

Shal. That we have, that we have; in faith, Sir John,

we have: our watch-word was, Hem-Boys. Come, let's to dinner; come, let's to dinner: Oh the dayes that we have ſeen. Come, come.

Bul. Good Maſter Corporate Bardolph, ſtand my Friend, and here is four Harry ten ſhillings in French Crowns for you: in very truth, Sir, I had as lief be hang'd, Sir, as go, and yet for mine own part, Sir, I do not care, but rather, becauſe I am unwilling, and for mine own part, have a deſire to ſtay with my Friends: elſe, Sir, I did not care, for mine own part, ſo much.

Bard. Go too: ſtand aſide.

Moul. And good Maſter Corporal Captain, for my old Dame's ſake, ſtand my Friend: ſhe hath no body to do any thing about her, when I am gone: and ſhe is old and cannot help her ſelf: you ſhall have forty, Sir.

Bard. Go too: ſtand aſide.

Feeble. I care not, a man can dye but once: we owe a death. I will never bear a baſe mind: if it be my deſtiny, ſo: if it be not, ſo: no man is too good to ſerve his Prince: and let it go which way it will, he that dies this year, is quit for the next.

Bard. Well ſaid, thou art a good Fellow.

Feeble. Nay, I will bear no baſe mind.

Falſt. Come Sir, which men ſhall I have?

Shal. Four of which you pleaſe.

Bard. Sir, a word with you: I have three pound, to free Monldy and Bulcalf.

Falſt. Go too: well.

Shal. Come, Sir John, which four will you have?

Falſt. Do you chuſe for me.

Shal. Marry then, Mouldy, Bulcalf, Feeble, and Shallow.

Falſt. Mouldy, and Bulcalf: for you Mouldy, ſtay at home, till you are paſt ſervice: and for your part Bulcalf, grow till you come unto it: I will none of you.

Shal. Sir John, Sir John, do not your ſelf wrong, they are your likelieſt men, and I would have you ſerv'd with the beſt.

Falſt. Will you tell me (Maſter Shallow) how to chuſe a man? Care I for the Limb, the Thewes, the Stature, Bulk, and big aſſemblance of a man? give me the Spirit (Maſter Shallow.) Where's Wart? you ſee what a ragged appearance it is: he ſhall charge you, and diſcharge you, with the motion of a Pewterers Hammer: Come off, and on, ſwifter than he that gibbets on the Brewers Bucket. And this ſame half-fac'd fellow, Shadow, give me this man, he preſents no mark to the Enemy, the ſo-man may with as great ayme level at the edge of a Pen-knife: and for a Retreat, how ſwiftly will this Feeble, the womans Taylor, run off. O give me the ſpare men, and ſpare me the great ones. Put me a Calyver into Wart's hand, Bardolph.

Bard. Hold Wart, Traverſe: thus, thus, thus.

Falſt. Come, manage me your Calyver: ſo, very well, go to, very good, exceeding good. O give me alwayes a little, lean, old, chopt, bald Shot. Well ſaid Wart, thou art a good Scab: hold, there is a Teſter for thee.

Shal. He is not his Craft-maſter, he doth not do it right. I remember at Mile-end-Green, when I lay at Clement's Inn, I was then Sir Dagenet in Arthur's Show, there was a little quiver fellow, and he would manage you his Piece thus: and he would about, and about, and come you in, and come you in: Rah, tah, tah, would he ſay, Bownce would he ſay, and away again would he go, and again would he come: I ſhall never ſee ſuch a Fellow.

Falſt. Theſe Fellows will do well, Maſter Shallow. Farewel Maſter Silence, I will not uſe many words with you: fare you well, Gentlemen both: I thank you: I muſt a dozen miles to night. Bardolph give the Souldiers Coats.

Shal. Sir John, Heaven bleſs you, and proſper your Affairs, and ſend us Peace. As you return viſit my Houſe. Let our old acquaintance be renewed: Peradventure I will with you to the Court.

Falſt. I would you would, Maſter Shallow.

Shal. Go to: I have ſpoke at a word, Fare you well. [Exit.

Falſt. Fare you well, Gentlemen. On Bardolph, lead the men away. As I return, I will fetch off theſe Juſtices: I do ſee the bottom of Juſtice Shallow. How ſubject we old men are to this vice of Lying? This ſame ſtarv'd Juſtice hath done nothing but prate to me of the wildeneſs of his Youth, and the Feats he hath done about Turnbal-ſtreet, and every third word a Lye, duer pay'd to the hearer, than the Turks tribute. I do remember him at Clement's Inn, like a man made after ſupper, of a Cheeſe-paring. When he was naked, he was, for all the world, like a forked Radiſh, with a Head fantaſtically carv'd upon it with a Knife. He was forlorn, that his Dimenſions (to any thick ſight) were invincible. He was the very Genius of Famine: he came ever in the rear-ward of the faſhion: And now is the Vices Dagger become a Squire, and talks as familiarly of John of Gaunt, as if he had been ſworn Brother to him: and I'le be ſworn he never ſaw him but once in the Tilt-yard, and then he burſt his head, for crouding among the Marſhals men. I ſaw it, and told John of Gaunt, he beat his own Name, for you might have truſs'd him, and all his apparel into an Eel-skin: The Caſe of a Treble Ho-boy was a Manſion for him; a Court; and now hath he Land, and Beeves. Well, I will be acquainted with him, if I return; and it ſhall go hard, but I will make him a Philoſophers two Stones to me. If the young Dace be a Bait for the old Pike, I ſee no reaſon, in the Law of Nature, but I may ſnap at him. Let time ſhape, and there an end. [Exeunt.

Actus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter the Arch-Biſhop, Mowbray, Haſtings, ~~Weſtmerland,~~ Colevile.

Biſh. What is the Forreſt call'd?

Haſt. 'Tis Gualtree Forreſt, and't pleaſe your Grace.

Biſh. Stand here, (my Lords) and ſend diſcoveries forth,
To know the number of our Enemies.

Hoſt. We have ſent forth already.

Biſh. 'Tis well done.
My Friends and Brethren (in theſe great Affairs)
I muſt acquaint you, that I have receiv'd
New-dated Letters from Northumberland:
Their cold intent, tenure, and ſubſtance thus.
How doth he wiſh his Perſon, with ſuch Powers
As might hold ſortance with his Quality,
The which he could not levy: whereupon
He is retir'd, to ripe his growing Fortunes
To Scotland: and concludes in hearty Prayers,
That your Attempts may over-live the hazard,
And fearful meeting of their Oppoſite.

Mow. Thus do the hopes we have in him touch ground,
And daſh themſelves to pieces.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Haſt. Now? what Newes?

Meſſ. Weſt of this Forreſt, ſcarcely off a mile,
In goodly form comes on the Enemy:
And by the ground they hide, I judge their number
Upon, or near, the rate of thirty thouſand.

Mow. The juſt proportion that we gave them out.
Let us ſway on, and face them in the Field.

Enter Weſtmerland.

Biſh. What well appointed Leader fronts us here?

Mow. I think it is my Lord of Weſtmerland.

Weſt. Health, and fair greeting from our General,
The Prince, Lord John, and Duke of Lancaſter.

Biſh. Say on (my Lord of Weſtmerland) in peace:
What

What doth concern your coming?
Weſt. Then (my Lord)
Unto your Grace do I in chief addreſs
The ſubſtance of my Speech. If that Rebellion
Came like it ſelf, in baſe and abject Routs,
Led on by bloody Youth, guarded with Rage,
And countenanc'd by Boys, and Beggery:
I ſay if damn'd Commotion ſo appear,
In his true, native, and moſt proper ſhape,
You (Reverend Father, and theſe Noble Lords)
Had not been here, to dreſs the ugly Form
Of baſe, and bloody Inſurrection
With your fair Honours. You, Lord Arch-Biſhop,
Whoſe See is by a Civil Peace maintain'd,
Whoſe Beard, the Silver Hand of Peace hath touch'd,
Whoſe Learning, and good Letters, Peace hath tutor'd,
Whoſe white Inveſtments figure Innocence,
The Dove, and very bleſſed Spirit of Peace;
Wherefore do you ſo ill tranſlate your ſelf,
Out of the ſpeech of Peace, that bears ſuch Grace,
Into the harſh and boyſtrous Tongue of War?
Turning your Books to Graves, your Ink to Blood,
Your Pens to Launces, and your Tongue divine
To a lowd Trumpet, and a Point of War?
Biſh. Wherefore do I this? ſo the queſtion ſtands.
Briefly to this end: We are all diſeas'd,
And with our ſurfeiting, and wanton hours,
Have brought our ſelves into a burning Feaver,
And we muſt bleed for it: of which diſeaſe
Our late King Richard (being infected) dy'd.
But (my moſt Noble Lord of Weſtmerland)
I take not on me here as a Phyſitian,
Nor do I, as an Enemy to Peace,
Troop in the Throngs of Military men:
But rather ſhew a while like fearful War,
To dyet rank Minds, ſick of happineſs;
And purge th'obſtructions which begin to ſtop
Our very Veins of Life: hear me more plainly.
I have in equal Ballance juſtly weigh'd,
What Wrongs our Arms may do, what Wrongs we ſuffer,
And find our Griefs heavier than our Offences.
We ſee which way the ſtream of Time doth run,
And are enforc'd from our moſt quiet there,
By the rough Torrent of Occaſion,
And have the ſummary of all our Griefs
(When time ſhall ſerve) to ſhew in Articles;
Which long e're this, we offer'd to the King,
And might by no Suit, gain our Audience:
When we are wrong'd and would unfold our Griefs,
We are deny'd acceſs unto his Perſon,
Even by thoſe men, that moſt have done us wrong.
The dangers of the days but newly gone,
Whoſe memory is written on the Earth
With yet appearing Blood; and the Examples
Of every Minutes inſtance (preſent now)
Hath put us in theſe ill-beſeeming Arms:
Not to break Peace, or any Branch of it,
But to eſtabliſh here a Peace indeed,
Concurring both in Name and Quality.
Weſt. When ever yet was your appeal deny'd?
Wherein have you been galled by the King?
What Peer hath been ſuborn'd, to grate on you,
That you ſhould ſeal this lawleſs bloody Book
Of forg'd Rebellion, with a Seal divine?
Biſh. My Brother General, the Common-wealth
I make my Quarrel in particular.
Weſt. There is no need of any ſuch redreſs;
Or if there were, it not belongs to you.
Mow. Why not to him in part, and to us all,
That feel the bruiſes of the days before,
And ſuffer the Condition of theſe Times
To lay an heavie and unequal Hand upon our Honours?
Weſt. O my good Lord Mowbray,
Conſtrue the Times to their Neceſſities,
And you ſhall ſay (indeed) it is the time,
And not the King that doth you injuries.
Yet for your part, it not appears to me,
Either from the King, or in the preſent Time
That you ſhould have an inch of any ground
To build a Grief on: were you not reſtor'd
To all the Duke of Norfolk's Seignories,
Your Noble and right well remembred Father's?
Mow. What thing, in Honour, had my Father loſt,
That need to be reviv'd, and breath'd in me?
The King that lov'd him, as the State ſtood then,
Was forc'd, perforce compell'd to baniſh him:
And then, that Henry Bullingbrook and he
Being mounted, and both rowſed in their Seats,
Their neighing Courſers daring of the Spur,
Their armed Staves in charge, their Beavers down,
Their Eyes of Fire, ſparkling through ſights of Steel,
And the loud Trumpet blowing them together:
Then, then, when there was nothing could have ſtay'd
My Father from the Breaſt of Bullingbrook;
O, when the King did throw his Warder down,
(His own Life hung upon the Staff he threw)
Then threw he down himſelf, and all their Lives,
That by Indictment, and by dint of Sword,
Have ſince miſcarried under Bullingbrook.
Weſt. You ſpeak (Lord Mowbray) now you know not what.
The Earl of Hereford, was reputed then
In England the moſt valiant Gentleman.
Who knows, on whom Fortune would then have ſmil'd?
But if your Father had been Victor there,
He ne're had born it out of Coventry.
For all the Country, in a general voice,
Cry'd hate upon him: and all their Prayers, and Love,
Were ſet on Hereford, whom they doted on,
And bleſs'd, and grac'd, and did more than the King.
But this is meer digreſſion from my purpoſe.
Here come I from our Princely General,
To know your Griefs; to tell you from his Grace,
That he will give you Audience: and wherein
It ſhall appear, that your Demands are juſt,
You ſhall enjoy them, every thing ſet off
That might ſo much as think you Enemies.
Mow. But he hath forc'd us to compel this Offer,
And it proceeds from Policie, not Love.
Weſt. Mowbray, you over-ween to take it ſo:
This Offer comes from Mercy, not from Fear.
For lo, within a Ken our Army lies.
Upon mine Honour, all too confident
To give admittance to a thought of Fear.
Our Battel is more full of Names than yours,
Our Men more perfect in the uſe of Arms,
Our Armour all as ſtrong, our Cauſe the beſt;
Then Reaſon will, our Hearts ſhould be as good.
Say you not then our Offer is compell'd.
Mow. Well, by my will we ſhall admit no Parley.
Weſt. That argues but the ſhame of your Offence:
A rotten Caſe abides no handing.
Haſt. Hath the Prince John a full Commiſſion,
In very ample virtue of his Father,
To hear, and abſolutely to determine
Of what conditions we ſhall ſtand upon?
Weſt. That is intended in the Generals Name:
I muſe you make ſo ſlight a Queſtion.
Biſh. Then take (my Lord of Weſtmerland) this Schedule,
For this contains our general Grievances:
Each ſeveral Article herein redreſs'd,
All members of our Cauſe, both here, and hence,
That are inſinewed to this Action,
Acquitted by a true ſubſtantial form,
And preſent execution of our wills,
To us, and to our Purpoſes confin'd,
We come within our awful Banks again,
And knit our Powers to the Arm of Peace.
Weſt. This will I ſhew the General. Pleaſe you Lords

In ſight of both our Battels, we may meet
At either end in peace: which Heaven ſo frame,
Or to the place of difference call the Swords,
Which muſt needs decide it.
Biſh. My Lord, we will do ſo.
Mow. There is a thing within my Boſom tells me,
That no Condition of our peace can ſtand.
Haſt. Fear you not that, if we can make our Peace
Upon ſuch large terms, and ſo abſolute,
As our Conditions ſhall conſiſt upon,
Our Peace ſhall ſtand as firm as Rocky Mountains.
Mow. I, but our valuation ſhall be ſuch,
That every ſlight, and falſe-derived Cauſe,
Yea, every idle, nice, and wanton Reaſon,
Shall to the King, taſte of this Action:
That were our Royal Faiths, Martyrs in Love,
We ſhall be winnowed with ſo rough a wind,
That even our Corn ſhall ſeem as light as Chaff,
And good from bad find no partition.
Biſh. No, no (my Lord) note this: the King is weary
Of dainty and ſuch picking Grievances:
For he hath found, to end one doubt by Death,
Revives two greater in the Heirs of Life.
And therefore will he wipe his Tables clean,
And keep no Tell-tale to his Memory,
That may repeat, and Hiſtory his loſs,
To new remembrance. For full well he knows,
He cannot ſo preciſely weed this Land,
As his miſdoubts preſent occaſion:
His Foes are ſo enrooted with his Friends,
That plucking to unfix an Enemy,
He doth unfaſten ſo, and ſhake a Friend.
So that this Land, like an offenſive Wife,
That hath enrag'd him on, to offer ſtrokes,
As he is ſtriking, holds his Infant up,
And hangs reſolv'd Correction in the Arm,
That was uprear'd to execution.
Haſt. Beſides, the King hath waſted all his Rods,
On late Offenders, that he now doth lack
The very Inſtruments of Chaſtiſement:
So that his Power, like to a Fangleſs Lyon
May offer, but not hold.
Biſh. 'Tis very true:
And therefore be aſſur'd (my good Lord Marſhal)
If we do now make our Atonement well,
Our Peace will (like a broken Limb united)
Grow ſtronger, for the breaking.
Mow. Be it ſo:
Here is return'd my Lord of Weſtmerland.
Enter Weſtmerland.
We. The Prince is here at hand: Pleaſeth your Lordſhip
To meet his Grace, juſt diſtance 'tween our Armies?
Mow. Your Grace of York, in Heavens name then forward.
Biſh. Before, and greet his Grace, (my Lord) we come.
Enter Prince John.
John. You are well encountred here (my Couſin Mow-
Good day to you gentle Lord Arch-Biſhop, (bray)
And ſo to you Lord Haſtings, and to all.
My Lord of York, it better ſhew'd with you,
When that your Flock (aſſembled by the Bell)
Encircled you, to hear with reverence
Your Expoſition on the holy Text,
Than now to ſee you here an Iron man,
Cheering a rout of Rebels with your Drum,
Turning the Word to Sword, and Life to death.
That man that ſits within a Monarch's Heart,
And ripens in the Sun-ſhine of his Favour,
Would he abuſe the Countenance of the King,
Alack, what miſchiefs might he ſet abroach,
In ſhadow of ſuch greatneſs? With you, Lord Biſhop,
It is even ſo. Who hath not heard it ſpoken,
How deep you were within the Books of Heaven?
To us, the Speaker in his Parliament;
To us, the imagine voice of Heaven it ſelf:
The very Opener, and Intelligencer
Between the Grace, the Sanctities of Heaven,
And our dull workings. O, who ſhall believe,
But you miſuſe the reverence of your Place,
Employ the Countenance and Grace of Heaven,
As a falſe Favourite doth his Princes Name,
In deeds diſhonourable? You have taken up,
Under the counterfeit Zeal of Heaven,
The Subjects of Heaven's Subſtitute, my Father,
And both againſt the Peace of Heaven, and Him,
Have here up-ſwarmed them.
Biſh. Good my Lord of Lancaſter,
I am not here againſt your Father's Peace:
But (as I told my Lord of Weſtmerland)
The time (miſ-order'd) doth in common ſenſe
Crowd us, and cruſh us, to this monſtrous Form,
To hold our ſafety up. I ſent your Grace
The parcels, and particulars of our Grief,
The which hath been with ſcorn ſhov'd from the Court:
Whereon this Hydra-Son of War is born,
Whoſe dangerous Eyes may well be charm'd aſleep,
With grant of our moſt juſt and right deſire;
And true Obedience of this Madneſs cur'd,
Stoop tamely to the foot of Majeſty.
Mow. If not, we ready are to try our Fortunes
To the laſt man.
Haſt. And though we here fall down,
We have Supplies to ſecond our Attempt:
If they miſcarry, theirs ſhall ſecond them.
And ſo, ſucceſs of miſchief ſhall be born,
And Heir from Heir ſhall hold this Quarrel up,
Whiles England ſhall have Generation.
John. You are too ſhallow (Haſtings)
Much too ſhallow,
To ſound the bottom of the after-times.
Weſt. Pleaſeth your Grace, to anſwer them directly,
How far-forth you do like their Articles?
John. I like them all, and do allow them well:
And ſwear here, by the Honour of my Blood,
My Father's purpoſes have been miſtook,
And ſome, about him, have too laviſhly
Wreſted his meaning, and Authority.
My Lord, theſe Griefs ſhall be with ſpeed redreſt:
Upon my Life, they ſhall. If this may pleaſe you,
Diſcharge your Powers unto their ſeveral Counties,
As we will ours: and here between the Armies,
Let's drink together friendly, and embrace,
That all their Eyes may bear thoſe Tokens home,
Of our reſtored Love, and Amity.
Biſh. I take your Princely word, for theſe redreſſes.
John. I give it you, and will maintain my word;
And thereupon I drink unto your Grace.
Haſt. Go Captain, and deliver to the Army
This News of Peace; let them have pay, and part:
I know it will well pleaſe them.
Hie thee, Captain. [Exit.
Biſh. To you my noble Lord of Weſtmerland.
Weſt. I pledge your Grace:
And if you knew what pains I have beſtow'd,
To breed this preſent Peace,
You would drink freely: but my love to ye
Shall ſhew it ſelf more openly hereafter.
Biſh. I do not doubt you.
Weſt. I am glad of it.
Health to my Lord, and gentle Couſin Mowbray.
Mow. You wiſh me health in very happy ſeaſon,
For I am on the ſudden, ſomething ill.
Biſh. Againſt ill Chances men are ever merry,
But Heavineſs fore-runs the good Event.
Weſt. Therefore be merry (Coz) ſince ſudden ſorrow
Serves to ſay thus: ſome good thing comes to morrow.
Biſh. Believe me, I am paſſing light in Spirit.
Mow. So much the worſe, if your own Rule be true.

John.

John. The word of Peace is render'd: hark how they ſhowt.
Mow. This had been chearful after Victory.
Biſh. A peace is of the nature of a Conqueſt:
For then both Parties nobly are ſubdu'd,
And neither party loſer.
John. Go (my Lord)
And let our Army be diſcharged too:
And good my Lord ſo (pleaſe you) let our Trains
March by us, that we may peruſe the men, [Exit.
We ſhould have cop'd withall.
Biſh. Go, good Lord Haſtings:
And e're they be diſmiſs'd, let them march by. [Exit.
John. I truſt (Lords) we ſhall lie to night together.
Enter Weſtmerland.
Now Couſin, wherefore ſtands our Army ſtill?
Weſt. The Leaders, having charge from you to ſtand,
Will not go off until they hear you ſpeak.
John. They know their Duties. [Enter Haſtings.
Haſt. Our Army is diſpers'd:
Like youthful Steers, unyoak'd, they took their courſe
Eaſt, Weſt, North, South: or like a School broke up,
Each hurries towards his home, and ſporting place.
Weſt. Good tidings, (my Lord Haſtings) for the which
I do arreſt thee (Traytor) of high Treaſon:
And you Lord Arch-Biſhop, and you Lord Mowbray,
Of Capital Treaſon, I attach you both.
Mow. Is this proceeding juſt and honourable?
Weſt. Is your Aſſembly ſo?
Biſh. Will you thus break your Faith?
John. I pawn'd thee none:
I promis'd you redreſs of theſe ſame Grievances
Whereof you did complain; which by mine Honour,
I will perform, with a moſt Chriſtian care.
But for you (Rebels) look to taſte the due
Meet for Rebellion, and ſuch Acts as yours.
Moſt ſhallowly did you theſe Arms commence,
Fondly brought here, and fooliſhly ſent hence.
Strike up our Drums purſue the ſcatter'd ſtray,
Heaven, and not we, have ſafely fought to day.
Some guard theſe Traitors to the block of Death,
Treaſons true bed, and yielder up of breath. [Exeunt.

Enter Falſtaff, and Colevile.

Falſt. What's your Name, Sir? of what Condition are you? and what place, I pray?
Col. I am a Knight, Sir:
And my Name is Colevile of the Dale.
Falſt. Well then, Colevile is your Name, a Knight is your Degree, and your Place, the Dale. Colevile ſhall ſtill be your Name, a Traitor your Degree, and the Dungeon your Place, a place deep enough: ſo ſhall you be ſtill Colevile of the Dale.
Col. Are not you Sir John Falſtaff?
Falſtaff. As good a man as he, Sir, who e're I am: do ye yield, Sir, or ſhall I ſweat for you? if I do ſweat, they are the drops of thy Lovers, and they weep for thy death, therefore rowze up Fear and Trembling, and do obſervance to my mercy.
Col. I think you are Sir John Falſtaff, and in that thought yield me.
Fal. I have a whole School of Tongues in this belly of mine, and not a Tongue of them all ſpeaks any other word but my Name: and I had but a belly of any indifferency, I were ſimply the moſt active fellow in Europe: my womb, my womb, my womb undoes me. Here comes our General.

Enter Prince John and Weſtmerland.

John. The heat is paſt, follow no farther now,
Call in the Powers, good Couſin Weſtmerland.
Now Falſtaff, where have you been all this while?
When every thing is ended, then you come.
Theſe tardy tricks of yours will (on my life)
One time or other, break ſome Gallows back.
Fal. I would be ſorry (my Lord) but it ſhould be thus: I never knew yet, but rebuke and check was the reward of Valour. Do you think me a Swallow, an Arrow, or a Bullet? Have I, in my poor and old Motion, the expedition of Thought? I have ſpeeded hither with the very extremeſt inch of poſſibility. I have foundred nineſcore and odd Poſts: and here (travel-tainted as I am) have, in my pure and immaculate Valour, taken Sir John Colevile of the Dale, a moſt furious Knight, and valorous Enemy: But what of that? he ſaw me, and yielded: that I may juſtly ſay with the hook-nos'd fellow of Rome, I came, ſaw, and over-came.
John. It was more of his Courteſie, than your Deſerving.
Fal. I know not: here he is, and here I yield him: and I beſeech your Grace, let it be book'd with the reſt of this days deeds; or, I ſwear, I will have it in a particular Ballad, with mine own Picture on the top of it, (Colevile) kiſſing my foot: To the which courſe, if I be enforc'd, if you do not all ſhew like gilt two-pences to me; and I, in the clear Sky of Fame, o're-ſhine you as much as the full Moon doth the Cynders of the Element, (which ſhew like Pins Heads to her) believe not the word of the Noble: therefore let me have right, and let deſert mount.
John. Thine's too heavy to mount.
Falſt. Let it ſhine then.
John. Thine's too thick to ſhine.
Falſt. Let it do ſomething (my good Lord) that may do me good, and call it what you will.
John. Is thy Name Colevile?
Col. It is (my Lord.)
John. A famous Rebel art thou, Colevile.
Falſt. And a famous true Subject took him.
Col. I am (my Lord) but as my Betters are,
That led me hither: had they been rul'd by me,
You ſhould have won them dearer than you have.
Falſt. I know not how they ſold themſelves, but thou like a kind Fellow, gav'ſt thy ſelf away; and I thank thee, for thee.

Enter VVeſtmerland.

John. Have you left purſuit?
Weſt. Retreat is made, and Execution ſtay'd.
John. Send Colevile, with his Confederates,
To York, to preſent Execution.
Blunt, lead him hence, and ſee you guard him ſure.
[Exit Colevile.
And now diſpatch we toward the Court (my Lords)
I hear the King, my Father is ſore ſick,
Our News ſhall go before us, to his Majeſty,
VVhich (Couſin) you ſhall bear, to comfort him:
And we with ſober ſpeed will follow you.
Falſt. My Lord, I beſeech you, give me leave to go through Glocesterſhire; and when you come to Court, ſtand my good Lord, 'pray, in your good report.
John. Fare you well, Falſtaff: I, in my condition,
Shall better ſpeak of you, than you deſerve. [Exit.
Falſt. I would you had but the wit: twere better than your Dukedome. Good faith, this ſame young ſober-blooded Boy doth not love me, nor a man cannot make him laugh; but that's no marvel, he drinks no VVine. There's never any of theſe demure Boys come to any proof: for thin drink doth ſo over-cool their blood, and making many Fiſh-Meals, that they fall into a kind of Male Green-ſickneſs: and then, when they marry, they get VVenches. They are generally Fools, and Cowards; which ſome of us ſhould be too, but for inflammation. A good Sherris-Sack hath a two-fold operation in it: it aſcends me into the Brain, dries me there all the fooliſh, and dull, and crudy Vapours, which environ it: makes it apprehenſive, quick, forgetive, full of nimble, fiery, and delectable ſhapes; which deliver'd o're to the Voyce, Voyce, the Tongue, which is the Birth, becomes excellent Wit. The ſecond property of your excellent Sherris, is, the warming of the Blood: which before (cold, and ſetled) left the Liver white, and pale: which is the Badge of Puſillanimity, and Cowardiſe: but the Sherris warms it, and makes it courſe from the inwards, to the parts extreme: it illuminateth the Face, which (as a Beacon) gives warning to all the reſt of this little Kingdom (man) to Arm: and then the Vital Commoners, and inland petty Spirits, muſter me all to their Captain, the Heart; who great, and puft up with his retinue, doth any deed of Courage: and this Valour comes of Sherris. So that skill in the Weapon is nothing, without Sack (for that ſets it a work:) and Learning, a meer Hoard of Gold, kept by a Devil, till Sack commences it, and ſets it in act, and uſe. Hereof comes it, that Prince Harry is valiant: for the cold blood he did naturally inherit of his Father, he hath, like lean, ſteril, and bare Land, manured, husbanded, and till'd, with excellent endeavour of drinking good, and good ſtore of fertil Sherris, that he is become very hot, and valiant. If I had a thouſand ſons, the firſt Principle I would teach them, ſhould be to forſwear thin Potations, and to addict themſelves to Sack. [Enter Bardolph.

How now, Bardolph.

Bard. Thy Army is diſcharged all, and gone.

Falſt. Let them go: I'le through Glouceſterſhire, and there will I viſit Maſter Robert Shallow, Eſquire: I have him already tempering between my finger and my thumb, and ſhortly will I ſeal with him. Come away.

[Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter King, Warwick, Clarence, Gloceſter.

King. Now Lords, if Heaven doth give ſucceſsful end
To this Debate that bleedeth at our doors,
We will our Youth lead on to higher Fields,
And draw no Swords, but what are ſanctifi'd.
Our Navy is addreſſed, our Power collected,
Our Subſtitutes, in abſence, well inveſted,
And every thing lies level to our wiſh;
Onely we want a little perſonal ſtrength:
And pawſe us, till theſe Rebels, now a foot,
Come underneath the yoak of Government.

War. Both which we doubt not, but your Majeſty
Shall ſoon enjoy.

King. Humphrey (my Son of Glouceſter) where is the Prince, your Brother?

Glo. I think he's gone to hunt (my Lord) at Windſor.

King. And how accompanied?

Glo. I do not know (my Lord.)

King. Is not his Brother, Thomas of Clarence, with him?

Glo. No (my good Lord) he is in preſence here.

Clar. What would my Lord, and Father?

King. Nothing but well to thee, Thomas of Clarence,
How chance thou art not with the Prince, thy Brother?
He loves thee, and thou do'ſt neglect him (Thomas)
Thou haſt a better place in his Affection
Than all thy Brothers: Cheriſh it (my Boy)
And Noble Offices thou may'ſt effect
Of Mediation (after I am dead)
Between his Greatneſs, and thy other Brethren.
Therefore omit him not: blunt not his Love,
Nor loſe the good advantage of his Grace,
By ſeeming cold, or careleſs of his will.
For he is gracious if he be obſerv'd:
He hath a Tear for Pity, and a Hand
Open (as Day) for melting Charity:
Yet notwithſtanding, being incens'd, he's Flint,
As humorous as Winter, and as ſudden
As Flaws congealed in the Spring of day.
His temper therefore muſt be well obſerv'd:
Chide him for faults, and do it reverently,
When you perceive his blood inclin'd to mirth:
But being moody, give him line, and ſcope,
Till that his paſſions (like a Whale on ground)
Confound themſelves with working. Learn this, Thomas,
And thou ſhalt prove a ſhelter to thy Friends,
A Hoop of Gold to bind thy Brothers in:
That the united Veſſel of their Blood
(Mingled with Venome of Suggeſtion,
As force, perforce, the Age will pour it in)
Shall never leak, though it do work as ſtrong
As Aconitum, or raſh Gun-powder.

Clar. I ſhall obſerve him with all care, and love.

King. Why art thou not at Windſor with him, (Thomas?)

Clar. He is not there to day: he dines in London.

King. And how accompanied? Canſt thou tell that?

Clar. With Poins, and other his continual Followers.

King. Moſt ſubject is the fatteſt Soyl to Weeds:
And He (the Noble Image of my Youth)
Is over-ſpread with them: therefore my grief
Stretches it ſelf beyond the hour of Death.
The blood weeps from my heart, when I do ſhape
(In forms imaginary) th'unguided Days,
And rotten Times, that you ſhall look upon,
When I am ſleeping with my Anceſtors.
For when his head-ſtrong Riot hath no Curb,
When Rage and hot-blood are his Counſellers,
When Means and laviſh Manners meet together,
Oh, with what Wings ſhall his Affections flye
Towards fronting Peril, and oppos'd decay?

War. My gracious Lord, you look beyond him quite:
The Prince but ſtudies his Companions,
Like a ſtrange Tongue: wherein, to gain the Language,
'Tis needful, that the moſt immodeſt word
Be look'd upon, and learn'd: which once attain'd,
Your Highneſs knows, comes to no farther uſe,
But to be known, and hated. So, like groſs terms,
The Prince will, in the perfectneſs of time,
Caſt off his Followers: and their memory
Shall as a Pattern, or a Meaſure live,
By which his Grace muſt mete the lives of others,
Turning paſt Evils to advantages.

King. 'Tis ſeldom, when the Bee doth leave her Comb
In the dead Carrion.

Enter VVeſtmerland.

VVho's here? Weſtmerland?

Weſt. Health to my Soveraign, and new happineſs
Added to that, that I am to deliver.
Prince John, your Son, doth kiſs your Graces hand:
Mowbray, the Biſhop, Scroop, Haſtings, and all,
Are brought to the Correction of your Law,
There is not now a Rebels Sword unſheath'd,
But Peace puts forth her Olive every where:
The manner how this Action hath been born,
Here (at more leiſure) may your Highneſs read,
VVith every courſe, in his particular.

King. O Weſtmerland, thou art a Summer Bird,
VVhich ever, in the haunch of VVinter, ſings
The lifting up of day.

Enter Harcourt.

Look, here's more News.

Har. From Enemies, Heaven keep your Majeſty:
And when they ſtand againſt you, may they fall,
As thoſe that I am come to tell you of.
The Earl Northumberland, and the Lord Bardolf,
VVith a great Power of Engliſh, and of Scots,
Are by the Sheriff of York-ſhire overthrown:
The manner, and true order of the fight,
This Packet (pleaſe you) contains at large.

King. And wherefore ſhould theſe good News
Make me ſick?
VVill Fortune never come with both hands full,

But

But write her fair words ſtill in fouleſt Letters?
She either gives a Stomack, and no food,
(Such are the Poor, in health) or elſe a Feaſt,
And takes away the Stomach, (Such are the Rich,
That have aboundance, and enjoy it not.)
I ſhould rejoyce now, at this happy News,
And now my Sight fails, and my brains is giddy.
O me, come near me, now I am much ill.
Glo. Comfort your Majeſty.
Cla. Oh, my Royal Father.
Weſtmer. My Soveraign Lord, chear up your ſelf, look up.
War. Be patient (Princes) you do know, theſe Fits
Are with his Highneſs very ordinary.
Stand from him, give him air:
He'll ſtraight be well.
Clar. No no, he cannot long hold out: theſe pangs,
Th'inceſſant care, and labour of his mind,
Hath wrought the Mure, that ſhould confine in it,
So thin, that life looks through, and will break out.
Glo. The people fear me: for they do obſerve
Unfather'd Heirs, and loathly Births of Nature:
The Seaſons change their manners, as the year
Had found ſome Months aſleep, and leap'd them over.
Clar. The River hath thrice flow'd, no ebb between:
And the old folk (Times doting Chronicles)
Say it did ſo, a little time before
That our Grand ſire Edward ſick'd, and dy'd.
War. Speak lower, (Princes) for the King recovers.
Glo. This Apoplexy will (certain) be his end.
King. I pray you take me up, and bear me hence
Into ſome other Chamber: ſoftly 'pray.
Let there be no noyſe made, (my gentle Friends)
Unleſs ſome dull and favourable hand
Will whiſper Muſick to my weary Spirit.
War. Call for the Muſick in the other Room.
King. Set me the Crown upon my Pillow here.
Clar. His eye is hollow, and he changes much.
War. Leſs noyſe, leſs noyſe.

Enter Prince Henry.

Prin. Hen. Who ſaw the Duke of Clarence?
Cla. I am here (Brother) full of heavineſs.
Prin. Hen. How now? Rain within doors, and none abroad? How doth the King?
Glo. Exceeding ill.
Prin. Hen. Heard he the good News yet?
Tell it him.
Glo. He alter'd much, upon the hearing it.
Prin. Hen. If he be ſick with Joy,
He'l recover without Phyſick.
War. Not ſo much noyſe, (my Lords)
Sweet Prince, ſpeak low.
The King, your Father, is diſpos'd to ſleep.
Clar. Let us with-draw into the other Room.
War. Wil't pleaſe your Grace to go along with us?
Prin. Hen. No: I will ſit, and watch here, by the King.
Why doth the Crown lye there, upon his Pillow,
Being ſo troubleſom a Bed-fellow?
O poliſh'd Perturbation! Golden Care!
That keeep'ſt the Ports of ſlumber open wide
To many a watchful Night: ſleep with it now,
Yet not ſo ſound, and half ſo deeply ſweet,
As he whoſe Brow (with homely Biggen bound)
Snores out the Watch of Night. O Majeſty!
When thou do'ſt pinch thy Bearer, thou do'ſt ſit
Like a rich Armor, worn in heat of day,
That ſcald'it with ſafety: by his Gates of breath,
There lyes a downy Feather, which ſtirs not:
Did he ſuſpire, that light and weightleſs down
Perforce muſt move. My gracious Lord, my Father,
This ſleep is ſound indeed: this is a ſleep,
That from this Golden Rigol hath divorc'd
So many Engliſh Kings. Thy due from me,
Is Tears, and heavy Sorrows of the Blood,
Which Nature, Love, and filial tenderneſs
Shall (O dear Father) pay thee plenteouſly.
My due, from thee, is this Imperial Crown,
Which (as immediate from thy place, and blood)
Derives it ſelf to me. Lo, here it ſits,
Which heaven ſhall guard:
And put the World's whole ſtrength into one Gyant Arm,
It ſhall not force this Lineal Honor from me.
This, from thee, will I to mine leave,
As 'tis left to me. [Exit.

Enter Warwick, Glouceſter, Clarence.

King. Warwick, Glouceſter, Clarence.
Clar. Doth the King call?
War. What would your Majeſty? how fares your Grace?
King. Why did you leave me here alone, (my Lords)
Cla. We left the Prince (my Brother) here (my Liege,
Who undertook to ſit and watch by you.
King. The Prince of Wales? where is he? let me ſee him.
War. This door is open, he is gone this way.
Glo. He came not through the Chamber where we ſtaid.
King. Where is the Crown? who took it from my Pillow?
War. When we with drew (my Liege) we left it here.
King. The Prince hath t'ane it hence:
Go ſeek him out.
Is he ſo haſty, that he doth ſuppoſe
My ſleep, my death? Find him (my Lord of Warwick)
Chide him hither: this part of his conjoyns
With my diſeaſe, and helps to end me.
See Sons, what things you are:
How quickly Nature falls into revolt,
When Gold becomes her Object?
For this, the fooliſh over-careful Fathers
Have broke their ſleeps with thoughts,
Their brains with care, their bones with induſtry.
For this, they have ingroſſed and pyl'd up
The canker'd heaps of ſtrange-atchieved Gold:
For this, they have been thoughtful, to inveſt
Their Sons with Arts, and Martial Exerciſes:
When, like the Bee, culling from every Flower
The vertuous Sweets, our Thighs packt with Wax,
Our Mouths with Honey, we bring it to the Hive;
And like the Bees, are murthered for our pains.
This bitter taſte yields his Engroſſments
To the ending Father.

Enter Warwick.

Now where is he, that will not ſtay ſo long,
Till his friends ſickneſs hath determin'd me?
War. My Lord, I found the Prince in the next Room,
Waſhing with kindly Tears his gentle Cheeks,
With ſuch a deep demeanour, in great ſorrow,
That Tyranny, which never quaff't but blood,
Would (by beholding him) have waſh'd his Knife
With gentle eye-drops. He is coming hither.
King. But wherefore did he take away the Crown?

Enter Prince Henry.

Lo, where he comes. Come hither to me, (Harry)
Depart the Chamber, leave us here alone. [Exit.
Prin. Hen. I never thought to heare you ſpeak again.
King. Thy wiſh was Father (Harry) to that thought:
I ſtay too long by thee, I weary thee.
Do'ſt thou ſo hunger for my empty Chair,
That thou wilt needs inveſt thee with mine Honors,
Before thy hour be ripe? O fooliſh youth!
Thou ſeek'ſt the Greatneſs, that will over-whelm thee:
Stay but a little: for my Cloud of Dignity
Is held from falling, with ſo weak a wind,
That it will quickly drop: my Day is dim.
Thou haſt ſtoln that, which after ſome few hours
Were thine, without offence: and at my death
Thou haſt ſeal'd up my Expectation.
Thy life did manifeſt, thou lov'd'ſt me not,

And thou wilt have me dye aſſur'd of it.
Thou hid'ſt a thouſand Daggers in thy thoughts,
Which thou haſt whetted on thy ſtony heart,
To ſtab at half an hour of my frail life.
What? canſt thou not forbear me half an hour?
Then get thee gone, and dig thy grave thy ſelf,
And bid the merry Bells ring to thy ear,
That thou art Crowned, not that I am dead,
Let all the Tears, that ſhould bedew my Herſe
Be drops of Balm, to ſanctifie thy head:
Onely compound me with forgotten duſt;
Give that, which gave thee life, unto the Worms:
Pluck down my Officers, break my Decrees;
For now a time is come, to mock at Form.
Henry the Fifth is Crown'd: Up Vanity,
Down Royal State: All you ſage Counſellors, hence:
And to the Engliſh Court, aſſemble now
From ev'ry Region, Apes of Idleneſs.
Now Neighbour-Confines, purge you of your Scum:
Have you a Ruffian that will ſwear? drink? and dance?
Revel the night? rob? murder? and commit
The oldeſt ſins, the neweſt kind of ways?
Be happy, he will trouble you no more:
England ſhall double guil'd, his trebble guilt.
England ſhall give him Office, Honor, Might:
For the Fifth Harry, from curb'd Licenſe plucks
The muzzle of Reſtraint, and the wilde Dog
Shall fleſh his tooth in every Innocent.
O my poor Kingdom (ſick with civil blows)
When that my Care could not with-hold thy Ryots,
What wilt thou do, When Ryot is thy Care?
O, thou wilt be a Wilderneſs again,
Peopled with Wolves (thy old Inhabitants.)

Prin. O pardon me (my Liege)
But for my Tears,
The moſt Impediments unto my Speech,
I had fore-ſtall'd, and deep rebuke,
E're you (with grief) had ſpoke, and I had heard
The courſe of it ſo far. There is your Crown,
And he that wears the Crown immortally,
Long guard it yours: If I affect it more,
Than as your Honour, and as your Renown,
Let me no more from this Obedience riſe,
Which my moſt true, and inward dutious ſpirit
Teacheth this proſtrate, and exteriour bending.
Heaven witneſs with me, when I here came in,
And found no courſe of breath within your Majeſty,
How cold it ſtruck my heart. If I do feign,
O let me, in my preſent wildeneſs, dye,
And never live, to ſhew th'incredulous World,
The Noble change that I have purpoſed.
Coming to look on you, thinking you dead,
(And dead almoſt (my Liege) to think you were)
I ſpake unto the Crown (as having ſenſe)
And thus upbraided it. The Care on thee depending,
Hath fed upon the body of my Father,
Therefore, thou beſt of Gold art worſt of Gold.
Other, leſs fine in Carract, is more precious,
Preſerving life, in Med'cine potable:
But thou, moſt Fine, moſt Honour'd, moſt Renown'd,
Haſt eat the Bearer up.
Thus (my Royal Liege)
Accuſing it, I put it on my Head,
To try with it (as with an Enemy,
That had before my face murd'red my Father)
The Quarrel of a true Inheritor:
But if it did infect my blood with joy,
Or ſwell my Thoughts to any ſtrain of Pride,
If any Rebel, or vain Spirit of mine,
Did, with the leaſt Affection of a Welcome,
Give entertainment to the might of it.
Let Heaven, for ever, keep it from my head,
And make me as the pooreſt Vaſſal is,
That doth with awe, and terrour kneel to it.

King. O my Son!
Heauen put it in thy mind to take it hence,
That thou might'ſt joyn the more, thy Fathers love,
Pleading ſo wiſely, in excuſe of it.
Come hither Harry, ſit thou by my bed,
And hear (I think) the very lateſt Counſel
That ever I ſhall breathe: Heaven knows, my Son,
By what by-pathes, and indirect crook'd-ways
I met this Crown: and I my ſelf know well
How troubleſom it ſate upon my head.
To thee, it ſhall deſcend with better Quiet,
Better Opinion, better Confirmation:
For all the ſoyl of the Atchievment goes
With me, into the Earth. It ſeem'd in me,
But as an Honour ſnatch'd with boy'ſtrous hand,
And I had many living, to upbraid
My gain of it, by their Aſſiſtances,
Which daily grew to a Quarrel, and to Blood-ſhed,
Wounding ſuppoſed Peace.
All theſe bold Fears,
Thou ſeeſt (with peril) I have anſwered:
For all my Reign hath been but as a Scene
Acting that Argument And now my death
Changes the Mode: For what in me was purchas'd,
Falls upon thee, in a more Fairer ſort.
So thou the Garland wear'ſt ſucceſſively,
Yet, though thou ſtand'ſt more ſure, than I could do,
Thou art not firm enough, ſince griefs are green:
And all thy Friends, which thou muſt make thy Friends,
Have but their ſtings, and teeth, newly taken out,
By whoſe fell working, I was firſt advanc'd,
And by whoſe Power, I well might lodge a Fear
To be again diſplac'd. Which to avoid,
I cut them off, and had a purpoſe now
To lead out many to the Holy Land;
Leſt reſt, and lying ſtill, might make them look
Too near unto my State.
Therefore (my Harry)
Be it thy courſe to buſie giddy Minds
With Forreign Quarrels: that Action, hence born out,
May waſte the memory of the former days.
More would I, but my Lungs are waſted ſo,
That ſtrength of Speech is utterly deny'd me.
How I came by the Crown, O Heaven forgive:
And grant it may, with thee, in true peace live.

Prin. My gracious Liege:
You won it; wore it, kept it, gave it me,
Then plain and right muſt my poſſeſſion be;
Which I, with more, than with a common pain,
'Gainſt all the World, will rightfully maintain.

Enter Lord John of Lancaſter and Warwick.

King. Look, look,
Here comes my John of Lancaſter:
John. Health, Peace, and Happineſs
To my Royal Father:
King. Thou bring'ſt me happineſs,
(Son John,)
But health (alack) with youthful wings is flown
From this bare, wither'd Trunk. Upon thy ſight
My worldly buſineſs makes a Period.
Where is my Lord of Warwick?
Prin. My Lord of Warwick.
King. Doth any Name particular belong
Unto the Lodging, where I firſt did ſwoon?
War. 'Tis call'd Jeruſalem, my Noble Lord.
King. Laud be to Heaven:
Even there my life muſt end.
It hath been propheſi'd to me many years,
I ſhould not dye but in Jeruſalem:
Which (vainly) I ſuppos'd the Holy-Land.
But bear me to that Chamber, there I'le lye:
In that Jeruſalem, ſhall Harry dye. [Exeunt.

Actus

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Shallow, Silence, Falſtaff, Bardolph, Page, and Davy.

Shal. By Cock and Pye, you ſhall not away to night. What, Davy, I ſay.

Fal. You muſt excuſe me, Maſter Robert Shallow.

Shal. I will not excuſe you: you ſhall not be excuſed. Excuſes ſhall not be admitted: there is no excuſe ſhall ſerve: you ſhall not be excus'd. Why Davy.

Davy. Here, Sir.

Shal. Davy, Davy, Davy, let me ſee, Davy, let me ſee: William Cook, bid him come hither. Sir John, you ſhall not be excus'd.

Davy. Marry, Sir, thus: thoſe Precepts cannot be ſerv'd: and again, Sir, ſhall we ſow the head-land with Wheat?

Shal. With red Wheat, Davy. But for William Cook: are there no young Pidgeons?

Davy. Yea, Sir.

Here is now the Smith's note for Shooing,
And Plough-Irons.

Shal. Let it be caſt, and paid: Sir John, you ſhall not be excus'd.

Davy. Sir, a new link to the Bucket muſt needs be had: And, Sir, do you mean to ſtop any of Williams Wages, about the Sack he loſt the other day at Hinckley Fair?

Shal. He ſhall anſwer it:

Some Pidgeons, Davy, a couple of ſhort-legg'd Hens: a joint of Mutton, and any pretty little tine Kickſhaws, tell William Cook.

Davy. Doth the man of War, ſtay all night, Sir?

Shal. Yes, Davy:

I will uſe him well. A Friend i'th' Court, is better than a Penny in Purſe. Uſe his men well, Davy, for they are arrant Knaves, and will back-bite.

Davy. No worſe than they are bitten, Sir: for they have marvellous foul Linnen.

Shal. Well conceited, Davy: about thy buſineſs, Davy.

Davy. I beſeech you, Sir,

To countenance William Viſor of Woncot, againſt Clement Perkes of the Hill.

Shal. There are many Complaints, Davy, againſt that Viſor, that Viſor is an arrant Knave, on my knowledge.

Davy. I grant your Worſhip, that he is a Knave, Sir: But yet Heaven forbid, Sir, but a Knave ſhould have ſome Countenance, at his Friends requeſt. An honeſt man, Sir, is able to ſpeak for himſelf, when a Knave is not. I have ſerv'd your Worſhip truly, Sir, theſe eight years: and if I cannot once or twice in a Quarter bear out a Knave againſt an Honeſt man, I have but a very little credit with your Worſhip. The Knave is mine honeſt Friend, Sir, therefore, I beſeech your Worſhip, let him be Countenanc'd.

Shal. Go too,

I ſay, he ſhall have no wrong: Look about, Davy.
Where are you, Sir John? Come, off with your Boots.
Give me your hand, Maſter Bardolph.

Bard. I am glad to ſee your Worſhip.

Shal. I thank thee, with all my heart, kind Maſter Bardolph, and welcome, my tall Fellow:
Come, Sir John.

Falſt. I'le follow you, good Maſter Robert Shallow. Bardolph, look to our Horſes. If I were ſaw'd into Quantities, I ſhould make four dozen of ſuch bearded Hermites ſtaves, as Maſter Shallow. It is a wonderful thing to ſee the ſemblable Coherence of his mens Spirits, and his: They, by obſerving of him, do bear themſelves like fooliſh Juſtices: He, by converſing with them, is turn'd into a Juſtice-like Servingman. Their Spirits, are ſo married in Conjunction, with the Participation of Society, that they flock together in conſent, like ſo many Wild-Geeſe. If I had a ſuit to Maſter Shallow, I would humour his men, with the imputation of being near their Maſter. If to his men, I would curry with Maſter Shallow, that no man could better Command his Servants. It is certain, that either wiſe bearing, or ignorant Carriage is caught, as men take diſeaſes, one of another: therefore, let men take heed of their Company. I will deviſe matter enough out of this Shallow, to keep Prince Harry in continual Laughter, the wearing out of ſix faſhions, which is four Terms, or two Actions, and he ſhall laugh with Intervallums. O it is much that a Lye (with a ſlight Oath) and a Jeſt (with a ſad Brow) will do with a Fellow, that never had the Ache in his ſhoulders. O you ſhall ſee him laugh, till his Face be like a wet Cloak, ill laid up.

Shall. Sir John.

Fal. I come, Maſter Shallow, I come, Maſter Shallow.

[Exeunt

Scena Secunda.

Enter Earl of Warwick, and the Lord Chief Juſtice.

War. How now, my Lord Chief Juſtice, whither away?

Ch. Juſt. How doth the King?

War. Exceeding well: his Cares
Are now all ended.

Ch. Juſt. I hope, not dead.

War. He's walk'd the way of Nature,
And to our purpoſes, he lives no more.

Ch. Juſt. I would his Majeſty had call'd me with him,
The Service, that I truly did his life,
Hath left me open to all Injuries.

War. Indeed I think the young King loves you not.

Ch. Juſt. I know he doth not, and do arm my ſelf
To welcome the condition of the Time,
Which cannot look more hideouſly upon me,
Than I have drawn it in my fantaſie.

Enter John of Lancaſter, Glouceſter, and Clarence.

War. Here comes the heavy iſſue of dead Harry:
O, that the living Harry had the temper
Of him, the worſt of theſe three Gentlemen:
How many Nobles then ſhould hold their places,
That muſt ſtrike ſail to Spirits of vile ſort?

Ch. Juſt. Alas, I fear, all will be over-turn'd.

John. Good morrow, Couſin Warwick, good morrow.

Glou. Clar. Good morrow, Couſin.

John. We meet, like men, that had forgot to ſpeak.

War. We do remember: But our Argument
Is all too heavy, to admit much talk.

Joh. Well: Peace be with him, that hath made us hea-
Ch. Juſt. Peace be with us, leſt we be heavier. [vy.

Glou. O, Good my Lord, you have loſt a Friend indeed:
And I dare ſwear, you borrow not that Face
Of ſeeming ſorrow, it is ſure your own.

Joh. Though no man be aſſur'd what Grace to find,
You ſtand in coldeſt expectation.
I am the ſorrier, would 'twere otherwiſe.

Cla. Well, you muſt now ſpeak Sir John Falſtaff fair,
Which ſwims againſt your ſtream of Quality.

Ch. Juſt. Sweet Princes: what I did, I did in honor,
Led by th'Imperial Conduct of my Soul,
And never ſhall you ſee, that I will beg
A ragged and foreſtall'd Remiſſion.
If Troth, and upright Innocency fail me,
I'le to the King (my Maſter) that is dead,
And tell him, who hath ſent me after him.

War. Here comes the Prince.

Enter Prince Harry.

Ch. Juſt. Good morrow: and Heaven ſave your Majeſty.

Prin.

Prin. This new, and gorgeous Garment, Majeſty,
Sits not ſo eaſie on me, as you think.
Brothers, you mix your Sadneſs with ſome Fear:
This is the Engliſh, not the Turkiſh Court:
Not Amurah an Amurah ſucceeds,
But Harry, Harry: Yet be ſad (good Brothers)
For (to ſpeak truth) it very well becomes you:
Sorrow, ſo Royally in you apears,
That I will deeply put the faſhion on,
And wear it in my Heart. Why then be ſad,
But entertain no more of it (good Brothers)
Than a joint-burthen laid upon us all.
For me, by Heaven (I bid you be aſſur'd)
I'le be your Father, and your Brother too:
Let me but bear your Love, I'le bear your Cares;
But weep that Harry's dead, and ſo will I,
But Harry lives, that ſhall convert thoſe Tears
By number, unto hours of Happineſs.

John.&c. We hope no other from your Majeſty.

Prin. You all look ſtrangely on me: and you moſt.
You are (I think) aſſur'd, I love you not.

Ch. Juſt. I am aſſur'd (if I be meaſur'd rightly)
Your Majeſty hath no juſt cauſe to hate me.

Prin. No? How might a Prince of my great hopes forget
So great Indignities you laid upon me?
What? Rate? Rebuke? and roughly ſend to Priſon
Th'immediate Heir of England? Was this eaſie?
May this be waſh'd in Lethe, and forgotten?

Ch. Juſt. I then did uſe the Perſon of your Father;
The Image of his Power lay then in me,
And in th'adminiſtration of his Law,
Whiles I was buſie for the Common-wealth,
Your Highneſs pleaſed to forget my place,
The Majeſty, and Power of Law, and Juſtice,
The Image of the King, whom I preſented,
And ſtruck me in my very Seat of Judgment:
Whereon (as an Offender to your Father)
I gave bold way to my Authority,
And did commit you. If the deed were ill;
Be you contented, wearing now the Garland,
To have a Son, ſet your decrees at naught?
To pluck down Juſtice from your awful Bench?
To trip the courſe of Law, and blunt the Sword
That guards the peace, and ſafety of your Perſon?
Nay more, to ſpurn at your moſt Royal Image,
And mock your workings, in a Second body?
Queſtion your Royal Thoughts, make the caſe yours:
Be now the Father, and propoſe a Son:
Hear your own dignity ſo much prophan'd,
See your moſt dreadful Laws, ſo looſely ſlighted;
Behold your ſelf, ſo by a Son diſdained:
And then imagine me, taking your part,
And in your Power, ſoft ſilencing your Son:
After this cold conſiderance, ſentence me;
And, as you are a King, ſpeak in your State,
What I have done, that misbecame my place,
My perſon, or my Lieges Soveraignty.

Prin. You are right Juſtice, and you weigh this well:
Therefore ſtill bear the Ballance, and the Sword:
And I do wiſh your Honours may increaſe,
Till you do live, to ſee a Son of Mine
Offend you, and obey you, as I did.
So ſhall I live to ſpeak my Fathers words:
Happy am I, that have a man ſo bold,
That dares do Juſtice, on my proper Son;
And no leſs happy, having ſuch a Son,
That would deliver up his greatneſs ſo,
Into the hands of Juſtice. You did commit me:
For which I do commit into your Hand,
Th'unſtained Sword that you have us'd to bear:
With this Remembrance; That you uſe the ſame
With the like bold, juſt, and impartial Spirit
As you have done 'gainſt me. There is my Hand,
You ſhall be as a Father to my Youth
My Voice ſhall ſound, as you do prompt mine Ear,
And I will ſtoop, and humble my intents,
To your well practis'd, wiſe Directions.
And Princes all, believe me, I beſeech you:
My Father is gone wild into his Grave,
(For in his Tomb, lye my Affections)
And with his Spirit, ſadly I ſurvive,
To mock the expectation of the World:
To fruſtrate Propheſies, and to race out
Rotten Opinion, who hath writ me down
After my ſeeming. The Tide of Blood in me,
Hath proudly flow'd in Vanity, till now.
Now doth it turn, and ebb back to the Sea.
Wherein it ſhall mingle with the ſtate of floods,
And flow henceforth in formal Majeſty.
Now call we our High Court of Parliament,
And let us chooſe ſuch Limbs of Noble Counſel,
That the great Body of our State may go
In equal rank with the beſt govern'd Nation,
That War, or Peace, or both at once may be
As things acquainted and familiar to us,
In which you (Father) ſhall have formoſt hand,
Our Coronation done, we will accite
(As I before remembred) all our State,
And (Heaven conſigning to my good intents)
No Prince, nor Peer, ſhall have juſt cauſe to ſay,
Heaven ſhorten Harry's happy life, one day. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Falſtaff, Shallow, Silence, Bardolph, Page, Davy, and Piſtol.

Shal. Nay; you ſhall ſee mine Orchard, where in an Arbour we will eat a laſt years Pippin of my own graffing, with a diſh of Carrawayes, and ſo forth: Come, couſin Silence, and then to bed.

Fal. You have here a goodly dwelling, and a rich.

Shal. Barren, barren, barren: Beggers all, beggers all, Sir John: Marry, good air. Spread Davy, ſpread Davy: Well ſaid Davy.

Fal. This Davy ſerves you for good uſes: he is your Servingman, and your Husbandman.

Shal. A good Varlet, a good Varlet, a very good Varlet, Sir John: I have drunk too much Sack at Supper. A good Varlet. Now ſit down, now ſit down: Come Couſin.

Sil. Ah Sirrah, (quoth-a) we ſhall do nothing but eat, and make good cheer, and praiſe Heaven for the merry year: when Fleſh is cheap, and Females dear, and luſty Lads more here and there: ſo merrily, and ever among ſo merrily.

Fal. There's a merry heart, good Maſter Silence. I'le drink your health for that anon.

Shal. Good Maſter Bardolph: Some wine, Davy.

Dav. Sweet Sir, ſit: I'le be with you anon: moſt ſweet Sir, ſit. Maſter Page, ſit: good Maſter Page, ſit: Proface. What you want in meat, we'll have in drink: but you bear, the heart's all.

Shal. Be merry, Maſter Bardolph, and my little Souldier there, be merry.

Sil. Be merry, be merry, my wife has all.
For women are ſhrews, both ſhort and tall:
'Tis merry in Hall, when Beards wag all:
And welcome merry Shrovetide. Be merry, be merry.

Fal. I did not think Maſter Silence had been a man of this Mettle.

Sil. Who I? I have been merry twice and once, e're now.

Dav. There is a diſh of Leather-coats for you.

Shal. Davy.

Dav. Your Worſhip: I'le be with you ſtreight. A cup of Wine, Sir.

Sil. A Cup of Wine, that's brisk and fine, and drink unto the Leman mine: and a merry heart lives long-a.

Fal.

Fal. Well ſaid, Maſter Silence.
Sil. If we ſhall be merry, now comes in the ſweet of the night.
Fal. Health, and long life to you, Maſter Silence.
Sil. Fill the Cup, and let it come. I'le pledge you, were't a mile to the bottom.
Shal. Honeſt Bardolf, welcome: If thou want'ſt any thing, and will not call, beſhrew thy heart. Welcome my little tyne thief, and welcome indeed too: I'le drink to Maſter Bardolf, and to all Cavileroes about London.
Dav. I hope to ſee London, once e're I dye.
Bar. If I might ſee you there, Davy.
Shal. You'll crack a quart together? Ha, will you not, Maſter Bardolf?
Bar. Yes Sir, in a pottle pot.
Shal. I thank thee: the Knave will ſtick by thee, I can aſſure thee that. He will not out, he is true bred.
Bard. And I'le ſtick by him, Sir.
Shal. Why there ſpoke a King: lack nothing, be merry. Look, who's at door there, ho: who knocks?
Fal. Why now you have don me right.
Sil. Do me right, and dub me Knight, Samingo. Is't not ſo?
Fal. 'Tis ſo.
Sil. Is't? Why then ſay an old man can do ſomewhat.
Dav. If it pleaſe your Worſhip, there's one Piſtol come from the Court with News.
Fal. From the Court? Let him come in.

Enter Piſtol.

How now, Piſtol?
Piſt. Sir John, ſave you, Sir.
Fal. What wind blew you hither, Piſtol?
Piſt. Not the ill wind which blows none to good, ſweet Knight: Thou art now one of the greateſt men in the Realm.
Silen. Indeed, I think he be, but Goodman Puff of Barſon.
Piſt. Puff? puff in thy teeth, moſt recreant Coward baſe. Sir John, I am thy Piſtol, and thy Friend: helter skelter have I rode to thee, and tydings do I bring, and lucky joyes, and golden Times, and happy News of price.
Fal. I prethee now deliver them, like a man of this VVorld.
Piſt. A footra for the VVorld, and VVorldlings baſe, I ſpeak of Africa, and Golden Joys.
Fal. O baſe Aſſyrian Knight, what is thy News?
Let King Covitha know the truth thereof.
Sil. And Robin-hood, Scarlet, and John.
Piſt. Shall dunghil Curs confront the Helicon?
And ſhall good News be baffl'd?
Then Piſtol lay thy head in Furies lap.
Shal. Honeſt Gentleman,
I know not your breeding.
Piſt. VVhy then lament therefore.
Shal. Give me pardon, Sir.
If, Sir, you come with News from the Court, I take it, there is but two ways, either to utter them, or to conceal them. I am Sir, under the King, in ſome Authority.
Piſt. Under which King?
Bezonian, ſpeak, or dye.
Shal. Under King Harry.
Piſt. Harry the Fourth? or Fifth?
Shal. Harry the Fourth.
Piſt. A footra for thine Office.
Sir John, thy tender Lamb-kin now is King,
Harry the Fifth's the man, I ſpeak the truth.
VVhen Piſtol lyes, do this, and fig-me, like
The bragging Spaniard.
Falſt. VVhat, is the old King dead?
Piſt. As nail in door.
The things I ſpeak are juſt,
Fal. Away Bardolf, Saddle my Horſe,
Maſter Robert Shallow, chooſe what Office thou wilt
In the Land, 'tis thine. Piſtol, I will double charge thee
VVith Dignities.
Bard. O joyful day!
I would not take a Knighthood for my Fortune.
Piſt. VVhat? I do bring good News.
Falſt. Carry Maſter Silence to Bed: Maſter Shallow, my Lord Shallow, be what thou wilt, I am Fortunes Steward. Get on thy Boots, we'll ride all night. Oh ſweet Piſtol: Away Bardolf: Come Piſtol, utter more to me: and withal deviſe ſomething to do thy ſelf good. Boot, Boot, Maſter Shallow, I know the young King is ſick for me. Let us take any mans Horſes: The Laws of England are at my commandment. Happy are they, which have been my Friends: and wo unto my Lord Chief Juſtice.
Piſt. Let Vultures vile ſeize on his Lungs alſo:
Where is the Life that late I led, ſay they?
VVhy here it is, welcome thoſe pleaſant days. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Hoſteſs Quickly, Doll Tear-ſheet, and Beadles.

Hoſteſs. No, thou arrant knave: I would I might die, that I might have thee hang'd: Thou haſt drawn my ſhoulder out of joynt.
Off. The Conſtables have deliver'd her over to me: and ſhe ſhall have Whipping cheer enough, I warrant her. There hath been a man or two (lately) kill'd about her.
Dol. Nut-hook, nut-hook, you lye: Come on, I'le tell thee what, thou damn'd Tripe-viſag'd Raſcal, if the Child, I now go with, do miſcarry, thou had'ſt better thou had'ſt ſtrook thy Mother, thou Paper-fac'd Villain.
Hoſt. O that Sir John were come, he would make this a bloody day to ſome body. But I would the Fruit of her Womb might miſcarry.
Officer. If it do, you ſhall have a dozen of Cuſhions again, you have but eleven now. Come, I charge you both go with me: for the man is dead, that you and Piſtol beat among you.
Dol. I'le tell thee what, thou thin man in a Cenſor; I will have you as ſoundly ſwing'd for this, you blew-Bottl'd Rogue: you filthy famiſh'd Correctioner, if you be not ſwing'd, I'le forſwear half Kirtles.
Off. Come, come, you ſhe-Knight-arrant, come.
Hoſt. O, that right ſhould thus o'recome might. Well, of ſufferance comes eaſe.
Dol. Come you Rogue, come:
Bring me to a Juſtice.
Hoſt. Yes, come, you ſtarv'd Blood-hound.
Dol. Goodman Death, goodman Bones.
Hoſt. Thou Anatomy, thou.
Dol. Come, you thin Thing:
Come, you Raſcal.
Offi. Very well. [Exeunt.

Scena Quinta.

Enter two Grooms.

1. Groom. More Ruſhes, more Ruſhes.
2. Groom. The Trumpets have ſounded twice.
1. Groo. It will be two of the Clock e're they come from the Coronation. [Exeunt Grooms.

Enter Falſtaff, Shallow, Piſtol, Bardolf, and Page.

Falſtaff. Stand here by me, M. Robert Shallow, I will make the King do you Grace. I will leer upon him, as he comes by: and do but mark the countenance, that he will give me.

Piſtol. Bleſs thy Lungs, good Knight.

Falſt. Come here Piſtol, ſtand behind me. O, if I had had time to have made new Liveries, I would have beſtowed the thouſand pound I borrowed of you. But it is no matter, this poor ſhew doth better: this doth infer the zeal I had to ſee him.

Shal. It doth ſo.

Falſt. It ſhews my earneſtneſs in affection.

Piſt. It doth ſo.

Falſt. My devotion.

Piſt. It doth, it doth, it doth.

Falſt. As it were to ride day and night,
And not to deliberate, not to remember,
Not to have patience to ſhift me.

Shal. It is moſt certain.

Falſt. But to ſtand ſtained with Travel and ſweating with deſire to ſee him, thinking of nothing elſe, putting all Affairs in oblivion, as if there were nothing elſe to be done, but to ſee him.

Piſt. 'Tis ſemper idem; for abſque hoc nihil eſt. 'Tis all in every part.

Shal. 'Tis ſo indeed.

Piſt. My Knight, I will enflame thy Noble Liver, and make thee rage. Thy Dol, and Helen of thy Noble thoughts is in baſe Durance, and contagious priſon: Hal'd thither by moſt Mechanical and durty hands. Rowze up Revenge from Ebon den, with fell Alecto's Snake, for Dol's in. Piſtol ſpeaks nought but troth.

Falſt. I will deliver her.

Piſt. There roar'd the Sea: and Trumpet Clangour ſounds.

The Trumpets ſound. Enter King Henry the Fifth, Brothers, Lord Chief-Juſtice.

Falſt. Save thy Grace, King Hall, my Royal Hall.

Piſt. The Heavens thee guard and keep, moſt Royal Imp of Fame.

Falſt. 'Save thee, my ſweet Boy.

King. My Lord Chief Juſtice, ſpeak to that vain man.

Ch. Juſt. Have you your wits?
Know you what 'tis you ſpeak?

Falſt. My King, my Jove; I ſpeak to thee, my heart.

King. I know thee not, old man: Fall to thy Prayers:
How ill white Hairs become a Fool, and Jeſter?
I have long dream'd of ſuch a kind of man,
So ſurfeit-ſwell'd, ſo old, and ſo prophane:
But being awake, I do deſpiſe my dream.
Make leſs thy Body, (hence) and more thy Grace,
Leave gormandizing. Know the Grave doth gape
For thee, thrice wider than for other men.
Reply not to me, with a Fool-born Jeſt,
Preſume not, that I am the thing I was,
For Heaven doth know (ſo ſhall the world perceive)
That I have turn'd away my former Self,
So will I thoſe that kept me Company.
When thou do'ſt hear I am, as I have bin,
Approach me, and thou ſhalt be as thou was't,
The Tutor and the Feeder of my Riots:
Till then, I baniſh thee, on pain of death,
As I have done the reſt of my Miſleaders,
Not to come near our Perſon, by ten mile.
For competence of life, I will allow you,
That lack of means enforce you not to evil:
And as we hear you do redeem your ſelves,
We will according to your ſtrength, and Qualities,
Give you advancement. Be it your charge (my Lord)
To ſee perform'd the tenure of our word. Set on.
[Exit King.

Falſt. Maſter Shallow, I owe you a thouſand pound.

Shal. I marry, Sir John, which I beſeech you to let me have home with me.

Falſt. That can hardly be, M. Shallow, do not you grieve at this: I ſhall be ſent for in private to him: Look you, he muſt ſeem thus to the world: fear not your Advancement: I will be the man yet, that ſhall make you Great.

Shal. I cannot well perceive how, unleſs you ſhould give me your Doublet, and ſtuff me out with ſtraw. I beſeech you, good Sir John, let me have five hundred of my thouſand.

Falſt. Sir, I will be as good as my word. This, that you heard, was but a colour.

Shal. A colour I fear, that you will dye in, Sir John.

Fal. Fear no Colours, go with me to dinner:
Come Lieutenant Piſtol, come Bardolf,
I ſhall be ſent for ſoon at night.

Ch. Juſt. Go carry Sir John Falſtaff to the Fleet,
Take all his company along with him.

Falſt. My Lord, My Lord.

Ch. Juſt. I cannot now ſpeak, I will hear you ſoon:
Take them away.

Piſt. Si fortuna me tormento, ſpera me contento.
[Exit. Manet Lancaſter, and Chief Juſtice.

John. I like this fair proceeding of the Kings,
He hath intent his wonted Followers
Shall be very well provided for:
But are baniſht, till their Converſations
Appear more wiſe, and modeſt in the world.

Ch. Juſt. And ſo they are.

John. The King hath call'd his Parliame,
My Lord.

Ch. Juſt. He hath.

John. I will lay odds, that e're this year expire,
We bear our Civil Swords, and Native fire
As far as France. I heard a bird ſo ſing,
Whoſe Muſick (to my thinking) pleas'd the King.
Come, will you hence? [Exeunt.

EPILOGUE.

EPILOGUE.

FIrſt, my Fear; then, my Curteſie; laſt, my Speech. My Fear, is your Diſpleaſure; my Curteſie, my Duty; and my Speech, to beg your Pardons. If you look for a good Speech now, you undo me: for what I have to ſay, is of mine own making, and what (indeed) I ſhould ſay, will (I doubt) prove mine own marring. But to the Purpoſe, and ſo to the Venture. Be it known to you, (as it is very well) I was lately here in the end of a diſpleaſing Play, to pray your Patience for it, and to promiſe you a better, I did mean (indeed) to pay you with this, which if (like an ill Venture) it come unluckily home, I break; and you, my gentle Creditors loſe: Here I promiſt you I would be, and here I commit my Body to your Mercies: Bate me ſome, and I will pay you ſome, and (as moſt Debtors do) promiſe you infinitely.

If my Tongue cannot entreat you to acquit me, will you command me to uſe my Legs? And yet that were but light payment, to dance out of your debt: But a good Conſcience will make any poſſible ſatisfaction, and ſo will I. All the Gentlewomen here have forgotten me; if the Gentlewomen will not, then the Gentlemen do not agree with the Gentlewomen, which was never ſeen before in ſuch an aſſembly.

One word more, I beſeech you: if you be not too much cloid with Fat meat, our humble Authour will continue the ſtory (with Sir John in it) and make you merry with fair Katherine of France: where (for any thing I know) Falſtaff ſhall die of a Sweat, unleſs already he be kill'd with your hard Opinions: for Oldcaſtle died a Martyr, and this is not the man. My Tongue is weary, when my Legs are too, I will bid you good night; and ſo kneel down before you: (But indeed) to pray for the Queen.

THE LIFE OF KING HENRY V.

Enter Prologue.

O, For a Muſe of Fire, that would aſcend
The brighteſt Heaven of Invention,
A Kingdom for a Stage, Princes to act,
And Monarchs to behold the ſwelling Scene.
Then ſhould the Warlike Harry, like himſelf,
Aſſume the Port of Mars, and at his heels
(Leaſht in, like hounds) ſhould Famine, Sword, and Fire
Crouch for Employment. But pardon, Gentles all,
The flat unraiſed Spirit, that hath dar'd,
On this unworthy Scaffold, to bring forth
So great an Object. Can this Cock-Pit hold
The vaſty Field of France? Or may we cramm
Within this Wooden O the very Caſket
That did affright the Air at Agincourt?
O pardon: ſince a crooked Figure may
Atteſt in little place a Million,
And let us, Cyphers to this great Accompt,
On your imaginary Forces work.
Suppoſe within the Girdle of theſe Walls
Are now confi n'd two mighty Monarchs,
Whoſe high, up-rear'd, and abutting Fronts,
The perillous narrow Ocean parts aſunder.
Piece out our imperfections with your thoughts:
Into a thouſand parts divide one Man,
And make imaginary Puiſſance.
Think, when we talk of Horſes, that you ſee them
Printing their proud Hoofs i'th' receiving Earth:
For 'tis your thoughts that now muſt deck our Kings,
Carry them here and there: jumping o're Times;
Turning th' accompliſhment of many years
Into an Hour-glaſs: for the which ſupply,
Admit me Chorus to this Hiſtory;
Who Prologue-like, your humble patience pray,
Gently to heare, kindly to judge our Play. [Exit.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter the Biſhops of Canterbury, and Ely.

Biſh. Cant.
MY Lord, I'le tell you, that ſelf Bill is urg'd,
Which in th' eleventh year of the laſt Kings Reign
Was like, and had indeed againſt us paſt,
But that the ſcambling and unquiet time
Did puſh it out of farther Queſtion.
Biſh. Ely. But how, my Lord, ſhall we reſiſt it now?
Biſh. Cant. It muſt be thought on: if it paſs againſt vs,
We loſe the better part of our Poſſeſſion:
For all the Temporal Lands, which men devout
By Teſtament have given to the Church,
Would they ſtrip from us; being valu'd thus,
As much as would maintain, to the King's Honour,
Full fifteen Earls, and fifteen hundred Knights,
Six thouſand and two hundred good Eſquires:
And to relief of Lazars, and weak age
Of indigent faint Souls, paſt corporal toyl,
A hundred Alms-houſes, right well ſuppli'd:
And to the Coffers of the King, beſide,
A thouſand pound by th' year. Thus runs the Bill.
Biſh. Ely. This would drink deep.
Biſh. Cant. 'Twould drink the Cup and all.
Biſh. Ely. But what prevention?
Biſh. Cant. The King is full of grace, and fair regard.
Biſh. Ely. And a true lover of the Holy Church.
Biſh. Cant. The courſes of his youth promis'd it not,
The breath no ſooner left his Fathers Body,
But that his wildneſs mortifi'd in him,
Seem'd to die too: yea at that very moment,
Conſideration, like an Angel, came,
And whipt th' offending Adam out of him,
Leaving his Body as a Paradiſe,
T' invelope and contain Celeſtial Spirits.
Never was ſuch a ſudden Scholar made:
Never came Reformation in a Flood
With ſuch a heady current, ſcowring Faults:
Nor never Hydra-headed Wilfulneſs
So ſoon did loſe his Seat, and all at once,
As in this King.
Biſh. Ely. We are bleſſed in the Change.
Biſh. Cant. Hear him but reaſon in Divinity,
And all-admiring, with an inward wiſh
You would deſire the King were made a Prelate.
Hear him debate of Common-wealth Affairs;
You would ſay, it hath been all in all his ſtudy:
Liſt his diſcourſe of War, and you ſhall hear
A fearful Battel rendred you in Muſick.

Turn him to any Cauſe of Policy,
The Gordian Knot of it he will unlooſe,
Familiar as his Garter: that when he ſpeaks,
The Air, a Charter'd Libertine, is ſtill,
And the mute Wonder lurketh in mens ears,
To ſteal his ſweet and honied Sentences:
So that the Art and Practick part of Life
Muſt be the Miſtreſs to his Theorique.
Which is a wonder how his Grace ſhould glean it,
Since his addiction was to courſes vain,
His companies unletter'd, rude, and ſhallow,
His Hours fill'd up with Riots, Banquets, Sports;
And never noted in him any ſtudy,
Any retirement, any ſequeſtration
From open Haunts and Popularity.

B. Ely. The Strawberry grows underneath the Nettle,
And wholſom Berries thrive and ripen beſt,
Neighbour'd by fruit of baſer quality:
And ſo the Prince obſcur'd his Contemplation
Under the vail of wildneſs, which (no doubt)
Grew like the Summer Graſs, faſteſt by Night,
Unſeen, yet creſcive in his faculty.

B. Can. It muſt be ſo; for Miracles are ceas'd:
And therefore we muſt needs admit the Means,
How things are perfected.

B. Ely. But, my good Lord:
How now for mitigation of this Bill,
Urg'd by the Commons? doth his Majeſty
Incline to it, or no?

B. Can. He ſeems indifferent:
Or rather ſwaying more upon our part,
Than cheriſhing th'exhibiters againſt us:
For I have made an offer to his Majeſty,
Upon our Spiritual Convocation,
And in regard of Cauſes now in hand,
Which I have open'd to his Grace at large,
As touching France, to give a greater Sum,
Than ever at one time the Clergy yet
Did to his Predeceſſors part withal.

B. Ely. How did this Offer ſeem receiv'd, my Lord?

B. Cant. With good acceptance of his Majeſty:
Save that there was not time enough to hear,
As I perceiv'd his Grace would fain have done,
The ſeverals and unhidden paſſages
Of his true Titles to ſome certain Dukedomes,
And generally, to the Crown and ſeat of France,
Deriv'd from Edward, his great Grandfather.

B. Ely. What was th'impediment, that broke this off?

B. Cant. The French Ambaſſador upon that inſtant
Crav'd audience: and the hour I think is come,
To give him hearing: Is it four a Clock?

B. Ely. It is.

B. Cant. Then go we in to know his Embaſſie:
Which I could with a ready gueſs declare,
Before the Frenchman ſpeaks a word of it.

B. Ely. I'le wait upon you, and I long to hear it.

[Exeunt.

Enter the King, Humfrey, Bedford, Clarence, Warwick, Weſtmerland, and Exeter.

King. Where is my gracious Lord of Canterbury?

Exeter. Not here in preſence.

King. Send for him, good Uncle.

Weſtm. Shall we call in the Ambaſſadour, my Liege?

King. Not yet, my Couſin: we would be reſolv'd,
Before we hear him, of ſome things of weight,
That task our thoughts, concerning us and France.

Enter two Biſhops.

B. Cant. God and his Angels guard your ſacred Throne,
And make you long become it.

King. Sure we thank you,
My learned Lord, we pray you to proceed,
And juſtly and religiouſly unfold,
Why the Law Salike, that they have in France,
Or ſhould, or ſhould not bar us in our Claim:
And God forbid, my dear and faithful Lord,
That you ſhould faſhion, wreſt, or bow your reading,
Or nicely charge your underſtanding Soul
With opening Titles miſcreate, whoſe right
Suites not in native colours with the truth:
For God doth know, how many now in health
Shall drop their blood, in approbation
Of what your Reverence ſhall incite us to.
Therefore take heed how you impawn our Perſon,
How you awake our ſleeping Sword of War:
We charge you in the name of God take heed:
For never two ſuch Kingdoms did contend
Without much fall of Blood, whoſe guiltleſs drops
Are every one, a Woe, a ſore Complaint,
'Gainſt him, whoſe Wrong gives edge unto the Swords?
That makes ſuch waſte in brief Mortality.
Under this Conjuration, ſpeak my Lord:
For we will hear, note, and believe in heart,
That what you ſpeak is in your Conſcience waſht,
As pure as ſin with Baptiſm.

B. Cant. Then hear me, gracious Soveraign, and you Peers,
That owe your ſelves, your lives, and ſervices,
To this Imperial Throne. There is no bar
To make againſt your Highneſs claim to France,
But this which they produce from Pharamond,
In terram Salicam Mulieres ne ſuccedant,
No Woman ſhall ſucceed in Salike Land:
Which Salike Land, the French unjuſtly gloze
To be the Realm of France, and Pharamond
The Founder of this Law and female Bar.
Yet their own Authours faithfully affirm,
That the Land Salike is in Germany,
Between the Floods of Sala and of Elve:
Where Charles the Great having ſubdu'd the Saxons,
There left behind and ſettled certain French:
Who holding in diſdain the German Women,
For ſome diſhoneſt manners of their life,
Eſtabliſht then this Law; to wit, No Female
Should be Inheritrix in Salike Land:
Which Salike (as I ſaid) 'twixt Elve and Sala,
Is at this day in Germany call'd Meiſen.
Then doth it well appear: the Salike Law
Was not deviſed for the Realm of France:
Nor did the French poſſeſs the Salike Land,
Until four hundred one and twenty years
After defunction of King Pharamond,
Idely ſuppos'd the Founder of this Law,
Who died within the year of our Redemption,
Four hundred twenty ſix: and Charles the Great
Subdu'd the Saxons, and did ſeat the French
Beyond the River Sala, in the year
Eight hundred five. Beſides, their Writers ſay,
King Pepin, which depoſed Childerike,
Did, as Heir general, being deſcended
Of Blithild, which was Daughter to King Clothair,
Make Claim and Title to the Crown of France:
Hugh Capet alſo, who uſurp't the Crown
Of Charles the Duke of Lorain, ſole Heir male
Of the true Line and ſtock of Charles the great:
To find his Title with ſome ſhews of truth,
Though in pure truth it was corrupt and naught,
Convey'd himſelf as th'Heir to th'Lady Lingare,
Daughter to Charlemain, who was the Son
To Lewes the Emperour, and Lewes the Son
Of Charles the Great: alſo King Lewes the Tenth,
Who was ſole Heir to the Uſurper Capet,
Could not keep quiet in his Conſcience,
Wearing the Crown of France, 'till ſatisfied,
That fair Queen Iſabel, his Grandmother,
Was Lineal of the Lady Ermengare,
Daughter to Charles the foreſaid Duke of Lorain:
By the which Marriage, the Line of Charles the Great

Was re-united to the Crown of France.
So, that as clear as is the Summers Sun,
King Pepin's Title, and Hugh Capet's Claim,
King Lewes his ſatisfaction, all appear
To hold in Right and Title of the Female:
So do the Kings of France upon this day.
Howbeit, they would hold up this Salique Law,
To bar your Highneſs claiming from the Female,
And rather chuſe to hide them in a Net,
Than amply to imbar their crooked Titles,
Uſurpt from you and your Progenitors.
King. May I with Right and Conſcience make this Claim?
Biſh. Cant. The ſin upon my head, dread Soveraign:
For in the Book of Numbers, it is writ,
When the man dies, let the Inheritance
Deſcend unto the Daughter. Gracious Lord,
Stand for your own, unwind your bloody Flag:
Look back into your mighty Anceſtors:
Go, my dread Lord, to your great Grandſires Tomb,
From whom you claim; invoke his Warlike Spirit,
And your great Uncle, Edward the Black Prince,
Who on the French ground play'd a Tragedy,
Making defeat on the full Power of France:
Whiles his moſt Mighty Father on a Hill
Stood ſmiling, to behold his Lyons Whelp
Forrage in blood of French Nobility.
O Noble Engliſh, that could entertain,
With half their Forces, the full pride of France,
And let another half ſtand laughing by,
And out of work, and cold for action.
Biſh. Ely. Awake remembrance of theſe valiant dead,
And with your puiſſant Arm renew their Feats;
You are their Heir, you ſit upon their Throne:
The Blood and Courage that renowned them,
Runs in your Veins: and my thrice-puiſſant Liege
Is in the very May-Morn of his Youth,
Ripe for Exploits and mighty Enterpriſes.
Exe. Your Brother Kings and Monarchs of the Earth
Do all expect, that you ſhould rouze your ſelf,
As did the former Lions of your Blood.
Weſt. They know your Grace hath cauſe, and means, and might;
So hath your Highneſs, never King of England
Had Nobles richer, and more loyal Subjects,
Whoſe Hearts have left their Bodies here in England,
And lie pavillion'd in the Field of France.
Biſh. Cant. O let their Bodies follow, my dear Liege,
With Blood, and Sword, and Fire, to win your Right:
In aid whereof, we of the Spirituality
Will raiſe your Highneſs ſuch a mighty Sum,
As never did the Clergy at one time
Bring in to any of your Anceſtors.
King. We muſt not onely arm t'invade the French,
But lay down our Proportions, to defend
Againſt the Scot, who will make road upon us,
With all advantages.
Biſh. Can. They of thoſe Marches, gracious Soveraign,
Shall be a Wall ſufficient to defend
Our in-land from the pilfering Borderers.
King. We do not mean the courſing ſnatchers onely,
But fear the main intendment of the Scot,
Who hath been ſtill a giddy Neighbour to us:
For you ſhall read, that my great Grandfather
Never went with his Forces into France,
But that the Scot, on his unfurniſht Kingdom,
Came pouring like a Tide into a Breach,
With ample and brim fulneſs of his force,
Galling the gleaned Land with hot aſſays,
Girding with grievous ſiege, Caſtles and Towns:
That England being empty of defence,
Hath ſhook and trembled at th'ill neighbourhood.
B. Can. She hath bin then more fear'd than harm'd, my Liege,
For hear her but exampl'd by her ſelf,
When all her Chivalry hath been in France,
And ſhe a mourning Widow of her Nobles,
She hath her ſelf not onely well defended,
But taken and impounded as a Stray,
The King of Scots: whom ſhe did ſend to France,
To fill King Edward's fame with Priſoner Kings,
And make their Chronicle as rich with praiſe,
As is the Owſe and bottom of the Sea
With ſunken Wrack, and ſum-leſs Treaſuries.
Biſh. Ely. But there's a ſaying very old and true,
If that you will France win, then with Scotland firſt begin.
For once the Eagle (England) being in prey,
To her ungarded Neſt, the Weazel (Scot)
Comes ſneaking, and ſo ſucks her Princely Eggs,
Playing the Mouſe in abſence of the Cat,
To tame and havock more than ſhe can eat.
Exet. It follows then, the Cat muſt ſtay at home,
Yet that is but a cruſh'd neceſſity;
Since we have Locks to ſafeguard Neceſſaries,
And pretty Traps to catch the petty Thieves.
While that the Armed hand doth fight abroad,
Th'adviſed head defends it ſelf at home:
For Government, though high, and low, and lower,
Put into parts, doth keep in one conſent,
Congreeing in a full and natural cloſe,
Like Muſick.
Cant. Therefore doth Heaven divide
The ſtate of man in divers functions,
Setting endeavour in continual Motion:
To which is fixed, as an Aim or Butt,
Obedience: for ſo work the Hony Bees,
Creatures that by a rule in Nature teach
The Act of Order to a peopled Kingdom.
They have a King, and Officers of ſorts,
Where ſome like Magiſtrates correct at home:
Others, like Merchants venture Trade abroad:
Others, like Souldiers armed in their ſtings,
Make boot upon the Summers Velvet buds:
Which pillage, they with merry march bring home
To the Tent-Royal of their Emperor:
Who buſied in his Majeſties ſurveys,
The ſinging Maſon building roofs of Gold,
The civil Citizens kneading up the Hony;
The poor Mechanick Porters, crowding in
Their heavy Burthens at his narrow gate;
The ſad-ey'd Juſtice with his ſurly hum,
Delivering o're to Executors pale
The lazy yawning Drone: I this infer,
That many things having full reference
To one conſent, may work contrariouſly,
As many Arrows looſed ſeveral ways
Come to one mark: as many ways meet in one town,
As many freſh ſtreams meet in one ſalt Sea;
As many Lines cloſe in the Dials center:
So may a thouſand actions once a foot,
And in one purpoſe, and be all well born
Without defeat. Therefore to France, my Liege,
Divide your happy England into four,
Whereof, take you one quarter into France,
And you withall ſhall make all Gallia ſhake,
If we with thrice ſuch Powers left at home,
Cannot defend our own doors from the dog,
Let us be worried, and our Nation loſe
The name of hardineſs and policie.
King. Call in the Meſſengers ſent from the Dolphin.
Now are we all reſolv'd, and by Gods help
And yours, the noble ſinews of our Power;
France being ours, we'll bend it to our Awe,
Or break it all to pieces. Or there we'll ſit,
(Ruling in large and ample Emperie,
O're France, and all her (almoſt) Kingly Dukedoms)
Or lay theſe Bones in an unworthy Urn,
Tombleſs, with no remembrance over them:
Either our Hiſtory ſhall with full mouth
Speak freely of our Acts, or elſe our Grave
Like Turkiſh mute, ſhall have a tongueleſs mouth,

Not

Not worſhipt with a waxen Epitaph.

Enter Ambaſſadors of France.

Now are we well prepar'd to know the pleaſure
Of our fair Couſin Dolphin: for we hear,
Your greeting is from him, not from the King.
Amb. May't pleaſe your Majeſty to give us leave
Freely to render what we have in Charge:
Or ſhall we ſparingly ſhew you far off
The Dolphin's meaning, and our Embaſſie.
King. We are no Tyrant, but a Chriſtian King,
Unto whoſe grace our paſſion is as ſubject
As is our Wretches fettred in our Priſons:
Therefore with frank and with uncurbed plainneſs,
Tell us the Dolphin's mind.
Amb. Thus then in few:
Your Highneſs lately ſending into France,
Did claim ſome certain Dukedoms, in the right
Of your great Predeceſſor, King Edward the third.
In anſwer of which Claim, the Prince our Maſter
Says that you ſavour too much of your youth,
And bids you be advis'd: There's nought in France
That can be with a nimble Galliard won;
You cannot revel into Dukedoms there,
He therefore ſends you, meeter for your ſpirit,
This Tun of Treaſure; and in lieu of this,
Deſires you let the Dukedoms that you claim
Hear no more of you. This the Dolphin ſpeaks.
King. What Treaſure, Uncle?
Exe. Tennis-balls, my Liege.
King. We are glad the Dolphin is ſo pleaſant with us,
His Preſent, and your pains we thank you for:
When we have match'd our Rackets to theſe Balls,
We will in France (by Gods grace) play a ſet,
Shall ſtrike his Father's Crown into the hazard.
Tell him he hath made a match with ſuch a Wrangler,
That all the Courts of France will be diſturb'd
With Chaces. And we underſtand him well,
How he comes o're us with our wilder days,
Not meaſuring what uſe we made of them.
We never valu'd this poor ſeat of England,
And therefore living hence, did give our ſelf
To barbarous licenſe: and 'tis common,
That men are merrieſt, when they are from home:
But tell the Dolphin, I will keep my State,
Be like a King, and ſhew my ſayl of Greatneſs,
When I do rowze me in my Throne of France.
For that I have laid by my Majeſty,
And plodded like a man for working days:
But I will riſe there with ſo full a glory,
That I will dazle all the Eyes of France,
Yea ſtrike the Dolphin blind to look on us.
And tell the pleaſant Prince, this Mock of his
Hath turn'd his Balls to Gun-ſtones, and his Soul
Shall ſtand ſore charg'd, for the waſteful Vengeance
That ſhall flye with them: For many a thouſand Widows
Shall this his Mock mock out of their dear Husbands;
Mock Mothers from their Sons, mock Caſtles down:
And ſome are yet ungotten and unborn,
That ſhall have cauſe to curſe the Dolphin's ſcorn.
But this lyes all within the will of God,
To whom I do appeal, and in whoſe name
Tell you the Dolphin, I am coming on,
To venge me as I may, and to put forth
My rightful hand in a well-hallow'd cauſe.
So get you hence in peace, and tell the Dolphin,
His Jeſt will ſavor but of ſhallow wit,
When thouſands weep more than did laugh at it.
Convey them with ſafe conduct. Fare ye well.
[Exeunt Ambaſſadors.
Exe. This was a merry Meſſage.
King. We hope to make the Sender bluſh at it:
Therefore, my Lord's omit no happy hour,
That may give furth'rance to our Expedition;
For we have now no thought in us but France,
Save thoſe to God, that run before our buſineſs,
Therefore let our Proportions for theſe Wars
Be ſoon collected, and all things thought upon,
That may with reaſonable ſwiftneſs add
More Feathers to our Wings: For God before,
We'll chide this Dolphin at his Father's door.
Therefore let every man now task his thought,
That this fair Action may on foot be brought. [Exeunt.

Flouriſh. Enter Chorus.

Now all the Youth of England are on fire,
And ſilken Dalliance in the Wardrobe lyes:
Now thrive the Armourers, and Honour's thought
Reigns ſolely in the breaſt of every man.
They ſell the Paſture now, to buy the Horſe,
Following the Mirror of all Chriſtian Kings,
With winged heels as Engliſh Mercuries.
For now ſits expectation in the Air,
And hides a Sword, from Hilts unto the Point,
With Crowns imperial, Crowns and Coronets,
Promis'd to Harry, and his Followers.
The French advis'd by good intelligence
Of this moſt dreadful preparation,
Shake in their fear, and with pale Policy
Seek to divert the Engliſh purpoſes.
O England: Model to thy inward Greatneſs,
Like little Body with a mighty Heart:
What might'ſt thou do, that Honour would thee do,
Were all thy Children kind and natural:
But ſee, thy fault France hath in thee found out,
A neſt of hollow boſoms, which he fills
With treacherous Crowns, and three corrupted men:
One Richard Earl of Cambridge, and the ſecond
Henry Lord Scroop of Maſham, and the third
Sir Thomas Gray Knight of Northumberland,
Have for the Gilt of France (O Guilt indeed)
Confirm'd Conſpiracy with fearful France,
And by their hands, this grace of Kings muſt dye,
If Hell and Treaſon hold their promiſes,
E're he take ſhip for France; and in Southampton,
Linger your patience on, and we'll digeſt
Th'abuſe of diſtance; force a play:
The ſum is pay'd, the Traitors are agreed,
The King is ſet for London, and the Scene
Is now tranſported (Gentles) to Southampton,
There is the play-houſe now, there muſt you ſit,
And thence to France ſhall we convey you ſafe,
And bring you back: Charming the narrow Seas
To give you gentle Paſs: for if we may,
We'll not offend one ſtomack with our Play.
But till the King come forth, and not till then,
Unto Southampton we do ſhift our Scene. [Exit.

Enter Corporal Nim, and Lieutenant Bardolph.

Bar. Well met, Corporal Nim.
Nim. Good morrow, Lieutenant Bardolph.
Bar. What, are Ancient Piſtol and you Friends yet?
Nim. For my part, I care not: I ſay little: but when time ſhall ſerve, there ſhall be ſmiles, but that ſhall be as it may. I dare not fight, but I will wink, and hold out mine Iron: it is but a ſimple one, but what though? It will toſt cheeſe, and it will endure cold, as another mans ſword will: and there's an end.
Bar. I will beſtow a breakfaſt to make you Friends, and we'll be all three ſworn Brothers to France: Let's be ſo, good Corporal Nim.
Nim. Faith, I will live ſo long as I may, that's the certain of it: and when I cannot live any longer, I will do as I may: That is my reſt: that is the rendezvous of it.
Bar. It is certain, Corporal, that he is married to Nel Quickly, and certainly ſhe did you wrong, for you were troth-plight to her.

Nim.

Nim. I cannot tell, Things must be as they may: men may sleep, and they may have their throats about them at that time, and some say, knives have edges: It must be as it may, though patience be a tyred name, yet she will plod, there must be Conclusions, well, I cannot tell.

Enter Pistol, and Quickly.

Bar. Here comes Ancient Pistol and his Wife: good Corporal, be patient here. How now, mine Hoste Pistol?

Pist. Base Tyke, call'st thou me Hoste, now by this hand, I swear I scorn the term: nor shall my Nel keep Lodgers.

Host. No by my troth, not long: For we cannot lodge and board a dozen or fourteen Gentlewomen that live honestly by the prick of their Needles, but it will be thought we keep a Bawdy-house straight. O welliday Lady, if he be not hewn now, we shall see wilful Adultery and Murther committed.

Bar. Good Lieutenant, Good Corporal, offer nothing here. Nim. Pish.

Pist. Pish for thee, Island dog: thou prickear'd Cur of Island.

Host. Good Corporal Nim, shew thy Valour, and put up thy Sword.

Nim. Will you shog off? I would have you Solus.

Pist. Solus, egregious Dog; O Viper vile; The solus in thy most marvellous face, the solus in thy teeth, and in thy throat, and in thy hateful Lungs, yea in thy Maw perdy; and which is worse within thy nasty mouth. I do retort the solus in thy Bowels, for I can take, and Pistol's cock is up, and flashing fire will follow.

Nim. I am not Barbason, you cannot conjure me: I have an humour to knock you indifferently well: If you grow foul with me, Pistol, I will scour you with my Rapier, as I may in fair terms. If you would walk off, I would prick your guts a little in good terms, as I may, and that's the humor of it.

Pist. O Braggard vile, and damned furious wight,
The Grave doth gape, and doting death is near,
Therefore exhale.

Bar. Hear me, hear me what I say: He that strikes the first stroak, I'le run him up to the hilts, as I am a Souldier.

Pist. An Oath of mickle might, and fury shall abate.
Give me thy fist, thy fore-foot to me give: Thy spirits are most tall.

Nim. I will cut thy throat one time or other in fair terms, that is the humor of it.

Pistol. Couple a gorge that is the word. I defie thee again. O hound of Creet, think'st thou my spouse to get? No, to the Spittle go, and from the Powdring tub of infamy, fetch forth the Lazer Kit of Cressid's kind, Dol Tear-sheet, she by name, and her espouse. I have, and I will hold the Quondam Quickly for the only she: and Pauca, there's enough to go to.

Enter the Boy.

Boy. Mine Hoste Pistol, you must come to my Master, and your Hostess: He is very sick and would to bed. Good Bardolph, put thy face between the sheets, and do the Office of a Warming-man: Faith, he's very ill.

Bard. Away, you Rogue.

Host. By my troth, he'll yield the Crow a pudding one of these dayes: the King has kill'd his heart. Good Husband come presently. [Exit.

Bar. Come, shall I make you two Friends. We must to France together: why the Devil should we keep Knives to cut one another's throats?

Pist. Let Flouds o'reswell, and Fiends for food howl on.

Nim. You'll pay me the eight shillings, I won of you at Betting.

Pist. Base is the Slave, that pays.

Nim. That now I will have: that's the humour of it.

Pist. As manhood shall compound: push home. [Draw.

Bard. By this Sword, he that makes the first thrust, I'le kill him: by this Sword, I will.

Pist. Sword is an Oath, and Oaths must have their course.

Bar. Corporal Nim, and thou wilt be Friends, be Friends, and thou wilt not, why then be Enemies with me too: prethee put up.

Pist. A Noble shalt thou have, and present pay, and Liquor likewise will I give to thee, and Friendship shall combine, and Brotherhood. I'le live by Nim, and Nim shall live by me, is not this just? For I shall Sutler be unto the Camp, and profits will accrue. Give me thy hand.

Nim. I shall have my Noble?

Pist. In cash, most justly paid.

Nim. Well then, that's the humour of't.

Enter Hostess.

Host. As ever you came of Women, come in quickly to Sir John: A poor heart, he is so shak'd of a burning quotidian Tertian, that it is most lamentable to behold. Sweet men, come to him.

Nim. The King hath run bad humours on the Knight, that's the even of it.

Pist. Nim, thou has spoke the right, his heart is fractured and corroborate.

Nim. The King is a good King, but it must be as it may: he passes some humours and carreers.

Pist. Let us condole the Knight, for (Lambkins) we will live.

Enter Exeter, Bedford, and Westmerland.

Bed. Fore God, his Grace is bold to trust these Traitors.

Exe. They shall be apprehended by and by.

West. How smooth and even they do bear themselves,
As if all allegiance in their Bosoms sate
Crowned with Faith and constant Royalty.

Bed. The King hath note of all that they intend,
By interception which they dream not of.

Exe. Nay, but the man that was his Bedfellow,
Whom he hath lull'd and cloy'd with gracious favours,
That he should, for a Foreign Purse, so sell
His Soveraigns life to death and treachery.

[Sound Trumpets.

Enter the King, Scroop, Cambridge, and Gray.

King. Now sits the wind fair, and we will aboard.
My Lord of Cambridge, and my kind Lord of Masham,
And you my gentle Knight, give me your thoughts:
Think you not, that the Powers we bear with us
Will cut their passage through the Force of France?
Doing the execution, and the act,
For which we have in head assembled them.

Scro. No doubt, my Liege: if each man do his best.

King. I doubt not that, since we are well perswaded,
We carry not a heart with us from hence,
That grows not in a fair consent with ours:
Nor leave not one behind, that doth not wish
Success and Conquest to attend on us.

Cam. Never was a Monarch better fear'd and lov'd,
Than is your Majesty; there's not I think a Subject
That sits in heart-grief and uneasiness
Under the sweet shade of your Government.

Gray. True: those that were your Fathers Enemies,
Have steept their Gauls in Honey, and do observe you
With hearts create of duty, and of zeal.

King. We therefore have great cause of thankfulness;
And shall forget the Office of our hand
Sooner than quittance of desert and merit,
According to the weight and worthiness.

Scro. So service shall with steeled sinews toyl,
And labour shall refresh it self with hope
To do your Grace incessant services.

King. We judge no less. Uncle of Exeter,
Inlarge the man committed yesterday,
That rail'd against our Person: We consider,
It was excess of Wine that set him on,

And

And on his more advice, We pardon him.
Scro. That's mercy, but too much ſecurity:
Let him be puniſh'd, Soveraign, leſt Example
Breed (by his ſufferance) more of ſuch a kind.
King. O let us yet be merciful.
Camb. So may your Highneſs, and yet puniſh too.
Gray. Sir, you ſhew great mercy, if you give him Life,
After the taſte of much Correction.
King. Alas, your too much love and care of me,
Are heavie Oriſons 'gainſt this poor wretch:
If little faults, proceeding on diſtemper,
Shall not be wink'd at, how ſhall we ſtretch our Eye
When Capital Crimes, chew'd, ſwallow'd, and diſgeſted
Appear before us? We'll yet enlarge that man,
Though Cambridge, Scroop, and Gray, in their dear care
And tender preſervation of our Perſon,
Would have him puniſh'd. And now to our French Cauſes,
Who are the late Commiſſioners?
Cam. I one, my Lord,
Your Highneſs bad me ask for it to day.
Scro. So did you me, my Liege.
Gray. And I, my Royal Soveraign.
King. Then Richard Earl of Cambridge, there is yours:
There yours Lord Scroop of Maſham, and Sir Knight,
Gray of Northumberland, this ſame is yours:
Read them, and know I know your worthineſs.
My Lord of Weſtmerland, and Uncle Exeter,
We will aboard to night. Why, how now Gentlemen?
What ſee you in thoſe Papers, that you loſe
So much Complexion? Look ye how they change:
Their cheeks are Paper. Why, what read you there,
That hath ſo cowarded and chaſ'd your Blood
Out of appearance.
Camb. I do confeſs my fault,
And do ſubmit me to your Highneſs mercy.
Gray. Scro. To which we all appeal.
King. The mercy that was quick in us but late,
By your own Counſel is ſuppreſt and kill'd:
You muſt not dare (for ſhame) to talk of mercy,
For your own Reaſons turn into your Boſoms,
As Dogs upon their Maſters, worrying you:
See you, my Princes and my Noble Peers,
Theſe Engliſh monſters: My Lord of Cambridge here,
You know how apt our love was to accord
To furniſh him with all appertinents
Belonging to his Honour: and this man,
Hath for a few light Crowns, lightly conſpir'd
And ſworn unto the practices of France
To kill us here in Hampton. To the which,
This Knight no leſs for bounty bound to us
Than Cambridge is, hath likewiſe ſworn. But O,
What ſhall I ſay to thee, Lord Scroop, thou cruel,
Ingrateful, ſavage, and inhumane Creature?
Thou that didſt bear the key of all my Counſels,
That knew'ſt the very bottom of my Soul,
That (almoſt) might'ſt have coyn'd me into Gold,
Would'ſt thou have practis'd on me, for thy uſe?
May it be poſſible, that foreign hire
Could out of thee extract one ſpark of Evil
That might annoy my finger? 'Tis ſo ſtrange,
That though the truth of it ſtand off as groſs,
As black and white, my Eye will ſcarcely ſee it.
Treaſon and Murther, ever kept together,
As two yoak Devils ſworn to eithers purpoſe,
Working ſo groſly in a Natural Cauſe,
That admiration did not hoop at them.
But thou ('gainſt all Proportion) didſt bring in
Wonder to wait on Treaſon, and no murther:
And whatſoever cunning Fiend it was
That wrought upon thee ſo prepoſterouſly,
Hath got the voice in Hell for excellence:
And other Devils that ſuggeſt by Treaſons,
Do botch and bungle up Damnation,
With Patches, Colours, and with Forms, being fetcht
From gliſt'ring Semblances of Piety:
But he that temper'd thee, bad thee ſtand up,
Gave thee no inſtance why thou ſhouldſt do Treaſon,
Unleſs to dub thee with the name of Traitor.
If that ſame Dæmon that hath gull'd thee thus,
Should with his Lyon-gate walk the whole world,
He may return to vaſty Tartar back,
And tell the Legions, I can never win
A Soul ſo eaſie as that Engliſh-mans.
Oh, how haſt thou with jealouſie infected
The ſweetneſs of affiance? Shew men dutiful?
Why ſo didſt thou. Seem they grave and learned?
Why ſo didſt thou. Come they of Noble Family?
Why ſo didſt thou. Seem they religious?
Why ſo didſt thou. Or are they ſpare in dyet,
Free from groſs paſſion, or of mirth, or anger,
Conſtant in ſpirit, not ſwerving with the blood,
Garniſh'd and deck'd in modeſt complement,
Not working with the Eye, without the Ear,
And but in purged judgment truſting neither?
Such and ſo finely boulted didſt thou ſeem:
And thus thy fall hath left a kind of blot,
To make thee full fraught man, and beſt endued
With ſome ſuſpition, and I will weep for thee.
For this revolt of thine, me thinks is like
Another fall of man. Their faults are open,
Arreſt them to the anſwer of the Law
And God acquit them of their practices.
Exe. I arreſt thee of High Treaſon, by the name of Richard Earl of Cambridge.
I arreſt thee of High Treaſon, by the name of Thomas Lord Scroop of Marſham.
I arreſt thee of High Treaſon, by the name of Thomas Grey, Knight of Northumberland.
Scro. Our purpoſes God juſtly hath diſcover'd,
And I repent my fault more than my death;
Which I beſeech your Highneſs to forgive,
Although my Body pay the price of it.
Camb. For me the Gold of France did not ſeduce,
Although I did admit it as a motive,
The ſooner to effect, what I intended:
But God be thanked for prevention,
Which I in ſufferance heartily will rejoyce,
Beſeeching God to pardon me.
Gray. Never did faithful Subject more rejoyce
At the diſcovery of moſt dangerous Treaſon,
Than I do at this hour joy o're my ſelf,
Prevented from a damned Enterprize:
My fault, but not my body, pardon Soveraign.
King. God quit, you in his Mercy: Hear your ſentence.
You have conſpir'd againſt our Royal Perſon.
Joyn'd with an Enemy proclaim'd; and from his Coffers
Receiv'd the Golden Earneſt of Our death:
Wherein you would have ſold your King to ſlaughter,
His Princes and his Peers to ſervitude,
His Subjects to oppreſſion, and contempt,
And his whole Kingdom into deſolation:
Touching our Perſon, ſeek we no revenge,
But we our Kingdoms ſafety muſt ſo tender,
Whoſe ruine you three ſought, that to her Laws
We do deliver you. Get you therefore hence,
(Poor miſerable wretches, to your death:
The taſte whereof, God of his mercy give
You patience to endure, and true repentance
Of all your dear offences. Bear them hence. [Exeunt.
Now Lords for France: the Enterpriſe whereof
Shall be to you, as us, like glorious.
We doubt not of a fair and lucky War,
Since God ſo graciouſly hath brought to light
This dangerous Treaſon, lurking in our way
To hinder our beginning. We doubt not now,
But every Rub is ſmoothed in our way:
Then forth, dear Country-men: Let us deliver
Our Puiſſance into the hand of God,

Putting

Putting it ſtreight in expedition.
Chearly to Sea, the ſigns of War advance,
No King of England, if not King of France. [Exeunt.

Enter Piſtol, Nim, Bardolph, Boy, and Hoſteſs.

Hoſt. Prethee honey, ſweet Husband, let me bring thee to Staines.

Piſtol. No: for my manly heart doth yern. Bardolph, be blythe: Nim, rouze thy vaunting Veins: Boy, briſtle thy Courage up: for Falſtaff he is dead, and we muſt yern therefore.

Bard. Would I were with him, whereſoe're he is, either in Heaven, or in Hell.

Hoſteſs. Nay ſure, he's not in Hell: he's in Arthur's Boſom, if ever man went to Arthur's Boſom: a made finer end, and went away and it had been any Chriſtom Child: a parted juſt between Twelve and One, ev'n at the turning o'th' Tyde: for after I ſaw him fumble with the Sheets, and play with Flowers, and ſmile upon his fingers end, I knew there was but one way: for his Noſe was as ſharp as a Pen, and a Table of green Fields. How now Sir John (quoth I?) what man? be a good cheer: ſo a cryed out, God, God, God, three or four times: now I, to comfort him, bid him a ſhould not think of God; I hop'd there was no need to trouble himſelf with any ſuch thoughts yet: ſo a bad me lay more Clothes on his feet: I put my hand into the Bed, and felt them, and they were as cold as a ſtone: then I felt to his knees, and ſo upward and upward, all was as cold as any ſtone.

Nim. They ſay he cryed out of Sack.

Hoſteſs. I, that a did.

Bard. And of Women.

Hoſteſs. Nay, that a did not.

Boy. Yes that a did, and ſaid they were Devils incarnate.

Woman. A could never abide Carnation, 'twas a Colour he never lik'd.

Boy. A ſaid once, the Deule would have him about Women.

Hoſteſs. A did in ſome ſort (indeed) handle Women: but then he was rheumatick, and talk'd of the Whore of Babylon.

Boy. Do you not remember a ſaw a Flea ſtick upon Bardolph's Noſe, and ſaid it was a black Soul burning in Hell.

Bard. Well, the fuel is gone that maintain'd that fire: that's all the Riches I got in his ſervice.

Nim. Shall we ſhogg? the King will be gone from Southampton.

Piſt. Come, let's away. My love, give me thy Lips: Look to my Chattels, and my Moveables: Let Senſes rule: The world is, Pitch and pay: truſt none: for Oaths are Straws, mens Faiths are Wafer-Cakes, and hold-faſt is the onely Dog: My Duck, therefore, Caveto be thy Counſellor. Go, clear thy Chryſtals. Yoke-fellows in Arms, let us to France, like Horſe-leeches my Boys, to ſuck, to ſuck, the very blood to ſuck.

Boy. And that's but unwholſome food they ſay.

Piſt. Touch her ſoft mouth, and march.

Bard. Farewel, Hoſteſs.

Nim. I cannot kiſs, that is the humour of it: but adieu.

Piſt. Let Houſwifry appear: keep cloſe, I thee command.

Hoſteſs. Farewel: adieu. [Exeunt.

Enter the French King, the Dolphin, the Dukes of Berry and Britain.

King. Thus comes the Engliſh with full Power upon us,
And more than carefully it us concerns,
To anſwer Royally in our defences.
Therefore the Dukes of Berry and of Britain,
Of Brabant and of Orleance ſhall make forth,
And you Prince Dolphin, with all ſwift diſpatch
To line and new repair our towns of War
With men of courage, and with means defendant:
For England his approaches makes as fierce,
As Waters to the ſucking of a Gulf.
It fits us then to be as provident,
As fear may teach us, out of late Examples
Left by the fatal and neglected Engliſh
Upon our Fields.

Dolphin. My moſt redoubted Father,
It is moſt meet we arm us 'gainſt the Foe:
For Peace it ſelf ſhould not ſo dull a Kingdom,
(Though War, nor no known Quarrel were in queſtion)
But that Defences, Muſters, Preparations
Should be maintain'd, aſſembled, and collected,
As were a War in expectation.
Therefore I ſay, 'tis meet we all go forth,
To view the ſick and feeble parts of France:
And let us do it with no ſhew of fear,
No, with no more, than if we heard that England
Were buſied with a Whitſon Morris-dance:
For, my good Liege, ſhe is ſo idly King'd,
Her Scepter ſo phantaſtically born,
By a vain giddy ſhallow humorous Youth,
That Fear attends her not.

Conſt. O Peace, Prince Dolphin,
You are too much miſtaken in this King:
Queſtion your Grace the late Embaſſadors,
With what great State he heard their Embaſſie,
How well ſupply'd with Noble Councellors,
How modeſt in exception, and with all,
How terrible in conſtant reſolution:
And you ſhall find, his Vanities fore-ſpent
Were but the out-ſide of the Roman Brutus,
Covering Diſcretion with a Coat of Folly;
As Gardeners do with Ordure hide thoſe Roots
That ſhall firſt ſpring, and be moſt delicate.

Dolph. Well, 'tis not ſo, my Lord High Conſtable.
But though we think it ſo, it is no matter:
In Cauſes of defence, 'tis beſt to weigh
The Enemy more mighty than he ſeems,
So the Proportions of defence are fill'd:
Which of a weak and nigardly projection,
Doth like a Miſer ſpoil his Coat, with ſcanting
A little Cloth.

King. Think we King Harry ſtrong:
And Princes, look, you ſtrongly arm to meet him.
The Kindred of him hath been fleſh'd upon us:
And he is bred out of that bloody ſtrain,
That haunted us in our familiar Paths:
Witneſs our too much memorable ſhame,
When Creſſy Battel fatally was ſtruck,
And all our Princes captiv'd, by the hand
Of that black Name, Edward, black Prince of Wales:
Whiles that his Mountain Sire, on Mountain ſtanding
Up in the Air, crown'd with the Golden Sun,
Saw his Heroical Seed, and ſmil'd to ſee him
Mangle the Work of Nature, and deface
The Patterns, that by God and by French Fathers
Had twenty years been made. This is a Stem
Of that Victorious Stock: and let us fear
The Native mightineſs and fate of him.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſſ. Ambaſſadors from Harry, King of England,
Do crave admittance to your Majeſty.

King. We'll give them preſent Audience.
Go, and bring them.
You ſee this Chaſe is hotly followed, Friends.

Dolph. Turn head, and ſtop purſuit: for coward Dogs
Moſt ſpend their mouths, when what they ſeem to threaten Runs far before them. Good my Soveraign
Take up the Engliſh ſhort, and let them know
Of what a Monarchy you are the Head:
Self-love, my Liege, is not ſo vile a ſin,
As ſelf-neglecting.

Enter

Enter Exeter.

King. From our Brother of England?

Exe. From him, and thus he greets your Majesty:
He wills you in the Name of God Almighty,
That you devest your self, and lay apart
The borrowed Glories, that, by gift of Heaven,
By Law of Nature, and of Nations, longs
To him and to his Heires, namely the Crown;
And all wide-stretched Honors, that pertain
By Custom, and the Ordinance of Times,
Unto the Crown of France: that you may know
'Tis no sinister, nor no awk-ward Claim,
Pick't from the Worms-holes of long-vanish't days,
Nor from the dust of old Oblivion rak't,
He sends you this most memorable Line,
In every Branch truly demonstrative;
Willing you over-look this Pedigree:
And when you find him evenly deriv'd
From his most fam'd, of famous Ancestors,
Edward the third; he bids you then resign
Your Crown and Kingdom indirectly held
From him, the Native and true Challenger.

King. Or else, what follows?

Exe. Bloody constraint: for if you hide the Crown
Even in your hearts, there will he rake for it.
Therefore in fierce Tempest is he coming,
In Thunder and in Earth-quake, like a Jove:
That if requiring fail, he will compell.
And bids you, in the Bowels of the Lord,
Deliver up the Crown, and to take mercy
On the poor Souls for whom this hungry War
Opens his vasty Jaws: and on your head
Turning the Widow's Tears, the Orphans Crys,
The dead-mens Bloods, the privy Maidens Groans
For Husbands, Fathers, and betrothed Lovers,
That shall be swallowed in this Controversie.
This is his Claim, his threatning, and my Message:
Unless the Dolphin be in presence here;
To whom expresly I bring greeting too.

King. For us, we will consider of this further:
To morrow shall you bear our full intent
Back to our Brother of England.

Dolph. For the Dolphin,
I stand here for him: what to him from England?

Exe. Scorn and defiance, slight regard, contempt,
And any thing that may not mis-become
The mighty Sender, doth he prize you at.
Thus says my King: and if your Father's Highness
Do not, in grant of all Demands at large,
Sweeten the bitter Mock you sent his Majesty;
He'l call you to so hot an Answer of it,
That Caves and Womby Vaultages of France
Shall chide your Trespass, and return your Mock
In second Accent of his Ordinance.

Dolph. Say: if my Father tender fair return,
It is against my will: for I desire
Nothing but Odds with England,
To that end, as matching to his Youth and Vanity,
I did present him with the Paris-Balls.

Ex. He'l make your Paris Lowver shake for it,
Were it the Mistress Court of mighty Europe:
And be assur'd, you'l find a diff'rence,
As we his Subjects have in wonder found,
Between the promise of his greener days,
And these he masters now: now he weighs Time
Even to the utmost Grain; that you shall read
In your own Losses, if he stay in France.

King. To morrow shall you know our mind at full.
[Flourish.

Exe. Dispatch us with all speed, lest that our King
Come here himself to question our delay;
For he his footed in this Land already.

King. You shall be soon dispatcht, with fair Conditions.
A Night is but small breath, and little pause
To answer matters of this consequence. [Exeunt.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Chorus.

Thus with imagin'd wing our swift Scene flyes,
In motion of no less celerity, than that of Thought.
Suppose, that you have seen
The wel-appointed King at Dover Peer,
Embark his Royalty: and his brave Fleet,
With silken Streamers, the young Phœbus faining;
Play with your Fancies: and in them behold,
Upon the Hempen Tackle, Ship-boys climbing;
Heart the shrill Whistle, which doth order give
To sounds confus'd: behold the threaden Sails,
Born with th'invisible and creeping VVind,
Draw the huge Bottom's through the furrowed Sea,
Breasting the lofty Surge. O, do but think
You stand upon the Rivage, and behold
A Citie on th'inconstant Billows dancing:
For so appears this Fleet Majestical,
Holding due course to Harflew. Follow, follow.
Grapple your minds to sternage of this Navy,
And leave your England as dead Mid-night, still,
Guarded with Grandsires, Babies, and old VVomen,
Either past, or not arriv'd to pith and puissance:
For who is he, whose Chin is but enricht
VVith one appearing Hair, that will not follow
These cull'd and choice-drawn Cavaliers to France?
VVork, work your Thoughts, and therein see a Siege:
Behold the Ordnance on their Carriages,
VVith fatal mouths gaping on girded Harflew.
Suppose th'Embassador from the French comes back,
Tells Harry, That the King doth offer him
Katharine his Daughter, and with her to Dowry
Some petty and unprofitable Dukedoms.
The offer likes not: and the nimble Gunner
VVith Lynstock now the devilish Cannon touches.
[Alarum, and Chambers go off.
And down goes all before him. Still be kind,
And ech out our performance with your mind. [Exit.

Enter the King, Exeter, Bedford, and Glouceſter.
Alarum. Scaling-Ladders at Harflew.

King. Once more unto the Breach,
Dear Friends, once more;
Or close the Wall up with our English dead:
In Peace, there's nothing so becomes a man,
As modest stilness and humility:
But when the blast of War blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the Tyger:
Stiffen the sinews, commune up the blood,
Disguise fair Nature with hard-favour'd Rage:
Then lend the Eye a terrible aspect:
Let it pry through the portage of the Head,
Like the Brass Cannon, let the Brow o'rewhelm it,
As fearfully, as doth a galled Rock
O're-hang and jutty his confounded Base,
Swill'd with the wilde and wastful Ocean.
Now set the Teeth, and stretch the Nostril wide,
Hold hard the Breath, and bend up every Spirit
To his full height. On, you Noblest English,
Whose blood is fet from Fathers of War-proof;
Fathers, that like so many Alexanders,
Have in these parts from Morn till Even fought,
And sheath'd their Swords for lack of argument,
Dishonour not your Mothers: now attest,
That those whom you call'd Fathers, did beget you.
Be Copy now to men of grosser blood,
And teach them how to VVar. And you, good Yeomen,
Whose

Whoſe Limbs were made in England; ſhew us here
The mettle of your Paſture: let us ſwear,
That you are worth your breeding, which I doubt not:
For there is none of you ſo mean and baſe,
That hath not Noble luſtre in your Eyes.
I ſee you ſtand like Grey-hounds in the ſlips,
Straying upon the Start. The Game's a-foot:
Follow your Spirit; and upon this Charge,
Cry, God for Harry, England, and St. George.
[Alarum, and Chambers go off.

Enter Nim, Bardolph, Piſtol, and Boy.

Bard. On, on, on, on, on, to the Breach, to the Breach.

Nim. 'Pray thee, Corporal, ſtay, the Knocks are too hot: and for mine own part, I have not a Caſe of Lives: the humor of it is too hot, that is the very plain-Song of it.

Piſt. The plain-Song is moſt juſt: for humors do abound: Knocks go and come: God's Vaſſals drop and dye: and Sword and Shield, in bloody Field, doth win immortal Fame.

Boy. Would I were in an Ale-houſe in London, I would give all my Fame for a Pot of Ale, and ſafety.

Piſt. And I: if wiſhes would prevail with me, my purpoſe ſhould not fail with me; but thither would I hye.

Boy. As duly, but not as truly, as Bird doth ſing on bough.

Enter Fluellen.

Flu. Up to the breach, you Dogs; avant you Collions.

Piſt. Be merciful, great Duke, to men of Mould, abate thy Rage, abate thy manly Rage; abate thy Rage, great Duke. Good Bawcock, bate thy Rage, uſe lenity, ſweet Chuck.

Nim. Theſe be good humors: your Honour wins bad humors. [Exit.

Boy. As young as I am, I have obſerv'd theſe three Swaſhers. I am Boy to them all three, but all they three, though they would ſerve me, could not be Man to me; for indeed three ſuch Antiques do not amount to a man: for Bardolph, he is white-liver'd, and red-fac'd; by the means whereof, a faces it out, but fights not: for Piſtol, he hath a killing Tongue, and a quiet Sword; by the means whereof, a breaks Words, and keeps whole Weapons: for Nim, he hath heard, that men of few Words are the beſt men, and therefore he ſcorns to ſay his prayers, leſt a ſhould be thought a Coward: but his few bad Words are matcht with as few good Deeds; for a never broke any man's head but his own, and that was againſt a Poſt, when he was drunk. They will ſteal any thing, and call it Purchaſe. Bardolph ſtole a Lute-caſe, bore it twelve Leagues, and ſold it for three half-Pence. Nim and Bardolph are ſworn Brothers in filching; and in Calice they ſtole a fire-ſhovel. I knew, by that piece of Service, the men would carry Coals. They would have me as familiar with men's Pockets, as their Gloves or their Hand-kerchers: which makes much againſt my Manhood, if I ſhould take from another's Pocket, to put into mine; for it is plain pocketting up of Wrongs. I muſt leave them, and ſeek ſome better Service: their Villanie goes againſt my weak ſtomack, and therefore I muſt caſt it up. [Exit.

Enter Gower.

Gower. Captain Fluellen, you muſt come preſently to the Mines; the Duke of Glouceſter would ſpeak with you.

Flu. To the Mines? Tell you the Duke, it is not ſo good to come to the Mines: for look you, the Mines are not according to the Diſciplines of War; the Concavities of it is not ſufficient: for look you, th' athverſary, you may diſcuſs unto the Duke, look you, is digt himſelf four yards under the Countermines: by Cheſhu, I think a will plow up all, if there is not better directions.

Gower. The Duke of Glouceſter, to whom the Order of the Siege is given, is altogether directed by an Iriſh man, a very valiant Gentleman, I'faith.

Welch. It is Captain Makmorrice, is it not?

Gower. I think it be.

Welch. By Cheſhu he is an Aſs, as in the World, I will verifie as much in his Beard: he ha's no more directions in the true diſciplines of the Wars, look you, of the Roman diſciplines, than is a Puppy-dog.

Enter Makmorrice, and Captain Jamy.

Gower. Here a comes, and the Scots Captain, Captain Jamy, with him.

Welch. Captain Jamy is a marvellous valorous Gentleman, that is certain, and of great expedition and knowledge in th'aunchiant Wars, upon my particular knowledge of his directions; by Cheſhu he will maintain his Argument as well as any Militarie man in the World, in the Diſciplines of the priſtine Wars of the Romans.

Scot. I ſay gudday, Captain Fluellen.

Welch. Godden to your Worſhip, good Captain James.

Gower. How now, Captain Makmorrice, have you quit the Mines? have the Pioners given o're?

Iriſh. By Chriſh, Law, tiſh ill done: the Work iſh give over, the Trompet ſound the Retreat. By my Hand I ſwear, and my father's Soul, The Work iſh ill done: it iſh give over: I would have blowed up the Town, ſo Chriſh ſave me, law, in an hour. O tiſh ill done, tiſh ill done: by my Hand tiſh ill done.

Welch. Captaine Makmorrice, I beſeech you now, will you vouchaſe me, look you, a few diſputations with you, as partly touching or concerning the diſciplines of the War, the Roman Wars, in the way of Argument, look you, and friendly communication: partly to ſatisfie my Opinion, and partly for the ſatisfaction, look you, of my Mind, as touching the direction of the Military diſcipline, that is the Point.

Scot. It ſall be vary gud, gud feith, gud Captens bath, and I ſall quit you with gud leve, as I may pick occaſion: that ſal I marry.

Iriſh. It is no time to diſcourſe, ſo Chriſh ſave me: The day is hot, and the Weather, and the Wars, and the King, and the Duke: it is not time to diſcourſe, the Town is beſeech'd: and the Trumpet calls us to the Breach, and we talk, and by Chriſh do nothing, 'tis ſhame for us all: ſo God ſa'me 'tis ſhame to ſtand ſtill, it is ſhame by my hand: and there is Throats to be cut, and Works to be done, and there iſh nothing done, ſo Chriſt ſa'me law.

Scot. By the Mes, ere theiſe eyes of mine take themſelves to ſlomber, ayle de gud ſervice, or Ile ligge i'th' grund for it; ay, or go to death: and Ile pay't as valorouſly as I may, that ſal I ſurely do, the breff and the long; marry, I wad full fain heard ſome queſtion 'tween you tway.

Welch. Captain Makmorrice, I think, look you, under your correction, there is not many of your Nation.

Iriſh. Of my Nation? What iſh my Nation? Iſh a Villain, and a Baſterd, and a Knave, and a Raſcal. What iſh my Nation? Who talks of my Nation?

Welch. Look you, if you take the matter otherwiſe than is meant, Captain Makmorrice, peradventure I ſhall think you do not uſe me with that affability, as in diſcretion you ought to uſe me, look you, being as good a man as your ſelf both in the diſciplines of War, and in the derivation of my birth, and in other particularities.

Iriſh. I do not know you ſo good a man as my ſelf, ſo Chriſh ſave me, I will cut off your head.

Gower. Gentlemen both, you will miſtake each other.

Scot. A, that's a foul fault. [A Parley.

Gower. The Town ſounds a Parley.

Welch. Captain Makmorrice, when there is more better opportunity to be required, look you, I will be ſo bold as to tell you, I know the diſciplines of War, and there is an end. [Exit.

Enter

Enter the King, and all his Train before the Gates.

King. How yet reſolves the Governour of the Town?
This is the lateſt Parle we will admit:
Therefore to our beſt mercy give your ſelves,
Or like to men proud of deſtruction,
Defie us to our worſt: for as I am a Souldier,
A Name that in my thoughts becomes me beſt;
If I begin the batt'ry once again,
I will not leave the half-atchieved Harflew,
'Till in her aſhes ſhe lye buried.
The Gates of Mercy ſhall be all ſhut up,
And the fleſh'd Souldier, rough and hard of heart,
In liberty of bloody hand, ſhall range
With Conſcience wide as Hell, mowing like Graſs
Your freſh fair Virgins, and your ſtowring Infants.
What is it then to me, if impious War,
Arrayed in games like to the Prince of Fiends,
Do with his ſmircht complexion of fell feats,
Enlinckt to waſte and deſolation?
What is't to me, when you your ſelves are cauſe,
If your pure Maidens fall into the hand
Of hot and forcing Violation?
What Rein can hold licentious Wickedneſs,
When down the Hill he holds his fierce Carreer?
We may as bootleſs ſpend our vain Command
Upon th'enraged Souldiers in their Spoil,
As ſend Precepts to the Leviathan to come a-ſhoar.
Therefore, you men of Harflew,
Take pity of your Town and of your People,
Whiles yet my Souldiers are in my Command,
Whiles yet the cool and temperate Wind of Grace
O're-blows the filthy and contagious Clouds
Of heady Murther, Spoil, and Villany.
If not: why in a moment look to ſee
The blind and bloody Souldier, with foul hand
Deſire the Locks of your ſhrill-ſhrieking Daughters:
Your Fathers taken by the ſilver Beards,
And their moſt reverend Heads daſht to the VValls:
Your naked Infants ſpitted upon Pikes,
Whiles the mad Mothers, with their howles confus'd,
Do break the Clouds; as did the Wives of Jewry,
At Herod's bloody-hunting ſlaughter-men.
What ſay you? Will you yield, and this avoid?
Or guilty in defence be thus deſtroy'd?

Enter Governour.

Gover. Our expectation hath this day an end:
The Dolphin, whom of Succours we entreated,
Returns us, that his Powers are yet not ready,
To raiſe ſo great a Siege. Therefore, great King,
We yield our Town and Lives to thy ſoft Mercy:
Enter our Gates, diſpoſe of us and ours,
For we no longer are defenſible.

King. Open your Gates: Come Uncle Exeter,
Go you and enter Harflew, there remain,
And fortifie it ſtrongly 'gainſt the French:
Uſe mercy to them all for us, dear Uncle.
The Winter coming on, and Sickneſs growing
Upon our Souldiers, we will retire to Calis.
To-night in Harflew will we be your Gueſt,
To morrow for the March are we addreſt.

[Flouriſh, and enter the Town.

Enter Katharine and an old Gentlewoman.

Kath. Alice, tu as eſté en Angleterre, & tu parlois bien le Language.

Alice. En peu, Madame.

Kath. Je te prie de m'enſeigner, il faut que j'apprenne a parler. Comment appellé vous la main en Anglois?

Alice. La main, il eſt appellé, de Hand.

Kath. De Hand.

Alice. Et le doyt.

Ka. Le doyt, ma foy je oublie le doyt, mais je me ſouvien dray le doyt, je penſe qu'ils ont appellé des fingres, ou de fingres.

Alice. La main, de Hand, le doyt, le Fingres, Je penſe que je ſuis le bon eſcholier.

Kath. J'ay gaigné deux mots d'Anglois viſtement, comment appellé vous les ongles?

Alice. Les ongles, les appellons de Nayles.

Kath. De Nayles eſcoutez: dites moy, ſi je parle bien: de Hand, de Fingres, de Nayles.

Alice. C'eſt bien dit Madame, il eſt fort bon Anglois.

Kath. Dites moy en Anglois le bras.

Alice. De Arme, Madame.

Kath. Et le coude.

Alice. D'Elbow.

Kath. D'Elbow: Je m'en faitz la repetition de tous les mots que m'avez apprins dés a preſent.

Alice. Il eſt trop difficile Madame, comme je penſe.

Kath. Excuſe moy Alice, eſcoute, d'Hand, de Fingre, de Nayles, d'Arme, de Elbow.

Alice. D'elbow, Madame.

Kath. O Seigneur Dieu, je men oublie d'Elbow, comment appellé vous le col?

Alice. De Neck, Madame.

Kath. De Neck, & le manton?

Alice. De Chin.

Kath. De Sin: le le col, de Neck: le manton, de Sin.

Alice. Ouy. Sauf voſtre honnour en verité vous prononciés les mots auſſi droict, que le Natiffs d'Angleterre.

Kath. Je ne doute point d'apprendre par la grace de Dieu, & en peu de temps.

Al. N'avez vous pas deſia oublié ce que je vous ay enſeigné.

Kath. Nomme, je reciteray a vous promptement d'Hand, de Fingre, de Nayles, Madame.

Alice. De Nayles, Madame.

Kath. De Nayles, de Arme, de Elbow.

Alice. Sar voſtre honneur d'Elbow.

Kath. Ainſi dis-je d'Elbow, de Neck, de Sin: comment appellé vous les pieds & de roba.

Alice. Le Foot Madame, & le Count.

Kath. Le Foot, & le Count: O Seigneur Dieu, ce ſont des mots mauvais, corruptible & impudique, & non pour les Dames d'Honneur d'uſer: Je ne voudrois prononcer ces mots devant les Seigneurs de France, pour tout le monde, il faut le Foot, & le Count, neant moins, Je reciteray un autrefois ma lecon enſemble, d'Hand, de Fingre, de Nayle, d'Arme, d'Elbow, de Neck, de Sin, de Foot, de Count.

Alice. Excellent, Madame.

Ka. C'eſt aſſez pour une fois, allons nous en diſner. [Exeunt.

Enter the King of France, the Dolphin, the Conſtable of France, and others.

King. 'Tis certain he hath paſt the River Some.

Conſt. And if he be not fought withal, my Lord,
Let us not live in France: let us quit all,
And give our Vineyards to a barbarous People.

Dolph. O Dieu vivant! ſhall a few Sprays of us,
The emptying of our Fathers Luxury,
Our Syens, put in wild and ſavage Stock,
Spirt up ſo ſuddenly into the Clouds,
And over-look their Grafters?

Brit. Normans, but baſtard Normans, Norman baſtards.
Mort de ma vie, if they march along
Unfought withall, but I will ſell my Dukedom,
To buy a ſlobbry and a dirty Farm
In that nook-ſhotten Iſle of Albion.

Conſt. Dieu de Batailles! where have they this mettel?
Is not their Climate foggy, raw, and dull?
On whom, as in deſpight, the Sun looks pale,
Killing their Fruit with frowns? Can ſodden Water,
A Drench for ſur-reyn'd Jades, their Barly broth,
Decoct their cold blood to ſuch valiant heat?
And ſhall our quick blood, ſpirited with Wine,

Seem froſtie? O, for the Honour of our Land,
Let us not hang like roping Iſicles
Upon our Houſes Thatch, whiles a more froſtie People
Sweat drops of gallant Youth in our rich Fields:
Poor we may call them, in their Native Lords.

Dolph. By Faith and Honour,
Our Madams mock at us, and plainly ſay,
Our Mettle is bred out, and they will give
Their bodies to the Luſt of Engliſh Youth,
To new-ſtore France with Baſtard Warriors.

Brit. Thy bid us to the Engliſh Dancing-Schools,
And teach Lavalta's high, and ſwift Carranto's,
Saying, our Grace is only in our Heels.
And that we are moſt lofty Run-aways.

King. Where is Montjoy, the Herald? ſpeed him hence,
Let him greet England with our ſharp defiance.
Up Princes, and with Spirit of Honour edged,
More ſharper than your Swords, hie to the Field:
Charles Delabreth, High Conſtable of France,
You Duke of Orleance, Burbon, and of Berry,
Alanſon, Brabant, Bar, and Burgondie,
Jaques Chatillion, Rambures, Vaudemont,
Beaumont, Grand Pree, Rouſſie, and Faulconbridge,
Loys, Leſtrale, Bouciquall, and Charaloys,
High Dukes, great Princes, Barons, Lords, and Kings:
For your great Seats, now quit you of great ſhames:
Bar Harry England, that ſweeps through our Land
With Penons painted in the blood of Harflew:
Ruſh on his Hoſt, as doth the melted Snow
Upon the Vallies, whoſe low Vaſſal Seat
The Alpes doth ſpit, and void his rhewm upon.
Go down upon him, you have Power enough,
And in a Captive Chariot, into Roan
Bring him our Priſoner.

Conſt. This becomes the Great.
Sorry am I his numbers are ſo few,
His Souldiers ſick, and famiſht in the March:
For I am ſure, when he ſhall ſee our Army,
He'll drop his Heart into the ſink of Fear,
And for Atchievment, offer us his Ranſom.

King. Therefore Lord Conſtable, haſte on Montjoy,
And let him ſay to England, that we ſend,
To know what willing Ranſom he will give.
Prince Dolphin, you ſhall ſtay with us in Roan.

Dolph. Not I, I do beſeech your Majeſty.

King. Be patient, for you ſhall remain with us.
Now forth Lord Conſtable, and Princes all;
And quickly bring us word of England's fall. Exeunt.

Enter Captains, Welch, and Engliſh, Gower, and Fluellen.

Gow. How now Captain Fluellen, come you from the Bridge?

Flu. I aſſure you, there is very excellent Services committed at the Bridge.

Gow. Is the Duke of Exeter ſafe?

Flu. The Duke of Exeter is as magnanimous as Agamemnon, and a man that I love and honour with my ſoul, and my heart, and my duty, and my live, and my living, and my uttermoſt power. He is not, God be praiſed and bleſſed, any hurt in the World, but keeps the Bridge moſt valiantly, wich excellent diſcipline. There is an auncient Lieutenant there at the Bridge, I think in my very conſcience he is as valiant a man as Mark Anthony, and he is a man of no eſtimation in the World, but I did ſee him do as gallant ſervice.

Gow. What do you call him?

Flu. He is call d'auncient Piſtol.

Gow. I know him not.

Enter Piſtol.

Flu. Here is the man.

Piſt. Captain, I thee beſeech to do me favours: the Duke of Exeter doth love thee well.

Flu. I, I praiſe God, and I have merited ſome love at his hands.

Piſt. Bardolph, a Souldier firm and ſound of heart, and of buxom valour, hath by cruel Fate, and giddy Fortunes furious fickle Wheel, that Goddeſs blind, that ſtands upon the rolling reſtleſs Stone.

Flu. By your patience auncient Piſtol: Fortune is painted blind, with a Muffler afore his Eyes, to ſignifie to you, that Fortune is blind; and ſhe is painted alſo with a Wheel, to ſignifie to you, which is the Moral of it, that ſhe is turning and inconſtant, and mutability, and variation: and her foot, look you, is fixed upon a Spherical Stone, which rowles, and rowles, and rowles: in good truth, the Poet makes a moſt excellent deſcription of it: Fortune is an excellent Moral.

Piſt. Fortune is Bardolph's Foe, and frowns on him: for he hath ſtoln a Pax, and hanged muſt a be: damned death: let Gallows gape for Dog, let Man go free, and let not Hemp his Wind-pipe ſuffocate: but Exeter hath given the doom of death for Pax of little price. Therefore go ſpeak, the Duke will hear thy voice; and let not Bardolph's vital thread be cut with edge of Penny-Cord, and vile reproach. Speak Captain for his Life, and I will thee requite.

Flu. Auncient Piſtol, I do partly underſtand your meaning.

Piſt. Why then rejoyce therefore.

Flu. Certainly Auncient, it is not a thing to rejoice at: for if, look you, he were my Brother, I would deſire the Duke to uſe his good Pleaſure, and put him to Execution; for diſcipline ought to be uſed.

Piſt. Die, and be damn'd, and Figo for thy Friendſhip.

Flu. It is well.

Piſt. The Fig of Spain. [Exit.

Flu. Very good.

Gow. Why, this is an arrant counterfeit Raſcal, I remember him now: a Bawd, a Cut-purſe.

Flu. I'le aſſure you, a utt'red as prave words at the Pridge, as you ſhall ſee in Summers day: but it is very well: what he ha's ſpoke to me, that is well, I warrant you, when time is ſerve.

Gow. Why 'tis a Gull, a Fool, a Rogue, that now and then goes to the Wars, to grace himſelf at his return into London, under the form of a Souldier, and ſuch fellows are perfit in the Great Commanders Names, and they will learn you by rote where Services were done; at ſuch and ſuch a Sconce, at ſuch a Breach, at ſuch a Convoy: who came off bravely, who was ſhot, who diſgrac'd, what terms the Enemy ſtood on; and this they con perfitly in the phraſe of War, which they trick up with new-tuned Oaths: and what a Beard of the Generals Cut, and a horrid Sute of the Camp, will do among foming Bottles, and Ale-waſh't wits, is wonderful to be thought on: but you muſt learn to know ſuch ſlanders of the Age, or elſe you may be be marvellouſly miſtook.

Flu. I tell you what, Captain Gower: I do perceive he is not the man that he would gladly make ſhew to the World he is: if I find a hole in his Coat, I will tell him my mind: hear you, the King his coming, and I muſt ſpeak with him from the Pridge.

Drum and Colours. Enter the King and his poor Souldiers.

Flu. God pleſs your Majeſty.

King. How now Fluellen, cam'ſt thou from the Bridge?

Flu. I, ſo pleaſe your Majeſty: The Duke of Exeter has very gallantly maintain'd the Pridge; the French is gone off, look you, and there is gallant and moſt prave paſſages: marry, th'athverſary was have poſſeſſion of the Pridge, but he is enforced to retire, and the Duke of Exeter is Maſter of the Pridge: I can tell your Majeſty, the Duke is a prave man.

King. What men have you loſt, Fluellen?

Flu.

Flu. The perdition of th'athverſay hath been very great, reaſonable great: marry for my part, I think the Duke hath loſt never a man, but one that is like to be executed for Robbing a Church, one Bardolph, if your Majeſty know the man: his face is all bubukles, and whelks, and knobs, and flames a fire, and his lips blows at his noſe, and it is like a coal of fire, ſometimes plew, and ſometimes red, but his noſe is executed, and his fire's out.

King. We would have all ſuch offenders ſo cut off, and we give expreſs charge, that in our Marches through the Country, there be nothing compell'd from the Villages; nothing taken, but paid for: none of the French upbraided or abuſed in diſdainful Language: for when Levity and Cruelty play for a Kingdom, the gentler Gameſter is the ſooneſt winner.

Tucket. Enter Mountjoy.

Mountjoy. You know me by my habit.

King. Well then, I know thee: what ſhall I know of thee?

Mount. My Maſter's mind.

King. Unfold it.

Mountjoy. Thus ſays my King: Say thou to Harry of England, Though we ſeem'd dead, we did but ſleep: Advantage is a better Souldier than Raſhneſs. Tell him, we could have rebuk'd him at Harflew, but that we thought not good to bruiſe an injury, till it were full ripe. Now we ſpeak upon our Q. and our voice is imperial: England ſhall repent his folly, ſee his weakneſs, and admire our ſufferance. Bid him therefore conſider of his Ranſom, which muſt proportion the loſſes we have born, the Subjects we have loſt, the diſgrace we have digeſted; which in weight to re-anſwer, his pettineſs would bow under. For our loſſes, his Exchequer is too poor; for th'effuſion of our blood, the Muſter of his Kingdom too faint a number; and for our diſgrace, his own Perſon kneeling at our feet, but a weak and worthleſs ſatisfaction. To this add defiance: and tell him for concluſion, he hath betrayed his Followers, whoſe condemnation is pronounc'd: So far my King and Maſter; ſo much my Office.

King. What is thy Name? I know thy Quality.

Moun. Mountjoy.

King. Thou do'ſt thy Office fairly. Turn thee back,
And tell thy King, I do not ſeek him now,
But could be willing to march on to Calice,
Without impeachment: for to ſay the ſooth,
Though 'tis no wiſdom to confeſs ſo much
Unto an Enemy of Craft and Vantage,
My People are with ſickneſs much enfeebled,
My Numbers leſſen'd: and thoſe few I have,
Almoſt no better than ſo many French;
Who when they were in health, I tell thee, Herald,
I thought, upon one pair of Engliſh Legs
Did march three Frenchmen. Yet forgive me, God,
That I do brag thus; this your air of France
Hath blown that Vice in me. I muſt repent:
Go therefore tell thy Maſter, here I am;
My Ranſom is this frail and worthleſs Trunk;
My Army, but a weak and ſickly Guard:
Yet God before, tell him we will come on,
Though France himſelf, and ſuch another Neighbour
Stand in our way. There's for thy labour, Mountjoy.
Go bid thy Maſter well adviſe himſelf,
If we may paſs, we will: if we be hindred,
We ſhall your tawny ground with your red blood
Diſcolour: and ſo Montjoy fare you well.
The ſum of all our Anſwer is but this:
We would not ſeek a Battel, as we are,
Nor as we are, we ſay, we will not ſhun it:
So tell your Maſter.

Mount. I ſhall deliver ſo: Thanks to your Highneſs.

Glou. I hope they will not come upon us now.

King. We are in Gods hand, Brother, not in theirs;
March to the Bridge, it now draws toward night,
Beyond the River we'll encamp our ſelves,
And on to morrow bid them march away. [Exeunt.

Enter the Conſtable of France, the Lord Ramburs, Orleans, Dolphin, with others.

Conſt. Tut, I have the beſt Armour of the World: would it were day.

Orl. You have an excellent Armour: but let my Horſe have his due.

Conſt. It is the beſt Horſe of Europe.

Orl. Will it never be Morning?

Dolph. My Lord of Orleance, and my Lord High Conſtable, you talk of Horſe and Armour?

Orl. You are as well provided of both, as any Prince in the World.

Dolph. What a long Night is this? I will not change my Horſe with any that treads but on four paſterns: ch'ha: he bounds from the Earth, as if his entrails were hairs: le Cheval volant, the Pegaſus, ches les narines de feu. When I beſtride him, I ſoar, I am a Hawk: he trots the air: the Earth ſings, when he touches it: the baſeſt horn of his hoof is more Muſical than the Pipe of Hermes.

Orl. He's of the colour of the Nutmeg.

Dolph. And of the heat of the Ginger. It is a Beaſt for Perſeus: he is Pure Air and Fire; and the dull Elements of Earth and Water never appear in him, but only in patient ſtilneſs while his Rider mounts him: he is indeed a Horſe, and all other Jades you may call Beaſts.

Conſt. Indeed my Lord, it is a moſt abſolute and excellent Horſe.

Dolph. It is the Prince of Palfrays, his Neigh is like the bidding of a Monarch, and his Countenance enforces Homage.

Orl. No more, Couſin.

Dolph. Nay, the man hath no wit, that cannot from the riſing of the Lark to the lodging of the Lamb, vary deſerved praiſe on my Palfray: it is a Theme as fluent as the Sea: Turn the Sands into eloquent tongues, and my Horſe is argument for them all: 'tis a ſubject for a Soveraign to reaſon on, and for a Soveraigns Soveraign to ride on: And for the World, familiar to us, and unknown, to lay a part their particular Functions, and wonder at him. I once writ a Sonnet in his praiſe and began thus, Wonder of Nature.

Orleance. I have heard a Sonnet begin ſo to ones Miſtreſs.

Dolph. Then did they imitate that, which I compos'd to my Courſer, for my Horſe is my Miſtreſs.

Orl. Your Miſtreſs bears well.

Dolph. Me well, which is the preſcript praiſe and perfection of a good and particular Miſtreſs.

Conſt. Nay, for me thought yeſterday your Miſtreſs ſhrewdly ſhook your back.

Dolph. So perhaps did yours.

Conſt. Mine was not bridled.

Dolph. O then belike ſhe was old and gentle, and you rode like a Kerne of Ireland, your French Hoſe off, and in you ſtrait Stroſſers.

Conſt. You have good judgement in Horſemanſhip.

Dolph. Be warn'd by me then: they that ride ſo, and ride not warily, fall into foul Boggs: I had rather have my Horſe to my Miſtreſs.

Conſt. I had as lieve have my Miſtreſs a Jade.

Dolph. I tell thee, Conſtable, my Miſtreſs wears his own hair.

Conſt. I could make as true a boaſt as that, if I had a Sow to my Miſtreſs.

Dol. Le chien eſt retourné à ſon propre vomiſſement, eſt la levye lavee au bourbier: thou mak'ſt uſe of any thing.

Conſt. Yet do I not uſe my Horſe for my Miſtreſs, or any ſuch Proverb, ſo little kin to the purpoſe.

Ramb. My Lord Conſtable, the Armour that I ſaw in your Tent to night, are thoſe Stars or Suns upon it?

Conſt. Stars, my Lord.

Dolph. Some of them will fall to morrow, I hope.

Conſt. And yet my Sky ſhall not want.

Dolph. That may be, for you bear a many ſuperfluouſly, and 'twere more Honor ſome were away.

Conſt. Ev'n as your Horſe bears your praiſes, who would trot as well, were ſome of your brags diſmounted.

Dolph. Would I were able to load him with his deſert. Will it never be day? I will trot to morrow a mile, and my way ſhall be paved with Engliſh Faces.

Conſt. I will not ſay ſo, for fear I ſhould be fac't out of my way: but I would it were morning, for I would fain be about the Ears of the Engliſh.

Ramb. Who will go Hazard with me for twenty Priſoners?

Conſt. You muſt firſt go your ſelf to hazard, e're you have them.

Dolph. 'Tis Mid-night, I'le go arm my ſelf. [Exit.

Orl. The Dolphin longs for morning.

Ramb. He longs to eat the Engliſh.

Conſt. I think he will eat all he kills.

Orl. By the white Hand of my Lady, he's a gallant Prince.

Conſt. Swear by her Foot, that ſhe may tread out the Oath.

Orleance. He is ſimply the moſt active Gentleman of France.

Conſt. Doing is activity, and he will ſtill be doing

Orl. He never did harm, that I heard of.

Conſt. Nor will do none to morrow: he will keep that good Name ſtill.

Orl. I know him to be valiant.

Conſt. I was told that, by one that knows him better than you.

Orl. What's he?

Conſt. Marry, he told me ſo himſelf, and he ſaid he car'd not who knew it.

Orleance. He needs not, it is no hidden virtue in him.

Conſt. By my faith, Sir, but it is: never any body ſaw it, but his Lacquey: 'tis a hooded Valour, and when it appears, it will bate.

Orl. Ill will never ſaid well.

Conſt. I will cap that Proverb with, There is flattery in friendſhip.

Orl. And I will take up that with, Give the Devil his due.

Conſt. Well plac'd: there ſtands your Friend for the Devil: have at the very Eye of that Proverb with, A Pox of the Devil.

Orl. You are the better at Proverbs, by how much a Fools Bolt is ſoon ſhot.

Conſt. You have ſhot over.

Orl. 'Tis not the firſt time you were over-ſhot.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſſen. My Lord high Conſtable, the Engliſh lye within fifteen hundred paces of your Tents.

Conſt. Who hath meaſur'd the ground?

Meſ. The Lord Grandpree.

Conſt. A valiant and moſt expert Gentleman. Would it were day. Alas poor Harry of England: he longs not for the Dawning, as we do.

Orl. What a wretched and peeviſh Fellow is this King of England, to mope with his fat-brain'd Followers ſo far out of his knowledge.

Conſt. If the Engliſh had any apprehenſion, they would run away.

Orl. That they lack: for if their Heads had any intellectual Armour, they could never wear any ſuch heavy Head-pieces.

Ramb. That Iſland of England breeds very valiant Creatures; their Maſtiffs are of unmatchable courage.

Orleance. Fooliſh Curs, that run winking into the mouth of a Ruſſian Bear, and have their heads cruſh't like rotten Apples: you may as well ſay, that's a valiant Flea, that dare to eat his breakfaſt on the Lip of a Lyon.

Conſt. Juſt, juſt: and the men do ſympathize with the Maſtiffs, in robuſtious and rough coming on, leaving their Wits with their Wives: and then give them great Meals of Beef, and Iron and Steel; they will eat like Wolves, and fight like Devils.

Orl. I, but theſe Engliſh are ſhrewdly out of Beef.

Conſt. Then ſhall we find to morrow, they have only ſtomachs to eat, and none to fight. Now is it time to arm: come, ſhall we about it?

Orl. It is now two a Clock: but let me ſee, by ten
We ſhall have each a hundred Engliſhmen. [Exeunt.

Actus Tertius.

Chorus.

Now entertain Conjecture of a time,
When creeping Murmur and the poring Dark
Fills the wide Veſſel of the Univerſe.
From Camp to Camp, through the foul Womb of Night
The Hum of either Army ſtilly ſounds,
That the fixt Centinels almoſt receive
The ſecret Whiſpers of each others Watch.
Fire anſwers fire, and though their paly flames
Each Battel ſees the others umber'd face.
Steed threatens Steed, in high and boaſtful Neighs
Pier[illegible] the Nights dull Ear: and from the Tents,
Th[illegible]urers accompliſhing the Knights,
W[illegible] Hammers cloſing Rivets up,
G[illegible]ful note of preparation.
T[illegible]unry Cocks do crow, the Clocks do towle:
[illegible]e third Hour of drowſie Morning nam'd,
[illegible]oud of their Numbers, and ſecure in Soul,
The confiden and over-luſty French,
Do the low-rated Engliſh play at Dice;
And chide the creeple-tardy-gated Night,
Who like a foul and ugly Witch doth limp
So tediouſly away. The poor condemned Engliſh,
Like Sacrifices, by their watchful Fires
Sit patiently, and inly ruminate
The Mornings danger, and their geſture ſad,
Inveſting lank-lean Cheeks, and War-worn Coats,
Preſented them unto the gazing Moon
So many horrid Ghoſts. O now who will behold
The Royal Captain of this ruin'd Band
Walking from Watch to Watch, from Tent to Tent;
Let him cry, Praiſe and Glory on his Head:
For forth he goes, and viſits all his Hoſt,
Bids them good morrow with a modeſt Smile,
And calls them Brothers, Friends, and Countrymen.
Upon this Royal Face there is no note,
How dread an Army hath enrounded him;
Nor doth he dedicate one jot of Colour
Unto the weary and all-watched Night:
But freſhly looks, and over-bears Attaint,
With chearful ſemblance, and ſweet Majeſty:
That every Wretch, pining and pale before,
Beholding him, plucks comfort from his Looks.
A Largeſs univerſal, like the Sun,
His liberal Eye doth give to every one,
Thawing cold fear, that mean and gentle all
Behold, as may unworthineſs define,
A little touch of Harry in the Night,
And ſo our Scene muſt to the Battel flie:
Where, O for pity, we ſhall much diſgrace,
With four or five moſt vile and ragged foils
(Right ill diſpos'd, in brawl ridiculous)
The Name of Agincourt. Yet ſit and ſee,

Minding

Minding true things, by what their Mock'ries be. [Exit.

Enter the King, Bedford, and Gloucester.

King. Gloſter, 'tis true that we are in great danger,
The greater therefore ſhould our Courage be.
Good morrow, Brother Bedford: God Almighty,
There is ſome ſoul of goodneſs in things evil,
Would men obſervingly diſtil it out.
For our bad Neighbour makes us early ſtirrers,
Which is both healthful, and good husbandry.
Beſides, they are our outward Conſciences,
And Preachers to us all; admoniſhing,
That we ſhould dreſs us fairly for our end.
Thus may we gather Honey from the Weed,
And make a Moral of the Devil himſelf.

Enter Erpingham.

Good morrow, old Sir Thomas Erpingham:
A good ſoft Pillow for that good white Head,
Were better than a churliſh turf of France.

Erping. Not ſo my Liege, this Lodging likes me better,
Since I may ſay, now lye I like a King.

King. 'Tis good for men to love their preſent pain,
Upon Example, ſo the Spirit is eaſed:
And when the Mind is quickned, out of doubt
The Organs, though defunct and dead before,
Break up their drowſie Grave, and newly move
With caſted ſlough, and freſh celerity,
Lend me thy Cloak, Sir Thomas: Brothers both,
Commend me to the Princes in our Camp:
Do my Good morrow to them, and anon
Deſire them all to my Pavilion.

Gloſter. We ſhall, my Liege.

Erping. Shall I attend your Grace?

King. No, my good Knight:
Go with my Brothers to my Lords of England:
I and my Boſom muſt debate a while,
And then I would no other company.

Erping. The Lord in Heaven bleſs thee, Noble Harry.
[Exeunt.

King. God a mercy old Heart, thou ſpeak'ſt chearfully.

Enter Piſtol.

Piſt. Che vous la?

King. A Friend.

Piſt. Diſcuſs unto me, art thou Officer, or art thou baſe, common, and popular?

King. I am Gentleman of a Company.

Piſt. Trayl'ſt thou the puiſſant Pike?

King. Even ſo: what are you?

Piſt. As good a Gentleman, as the Emperour.

King. Then you are better than the King.

Piſt. The King's a Bawcock, and a Heart of Gold, a Lad of Life, an Impe of Fame, of Parents good, of Fiſt moſt valiant: I kiſs his dirty ſhoo, and from heartſtring I love the lovely Bully. What is thy Name?

King. Harry le Roy.

P. Le Roy? a Corniſh Name: art thou of Corniſh Crew?

King. No, I am a Welchman.

Piſt. Know'ſt thou Fluellen?

King. Yes.

Piſt. Tell him, I'le knock his Leek about his Pate upon S. Davies day.

King. Do not you wear your Dagger in your Cap that day, leſt he knock that about yours.

Piſt. Art thou his Friend?

King. And his Kinſman too.

Piſt. The Figo for thee then.

King. I thank you: God be with you.

Piſt. My name is Piſtol call'd. [Exit.

King. It ſorts well with your fierceneſs.
[Manet King.

Enter Fluellen and Gower.

Gower. Captain Fluellen.

Flu. 'So, in the Name of Jeſu Chriſt, ſpeak fewer: it is the greateſt admiration in the univerſal World, when the true and auncient Prerogatifes and Laws of the Wars is not kept: if you would take the pains but to examine the Wars of Pompey the Great, you ſhall find, I warrant you, that there is no tiddle taddle, nor pibble babble in Pompey's Camp: I warrant you, you ſhall find the Ceremonies of the Wars, and the Cares of it, and the Forms of it, and the Sobriety of it, and the Modeſty of it, to be otherwiſe.

Gower. Why the Enemy is loud, your hear him all Night.

Flu. If the Enemy is an Aſs and a Fool, and a prating Coxcomb; is it meet, think you, that we ſhould alſo, look you, be an Aſs, and a Fool, and a prating Coxcomb, in your own conſcience now?

Gow. I will ſpeak lower.

Flu. I pray you, and beſeech you, that you will. [Exit.

King. Though it appear a little out of faſhion,
There is much Care and Valour in this Welchman.

Enter three Souldiers, John Bates, Alexander Court, and Michael Williams.

Court. Brother John Bates, is not that the Morning, which breaks yonder?

Bates. I think it be: but we have no great cauſe to deſire the approach of day.

Williams. We ſee yonder the beginning of the day, but I think we ſhall never ſee the end of it. Who goes there?

King. A Friend.

Will. Under what Captain ſerve you?

King. Under Sir John Erpingham.

Will. A good old Commander, and a moſt kind Gentleman: I pray you, what thinks he of our eſtate?

King. Even as men wrack't upon a Sand, that look to be waſh't off the next Tide.

Bates. He hath not told his thought to the King?

King. No: nor it is not meet he ſhould: for though I ſpeak it to you, I think the King is but a man, as I am: the Violet ſmells to him, as it doth to me; the Element ſhews to him, as it doth to me; all his ſenſes have but humane Conditions: his Ceremonies laid by, in his Nakedneſs he appears but a man; and though his affections are higher mounted than ours, yet when they ſtoop, they ſtoop with the like wing: therefore, when he ſees reaſon of fears, as we do; his fears, out of doubt, be of the ſame reliſh as ours are: yet in reaſon, no man ſhould poſſeſs him with any appearance of fear; leſt he, by ſhewing it, ſhould diſhearten his Army.

Bates. He may ſhew what outward courage he will: but, I believe as cold a Night as 'tis, he could wiſh himſelf in Thames up to the Neck; and ſo I would he were, and I by him, at all adventures, ſo we were quit here.

King. By my troth, I will ſpeak my conſcience of the King: I think he would not wiſh himſelf any where, but where he is.

Bates. Then would he were here alone; ſo ſhould he be ſure to be ranſomed, and a many poor mens lives ſaved.

King. I dare ſay, you love him not ſo ill, to wiſh him here alone: howſoever you ſpeak this to feel other mens minds, methinks I could not dye any where ſo contented, as in the Kings company: his Cauſe being juſt, and his Quarrel honorable.

Will. That's more than we know.

Bates. I, or more than we ſhould ſeek after; for we know enough, if we know we are the King's Subjects: if his Cauſe be wrong, our Obedience to the King wipes the Crime of it out of us.

Williams. But if the Cauſe be not good, the King himſelf hath a heavy Reckoning to make, when all thoſe Legs, and Arms, and Heads chop't off in a Battel, ſhall joyn together at the latter day, and cry all, We dyed at ſuch a place, ſome ſwearing, ſome crying for a Surgeon; ſome upon their Wives left poor behind them; ſome upon the Debts they ow, ſome upon their Children rawly left: I am afear'd, there are few die well, that die in Battel: for how can they charitably diſpoſe of any thing, when Blood is their argument? Now, if theſe men do not die well, it will be a black matter for the King, that led them to it; whom to diſobey, were againſt all proportion of ſubjection.

King. So, if a Son, that is by his Father ſent about Merchandize, do ſinfully miſcarry upon the Sea; the imputation of his wickedneſs, by your Rule, ſhould be impoſed upon his Father, that ſent him: or if a Servant, under his Maſter's command, tranſporting a ſum of Money, be aſſailed by Robbers, and die in many irreconcil'd Iniquities; you may call the buſineſs of the Maſter the Author of the Servants damnation: but this is not ſo; The King is not bound to anſwer the particular endings of his Souldiers, the Father of his Son, nor the Maſter of his Servant; for they purpoſe not their Death, when they purpoſe their Services. Beſides, there is no King, be his Cauſe never ſo ſpotleſs, if it come to the arbitrement of Swords, can try it out with all unſpotted Souldiers: ſome (peradventure) have on them the guilt of premeditated and contrived Murther; ſome, of beguiling Virgins with the broken Seals of Perjury; ſome, making the Wars their bulwark, that have before gored the gentle Boſom of Peace with Pillage and Robberie. Now if theſe men have defeated the Law, and outrun Native puniſhment; though they can out-ſtrip men, they have no wings to flie from God. War is his Beadle, War is his Vengeance: ſo that here men are puniſh't, for before breach of the Kings Laws, in now the Kings Quarrel: where they feared the death, they have born life away; and where they would be ſafe, they periſh. Then if they die unprovided, no more is the King guilty of their damnation, than he was before guilty of thoſe Impieties, for the which they are now viſited. Every Subjects Duty is the Kings, but every Subjects Soul is his own. Therefore ſhould every Souldier in the Wars, as every ſick man in his Bed, waſh every Moth out of his Conſcience: and dying ſo, Death is to him advantage; or not dying, the time was bleſſedly loſt, wherein ſuch preparation was gained; and in him that eſcapes, it were not ſin to think, that making God ſo free an offer, he let him outlive that day, to ſee his Greatneſs, and to teach others how they ſhould prepare.

Will. 'Tis certain, every man that dyes ill, the ill is upon his own head, the King is not to anſwer for it.

Bates. I do not deſire he ſhould anſwer for me, and yet I determine to fight luſtily for him.

King. I my ſelf heard the King ſay, he would not be ranſom'd.

Will. I, he ſaid ſo, to make us fight chearfully: but when our throats are cut, he may be ranſom'd, and we ne're the wiſer.

King. If I live to ſee it, I will never truſt his word after.

Will. You pay him then: that's a perilous ſhot our of an Elder-Gun, that a poor and private diſpleaſure can do againſt a Monarch: you may as well go about to turn the Sun to Ice, with fanning in his Face with a Peacocks Feather: You'll never truſt his word after! come, 'tis a fooliſh ſaying.

King. Your reproof is ſomething too round, I ſhould be angry with you, if the time convenient.

Will. Let it be a Quarrel between us, if you live.

King. I embrace it.

Will. How ſhall I know thee again?

King. Give me any Gage of thine, and I will wear it in my Bonnet: Then if ever thou dar'ſt acknowledge it, I will make it my Quarrel.

Will. Here's my Glove: Give me another of thine.

King. There.

Will. This will I alſo wear in my Cap: if ever thou come to me, and ſay, after to morrow, This is my Glove, by this Hand I will give thee a box on the ear.

King. If ever I live to ſee it, I will challenge it.

Will. Thou dar'ſt as well be hang'd.

King. Well. I will do it, though I take thee in the King's company.

Will. Keep thy word: fare thee well.

Bates. Be Friends, you Engliſh Fools, be Friends, we have French Quarrels enow, if you could tell how to reckon.

Exeunt Souldiers.

King. Indeed the French may lay twenty French Crowns to one, they will beat us, for they bear them on their ſhoulders: but it is no Engliſh Treaſon to cut French Crowns, and to morrow the King himſelf will be a Clipper.

Upon the King, let us, our Lives, our Souls,
Our debts, our careful Wives,
Our Children, and our Sins, lay on the King:
He muſt bear all.
O hard Condition, twin-born with Greatneſs,
Subject to the breath of every Fool, whoſe ſenſe
No more can feel, but his own wringing.
What infinite heart-eaſe muſt Kings neglect,
That private men enjoy?
And what have Kings, that Privates have not too,
Save Ceremony, ſave general Ceremony?
And what art thou, thou Idol Ceremony?
What kind of God art thou? that ſuffer'ſt more
Of mortal griefs, than do thy Worſhippers,
What are thy Rents? what are thy Comings in?
O Ceremony, ſhew me but thy worth.
What? is thy Soul of Adoration?
Art thou ought elſe but Place, Degree, and Form,
Creating aw and fear in other men?
Wherein thou art leſs happy, being fear'd,
Than they in fearing.
What drink'ſt thou oft, in ſtead of Homage ſweet,
But poiſon'd flattery? O, be ſick, great Greatneſs,
And bid thy Ceremony give thee cure.
Thinks thou the fiery Feaver will go out
With titles blown from Adulation?
Will it give place to flexure and low bending?
Can'ſt thou, when thou command'ſt the beggars knee,
Command the health of it? No, thou proud Dream,
Thou play'ſt ſo ſubtilly with a King's Repoſe,
I am a King that find thee: and I know,
'Tis not the Balm, the Scepter, and the Ball,
The Sword, the Mace, the Crown Imperial,
The enter-tiſſued Robe of Gold and Pearl,
The farſed Title running 'fore the King,
The Throne he ſits on: nor the Tide of Pomp,
That beats upon the high ſhoar of this World:
No, not all theſe, thrice-gorgeous Ceremonies,
Not all theſe, laid in bed Majeſtical,
Can ſleep ſo ſoundly, as the wretched Slave:
Who with a body fill'd, and vacant mind,
Gets him to reſt, cramm'd with diſtreſsful bread,
Never ſees horrid Night, the Child of Hell:
But like a Lacquey, from the Riſe to Set,
Sweats in the eye of Phœbus; and all night
Sleeps in Elyſium: next day after dawn,
Doth riſe and help Hyperion to his Horſe,
And follows ſo the ever-running year
With profitable labour to his Grave:
And but for Ceremony, ſuch a Wretch,
Winding up Days with toyl, and Nights with ſleep,

Had

Had the fore-hand and vantage of a King.
The Slave, a Member of the Countries peace,
Enjoys it: but in groſs brain little wots,
What watch the King keeps, to maintain the peace;
Whoſe hours the Peaſant beſt advantages.

Enter Erpingham.

Erp. My Lord, your Nobles jealous of your abſence,
Seek through your Camp to find you.
King. Good old Knight, collect them all together,,
At my Tent: I'le be before thee.
Erp. I ſhall do't, my Lord. [Exit.
King. O God of Battels, ſteel my Souldiers hearts,
Poſſeſs them not with fear: Take from them now
The ſenſe of reck'ning of the oppoſed numbers:
Pluck their hearts from them. Not to day, O Lord,
O not to day, think not upon the fault,
My Father made, in compaſſing the Crown.
I Richard's Body have interred new,
And on it have beſtowed more contrite tears,
Than from it iſſued forced drops of Blood.
Five hundred poor I have in yearly pay,
Who twice a day their wither'd hands hold up
Toward Heaven, to pardon blood:
And I have built two Chauntries,
Where the ſad and ſolemn Prieſts ſing ſtill
For Richard's Soul. More will I do:
Though all that I can do, is nothing worth:
Since that my Penitence comes after all,
Imploring Pardon.

Enter Glouceſter.

Glouc. My Liege.
King. My Brother Glouceſter's voice?
I know thy errand, I will go with thee:
The day, my Friend, and all things ſtay for me. [Exeunt.

Enter the Dolphin, Orleance, Ramburs, and Beaumont.

Orleance. The Sun doth gild our Armour, up, my Lords.
Dolph. Monte Cheval: My Horſe, Valet Lacquay: Ha.
Orl. Oh brave Spirit!
Dolph. Via les ewes & terre.
Orl. Rien puis le air & feu.
Dolph. Cien, Couſin Orleance. [Enter Conſtable.
Now my Lord Conſtable?
Conſt. Heark how our Steeds for preſent ſervice neigh.
Dolph. Mount them, and make inciſion in their Hides,
That their hot blood may ſpin in Engliſh eyes,
And doubt them with ſuperfluous courage: ha.
Ram. What, will you have them weep our Horſes blood?
How ſhall we then behold their natural tears?

Enter Meſſenger.

Meſſenger. The Engliſh are embattel'd, you French Peers.
Conſt. To Horſe, you gallant Princes, ſtreight to Horſe.
Do but behold yond poor and ſtarved Band,
And your fair ſhew ſhall ſuck away their Souls,
Leaving them but the ſhales and husks of men.
There is not work enough for all our hands,
Scarce blood enough in all their ſickly Veins,,
To give each naked Curtle-ax a ſtain,
That our French Gallants ſhall to day draw out,
And ſheath for lack of ſport. Let us but blow on them.
The vapour of our Valour will o're-turn them.
'Tis poſitive 'gainſt all exception, Lords,
That our ſuperfluous Lacquies, and our Peaſants,
Who in unneceſſary action ſwarm
About our Squares of Battel, were enow
To purge this Field of ſuch a hilding Foe;
Though we upon this Mountains Baſis by,
Took ſtand for idle ſpeculation:
But that our Honours muſt not. What's to ſay?
A very little little let us do,
And all is done: then let the Trumpets ſound
The Tucket Sonuance, and the Note to mount:
For our approach ſhall ſo much dare the Field,
That England ſhall couch down in fear, and yeild.

Enter Graundpree.

Graund. Why do you ſtay ſo long, my Lords of France?
Yond Iſland Carrions, deſperate of their Bones,
Ill-favour'dly become the Morning Field:
Their ragged Curtains poorly are let looſe,
And our air ſhakes them paſſing ſcornfully.
Big Mars ſeems banqu'rout in their begger'd Hoſt,
And faintly through a ruſty Bever peeps,
The Horſemen ſit like fixed Candleſticks,
With Torch-ſtaves in their hand: and their poor Jades
Lob down their heads, drooping the hide and hips:
The Gum down roping from their pale-dead eyes,
And in their pale dull Mouths the Jymold Bitt
Lyes foul with chaw'd graſs, ſtill and motionleſs,
And their Executors, the knaviſh Crows,
Flye o're them all, impatient for their hour.
Deſcription cannot ſuit it ſelf in words,
To demonſtrate the Life of ſuch a Battel,
In life ſo liveleſs, as it ſhews it ſelf.
Conſt. They have ſaid their Prayers,
And they ſtay for death.
Dol. Shall we go ſend them Dinners, and freſh Sutes,
Aud give their faſting Horſes Provender,
And after fight with them?
Conſt. I ſtay but for my Guard: on
To the Field, I will the Banner from a Trumpet take,
And uſe it for my haſte. Come, come away,
The Sun is high, and we out-wear the day. [Exeunt.

Enter Glouceſter, Bedford, Exeter, Erpingham with all his Hoſt: Salisbury, and Weſtmerland.

Glouceſt. Where is the King?
Bedf. The King himſelf is rode to view their Battel.
Weſt. Of fighting men they haue full threeſcore thouſand.
Exe. There's five to one, beſides they all are freſh.
Saliſb. Gods Arm ſtrike with us, 'tis a fearful odds.
God buy' you Princes all; I'le to my Charge:
If we no more meet, 'till we meet in Heaven;
Then joyfully, my Noble Lord of Bedford,
My dear Lord Glouceſter, and my good Lord Exeter,
And my kind Kinſman, Warriors all, adieu.
Bed. Farewel, good Saliſbury, and good luck go with
And yet I do thee wrong, to mind thee of it, [thee:
For thou art fam'd of the firm truth of Valour,
Exe. Farewel, kind Lord: fight valiantly to day.
Bed. He is as full of valour as of kindneſs,
Princely in both.

Enter the King.

Weſt. O that we now had here
But one ten thouſand of thoſe men in England,
That do no work to day.
King. What's he that wiſhes ſo?
My Couſin Weſtmerland. No, my fair Couſin:
If we are markt to die, we are enow
To do our Countrey loſs: and if to live,
The fewer men, the greater ſhare of Honour.
Gods will, I pray thee wiſh not one man more.
By Jove, I am not covetous for Gold,
Nor care I, who doth feed upon my coſt:
It yerns me not, if men my Garments wear;
Such outward things dwell not in my deſires.
But if it be a ſin to covet Honour,

I am

I am the moſt offending Soul alive.
No 'faith, my Couze, wiſh not a man from England:
God's peace, I would not loſe ſo great an Honour,
As one man more me-thinks would ſhare from me,
For the beſt hope I have. O, do not wiſh one more:
Rather proclaim it (Weſtmerland) through my Hoſt;
That he which hath no ſtomack to this Fight,
Let him depart, his Paſport ſhall be made,
And Crowns for Convoy put into his Purſe:
We would not die in that man's company,
That fears his fellowſhip, to die with us.
This day is call'd the Feaſt of Criſpian:
He that out-lives this day, and comes ſafe home,
Will ſtand a tip-toe when this day is named,
And rouze him at the Name of Criſpian:
He that ſhall ſee this day, and live old age,
Will yearly on the Vigil feaſt his Neighbours,
And ſay to morrow is Saint Criſpian:
Then will he ſtrip his ſleeve, and ſhew his Scars:
Old men forget; yet all ſhall not be forgot:
But he'll remember, with advantages,
What feats he did that day. Then ſhall our Names,
Familiar in his mouth as houſhold words,
Harry the King, Bedford and Exeter,
Warwick and Talbot, Salisbury and Glouceſter,
Be in their flowing Cups freſhly remembred.
This ſtory ſhall the good man teach his Son:
And Criſpine Criſpian ſhall ne're go by,
From this day to the ending of the World,
But we in it ſhall be remembred;
We few, we happy few, we band of Brothers:
For he to day that ſheds his blood with me,
Shall be my Brother: be he ne're ſo vile,
This day ſhall gentile his condition.
And Gentlemen in England now a-bed,
Shall think themſelves accurs'd they were not here;
And hold their Manhoods cheap, whiles any ſpeaks,
That fought with us upon Saint Criſpian's day.

Enter Salisbury.

Sal. My Soveraign Lord, beſtow your ſelf with ſpeed:
The French are bravely in their Battels ſet,
And will with all expedience charge on us.
King. All things are ready, if our minds be ſo.
Weſt. Periſh the man, whoſe mind is backward now.
King. Thou do'ſt not wiſh more help from England, Couze?
Weſt. God will, my Liege, would you and I alone,
Without more help could fight this Royal Battel.
King. Why now thou haſt unwiſht five thouſand men:
Which likes me better, than to wiſh us one.
You know your places: God be with you all.

Tucket. Enter Montjoy.

Mon. Once more I come to know of thee, King Harry,
If for thy Ranſom thou wilt now compound,
Before thy moſt aſſured Overthrow:
For certainly, thou art ſo near the Gulf,
Thou needs muſt be englutted. Beſides, in mercy
The Conſtable deſires thee, thou wilt mind
Thy Followers of Repentance; that their Souls
May make a peaceful and a ſweet Retire
From off theſe Fields: where (Wretches) their poor Bodies
Muſt lye and feſter.
King. Who hath ſent thee now?
Mon. The Conſtable of France.
King. I pray thee bear my former Anſwer back:
Bid them atchieve me, and then ſell my Bones.
Good God! why ſhould they mock poor Fellows thus?
The man that once did ſell the Lyon's skin
While the beaſt liv'd, was kill'd with hunting him.
And many of our Bodies ſhall no doubt
Find Na ive Graves: upon the which, I truſt
Shall witneſs live in Braſs of this days work.
And thoſe that leave their valiant Bones in France,
Dying like men, though buried in your Dunghills,
They ſhall be fam'd: for there the Sun ſhall greet them,
And draw their Honours reeking up to Heaven,
Leaving their earthly parts to choak your Clime,
The ſmell whereof ſhall breed a Plague in France.
Mark then abounding valour in our Engliſh:
That being dead, like to the Bullets graſing,
Break out into a ſecond courſe of miſchief,
Killing in relapſe of Mortality.
Let me ſpeak proudly: Tell the Conſtable,
We are but Warriors for the working day:
Our Gayneſs and our Gilt are all be-ſmircht
With rainy Marching in the painful Field.
There's not a piece of Feather in our Hoſt:
Good argument (I hope) we will not flie:
And time hath worn us into ſlovenry.
But by the Maſs, our hearts are in the trim:
And my poor Souldiers tell me, yet e're night,
They'le be in freſher Robes, or they will pluck
The gay new Coats o're the French Souldiers heads,
And turn them out of ſervice. If they do this,
As if God pleaſe, they ſhall; my Ranſom then
Will ſoon be levyed.
Herald, ſave thou thy labour:
Come thou no more for Ranſom, gentle Herald,
They ſhall have none, I ſwear, but theſe my Joynts:
Which if they have as I will leave 'um them,
Shall yield them little, tell the Conſtable.
Mon. I ſhall, King Harry. And ſo fare thee well:
Thou never ſhalt hear Herald any more. [Exit.
King. I fear thou wilt once more come again for a Ranſom.

Enter York.

York. My Lord, moſt humbly on my knee I beg
The leading of the Vaward.
King. Take it, brave York.
Now Souldiers march away;
And how thou pleaſeſt, God, diſpoſe the day. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Excurſions.

Enter Piſtol, French Souldier, Boy.

Piſt. Yield Cur.
French. Ie penſe que vous eſtes le Gentil-homme de bone qualité.
Piſt. Quality calmy cuſture me. Art thou a Gentleman? what is thy Name? diſcuſs.
French. O Seigneur Dieu.
Piſt. O Signieur Dewe ſhould be a Gentleman: perpend my words O Signieur Dew, and mark: O Signieur Dewe, thou dyeſt on point of Fox, except O Signieur thou do give to me egregious Ranſom.
French. O prennez miſericorde ayez pitie de moy.
Piſt. Moy ſhall not ſerve, I will have forty Moyes: for I will fetch thy rym out at thy Throat, in drops of Crimſon blood.
French. Eſt-il impoſſibile d'eſchapper la force de ton bras.
Piſt. Braſs, Cur? thou damned and luxurious Mountain Goat, offer'ſt me Braſs?
French. O pardonne moy.
Piſt. Say'ſt thou me ſo? is that a Ton of Moyes? Come hither Boy, ask me this Slave in French what is his Name.
Boy. Eſcoute comment eſtes vous appellé?
French. Monſieur le Fer.
Boy. He ſays his name is Mr. Fer.
Piſt. Mr. Fer: I'le fer him, and firk him, and ferret him: diſcuſs the ſame in French unto him.
Boy. I do not know the French for fer, and ferret, and firk.
Piſt. Bid him prepare, for I will cut his throat.
French. Que dit-il Monſieur?
Boy. Il me commande de vous dire que vous vous teniez preſt, car ce ſoldat icy eſt diſpoſee tout aſſure de

couper

couper voſtre gorge.

Piſt. Owy, cuppele gorge parmafoy peſant, unleſs thou give me Crowns, brave Crowns, or mangled ſhalt thou be by this my Sword.

French. O Ie vous ſupplie pour l' amour de Dieu: me pardonner, Ie ſuis Gentilhome de bonne maiſon, gar de ma vie, & Je vous donner ay deux cents eſcus.

Piſt. What are his words?

Boy. He prays you to ſave his life, he is a Gentleman of a good houſe, and for his Ranſom he will give you two hundred Crowns.

Piſt. Tell him my fury ſhall abate, and I the Crowns will take.

French. Petit Monſieur que dit-ill?

Boy. Encore qu'il eſt contre ſon Jurement, de pardonner aucun priſonnier: neant moins pour les eſcus que vous luy promittez, il eſt content de vous donner la liberté de franchiſe.

Fre. Sur mes genoux ie voux donne milles remerciement, & ie me eſtime heureux qui ie ne tombe entre les mains d'un Chevalier, ie penſe le plus brave, valiant, & tres deſtiné Signeur d' Angleterre.

Piſt. Expound unto me, Boy.

Boy. He gives you upon his knees a thouſand thanks, and eſteems himſelf happy, that he hath fal'n into the hands of one (as he thinks) the moſt brave, valorous, and thrice-worthy Signeur of England.

Piſt. As I ſuck blood, I will ſome mercy ſhew. Follow me.

Boy. Suave vous le grand Capitain!

I did never know ſo woful a voice iſſue from ſo empty a heart: but the Song is true, the empty veſſel makes the greateſt ſound. Bardolf and Nim had ten times more valour than this roaring Devil i'th' old Play, that every one may pair his nails with a wooden dagger, and they are both hang'd, and ſo would this be, if he durſt ſteal any thing adventurouſly. I muſt ſtay with the Lackies, with the luggage of our Camp, the French might have a good prey of us, if he knew of it, for there is none to guard it but Boys. [Exit.

Enter Conſtable, Orleance, Burbon, Dolphin, and Ramburs.

Con. O Diable.

Orl. O Signeur le jour & perdia, toute & perdie.

Dol. Mort Dieu ma vie, all is confounded, all,
Reproach, and everlaſting ſhame
Sits mocking in our Plumes. [A ſhort Alarum.
O meſchante fortune, do not run away.

Con. Why, all our Ranks are broke.

Dol. O perdurable ſhame, let's ſtab our ſelves:
Be theſe the Wretches that we play'd at Dice for?

Orl. Is this the King we ſent to, for his Ranſom?

Bur. Shame, and eternal ſhame, nothing but ſhame,
Let us flye in once more back again,
And he that will not follow Burbon now,
Let him go hence, and with his Cap in hand
Like a baſe Pander, hold the Chamber-door,
Whilſt by a baſe Slave, no gentler than my Dog,
His faireſt Daughter is contaminated.

Con. Diſorder, that hath ſpoyl'd us, Friend us now,
Let us on heaps go offer up our lives.

Orl. We are enow yet living in the Field,
To ſmother up the Engliſh in our Throngs
If any order might be thought upon.

Bur. The Devil take Order now, I'le to the throng;
Let Life be ſhort, elſe ſhame will be too long. [Exit.

Alarum. Enter the King and his Train, with Priſoners.

King. Well have we done, thrice valiant Countrymen,
But all's not done, yet keep the French the Field.

Exe. The D. of York commends him to your Majeſty.

King. Lives he, good Uncle: thrice within this hour
I ſaw him down: thrice up again, and fighting,
From Helmet to the Spur all Blood he was.

Exe. In which array (brave Souldier) doth he lye,
Larding the plain: and by his bloody ſide,
(Yoak-fellow to his Honour-owing wounds)
The Noble Earl of Suffolk alſo lyes.
Suffolk firſt dyed, and York all hagled over
Comes to him, where in gore he lay inſteeped,
And takes him by the Beard, kiſſes the gaſhes
That bloodily did yawn upon his face.
He crys aloud: Tarry my Couſin Suffolk,
My Soul ſhall thine keep company to Heaven:
Tarry (ſweet Soul) for mine, then flye a-breaſt:
As in this glorious and well-foughten Field
We kept together in our Chivalry.
Upon theſe words I came, and cheer'd him up,
He ſmil'd me in the Face, caught me his Hand,
And with a feeble gripe, ſays, Dear my Lord,
Commend my ſervice to my Soveraign;
So did he turn, and over Suffolk's neck
He threw his wounded Arm, and kiſt his lips,
And ſo eſpous'd to death, with blood he ſeal'd
A Teſtament of Noble-ending-Love:
The pretty and ſweet manner of it forc'd
Thoſe waters from me, which I would have ſtop'd,
But I had not ſo much of man in me,
And all my Mother came into mine Eyes,
And gave me up to Tears.

King. I blame you not,
For hearing this I muſt perforce compound
With mixtful Eyes, or they will iſſue too. [Alarum.
But heark, what new alarum is this ſame?
The French have re-enforc'd their ſcatter'd men:
Then every Souldier kill his Priſoners,
Give the word through.

Actus Quartus.

Enter Fluellen, and Gower.

Flu. Kill the poyes and the luggage, 'Tis expreſly againſt the Law of Arms, 'tis as arrant a piece of Knavery, mark you now, as can be offert in your Conſcience now, is it not?

Gow. 'Tis certain, there's not a Boy left alive, and the Cowardly Raſcals that ran away from the Battel, ha' don this Slaughter: beſides, they have burned and carried away all that was in the King's Tent, wherefore the King moſt worthily hath caus'd every Souldier to cut his Priſoner's throat. O 'tis a gallant King.

Flu. I, he was porn at Monmouth, Captain Gower: what call you the Town's name, where Alexander the pig was born?

Gow. Alexander the Great,

Flue. Why I pray you, is not pig, great? The pig, or the great, or the mighty, or the huge, or the magnanimous are all one reckonings, ſave the phraſe is a little variations.

Gow. I think Alexander the Great was born in Macedon, his Father was called Philip of Macedon, as I take it.

Flu. I think it is in Macedon, where Alexander is porn: I tell you Captain, if you look in the Maps of the Orld, I warrant you ſall find in the compariſons between Macedon and Monmouth, that the ſituations, look you, is both alike. There is a River in Macedon, and there is alſo moreover a River at Monmouth, it is call'd Wye at Monmouth: but it is out of my prains, what is the name of the other River, but 'tis all one, 'tis alike as my Fingers is to my Fingers, and there is Salmons in both. If you mark mark Alexander's life well, Harry of Monmouth's life is come after it indifferent well, for there is Figures in all things. Alexander, God knows, and you know, in his rages, and his furies, and his wraths, and his cholers, and his moods, and his diſpleaſures, and his indignations, and alſo being a little intoxicates in his prains, did in his Ales and his angers, (look you) kill his beſt Friend Clytus.

Gow. Our King is not like him in that, he never kill'd any] of his Friends.

Flu. It is not well done (mark you now) to take the tales out of my mouth, e're it is made and finiſhed. I ſpeak but in the Figures, and Compariſons of it: as Alexander kill'd his Friend Clytus, being in his Ales and his Cups; ſo alſo Harry Monmouth being in his right wits, and his good judgements, turn'd away the fat Knight with the great belly doublet: he was full of jeſt, and gypes, and knaveries, and mocks, I have forgot his name.

Gow. Sir John Falſtaff.

Flu. That is he: I'le tell you, there is good men porn at Monmouth.

Gow. Here comes his Majeſty.

Alarum. Enter King Harry and Burbon with Priſoners. Flouriſh.

King. I was not angry ſince I came to France,
Until this inſtant. Take a Trumpet, Herald,
Ride thou unto the Horſemen on yond hill:
If they will fight with us, bid them come down,
Or voyd the Field: they do offend our ſight.
If they'll do neither, we will come to them,
And make them ſker away, as ſwift as ſtones
Enforced from the old Aſſyrian ſlings:
Beſides, we'll cut the throats of thoſe we have,
And not a man of them that we ſhall take,
Shall taſte our mercy. Go and tell them ſo.

Enter Montjoy.

Exe. Here comes the Herald of the French, my Liege.

Glou. His Eyes are humbler than they us'd to be.

King. How now, what means their Herald? Know'ſt thou not,
That I have fin'd theſe Bones of mine for Ranſom?
Com'ſt thou again for Ranſom?

Her. No, great King:
I come to thee for charitable Licenſe,
That we may wander o're this bloody Field,
To book our dead, and then to bury them,
To ſort our Nobles from our common men.
For many of our Princes (woe the while)
Lie drown'd and ſoak'd in mercenary blood:
So do our vulgar drench their peaſant limbs
In blood of Princes, and with wounded Steeds
Fret fet-lock deep in gore, and with wilde rage
Yerk out their armed heels at their dead Maſters,
Killing them twice. O give us leave great King,
To view the Field in ſafety, and diſpoſe
Of their dead Bodies.

King. I tell thee truly, Herald,
I know not if the day be ours or no,
For yet a many of your Horſemen peer,
And gallop o're the Field.

Her. The day is yours.

King. Praiſed be God, and not our ſtrength for it:
What is this Caſtle call'd, that ſtands hard by.

Her. They call it Agincourt.

King. Then call we this the Field of Agincourt,
Fought on the day of Criſpin Criſpianus.

Flu. Your Grandfather of famous memory (an't pleaſe your Majeſty) and your great Uncle Edward the Plack Prince of Wales, as I have read in the Chronicles, fought moſt prave pattle here in France.

King. They did, Fluellen.

Flu. Your Majeſty ſays very true: If your Majeſties is remembred of it, the Welchmen did good ſervice in a Garden where Leeks did grow, wearing Leeks in their Monmouth Caps, which your Majeſty know to this hour is an honorable Badge of the ſervice: And I do believe your Majeſty takes no ſcorn to wear the Leek upon S. Tavic's day.

King. I wear it for a memorable Honour:
For I am Welch you know, good Countryman.

Flu. All the water in Wye, cannot waſh your Majeſties Welſh plood out of your pody, I can tell you that: God pleſs, and preſerve it, as long as it pleaſes his Grace, and his Majeſty too.

King. Thanks, good my Countryman.

Flu. By Jeſhu, I am your Majeſties Countryman, I care not who know it: I will confeſs it to all the Orld, I need not to be aſhamed of your Majeſty, praiſed be God, ſo long as your Majeſty is an honeſt man.

King. God keep me ſo.

Enter Williams.

Our Heralds go with him,
Bring me juſt notice of the numbers dead
On both our Parts. Call yonder Fellow hither.

Exe. Souldier, you muſt come to the King.

King. Souldier, why wear'ſt thou that Glove in thy Cap?

Will. And't pleaſe your Majeſty, 'tis the Gage of one that I ſhould fight withall, if he be alive.

King. An Engliſhman?

Will. And't pleaſe your Majeſty, a Raſcal that ſwagger'd with me laſt night: who if alive, and ever dare to challenge this Glove, I have ſworn to take him a box o'th'ear: or if I can ſee my Glove in his Cap, which he ſwore as he was a Souldier he would wear, (if alive) I will ſtrike it out ſoundly.

King. What think you, Captain Fluellen, is it fit this Souldier keep his Oath?

Flu. He is a Craven and a Villain elſe, and't pleaſe your Majeſty in my Conſcience.

King. It may be, his Enemy is a Gentleman of great ſort, quite from the anſwer of his degree.

Flu. Though he be as good a Jentleman as the Devil is, as Lucifer and Belzebub himſelf, it is neceſſary (look your Grace) that he keep his Vow and his Oath: If he be perjur'd (ſee you now) his reputation is as arrant a Villain and a Jack ſawce, as ever his black ſhoo trod upon Gods ground, and his earth, in my conſcience, law.

King. Then keep thy vow, Sirrah, when thou meet'ſt the Fellow.

Will. So, I will my Liege, as I live.

King. Who ſerv'ſt thou under?

Will. Under Captain Gower, my Liege.

Flu. Gower is a good Captain, and is good knowledge and literatured in the Wars.

King. Call him hither to me, Souldier.

Will. I will, my Liege. [Exit.

King. Here Fluellen, wear thou this favour for me, and ſtick it in thy Cap: when Alanſon and my ſelf were down together, I pluck't this Glove from his Helm: if any man challenge this, he is a Friend to Alanſon, and an Enemy to our Perſon, if thou encounter any ſuch, apprehend him, and thou do'ſt me love.

Flu. Your Grace does me as great Honours, as can be deſir'd in the hearts of his Subjects: I would fain ſee the man, that has but two legs, that ſhall find himſelf agriev'd at this Glove; that is all: but I would fain ſee it once, and pleaſe God of his grace that I might ſee.

King. Know'ſt thou Gower?

Flu. He is my dear friend, and pleaſe you.

King. Pray thee go ſeek him, and bring him to my Tent?

Flu. I will fetch him. [Exit.

King. My Lord of Warwick, and my brother Gloſter,
Follow Fluellen cloſely at the heels,
The Glove which I have given him for a Favour
May haply purchaſe him a box o'th'ear.
It is the Souldiers: I by bargain ſhould

Wear

Wear it my self. Follow, good Cousin Warwick:
If that the Souldier strike him, as I judge
By this blunt bearing, he will keep his word;
Some sudden mischief may arise of it:
For I do know Fluellen valiant,
And touch't with Choler, hot as Gunpowder,
And quickly will return an injury.
Follow, and see there be not harm between them.
Go you with me, Uncle of Exeter. Exeunt.

Enter Gower and Williams.

Will. I warrant it is to Knight you, Captain.

Enter Fluellen.

Flu. Gods will, and his pleasure, Captain, I beseech you now, come apace to the King: there is more good toward you peradventure, then is in your knowledge to dream of.

Will. Sir, know you this Glove?

Flu. Know the Glove? I know the Glove is a Glove.

Will. I know this, and thus I challenge it.

[Strikes him.

Flu. 'Sbud, an arrant Traitor as any's in the Universal World, or in France, or in England.

Gow. How now, Sir? you Villain.

Will. Do you think, I'le be forsworn?

Flu. Stand away, Captain Gower, I will give Treason his payment into plows, I warrant you.

Will. I am no Traitor,

Flu. That's a Lie in thy Throat. I charge you in his Majesties Name apprehend him, he's a friend of the Duke Alansons.

Enter Warwick and Glouc̃ester.

War. How now, how now, what's the matter?

Flu. My Lord of Warwick, here is, praised be God for it, a most contagious Treason come to light, look you, as you shall desire in a Summers day. Here is his Majesty.

Enter King, and Exeter.

King. How now, what's the matter?

Flu. My Leige, here is a Villain and a Traitour, that, look your Grace, ha's struck the Glove which your Majesty is take out of the Helmet of Alanson.

Will. My Liege, this was my Glove, here is the Fellow of it: and he that I gave it to in change, promis'd to wear in his Cap: I promis'd to strike him, if he did: I met this man with my Glove in his Cap, and I have been as good as my word.

Flu. Your Majesty hear now, saving your Majesties Man-hood, what an arrant, rascally, beggarly, lowsie Knave it is: I hope your Majesty is pear me testimony and witness, and will avouchment, that this is the Glove of Alanson, that your Majesties give me, in your Conscience now.

King. Give me thy Glove, Souldier;
Look, here is the fellow of it:
'Twas I indeed thou promisedst to strike.
And thou hast given me most bitter terms.

Flu. And please your Majesty, let his Neck answer for it, if there is any Marshal Law in the world.

King. How canst thou make me satisfaction?

Will. All offences, my Lord, come from the heart: never came any from mine, that might offend your Majesty.

King. It was our self thou didst abuse.

Will. Your Majesty came not like your self: you appear'd to me but as a common man: witness the Night, your Garments, your Lowliness: and what your Highness suffer'd under that shape, I beseech you take it for your own fault, and not mine; for had you been as I took you for, I made no offence; therefore I beseech your Highness pardon me.

King. Here Uncle Exeter, fill this Glove with Crowns,
And give it to this Fellow. Keep it Fellow,
And wear it for an Honor in thy Cap,
Till I do challenge it. Give him the Crowns:
And, Captain, you must needs be friends with him.

Flu. By this Day and this Light, the fellow has mettle enough in his belly: hold, there is twelve-pence for you, and I pray you serve God, and keep you out of prawls and prabbles, and quarrels and dissentions, and I warrant you it is the better for you.

Will. I will none of your Money.

Flu. It is with a good will: I can tell you it will serve you to mend your shoos; come, wherefore should you be so pashful; your shoos is not so good; 'tis a good silling I warrant you, or I will change it.

Enter Herald.

King. Now Herald, are the dead numbred?

Her. Here is the number of the slaught'red French.

King. What Prisoners of good sort are taken, Uncle?

Exe. Charles Duke of Orleance, Nephew to the King,
John Duke of Burbon, and Lord Bouchiqualds:
Of other Lords and Barons, Knights and Squires,
Full fifteen hundred, besides common men.

King. This Note doth tell me of ten thousand French
That in the Field lie slain: of Princes in this number,
And Nobles bearing Banners, there lye dead
One hundred twenty six: added to these,
Of Knights, Esquires, and gallant Gentlemen,
Eight thousand and four hundred: of the which,
Five hundred were but yesterday dubb'd Knights,
So that in these ten thousand they have lost,
There are but sixteen hundred Mercenaries:
The rest are Princes, Barons, Lords, Knights, Squires,
And Gentlemen of blood and Quality,
The Names of those their Nobles that lie dead:
Charles Delabreth, High Constable of France,
Jacques of Chatilion, Admiral of France,
The Master of the Cross-bows, Lord Rambures,
Great Master of France, the brave Sir Guichard Dolphin,
John Duke of Alanson, Anthonio Duke of Brabant,
The Brother to the Duke of Burgundy,
And Edward Duke of Barr: of lusty Earls,
Grandpree and Roussie, Faulconbridge and Foyes,
Beaumont and Marle, Vaudemont and Lestrale.
Here was a Royal fellowship of death.
Where is the number of our English dead?
Edward the Duke of York, the Earl of Suffolk,
Sir Richard Ketly, Davy Gam Esquire;
None else of name: and of all other men,
But five and twenty.

King. O God, thy Arm was here:
And not to us, but to thy Arm alone,
Ascribe we all: when, without stratagem,
But in plain shock, and even play of Battel,
Was ever known so great and little loss?
On one part and on th'other, take it God,
For it is none's, but thine.

Exet. 'Tis wonderful.

King. Come, go we in Procession to the Village:
And be it death proclaimed through our Host,
To boast of this, or take that praise from God,
Which is his onely.

Flu. Is it not lawful and please your Majesty, to tell how many is kill'd?

King. Yes, Captain; but with this acknowledgement,
That God fought for us.

Flu. Yes, my conscience, he did us great good.

King. Do we all holy Rights;
Let there be sung Non nobis, and Te Deum,
The dead with charity enclos'd in Clay:
And then to Calice, and to England then,
Where ne're from France arriv'd more happy men.

Exeunt.

Acts

Actus Quintus.

Enter Chorus.

Vouchſafe to thoſe that have not read the Story,
That I may prompt them: and of ſuch as have,
I humbly pray them to admit th'excuſe
Of time, of numbers, and due courſe of things
Which cannot in their huge and proper life
Be here preſented. Now we bear the King
Toward Callice: grant him there; And there being ſeen,
Heave him away upon your winged thoughts,
Athwart the Sea; Behold the Engliſh beach
Pales in the flood, with Men, with Wives, and Boys,
Whoſe ſhouts and claps out-voyce the deep-mouth'd Sea,
Which like a mighty Whiffler 'fore the King
Seems to prepare his way: So let him land,
And ſolemnly ſee him ſet on to London.
So ſwift a pace hath Thought, that even now
You may imagine him upon Black-Heath:
Where, that his Lords deſire him, to have born
His bruiſed Helmet, and his bended Sword
Before him, through the City: he forbids it,
Being free from vainneſs, and ſelf-glorious pride:
Giving full Trophee, Signal, and Oſtent,
Quite from himſelf, to God. But now behold,
In the quick Forge and working-houſe of Thought,
How London doth pour out her Citizens,
The Mayor, and all his Brethren in beſt ſort,
Like to the Senators of th'antique Rome,
With the Plebeians ſwarming at their heels,
Go forth and fetch their Conqu'ring Caſar in:
As by a lower, but by loving likelihood,
Were now the General of our gracious Empreſs,
As in good time he may, from Ireland coming,
Bringing Rebellion broached on his Sword;
How many would the peaceful City quit.
To welcome him? much more, and much more cauſe,
Did they this Harry. Now in London place him.
As yet the lamentation of the French
Invites the King of England's ſtay at home:
The Emperour's coming in behalf of France,
To order Peace between them: and omit
All the occurrences, what ever chanc'd,
Till Harrys back return again to France:
There muſt we bring him: and my ſelf have play'd
The Interim, by remembring you 'tis paſt.
Then brook abridgement, and your Eyes advance,
After your thoughts, ſtraight back again to France.
[Exit.

Enter Fluellen and Gower.

Gow. Nay, that's right: but why wear you your Leek to day? Saint Davies day is paſt.

Flu. There is occaſions and cauſes why, and wherefore in all things: I will tell you aſſe my Friend, Captain Gower; the raſcally, ſcauld, beggarly, lowſie, pragging Knave Piſtol, which, you and your ſelf, and all the world know to be no petter than a Fellow, look you now, of no merits: he is come to me, and prings me pread and ſalt yeſterday, look you, and bid me eat my Leek: it was in a place were I could not breed no contention with him; but I will be ſo bold as to wear it in my Cap till I ſee him once again, and then I will tell him a little piece of my deſires.

Enter Piſtol.

Gow. Why here he comes, ſwelling like a Turky-cock.

Flu. 'Tis no matter for his ſwelling, nor his Turky-cocks. God pleſſe aunchient Piſtol: you ſcurvy lowſie Knave, God bleſſe you.

Piſt. Ha, art thou bedlam? do'ſt thou thirſt, baſe Trojan, to have me fold up Parcas fatal Web? Hence; I am qualmiſh at the ſmell of Leek.

Flu. I peſeech you heartily, ſcurvy lowſie Knave, at my deſires, and my requeſts, and my petitions, to eat, look you, this Leek, becauſe, look you, You do not love it, nor your affections, and your appetites, and your diſgeſtions does not agree with it, I would deſire you to eat it.

Piſt. Not for Cadwalladar and all his Goats.

Flu. There is one Goat for you, [Strikes him. Will you be ſo good, ſcauld Knave, as eat it?

Piſt. Baſe Trojan, thou ſhalt die.

Flu. You ſay very true, ſcauld Knave, when Gods will is: I will deſire you to live in the mean time, and eat your Victuals: come, there is ſawce for it. You call'd me yeſterday Mountain-Squire, but I will make you to day a Squire of low degree. I pray you fall to, if you can mock a Leek, you can eat a Leek.

Gow. Enough Captain, you have aſtoniſht him.

Flu. I ſay, I will make him eat ſome part of my Leek, or I will peat his pate four days: bite I pray you, it is good for your green wound, and your ploody Coxcomb.

Piſt. Muſt I bite?

Flu. Yes certainly, and out of doubt, and out of queſtion too, and ambiguities.

Piſt. By this Leek, I will moſt horribly revenge: I eat and, eat, I ſwear.

Flu. Eat I pray you, will you have ſome more ſawce to your Leek: there is not enough Leek to ſwear by.

Piſt. Quiet thy Cudgel, thou doſt ſee I eat.

Ful. Much good do you, ſcauld knave, heartily. Nay, pray you throw none away, the skin is good for your broken Coxcomb; when you take occaſions to ſee Leeks hereafter, I pray you mock at'em, that is all.

Piſt. Good.

Flu. I, Leeks is good: hold you, there is a groat to heal your pate.

Piſt. Me a groat?

Flu. Yes verily, and in truth you ſhall take it, or I have another Leek in my pocket, which you ſhall eat.

Piſt. I take thy groat in earneſt of revenge.

Flu. If I owe you any thing, I will pay you in Cudgels, you ſhall be a Woodmonger, and buy nothing of me but Cudgels: Gud bu'y you, and keep you, and heal your pate. [Exit.

Piſt. All hell ſhall ſtir for this.

Gow. Go, go, you are a counterfeit cowardly Knave, will you mock at an ancient Tradition, began upon an honourable reſpect, and worn as a memorable Trophee of predeceaſed valour, and dare not avouch in your deeds any of your words. I have ſeen you gleeking and galling at this Gentleman twice or thrice. You thought, becauſe he could not ſpeak Engliſh in the native garb, he could not therefore handle an Engliſh Cudgel: you find it otherwiſe, and henceforth let a Welſh correction teach you a good Engliſh condition, fare ye well. [Exit.

Piſt. Doth fortune play the huſwife with me now? News have I that my Doll is dead i'th' Spittle of a malady of France, and there my rendezvous is quite cut off: Old I do wax, and from my weary limbs Honour is Cudgell'd. Well, Bawd I'le turn, and ſomething lean to Cut-purſe of quick hand: To England will I ſteal, and there I'le ſteal:
And patches will I get unto theſe cudgel'd Scars,
And ſwear I got them in the Gallia wars. Exit.

Enter at one door, King Henry, Exeter, Bedford, Warwick, and other Lords; at another, Queen Iſabel, the King, the Duke of Burgoign, and other French.

King. Peace to this meeting, wherefore are we met?
Unto our Brother France, and to our Siſter,
Health and fair time of day: Joy and good wiſhes

To

To our moſt fair and Princely Couſin Katharine;
And as a branch and member of this Royalty,
By whom this great Aſſembly is contriv'd,
We do ſalute you, Duke of Burgoigne,
And Princes French and Peers, health to you all.
Fra. Right joyous are we to behold your face,
Moſt worthy Brother England, fair met.
So are you Princes (Engliſh every one.)
Quee. So happy be the Iſſue, Brother England,
Of this good day, and of this gracious meeting,
As we are now glad to behold your Eyes,
Your Eyes which hitherto have born in them
Againſt the French, that met them in their bent,
The fatal Balls of murthering Baſilisks:
The venom of ſuch Looks we fairly hope
Have loſt their quality, and that this day
Shall change all griefs and quarrels into love.
Eng. To cry Amen to that, thus we appear.
Quee. You Engliſh Princes all, I do ſalute you.
Burg. My duty to you both, on equal love.
Great Kings of France and England: that I have labour'd
With all my wits, my pains, and ſtrong endeavours,
To bring your moſt imperial Maieſties
Unto this Bar, and Royal Enterview:
Your Mightineſs on both parts beſt can witneſs.
Since then my Office hath ſo far prevail'd,
That Face to Face, and Royal Eye to Eye,
You have congreeted: let it not diſgrace me,
If I demand before this Royal view,
What Rub, or what Impediment there is,
Why that the naked, poor, and mangled Peace,
Dear nurſe of Arts, Plenties, and joyful Births,
Should not in this beſt Garden of the World,
Our fertile France, put up her lovely Viſage?
Alas, ſhe hath from France too long been chas'd,
And all her Husbandry doth lie on heaps,
Corrupting in it's own fertility.
Her Vine, the merry chearer of the heart,
Unpruned dies: her Hedges even, pleach'd,
Like Priſoners wildly over-grown with hair,
Put forth diſorder'd Twigs: her fallow Leas,
The Darnel, Hemlock, and rank Fumitory,
Doth root upon; while that the Culter ruſts,
That ſhould deracinate ſuch Savagery:
The even Mead, that erſt brought ſweetly forth
The freckled Cowſlip, Burnet, and green Clover,
Wanting the Sythe, withall uncorrected, rank,
Conceives by idleneſs, and nothing teems,
But hateful Docks, rough Thiſtles, Keckſies, Burs,
Loſing both beauty and utility;
And all our Vineyards, Fallows, Meads, and Hedges,
Defective in their Natures, grow to wildneſs.
Even ſo our Houſes, and our ſelves, and Children,
Have loſt, or do not learn, for want of time,
The Sciences, that ſhould become our Country;
But grow like Savages, as Souldiers will,
That nothing do, but meditate on Blood,
To ſwearing, and ſtern Looks, diffus'd Attire,
And every thing that ſeems unnatural.
Which to reduce into our former favour,
You are aſſembled: and my ſpeech entreats,
That I may know the Let, why gentle Peace
Should not expel theſe Inconveniences,
And bleſs us with her former qualities.
Eng. If, Duke of Burgony, you would the Peace,
Whoſe want gives growth to th' imperfections
Which you have cited; you muſt buy that Peace
With full accord to all our juſt Demands,
Whoſe Tenures and particular Effects
You have enſchedul'd briefly in your Hands.
Burg. The King hath heard them: to the which, as yet
There is no Anſwer made.
Eng. Well then: the Peace which you before ſo urg'd,
Lies in his Anſwer.
Fran. I have but with a curſelary Eye
O're glanc't the Articles: Pleaſeth your Grace
To appoint ſome of your Council preſently
To ſit with us once more, with better heed
To re-ſurvey them: we will ſuddenly
Paſs our accept and peremptory Anſwer.
Eng. Brother we ſhall. Go, Uncle Exeter,
And Brother Clarence, and Brother Glouceſter,
Warwick and Huntington, go with the King,
And take with you free power, to ratifie,
Augment, or alter, as your Wiſdoms beſt
Shall ſee advantageable for our Dignity,
Any thing in or out of our Demands,
And we'll conſign thereto. Will you, fair Siſter,
Go with the Princes, or ſtay here with us?
Quee. Our gracious Brother, I will go with them:
Haply a Woman's Voyce may do ſome good,
When Articles too nicely urg'd, be ſtood on.
Eng. Yet leave our Couſin Katharine here with us,
She is our capital Demand compris'd
Within the fore-rank of our Articles.
Quee. She hath good leave. [Exeunt Omnes.

Manet King, and Katharine.

King. Fair Katharine, moſt fair,
Will you vouchſafe to teach a Souldier terms,
Such as will enter at a Ladies ear,
And plead his Love-ſuit to her gentle heart?
Kath. Your Majeſty ſhall mock at me, I cannot ſpeak your England.
King. O fair Katharine, if you will love me ſoundly with your French-heart, I will be glad to hear you confeſs it brokenly with your Engliſh Tongue. Do you like me, Kate?
Kath. Pardonne moy, I cannot tell, wat is like me.
King. An Angel is like you Kate, and you are like an Angel.
Kath. Que dit-il, que de ſuis ſemblable à les Anges?
Lady. Ouy verament (ſauf voſtre Grace) ainſi dit-il.
King. I ſaid ſo, dear Katharine, and I muſt not bluſh to affirm it.
Kath. O bon Dieu, les langues des hommes ſont plein de tromperies.
King. What ſays ſhe, fair one? that Tongues of men are full of deceits?
Lady. Ouy, dat de tongues of de mans is be full of deceits: dat is de Princeſs.
King. The Princeſs is the better Engliſh-woman; i'faith Kate, my wooing is fit for thy underſtanding, I am glad thou canſt ſpeak no better Engliſh, for if thou could'ſt, thou woul'dſt find me ſuch a plain King, that thou would'ſt think, I had ſold my farm to buy my Crown, I know no ways to mince it in love, but directly to ſay, I love you, then if you urge me farther, then to ſay Do you in faith? I wear out my ſuit: Give me your anſwer i'faith do, and clap hands, and a bargain: how ſay you, Lady?
Kath. Sauf voſtre honour, me underſtand well.
King. Marry, if you would put me to Verſes, or to Dance for your ſake, Kate, why you undid me: for the one, I have neither words nor meaſure; and for the other, I have no ſtrength in meaſure, yet a reaſonable meaſure in ſtrength. If I could win a Lady at Leap-frog, or by vaulting into my Saddle, with my Armor on my back; under the correction of bragging be it ſpoken, I ſhould quickly leap into a Wife: Or if I might buffet for my Love, or bound my Horſe for her favours, I could lay on like a Butcher, and ſit like a Jack an Apes, never off. But before God, Kate, I cannot look greenly, nor gaſp out my Eloquence, nor I have no cunning in Proteſtation; onely down-right Oaths, which I never uſ'd till urg'd, nor never break for urging, If thou canſt love a Fellow of this temper, Kate, whoſe face is not worth Sun-burning?

ning? that never looks in his Glass, for love of any thing he sees there? let thine Eye be the Cook, I speak to thee plain Souldier: if thou canst love me for this, take me? if not? to say to thee that I shall dye, is true; but for thy love, by the L. No: yet I love thee too. And while thou liv'st, dear Kate, take a Fellow of plain and uncoyned Constancy, for he perforce must do thee right, because he hath not the gift to woo in other places: For these Fellows of infinite Tongue, that can ryme himselfe into Ladies favours, they do always reason themselves out again. What? a speaker is but a prater, a Ryme is but a Ballad; a good Leg will fall, a straight back will stoop, a black Beard will turn white, a curl'd Pate will grow bald, a fair Face will wither, a full Eye will wax hollow: but a good heart, Kate, is the Sun and the Moon, or rather the Sun, and not the Moon; for it shines bright, and never changes, but keeps his course truly. If thou would have such a one, take me? and take me; take a Souldier; take a Souldier; take a King, And what say'st thou then to my Love? speak my fair, and fairly, I pray thee.

Kath. Is it possible dat I sould love de enemy of France?

King. No, it is not possible that you should love the Enemy of France, Kate; but in loving me, you should love the Friend of France: for I love France so well, that I will not part with a Village of it: I will have it all mine: and, Kate, when France is mine, and I am yours; then yours is France, and you are mine.

Kath. I cannot tell wat is dat.

King. No, Kate? I will tell thee in French, which I am sure will hang upon my Tongue, like a new married Wife about her Husbands Neck, hardly to be shook off: Je quand sur le possession de Fraunce, & quand vous aves le possession de moy, (Let me see, what then? Saint Dennis be my speed) Donc vostre est Fraunce, et vous estes mienne. It is as easie for me, Kate, to conquer the kingdom, as to speak so much more French: I shall never move thee in French, unless it be to laugh at me.

Kath. Sauf vostre honeur, le Francois ques vous parleis, il & melius quel' Anglois le quel je parle.

King. No faith is't not, Kate: but thy speaking of my Tongue, and I thine, most truly falsly, must needs be granted to be much at one. But Kate, do'st thou understand thus much English? Canst thou love me?

Kath. I cannot tell.

King. Can any of your Neighbours tell, Kate? I'le ask them, Come, I know thou lovest me: and at night, when you come into your Closet, you'll question this Gentlewoman about me; and I know, Kate, you will to her dispraise those parts in me, that you love with your heart; but, good Kate, mock me mercifully, the rather, gentle Princess, because I love thee cruelly. If ever thou beest mine, Kate, as I have saving Faith within me tells me, thou shalt; I get thee with skambling, and thou must therefore needs prove a good Souldier-breeder: Shall not thou and I, between Saint Dennis and Saint George, compound a Boy, half French half English, that shall go to Constantinople, and take the Turk by the Beard. Shall we not? what say'st thou, my fair Flower-de-Luce.

Kath. I do not know dat.

King. No: 'tis hereafter to know, but now to promise: do but now promise, Kate, you will endeavour for your French part of such a Boy; and for my English moiyty, take the word of a King, and a Batchelor. How answer you, La plus belle Katharine du monde mon trescher & devin deesse.

Kath. Your Majestee aue fause Frenche enough to deceive de most sage Damoisel dat is in en France.

King. Now fie upon my false French: by mine Honour, in true English, I love thee, Kate; by which Honour I dare not swear thou lovest me, yet my blood begins to flatter me, that thou do'st; yet notwithstanding the poor and untempering effect of my Visage. Now beshrew my Father's Ambition, he was thinking of Civil Wars, when he got me, therefore was I created with a stubborn outside, with an aspect of Iron, that when I come to woo Ladies, I fright them: but in faith, Kate, the elder I wax, the better I shall appear. My comfort is, that Old Age, that ill layer up of Beauty, can do no more spoyl upon my Face. Thou hast me, if thou hast me, at the worst; and thou shalt wear me, if thou wear me, better and better: and therefore tell me, most fair Katharine, will you have me? Put off those Maiden Blushes, avouch the Thoughts of your Heart with the Looks of an Empress, take me by the Hand, and say, Harry of England, I am thine: which word thou shalt no sooner bless mine Ear withall, but I will tell thee aloud, England is thine, Ireland is thine, France is thine, and Henry Plantagenet is thine; who, though I speak it before his Face, if he be not Fellow with the best King, thou shalt find the best King of Good-fellows. Come your answer in broken Musick; for thy Voice is Musick, and thy English broken: Therefore Queen of all, Katharine, break thy mind to me in broken English, wilt thou have me?

Kath. Dat is as it shall please de roy mon pere.

King. Nay, it will please him well, Kate; it shall please him, Kate.

Kath. Den it shall also content me.

King. Upon that I kiss your Hand, and I call you my Queen.

Kath. Laisse mon Seigneur, laisse, laisse, may foy: Je ne veus point que vous abbaisse vostre grandeur, en baisant le main d' une nostre Seigneur indignie serviteur, excuse moy. Je vous supply mon tresc-puissant Seigneur.

King. Then I will kiss your Lips, Kate.

Kath. Les Dames & Damoisels pour estre baise devant leur nopceese il net pas le Costume de Fraunce.

King. Madam, my Interpreter, what says she?

Lady. Dat is not to be de fashion pour le Ladies of France; I cannot tell what is buisse en English.

King. To Kiss.

Lady. Your Majesty entendre bettre que moy.

King. Is it not a fashion for the Maids in France to kiss before they are married, would she say?

Lady. Ouy veraymont.

King. O Kate, nice Customs curtsie to great Kings, Dear Kate, you and I cannot be confin'd within the weak List of a Countries fashion: we are the makers of Manners, Kate; and the liberty that follows our Places, stops the mouth of all find-faults, as I will do yours, for upholding the nice fashion of your Country, in denying me a kiss: therefore patiently, and yielding. You have Witch-craft in your Lips, Kate: there is more eloquence in a Sugar touch of them; than in the Tongues of the French Council: and they should sooner perswade Harry of England, than a general Petition of Monarchs. Here comes your Father.

Enter the French Power, and the English Lords.

Burg. God save your Majesty, my Royal Cousin, teach you our Princess English?

King. I would have her learn, my fair Cousin, how perfectly I love her, and that is good English.

Burg. Is she apt?

King. Our Tongue is rough, Coze, and my condition is not smooth: so that having neither the Voice nor the Heart of Flattery about me, I cannot so conjure up the spirit of love in her, that he will appear in his true likeness.

Burg. Pardon the frankness of my mirth, if I answer you for that. If you would conjure in her, you must make make a Circle: if conjure up love in her in his true likeneſs, he muſt appeare naked, and blind. Can you blame her then, being a Maid, yet ros'd over with the Virgin Crimſon of Modeſty, if ſhe deny the appearance of a naked blind Boy in her naked ſeeing ſelf? It were (my Lord) a hard Condition for a Maid to conſign to.

King. Yet they do wink and yield as Love is blind and enforces.

Burg. They are then excus'd, my Lord, when they ſee not what they do.

King. Then, good my Lord, teach your Couſin to conſent to winking.

Burg. I will wink on her to conſent, my Lord, if you will teach her to know my meaning: for Maids well Summer'd, and warm kept, are like Flyes at Bartholomew-tyde, blind, though they have their Eyes, and then they will endure handling, which before would not abide looking on.

King. This Moral ties me over to Time, and a hot Summer; and ſo I ſhall catch the Flie, your Couſin, in the latter end, and ſhe muſt blind too.

Burg. As Love is, my Lord, before it loves.

King. It is ſo: and you may, ſome of you, thank Love for my blindneſs, who cannot ſee many a fair French City for one fair French Maid; for that ſtands in my way.

French King. Yes my Lord, you ſee them perſpectively: the Cities turn'd into a Maid; for they are all girdled with Maiden Walls, that War hath entred.

King. Shall Kate be my Wife?

Fran. So pleaſe you.

England. I am content, ſo the Maiden Cities you talk of, may wait on her: ſo the Maid that ſtood in the Way for my Wiſh, ſhall ſhew me the way to my Will.

France. We have conſented to all terms of reaſon.

Eng. Is't ſo, My Lords of England?

Weſt. The King hath granted every Article:
His Daughter firſt; and then in ſequele all,
According to their firm propoſed natures.

Exet. Onely he hath not yet ſubſcribed this:
Where your Majeſty demands, That the King of France having occaſion to write for matter of Grant, ſhall name your Highneſs in this form, and with this addition, in French: Noſtre treſcher filz Henry Roy, d'Angleterre Heretere de France; and thus in Latine; Præclariſſimus Filius noſter Henricus Rex Angliæ & Hæres Francie.

Fran. Nor this I have not Brother ſo deny'd,
But your requeſt ſhall make me let it paſs.

Engl. I pray you then, in love and dear allyance,
Let that one Article rank with the reſt,
And thereupon give me your Daughter.

Fran. Take her, fair Son, and from her Blood raiſe up
Iſſue to me, that the contending Kingdoms
Of France and England, whoſe very ſhoars look pale,
With envy of each others happineſs,
May ceaſe their hatred; and this dear Conjunction
Plant Neighbourhood and Chriſtian-like accord
In their ſweet Boſoms: that never War advance
His bleeding Sword 'twixt England and fair France.

Lords. Amen.

King. Now welcome, Kate: and bear me witneſs all,
That here I kiſs her, as my Soveraign Queen.

Flouriſh.

Queen. God, the beſt maker of all Marriages,
Combine your hearts in one, your Realms in one,
As Man and Wife being two, are one in love,
So be there 'twixt your Kingdoms ſuch a Spouſal,
That never may ill Office, or fell jealouſie,
Which troubles oft the Bed of bleſſed Marriage,
Thruſt in between the Paſſion of theſe Kingdoms,
To make divorce of their incorporate League:
That Engliſh may as French, French Engliſh men,
Receive each other. God ſpeak this Amen.

All. Amen.

King. Prepare for our Marriage: on which day,
My Lord of Burgundy we'll take your Oath
And all the Peers, for ſurety of our Leagues.
Then ſhall I ſwear to Kate, and you to me,
And may our Oaths well kept and proſp'rous be.

Sonet. [Exeunt.

Enter Chorus.

Thus far with rough, and all-unable Pen,
Our bending Author hath perſu'd the Story,
In little room confining Mighty men,
Mangling by ſtarts the full courſe of their glory.
Small time: but in that ſmall, moſt greatly lived
This Star of England. Fortune made his Sword;
By which, the worlds beſt Garden he atchieved:
And of it left his Son Imperial Lord,
Henry the Sixth, in Infant Bands crown'd King
Of France and England, did this King ſucceed:
Whoſe State ſo many had the managing,
That they loſt France, and make his England bleed:
Which oft our Stage hath ſhown; and for their ſake,
In your fair minds let this acceptance take.

The First Part of KING HENRY VI.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Dead March.

Enter the Funeral of King Henry the Fifth, attended on by the Duke of Bedford, Regent of France ; the Duke of Gloſter, Protector : the Duke of Exeter, Warwick, the Biſhop of Wincheſter, and the Duke of Somerſet.

Bedford.

HUng be the Heavens with black, yield day to night ;
Comets importing change of Times and States,
Brandiſh your Cryſtal Treſſes in the Sky,
And with them ſcourge the bad revolting Stars,
That have conſented unto Henry's death :
King Henry the Fifth, too famous to live long,
England ne're loſt a King of ſo much worth.

Gloſt. England ne're had a King untill his time :
Vertue he had, deſerving to command.
His brandiſht Sword did blind men with his Beams,
His Arms ſpread wider than a Dragons Wings :
His ſparkling Eyes, repleat with wrathful fire,
More dazled and drove back his Enemies,
Than mid-day-ſun fierce bent againſt their Faces.
What ſhould I ſay ? his Deeds exceed all ſpeech :
He ne're lift up his hand but conquered.

Exe. We mourn in black, why mourn we not in blood ?
Henry is dead, and never ſhall revive :
Upon a Wooden Coffin we attend :
And Deaths diſhonorable Victory,
We with our ſtately preſence glorifie,
Like Captives bound to a Triumphant Car.
What ? ſhall we curſe the Planets of Miſhap,
That plotted thus our Glories overthrow ?
Or ſhall we think the ſubtile-witted French,
Conjurers and Sorcerers, that afraid of him,
By Magick Verſe have contriv'd his end ?

Winch. He was a King, bleſt of the King of Kings.
Unto the French, the dreadful judgement-Day
So dreadful will not be, as was his ſight.
The battels of the Lord of Hoſts he fought :
The Churches Prayers made him ſo proſperous.

Gloſt. The Church ? Where is it ?
Had not Church-men pray'd,
His thread of Life had not ſo ſoon decay'd.
None do you like, but an effeminate Prince,
Whom like a School-boy you may over-aw.

Winch. Gloſter, what e're we like, thou art Protector,
And lookeſt to command the Prince and Realm.
Thy Wife is proud, ſhe holdeth thee in aw,
More than God or Religious Church-men may.

Gloſt. Name not Religion for thou lov'ſt the Fleſh,
And ne're throughout the year to Church thou go'ſt,
Except it be to pray againſt thy foes.

Bed. Ceaſe, ceaſe theſe Jars, and reſt your minds in peace :
Let's to the Altar : Heralds wait on us ;
Inſtead of Gold, we'll offer up our Arms,
Since Arms avail not, now that Henry's dead.
Poſterity await for wretched years,
When at their Mothers moiſt Eyes, Babes ſhall ſuck,
Our Iſle be made a Nouriſh of ſalt Tears,
And none but Women left to wayle the dead.
Henry the Fifth, thy Ghoſt I invocate :
Proſper this Realm, keep it from Civil Broyles,
Combat with adverſe Planets in the Heavens ;
A far more glorious Star thy Soul will make,
Than Julius Cæſar, or bright——

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſſ. My Honorable Lords, health to you all :
Sad tidings bring I to you out of France,
Of loſs, of ſlaughter, and diſcomfiture :
Guyen, Champaigne, Rheimes, Orleance,
Paris, Guyſors, Poictiers, are all quite loſt.

Bed. What ſay'ſt thou man, before dead Henry's Coarſe ?
Speak ſoftly, or the loſs of thoſe great Towns
Will make him burſt his Lead, and riſe from death.

Gloſt. Is Paris loſt, and is Roan yielded up ?
If Henry were recall'd to life again,
Theſe News would cauſe him once more yield the ghoſt.

Exe. How were they loſt ? what treachery was us'd ?

Meſſ. No treachery, but want of Men and Money.
Amongſt the Souldiers this is muttered,
That here you maintain ſeveral Factions :
And whil'ſt a Field ſhould be diſpatch'd and fought,
You are diſputing of your Generals.
One would have lingring Wars with little coſt ;
Another would flye ſwift but wanteth Wings :
A third man thinks, without expence at all,
By guileful fair words, Peace may be obtain'd.
Awake, awake, Engliſh Nobility,
Let not ſloth dim your Honours, new begot ;
Crop't are the Flower-de-Luces in your Arms
Of England's Coat, one half is cut away.

Exe. Were our Tears wanting to this Funeral,
Theſe Tidings would call forth her flowing Tides.

Bed. Me they concern, Regent I am of France :
Give me my ſteeled Coat, I'le fight for France.
Away with theſe diſgraceful wayling Robes ;
Wounds will I lend the French, in ſteed of Eyes,
To weep their intermiſſive Miſeries.

Enter to them another Meſſenger :

Meſſ. Lords, view theſe Letters, full of bad miſchance.
France is revolted from the Engliſh quite,
Except ſome petty Towns of no import.
The Dolphin Charles is crowned King in Rhemes :
The Baſtard of Orleance with him is joyn'd :
Reynold Duke of Anjou doth his Part,
The Duke of Alanſon flieth on his ſide. [Exit.

Exe. The Dolphin Crown'd King ? all flye to him ?
O, whither ſhall we flye from this reproach ?

Gloſt. We will not flye, but to our Enemies throats.
Bedford, if thou be ſlack, I'le fight it out.

Bed. Gloſter, why doubt'ſt thou of my forwardneſs.
An Army have I muſter'd in my thoughts,
Wherewith already France is over-run.

Enter

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſſ. My gracious Lords, to add to your laments
Wherewith you now bedew King Henry's Hearſe,
I muſt inform you of a diſmal fight
Betwixt the ſtout Lord Talbot, and the French.
Win. What? wherein Talbot overcame, is't ſo?
3. Meſſ. O no: wherein Lord Talbot was o'rethrown:
The circumſtance I'le tell you more at large.
The tenth of Auguſt laſt, this dreadful Lord,
Retiring from the Siege of Orleance,
Having full ſcarce ſix thouſand in his Troop,
By three and twenty thouſand of the French
Was round encompaſſed, and ſet upon:
No leiſure had to enrank his men.
He wanted Pikes to ſet before his Archers:
Inſtead whereof, ſharp Stakes pluckt out of Hedges
They pitched in the ground confuſedly,
To keep the Horſemen off, from breaking in.
More than three hours the fight continued:
Where valiant Talbot, above human thought,
Enacted wonders with his Sword and Lance.
Hundreds he ſent to Hell, and none durſt ſtand him:
Here, there, and very where enrag'd, he ſlew.
The French exclaim'd, the Devil was in Arms,
All the whole Army ſtood agaz'd on him.
His Souldiers ſpying his undaunted Spirit,
A Talbot, a Talbot, cry'd out amain.
And ruſht into the bowels of the Battel.
Here, had the Conqueſt fully been ſeal'd up,
If Sir John Falſtaff had not play'd the Coward,
He being in the Vanward, plac't behind
With purpoſe to relieve and follow them,
Cowardly fled, not having ſtruck one ſtroak.
Hence grew the general wrack and maſſacre;
Encloſed were they with their Enemies.
A baſe Walloon to win the Dolphin's grace,
Thruſt Talbot with a Spear into the Back,
Whom all France, with their aſſembled ſtrength,
Durſt not preſume to look once in the Face.
Bed. Is Talbot ſlain then? I will ſlay my ſelf,
For living idely here in pomp and eaſe,
Whil'ſt ſuch a worthy Leader, wanting aid,
Unto his daſtard foe-men is betray'd.
3. Meſſ. O no, he lives, but is took Priſoner,
And Lord Scales with him, and Lord Hungerford:
Moſt of the reſt ſlaughter'd, or took likewiſe.
Bed. His Ranſom there is none but I ſhall pay.
I'le hale the Dolphin headlong from his Throne,
His Crown ſhall be the Ranſom of my Friend:
Four of their Lords I'le change for one of ours.
Farewell, my Maſters, to my Task will I,
Bonefires in France forthwith I am to make,
To keep our great Saint Georges Feaſt withall.
Ten thouſand Souldiers with me I will take,
Whoſe bloody deeds ſhall make all Europe quake.
3. Meſſ. So you had need, for Orleance is beſieg'd,
The Engliſh Army is grown weak and faint:
The Earl of Salisbury craveth ſupply,
And hardly keeps his men from mutiny,
Since they ſo few, watch ſuch a multitude.
Exe. Remember, Lords, your Oaths to Henry ſworn:
Either to quell the Dolphin utterly,
Or bring him in obedience to your yoak.
Bed. I do remember it, and here take leave,
To go about my preparation. [Exit Bedford.
Gloſt. I'le to the Tower with all the haſte I can,
To view the Artillery and Munition,
And then I will proclaim young Henry King.
[Exit Gloſter.
Exe. To Eltam will I, where the young King is,
Being ordain'd his ſpecial Governour,
And for his ſafety there I'le beſt deviſe. [Exit.

Winch. Each hath his place and Function to attend:
I am left out; for me nothing remains:
But long I will not be Jack out of Office,
The King from Eltam I intend to ſend,
And ſit at chiefeſt ſtern of publick Weal. [Exit.

Enter Charles, Alanſon, and Reigneir, marching with Drum and Souldiers.

Charl. Mars his true moving, even as in the Heavens,
So in the Earth, to this day is not known.
Late did he ſhine upon the Engliſh ſide:
Now we are Victors, upon us he ſmiles.
What Towns of any moment, but we have?
At pleaſure here we lye, near Orleance:
Otherwhiles, the famiſh't Engliſh, like pale Ghoſts,
Faintly beſiege us one hour in a Month.
Al. They want their Porredge, and their fat Bull-Beeves
Either they muſt be dieted like Mules.
Reig. Let's raiſe the Siege: why live we idlely here?
And have their Provender ti'd to their Mouths,
Or piteous they will look, like drowned Mice.
Talbot is taken, whom we wont to fear:
Remaineth none but mad-brain'd Salisbury,
And he may well in fretting ſpend his gall,
Nor Men, nor Mony hath he to make War.
Char. Sound, ſound Alarum, we will ruſh on them,
Now for the Honour of the forlorn French:
Him I forgive my death, that killeth me;
When he ſees me go back on foot, or flye. [Exeunt.

Here Alarum, they are beaten back by the Engliſh, with great loſs.

Enter Charles, Alanſon, and Reignier.

Charl. Who ever ſaw the like? what men have I?
Dogs, Cowards, Daſtards: I would ne're have fled,
But that they left me 'midſt my Enemies.
Reig. Salisbury is a deſperate Homicide,
He fighteth as one weary of his life:
Too other Lords, like Lyons wanting food,
Do ruſh upon us as their hungry prey.
Alanſ. Froyſard, a Countryman of ours, records,
England all Olivers and Rowlands breed,
During the time Edward the third did reign:
More truly now may this be verified;
For none but Samſon's and Goliaſs's
It ſendeth forth to skirmiſh: one to ten?
Lean raw-bon'd Raſcals, who would e're ſuppoſe,
They had ſuch courage and audacity?
Charl. Let's leave this Town,
For they are hair-brain'd Slaves,
And hunger will enforce them to be more eager:
Of old I know them; rather with their Teeth
The VValls they 'll tear down, than forſake the Siege.
Reig. I think by ſome odd Gimmals or device
Their Arms are ſet, like Clocks, ſtill to ſtrike on;
Elſe ne're could they hold out ſo as they do:
By my conſent, we'll even let them alone.
Alan. Be it ſo.

Enter the Baſtard of Orleance.

Baſt. Where's the Prince Dolphin? I have News for him.
Dolph. Baſtard of Orleance, thrice welcome to us.
Baſt. Me thinks your looks are ſad, your chear appal'd.
Hath the late overthrow wrought this Offence?
Be not diſmay'd, for ſuccour is at hand:
A holy Maid hither with me I bring,
Which by a Viſion ſent to her from Heaven,
Ordained is to raiſe this tedious Siege,
And drive the Engliſh forth the bounds of France:
The ſpirit of deep Propheſie ſhe hath,

Exceeding the nine Sibyls of old Rome:
What's, paſt, and what's to come, ſhe can deſcry.
Speak, ſhall I call her in? believe my words,
For they are certain, and unfallible.
Dolph. Go, call her in: but firſt, to try her skill,
Reignier ſtand thou as Dolphin in my place;
Queſtion her proudly, let thy Looks be ſtern,
By this means ſhall we ſound what skill ſhe hath.
Enter Joan Puzel.
Reig. Fair Maid, is't thou, wilt do theſe wondrous feats?
Puz. Reignier, is't thou, that thinkeſt to beguile me?
Where is the Dolphin? Come, come from behind,
I know thee well, though never ſeen before.
Be not amaz'd, there's nothing hid from me:
In private will I talk with thee apart:
Stand back, you Lords, and give us leave a while.
Reig. She takes upon her bravely at firſt daſh.
Puz. Dolphin, I am by birth a Shepherds Daughter,
My wit untrain'd in any kind of Art:
Heaven and our Lady gracious hath it pleas'd
To ſhine on my contemptible eſtate.
Lo, whil'ſt I waited on my tender Lambs,
And to Suns parching heat diſplay'd my cheeks,
Gods Mother deigned to appear to me,
And in a Viſion full of Majeſty,
Will'd me to leave my baſe Vocation,
And free my Country from Calamity:
Her aid ſhe promis'd, and aſſur'd ſucceſs.
In compleat Glory ſhe reveal'd her ſelf:
Aud whereas I was black and ſwart before:
With thoſe clear Rays, which ſhe infus'd on me,
That Beauty am I bleſt with, which you ſee.
Ask me what queſtion thou canſt poſſible,
And I will anſwer unpremeditated:
My Courage try by Combat, if thou dar'ſt,
And thou ſhalt find that I exceed my Sex.
Reſolve on this, thou ſhalt be fortunate,
If thou receive me for thy Warlike Mate.
Dolph. Thou haſt aſtoniſht me with thy high terms:
Onely this proof I'le of thy Valour make,
In ſingle Combat thou ſhalt buckle with me;
And if thou vanquiſheſt, thy words are true,
Otherwiſe I renounce all confidence.
Puz. I am prepar'd: here is my keen-edg'd Sword,
Deck't with fine Flower-de-Luces on each ſide,
The which at Tourain in S. Katharine's Church-yard,
Out of a great deal of old Iron, I choſe forth.
Dolph. Then come a God's name, I fear no Woman.
Puzel. And while I live, I'le ne're flie no man.
[Here they fight, and Joan de Puzel overcomes.
Dolph. Stay, ſtay thy hands, thou art an Amazon,
And fighteſt with the Sword of Debora.
Puzel. Chriſts Mother helps me, elſe I were too weak.
Dolph. Who e're helps thee, 'tis thou that muſt help me:
Impatiently I burn with thy deſire,
My heart and hands thou haſt at once ſubdu'd,
Excellent Puzel, if thy name be ſo,
Let me thy ſervant, and not Soveraign be,
'Tis the French Dolphin ſueth to thee thus.
Puzel. I muſt not yield to any rights of Love,
For my Profeſſion's ſacred from above:
When I have chaſed all thy Foes from hence,
Then will I think upon a Recompence.
Dolph. Mean time look gracious on thy proſtrate Thrall.
Reig. My Lord, me thinks is very long in talk.
Alan. Doubtleſs he ſhrives this Woman to her ſmock,
Elſe ne're could he ſo long protract his ſpeech.
Reign. Shall we diſturb him, ſince he keeps no mean?
Ala. He may mean more than we poor men do know?
Theſe Women are ſhrewd tempters with their Tongues.
Reig. My Lord, where are you? what deviſe you on,
Shall we give o're Orleance, or no?
Puzel. Why no, I ſay: diſtruſtful Recreants,
Fight till the laſt gaſp: for I'le be your guard.
Dolph. What ſhe ſays, I'le confirm: we'll fight it out.
Puzel. Aſſign'd I am to be the Engliſh Scourge.
This night the Siege aſſuredly I'le raiſe:
Expect Saint Martin's Summer, Halcyon days,
Since I have entred thus into theſe Wars.
Glory is like a Circle in the Water:
Which never ceaſeth to enlarge it ſelf,
Till by broad ſpreading, it diſperſe to nought.
With Henry's death, the Engliſh Circle ends,
Diſperſed are the glories it included:
Now am I like that proud inſulting Ship,
Which Cæſar and his fortune bare at once.
Dolph. Was Mahomet inſpired with a Dove?
Thou with an Eagle art inſpired then.
Helen, the Mother of great Conſtantine,
Nor yet S. Philips Daughters were like thee.
Bright Star of Venus, fain down on the Earth,
How may I reverently worſhip thee enough?
Alan. Leave off delays, and let us raiſe the Siege.
Reig. Woman, do what thou canſt to ſave our Honors,
Drive them from Orleance, and be immortaliz'd.
Dolph. Preſently we'll try: come, let's away about it,
No Prophet will I truſt, if ſhe prove falſe. [Exeunt.

Enter Glouceſter, with his ſerving-men.

Gloſt. I am to ſurvey the Tower this day;
Since Henry's death, I fear there is a Conveyance:
Where be theſe Warders, that they wait not here?
Open the Gates, 'tis Gloſter that calls.
1. Warder. Who's there, that knocks ſo imperiouſly?
Gloſt. 1. man. It is the Noble Duke of Gloſter.
2. Warder. Who e're he be, you may not be let in.
1. Man. Villains, anſwer you ſo the Lord Protector?
1. Warder. The Lord protect him, ſo we anſwer him,
We do not otherwiſe than we are will'd.
Gloſt. Who willed you? or whoſe will ſtands but mine?
There's none Protector of the Realm, but I:
Break up the Gates, I'le be your warrantize;
Shall I be flouted thus by dunghill Grooms?

Gloſter's men ruſh at the Tower Gates, and Woodvile the Lieutenant ſpeaks within.

Wood. What noyſe is this? what Traytors have we here?
Gloſt. Lieutenant, is it you whoſe voice I hear?
Open the Gates, here's Gloſter that would enter.
Wood. Have patience, Noble Duke, I may not open,
The Cardinal of Wincheſter forbids:
From him I have expreſs commandment,
That thou nor none of thine ſhall be let in.
Gloſt. Faint-hearted Woodvile, prizeſt him, 'fore me?
Arrogant Wincheſter, that haughty Prelate,
Whom Henry our late Soveraign ne're could brook?
Thou art no Friend to God, or to the King:
Open the Gates, or I'le ſhut thee out ſhortly.
Servingmen. Open the Gates to the Lord Protector,
Or we'll burſt them open, if that you come not quickly.

Enter to the Protector at the Tower Gates, Wincheſter and his men in Tawny Coats.

Wincheſt. How now ambition Umpire what means this?
Gloſt. Piel'd Prieſt, do'ſt thou command me to be ſhut out?
Winch. I do, thou moſt uſurping Proditor,
And not Protector of the King or Realm.
Gloſt. Stand back, thou manifeſt Conſpirator,
Thou that contrived'ſt to murther our dead Lord,
Thou that giv'ſt Whores Indulgences to ſin,
I'le canvas thee in thy Broad Cardinals Hat,
If thou proceed in this; thy inſolence.
Winch. Nay, ſtand thou back, I will not budge a foot:

This

This be Damaſcus, be thou curſed Cain,
To ſlay thy Brother Abel, if thou wilt.
Gloſt. I will not ſlay thee, but I'le drive thee back:
Thy Scarlet Robes, as a Childs bearing Cloth,
I'le uſe, to carry thee out of this place.
Winch. Do what thou dar'ſt, I beard thee to thy face.
Gloſt. What? am I dar'd, and bearded to my face?
Draw men, for all this priviledged place,
Blew Coats to Tawny Coats. Prieſt, beware thy Beard,
I mean to tugge it, and to cuff you ſoundly.
Under my feet I'le ſtamp thy Cardinals Hat:
In ſpight of Pope, or Dignities of Church,
Here by the Checks I'le drag thee up and down.
Winch. Gloſter, thou wilt anſwer this before the Pope.
Gloſt. Wincheſter Gooſe, I cry, a Rope, a Rope.
Now beat them hence, why do you let them ſtay?
Thee I'le chaſe hence, thou Wolf in Sheep's array.
Out Tawny-Coats, out Scarlet Hypocrite.

Here Gloſter's men beat out the Cardinals men, and enter in the hurly-burly the Mayor of London, and his Officers.

Mayor. Fie Lords, that you being ſupream Magiſtrates,
Thus contumeliouſly ſhould break the Peace.
Glo. Peace Mayor, for thou know'ſt little of my wrongs:
Here's Beauford, that regards not God nor King,
Hath here diſtrain'd the Tower to his uſe.
Winch. Here's Gloſter too, a Foe to Citizens,
One that ſtill motions War and never Peace,
O're-charging your free Purſes with large Fines;
That ſeeks to overthrow Religion,
Becauſe he is Protector of the Realm;
And would have Armour here out of the Tower,
To Crown himſelf King, and ſuppreſs the Prince.
Gloſt. I will not anſwer thee with words, but blows.

Here they skirmiſh again.

Mayor. Nought reſts for me, in this tumultuous ſtrife,
But to make open Proclamation.
Come Officer, as loud as e're thou canſt, cry:
All manner of men aſſembled here in Arms this day, againſt Gods Peace and the Kings, we charge and command you, in his Highneſs Name, to repair to your ſeveral dwelling places, and not to wear, handle, or uſe any Sword, Weapon, or Dagger hence-forward, upon pain of death.
Gloſt. Cardinal, I'le be no breaker of the Law:
But we ſhall meet, and break our minds at large.
Winch. Gloſter, we'll meet to thy dear coſt be ſure:
Thy heart-blood I will have for this days work.
Mayor. I'le call for Clubs, if you will not away:
This Cardinal is more haughty than the Devil.
Gloſter. Mayor, farewell: thou do'ſt but what thou may'ſt.
Winch. Abominable Gloſter, guard thy head,
For I intend to have it e're be long. [Exeunt.
Mayor. See the Coaſt clear'd, and then we will depart.
Good God, theſe Nobles ſhould ſuch ſtomacks bear,
I my ſelf fight not once in forty year. [Exeunt.

Enter the Maſter-Gunner of Orleance, and his Boy.

M. Gun. Sirra, thou know'ſh how Orleance is beſiedg'd,
And how the Engliſh have the Suburbs won.
Boy. Father, I know, and oft have ſhot at them,
How e're unfortunate I miſs'd my aim.
M. Gun. But now thou ſhalt not. Be thou rul'd by me:
Chief Maſter Gunner am I of this Town,
Something I muſt do to procure me grace:
The Princes eſpyals have informed me:
How the Engliſh, in the Suburbs cloſe entrencht,
Went through a ſecret Grate of Iron Bars,
In yonder Tower, to over-peer the City,
And thence diſcover, how with moſt advantage
They may vex us with ſhot or with Aſſault.
To intercept this inconvenience,
A piece of Ordnance 'gainſt it I have plac'd,
And fully even theſe three days have I watch'd,
If I could ſee them. Now, Boy, do thou watch,
For I can ſtay no longer.
If thou ſpy'ſt any, run and bring me word,
And thou ſhalt find me at the Governors. [Exit.
Boy. Father, I warrant you take you no care,
I'le never trouble you, if I may ſpy them.

Enter Salisbury, and Talbot on the Turrets, with others.

Salis. Talbot, my life, my joy, again return'd?
How wert thou handled, being Priſoner?
Or by what means got'ſt thou to be releas'd?
Diſcourſe I prethee on this Turrets top.
Tal. The Earl of Bedford had a Priſoner,
Call'd the brave Lord Ponton de Santraile,
For him was I exchang'd, and ranſom'd.
But with a baſer man of Arms by far,
Once in contempt they would have barter'd me:
Which I diſdaining, ſcorn'd, and craved death,
Rather than I would be ſo pil'd eſteem'd;
In fine redeem'd I was as I deſir'd.
But O, the treacherous Falſtaff wounds my heart,
Whom with my bare Fiſts I would execute,
If I now had him brought into my power.
Salis. Yet tell'ſt thou not, how thou wert entertain'd.
Tal. With ſcoffs and ſcorns, and contumelious taunts,
In open Market-place produc'd they me,
To be a publick ſpectacle to all:
Here, ſaid they, is the Terror of the French,
The Scare-Crow that affrights our Children ſo.
Then broke I from the Officers that led me,
And with my nails digg'd ſtones out of the Ground,
To hurle at the beholders of my ſhame.
My griſly countenance made others flye,
None durſt come near, for fear of ſudden death.
In Iron Walls they deem'd me not ſecure:
So great fear of my Name 'mongſt them were ſpread,
That they ſuppos'd I could rend Bars of Steel,
And ſpurn in pieces poſts of Adamant.
Wherefore a guard of choſen Shot I had;
That walkt about me every Minute while:
And if I did but ſtir out of my Bed,
Ready they were to ſhoot me to the heart.

Enter the Boy with a Linſtock.

Salis. I grieve to hear what torments you endur'd,
But we will be reveng'd ſufficiently.
Now it is Supper time in Orleance:
Here, through this Grate, I can count every one,
And view the Frenchmen how they fortifie:
Let us look in, the ſight will much delight thee:
Sir Thomas Gargrave, and Sir William Glandſdale,
Let me have your expreſs Opinions,
Where is beſt place to make our Batt'ry next?
Garg. I think at the North Gate, for there ſtand Lords.
Glandſ. And I here, at the Bulwark of the Bridge.
Talb. For ought I ſee, this City muſt be famiſht,
Or with light Skirmiſhes enfeebled.

Here they ſhot, and Salisbury falls down.

Salis. O Lord have mercy on us, wretched ſinners.
Garg. O Lord have mercy on me, woful man.
Talb. What chance is this that ſuddenly hath croſt us?
Speak Salisbury; at leaſt, if thou canſt, ſpeak:
How far'ſt thou, Mirror of all Martial men?
One of thy Eyes, and thy Cheeks ſide ſtruck off?
Accurſed Tower, accurſed fatal Hand,
That hath contriv'd this woful Tragedy.

In

In thirteen Battels, Salisbury o'recame:
Henry the Fifth he first train'd to the Wars.
Whil'st any Trump did sound, or Drum struck up,
His Sword did ne're leave striking in the feild.
Yet liv'st thou, Salisbury? though thy speech doth fail,
One eye thou hast to look to Heaven for grace.
The Sun with one Eye vieweth all the World.
Heaven be thou gracious to none alive,
If Salisbury wants mercy at thy hands.
Bear hence this Body, I will help to bury it.
Sir Thomas Gargrave, hast thou any life?
Speak unto Talbot, nay, look up to him.
Salisbury chear thy Spirit with this comfort,
Thou shalt not die whiles——
He beckens with his hand, and smiles on me:
As who should say, When I am dead and gone,
Remember to avenge me on the French.
Plantagenet I will, and, Nero like, will Play on the Lute, beholding the Towns burn:
Wretched shall France be onely in my Name.
——Here an Alarum, and it Thunders and Lightens.
What stir is this? what tumult's in the Heavens?
Whence cometh this Alarum, and the noyse?

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. My Lord, my Lord, the French have gather'd
The Dolphin, with one Joan de Puzel joyn'd, (head.
A holy Prophetess, new risen up,
Is come with a great Power, to raise the Siege.

Here Salisbury lifteth himself up and groans.

Tal. Hear, hear, how dying Salisbury doth groan,
It irks his heart he cannot be reveng'd,
French-men, I'le be a Salisbury to you.
Puzel or Pussel, Dolphin or Dog-fish,
Your hearts I'le stamp out with my Horses heels,
And make a Quagmire of your mingled brains.
Convey me Salisbury into his Tent,
And then we'll try, what these dastard French-men dare.
Alarum. [Exit.

Here an Alarum again: and Talbot pursueth the Dolphin, and driveth him: Then enter Joan de Puzel, driving English-men befor her. Then enter Talbot.

Tal. Where is my Strength, my Valour, and my Force?
Our English Troops retire, I cannot stay them.
A Woman clad in Armour chaseth them.

Enter Puzel.

Here, here she comes. I'le have a bout with thee:
Devil, or Devils Dam, I'le conjure thee:
Blood will I draw on thee, thou art a Witch.
And straightway give thy Soul to him thou serv'st.
Puz. Come, come, 'tis onely I that must disgrace thee.

Here they fight.

Tal. Heavens, can you suffer Hell so to prevail?
My breast I'le burst with straining of my Courage,
And from my shoulders crack my Arms asunder,
But I will chastise this high-minded Strumpet.

They fight again.

Puz. Talbot farewel, thy hour is not yet come,
I must go Victual Orleance forthwith?

A short Alarum: Then Enter the Town with Souldiers.

O'recome me if thou canst, I scorn thy strength.
Go, go, chear up thy hungry-starved men,
Help Salisbury to make his Testament,
This Day is ours, as many more shall be. [Exit.
Tal. My thoughts are whirled like a Potter's Wheel.
I know not where I am, nor what I do:
A Witch by fear, not force, like Hannibal,
Drives back our Troops, and conquers as she lists:
So Bees with smoak, and Doves with noisom stench,
Are from their Hives and Houses driven away.
They call'd us, for our fierceness, English Dogs,
Now like the Whelps, we crying run away.

A short Alarum.

Heark Countreymen, either renew the fight,
Or tear the Lyons out of England's Coat:
Renounce your Soil, give Sheep in Lyons stead:
Sheep run not half so treacherous from the Wolf,
Or Horse or Oxen from the Leopard,
As you flie from your oft-subdued Slaves.

Alarum. Here another Skirmish.

It will not be, retire into your Trenches:
You all consented unto Salisburie's death,
For none would strike a stroke in his revenge.
Puzel is entred into Orleance,
In spight of us, or ought that we could do.
O would I were to die with Salisbury,
The shame hereof will make me hide my head.
[Exit Talbot.

Alarum, Retreat, Flourish.

Enter on the Wall Puzel, Dolphin, Reigneir, Alanson, and Souldiers.

Puzel. Advance our waving Colours on the Walls,
Rescu'd is Orleance from the English Wolves:
Thus Joan de Puzel hath perform'd her word.
Dolph. Divinest Creature, bright Astrea's Daughter,
How shall I honour thee for this success,
Thy promises are like Adonis Garden,
That one day bloom'd, and fruitful were the next.
France, triumph in thy glorious Prophetess,
Recover'd is the Town of Orleance,
More blessed hap did ne're befal our State.
Reigneir. Why ring not out the Bells aloud,
Throughout the Town?
Dolphin command the Citizens make Bonfires,
And feast and banquet in the open streets,
To celebrate the joy that God hath given us.
Alanson. All France will be repleat with mirth and joy,
When they shall hear how we have play'd the men.
Dolph. 'Tis Joan, not we, by whom the day is won:
For which, I will divide my Crown with her,
And all the Priests and Fryers in my Realm,
Shall in procession sing her endless praise.
A stately Pyramis to her I'le rear,
Than Rhodope's or Memphis ever was.
In memory of her when she is dead,
Her Ashes, in an Urn more precious
Than the rich-jewel'd Coffer of Darius,
Transported shall be at high Festivals
Before the Kings and Queens of France.
No longer on Saint Dennis will we cry,
But Joan de Puzel shall be France's Saint.
Come in, and let us Banquet Royally,
After this Golden day of Victory.

Flourish. [Exeunt.

Actus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Enter a Serjeant of a Band, with two Centinels.

Ser. Sirs, take your places and be vigilant:
If any noise or Souldier you perceive
Near to the walls, by some apparent sign
Let us have knowledge at the Court of Guard.
Cent. Serjeant you shall. Thus are poor Servitors
(When others sleep upon their quiet Beds)
Con strain'd to watch in darkness, rain, and cold.

Enter

Enter Talbot, Bedford, and Burgundy, with scaling Ladders: Their Drums beating a Dead March.

Tal. Lord Regent, and redoubted Burgundy,
By whose approach, the Regions of Artoys,
Wallon, and Picardie, are Friends to us:
This happy night, the Frenchmen are secure,
Having all day carous'd and banquetted,
Embrace we then this opportunity,
As fitting best to quittance their deceit,
Contriv'd by Art, and baleful Sorcery.
Bed. Coward of France, how much he wrongs his Fame,
Despairing of his own Arms fortitude,
To joyn with Witches, and the help of Hell.
Bur. Traitors have never other company.
But what's that Puzel, whom they term so pure?
Tal. A Maid, they say.
Bed. A Maid? And be so martial?
Bur. Pray God, she prove not masculine e're long:
If underneath the Standard of the French
She carry Armour, as she hath begun.
Tal. Well, let them practise and converse with Spirits.
God is our Fortress, in whose conquering Name
Let us resolve to scale their flinty Bulwarks.
Bed. Ascend, brave Talbot, we will follow thee.
Tal. Not altogether: Better far I guess,
That we do make our entrance several ways:
That it if chance the one of us do fail,
The other yet may rise against their force.
Bed. Agreed; I'le to yond corner.
Bur. And I to this.
Tal. And here will Talbot mount, or make his Grave.
Now Salisbury for thee and for the right
Of English Henry, shall this night appear
How much in duty, I am bound to both.
Cent. Arm, Arm, the Enemy doth make assault.
Cry, S. George. A Talbot.

The French leap o're the Walls in their shirts. Enter several wayes, Bastard, Alanson, Reignier, half ready, and half unready.

Alan. How now my Lords? what all unready so?
Bast. Unready? I and glad we scap'd so well.
Reig. 'Twas time (I trow) to wake and leave our Beds,
Hearing Alarms at our Chamber doors.
Alan. Of all Exploits since first I follow'd Arms,
Ne're heard I of a warlike enterprize
More venturous, or desperate than this.
Bast. I think this Talbot be a Fiend of Hell.
Reig. If not of Hell, the Heavens sure favour him.
Alanſ. Here commeth Charles, I marvel how he sped.
Enter Charles and Joan.
Bast. Tut, holy Joan was his defensive Guard.
Charl. Is this thy cunning, thou deceitful Dame?
Didst thou at first, to flatter us withal,
Make us partakers of a little gain,
That now our loss might be ten times so much?
Joan. Wherefore is Charles impatient with his Friend?
At all times will you have my power alike?
Sleeping or waking, must I still prevail,
Or will you blame and lay the fault on me?
Improvident Souldiers, had your watch been good,
This sudden mischief never could have faln.
Charl. Duke of Alanſon, this was your default,
That being Captain of the Watch to Nigh,
Did look no better to that weighty Charge.
Alanſ. Had all our Quarter been as safely kept,
As that, whereof I had the Government,
We had not been thus shamefully surpriz'd.
Bast. Mine was secure.
Reign. And so was mine, my Lord.
Charl. And for my self, most part of all this Night
Within her Quarter, and mine own Precinct,
I was employ'd in passing to and fro,
About relieving of the Centinels.
Then how, or which way, should they first break in?
Joan. Question (my Lord) no further of the case,
How, or which way; 'tis sure they found some place,
But weakly guarded, where the breach was made:
And now there rests no other shifts but this,
To gather our Souldiers, scatter'd and dispers'd,
And lay new Plat-forms to endamage them. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter a Souldier, crying, a Talbot, a Talbot: they flie, leaving their Cloaths behind.

Soul. I'le be so bold to take what they have left:
The Cry of Talbot serves me for a Sword,
For I have loaden me with many Spoils,
Using no other Weapon but his Name. [Exit.

Enter Talbot, Bedford, Burgundie.

Bedf. The day begins to break, and Night is fled,
Whose pitchy Mantle over-vail'd the Earth.
Here sound Retreat, and cease our hot pursuit. [Retreat.
Talb. Bring forth the Body of old Salisbury,
And here advance it in the Market-place,
The middle Centre of this cursed Town.
Now have I pay'd my Vow unto his Soul,
For every drop of Blood was drawn from him,
There hath at least five Frenchmen dyed to night.
And that hereafter Ages may behold
What ruine happened in revenge of him,
Within their chiefest Temple I'le erect
A Tomb, wherein his Corps shall be interr'd:
Upon the which, that every one may read,
Shall be engrav'd the sack of Orleance,
The treacherous manner of his mournful death,
And what a terrour he had been to France.
But, Lords, in all our bloody Massacre,
I muse we met not with the Dolphin's Grace,
His new-come Champion, virtuous Joan of Acre,
Nor any of his false Confederates.
Bedf. 'Tis thought, Lord Talbot, when the fight began,
Rouz'd on the sudden from their drowsie Beds,
They did amongst the Troops of armed men,
Leap o're the Walls for refuge in the Field.
Burg. My self, as far as I could well discern,
For smoak, and dusky Vapours of the night,
Am sure I scar'd the Dolphin and his Trull,
When Arm in Arm they both came swiftly running,
Like to a pair of loving Turtle Doves,
That could not live asunder day or night.
After that things are set in order here,
We'll follow them with all the Power we have.
Enter a Messenger.
Mes. All hail, my Lords: which of this Princely train
Call ye the Warlike Talbot, for his Acts
So much applauded through the Realm of France?
Talb. Here is the Talbot, who would speak with him?
Mess. The virtuous Lady, Countess of Avergne,
With modesty admiring thy Renown,
By me intreats (great Lord) thou would'st vouchsafe
To visit her poor Castle where she lyes,
That she may boast she hath beheld the man,
Whose glory fills the World with loud report.
Burg. Is it even so? Nay, then I see our Wars
Will turn unto a peaceful Comick sport,
When Ladies crave to be encountred with
You may not (my Lord) despise her gentle suit.
Talb. Ne're trust me then: for when a World of men
Could not prevail with all their Oratorie,
Yet hath a Woman's kindness over-rul'd:
And therefore tell her, I return great thanks,

And

And in submission will attend on her.
Will not your Honours bear me company?
Beaf. No, truly 'tis more than manners will:
And I have heard it said, Unbidden Guests
Are often welcomest when they are gone.
Talb. Well then, alone (since there's no remedy)
I mean to prove this Ladies courtesie.
Come hither, Captain, you perceive my mind.
[Whispers.
Capt. I do, my Lord, and mean accordingly. [Exeunt.

Enter Countess.

Count. Porter, remember what I gave in charge,
And when you have done so, bring the Keyes to me.
Port. Madam, I will. [Exit.
Count. The plot is laid, if all things fall out right,
I shall as famous be by this exploit,
As Scythian Tomyris by Cyrus death,
Great is the rumor of this dreadful Knight,
And his Atchievements of no less account:
Fain would mine Eyes be witness with my Ears,
To give their censure of these rare reports.

Enter Messenger and Talbot.

Mess. Madam, according as your Ladyship desir'd,
By message crav'd, so is Lord Talbot come.
Count. And he is welcome: what? is this the man?
Mess. Madam, it is.
Count. Is this the Scourge of France?
Is this the Talbot, so much fear'd abroad?
That with his Name the Mothers still their Babes?
I see report is fabulous and false.
I thought I should have seen some Hercules,
A second Hector, for his grim aspect,
A large proportion of his strong knit Limbs.
Alas, this is a Child, a silly Dwarf:
It cannot be, this weak and writhled shrimp
Should strike such terrour to his Enemies.
Talb. Madam, I have been bold to trouble you:
But since your Ladyship is not at leisure,
I'le sort some other time to visit you.
Count. What means he now?
Go ask him, whither he goes?
Mess. Stay, my Lord Talbot, for my Lady craves,
To know the cause of your abrupt departure.
Talb. Marry, for that she's in a wrong belief,
I go to certifie her, Talbot's here.

Enter Porter with keys.

Count. If thou be he, then art thou Prisoner.
Talb. Prisoner? to whom?
Count. To me, blood-thirsty Lord:
And for that cause I train'd thee to my House.
Long time thy shadow hath been thrall to me,
For in my Gallery thy picture hangs:
But now the Substance shall endure the like,
And I will chain these Legs and Arms of thine,
That hast by tyranny these many years
Wasted our Country, slain our Citizens,
And sent our Sons and Husbands captivate.
Talb. Ha, ha, ha.
Count. Laugh'st thou Wretch?
Thy mirth shall turn to moan.
Talb. I laugh to see your Ladyship so fond,
To think, that you have ought but Talbot's Shadow,
Wherein to practice your severity.
Count. Why? art thou not the man?
Talb. I am indeed.
Count. Then have I Substance too.
Talb. No, no, I am but Shadow of my self:
You are deceiv'd, my Substance is not here;
For what you see is but the smallest part,
And least proportion of Humanity:
I tell you Madam, were the whole Frame here,
It is of such a spatious lofty pitch,
Your Roof were not sufficient to contain't.
Count. This is a Riddling Merchant for the nonce,
He will be here, and yet he is not here:
How can these contrarieties agree?
Talb. That will I shew you presently.

Winds his Horn, Drums strike up, a Peal of Ordinance: Enter Souldiers.

How say you Madam? are you now perswaded,
That Talbot is but Shadow of himself?
These are his Substance, Sinews, Arms, and Strength,
With which he yoaketh your rebellious Necks,
Razeth your Cities, and subverts your Towns,
And in a moment makes them desolate.
Count. Victorious Talbot, pardon my abuse,
I find thou art no less than Fame hath bruited,
And more than may be gathered by thy shape,
Let my presumption not provoke thy wrath,
For I am sorry, that with Reverence
I did not entertain thee as thou art.
Talb. Be not dismay'd, fair Lady, nor misconster
The mind of Talbot, as you did mistake
The outward composition of his Body.
What you have done, hath not offended me:
Nor other satisfaction do I crave,
But only with our patience, that we may
Taste of your Wine, and see what Cates you have,
For Souldiers stomacks always serve them well.
Count. With all my heart, and think me honoured,
To feast so great a Warriour in my house. [Exeunt.

Enter Richard Plantagenet, Warwick, Somerset, Pool, and others.

York. Great Lords and Gentlemen,
What means this silence?
Dare no man answer in a Case of Truth?
Suff. Within the Temple Hall we were too loud,
The Garden here is more convenient.
York. Then say at once, if I maintain'd the Truth:
Or else was wrangling Somerset in th'error?
Suff. Faith I have been a Truant in the Law,
And never yet could frame my will to it,
And therefore frame the Law into my will.
Som. Judge you, my Lord of Warwick, then between us.
War. Between two Hawks, which flies the higher pitch,
Between two Dogs, which hath the deeper mouth,
Between two Blades, which bears the better temper,
Between two Horses, which doth bear him best,
Between two Girls, which hath the merriest Eye,
I have perhaps some shallow spirit of judgment:
But in these nice sharp Quillets of the Law,
Goodfaith, I am no wiser than a Daw.
York. Tut, tut, here is a mannerly forbearance:
Truth appears so naked on my side,
That any pur-blind Eye may find it out.
Som. And on my side, it is so well apparell'd,
So clear, so shining, and so evident,
That it will glimmer through a blind mans Eye.
York. Since you are Tongue-ty'd, and so loth to speak,
In dumb significants proclaim your thoughts:
Let him that is a true-born Gentleman,
And stands upon the Honour of his Birth,
If he suppose that I have pleaded truth,
From off this Bryar pluck a white Rose with me.
Som. Let him that is no Coward, nor no Flatterer,
But dare maintain the party of the Truth,
Pluck a red Rose from off this Thorn with me.
War. I love no Colours: and without all colour
Of base insinuating Flattery,

I pluck

I pluck this white Roſe with Plantagenet.
Suff. I pluck this red Roſe with young Somerſet,
And ſay withal, I think he held the right.
Vernon. Stay, Lords and Gentlemen, and pluck no more
'Till you conclude, that he upon whoſe ſide
The feweſt Roſes are crop't from the tree,
Shall yield the other in the right Opinion.
Som. Good Maſter Vernon, it is well objected:
If I have feweſt, I ſubſcribe in ſilence.
York. And I.
Vernon. Then for the truth, and plainneſs of the Caſe,
I pluck this pale and Maiden Bloſſom here,
Giving my Verdict on the white Roſe ſide.
Som. Prick not your finger as you pluck it off,
Leſt bleeding, you do paint the white Roſe red,
And fall on my ſide ſo againſt your will.
Vernon. If I, my Lord, for my Opinion bleed,
Opinion ſhall be ſurgeon to my hurt,
And keep me on the ſide ſtill where I am.
Som. Well, well, come on, who elſe?
Lawyer. Unleſs my Study and my Books be falſe,
The Argument you held, was wrong in you;
In ſign whereof, I pluck a white Roſe too.
York. Now Somerſet, where is your Argument?
Som. Here in my Scabbard, meditating that,
Shall dy your white Roſe in a bloudy red.
York. Mean time your cheeks do counterfeit our Roſes,
For pale they look with fear, as witneſſing
The truth on our ſide.
Som. No, Plantagenet.
'Tis not for fear, but anger, that my cheeks
Bluſh for pure ſhame, to counterfeit our Roſes,
And yet thy tongue will not confeſs thy Error.
York. Hath not thy Roſe a Canker, Somerſet?
Som. Hath not thy Roſe a Thorn, Plantagenet?
York. I, ſharp and piercing to maintain his truth,
Whiles thy conſuming Canker eats his falſhood.
Som. Well, I'le find Friends, to wear my bleeding Roſes,
That ſhall maintain what I have ſaid is true,
Where falſe Plantagenet dare not be ſeen.
York. Now by this Maiden Bloſſom in my hand,
I ſcorn thee and thy faſhion, peeviſh Boy.
Suff. Turn not thy ſcorns this way, Plantagenet.
York. Proud Pool, I will, and ſcorn both him and thee.
Suff. I'le turn my part thereof into thy throat,
Som. Away, away, good William de la Pool,
We grace the Yeoman, by converſing with him.
Warw. Now by God's will thou wrong'ſt him, Somerſet:
His Grandfather was Lyonel Duke of Clarence,
Third Son to the third Edward Duke of England:
Spring Creſtleſs Yeomen from ſo deep a Root?
York. He bears him on the place's Priviledge,
Or durſt not for his craven heart ſay thus.
Som. By him that made me, I'le maintain my words
On any plot of Ground in Chriſtendom.
Was not thy Father, Richard, Earl of Cambridge,
For Treaſon executed in our late King's days?
And by his Treaſon, ſtand'ſt not thou attainted,
Corrupted and exempt from ancient Gentry?
His treſpaſs yet lives guilty in thy blood,
And 'till thou be reſtor'd, thou art a Yeoman.
York. My Father was attached, not attainted,
Condemn'd to dye for Treaſon, but no Traytor;
And that I'le prove on better men than Somerſet,
Were growing time once ripened to my will.
For your partaker Pool, and you your ſelf,
I'le note you in my Book of Memory,
To ſcourge you for this apprehenſion:
Look to it well, and ſay you are well warn'd.
Som. Ah, thou ſhalt find us ready for thee ſtill:
And know us by theſe Colours, for thy Foes,
For theſe, my Friends in ſpight of thee ſhall wear.
York. And by my Soul, this pale and angry Roſe,
As Cognizance of my blood-drinking hate,
Will I for ever, and my Faction wear,
Until it wither with me to my Grave,
Or flouriſh to the height of my Degree.
Suff. Go forward, and be choak'd with thy ambition:
And ſo farewel, until I meet thee next. [Exit.
Som. Have with thee, Pool: Farewel, ambitious Richard. [Exit.
York. How I am brav'd, and muſt perforce endure it?
Warw. This blot, that they object againſt your Houſe,
Shall be wip't out in the next Parliament,
Call'd for the Truce of Wincheſter and Glouceſter:
And if thou be not then created York,
I will not live to be accounted Warwick.
Mean time, in ſignal of my love to thee,
Againſt proud Somerſet, and William Pool,
Will I upon thy party wear this Roſe.
And here I propheſie: this Brawl to day,
Grown to this Faction in the Temple Garden,
Shall ſend between the Red-Roſe and the White,
A thouſand Souls to Death and deadly Night.
York. Good Maſter Vernon, I am bound to you,
That you on my behalf would pluck a Flower.
Ver. In your behalf ſtill will I wear the ſame.
Lawyer. And ſo will I.
York. Thanks, gentle Sir.
Come, let us four to dinner: I dare ſay,
This Quarrel will drink Bloud another day. [Exeunt.

Enter Mortimer, brought in a Chair, and Jaylors.

Mort. Kind Keepers of my weak decaying Age,
Let dying Mortimer here reſt himſelf.
Even like a man new haled from the Wrack,
So fare my Limbs with long Impriſonment:
And theſe gray Locks, the Purſuivants of Death,
Neſtor-like aged, in an Age of Care,
Argue the end of Edmund Mortimer.
Theſe Eyes, like Lamps, whoſe waſting Oil is ſpent,
Wax dim, as drawing to their Exigent.
Weak Shoulders, over-born with burthening Grief,
And pithleſs Arms, like to a withered Vine,
That droops his ſap-leſs Branches to the ground.
Yet are theſe Feet, whoſe ſtrength-leſs ſtay is num,
(Unable to ſupport this Lump of Clay)
Swift-winged with deſire to get a Grave,
As witting I no other comfort have.
But tell me Keeper, will my Nephew come?
Keeper. Richard Plantagenet, my Lord, will come:
We ſent unto the Temple, his Chamber,
And anſwer was return'd, that he will come,
Mort. Enough: my ſoul then ſhall be ſatisfied.
Poor Gentleman, his wrong doth equal mine,
Since Henry Monmouth firſt began to Reign,
Before whoſe Glory I was great in Arms,
This loathſom ſequeſtration have I had;
And even ſince then, hath Richard been obſcur'd,
Depriv'd of Honor and Inheritance.
But now, the Arbitrator of Deſpairs,
Juſt Death, kind Umpire of men's Miſeries,
With ſweet Enlargement doth diſmiſs me hence:
I would his troubles likewiſe were expir'd,
That ſo he might recover what was loſt.

Enter Richard.

Keeper. My Lord, your loving Nephew now is come.
Mort. Richard Plantagenet, my Friend, is he come?
Rich. I, Noble Uncle, thus ignobly us'd,
Your Nephew, late deſpiſed Richard, comes.
Mort. Direct mine Arms, I may embrace his Neck,
And in his Boſom ſpend my later gaſp.
Oh tell me when my Lips do touch his Cheeks,
That I may kindly give one fainting Kiſs:
And now declare, ſweet Stem from York's great Stock,
Why did'ſt thou ſay of late thou wert deſpis'd?

Rich. Firſt

Rich. First, lean thine aged Back againſt mine Arm,
And in that eaſe I'le tell thee my Diſeaſe.
This day in argument upon a Caſe,
Some words there grew'twixt Somerſet and me:
Amongſt which terms, he us'd his laviſh tongue,
And did upbraid me with my Father's death;
Which obloquie ſet bars before my tongue,
Elſe with the like I had requited him.
Therefore, good Uncle, for my Father's ſake,
In honour of a true Plantagenet,
And for Alliance ſake, declare the Cauſe,
My Father, Earl of Cambridge, loſt his Head.
Mort. That Cauſe (fair Nephew) that impriſon'd me,
And hath detain'd me all my flow'ring Youth,
Within a loathſom Dungeon, there to pine,
Was curſed Inſtrument of his deceaſe.
Rich. Diſcover more at large, what Cauſe that was,
For I am ignorant, and cannot gueſs.
Mort. I will, if that my fading breath permit,
And Death approach not, e're my Tale be done.
Henry the Fourth, Grandfather to this King,
Depos'd his Nephew Richard, Edward's Son,
The firſt begotten, and the lawful Heir
Of Edward King, the third of that Deſcent.
During whoſe Reign, the Piercies of the North,
Finding his Uſurpation moſt unjuſt,
Endeavour'd my advancement to the Throne.
The Reaſon mov'd theſe Warlike Lords to this,
Was, for that (young Richard thus remov'd,
Leaving no Heir begotten of his Body)
I was the next by Birth and Parentage:
For by my Mother I derived am
From Lyonel Duke of Clarence, the third Son
To King Edward the Third; whereas he,
From John of Gaunt doth bring his Pedigree,
Being but the fourth of that Heroick Line.
But mark: as in this haughty great attempt,
They laboured to Plant the rightful Heir,
I loſt my Liberty, and they their Lives,
Long after this, when Henry the Fifth
(Succeeding his Father Bullingbrook) did reign;
Thy Father, Earl of Cambridge, then deriv'd
From famous Edmund Langley, Duke of York,
Marrying my Siſter, that thy Mother was;
Again, in pity of my hard diſtreſs,
Levied an Army, weening to redeem,
And have inſtall'd me in the Diadem:
But as the reſt, ſo fell that Noble Earl,
And was beheaded. Thus the Mortimers,
In whom the Title reſted, were ſuppreſt.
Rich. Of which, my Lord, your Honour is the laſt.
Mort. True; and thou ſeeſt, that I no Iſſue have
And that my fainting words do warrant death:
Thou art my Heir; the reſt, I wiſh thee gather:
But yet be wary in thy ſtudious care.
Rich. Thy grave admoniſhments prevail with me:
But yet, methinks, my Father's execution
Was nothing leſs, than bloody Tyranny.
Mort. With ſilence, Nephew, be thou politick,
Strong fixed is the Houſe of Lancaſter,
And like a Mountain, not to be remov'd.
But now thy Uncle is removing hence,
As Princes do their Courts, when they are cloy'd
With long continuance in a ſetled place.
Rich. O Uncle, would ſome part of my young years
Might but redeem the paſſage of your Age.
Mort. Thou do'ſt then wrong me, as that ſlaughterer
Which giveth many Wounds, when one will kill. (doth,
Mourn not, except thou ſorrow for my good,
Onely give order for my Funeral.
And ſo farewel, and fair be all thy hopes;
And proſperous be thy Life in Peace and War. [Dyes.
Rich. And Peace, no War, befall thy parting Soul.
In Priſon haſt thou ſpent a Pilgrimage,
And like a Hermite over-paſt thy days.
Well, I will lock his Counſel in my Breaſt,
And what I do imagine, let that reſt.
Keepers convey him hence, and I my ſelf
Will ſee his Burial better than his Life. [Exit.
Here dyes the duskie Torch of Mortimer,
Choak't with Ambition of the meaner ſort.
And for thoſe Wrongs, thoſe bitter Injuries,
Which Somerſet hath offer'd to my Houſe,
I doubt not, but with Honour to redreſs.
And therefore haſte I to the Parliament,
Either to be reſtored to my Blood,
Or make my will th'advantage of my good. [Exit.

Actus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Flouriſh. Enter King, Exeter, Gloſter, Wincheſter, Warwick, Somerſet, Suffolk, Richard Plantagenet. Gloſter offers to put up a Bill: Wincheſter ſnatches it, tears it.

Winch. Com'ſt thou with deep premeditated Lines?
With written Pamphlets, ſtudiouſly deviſ'd?
Humfrey of Gloſter, if thou canſt accuſe,
Or ought intend'ſt to lay unto my charge,
Do it without invention, ſuddenly,
As I with ſudden, and extemporal ſpeech,
Purpoſe to anſwer what thou canſt object. (patience,
Glo. Preſumptuous Prieſt, this place commands my
Or thou ſhould'ſt find thou haſt diſhonour'd me.
Think not, although in Writing I preferr'd
The manner of thy vile outragious Crimes,
That therefore I have forg'd, or am not able
Verbatim to rehearſe the Method of my Pen.
No, Prelate, ſuch is thy audacious wickedneſs,
Thy leud, peſtiferous, and diſſentious pranks,
As very infants prattle of thy pride.
Thou art a moſt pernicious Uſurer,
Froward by Nature, Enemy to Peace,
Laſcivious, wanton, more than well beſeems
A man of thy Profeſſion, and Degree.
And for thy Treachery, what's more manifeſt?
In that thou laid'ſt a Trap to take my Life,
As well at London Bridge, as at the Tower.
Beſide, I fear me, if thy thoughts were ſifted,
The King, thy Soveraign, is not quite exempt
From envious malice of thy ſwelling heart.
Winch. Gloſter, I do defie thee. Lords, vouchſafe
To give my hearing what I ſhall reply.
If I were Covetous, Ambitious, or Perverſe,
As he will have me: how am I ſo poor?
Or how hap's it, I ſeek not to advance
Or raiſe my ſelf? but keep my wonted Calling.
And for Diſſention, who preferreth Peace
More than I do? except I be provok'd.
No, my good Lords, it is not that offends,
It is not that, that hath incens'd the Duke:
It is becauſe no one ſhould ſway but he,
No one, but he, ſhould be about the King;
And that engenders Thunder in his breaſt,
And makes him roar theſe Accuſations forth.
But he ſhall know, I am as good ——
Gloſt. As good?
Thou Baſtard of my Grandfather.
Winch. I, Lordly Sir: for what are you, I pray,
But one imperious in another's Throne?
Gloſt. Am not I Protector, ſawcie Prieſt?
Winch. And am not I a Prelate of the Church?
Gloſt. Yes, as an Out-law in a Caſtle keeps,
And uſeth it, to patronage his Theft.
Winch. Unreverend Gloceſter.
Gloſt. Thou art Reverend,
Touching thy Spiritual Function, not thy Life.

Winch.

Winch. Rome ſhall remedy this.
Warw. Roam thither then.
My Lord, it were your duty to forbear.
Som. I, ſee the Biſhop be not over-born:
Me thinks my Lord ſhould be Religious,
And know the Office that belongs to ſuch.
Warw. Me thinks his Lordſhip ſhould be humbler,
It fitteth not a Prelate ſo to plead.
Som. Yes, when his holy State is touch'd ſo near.
Warw. State holy, or unhallow'd, what of that?
Is not his Grace Protector to the King?
Rich. Plantagenet I ſee muſt hold his tongue,
Leſt it be ſaid, Speak, Sirrah, when you ſhould,
Muſt your bold Verdict enter talk with Lords?
Elſe would I have a fling at Wincheſter.
King. Uncles of Gloſter and of Wincheſter,
The ſpecial Watch-men of our Engliſh Weal,
I would prevail, if Prayers might prevail,
To join your hearts in love and amity.
Oh, what a Scandal is it to our Crown,
That two ſuch Noble Peers, as ye, ſhould jar?
Believe me, Lords, my tender years can tell,
Civil diſſention is a viperous Worm,
That gnaws the Bowels of the Common-wealth.
A noiſe within. Down with the Tawny Coats.
King. What Tumult is this?
Warw. An Uproar, I dare warrant,
Begun through malice of the Biſhop's men.
A noiſe again, Stones, Stones.
Enter Mayor.
Mayor. Oh my good Lords, and virtuous Henry,
Pity the City of London, pity us:
The Biſhop and the Duke of Gloſter's men,
Forbidden late to carry any Weapon,
Have fill'd their Pockets full of peble ſtones;
And banding themſelves in contrary parts,
Do pelt ſo faſt at one anothers Pate,
That many have their giddy brains knock't out:
Our Windows are broke down in every Street,
And we, for fear, compell'd to ſhut our Shops.

Enter in skirmiſh with bloody Pates.

King. We charge you on allegiance to our ſelves,
To hold your ſlaughtering hands, and keep the Peace:
Pray Uncle Gloſter mitigate this ſtrife.
1. Serving. Nay, if we be forbidden ſtones, we'll fall to it with our teeth.
2. Serving. Do what ye dare, we are as reſolute.
Skirmiſh again.
Gloſt. You of my houſhold leave this peeviſh broil,
And ſet this unaccuſtom'd fight aſide.
3. Serving. My Lord, we know your Grace to be a man
Juſt, and upright; and for your Royal Birth,
Inferiour to none, but to his Majeſty:
And e're that we will ſuffer ſuch a Prince,
So kind a Father of the Common weal,
To be diſgraced by an Ink-horn Mate,
We and our Wives and Children all will fight,
And have our Bodies ſlaughtred by thy Foes.
1. Serv. I, and the very paring of our Nails
Shall pitch a Field when we are dead.
Begin again.
Gloſt. Stay, ſtay, I ſay,
And if you love me, as you ſay you do,
Let me perſuade you to forbear a while.
King. Oh how this diſcord doth afflict my Soul.
Can you, my Lord of Wincheſter, behold
My Sighs and Tears, and will not once relent?
Who ſhould be pitiful, if you be not?
Or who ſhould ſtudy to prefer a Peace,
If holy Church-men take delight in Broils?
Warw. Yield, my Lord Protector, yield Wincheſter:
Except you mean with obſtinate repulſe
To ſlay your Soveraign, and deſtroy the Realm.
You ſee what miſchief, and what Murther too,
Hath been enacted through your enmity:
Then be at Peace, except ye thriſt for blood.
Winch. He ſhall ſubmit, or I will never yield.
Gloſt. Compaſſion on the King commands me ſtoop,
Or I would ſee his heart out, e're the Prieſt
Should ever get that priviledge of me.
Warw. Behold, my Lord of Wincheſter, the Duke
Hath baniſht moody diſcontented fury,
As by his ſmoothed Brows it doth appear:
Why look you ſtill ſo ſtern, and Tragical?
Gloſt. Here Wincheſter, I offer thee my Hand.
King. Fie, Uncle Beauford, I have heard you preach,
That Malice was a great and grievous ſin:
And will not you maintain the thing you teach?
But prove a chief Offender in the ſame.
Warw. Sweet King: the Biſhop hath a kindly gird:
For ſhame my Lord of Wincheſter, relent;
What, ſhall a Child inſtruct you what to do?
Winch. Well, Duke of Gloſter, I will yield to thee,
Love for thy Love, and Hand for Hand I give.
Gloſt. I, but I fear me with a hollow Heart.
So here my Friends, and loving Countrymen,
The token ſerveth for a Flag of Truce,
Betwixt our ſelves, and all our Followers:
So help me God, as I diſſemble not.
Winch. So help me God, as I intend it not.
King. Oh, loving Uncle, kind Duke of Gloſter,
How joyful am I made by this Contract?
Away my Maſters, trouble us no more,
But join in Friendſhip, as your Lords have done.
1. Serv. Content, I'le to the Surgeon's.
2. Serv. And ſo will I.
3. Serv. And I will ſee what phyſick the Tavern affords. [Exeunt.
Warw. Accept this Scrowl, moſt gracious Soveraign,
Which in the Right of Richard Plantagenet,
We do exhibit to your Majeſty.
Glo. Well urg'd my Lord of Warwick: for, ſweet Prince,
And if your Grace mark every cicumſtance,
You have great reaſon to do Richard right,
Eſpecially for thoſe occaſions
At Eltham place I told your Majeſty.
King. And thoſe occaſions, Uncle, were of force:
Therefore, my loving Lords, our pleaſure is,
That Richard be reſtored to his Blood.
Warw. Let Richard be reſtored to his Blood,
So ſhall his Fathers wrongs be recompens'd.
Winch. As will the reſt, ſo willeth Wincheſter.
King. If Richard will be true, not that alone,
But all the whole Inheritance I give
That doth belong unto the Houſe of York,
From whence you ſpring, by lineal deſcent.
Rich. Thy humble Servant vows obedience,
And humble ſervice till the point of death.
King. Stoop then, and ſet your Knee againſt my Foot,
And in reguerdon of that duty done,
I gird thee with the valiant Sword of York.
Riſe Richard like a true Plantagenet.
And riſe created Princely Duke of York.
Rich. And ſo thrive Richard, as thy Foes may fall,
And as my duty ſprings, ſo periſh they,
That grudge one thought againſt your Majeſty.
All. Welcome high Prince, the mighty Duke of York.
Som. Periſh, baſe Prince, ignoble Duke of York.
Gloſt. Now will it beſt avail your Majeſty,
To croſs the Seas, and to be Crown'd in France:
The preſence of a King engenders love,
Amongſt his Subjects and his loyal Friends,
As it diſ-animates his Enemies.
King. When Gloſter ſays the word, King Henry goes,
For friendly counſel cuts off many Foes.
Gloſt. Your ſhips already are in readineſs. [Exeunt

Manet Exeter.

Exe. I, we may march in England or in France,
Not seeing what is likely to ensue;
This late dissention grown betwixt the Peers,
Burns under feigned ashes of forg'd love,
And will at last break out into a flame,
As festred members rot but by degree,
Till bones, and flesh, and sinews fall away,
So will this base and envyous discord breed.
And now I fear that fatal Prophecy
Which in the time of Henry nam'd the Fifth,
Was in the mouth of every sucking Babe,
That Henry born at Monmouth should win all,
And Henry born at Windsor should lose all:
Which is so plain, that Exeter doth wish,
His days may finish e're that hapless time. [Exit.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Puzel disguis'd, and four Souldiers with Sacks upon their backs.

Puzel. These are the City Gates, the Gates of Roan,
Through which our policy must make a breach.
Take heed, be wary how you place your words,
Talk like the vulgar sort of Market men,
That come to gather Money for their Corn.
If we have entrance, as I hope we shall,
And that we find the sloathful Watch but weak,
I'le by a sign give notice to our Friends,
That Charles the Dolphin may encounter them.
Souldier. Our Sacks shall be a mean to sack the City,
And we be Lords and Rulers over Roan,
Therefore we'll knock. [Knock.
Watch. Che la?
Puzel. Peasuns la pouure gens de France.
Poor Market-folks that come to sell their Corn.
Watch. Enter, go in, the Market Bell is rung.
Puzel. Now Roan, I'le shake thy Bulwarks to the ground. [Exeunt.

Enter Charles, Bastard, Alanson.

Charles. Saint Dennis bless this happy Stratagem,
And once again we'll sleep secure in Roan.
Bastard. Here entred Puzel, and her Practisants:
Now is she there, how will she specifie?
Here is the best and safest passage in.
Reign. By thrusting out a Torch from yonder Tower,
Which once discern'd shews that her meaning is,
No way to that (for weakness) which she entred.

Enter Puzel on the top, thrusting out a Torch burning.

Puzel. Behold, this is the happy Wedding Torch,
That joineth Roan unto her Countrymen,
But burning fatal to the Talbonites.
Bastard. See, Noble Charles, the Beacon of our Friend,
The burning Torch in yonder Turret stands.
Charels. Now shines it like a Comet of Revenge,
A Prophet to the fall of all our Foes.
Reign. Defer no time, delays have dangerous ends,
Enter, and cry, the Dolphin, presently,
And then do execution on the Watch. [Alarum.

An Alarum, Talbot in an Excursion.

Talb. France, thou shalt rue this Treason with thy tears,
If Talbot but survive thy Treachery.
Puzel that Witch, that damned Sorceress,
Hath wrought this Hellish mischief unawares,
That hardly we escap'd the Pride of France. [Exit.

An Alarum: Excursions. Bedford brought in sick in a Chair.

Enter Talbot and Burgonie without: within Puzel, Charles, Bastard, and Reignier on the Walls.

Puz. Good morrow, Gallants, want ye Corn for Bread?
I think the Duke of Burgonie will fast,
Before he'll buy againe at such a rate.
'Twas full of Darnel: do you like the taste?
Burg. Scoff on, vile Fiend, and shameless Courtizan,
I trust e're long to choak thee with thine own,
And make thee curse the Harvest of that Corn.
Charles. Your Grace may starve (perhaps) before that time.
Bedf. Oh let not words, but deeds, revenge this Treason.
Puzel. What will you do, good gray Beard?
Break a Launce, and run a Tilt at Death
Within a Chair.
Talb. Foul Fiend of France, and Hag of all dispight,
Incompass'd with thy lustful Paramours,
Becomes it thee to taunt his valiant Age,
And twit with Cowardise a man half dead?
Damsel I'le have a bout with you again,
Or else let Talbot perish with this shame.
Puzel. Are ye so hot, Sir: yet Puzel hold thy peace,
If Talbot do but Thunder, Rain will follow.
They whisper together in counsel.
God speed the Parliament: who shall be the Speaker?
Talb. Dare ye come forth, and meet us in the Field?
Puzel. Belike your Lordship takes us then for Fools,
To try if that our own be ours, or no.
Talb. I speake not to that railing Hecate,
But unto thee Alanson, and the rest.
Will ye, like Souldiers, come and fight it out?
Alanf. Seignior, no.
Talb. Seignior, hang: base Muleters of France,
Like Pesant foot-Boys do they keep the Walls,
And dare not take up Arms, like Gentlemen.
Puzel. Away Captains, let's get us from the Walls,
For Talbot means no goodness by his Looks.
God b'uy my Lord, we came Sir but to tell you,
That we are here. [Exeunt from the Walls.
Talb. And there we will be too, e're it be long.
Or else Reproach be Talbot's greatest Fame.
Vow Burgonie, by Honour of thy House,
Prick't on by publick Wrongs sustain'd in France,
Either to get the Town again or dye.
And I, as sure as English Henry lives,
And as his Father here was Conquerour;
As sure as in this late betrayed Town,
Great Cordelion's heart was buryed;
So sure I swear, to get the Town or die.
Burg. My Vows are equal partners with thy Vows.
Talb. But e're we go, regard this dying Prince,
The valiant Duke of Bedford: Come, my Lord,
We will bestow you in some better place,
Fitter for sickness, and for crazie Age.
Bedf. Lord Talbot, do not so dishonour me:
Here I will sit, before the Walls of Roan,
And will be partner of your weal or wo.
Burg. Couragious Bedford, let us now persuade you.
Bedf. Not to be gone from hence, for once I Read,
That stout Pendragon, in his Litter sick,
Came to the Field, and vanquished his Foes.
Me thinks I should revive the Souldiers Hearts,
Because I ever found them as my self.
Talb. Undaunted Spirit in a dying Breast,
Then be it so: Heavens keep old Bedford safe.
And now no more ado, brave Burgonie,
But gather we our Forces out of hand,
And set upon our boasting Enemy. [Exit.

An Alarum: Excursions. Enter Sir John Falstaff, and a Captain.

Cap.

Cap. Whither away, Sir John Falstaff, in such haste?
Falst. Whither away? to save my self by flight,
We are like to have the overthrow again.
Cap. What? will you flye, and leave Lord Talbot?
Falst. I, all the Talbot's in the world, to save my life. [Exit.
Cap. Cowardly Knight, ill Fortune follow thee. [Exit.
Retreat. Excursions. Puzel, Alanson, and Charles flie.
Bedf. Now, quiet Soul, depart when Heaven please,
For I have seen our Enemies overthrow.
What is the trust or strength of foolish man?
They that of late were daring with their scoffs,
Are glad and fain by flight to save themselves.
Bedford dyes, and is carried by two in his Chair.

An Alarum. Enter Talbot, Burgonie, and the rest.

Talb. Lost, and recovered in a day again,
This is a double Honour, Burgonie:
Yet Heavens have glory for this Victory.
Burg. Warlike and Martial Talbot, Burgonie
Inshrines thee in his heart, and there erects
Thy Noble Deeds, as Valour's Monuments.
Talb. Thanks, gentle Duke: but where is Puzel now?
I think her old Familiar is asleep.
Now where's the Bastard's braves, and Charles his glikes?
What, all amort? Roan hangs her head for grief,
That such a valiant company are fled.
Now will we take some order in the Town,
Placing therein some expert Officers,
And then depart to Paris to the King,
For there young Henry with his Nobles lye.
Burg. What will's Lord Talbot pleaseth Burgonie.
Talb. But yet before we go, let's not forget
The Noble Duke of Bedford, late deceas'd,
But see his Exequies fulfill'd in Roan,
A braver Souldier never couched Launce,
A gentler heart did never sway in Court.
But Kings and mightiest Potentates must die,
For that's the end of Humane Miserie. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Charles, Bastard, Alanson, Puzel.

Puzel. Dismay not (Princes) at this accident,
Nor grieve that Roan is so recovered.
Care is no cure, but rather corrosive,
For things that are not to be remedy'd.
Let frantick Talbot triumph for a while,
And like a Peacock sweep along his tail,
We'll pull his Plumes, and take away his Train,
If Dolphin and the rest will be but rul'd.
Charles. We have been guided by thee hitherto,
And of thy Cunning had no diffidence,
One sudden Foyl shall never breed distrust.
Bastard. Search out thy wit for secret policies,
And we will make thee famous through the World.
Alanson. We'll set thy Statue in some holy place,
And have thee reverenc'd like a blessed Saint.
Employ thee then, sweet Virgin, for our good.
Puzel. Then thus it must be, this doth Joan devise:
By fair perswasions, mixt with sugred words,
We will entice the Duke of Burgonie
To leave the Talbot, and to follow us.
Charles. I marry, sweeting, if we could do that,
France were no place for Henry's Warriours,
Nor shall that Nation boast it so with us,
But be extirped from our Provinces.
Alanson. For ever should they be expuls'd from France,
And not have Title of an Earldom here.
Puz. Your Honours shall perceive how I will work,
To bring this matter to the wished end.
Drum sounds a-far off.
Heark, by the sound of Drum you may perceive
Their Powers are marching unto Paris-ward.
Here sound an English march.
There goes the Talbot with his Colours spread,
And all the Troops of English after him.
French march.
Now in the Rereward comes the Duke and his:
Fortune in favour makes him lag behind.
Summon a Parley, we will talk with him.
Trumpets sound a Parley.
Charles. A Parley with the Duke of Burgonie?
Burg. Who craves a Parley with the Burgonie?
Puzel. The Princely Charles of France, thy Countryman.
Burg. What say'st thou, Charles? for I am marching hence.
Charles. Speak Puzel, and enchant him with thy words.
Puzel. Brave Burgonie, undoubted hope of France,
Stay, let thy humble Hand-maid speak to thee.
Burg. Speak on, but be not over-tedious.
Puz. Look on thy Country, look on fertile France,
And see the Cities and the Towns defac't,
By wasting Ruine of the cruel Foe,
As looks the Mother on her lowly Babe,
When Death doth close his tender-dying Eyes,
See, see the pining Malady of France:
Behold the Wounds, the most unnatural Wounds,
Which thou thy self hast given her woful Breast.
Oh turn the edged Sword another way,
Strike those that hurt, and hurt not those that help:
One drop of Blood drawn from thy Country's Bosom,
Should grieve thee more than streams of common gore,
Return thee therefore with a floud of Tears,
And wash away thy Country's stained Spots.
Burg. Either she hath bewitch't me with her words,
Or Nature makes me suddenly relent.
Puzel. Besides, all French and France exclaims on thee,
Doubting thy Birth and Lawful Progenie.
Whom joyn'st thou with, but with a Lordly Nation,
That will not trust thee but for profits sake?
When Talbot hath set footing once in France,
And fashion'd thee that Instrument of Ill,
Who then, but English Henry, will be Lord,
And thou be thrust out like a Fugitive?
Call we to mind, and mark but this for proof:
Was not the Duke of Orleance thy Foe?
And was he not in England Prisoner?
But when they heard he was thine Enemy,
They set him free, without his Ransom pay'd,
In spight of Burgonie and all his Friends,
See then, thou fight'st against thy Conntrymen,
And joyn'st with them will be thy slaughter-men.
Come, come, return, return thou wandring Lord,
Charles and the rest will take thee in their arms.
Burg. I am vanquished:
These haughty words of hers
Have batter'd me like roaring Cannon-shot,
And made me almost yield upon my knees.
Forgive me Country and sweet Countrymen:
And Lords accept this hearty kind embrace.
My Forces, and my Power of men, are yours.
So farewel Talbot, I'le no longer trust trust thee.
Puz. Done like a French man: turn, and turn again.
Charles. Welcome, brave Duke, thy friendship makes us fresh.
Bastard. And doth beget new Courage in our Breasts.
Alanson. Puzel hath bravely play'd her part in this,
And doth deserve a Coronet of Gold.
Charles. Now let us on, my Lords,

And joyn our Powers,
And seek how we may prejudice the Foe. [Exit.

Scena Quarta.

Enter the King, Gloucester, Winchester, York, Suffolk, Somerset, Warwick, Exeter: To them, with his Souldiers, Talbot.

Tal. My gracious Prince, and honourable Peers,
Hearing of your arrival in this Realm,
I have a while given Truce unto my Wars,
To do my duty to my Soveraign.
In sign whereof, this Arm, that hath reclaim'd
To your obedience, fifty Fortresses,
Twelve Cities, and seven walled Towns of strength,
Beside five hundred Prisoners of esteem;
Lets fall his Sword before your Highness feet:
And with submissive loyalty of heart
Ascribes the Glory of his Conquest got,
First to my God, and next unto your Grace.
King. Is this the Lord Talbot, Uncle Gloucester,
That hath so long been Resident in France?
Glost. Yes, if it please your Majesty, my Liege.
King. Welcom, brave Captain, and victorious Lord.
When I was young (as yet I am not old)
I do remember how my Father said,
A stouter Champion never handled Sword.
Long since we have resolved of your truth,
Your faithful service, and your toil in War:
Yet never have you tasted our reward,
Or been reguerdon'd with so much as Thanks,
Because till now, we never saw your face;
Therefore stand up, and for these good deserts,
We here create you Earl of Shrewsbury,
And in our Coronation take your place. [Exeunt.

Manent Vernon and Basset.

Vern. Now, Sir, to you that were so hot at Sea,
Disgracing of these Colours that I wear,
In honour of my Noble Lord of York,
Dar'st thou maintain the former words thou spak'st?
Bass. Yes, Sir, as well as you dare patronage
The envious barking of your saucie Tongue,
Against the Duke of Somerset.
Vern. Sirrah, thy Lord I honour as he is.
Bass. Why what is he? as good a man as York.
Vern. Heark ye: not so: in witness take you that.
[Strikes him.
Bass. Villain, thou knowest
The Law of Arms is such,
That who so draws a Sword, 'tis present death,
Or else this Blow should broach thy dearest Blood.
But I'le unto his Majesty, and crave,
I may have liberty to venge this Wrong,
When thou shall see, I'le meet thee to thy cost.
Vern. Well, miscreant, I'le be there as soon as you,
And after meet you, sooner than you would. [Exeunt.

Actus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter King, Gloucester, Winchester, York, Suffolk, Somerset, Warwick, Talbot, and Governor Exeter.

Glo. Lord Bishop, set the Crown upon his head.
Win. God save King Henry of that name the sixth.
Glo. Now Governour of Paris take your Oath,
That you elect no other King but him;
Esteem none Friends, but such as are his Friends,
And none your Foes, but such as shall pretend
Malicious practices against his State:
This shall ye do, so help you righteous God.

Enter Falstaff.

Fal. My gracious Soveraign, as I rode from Calice,
To haste unto your Coronation:
A Letter was deliver'd to my hands,
Writ to your Grace, from th' Duke of Burgundy.
Tal. Shame to the Duke of Burgundy, and thee:
I vow'd (base Knight) when I did meet thee next,
To tear the Garter from thy Craven's leg,
Which I have done, because (unworthily)
Thou wast installed in that High Degree.
Pardon, my Princely Henry, and the rest,
This Dastard, at the Battel of Poctiers,
When (but in all) I was six thousand strong,
And that the French were almost ten to one,
Before we met, or that a stroke was given,
Like to a trusty Squire, did run away.
In which assault we lost twelve hundred men.
My self, and divers Gentlemen beside,
Were there surpriz'd, and taken Prisoners.
Then judge, (great Lords) if I have done amiss:
Or whether that such Cowards ought to wear
This Ornament of Knighthood, yea or no?
Glo. To say the truth, this fact was infamous,
And ill beseeming any common man:
Much more a Knight, a Captain, and a Leader.
Tal. When first this Order was ordain'd, my Lords,
Knights of the Garter were of Noble birth;
Valiant, and Virtuous, full of haughty Courage,
Such as were grown to credit by the Wars:
Not fearing Death, nor shrinking for Distress.
But alwaies resolute, in most extreams.
He then, that is not furnish'd in this sort,
Doth but usurp the Sacred name of Knight,
Prophaning this most Honourable Order,
And should (if I were worthy to be Judge)
Be quite degraded, like a Hedge-born Swain,
That doth presume to boast of Gentle Blood.
K. Stain to thy Countrymen, thou hear'st thy doom;
Be packing therefore, thou that wast a Knight:
Henceforth we banish thee on pain of death. [Exit.
And now my Lord Protector view the Letter,
Sent from our Uncle Duke of Burgundie.
Glo. What means his Grace, that he hath chang'd his style?
No more but plain and bluntly? (To the King.)
Hath he forgot he is his Soveraign?
Or doth this churlish Superscription
Pretend some alteration in good will?
What's here? I have upon especial cause,
Mov'd with compassion of my countries wrack,
Together with the pitiful complaints
Of such as your Oppression feeds upon,
Forsaken your pernicious Faction,
And joyn'd with Charles, the rightful King of France.
O monstrous Treachery! Can this be so?
That in alliance, amity, and oaths,
There should be found such false dissembling guile?
King. What? doth my Uncle Burgundy revolt?
Glo. He doth, my Lord, and is become my Foe.
King. Is that the worst this Letter doth contain?
Glo. It is the worst, and all (my Lord) he writes.
King. Why then, Lord Talbot there shall talk with him,
And give him chastisement for this abuse.
How say you, (my Lord) are you not content?
Tal. Content, my Liege? Yes: but that I am prevented
I should have begg'd I might have been employ'd.
King. Then gather strength, and march unto him streight:
Let him perceive how ill we brook his Treason;
And what offence it is to flout his Friends.
Tal. I go, my Lord, in heart desiring still
You may behold confusion of your Foes.

[Enter Vernon and Basset.

Ver-

Ver. Grant me the Combat, gracious Soveraign.
Baſ. And me (my Lord) grant me the Combat too.
York. This is my Servant, hear him Noble Prince.
Som. And this is mine (ſweet Henry) favour him.
King. Be patient, Lords, and give them leave to ſpeak,
Say, Gentlemen, what makes you thus exclaim
And wherefore crave you Combat? or with whom?
Ver. With him, (my Lord) for he hath done me wrong.
Baſ. And I with him, for he hath done me wrong.
King. What is that wrong whereon you both complain?
Firſt let me know, and then I'le anſwer you.
Baſ. Croſſing the Sea, from England unto France,
This Fellow here with carping tongue,
Upbraided me about the Roſe I wear,
Saying, the ſanguine Colour of the Leaves
Did preſent my Maſter's bluſhing Cheeks:
When ſtubbornly he did repugn the truth,
About a certain queſtion in the Law,
Argu'd betwixt the Duke of York and him:
With other vile and ignominious terms.
In confutation of which rude Reproach,
And in defence of my Lord's worthineſs,
I crave the benefit of Law of Arms.
Ver. And that is my Petition (Noble Lord:)
For though he ſeem with forged quaint conceit
To ſet a gloſs upon his bold intent,
Yet know (my Lord) I was provok'd by him,
And he firſt took exceptions at this Badge,
Pronouncing that the paleneſs of this Flower,
Bewray'd the faintneſs of my Maſter's heart.
York. Will not this malice, Somerſet, be left?
Som. Your private grudge, my Lord of York, will out,
Though ne're ſo cunningly you ſmother it.
King. Good Lord! What madneſs rules in brain-ſick men.
When for ſo ſlight and frivolous a cauſe,
Such factious emulations ſhall ariſe?
Good Couſins both of York and Somerſet,
Quiet your ſelves, and be at peace.
York. Let this diſſention firſt be tryed by fight,
And then your Highneſs ſhall command a Peace.
Som. The quarrel toucheth none but us alone,
Betwixt our ſelves let us decide it then.
York. There is my pledge, accept it Somerſet.
Ver. Nay let it reſt, where it began at firſt.
Baſ. Confirm it ſo, mine honourable Lord.
Glo. Confirm it ſo? confounded be your ſtrife,
And periſh ye with your audacious prate;
Preſumptuous Vaſſals, are you not aſham'd
With this immodeſt clamorous outrage,
To trouble, and diſturb, the King, and Us?
And you, my Lords, methinks you do not well
To bear with their perverſe Objections:
Much leſs to take occaſion from their mouths,
To raiſe a mutiny betwixt your ſelves:
Let me perſwade you take a better courſe.
Exet. It grieves his Highneſs,
Good my Lords, be Friends.
King Come hither you that would be Combatants,
Henceforth I charge you, as you love our favour,
Quite to forget this Quarrel, and the Cauſe.
And you, my Lords, Remember where you are,
In France among a fickle wavering Nation:
In they perceive diſſention in our looks,
And that within our ſelves we diſagree;
How will their grudging ſtomacks be provok'd
To wilful Diſobedience, and Rebel?
Beſide, What infamy will there ariſe,
When Forreign Princes ſhall be certified,
That for a toy, a thing of no regard,
King Henry's Peers, and chief Nobility,
Deſtroy'd themſelv's, and loſt the Realm of France?
O think upon the Conqueſt of my Father,
My tender years, and let us not forgo
That for a trifle, that was bought with blood.
Let me be Umpier in this doubtful ſtrife:
I ſee no Reaſon, if I wear this Roſe,
That any one ſhould therefore be ſuſpicious
I more encline to Somerſet than York:
Both are my Kinſmen, and I love them both.
As well they may upbraid me with my Crown,
Becauſe (forſooth) the King of Scots is Crown'd.
But your diſcretions better can perſwade,
Than I am able to inſtruct or teach:
And therefore as we hither came in peace,
So let us ſtill continue peace and love.
Couſin of York, we inſtitute your Grace
To be our Regent in theſe parts of France:
And good my Lord of Somerſet, unite
Your Troops of Horſemen, with his Bands of Foot,
And like true Subjects Sons of your Progenitors,
Go chearfully together, and digeſt
Your angry choler on your Enemies.
Ourſelf, my Lord Protector, and the reſt,
After ſome reſpite will return to Calice;
From thence to England, where I hope e're long
To be preſented by your Victories,
With Charles, Alanſon, and that traiterous rout.
Exeunt. Manet York, Warwick, Exeter, Vernon.
War. My Lord of York, I promiſe you the King
Prettily (me thought) did play the Orator.
York. And ſo he did, but yet I like it not,
In that he wears the Badge of Somerſet.
War. Tuſh, that was but his fancy, blame him not,
I dare preſume (ſweet Prince) he thought no harm.
York. And if I wiſh he did. But let it reſt,
Other affairs muſt now be managed. [Exeunt.

Flouriſh. Manet Exeter.

Exet. Well didſt thou Richard to ſuppreſs thy voice:
For the paſſions of thy heart burſt out,
I fear we ſhould have ſeen decypher'd there
More rancorous ſpight, more furious Raging Broyls,
Than yet can be imagin'd or ſuppos'd:
But howſoe're, no ſimple man that ſees
This jarring diſcord of Nobility,
This ſhouldering of each other in the Court,
This factious bandying of their Favourites,
By that it doth preſage ſome ill event.
'Tis much, when Scepters are in Childrens hands:
But more, when Envy breeds unkind Diviſion:
Then comes the Ruin, there begins Confuſion. [Exit.

Enter Talbot with Trumpets and Drum before Burdeaux.

Talb. Go to the Gates of Burdeaux, Trumpeter, Summon their General unto the Wall. [Sounds.

Enter General aloft.

Engliſh John Talbot (Captains) calls you forth,
Servant in Arms to Harry King of England,
And thus he would: Open your City Gates,
Be humbled to us, call my Soveraign yours,
And do him homage as obedient Subjects,
And I'le withdraw me, and my bloody Power.
But if you frown upon this proffer'd Peace,
And tempt the fury of my three Attendants,
Lean Famine, quart ering Steel, and climbing Fire,
Who in a moment even with the Earth
Shall lay your ſtately, and air-braving Towers,
If you forſake the offer of their love.
Cap. Thou ominous and fearful Owl of death,
Our Nations terrour, and their bloody ſcourge,
The period of thy Tyranny approacheth,
On us thou canſt not enter but by Death:
For I proteſt we are well fortified,
And ſtrong enough to iſſue out and fight.
If thou retire, the Dolphin well appointed,
Stands with the Snares of War to tangle thee.

On either hand thee, there are Squadrons pitcht,
To wall thee from the liberty of Flight;
Ten thousand French have ta'ne the Sacrament,
And no way canst thou turn thee for Redress,
But death doth front thee with apparent spoil,
And pale destruction meets thee in the Face:
To rive their dangerous Artillery
Upon no Christian soul, but English Talbot:
Lo there thou stand'st a breathing valiant man
Of an invincible unconquer'd spirit:
This is the latest Glory of thy praise,
That I thy Enemy dew thee withall;
For e're the Glass, that now begins to run,
Finish the process of his sandy hour,
These Eyes that see thee now well coloured,
Shall see thee withered, bloody, pale, and dead.
[Drum a-far off.
Heark, heark, the Dolphin's drum, a warning Bell.
Sings heavie Musick to thy timorous soul,
And mine shall ring thy dire departure out. [Exit.

Talb. He Fables not, I heard the Enemy:
Out some light Horsemen, and peruse their Wings.
O negligent and heedless Discipline,
How are we park'd and bounded in a pale?
A little Heard of England's Timorous Deer,
'Maz'd with a yelping kennel of French Curs,
If we be English Dear, be then in blood,
Not Rascal-like to fall down with a pinch,
But rather moodie mad and desperate Stags,
Turn on the bloody Hounds, with heads of Steel
And make the Cowards stand aloof at bay:
Sell every man his life as dear as mine,
And they shall find dear Deer of us, my Friends.
God and S. George, Talbot and England's right,
Prosper our Colours in this dangerous fight. [Exeunt.

Enter a Messenger that meets York. Enter York with Trumpet, and many Souldiers.

York. Are not the speedy Scouts return'd again,
That dogg'd the mighty Army of the Dolphin?

Mess. They are return'd, my Lord, and give it out,
That he is march'd to Burdeaux with his Power
To fight with Talbot: as he march'd along,
By your espyals were discovered
Two mightier Troops, than that the Dolphin led,
Which join'd with him and made their march for York. A plague upon that Villain Somerset, (Burdeaux.
That thus delays my promised supply
Of Horsemen that were levied for the Siege.
Renowned Talbot doth expect my aid,
And I am lowted by a Traitor Villain,
And cannot help the Noble Chevalier:
God comfort him in this necessity:
If he miscarry, farewel Wars in France.

Enter another Messenger.

2. Mess. Thou Princely Leader of our English strength,
Never so needful on the earth of France,
Spur to the Rescue of the Noble Talbot,
Who now is girdled with a waste of Iron,
And hem'd about with grim destruction:
To Burdeaux, warlick Duke, to Burdeaux, York.
Else farewel Talbot, France, and England's Honour.

York. O God, that Somerset who in proud heart,
Doth stop my Cornets, were in Talbot's place,
So should we save a valiant Gentleman,
By forfeiting a Traitor and a Coward:
Mad ire, and wrathful fury makes me weep,
That thus we dye, while remiss Traitors sleep.

Mess. O send some succour to the distrest Lord.

York. He dyes, we lose: I break my warlike word:
We mourn, France smiles: We lose, they dayly get:
All long of this vile Traitor Somerset.

Mess. Then God take mercy on brave Talbot's Soul,
And on his Son, young John, who two hours since,
I met in travel towards his warlike Father;
This seven years did not Talbot see his Son,
And now they meet, where both their lives are done.

York. Alas! What joy shall Noble Talbot have,
To bid his young Son welcome to his Grave:
Away, vexation almost stops my breath,
That sundred Friends greet in the hour of death.
Lucie farewel, no more my fortune can,
But curse the cause, I cannot aid the man.
Maine, Bloys, Poytiers, and Toures, are won away,
Long all of Somerset, and his delay. [Exit.

Mess. Thus while the Vulture of Sedition,
Feeds in the bosom of such great Commanders,
Sleeping neglection doth betray to loss,
The Conquests of our scarce cold Conqueror,
That ever-living man of Memory,
Henry the fifth. Whiles they each others cross,
Lives, Honours, Lands, and all, hurry to loss. [Exit.

Enter Somerset with his Army.

Som. It is too late, I cannot send them now:
This expedition was by York and Talbot
Too rashly plotted. All our general force
Might with a sally of the very Town
Be buckled with: the over-daring Talbot
Hath sullied all his gloss of former Honor
By this unheedful, desperate, wild Adventure:
York set him on to fight, and dye in shame,
That Talbot dead, great York might bear the name.

Capt. Here is Sir William Lucie, who with me,
Set from our o're-matcht Forces forth for aid.

Som. How now, Sir William, whither were thou sent?

Lu. Whither my Lord? from bought and sold L. Talbot,
Who ring'd about with bold adversity,
Cryes out for Noble York and Somerset,
To beat assailing death from his weak Regions;
And whiles the Honourable Captain there
Drops bloody sweat from his war-wearied Limbs,
And in advantage lingring looks for Rescue,
You, his false hopes, the trust of England's Honour,
Keep off aloof with worthless emulation:
Let not your private discord keep away
The levied Succours that shall lend him aid,
While he renowned Noble Gentleman
Yields up his life unto a world of odds.
Orleance the Bastard, Charles, and Burgundie,
Alanson, Reignard, compass him about,
And Talbot perisheth by your default.

Som. York set him on, York should have sent him aid.

Luc. And York as fast upon your Grace exclaims,
Swearing that you with-hold his levied Host,
Collected for this Expedition.

Som. York lyes: He might have sent, and had the Horse:
I owe him little Duty, and less Love,
And take foul scorn to fawn on him by sending.

Luc. The fraud of England, not the force of France,
Hath now entrap't the Noble-minded Talbot:
Never to England shall he bear his Life,
But dies betray'd to Fortune by your strife.

Som. Come, go, I will dispatch the Horsemen straight:
Within six hours, they will be at his aid.

Luc. Too late comes Rescue, if he is ta'ne, or slain,
For flie he could not, if he would have fled:
And flie would Talbot never, though he might.

Som. If he be dead, brave Talbot then adieu.

Luc. His fame lives in the World, his shame in you
[Exeunt.

Enter Talbot and his Son.

Tal. O young John Talbot, I did send for thee,
To tutor thee in Stratagems of War,
That Talbot's Name might be in thee reviv'd,
When sapless Age, and weak unable limbs,
Should bring thy Father to his drooping Chair.

But

But O malignant and ill-boading Stars,
Now art thou come unto a Feast of death,
A terrible and unavoided danger:
Therefore, dear Boy, mount on my swiftest Horse,
And I'le direct thee how thou shalt escape
By sudden flight. Come, dally not, be gone.
John. Is my name Talbot? and am I your Son?
And shall I flye? O, if you love my Mother's,
Dishonour not her honourable Name,
To make a Bastard and a slave of me,
The World will say, he is not Talbot's blood,
That basely fled, when Noble Talbot stood.
Talb. Flye, to revenge my death, If I be slain.
John. He that flyes so, will ne're return again.
Talbot. If we both stay, we both are sure to dye.
John. Then let me stay, and, Father, do you flye;
Your loss is great, so your regard should be;
My worth unknown, no loss is known in me.
Upon my death, the French can little boast;
In yours they will, in you all hopes are lost.
Flight cannot stain the Honour you have won,
But mine it will, that no exploit have done.
You fled for Vantage, every one will swear:
But if I bow, they'l say it was for Fear.
There is no hope that ever I will stay,
If the first hour I shrink and run away.
Here on my knee I beg Mortality,
Rather than Life, preserv'd with Infamy.
Talb. Shall all thy Mothers hopes lye in one Tomb?
John. I, rather then I'le shame my Mother's Womb.
Talb. Upon my blessing I command thee go.
John. To fight I will, but not flye the Foe.
Talb. Part of thy Father may be sav'd in thee.
John. No part of him, but will be shame in me.
Talb. Thou never hadst Renown, nor canst not lose it.
John. Yes, your renowned Name: shall flight abuse it?
Talb. Thy Father's charge shall clear thee from the stain.
John. You cannot witness for me, being slain.
If Death be so apparent, then both flye.
Talb. And leave my Followers here to fight and die?
My age was never tainted with such shame.
John. And shall my Youth be guilty of such blame?
No more can I be severed from your side,
Than can your self your self in twain divide:
Stay, go, do what you will, the like do I;
For live I will not: if my Father die.
Talb. Then here I take my leave of thee, fair Son,
Born to eclipse thy life this afternoon:
Come, side by side, together live and die,
And Soul with Soul from France to heaven flye.

[Exeunt.

Alarum: Excursions, wherein Talbot's Son is hemm'd about, and Talbot rescues him.

Tal. S. George, and Victory, fight Souldiers, fight:
The Regent hath with Talbot broke his word,
And left us to the rage of France his Sword.
Where is John Talbot? pawse, and take thy breath,
I gave thee Life, and rescu'd thee from Death.
John. O twice my Father, twice am I thy Son:
The Life thou gav'st me first, was lost and done,
Till with thy Warlike Sword, despight of Fate,
To my determin'd time thou gav'st new date.
Talb. When from the Dolphin's Crest thy Sword struck fire,
It warm'd thy Fathers heart with proud desire
Of bold-fac't Victory. Then Leaden Age,
Quicken'd with Youthful Spleen, and Warlike Rage,
Beat down Alanson, Orleance, Burgundy,
And from the pride of Gallia rescued thee.
The ireful Bastard Orleance, that drew Blood
From thee, my Boy, and had the Maidenhood
Of thy first fight, I soon encountered,
And interchanging blows, I quickly shed
Some of his Bastard blood, and in disgrace
Bespoke him thus: Contaminated, base
And mis-begotten blood, I spill of thine,
Mean and right poor, for that pure blood of mine,
Which thou didst force from Talbot, my brave Boy.
Here purposing the Bastard to destroy,
Came in strong rescue. Speak, thy Fathers care?
Art thou not weary, John? How do'st thou fare?
Wilt thou yet leave the Battel, Boy, and flye,
Now thou art seal'd the Son of Chivalry?
Flye, to revenge my death when I am dead,
The help of one stands me in little stead.
Oh, too much folly is it, well I wot,
To hazard all our lives in one small Boat.
If I to day dye not with French-mens Rage,
To morrow I shall die with mickle age.
By me they nothing gain, and if I stay,
'Tis but the shortning of my Life one day.
In thee thy Mother dies, our Household's Name,
My Death's Revenge, thy Youth, and England's Fame:
All these, and more, we hazard by thy stay;
All these are sav'd, if thou wilt flye away.
John. The Sword of Orleance hath not made me smart,
These words of yours draw Life-blood from my heart.
On that advantage, bought with such a shame,
To save a paltry Life, and slay bright Fame,
Before young Talbot from old Talbot flye,
The Coward Horse that bears me, fall and die:
And like me to the pezant Boyes of France,
To be Shames scorn, and subject of Mischance.
Surely, by all the Glory you have won,
And if I flye, I am not Talbot's Son.
Then talk no more of flight, it is no boot,
If Son to Talbot, die at Talbot's foot.
Tal. Then follow thou thy desp'rate Sire of Creet,
Thou Icarus, thy life to me is sweet:
If thou wilt fight, fight by thy Father's side,
And commendable prov'd let's die in pride. [Exit.

Alarum. Excursions. Enter old Talbot led.

Talb. Where is my other Life? mine own is gone.
O, where's young Talbot? where is valiant John?
Triumphant Death, smear'd with Captivity,
Young Talbot's Valour makes me smile at thee.
When he perceiv'd me shrink, and on my Knee,
His bloody Sword he brandish't over me,
And like a hungry Lyon did commence
Rough deeds of Rage, and stern impatience:
But when my angry Guardant stood alone,
Tendring my ruine, and assail'd of none,
Dizzy-ey'd Fury, and great rage of heart,
Suddenly made him from my side to start
Into the clustring Battel of the French:
And in that Sea of Blood, my Boy did drench
His over-mounting Spirit; and there dy'd
My Icarus, my Blossom in his pride.

Enter with John Talbot, born.

Serv. O, my dear Lord, lo where your Son is born.
Ta. Thou antick Death, which laugh'st us here to scorn,
Anon from thy insulting Tyranny,
Coupled in Bonds of perpetuity,
Two Talbot's winged through the lither Skie,
In thy despight shall scape Mortality.
O thou, whose wounds become hard favoured death,
Speak to thy Father, e're thou yield thy breath,
Brave death by speaking, whether he will or no:
Imagine him a French man, and thy Foe.
Poor Boy, he smiles, me thinks, as who should say,
Had Death been French, then Death had died to day.
Come, come, and lay him in his Fathers Arms,
My spirit can no longer bear these harms.

Souldiers

Souldiers adieu: I have what I would have,
Now my old arms are young John Talbot's Grave. [Dies.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Charles, Alanson, Burgundy, Bastard, and Puzel.

Char. Had York and Somerset brought rescue in,
We should have found a bloody day of this.
Bast. How the young whelp of Talbot's raging wood,
Did flesh his puny-sword in French-mens blood.
Puz. Once I encountred him, and thus I said:
Thou Maiden youth, be vanquisht by a Maid.
But with a proud Majestical high scorn
He answer'd thus: young Talbot was not born
To be the pillage of a Giglot Wench,
He left me proudly, as unworthy fight.
Bur. Doubtless he would have made a noble Knight:
See where he lies inhearsed in the arms
Of the most bloody Nurser of his harms.
Bast. Hew them to pieces, hack their bones asunder,
Whose life was England's glory, Gallia's wonder.
Char. Oh no, forbear: For that which we have fled
During the life, let us not wrong it dead.

Enter Lucy.

Lu. Herald, conduct me to the Dolphins Tent,
To know who hath obtained the glory of the day.
Char. On what submissive message art thou sent?
Lucy. Submission, Dolphin? 'tis a meer French word:
We English Warriors wot not what it means.
I come to know what Prisoners thou hast ta'ne,
And to survey the Bodies of the dead.
Char. For Prisoners ask'st thou? Hell our Prison is.
But tell me whom thou seek'st?
Luc. But where's the great Alcides of the Field,
Valiant Lord Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury?
Created for his rare success in Arms,
Great Earl of Washford, Waterford, and Valence,
Lord Talbot of Goodrig and Urchinfield;
Lord Strange of Blackmere, Lord Verdon of Alton,
Lord Cromwel of Wingfield, Lord Furnival of Sheffeild,
The thrice victorious Lord of Falconbridge,
Knight of the Noble Order of S. George,
Worthy S. Michael, and the Golden Fleece,
Great Marshal to our King Henry the sixth,
Of all his Wars within the Realm of France.
Puz. Here's a silly stately style indeed:
The Turk that two and fifty Kingdoms hath,
Writes not so tedious a Style as this.
Him that thou magnifi'st with all these Titles,
Stinking and flye-blown lies here at our feet.
Lucy. Is Talbot slain, the French-mens only Scourge,
Your Kingdoms terrour, and black Nemesis?
Oh were mine eye-balls into Bullets turn'd,
That I in rage might shoot them at your faces.
Oh, that I could but call these dead to life,
It were enough to fright the Realm of France.
Were but his Picture left among you here,
It would amaze the proudest of you all.
Give me their Bodies that I may bear them hence,
And give them burial, as beseems their worth.
Puz. I think this upstart is old Talbot's Ghost,
He speaks with such a proud commanding Spirit:
For Gods sake, let him have him: to keep them here,
They would but stink, and putrifie the air.
Char. Go take their Bodies hence.
Lucy. I'le bear them hence: but from their ashes shall be rear'd
A Phœnix that shall make all France affear'd. (wilt.
Char. So we be rid of them, do with them what thou
And now to Paris in this conquering vein,
All will be ours, now bloody Talbot's slain.

Scena Secunda.

Enter King, Gloucester, and Exeter.

King. Have you perus'd the Letters from the Pope,
The Emperour, and the Earl of Armanack?
Glo. I have, my Lord, and their intent is this,
They humbly sue unto your Excellence,
To have a godly Peace concluded of,
Between the Realms of England and of France.
King. How doth your Grace affect this motion?
Glo. Well (my good Lord) and as the only means
To stop effusion of our Christian blood,
And stablish quietness on every side.
King. I marry, Uncle, for I always thought,
It was both impious and unnatural,
That such immanity and bloody strife
Should reign among Professors of one Faith,
Glo. Beside, my Lord, the sooner to effect,
And surer bind his knot of Amity,
The Earl of Armanack near knit to Charles,
A man of great Authority in France,
Proffers his onely Daughter to your Grace,
In marriage, with a large and sumptuous Dowry.
King. Marriage, Uncle? Alas my years are young:
And fitter is my Study, and my Books
Than wanton dalliance with a Paramour.
Yet call th' Ambassadours, and as you please,
So let them have their Answers every one:
I shall be well content with any choice
Tends to God's glory, and my Country's weal.

Enter Winchester, and three Ambassadours.

Exet. What, is my Lord of Winchester install'd,
And call'd unto a Cardinals degree?
Then I perceive, that will be verified
Henry the Fifth did sometime prophesie.
If once he come to be a Cardinal,
He'll make his Cap coequal with the Crown.
King. My Lords Ambassadours, your several suits
Have been consider'd and debated on,
Your purpose is both good and reasonable:
And therefore are we certainly resolv'd,
To draw Conditions of a friendly Peace,
Which by my Lord of Winchester we mean
Shall be transported presently into France.
Glo. And for the proffer of my Lord your Master,
I have inform'd his Highness so at large,
As liking of the Ladies virtuous gifts,
Her Beauty, and the value of her Dower,
He doth intend she shall be Englands Queen.
King. In argument and proof of which contract,
Bear her this Jewel, pledge of my Affection.
And so, my Lord Protector, see them guarded,
And safely brought to Dover, where inshipp'd
Commit them to the fortune of the Sea. [Exeunt.
Win. Stay my Lord Legat, you shall first receive
The sum of mony which I promised
Should be delivered to his Holiness
For cloathing me in these grave Ornaments.
Legat. I will attend upon Lordships leisure.
Win. Now Winchester will not submit, I trow,
Or be inferiour to the proudest Peer.
Humphry of Gloucester, thou shalt well perceive,
That neither in birth, or for Authority,
The Bishop will be over-born by thee:
I'le either make thee stoop, and bend thy knee,
Or sack this Country with a mutiny. [Exeunt.

Scena

Scena Tertia.

Enter Charles, Burgundy, Alanſon, Baſtard, Reignier, and Joan.

Charl. This news (my Lords) may cheer our drooping ſpirits:
'Tis ſaid, the ſtout Pariſians do revolt,
And return again unto the warlike French.
Alan. Then march to Paris, Royal Charles of France.
And keep not back your Power in dalliance.
Puz. Peace be amongſt them if they turn to us,
Elſe ruine combat with their Palaces.

Enter Scout.

Scout. Succeſs unto our valiant General,
And happineſs to his Accomplices.
Char. What tidings ſend our Scout? I prethee ſpeak.
Scout. The Engliſh Army that divided was
Into two Parties, is now conjoyn'd in one,
And means to give you Battel preſently.
Charl. Somewhat too ſudden, Sirs, the warning is,
But we will preſently provide for them.
Bur. I truſt the Ghoſt of Talbot is not there:
Now he is gone, my Lord, you need not fear.
Puz. Of all baſe paſſions, Fear is moſt accurſt.
Command the Conqueſt, Charles, it ſhall be thine:
Let Henry fret, and all the world repine.
Charl. Then on, my Lords, and France be fortunate.
[Exeunt. Alarum. Excurſions.

Enter Joan de Puzel.

Puz. The Regent conquers, and the French-men flye.
Now help ye charming Spells and Periapts,
And ye choiſe ſpirits that admoniſh me,
And give me ſignes of future accidents. [Thunder.
You ſpeedy helpers, that are Subſtitutes
Under the Lordly Monarch of the North,
Appear, and aid me in this enterprize.

Enter Fiends.

This ſpeedy and quick appearance argues proof
Of your accuſtom'd diligence to me.
Now, ye familiar Spirits, that are cull'd
Out of the powerful Regions under earth.
Help me this once, that France may get the Field.
[They walk and ſpeak not.
Oh hold me not with ſilence over long:
Where I was wont to feed you with my Blood,
I'le lop a member off, and give it you
In earneſt of a further benefit:
So you do condeſcend to help me now.
[They hang their heads.
No hope to have redreſs? My Body ſhall
Pay recompence, if you will grant my ſuit.
[They ſhake their heads.
Cannot my Body, nor blood-ſacrifice,
Intreat you to your wonted furtherance?
Then take my Soul; my Body, Soul, and all,
Before that England give the French the foyl.
[They depart.
See, they forſake me. Now the time is come,
That France muſt vail her lofty plumed Creſt,
And let her head fall into England's lap.
My ancient Incantations are too weak,
And hell too ſtrong for me to buckle with:
Now France thy glory droopeth to the duſt. [Exit.

Excurſions. Burgundy and York fight hand to hand. French flye.

York. Damſel of France, I think I have you faſt,
Unchain your Spirits now with ſpelling Charms,
And try if they can gain your liberty.
A goodly prize, fit for the Devils grace.
See how the ugly Witch doth bend her brows,
As if with Circe, ſhe would change my ſhape.
Puz. Chang'd to a worſer ſhape thou can'ſt not be.
York. Oh, Charles the Dolphin is a proper man,
No ſhape but his can pleaſe your dainty eye.
Puz. A Plaguing miſchief light on Charles and thee,
And may ye both be ſuddenly ſurpris'd
By bloody hands, in ſleeping on your Beds.
York. Fell banning Hag, Inchantreſs, hold thy tongue.
Puz. I prethee give me leave to curſe a while.
York. Curſe Miſcreant, when thou com'ſt to the ſtake.
[Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter Suffolk with Margaret in his hand.

Suf. Be what thou wilt, thou art my Priſoner.
[Gazes on her.
Oh faireſt Beauty, do not fear, nor flye:
For I will touch thee but with reverend hands,
I kiſs theſe fingers for eternal peace,
And lay them gently on thy tender ſide.
Who art thou, ſay? that I may honour thee.
Mar. Margaret my name, and daughter to a King,
The King of Naples, who ſo e're thou art.
Suf. An Earl I am, and Suffolk am I call'd.
Be not offended, Natures miracle,
Thou art allotted to be ta'ne by me:
So doth the Swan her downy Cignets ſave,
Keeping them Priſoners underneath her wings:
Yet if this ſervile uſage once offend,
Go, and be free again, as Suffolk's Friend. [She is going.
Oh ſtay: I have no power to let her paſs,
My hand would free her, but my heart ſayes no.
As plays the Sun upon the glaſſie ſtreams,
Twinkling another counterfeited beam,
So ſeems this gorgeous Beauty to mine Eyes:
Fain would I woo her, yet I dare not ſpeak:
I'le call for Pen and Ink, and write my mind:
Fie De la Pole, diſable not thy ſelf:
Haſt not a Tongue? Is ſhe not here thy Priſoner?
Wilt thou be daunted at a Womans ſight?
I, Beauties Princely Majeſty is ſuch,
Confounds the Tongue, and makes the Senſes rough.
Mar. Say, Earl Suffolk, if thy Name be ſo,
What Ranſom muſt I pay before I paſs?
For I perceive I am thy Priſoner.
Suf. How canſt thou tell, ſhe will deny thy ſuit,
Before thou make a trial of her Love? (pay?
M. Why ſpeak'ſt thou not? What Ranſom muſt I
Suf. She's beautiful; and therefore to be wooed:
She is a Woman, therefore to be won.
Mar. Wilt thou accept of Ranſom, yea or no?
Suf. Fond man, remember that thou haſt a Wife,
Then how can Margaret be thy Paramour?
Mar. I were beſt to leave him, for he will not hear.
Suf. There all is marr'd: there lies a cooling card.
Mar. He talks at random: ſure the man is mad.
Suf. And yet a diſpenſation may be had.
Mar. And yet I would that you would anſwer me:
Suf. I'le win this Lady Margaret. For whom?
Why, for my King: Tuſh that's a wooden thing.
Mar. He talks of wood: It is ſome Carpenter.
Suf. Yet ſo my fancy may be ſatisfied,
And peace eſtabliſhed between theſe Realms;
But there remains a ſcruple in that too:
For though her Father be the King of Naples,
Duke of Anjou and Main, yet he is poor,
And our Nobility will ſcorn the Match.
Mar. Hear ye Captain? are you not at leiſure?
Suf. It ſhall be ſo, diſdain they ne're ſo much:
Henry is youthful, and will quickly yield.
Madam, I have a ſecret to reveale.
Mar. What though I be inthrall'd, he ſeems a Knight,
And

And will not any way dishonour me.
Suf. Lady, vouchsafe to listen what I say.
Mar. Perhaps I shall be rescu'd by the French,
And then I need not crave his courtesie.
Suf. Sweet Madam, give me hearing in a cause.
Mar. Tush, women have been captivate e're now.
Suf. Lady, wherefore talk you so?
Mar. I cry you mercy, 'tis but Quid for Quo.
Suf. Say, gentle Princess, would you not suppose
Your Bondage happy to be made a Queen?
Mar. To be a Queen in Bondage, is more vile,
Than is a Slave in base servility:
For Princes should be free.
Suf. And so shall you,
If happy England's Royal King be free.
Mar. Why, what concern's his freedom unto me?
Suf. I'le undertake to make thee Henry's Queen,
To put a Golden Scepter in thy hand,
And set a precious Crown upon thy head,
If thou wilt condescend to my——
Mar. What?
Suf. His love.
Mar. I am unworthy to be Henry's Wife.
Suf. No, gentle Madam, I unworthy am
To woo so fair a Dame to be his Wife,
And have no Portion in the choice my self.
How say you, Madam, are you so content?
Mar. And if my Father please, I am content.
Suf. Then call our Captains and our Colours forth,
And, Madam, at your Father's Castle Walls,
We'll crave a Parley to confer with him.
Sound. Enter Reignier on the Walls.
See Reignier see, thy Daughter Prisoner.
Reig. To whom?
Suf. To me.
Reig. Suffolk, what remedy?
I am a Souldier and unapt to weep,
Or to exclaim on Fortunes fickleness.
Suf. Yes, there is remedy enough, my Lord,
Consent, and for thy Honour give consent,
Thy Daughter shall be wedded to my King:
Whom I with pain have woo'd and won thereto:
And this her easie held Imprisonment
Hath gain'd thy Daughter Princely liberty.
Reig. Speaks Suffolk as he thinks?
Suf. Fair Margaret knows,
That Suffolk doth not flatter, face, or fain.
Reig. Upon thy Princely Warrant, I descend,
To give thee answer of thy just demand.
Suf. And here I will expect thy coming.

Trumpets sound. Enter Reignier.

Reig. Welcome, brave Earl, into our Territories,
Command in Anjou what your Honour pleases.
Suf. Thanks, Reignier, happy for so sweet a Child,
Fit to be made Companion with a King:
What answer makes your Grace unto my suit?
Reig. Since thou dost daign to woo her little worth,
To be the Princely Bride of such a Lord:
Upon condition I may quietly
Enjoy mine own, the Country Main and Anjou,
Free from oppression, or the stroke of War,
My Daughter shall be Henry's, if he please.
Suf. That is her Ransom, I deliver her,
And those two Counties, I will undertake,
Your Grace shall well and quietly enjoy.
Reig. And I again in Henry's Royal name,
As Deputy unto that gracious King,
Give thee her hand for sign of plighted Faith.
Suf. Reignier of France, I give thee Kingly thanks,
Because it is in Traffick of a King.
And yet methinks I could be well content
To be mine own Attorney in this case.
I'le over then to England with this News,
And make this Marriage to be solemniz'd:
So farewel Reignier, set this Diamond safe
In Golden Palaces as it becomes.
Reig. I do embrace thee, as I would embrace
The Christian Prince King Henry, were he here.
Mar. Farewel my Lord, good wishes, praise, and prayers,
Shall Suffolk ever have of Margaret. [She is going.
Suf. Farewel, sweet Madam: but hark you? Margaret,
No Princely Commendations, to my King?
Mar. Such Commendations as becomes a Maid,
A Virgin and his Servant, say to him.
Suf. Words sweetly plac'd, and modestly directed,
But, Madam, I must trouble you again,
No loving Token to his Majesty?
Mar. Yes, my good Lord, a pure unspotted heart,
Never yet taint with love, I send the King.
Suf. And this withal. [Kisses her.
Mar. That for thy self, I will not so presume,
To send such peevish Tokens to a King.
Suf. Oh wer't thou for my self: but Suffolk stay,
Thou mayest not wander in that Labyrinth,
There Minotaurs, and ugly Treasons lurk.
Solicite Henry with her wondrous praise,
Bethink thee on her Virtues that surmount,
Made natural Graces that extinguish Art,
Repeat their semblance often on the Seas,
That when thou com'st to kneel at Henry's feet,
Thou mayest bereave him of his wits with wonder. [Exit.

Enter York, Warwick, Shepherd, Puzel.

Yor. Bring forth that Sorceress condemn'd to burn.
Shep. Ah, Joan, this kills thy Fathers heart out-right,
Have I sought every Country far and near,
And now it is my chance to find thee out,
Must I behold thy timeless cruel death:
Ah Joan, sweet Daughter, I'le die with thee.
Puz. Decrepit Miser, base ignoble Wretch,
I am descended of a gentler blood.
Thou art no Father, nor no Friend of mine.
Shep. Out, out: My Lords, and please you, 'tis not so,
I did beget her all the Parish knows:
Her Mother liveth yet, can testifie
She was the first fruit of my Batch'lor-ship.
War. Graceless, wilt thou deny thy Parentage?
Yor. This argues what her kind of life hath been,
Wicked and vile, and so her death concludes.
Shep. Fie Joan, that thou wilt be so obstacle:
God knows thou art a Collop of my Flesh,
And for thy sake have I shed many a tear:
Deny me not, I pray thee, gentle Joan.
Puz. Pezant avant; you have suborn'd this man
Of purpose to obscure my Noble Birth.
Shep. 'Tis true, I gave a Noble to the Priest,
The morn that I was wedded to her Mother.
Kneel down and take my blessing, Good my Girl.
Wilt thou not stoop? Now curst be the time
Of thy Nativity: I would the Milk
Thy Mother gave thee, when thou suck'dst her breast,
Had been a little Ratsbane for thy sake:
Or else, when thou didst keep thy Lambs afield,
I wish some ravenous Wolf had eaten thee.
Dost thou deny thy Father, curst Drab?
O burn her, burn her, hanging is too good. [Exit.
Yor. Take her away, for she hath liv'd too long,
To fill the world with vitious qualities.
Puz. First, let me tell you whom you have condemn'd,
Not me, begotten of a Shepherd Swain,
But issued from the Progeny of Kings.
Virtuous and Holy, chosen from above,
By inspiration of Celestial Grace,
To work exceeding Miracles on earth.
I never had to do with wicked Spirits,

But

But you that are polluted with your luſts,
Stain'd with the guiltleſs blood of Innocents,
Corrupt and tainted with a thouſand Vices:
Becauſe you want the grace that others have,
You judge it ſtreight a thing impoſſible
To compaſs Wonders, but by the help of Devils.
No, miſconceived Joan of Aire hath been
A Virgin from her tender infancy,
Chaſte, and immaculate in very thought,
Whoſe Maiden-blood thus rigorously effus'd,
Will cry for vengeance at the Gates of Heaven.
Yor. I, I: away with her to execution.
War. And heark ye, Sirs: becauſe ſhe is a Maid,
Spare for no Faggots, let there be enow:
Place Barrels of pitch upon the fatal ſtake,
That ſo her torture may be ſhortned.
Puz. Will nothing turn your unrelenting hearts?
Then Joan diſcover thine infirmity,
That warranteth by Law, to be thy priviledge.
I am with Child, ye bloody Homicides:
Murther not then the Fruit within my Womb,
Although ye hale me to a violent death.
Yor. Now Heaven forfend, the holy Maid with Child?
War. The greateſt Miracle that e're ye wrought:
Is all your ſtrict preciſeneſs come to this?
Yor. She and the Dolphin have been juggling,
I did imagine what would be her refuge.
War. Well, go to, we will have no Baſtards live,
Eſpecially ſince Charles muſt Father it.
Puz. You are deceiv'd, my Child is none of his,
It was Alanſon that enjoy'd my love.
Yor. Alanſon, that notorious Matchevile?
It dies, and if it had a thouſand lives.
Puz. O give me leave, I have deluded you,
'Twas neither Charles, nor yet the Duke I nam'd,
But Reignier King of Naples that prevail'd.
War. A married man! that's moſt intolerable.
Yor. Why here's a Girl: I think ſhe knows not well
(There were ſo many) whom ſhe may accuſe.
War. It's a ſign ſhe had been liberal and free.
Yor. And yet foreſeeth ſhe is a Virgin pure.
Strumpet, thy words condemn thy Brat, and thee.
Uſe no intreaty, for it is in vain.
Puz. Then lead me hence: with whom I leave my curſe.
May never glorious Sun reflex his Beams
Upon the Country where you make abode:
But darkneſs, and the gloomy ſhade of death
Inviron you, till Miſchief and Deſpair
Drive you to break your necks, or hang your ſelves. [Exit.

Enter Cardinal.

Yor. Break thou in pieces, and conſume to aſhes,
You foul accurſed miniſter of Hell.
Car. Lord Regent, I do greet your Excellence
With Letters of Commiſſion from the King.
For know, my Lords, the States of Chriſtendom,
Mov'd with remorſe of theſe outrageous broyles,
Have earneſtly implor'd a general Peace,
Betwixt our Nation, and th' aſpiring French;
And here at hand, the Dolphin and his Train
Approacheth, to confer about ſome matters.
Yor. Is all our travel turn'd to this Effect,
After the ſlaughter of ſo many Peers,
So many Captains, Gentlemen, and Souldiers,
That in this quarrel have been overthrown,
And ſold their Bodies for their Countries Benefit,
Shall we at laſt conclude effeminate Peace?
Have we not loſt moſt part of all the Towns,
By treaſon, falſhood, and by treachery,
Our great Progenitors had conquered?
Oh Warwick, Warwick, I foreſee with grief
The utter loſs of all the Realm of France.
War. Be patient, York, if we conclude a Peace,
It ſhall be with ſuch ſtrict and ſevere Covenants,
As little ſhall the French-men gain thereby.

Enter Charles, Alanſon, Baſtard, Reignier.

Char. Since, Lords of England, it is thus agreed,
That peaceful Truce ſhall be proclaim'd in France,
We come to be informed by your ſelves,
What the Conditions of that League muſt be.
Yor. Speak, Winchoſter, for boyling choler chokes
The hollow paſſage of my poiſon'd voyce,
By ſight of thoſe our baleful Enemies.
Win. Charles, and the reſt, it is enacted thus:
That in regard King Henry gives conſent,
Of meer compaſſion, and of lenity,
To eaſe your Country of diſtreſsful War,
And ſuffer you to breath in fruitful peace,
You ſhall become true Liegemen to his Crown.
And Charles, upon condition thou wilt ſwear
To pay him Tribute, and ſubmit thy ſelf,
Thou ſhalt be plac'd as Viceroy under him,
And ſtill enjoy thy Regal Dignity.
Alan. Muſt he be then a ſhadow of himſelf?
Adorn his Temples with a Coronet,
And yet in Subſtance and Authority,
Retain but priviledge of a private man?
This profer is abſurd, and reaſonleſs.
Char. 'Tis known already, that I am poſſeſt
With more than half the Gallian Territories,
And therein reverenced for their lawful King.
Shall I for lucre of the reſt un-vanquiſht,
Detract ſo much from that Prerogative,
As to be call'd but Viceroy of the whole?
No, Lord Ambaſſadour, I'le rather keep
That which I have, than coveting for more,
Be caſt from poſſibility of all.
Yor. Inſulting Charles, haſt thou by ſecret means
Us'd interceſſion to obtain a League,
And now the matter grows to compremize,
Stand'ſt thou aloof upon Compariſon.
Either accept the Title thou uſurp'ſt,
Of benefit proceeding from our King,
And not of any challenge of Deſert,
Or we will plague thee with inceſſant Wars.
Reig. My Lord, you do not well, in obſtinacy
To cavil in the courſe of this Contract:
If once it be neglected, ten to one
We ſhall not find the like opportunity.
Alan. To ſay the truth, it is your policy,
To ſave your Subjects from ſuch maſſacre
And ruthleſs ſlaughters as are daily ſeen
By our proceeding in Hoſtility.
And therefore take this contract of a Truce,
Although you break it, when your pleaſure ſerves.
War. How ſay'ſt thou Charles?
Shall our Condition ſtand?
Char. It ſhall:
Onely reſerv'd, you claim no intereſt
In any of our Towns of Garriſon.
Yor. Then ſwear Allegiance to his Majeſty,
As thou art Knight, never to diſobey,
Nor be Rebellious to the Crown of England,
Thou nor thy Nobles, to the Crown of England.
So, now diſmiſs your Army when you pleaſe:
Hang up your Enſigns, let your Drums be ſtill,
For here we entertain a ſolemn peace. [Exeunt.

Enter Suffolk in conference with the King, Gloceſter, and Exeter.

King. Your wondrous rare deſcription (noble Earl)
Of beauteous Margaret hath aſtoniſh'd me:
Her Virtues grac'd with external gifts,
Do breed Loves ſettled Paſſions in my Heart,
And like as rigour with tempeſtuous guſts
Provokes the mightieſt Hulk againſt the tide,

So

So am I driven by breath of her Renown,
Either to suffer Shipwrack, or arrive
Where I may have fruition of her Love.
Suff. Tush, my good Lord, this superficial tale
Is but a preface to her worthy praise:
The chief Perfections of that lovely Dame,
(Had I sufficient skill to utter them)
Would make a Volume of inticing lines,
Able to ravish any dull conceit.
And which is more, she is not so Divine,
So full repleat with choyce of all delights,
But with a humble lowliness of mind,
She is content to be at your command:
Command, I mean, of virtuous chaste intents,
To love, and honour Henry as her Lord.
King. And otherwise, will Henry ne're presume:
Therefore, my Lord Protector, give consent,
That Margaret may be England's Royal Queen.
Glo. So should I give consent to flatter sin,
You know (my Lord) your Highness is betroth'd
Unto another Lady of esteem.
How shall we then dispence with that contract,
And not deface your honour with reproach?
Suf. As doth a Ruler with unlawful Oaths,
Or one that at a Triumph, having vow'd
To try his strength, forsaketh yet the Lists
By reason of his Adversaries odds.
A poor Earl's Daughter is unequal odds,
And therefore may be broke without offence.
Glo. Why, what (I pray) is Margaret more than that?
Her Father is no better than an Earl,
Although in glorious Titles he excel.
Suf. Yes, my good Lord, her Father is a King,
The King of Naples and Jerusalem,
And of such great Authority in France,
As his alliance will confirm our peace,
And keep the French-men in Allegiance.
Glo. And so the Earl of Armynack may do,
Because he is near Kinsman unto Charles.
Exet. Beside, his wealth doth warrant liberal Dower,
Where Reignier sooner will receive than give.
Suf. A Dower, my Lords? disgrace not so your King,
That he should be so abject, base, and poor,
To chose for wealth, and not for perfect Love.
Henry is able to enrich his Queen,
And not to seek a Queen to make him rich:
So worthless Pezants bargain for their Wives,
As Market-men for Oxen, Sheep, or Horse.
But Marriage is a matter of more worth,
Than to be dealt in by Atturney-ship:
Not whom we will, but whom his Grace affects,
Must be companion of his Nuptial Bed.
And therefore, Lords, since he affects her most,
Most of all these Reasons bindeth us,
In our Opinons she should be preferr'd,
For what is Wedlock forced, but a Hell,
An age of discord and continual strife?
Whereas the contrary bringeth forth bliss,
And is a pattern of Celestial peace.
Whom should we match with Henry, being a King,
But Margaret, that is Daughter to a King?
Her peerless Feature, joyned with her birth,
Approves her fit for none, but for a King.
Her valiant Courage, and undaunted Spirit,
(More than in Women commonly is seen)
Will answer our hope in issue of a King:
For Henry, Son unto a Conquerour,
Is likely to beget more Conquerors,
If with a Lady of so high resolve,
(As is fair Margaret) he be link'd in Love.
Then yield my Lords, and here conclude with me,
That Margaret shall be Queen, and none but she.
King. Whether it be through force of your report,
My Noble Lord of Suffolk: Or for that
My tender youth was never yet attaint
With any Passion of inflaming Love,
I cannot tell: but this I am assur'd,
I feel such sharp dissention in my Breast,
Such fierce alarums both of hope and Fear,
As I am sick with working of my thoughts.
Take therefore shipping; post, my Lord, to France,
Agree to any Covenants, and procure
That Lady Margaret do vouchsafe to come
To cross the Seas to England, and be Crown'd
King Henry's faithful and anointed Queen.
For your Expences and sufficient Charge,
Among the people gather up a tenth.
Be gone, I say, for till you do return,
I rest perplexed with a thousand Cares.
And you (good Uncle) banish all offence:
If you do censure me, by what you were,
Not what you are, I know it will excuse
This sudden execution of my Will.
And so conduct me, where from company,
I may revolve and ruminate my grief. [Exit.
Glo. I, grief I fear me, both at first and last.
[Exit Gloucester
Suf. Thus Suffolk hath prevail'd, and thus he goes
As did the youthful Paris once to Greece,
With hope to find the like event in love,
But prosper better than the Trojan did:
Margaret shall now be Queen, and rule the King:
But I will rule both her, the King, and Realm. [Exit.

FINIS.

The

The Second Part of KING HENRY VI, With the Death of the Good Duke Humphrey.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Flouriſh of Trumpets: Then Hoboyes.

Enter King, Duke Humprey, Salisbury, Warwick, and Beauford on the one ſide.
The Queen, Suffolk, York, Somerſet, and Buckingham on the other.

Suffolk.

AS by your high Imperial Majeſty,
I had in charge at my depart from France,
As procurator to your Excellence,
To marry Princeſs Margaret for your Grace;
So in the famous ancient City, Tours,
In preſence of the Kings of France, and Sicil,
The Dukes of Orleance, Calabar, Britaigne, Alanſon,
Seven Earls, twelve Barons, and twenty reverend Biſhops,
I have perform'd my Task, and was eſpous'd,
And humbly now upon my bended knee,
In ſight of England, and her Lordly Peers,
Deliver up my Title in the Queen
To your moſt gracious hand, that are the Subſtance
Of that great Shadow I did repreſent:
The happieſt gift that ever Marqueſs gave,
The faireſt Queen that ever King receiv'd.

King. Suffolk ariſe. Welcome, Queen Margaret,
I can expreſs no kinder ſign of Love
Than this kind Kiſs: O Lord, that lends me life,
Lend me a heart repleat with thankfulneſs:
For thou haſt given me in this beauteous Face
A world of earthly Bleſſings to my Soul,
If ſympathy of Love unite our thoughts.

Quee. Great King of England, and my gracious Lord,
The mutual conference that my mind hath had,
By day, by night; waking, and in my dreams,
In Courtly company, or at my Beads,
With you mine Alder liefeſt Sovereign,
Makes me the bolder to ſalute my King,
With ruder terms, ſuch as my wit affords,
And over-joy of heart doth miniſter.

King. Her ſight did raviſh, but her grace in Speech,
Her words yclad with Wiſdom's Majeſty,
Make me from wondring, fall to weeping Joys,
Such is the fulneſs of my hearts content.
Lords, with one cheerful voyce, welcome my Love.

All kneel. Long live Q. Margaret, England's happineſs.

Quee. We thank you all. [Flouriſh.

Suff. My Lord Protector, ſo it pleaſe your Grace,
Here are the Articles of contracted peace,
Between our Soveraign, and the French King Charles,
For eighteen Months concluded by conſent.

Glo. Reads. Imprimis, It is agreed between the French King, Charles, and William de la Pole, Marqueſs of Suffolk, Ambaſſador for Henry King of England, That the ſaid Henry ſhall eſpouſe the Lady Margaret, Daughter unto Reignier King of Naples, Sicilia, and Jeruſalem, and Crown her Queen of England, e're the thirtieth of May next enſuing.

Item, That the Dutchy of Anjou, and the County of Main, ſhall be releaſed and delivered to the King her Father.

King. Uncle, how now?

Glo. Pardon me, gracious Lord,
Some ſudden qualm hath ſtruck me to the heart,
And dim'd mine Eyes, that I can read no further.

King. Uncle of Wincheſter, I pray read on.

Win. Item, It is further agreed between them, That the Dutcheſs of Anjou and Main, ſhall be releaſed and delivered over to the King her Father, and ſhe ſent over of the King of England's own proper Coſt and Charge, without having any Dowry.

King. They pleaſe us well. Lord Marqueſs, kneel down,
We here create thee the firſt Duke of Suffolk,
And girt thee with the Sword. Couſin of York,
We here diſcharge your Grace from being Regent
I' th' parts of France, till term of eighteen Months
Be full expir'd. Thanks, Uncle Wincheſter,
Gloceſter, York, Buckingham, and Somerſet,
Salisbury, and Warwick,
We thank you all for this great favour done,
In Entertainment to my Princely Queen.
Come, let us in, and with all ſpeed provide
To ſee her Coronation be perform'd.

[Exeunt King, Queen, and Suffolk.

Manent the reſt.

Glo. Brave Peers of England, Pillars of the State,
To you Duke Humphrey muſt unload his grief:
Your grief, the common grief of all the Land.
What? did my Brother Henry ſpend his youth,
His Valour, Coyn, and People in the Wars?
Did he ſo often lodge in open Field,
In Winters cold, and Summers parching heat,
To conquer France, his true Inheritance?
And did my Brother Bedford toyl his wits,
To keep by policy what Henry got:
Have you your ſelves, Somerſet, Buckingham,
Brave York, Salisbury, and victorious Warwick,
Receiv'd deep ſcars in France and Normandy:
Or hath mine Uncle Beauford, and my ſelf,
With all the learned Council of the Realm,
Studied ſo long, ſat in the Council-houſe,
Early and late, debating to and fro
How France and French-men might be kept in awe,
And hath his Highneſs in his infancy,
Crown'd in Paris in deſpight of foes,

And ſhall theſe Labours, and theſe Honours die?
Shall Henry's Conqueſt, Bedfords vigilance,
Your Deeds of War, and all our Counſel die!
O Peers of England, ſhameful is this League,
Fatal this Marriage, cancelling your Fame,
Blotting your names from Books of memory,
Raſing the Characters of your Renown,
Defacing Monuments of Conquer'd France,
Undoing all, as all had never been.
Car. Nephew, what means this paſſionate diſcourſe?
This peroration with ſuch circumſtance:
For France, 'tis ours; and we will keep it ſtill.
Glo. I, Vncle, we will keep it, if we can:
But now it is impoſſible we ſhould.
Suffolk, the new made Duke that rules the roſt,
Hath given the Dutchy of Anjou and Main,
Unto the poor King Reignier, whoſe large ſtyle
Agrees not with the leanneſs of his purſe.
Sal. Now by the death of him that di'd for all,
Theſe Counties were the Keys of Normandy:
But wherefore weeps Warwick, my valiant Son?
War. For grief that they are paſt recovery.
For were there hope to conquer them again,
My Sword ſhould ſhed hot Blood, mine Eyes no Tears.
Anjou and Main? My ſelf did win them both:
Thoſe Provinces theſe Arms of mine did conquer,
And are the Cities that are got with wounds
Delivered up again with peaceful words?
Mort Dieu.
Yor. For Suffolk's Duke, may he be ſuffocate,
That dims the Honour of this Warlike Iſle:
France ſhould have torn and rent my very Heart,
Before I would have yielded to this League.
I never read but England's Kings have had
Large ſums of Gold, and Dowries with their Wives,
And our King Henry gives away his own,
To match with her that brings no vantages.
Hum. A proper jeſt, and never heard before,
That Suffolk ſhould demand a whole Fifteenth,
For Coſt and Charges in tranſporting her:
She ſhould have ſtaid in France, and ſtarv'd in France
Before——
Car. My Lord of Gloſter, now ye grow too hot,
It was the pleaſure of my Lord the King.
Hum. My Lord of Wincheſter, I know your mind.
'Tis not my Speeches that you do miſlike:
But 'tis my preſence that doth trouble ye,
Rancour will out, proud Prelate, in thy Face
I ſee thy fury: If I longer ſtay,
We ſhall begin our ancient bickerings:
Lordings farewel, and ſay when I am gone,
I propheſied, France will be loſt e're long.] Exit Humph.
Car. So, there goes our Protector in a rage:
'Tis known to you he is mine Enemy:
Nay more, an Enemy unto you all,
And no great friend, I fear me, to the King;
Conſider Lords, he is the next of Blood,
And Heir apparent to the Engliſh Crown:
Had Henry got an Empire by his Marriage,
And all the wealthy Kingdoms of the Weſt,
There's reaſon he ſhould be diſpleas'd at it:
Look to it, Lords, let not his ſmoothing words
Bewitch your Hearts, be wiſe and circumſpect.
What though the common People favour him,
Calling him Humphrey the good Duke of Gloſter,
Clapping their hands, and crying with loud voice,
Jeſu maintain your Royal Excellence,
With God preſerve the good Duke Humphrey.
I fear me, Lords, for all this flattering gloſs,
He will be found a dangerous Protector.
Buck. Why ſhould he then protect our Soveraign?
He being of age to govern of himſelf.
Couſin Somerſet, joyn you with me.
And altogether with the Duke of Suffolk,
We'll quickly hoyſe Duke Humphrey from his ſeat.
Car. This weighty buſineſs will not brook delay,
I'le to the Duke of Suffolk preſently. [Exit Cardinal.
Som. Couſin of Buckingham, though Humphrey's pride
And greatneſs of his place be grief to us,
Yet let us all watch the haughty Cardinal,
His Inſolence is more intolerable
Than all the Princes in the Land beſide;
If Gloſter be diſplac'd, he'll be Protector.
Buck. Or thou, or I, Somerſet, will be Protector,
Deſpight Duke Humphrey, or the Cardinal.
[Exit Buckingham and Somerſet.
Sal. Pride went before, Ambition follows him.
While theſe do labour for their own preferment,
Behoves it us to labour for the Realm.
I never ſaw but Humphrey Duke of Gloſter,
Did bear him like a Noble Gentleman:
Oft have I ſeen the haughty Cardinal,
More like a Souldier than a Man o'th' Church,
As ſtout and proud as he were Lord of all,
Swear like a Ruffian, and demean himſelf
Unlike the Ruler of a Common-weal.
Warwick my Son, the comfort of my age,
Thy deeds, thy plainneſs, and thy Houſ-keeping,
Hath won the greateſt favour of the Commons,
Excepting none but Good Duke Humphrey.
And Brother York, thy acting in Ireland,
In bringing them to Civil Diſcipline:
Thy late exploits done in the Heart of France
When thou wert Regent for our Soveraign,
Have made thee fear'd and honour'd of the People,
Joyn we together for the publick good,
In what we can, to bridle and ſuppreſs
The pride of Suffolk, and the Cardinal,
With Somerſet's and Buckinghams ambition,
And as we may cheriſh Duke Humprey's deeds,
While they do tend the profit of the Land.
War. So God help Warwick, as he loves the Land,
And common profit of his Country.
Yor. And ſo ſays York,
For he hath greateſt cauſe.
Sal. Then let's make haſt away,
And look unto the main?
War. Unto the main?
Oh Father, Main is loſt,
That Main, which by main force Warwick did win
And would have kept, ſo long as breath did laſt:
Main-chance Father you meant, but I meant Main,
Which I will win from France, or elſe be ſlain.
[Exit Warwick and Salisbury. Manet York.
York. Anjou and Main are given to the French,
Paris is loſt, the ſtate of Normandy
Stands on a tickle point, now they are gone:
Suffolk concluded on the Articles,
The Peers agreed, and Henry was well pleas'd,
To change two Dukedoms for a Dukes fair Daughter.
I cannot blame them all, what is't to them?
'Tis thine they give away, and not their own.
Pirates may make cheap pennyworths of their pillage,
And purchaſe Friends, and give to Curtezans,
Still revelling like Lords till all be gone.
While as the ſilly owner of the Goods
Weeps over them, and wrings his hapleſs hands,
And ſhakes his Head, and trembling ſtands aloof,
While all is ſhar'd, and all is born away,
Ready to ſtarve, and dare not touch his own.
So York muſt ſit, and fret, and bite his Tongue,
While his own Lands are bargain'd for, and ſold:
Methinks the Realms of England, France and Ireland,
Bear that proportion to my Fleſh and Blood,
As did the fatal brand Althea burnt,
Unto the Princes Heart of Calidon:
Anjou and Main both given unto the French?
Cold news for me: For I had hope of France,

Even

Even as I have of fertile Englands soil.
A day will come, when York shall claim his own,
And therefore I will take the Nevills parts,
And make a shew of Love to proud Duke Humphrey,
And when I spy advantage, claim the Crown,
For that's the golden mark I seek to hit:
Nor shall proud Lancaster usurp my Right,
Nor hold the Scepter in his Childish Fist,
Nor wear the Diadem upon his Head,
Whose Church-like Humours fits not for a Crown.
Then York be still a while, till time do serve:
Watch thou, and wake when others be asleep,
To pry into the secrets of the State,
Till Henry surfeiting in joys of Love,
With his new Bride, and Englands dear bought Queen,
And Humphrey with the Peers be fain at Jarrs.
Then will I raise aloft the Milk-white Rose,
With whose sweet smell the Air shall be perfum'd,
And in my Standard bear the Arms of York,
To grapple with the house of Lancaster,
And force perforce I'le make him yield the Crown,
Whose Bookish Rule hath pull'd fair England down.
[Exit York.

Enter Duke Humphrey, and his Wife Elianor.

Elia. Why droops my Lord, like over-ripen'd Corn,
Hanging the head at Ceres plenteous Load?
Why doth the great Duke Humphrey knit his brows,
As frowning at the favours of the World?
Why are thine Eyes fixt to the sullen Earth,
Gazing on that which seems to dim thy Sight?
What seest thou there? King Henry's Diadem,
Inchac'd with all the Honours of the World?
If so, gaze on, and grovel on thy Face,
Until thy Head be circled with the same.
Put forth thy hand, reach at the Glorious Gold.
What, is't too short? I'le lengthen it with mine.
And having both together heav'd it up,
We'll both together lift our Heads to Heaven,
And never more abase our Sight so low,
As to vouchsafe one glance upon the ground.
Hum. O Nell, sweet Nell, if thou dost love thy Lord,
Banish the Canker of ambitious Thoughts:
And may that thought, when I imagine ill
Against my King and Nephew, virtuous Henry,
Be my last breathing in this Mortal World.
My troublous Dreams this Night doth make me sad.
Eli. What dream'd my Lord, tell me, and I'le requite it
With sweet Rehearsal of my mornings Dream?
Hum. Me thought this Staff, mine Office-badg in Court,
Was broke in twain: by whom, I have forgot,
But as I think, it was by th' Cardinal,
And on the pieces of the broken Wand
Were plac'd the Heads of Edmond Duke of Somerset,
And William de la Pole first Duke of Suffolk;
This was the Dream, what it doth bode, God knows.
Eli. Tut, this was nothing but an Argument,
That he that breaks a Stick of Gloster's Grove,
Shall lose his Head for his Presumption.
But list to me, my Humphrey, my sweet Duke:
Me thought I sate in Seat of Majesty,
In the Cathedral Church of Westminster,
And in that Chair where Kings and Queens were Crown'd,
Where Henry and Margaret kneel'd to me,
And on my Head did set the Diadem.
Hum. Nay, Elianor, then must I chide out-right:
Presumptuous Dame, ill-natur'd Elianor,
Art thou not second Woman in the Realm?
And the Protectors Wife belov'd of him?
Hast thou not worldly Pleasure at command,
Above the reach or compass of thy Thought?
And wilt thou still be hammering Treachery,
To tumble down thy Husband, and thy self,
From top of Honour, to Disgraces Feet?
Away from me, and let me hear no more.
Eli. What, what, my Lord, are you so Cholerick
With Elianor, for telling but her Dream?
Next time, I'le keep my Dreams unto my self,
And not be check'd.
Hum. Nay, be not angry, I am pleas'd again.

Enter Messenger.

Mess. My Lord Protector, 'tis his Highness pleasure,
You do prepare to ride unto St. Albans,
Whereas the King and Queen do mean to Hawk.
Hu. I go: Come Nell, thou wilt ride with us? [Ex. Hu.
Elia. Yes, my good Lord, I'll follow presently.
Follow I must, I cannot go before,
While Gloster bears this base and humble Mind.
Were I a Man, a Duke, and next of blood,
I would remove these tedious stumbling blocks,
And smooth my way upon their Headless Necks.
And being a Woman, I will not be slack
To play my part in Fortunes Pageant.
Where are you there? Sir John; nay fear not Man,
We are alone, here's none but thee and I. [Enter Hume.
Hume. Jesus preserve your Royal Majesty.
Eli. What saist thou? Majesty: I am but Grace.
Hume. But by the Grace of God, and Humes advice,
Your Graces Title shall be multiply'd.
Eli. What say'st thou Man? Hast thou as yet conferr'd
With Margery Jordan the cunning Witch,
With Roger Bullingbrook the Conjurer,
And will they undertake to do me good?
Hume. This they have promised to shew your Highness
A Spirit rais'd from depth of under Ground,
That shall make answer to such Questions,
As by your Grace shall be propounded him.
Eli. It is enough, I'le think upon the Questions:
When from Saint Albans we do make return;
We'll see those things effected to the full.
Here Hume, take this reward, make merry Man
With thy Confederates in this weighty Cause.
[Exit Ellanor.
Hum. Hume must make merry with the Dutchess Gold:
Marry and shall: but how now, Sir John Hume?
Seal up your Lips, and give no words but Mum,
The business asketh silent secrecy.
Dame Elianor gives Gold, to bring the Witch:
Gold cannot come amiss, were she a Devil.
Yet have I Gold flies from another Coast:
I dare not say, from the Rich Cardinal,
And from the great and new-made Duke of Suffolk;
Yet I do find it so: For to be plain,
They (knowing Dame Elianors humour)
Have hired me to under-mine the Dutchess,
And buz these Conjurations in her Brain.
They say, a crafty Knave does need no Broker.
Yet am I Suffolk's, and the Cardinal's Broker.
Hume, if you take not heed, you shall go near
To call them both a pair of crafty Knaves.
Well, so it stands: and thus I fear at last,
Humes Knavery will be the Dutchess Wrack,
And her attaintnre will be Humphrey's fall:
Sort how it will, I shall have Gold for all. [Exit.

Enter three or four Petitioners, the Armorers Man being one.

1 Pet. My Masters, let's stand close, my Lord Protector will come this way by and by, and then we may deliver our Supplications in the Quill.
2 Pet. Marry the Lord protect him, for he's a good Man, Jesu bless him.

Enter Suffolk; and Queen.

1 Pet. Here a comes methinks, and the Queen with him: I'le be the first sure.

2. Pet. Come back, fool, this is the Duke of Suffolk, and not my Lord Protector.

Suff. How now, fellow: would'ſt any thing with me?

1. Pet. I pray, my Lord, pardon me, I took ye for my Lord Protector.

Queen. To my Lord Protector? are your Supplications to his Lordſhip? let me ſee them: what is thine?

1. Pet. Mine is, and't pleaſe your Grace, againſt John Goodman, my Lord Cardinals Man, for keeping my Houſe, and Lands, and Wife and all from me.

Suff. Thy Wife too? that's ſome Wrong indeed. What's yours? what's here? againſt the Duke of Suffolk, for encloſing the Commons of Melford. How now, Sir Knave?

2. Pet. Alas, Sir, I am but a poor Petitioner of our whole Townſhip.

Pet. Againſt my Maſter, Thomas Horner, for ſaying, That the Duke of York was rightful Heir to the Crown.

Queen. What ſay'ſt thou? Did the Duke of York ſay, He was rightful Heir to the Crown?

Pet. That my Miſtreſs was? No forſooth: my Maſter ſaid, that he was; and that the King was an Uſurper.

Suff. Who is there?

Enter Servant.

Take this fellow in, and ſend for his Maſter with a Purſevant preſently: we'll hear more of your matter before the King. [Exit.

Queen. And as for you that love to be protected
Under the wings of our Protectors Grace,
Begin your Suits anew, and ſue to him.

Tear the Supplication.

Away, baſe Cullions: Suffolk, let them go.

All. Come, let's begone. [Exit.

Queen. My Lord of Suffolk, ſay, is this the guiſe?
Is this the Faſhion of the Court of England?
Is this the Government of Britains Iſle?
And this the Royalty of Albions King?
What, ſhall King Henry be a Pupil ſtill,
Under the ſurly Gloſters Governance?
And I a Queen in Title and in Style,
And muſt be made a Subject to a Duke?
I tell thee, Pool, when in the City Tours
Thou ran'ſt a tilt in honour of my Love,
And ſtol'ſt away the Ladies Hearts of France;
I thought King Henry had reſembled thee,
In Courage, Courtſhip, and Proportion:
But all his mind is bent to holineſs,
To number Ave-maries on his Beads:
His Champions are the Prophets and Apoſtles,
His Weapons, are Holy Saws of ſacred Writ,
His Study is his Tilt-yard, and his Loves
Are brazen Images of Canonized Saints.
I would the College of the Cardinals
Would chuſe him Pope, and carry him to Rome,
And ſet the Triple Crown upon his Head;
That were a State fit for his Holineſs.

Suff. Madam, be patient: as I was cauſe
Your Highneſs came to England, ſo will I
In England work your Graces full content.

Queen. Beſide the haught Protector, have we Beauford,
The imperious Church-man; Somerſet, Buckingham,
And grumbling York: and not the leaſt of theſe,
But can do more in England, than the King.

Suff. And he of theſe that can do moſt of all,
Cannot do more in England, than the Nevils:
Salisbury and Warwick are no ſimple Peers.

Queen. Not all theſe Lords do vex me half ſo much,
As that proud Dame, the Lord Protector's Wife:
She ſweeps it through the Court with troops of Ladies,
More like an Empreſs, than Duke Humphrey's Wife:
Strangers in Court do take her for the Queen:
She bears a Dukes Revenues on her back,
And in her Heart ſhe ſcorns our Poverty:
Shall I not live to be aveng'd on her?
Contemptuous baſe-born Callot as ſhe is,
She vaunted 'mongſt her Minions t'other day,
The very train of her worſt wearing Gown
Was better worth than all my Fathers Lands,
Till Suffolk gave two Dukedoms for his Daughter.

Suff. Madam, my ſelf have lim'd a buſh for her,
And plac'd a Quire of ſuch enticing Birds,
That ſhe will light to liſten to the Lays,
And never mount to trouble you again.
So let her reſt: and, Madam, liſt to me,
For I am bold to counſel you in this;
Although we fancy not the Cardinal,
Yet muſt we joyn with him, and with the Lords,
Till we have brought Duke Humphrey in diſgrace.
As for the Duke of York, this late Complaint
Will make but little for his benefit:
So one by one we'll weed them all at laſt,
And you your ſelf ſhall ſteer the happy Helm. [Exit.

Enter the King, Duke Humphrey, Cardinal, Buckingham, York, Salisbury, Warwick, and the Dutcheſs.

King. For my part, Noble Lords, I care not which,
Or Somerſet, or York, all's one to me.

Yor. If York have ill demeaned himſelf in France,
Then let him be deny'd the Regent-ſhip.

Som. If Somerſet be unworthy of the place,
Let York be Regent, I will yield to him.

War. Whether your Grace be worthy, yea or no,
Diſpute not that, York is the worthier.

Card. Ambitious Warwick, let thy Betters ſpeak.

War. The Cardinal's not my Better in the field.

Buck. All in this preſence are thy Betters, Warwick.

War. Warwick may live to be the beſt of all.

Salisb. Peace, Son, and ſhew ſome reaſon, Buckingham,
Why Somerſet ſhould be preferr'd in this?

Queen. Becauſe the King forſooth will have it ſo.

Hum. Madam, the King is old enough himſelf
To give this Cenſure: Theſe are no Womans matters.

Queen. If he be old enough, what needs your Grace
To be Protector of his Excellence?

Hum. Madam, I am Protector of the Realm,
And at his pleaſure will reſign my Place.

Suff. Reſign it then, and leave thine inſolence.
Since thou wer't King, as who is King, but thou?
The Common-wealth hath daily run to wrack,
The Dolphin hath prevail'd beyond the Seas,
And all the Peers and Nobles of the Realm
Have been as Bond-men to thy Soveraignty.

Car. The Commons haſt thou rack'd, the Clergies Bags
Are lank and lean with thy Extortions.

Som. Thy ſumptuous Buildings, and thy Wives Attire
Have coſt a maſs of publick Treaſure.

Buck. Thy Cruelty in execution
Upon Offenders hath exceeded Law,
And left thee to the mercy of the Law.

Queen. Thy ſale of Offices and Towns in France,
If they were known, as the ſuſpect is great,
Would make thee quickly hop without thy Head.
[Exit Humphrey.
Give me my Fan: what, Minion, can ye not?

She gives the Dutcheſs a box on the Ear.

I cry you mercy, Madam: was it you?

Dutch. Was't I? yea, I it was, proud French-woman:
Could I come near your Beauty with my Nails,
I could ſet my Ten Commandements in your Face.

King. Sweet Aunt, be quiet, 'twas againſt her Will.

Dutch. Againſt her will, good King? look to't in time,
She'll hamper thee, and dandle thee like a Baby:
Though in this place moſt Maſter wears no Breeches,
She ſhall not ſtrike Dame Elianor unreveng'd.
[Exit Elianor.

Buck.

Buck. Lord Cardinal, I will follow Eleanor,
And listen after Humphrey, how he proceeds:
She's tickled now, her Fume can need no spurs,
She'll gallop far enough to her destruction.
[Exit Buckingham.

Enter Humphrey.

Humph. Now, Lords, my Choler being over-blown,
With walking once about the Quadrangle,
I come to talk of Common-wealth Affairs.
As for your spightful false Objections,
Prove them, and I lye open to the Law:
But God in mercy so deal with my Soul,
As I in Duty love my King and Country.
But to the matter that we have in hand:
I say, my Soveraign, York is meetest man
To be your Regent in the Realm of France.
Suff. Before we make Election, give me leave
To shew some reason, of no little force,
That York is most unmeet of any Man.
York. I'le tell thee, Suffolk, why I am unmeet.
First, for I cannot flatter thee in Pride:
Next, if I be appointed for the Place,
My Lord of Somerset will keep me here,
Without Discharge, Money, or Furniture,
Till France be won into the Dolphin's hands.
Last time I danc't attendance on his will,
Till Paris was besieg'd, famish't, and lost.
Warw. That can I witness, and a fouler Fact
Did never Traytor in the Land commit.
Suff. Peace, head-strong Warwick.
War. I mage of Pride, why should I hold my Peace?

Enter Armorer and his Man.

Suff. Because here is a Man accus'd of Treason,
Pray God the Duke of York excuse himself.
York. Doth any one accuse York for a Traytor?
King. What mean'st thou, Suffolk? tell me, what are these?
Suff. Please it your Majesty, this is the Man
That doth accuse his Master of High-Treason:
His words were these: That Richard, Duke of York,
Was rightful Heir unto the English Crown,
And that your Majesty was an Usurper.
King. Say man, were these thy words?
Armo. And't shall please your Majesty, I never said nor thought any such matter: God is my witness, I am falsly accus'd by the Villain.
Peter. By these ten bones, my Lords, he did speak them to me in the Garret one Night, as we were scowring my Lord of York's Armour.
York. Base Dunghil Villain, and Mechanical,
I'le have thy Head for this thy Traytors speech:
I do beseech your Royal Majesty,
Let him have all the rigour of the Law.
Arm. Alas, my Lord, hang me if ever I spake the words: my accuser is my Prentice, and when I did correct him for his fault the other day, he did vow upon his Knees he would be even with me: I have good witness of this, therefore I beseech your Majesty, do not cast away an honest Man for a Villains Accusation.
King. Uncle, what shall we say to this in Law?
Humph. This doom, my Lord, if I may Judge:
Let Somerset be Regent o're the French,
Because in York this breeds suspition:
And let these have a day appointed them
For single Combat, in convenient place,
For he hath witness of his Servants Malice:
This is the Law, and this Duke Humphrey's doom.
Som. I humbly thank your Royal Majesty.
Armorer. And I accept the Combat willingly.
Peter. Alas, my Lord, I cannot fight; for God's sake pity my case: the spight of my Master prevaileth against me. O Lord have mercy upon me, I shall never be able to fight a blow: O Lord, my heart.
Humf. Sirrah, or you must fight, or else be hang'd.
King. Away with them to Prison: and the day of Combat, shall be the last of the next Month. Come Somerset, we'll see thee sent away.
Flourish. [Exeunt.

Enter the Witch, the two Priests, and Bullingbrook.

Hume. Come, my Masters, the Dutchess, I tell you, expects performance of your promises.
Bulling. Master Hume, we are therefore provided: Will her Ladiship behold and hear our Exorcismes?
Hume. I, what else? Fear you not her Courage.
Bulling. I have heard her reported to be a Woman of an invincible spirit: but it shall be convenient, Master Hume, that you be by her aloft, while we be busie below: and so, I pray you, go in God's Name, and leave us.
[Ex. Hume.
Mother Jordan, be you prostrate, and grovel on the Earth; John Southwell, read you, and let us to our work.

Enter Elianor aloft.

Elian. Well said, my Masters, and welcome to all: To this geer, the sooner the better.
Bull. Patience, good Lady, Wizards know their times:
Deep Night, dark Night, the silent of the Night,
The time of Night when Troy was set on Fire,
The times when Screech-owls cry, and Ban-dogs howl;
And Spirits walk, and Ghosts break up their Graves;
That time fits best the work we have in hand.
Madam, sit you, and fear not: whom we raise,
We will make fast within a hallow'd Verge.

Here do the Ceremonies belonging, and make the Circle, Bullingbrook, or Southwell reads, Conjuro te, &c. It Thunders and Lightens terribly: then the Spirit riseth.

Spirit. Adsum.
Witch. Asmath, by the Eternal God,
Whose Name and Power thou trembleſt at,
Answer that I ask: For till thou speak,
Thou shalt not pass from hence.
Spirit. Ask what thou wilt; that I had said, and done.
Bulling. First of the King: What shall of him become?
Spirit. The Duke yet lives, that Henry shall depose:
But him out-live, and dye a violent Death.
Bull. What Fates await the Duke of Suffolk?
Spirit. By Water shall he dye, and take his end.
Bull. What shall befall the Duke of Somerset?
Spirit. Let him shun Castles.
Safer shall he be upon the sandy Plains,
Than where Castles mounted stand.
Have done, for more I hardly can endure.
Bull. Descend to Darkness, and the burning Lake:
False Fiend avoid.
Thunder and Lightning. [Exit Spirit.

Enter the Duke of York, and the Duke of Buckingham, with their Guard, and break in.

York. Lay hands upon these Traytors, and their trash:
Beldam, I think we watch't you at an Inch.
What, Madam, are you there? The King and Common-weal
Are deeply indebted for this piece of pains;
My Lord Protector will, I doubt it not,
See you well guerdon'd for these good deserts.
Elian. Not half so bad as thine to England's King,
Injurious Duke, that threatn'st where's no cause.
Buck. True, Madam, none at all: what call you this?

Away with them, let them be clap't up close,
And kep't asunder: you, Madam, shall with us.
Stafford take her to thee.
We'll see your trinkets here all forth-coming.
All away. [Exit.
York. Lord Buckingham, methinks you watch't her
A pretty Plot, well chosen to build upon. (well.
Now, pray my Lord, let's see the Devil's Writ.
What have we here? [Reads.
The Duke yet lives, that Henry shall depose;
But him out-live, and dye a violent death.
Why this is just: Aio Æacide Romanos vincere posse.
Well, to the rest:
Tell me what fate awaits the Duke of Suffolk?
By Water shall he dye, and take his end.
What shall betide the Duke of Somerset?
Let him shun Castles,
Safer shall he be upon the sandie Plains,
Than where Castles mounted stand.
Come, come, my Lords,
These Oracles are hardly attain'd,
And hardly understood.
The King is now in progress towards Saint Albans,
With him, the Husband of this lovely Lady:
Thither goes these News,
As fast as Horse can carry them:
A sorry breakfast for my Lord Protector.
Buck. Your Grace shall give me leave, my Lord of York,
To be the Post, in hope of his reward.
York. At your pleasure, my good Lord.
Who's within there, hoe?
Enter a Serving-man.
Invite my Lords of Salisbury and Warwick
To sup with me to morrow Night. Away.
[Exeunt.

Enter the King, Queen, Protector, Cardinal, and Suffolk, with Faulkners hollowing.

Queen. Believe me Lords, for flying at the Brook,
I saw no better sport these seven years day;
Yet by your leave, the wind was very high,
And ten to one, old Joan had not gone out.
King. But what a point, my Lord, your Faulcon made,
And what a pitch she flew above the rest:
To see how God in all his Creatures works,
Yea Man and Birds are fain of climbing high.
Suff. No marvel, and it like your Majesty,
My Lord Protector's Hawks do towre so well;
They know their Master loves to be aloft,
And bears his thoughts above his Falcons pitch.
Glost. My Lord, 'tis but a base ignoble mind,
That mounts no higher than a Bird can soar.
Card. I thought as much, he would be above the Clouds.
Glost. I, my Lord Cardinal, how think you by that?
Were it not good, your Grace could flie to Heaven?
King. The Treasury of everlasting Joy.
Card. Thy Heaven is on Earth, thine Eyes and Thoughts
Beat on a Crown, the Treasure of thy Heart,
Pernicious Protector, dangerous Peer,
That smooth'st it so with King and Commonweal.
Glost. What, Cardinal?
Is your Priest-hood grown peremptory?
Tantæne animis Cœlestibus iræ, Church-men so hot?
Good Uncle, hide such Malice:
With such Holiness can you do it?
Suff. No malice, Sir, no more than well becomes
So good a Quarrel, and so bad a Peer.
Glost. As who, my Lord?
Suff. Why, as you, my Lord,
An't like your Lordly Lord Protectorship.
Glost. Why Suffolk, England knows thine insolence.
Queen. And thy Ambition, Glocster.
King. I prethee peace, good Queen,
And whet not on these too-too-furious Peers,
For blessed are the Peace-makers on Earth.
Card. Let me be blessed for the Peace I make Against this proud Protector with my Sword.
Glost. Faith, Holy Uncle, would 'twere come to that.
Card. Marry, when thou dar'st.
Glost. Make up no factious numbers for the matter,
In thine own person answer thy abuse.
Card. I, where thou dar'st not peep:
And if thou dar'st, this evening,
On the East side of the Grove.
King. How now, my Lords?
Card. Believe me, Cousin Glocster,
Had not your man put up the Fowl so suddenly,
We had had more sport.
Come with thy two-hand Sword.
Glost. True, Uncle, are ye advis'd?
The East side of the Grove:
Cardinal, I am with you.
King. Why how now, Uncle Glocster?
Glost. Talking of Hawking, nothing else, my Lord,
Now by Gods Mother, Priest,
I'le shave your Crown for this,
Or all my fence shall fail.
Car. Medice teipsum, Protector see to't well, protect your self.
King. The Winds grow high,
So do your Stomacks, Lords:
How irksome is this Musick to my heart?
When such Strings jarr, what hope of Harmony?
I pray, my Lords, let me compound this strife.

Enter one crying a Miracle.

Glost. What means this noise?
Fellow, what Miracle do'st thou proclaim?
One. A Miracle, a Miracle.
Suffolk. Come to the King, and tell him, what Miracle.
One. Forsooth, a blind man at St. Alban's Shrine,
Within this half hour hath receiv'd his sight,
A man that ne're saw in his life before.
King. Now God be prais'd, that to believing Souls
Gives Light in Darkness, Comfort in Despair.

Enter the Mayor of Saint Albans, and his Brethren, bearing the Man between two in a Chair.

Card. Here comes the Towns-men on procession,
To present your Highness with the man.
King. Great is his comfort in this Earthly Vale,
Although by his sight his sin be multiplied.
Glost. Stand by, my Masters, bring him near the King,
His Highness pleasure is to talk with him.
King. Good-fellow, tell us here the circumstance,
That we for thee may glorifie the Lord.
What, hast thou been long blind, and now restor'd?
Simp. Born blind, and't please your Grace.
Wife. I indeed was he.
Suff. What Woman is this?
Wife. His Wife, and't please your Worship.
Glost. Had'st thou been his Mother, thou could'st have better told.
King. Where wert thou born?
Simp. At Barwick in the North, and't like your Grace.
King. Poor Soul,
God's goodness hath been great to thee:
Let never Day nor Night unhallowed pass,
But still remember what the Lord hath done.
Queen. Tell me, Good-fellow,
Cam'st thou here by Chance, or of Devotion,
To this Holy Shrine?

Simp.

Simp. God knows of pure Devotion,
Being call'd a hundred times, and oftner,
In my ſleep, by good Saint Alban:
Who ſaid; Simon, come, come offer at my Shrine,
And I will help thee.
Wife. Moſt true, forſooth:
And many a time and oft my ſelf have heard a Voice,
To call him ſo.
Card. What, art thou lame?
Simp. I, God Almighty help me.
Suff. How cam'ſt thou ſo?
Simp. A fall off a Tree.
Wife. A Plum-tree, Maſter.
Gloſt. How long haſt thou been blind?
Simp. O born ſo, Maſter.
Gloſt. What, and would'ſt climb a Tree?
Simp. But That in all my life, when I was a youth.
Wife. Too true, and bought his climbing very dear.
Gloſt. Maſs, thou lov'dſt Plums well, that would'ſt venture ſo.
Simp. Alas, good Maſter, my Wife deſired ſome Damſons, and made me climb, with danger of my Life.
Gloſt. A ſubtil Knave, but yet it ſhall not ſerve:
Let me ſee thine Eyes, wink now, now open them,
In my opinion, yet thou ſeeſt not well.
Simp. Yes, Maſter, clear as day, I thank God and Saint Alban.
Gloſt. Say'ſt thou me ſo: what Colour is this Cloak of?
Simp. Red, Maſter, Red as Blood.
Gloſt. Why that's well ſaid: What Colour is my Gown of?
Simp. Black, forſooth, Coal-black, as Jet.
King. Why then, thou know'ſt what Colour Jet is of?
Suff. And yet, I think, Jet he did never ſee.
Gloſt. But Cloaks and Gowns, before this day, a many.
Wife. Never before this day, in all his life.
Gloſt. Tell me, Sirrah, what's my name?
Simp. Alas Maſter, I know not.
Gloſt. What's his Name?
Simp. I know not.
Gloſt. Nor his?
Simp. No indeed, Maſter.
Gloſt. What's thine own Name?
Simp. Saunder Simpcox, and if it pleaſe you, Maſter.
Gloſt. Then Saunder, ſit there,
The lying'ſt Knave in Chriſtendom.
If thou had'ſt been born blind,
Thou might'ſt as well have known all our Names,
As thus to know the ſeveral Colours we do wear.
Sight may diſtinguiſh Colours:
But ſuddenly to nominate them all,
It is impoſſible.
My Lords, Saint Alban here hath done a Miracle:
And would ye not think it, Cunning to be great,
That could reſtore this Cripple to his Legs again?
Simp. O Maſter, that you could?
Gloſt. My Maſters of Saint Albans,
Have you not Beadles in your Town,
And things call'd Whips?
Mopor. Yes, my Lords, if it pleaſe your Grace.
Gloſt. Then ſend for one preſently.
Mayor. Sirrah, go fetch the Beadle hither ſtraight.
[Exit.
Gloſt. Now fetch me a Stool hither by and by.
Now Sirrah, if you mean to ſave your ſelf from Whipping, leap me over this Stool, and run away.
Simp. Alas Maſter, I am not able to ſtand alone:
You go about to torture me in vain.

Enter a Beadle with Whips.

Gloſt. Well Sir, we muſt have you find your Legs.
Sirrah Beadle, whip him till he leap over that ſame Stool.
Bead. I will, my Lord,
Come on Sirrah, off with your Doublet, quickly.
Simp. Alas, Maſter, what ſhall I do? I am not able to ſtand.

After the Beadle hath hit him once, he leaps over the Stool, and runs away: and they follow, and cry, a Miracle.

King. O God, ſeeſt thou this, and beareſt ſo long!
Queen. It made me laugh, to ſee the Villain run.
Gloſt. Follow the Knave, and take this Drab away.
Wife. Alas, Sir, we did it for pure need.
Gloſt. Let him be whipt through every Market Town,
Till they come to Barwick, from whence they came.
[Exit.
Card. Duke Humphrey has done a Miracle to day.
Suff. True, made the Lame to leap, and flie away.
Gloſt. But you have done more Miracles than I:
You made in a day, my Lord, whole Towns to flie.

Enter Buckingham.

King. What Tidings with our Couſin Buckingham?
Buck. Such as my Heart doth tremble to unfold:
A ſort of naughty perſons, lewdly bent,
Under the Countenance and Confederacy
Of Lady Elianor, the Protectors Wife,
The Ring-leader and Head of all this Rout,
Have practis'd dangerouſly againſt your State,
Dealing with Witches and with Conjurers,
Whom we have apprehended in the Fact,
Raiſing up wicked Spirits from under ground,
Demanding of King Henry's Life and Death,
And other of your Highneſs Privy Councel,
As more at large your Grace ſhall underſtand.
Card. And ſo, my Lord Protector, by this means
Your Lady is forth-coming, yet at London.
This news I think hath turn'd your Weapon's edge;
'Tis like, my Lord, you will not keep your hour.
Gloſt. Ambitious Church-man, leave to afflict my Heart:
Sorrow and grief have vanquiſht all my powers;
And vanquiſht as I am, I yield to thee,
Or to the meaneſt Groom.
King. O God, what miſchiefs work the wicked ones?
Heaping confuſion on their own Heads thereby.
Queen. Gloſter, ſee here the Tainture of thy Neſt,
And look thy ſelf be faultleſs, thou wert beſt.
Gloſt. Madam, for my ſelf, to Heaven I do appeal,
How I have lov'd my King, and Common-weal:
And for my Wife, I know not how it ſtands,
Sorry am I to hear, what I have heard:
Noble ſhe is; but if ſhe have forgot
Honour and Virtue, and convers't with ſuch,
As like to Pitch, defile Nobility;
I baniſh her my Bed, and Company,
And give her as a Prey to Law and Shame,
That hath diſhonoured Gloſter's honeſt name.
King. Well, for this Night we will repoſe us here:
To morrow toward London, back again,
To look into this Buſineſs thoroughly,
And call theſe foul Offendors to their anſwers;
And poiſe the Cauſe in Juſtice equal Scales,
Whoſe Beam ſtands ſure, whoſe rightful cauſe prevails.
[Exeunt.

Enter York, Salisbury, and Warwick.

York. Now, my good Lords of Salisbury and Warwick,
Our ſimple Supper ended, give me leave,
In this cloſe Walk to ſatisfy my ſelf,
In craving your opinion of my Title,
Which is infallible to England's Crown.
Salish. My Lord, I long to hear it thus at full.
War. Sweet York begin: and if thy claim be good,
The Nevils are thy Subjects to command.

York.

York. Then thus:
Edward the third, my Lords, had ſeven Sons:
The firſt Edward the Black-Prince, Prince of Wales;
The ſecond, William of Hatfield; and the third,
Lionel Duke of Clarence: next to whom,
Was John of Gaunt, the Duke of Lancaſter;
The fifth, was Edward Langley, Duke of York;
The ſixth, Thomas of Woodſtock, Duke of Gloſter,;
William of Windſor, was the ſeventh, and laſt.
Edward the Black-Prince dyed before his Father,
And left behind him Richard, his only Son,
Who after Edward the third's death, reign'd King,
'Till Henry Bullingbrook, Duke of Lancaſter,
The eldeſt Son and Heir of John of Gaunt,
Crown'd by the name of Henry the fourth,
Seiz'd on the Realm, depos'd the rightful King,
Sent his poor Queen to France, from whence ſhe came,
And him to Pomfret; where, as all you know,
Harmleſs King Richard was murthered traiterouſly.
Warw. Father, the Duke hath told the truth;
Thus got the Houſe of Lancaſter the Crown.
York. Which now they hold by force, and not by right:
For Richard the firſt Son's Heir, being dead,
The iſſue of the next Son ſhould have reign'd.
Salis. But William of Hatfield dyed without an Heir.
York. The third Son, Duke of Clarence,
From whoſe Line I claim the Crown,
Had iſſue Philip, a Daughter,
Who married Edmond Mortimer, Earl of March:
Edmond had iſſue, Roger Earl of March:
Roger had iſſue, Edmond, Anne, and Elianor.
Salis. This Edmond, in the reign of Bullingbrook,
As I have read, laid claim unto the Crown,
And, but for Owen Glendour, had been King;
Who kept him in Captivity, till he dy'd.
But, to the reſt.
York. His eldeſt Siſter, Anne,
My Mother, being Heir unto the Crown,
Married Richard Earl of Cambridge,
Who was to Edmond Langley,
Edward the third's fifth Son's Son;
By her I claim the Kingdom:
She then was Heir to Roger, Earl of March,
Who was the Son of Edmond Mortimer,
Who married Philip, ſole Daughter
Unto Lionel, Duke of Clarence.
So, if the iſſue of the eldeſt Son
Succeed before the younger, I am King.
Warw. What plain proceeding is more plain than this?
Henry doth claim the Crown from John of Gaunt
The fourth Son, York claims it from the third:
'Till Lyonel's iſſue fail,, he ſhould not Reign.
It fails not yet, but flouriſheth in thee,
And in thy Sons, fair Slips of ſuch a Stock,
Then Father Salisbury, kneel we together,
And in this private Plot be we the firſt,
That ſhall ſalute our rightful Soveraign
With honour of his Birth-right to the Crown.
Both. Long live our Soveraign Richard, England's King.
York. We thank you, Lords:
But I am not your King, 'till I be Crown'd
And that my Sword be ſtain'd
With heart-blood of the Houſe of Lancaſter:
And that's not ſuddenly to be perform'd,
But with advice and ſilent ſecrecy.
Do you, as I do, in theſe dangerous days
Wink at the Duke of Suffolk's Inſolence,
At Beauford's Pride, at Somerſet's Ambition,
At Buckingham, and all the Crew of them,
'Till they have ſnar'd the Shepherd of the Flock,
That virtuous Prince, the good Duke Humfrey:
'Tis that they ſeek; and they, in ſeeking that,
Shall find their deaths, if York can propheſie.
Salisf. My Lord, break we off; we know your mind at full.
Warw. My heart aſſures me, that the Earl of Warwick,
Shall one day make the Duke of York a King.
York. And Nevil, this I do aſſure my ſelf,
Richard ſhall live to make the Earl of Warwick
The greateſt man in England, but the King. Exeunt.

Sound Trumpets. Enter the King, and State, with Guard, to baniſh the Dutcheſs.

King. Stand forth, Dame Elianor Cobham,
Gloſter's Wife:
In light of God, and us, your guilt is great,
Receive the ſentence of the Law for ſin,
Such as by God's Book are adjudg'd to death,
You four from hence to Priſon, back again
From thence, unto the place of Execution;
The Witch in Smithfield ſhall be burn'd to aſhes,
And you three ſhall be ſtrangled on the Gallows.
You Madam, for you are more Nobly born,
Deſpoyled of your Honour in your life,
Shall after three days open Penance done,
Live in your Country here, in Baniſhment,
With Sir John Stanly, in the Iſle of man.
Elian. Welcome is Baniſhment, welcome were my Death.
Gloſt. Elianor, the Law thou ſeeſt hath judged thee,
I cannot juſtifie, whom the Law condemns.
Mine eyes are full of Tears, my Heart of Grief.
Ah Humfrey, this diſhonour in thine Age,
Will bring thy Head with ſorrow to the Ground.
I beſeech your Majeſty give me leave to go;
Sorrow would ſolace, and mine Age would eaſe.
King. Stay Humfrey, Duke of Gloſter,
E're thou go: give up thy Staff,
Henry will to himſelf Protector be,
And God ſhall be my Hope, my Stay, my Guide,
And Lanthorn to my Feet.
And go in peace, Humfrey, no leſs belov'd,
Than when thou wer't Protector to thy King.
Queen. I ſee no reaſon, why a King of years
Should be to be protected like a Child:
God and King Henry govern England's Realm:
Give up your Staff, Sir, and the King his Realm,
Gloſt. My Staff? Here, Noble Henry, is my Staff:
As willingly do I the ſame reſign,
As e're thy Father Henry made it mine;
And even as willingly at thy feet I leave it,
As others would ambitiouſly receive it.
Farewel good King: when I am dead and gone,
May honourable Peace attend thy Throne.
[Exit Gloſter.
Queen. Why now is Henry King, and Margaret Queen.
And Humfrey, Duke of Gloſter, ſcarce himſelf,
That bears ſo ſhrewd a maim; two Pulls at once;
His Lady baniſh'd, and a Limb lopt off,
This Staff of Honour raught, there let it ſtand,
Where beſt it fits to be, in Henry's hand.
Suff. Thus droops this lofty Pine, and hangs his ſprayes,
Thus Elianor's Pride dyes in her younger days.
York. Lords, let him go. Pleaſe it your Majeſty,
This is the day appointed for the Combate,
And ready are the Appellant and Defendant,
The Armourer and his Man, to enter the Liſts,
So pleaſe your Highneſs to behold the Fight.
Queen. I, good my Lord: for purpoſely therefore Left I the Court, to ſee this Quarrel try'd.
King. A God's Name ſee the Liſts and all things fit,
Here let them end it, and God defend the right.
York. I never ſaw a fellow worſe beſtead,
Or more afraid to fight, than is the Appellant,
The Servant of this Armourer, my Lords.

Enter

Enter at one Door the Armorer and his Neighbours, drinking to him ſo much, that he is drunk; and he enters with a Drum before him, and his Staff with a Sand-bag faſtned to it: and at the other Door his Man, with a Drum and a Sand-bag, and Prentices drinking to him.

1. Neighbour. Here, Neighbour Horner, I drink to you in a Cup of Sack; and fear not, Neighbour, you ſhall do well enough.

2. Neighbour. And here, Neighbour, here's a Cup of Charneco.

3. Neighbour. And here's a Pot of good double-Beer, Neighbour: drink, and fear not your Man.

Armorer. Let it come yfaith, and I'le pledge you all, and a fig for Peter.

1. Pren. Here Peter I drink to thee, and be not afraid.

2. Pren. Be merry, Peter, and fear not thy Maſter; Fight for the credit of the Prentices.

Peter. I thank you all: drink, and pray for me, I pray you, for I think I have taken my laſt Draught in this World. Here Robin, if I dye, I give thee my Apron; and Will, thou ſhalt have my Hammer: and here, Tom, take all the Money that I have. O Lord bleſs me, I pray God, for I am never able to deal with my Maſter, he hath learnt ſo much to fence already.

Salis. Come, leave your drinking, and fall to blows. Sirrah, what's thy Name?

Peter. Peter, forſooth.

Salis. Peter? what more?

Peter. Thump.

Salis. Thump? Then ſee thou thump thy Maſter well.

Armorer. Maſters, I am come hither as it were upon my Man's inſtigation, to prove him a Knave, and my ſelf an honeſt man: and touching the Duke of York, I will take my death, I never meant him any ill, nor the King nor the Queen, and therefore Peter have at thee with a down right blow.

York. Diſpatch, this Knaves tongue begins to double. Sound Trumpets, Alarum to the Combatants.

They fight, and Peter ſtrikes him down.

Armorer. Hold Peter, hold, I confeſs, I confeſs Treaſon.

York. Take away his Weapon: Fellow, thank God, and the good Wine in thy Maſters way.

Peter. O God, have I overcome mine Enemy in this preſence? O Peter thou haſt prevail'd in right.

King. Go, take hence that Traytor from our ſight,
For by his death we do perceive his guilt.
And God in Juſtice hath reveal'd to us
The Truth and Innocence of this poor Fellow,
Which he had thought to have murther'd wrongfully.
Come Fellow, follow us for thy Reward. [Exeunt.

Enter Duke Humfrey and his Men in Mourning Cloaks.

Gloſt. Thus ſometimes hath the brighteſt day a Cloud;
And after Summer, evermore ſucceeds
Barren Winter, with his wrathful nipping Cold;
So Cares and Joyes abound, as Seaſons fleet.
Sirs, what's a Clock?

Serv. Ten, my Lord.

Gloſt. Ten is the hour that was appointed me,
To watch the coming of my puniſh'd Dutcheſs:
Unneath may ſhe endure the Flinty Streets,
To tread them with her tender-feeling Feet.
Sweet Nell, ill can thy Noble mind a-brook
The abject People gazing on thy Face,
With envious Looks ſtill laughing at thy ſhame,
That erſt did follow thy proud Chariot-Wheels,
When thou didſt ride in Triumph through the ſtreets.
But ſoft, I think ſhe comes, and I'le prepare
My Tear-ſtain'd Eyes, to ſee her Miſeries.

Enter the Dutcheſs in a white Sheet, and a Taper burning in her hand, with the Sheriff and Officers.

Serv. So pleaſe your Grace, we'll take her from the Sheriff.

Gloſter. No, ſtir not for your lives, let her paſs by.

Elian. Come you, my Lord, to ſee my open ſhame?
Now thou do'ſt Penance too. Look how they gaze,
See how the giddy multitude do point,
And nod their heads, and throw their Eyes on thee.
Ah Gloſter, hide thee from their hateful looks,
And in thy Cloſet pent up, rue my ſhame,
And ban their Enemies, both mine and thine.

Gloſt. Be patient, gentle Nell, forget this Grief.

Elian. Ah Gloſter, teach me to forget my ſelf:
For whil'ſt I think I am thy married Wife,
And thou a Prince, Protector of this Land:
Methinks I ſhould not thus be led along,
Mail'd up in ſhame, with Papers on my Back,
And follow'd with a Rabble, that rejoice
To ſee my Tears, and hear my deep-fet Groans.
The ruthleſs Flint doth cut my tender Feet,
And when I ſtart the envious People laugh,
And bid me be adviſed, how I tread.
Ah Humfrey, can I bear this ſhameful yoak?
Troweſt thou, that e're I'le look upon the World,
Or count them happy, that enjoyes the Sun?
No: Dark ſhall be my Light, and Night my Day.
To think upon my Pomp, ſhall be my Hell.
Sometime I'le ſay I am Duke Humfrey's Wife,
And he a Prince, and Ruler of the Land:
Yet ſo he Rul'd, and ſuch a Prince he was,
As he ſtood by, whileſt I his forlorn Dutcheſs,
Was made a Wonder, and a pointing Stock
To every idle Raſcal Follower.
But be thou mild, and bluſh not at my ſhame,
Nor ſtir at nothing, till the Axe of Death
Hang over thee, as ſure it ſhortly will.
For Suffolk, he that can do all in all
With her, that hateth thee, and hates us all,
And York, and impious Beauford, that falſe Prieſt,
Have all lim'd Buſhes to betray thy Wings,
And flie thou how thou canſt, they'll tangle thee,
But fear thou not until thy Foot be ſnar'd,
Nor ever ſeek prevention of thy Foes.

Gloſt. Ah, Nell, forbear: thou aimeſt all awry.
I muſt offend, before I be attainted:
And had I twenty times ſo many Foes,
And each of them had twenty times their power,
All theſe could not procure me any ſcathe,
So long as I am loyal, true, and crimeleſs,
Would'ſt have me reſcue thee from this Reproach?
Why yet thy Scandal were not wip't away,
But I in danger for the breach of Law.
Thy greateſt help is quiet, gentle Nell:
I pray thee ſort thy Heart to Patience,
Theſe few dayes wonder will be quickly worn.

Enter a Herald.

Her. I ſummon your Grace to his Majeſties Parliament
Holden at Bury, the firſt of this next Month.

Gloſt. And my conſent ne're ask'd herein before?
This is cloſe dealing. Well, I will be there,
My Nell, I take my leave; and Maſter Sheriff,
Let not her Penance exceed the Kings Commiſſion.

Sher. And't pleaſe your Grace, here my Commiſſion ſtays;
And Sir John Stanly is appointed now,
To take her with him to the Iſle of Man.

Gloſt. Muſt you, Sir John, protect my Lady here?

Stanly. So am I given in charge, may't pleaſe your Grace

Gloſt. Entreat her not the worſe, in that I pray
You uſe her well: the World may laugh again,
And I may live to do you kindneſs, if you do it her.
And ſo, Sir John, Farewel.

Elian.

Elian. What, gone my Lord, and bid me not farewel.
Gloſt. Witneſs my Tears, I cannot ſtay to ſpeak.
[Exit Gloſter.
Elian. Art thou gone too? all comfort go with thee,
For none abides with me: my Joy is Death;
Death, at whoſe Name I oft have been afear'd,
Becauſe I wiſh'd this World's Eternity.
Stanly I prethee go, and take me hence,
I care not whither, for I beg no Favour;
Onely convey me where thou art commanded.
Stan. Why Madam, that is to the Iſle of man,
There to be us'd according to your State.
Elian. That's bad enough, for I am but Reproach:
And ſhall I then be us'd reproachfully?
Stan. Like to a Dutcheſs, and Duke Humfrey's Lady,
According to that State you ſhall be us'd.
Elian. Sheriff farewel, and better, than I, fare,
Although thou haſt been Conduct of my ſhame.
She. It is my Office, and Madam pardon me.
Elian. I, I, farewel, thy Office is diſcharg'd:
Come Stanly, ſhall we go?
Stan. Madam, your Penance done,
Throw off this Sheet,
And go we to attire you for our Journey.
Elian. My ſhame will not be ſhifted with my Sheet:
No, it will hang upon my richeſt Robes,
And ſhew it ſelf, attire me how I can.
Go, lead the way, I long to ſee my Priſon. [Exeunt.

Enter King, Queen, Cardinal, Suffolk, York, Buckingham, Salisbury, and Warwick, to the Parliament.

King. I muſe my Lord of Gloſter is not come:
'Tis not his wont to be the hindmoſt man,
What e're occaſion keeps him from us now.
Queen. Can you not ſee? or will ye not obſerve
The ſtrangneſs of his alter'd Countenance?
With what a Majeſty he bears himſelf,
How inſolent of late he is become,
How proud, how peremptory, and unlike himſelfe
We know the time ſince he was mild and affable,
And if we did but glance a far-off Look,
Immediatly he was upon his Knee,
That all the Court admir'd him for ſubmiſſion.
But meet him now, and be it in the Morn,
When every one will give the time of day,
He knits his Brow, and ſhews an angry Eye,
And paſſeth by with ſtiff unbowed Knee,
Diſdaining duty that to us belongs.
Small Curs are not regarded when they grin,
But Great men tremble when the Lyon roars,
And Humfrey is no little man in England.
Firſt note, that he is near you in deſcent,
And ſhould you fall, he is the next will mount.
Me ſeemeth then, it is no Policy,
Reſpecting what a Rancorous mind he bears,
And his Advantage following your Deceaſe,
That he ſhould come about your Royal Perſon,
Or be admitted to your Highneſs Councel.
By Flattery hath he won the Commons Hearts:
And when he pleaſe to make Commotion,
'Tis to be fear'd they all will follow him.
Now 'tis the Spring, and Weeds are ſhallow Rooted,
Suffer them now, and they'll o're-grow the Garden,
And choak the Herbs for want of Husbandry,
The Reverent care I bear unto my Lord,
Made me collect theſe Dangers in the Duke.
If it be fond, call it a Womans Fear:
Which Fear, if better Reaſons can ſupplant,
I will ſubſcribe, and ſay I wrong'd the Duke.
My Lord of Suffolk, Buckingham, and York,
Reprove my Allegation, if you can,
Or elſe conclude my words effectual.
Suff. Well hath your Highneſs ſeen into this Duke:
And had I firſt been put to ſpeak my mind,
I think I ſhould have told your Graces Tale.
The Dutcheſs, by his Subornation,
Upon my Life began her Deviliſh Practices:
Or if he were not privie to thoſe Faults,
Yet by reputing of his high Deſcent,
As next the King, he was ſucceſſive Heir,
And ſuch high Vaunts of his Nobility,
Did inſtigate the Bedlam brain-ſick Dutcheſs,
By wicked means to frame our Soveraign's Fall.
Smooth runs the Water where the Brook is deep,
And in his ſimple ſhew he harbours Treaſon.
The Fox barks not, when he would ſteal the Lamb,
No, no, my Soveraign, Gloſter is a Man
Unſounded yet, and full of deep Deceit.
Card. Did he not, contrary to form of Law,
Deviſe ſtrange Deaths, for ſmall Offences done?
York. And did he not, in his Protectorſhip,
Levy great ſumms of Money through the Realm,
For Souldiers pay in France, and never ſent it?
By means whereof the Towns each day revolted.
Buck. Tut, theſe are petty faults to faults unknown,
Which time will bring to light in ſmooth Duke Humphrey.
King. My Lords at once: the care you have of us,
To mow down Thorns that would annoy our Foot,
Is worthy praiſe: but ſhall I ſpeak my conſcience,
Our Kinſman Gloſter is as innocent,
From meaning Treaſon to our Royal Perſon,
As is the ſucking Lamb, or harmleſs Dove:
The Duke is Virtuous, Mild, and too well given:
To dream on evil, or to work my downfal.
Qu. Ah! what's more dangerous, than this fond affiance?
Seems he a Dove? his Feathers are but borrow'd,
For he is diſpoſed as the hateful Raven.
Is he a Lamb? his Skin was ſurely lent him,
For he's enclin'd as is the Ravenous Wolves.
Who cannot ſteal a Shape that means Deceit?
Take heed, my Lord, the welfare of us all,
Hangs on the cutting ſhort that Fraudful man.

Enter Somerſet.

Som. All Health unto my Gracious Soveraign.
King. Welcome Lord Somerſet: What news from France?
Som. That all our intereſt in thoſe Territories,
Is utterly bereft you: all is loſt.
King. Cold News, Lord Somerſet: but Gods will be done.
York. Cold News for me: for I had hope of France,
As firmly as I hope for Fertile England.
Thus are my Bloſſoms blaſted in the Bud,
And Caterpillars eat my Leaves away.
But I will remedy this geare e're long,
Or ſell my Title for a glorious Grave.

Enter Gloceſter.

Gloſt. All happineſs unto my Lord the King:
Pardon, my Liege, that I have ſtay'd ſo long.
Suff. Nay, Gloſter, know that thou art come too ſoon,
Unleſs thou wer't more Loyal than thou art:
I do arreſt thee of High Treaſon here.
Gloſt. Well Suffolk, yet thou ſhalt not ſee me bluſh,
Nor change my Countenance for this Arreſt:
A heart unſpotted is not eaſily daunted.
The pureſt Spring is not ſo free from mud,
As I am clear from Treaſon to my Soveraign,
Who can accuſe me? wherein am I guilty?
York. 'Tis thought, my Lord,
That you took Bribes of France,
And being Protector ſtay'd the Souldiers pay,
By means whereof his Highneſs hath loſt France.
Gloſt. Is it but thought ſo?
What are they that think it?
I never rob'd the Souldiers of their pay,
Nor never had one penny Bribe from France.
So help me God, as I have watcht the Night,

I, night

I, Night by Night, in ſtudying good for England.
That Doit that e're I wreſted from the King,
Or any Groat I hoarded to my uſe,
Be brought againſt me at my Tryal day.
No: Many a Pound of mine own Proper ſtore,
Becauſe I would not tax the needy Commons,
Have I diſburſed to the Garriſons,
And never ask'd for reſtitution.
Card. It ſerves you well, my Lord, to ſay ſo much.
Gloſt. I ſay no more than truth, ſo help me God.
York. In your Protectorſhip, you did deviſe
Strange Tortures for Offenders, never heard of,
That England was defam'd by Tyranny.
Gloſt. Why 'tis well known, that whiles I was Protector,
Pitie was all the fault that was in me:
For I ſhould melt at an Offendor's tears,
And lowly words were Ranſom for their fault:
Unleſs it were a bloody Murtherer,
Or foul felonious Thief, that fleec'd poor paſſengers,
I never gave them condign puniſhment.
Murther indeed, that bloody ſin, I tortur'd
Above the Felon, or what Treſpaſs elſe.
Suff. My Lord, theſe faults are eaſie, quickly anſwer'd:
But mightier Crimes are lay'd unto your charge,
Whereof you cannot eaſily purge your ſelf.
I do arreſt you in his Highneſs Name,
And here commit you to my Lord Cardinal
To keep, until your further time of Tryal.
King. My Lord of Gloceſter, 'tis my ſpecial hope,
That you will clear your ſelf from all ſuſpence,
My Conſcience tells me you are innocent.
Gloſt. Ah gracious Lord, theſe days are dangerous:
Virtue is choak't with foul Ambition,
And Charity chas'd hence by Rancour's hand;
Foul Subornation is predominant,
And Equitie exil'd your Highneſs Land.
I know, their Complot is to have my Life:
And if my death might make this Iſland happy,
And prove the period of their Tyranny,
I would expend it with all willingneſs.
But mine is made the Prologue to their Play:
For thouſands more, that yet ſuſpect no peril,
Will not conclude their plotted Tragedy.
Beauford's red ſparkling Eyes blab his heart's malice,
And Suffold's cloudy Brow his ſtormy hate;
Sharp Buckingham unburthens with his tongue
The envious Load that lyes upon his heart:
And dogged York, that reaches at the Moon,
Whoſe over-weening Arm I have pluckt back,
By falſe accuſe doth level at my Life.
And you, my Soveraign Lady, with the reſt,
Cauſeleſs have lay'd diſgraces on my head,
And with your beſt endeavour have ſtirr'd up
My lieſeſt Liege to be mine Enemy:
I, all of yon have lay'd your heads together,
My ſelf had notice of your Conventicles,
And all to make away my guiltleſs life.
I ſhall not want falſe Witneſs, to condemn me,
Nor ſtore of Treaſons, to augment my guilt:
The ancient Proverb will be well effected,
A Staff is quickly found to beat a Dog.
Card. My Liege, his railing is intolerable.
If thoſe that care to keep your Royal Perſon
From Treaſon's ſecret Knife, and Traytor's Rage,
Be thus upbraided, chid, and rated at,
And the Offender granted ſcope of ſpeech,
'Twill make them cool in zeal unto your Grace.
Suff. Hath he not twit our Soveraign Lady here
With ignominious words, though Clarkly coucht?
As if ſhe had ſuborned ſome to ſwear
Falſe allegations, to o'rethrow his ſtate.
Queen. But I can can give the loſer leave to chide.
Gloſt. Far truer ſpoke than meant: I loſe indeed,
Beſhrew the winners, for they play'd me falſe,
And well ſuch Loſers may have leave to ſpeak.
Buck. He'll wreſt the ſenſe, and hold us here all day.
Lord Cardinal, he is your Priſoner.
Card. Sirs, take away the Duke, and guard him ſure.
Gloſt. Ah, thus King Henry throws away his Crutch,
Before his Legs be firm to bear his Body,
Thus is the Shepherd beaten from thy ſide,
And Wolves are gnarling, who ſhall gnaw thee firſt.
Ah that my fear were falſe, ah that it were;
For good King Henry, thy decay I fear. [Exit Gloceſter.
King. My Lords, what to your Wiſdomes ſeemeth beſt,
Do, or undo, as if our ſelf were here.
Queen. What will your Highneſs leave the Parliament?
King. I Margaret: my Heart is drown'd with Grief,
Whoſe Floud begins to flow within my Eyes;
My Body round engirt with Miſery:
For what's more miſerable than Diſcontent?
Ah Uncle Humphrey, in thy ſad Face I ſee
The Map of Honour, Truth, and Loyalty:
And yet good Humphrey, is the hour to come,
That e're I prov'd thee falſe, or fear'd thy Faith.
What lowring Star now envyes thy eſtate?
That theſe great Lords, and Margaret our Queen,
Do ſeek ſubverſion of thy harmleſs Life.
Thou never didſt them wrong, nor no man wrong:
And as the Butcher takes away the Calf,
And binds the Wretch, and beats it when it ſtrayes,
Bearing it to the bloody Slaughter-houſe;
Even ſo remorſleſs have they born him hence:
And as the Dame runs lowing up and down,
Looking the way her harmeleſs young one went,
And can do nought but wail her Darlings loſs;
Even ſo my ſelf bewails good Gloſter's caſe,
With ſad unhelpful Tears and with dimn'd Eyes;
Look after him, and cannot do him good:
So mighty are his vowed Enemies.
His Fortunes I will weep, and 'twixt each groan,
Say, whoſe a Traitor? Gloſter he is none. [Exit.
Queen. Free Lords:
Cold Snow melts with the Sun's hot Beams:
Henry, my Lord, is cold in great Affairs,
Too full of fooliſh pity: and Gloſter's ſhew
Beguiles him, as the mournful Crocodile
With ſorrow ſnares relenting Paſſengers;
Or as the Snake, rol'd in a flowring Bank,
With ſhining checker'd Slough doth ſting a Child,
That for the beauty thinks it excellent.
Believe me Lords, were none more wiſe than I,
And yet herein I judge my own Wit good,
This Gloſter ſhould be quickly rid the World,
To rid us from the fear we have of him.
Card. That he ſhould dy, is worthy policy,
But yet we want a Colour for his death:
'Tis meet he be condemn'd by courſe of Law.
Suff. But in my mind, that were no policie:
The King will labour ſtill to ſave his Life,
The Commons haply riſe to ſave his Life;
And yet we have but trivial Argument,
More than miſtruſt, that ſhews him worthy death.
York. So that by this, you would not have him dye,
Suff. Ah York, no man alive, ſo fain as I.
York. 'Tis York that hath more reaſon for his death.
But my Lord Cardinal, and you my Lord of Suffolk,
Say as you think, and ſpeak it from your Souls:
Wer't not all one, an empty Eagle were ſet
To guard the Chick from a hungry Kite,
As place Duke Humphrey for the Kings Protector?
Queen. So the poor Chicken ſhould be ſure of death.
Suff. Madam, 'tis true, and wer't not madneſs then,
To make the Fox Surveyor of the Fold?
Who being accus'd a crafty Murtherer,
His Guilt ſhould be but idly poſted over,
Becauſe his purpoſe is not executed.

No:

No: let him dye, in that he is a Fox,
By Nature prov'd an Enemy to the Flock,
Before his Chaps be ſtain'd with Crimſon Blood,
As Humphrey prov'd by Reaſons to my Liege.
And do not ſtand on Quillets how to ſlay him:
Be it by Ginns, by Snares, by Subtilty,
Sleeping, or Waking, 'tis no matter how,
So he be dead; for that is good deceit
Which mates him firſt, that firſt intends deceit.
Queen. Thrice noble Suffolk, 'tis reſolutely ſpoke.
Suff. Not reſolute, except ſo much were done,
For things are often ſpoke, and ſeldom meant,
But that my Heart accordeth with my Tongue,
Seeing the deed is meritorious,
And to preſerve my Soveraign from his Foe,
Say but the word, and I will be his Prieſt.
Card. But I would have him dead, my Lord of Suffolk,
E're you can take due Orders for a Prieſt:
Say you conſent, and cenſure well the deed,
And I'le provide his Executioner,
I tender ſo the ſafety of my Liege.
Suff. Here is my hand, the deed is worthy doing.
Queen. And ſo ſay I.
York. And I: and now we three have ſpoke it,
It skils not greatly who impugnes our doom.

Enter a Poſt.

Poſt. Great Lords, from Ireland am I come amain,
To ſignifie, that Rebels there are up,
And put the Engliſhmen unto the Sword;
Send Succours (Lords) and ſtop the Rage betime,
Before the Wound do grow incurable;
For being green, there is great hope of help.
Card. A Breach that craves a quick expedient ſtop.
What Counſel give you in this weighty Cauſe?
York. That Somerſet be ſent a Regent thither:
'Tis meet the lucky Ruler be imploy'd,
Witneſs the Fortune he hath had in France.
Som. If York, with all his far-fet Policy,
Had been the Regent there, inſtead of me,
He never would have ſtay'd in France ſo long.
York. No, not to loſe it all, as thou haſt done.
I rather would have loſt my Life betimes,
Than bring a burthen of Diſhonour home,
By ſtaying there ſo long, 'till all were loſt.
Shew me one Skar character'd on thy Skin.
Men's Fleſh preſerv'd ſo whole, do ſeldom win.
Queen. Nay then, this ſpark will prove a raging Fire,
If Wind and Fuel be brought, to feed it with:
No more, good York; ſweet Somerſet be ſtill.
Thy Fortune, York, hadſt thou been Regent there,
Might haply have prov'd far worſe than his.
York. What, worſe than naught? nay, then a ſhame take all.
Somer. And in the number, thee, that wiſheſt ſhame.
Card. My Lord of York, try what your Fortune is,
Th' uncivil Kerns of Ireland are in Arms,
And temper Clay with Blood of Engliſh-men.
To Ireland will you lead a Band of men,
Collected choicely, from each Country ſome,
And try your hap againſt the Iriſh-men?
York. I will, my Lord, ſo pleaſe his Majeſty.
Suff. Why, our Authority is his Conſent,
And what we do Eſtabliſh he Confirms;
Then, Noble York, take thou this task in hand.
York. I am content: Provide me Souldiers, Lords.
Whiles I take Order for mine own Affairs.
Suff. A charge, Lord York, that I will ſee perform'd.
But now return we to the falſe Duke Humphrey.
Card. No more of him: for I will deal with him,
That henceforth he ſhall trouble us no more:
And ſo break off, the day is almoſt ſpent,
Lord Suffolk, you and I muſt talk of that event.
York. My Lord of Suffolk, within fourteen days.
At Briſtow I expect my Souldiers,
For there I'le ſhip them all for Ireland.
Suff. I'le ſee it truly done, my Lord of York. [Exeunt.

[Manet York.

York. Now York, or never, ſteel thy fearful thoughts,
And change miſ-doubt to Reſolution;
Be that thou hop'ſt to be, or what thou art
Reſign to death, it is not worth th' enjoying:
Let pale-fac'd Fear keep with the mean-born man,
And find no harbour in a Royal Heart.
Faſter than Spring-time ſhowers, comes thought on thought
And not a thought, but thinks on Dignity.
My Brain, more buſie than the labouring Spider,
Weaves tedious Snares to trap mine Enemies.
Well Nobles, well: 'tis politickly done,
To ſend me packing with an Hoſt of Men:
I fear me, you but warm the ſtarved Snake,
Who cheriſh'd in your Breaſts, will ſting your Hearts,
'Twas Men I lack'd, and you will give them me;
I take it kindly: yet be well aſſur'd,
You put ſharp Weapons in a Mad-man's hands.
Whileſt I in Ireland nouriſh a mighty Band,
I will ſtir up in England ſome black Storm,
Shall blow ten thouſand Souls to Heaven or Hell:
And this fell Tempeſt ſhall not ceaſe to rage,
Until the Golden Circuit on my Head
Like to the glorious Sun's tranſparent Beams,
Do calm the Fury of this mad-bred Flaw.
And for a Miniſter of my intent,
I have ſeduc'd a head-ſtrong Kentiſh-man,
John Cade of Aſhford
To make Commotion, as full well he can,
Under the Title of John Mortimer.
In Ireland have I ſeen this ſtubborn Cade
Oppoſe himſelf againſt a Troop of Kerns,
And fought ſo long, till that his Thighs with Darts
Were almoſt like a ſharp-quil'd Porpentine:
And in the end being reſcued, I have ſeen
Him caper upright, like a wild Moriſco,
Shaking the bloody Darts, as he his Bells.
Full often, like a ſhag-hair'd crafty Kern,
Hath he converſed with the Enemy,
And undiſcover'd come to me again,
And given me notice of their Villanies.
This Devil here ſhall be my ſubſtitute,
For that John Mortimer, which is now dead,
In Face, in Gate, in Speech he doth reſemble.
By this, I ſhall perceive the Commons mind,
How they affect the Houſe and Claim of York.
Say he be taken, rack'd and tortured;
I know, no pain they can inflict upon him,
Will make him ſay, I mov'd him to thoſe Arms.
Say that he thrive, as 'tis great like he will,
Why then from Ireland come I with my ſtrength,
And reap the Harveſt which that Raſcal ſow'd,
For Humphrey being dead, as he ſhall be,
And Henry put a-part: the next for me. [Exit.

Enter two or three running over the Stage, from the Murther of Duke Humphrey.

1. Run to my Lord of Suffolk: let him know
We have diſpatch'd the Duke, as he commanded.
2. Oh, that it were to do; what have we done?
Did'ſt ever hear a Man ſo penitent? [Enter Suffolk.
1. Here comes my Lord.
Suff. Now, Sirs, have you diſpatcht this thing?
1. I, my good Lord, he's dead.
Suff. Why that's well ſaid. Go, get you to my Houſe,
I will reward you for this venturous deed:
The King and all the Peers are here at hand.
Have you laid fair the Bed? and are all things well,
According as I gave directions?
1. 'Tis, my good Lord.
Suff. Away, be gone. [Exeunt.

Enter

Enter the King, the Queen, Cardinal, Suffolk, Somerset with Attendants.

King. Go call our Uncle to our preſence ſtraight:
Say we intend to try his Grace to day,
If he be guilty, as 'tis publiſhed.
Suff. I'le call him preſently, my Noble Lord. [Exit.
King. Lords take your places; and I pray you all
Proceed no ſtraiter 'gainſt our Uncle Gloſter,
Than from true evidence of good eſteem,
He be approv'd in practice culpable.
Queen. God forbid any malice ſhould prevail,
That faultleſs may condemn a Noble man:
Pray God he may acquit him of ſuſpicion.
King. I thank thee Nell, theſe words content me much.

Enter Suffolk.

How now? why look'ſt thou pale? why trembleſt thou?
Where is our Uncle? what's the matter, Suffolk?
Suff. Dead in his bed, my Lord, Gloſter is dead.
Queen. Marry God forfend.
Card. Gods ſecret Judgment: I did dream to night,
The Duke was dumb, and could not ſpeake a word.

King Swoons.

Queen. How fares my Lord? Help Lords, the King is dead.
Som. Rear up his Body, wring him by the Noſe.
Queen. Run, go, help, help: Oh Henry ope thine Eyes.
Suff. He doth revive again, Madam be patient.
King. Oh Heavenly God!
Queen. How fares my gracious Lord?
Suff. Comfort my Soveraign,, gracious Henry comfort.
King. What, doth my Lord of Suffolk comfort me?
Came he right now to ſing a Raven's Note,
Whoſe diſmal tune bereft my Vital powers:
And thinks he, that the chirping of a Wren,
By crying Comfort from a hollow Breaſt,
Can chaſe away the firſt conceived ſound?
Hide not thy poyſon with ſuch ſugred words,
Lay not thy Hands on me: forbear I ſay,
Their touch affrights me as a Serpent's ſting.
Thou baleful Meſſenger, out of my Sight:
Upon thy Eye-balls murderous Tyranny
Sits in grim Majeſty, to fright the World.
Look not upon me, for thine Eyes are wounding;
Yet do not go away; come Baſilisk,
And kill the innocent Gazer with thy ſight:
For in the ſhade of death, I ſhall find joy;
In life, but double death, now Gloſter's dead.
Queen. Why do you rate my Lord of Suffolk thus?
Although the Duke was Enemy to him,
Yet he moſt Chriſtian-like laments his death;
And for my ſelf, Foe as he was to me,
Might liquid Tears, or heart-offending Groans,
Or blood-conſuming Sighs recal his life;
I would be blind with weeping, ſick with Groans,
Look pale as Prim-roſe, with blood-drinking Sighs,
And all to have the Noble Duke alive.
What know I how the world may deem of me?
For it is known we were but hollow Friends:
It may be judg'd I made the Duke away,
So ſhall my name with Slander's tongue be wounded,
And Princes Courts be fill'd with reproach:
This get I by his death: Aye me unhapppy,
To be a Queen, and Crown'd with infamy.
King. Ah woe is me for Gloſter wretched man.
Queen. Be woe for me, more wretched than he is.
What, Do'ſt thou turn away and hide thy face?
I am no loathſome Leper, look on me.
What? art thou like the Adder waxen deaf?
Be poyſonous too, and kill thy forlorn Queen.
Is all thy comfort ſhut in Gloſter's Tombe?
Why then Dame Elianor was ne're thy joy.
Erect his Statue, and worſhip it,
And make my image but an Ale-houſe ſign.
Was I for this nigh wrackt upon the Sea,
And twice by aukward wind from England's bank
Drove back again unto my Native Clime.
What boaded this? but well fore-warning wind
Did ſeem to ſay, ſeek not a Scorpion's Neſt,
Nor ſet no footing on this unkind ſhoar,
What did I then? but curſt the gentle guſts,
And he that loos'd them from their Brazen Caves,
And bid them blow towards England's bleſſed ſhoar,
Or turn our Stern upon a dreadful Rock:
Yet Æolus would not be a Murtherer,
But left that hateful Office unto thee.
The pretty vaulting Sea refus'd to drown me,
Knowing that thou would'ſt have me drown'd on ſhoar
With tears as ſalt as ſea, through thy unkindneſs.
The ſplitting Rocks cowr'd in the ſinking ſands,
And would not daſh me with their ragged ſides,
Becauſe thy flinty heart more hard than they,
Might in thy Palace periſh Elianor:
As far as I could ken thy Chalky Cliffs,
When from thy ſhoar, the Tempeſt beat us back,
I ſtood upon the Hatches in the ſtorm,
And when the dusky sky began to rob
My earneſt-gaping-ſight of the Land's view,
I took a coſtly Jewel from my neck,
A Heart it was bound in with Diamonds,
And threw it towards thy Land: the Sea receiv'd it,
And ſo I wiſh'd thy body might my Heart:
And even with this I loſt fair England's view,
And bid mine eyes be packing with my heart,
And call'd them blind and dusky Spectacles,
For loſing ken of Albion's wiſhed Coaſt.
How often have I tempted Suffolk's tongue
(The agent of thy foul inconſtancy)
To ſit and watch me, as Aſcanius did,
When he to madding Dido would unfold
His Father's Acts, commenc'd in burning Troy,
Am I not witcht like her? or thou not falſe like him?
Aye me, I can no more: Dye Elianor,
For Henry weeps, that thou doſt live ſo long,

Noiſe within. Enter Warwick, and many Commons.

Warw. It is reported, mighty Soveraign,
That good Duke Humphrey Traiterouſly is murthered
By Suffolk, and the Cardinal Beauford's means:
The Commons like an angry hive of Bees
That want their Leader, ſcatter up and down,
And care not who they ſting in his revenge.
My ſelf have calm'd their ſpleenful mutiny,
Untill they hear the order of his death.
King. That he is dead, good Warwick, 'tis too true,
But how he dyed, God knows, not Henry:
Enter his Chamber, view his breathleſs Corps,
And comment then upon his ſudden death.
Warw. That ſhall I do, my Liege: Stay Salisbury
With the rude multitude, till I return.
King. O thou that judgeſt all things, ſtay my thoughts:
My thoughts, that labour to perſuade my ſoul,
Some violent hands were laid on Humphrey's life:
If my ſuſpect be falſe, forgive me God,
For judgment only doth belong to thee:
Fain would I goe to chafe his paly lips:
With twenty thouſand kiſſes, and to drain
Upon his face an Ocean of ſalt Tears,
To tell my love unto his dumb deaf trunk,
And with my fingers feel his hand unfeeling:
But all in vain are theſe mean Obſequies.

Bed put forth.

And to ſurvey his dead and earthly Image:
What were it but to make my ſorrow greater?
Warw. Come hither gracious Soveraign, view this body.
King. That is to ſee how deep my grave is made,
For with his ſoul fled all my wordly ſolace;

For ſeeing him, I ſee my Life is Death.
War. As ſurely as my Soul intends to live
With that dread King that took our ſtate upon him,
To free us from his Fathers wrathful curſe,
I do believe that violent Hands were laid
Upon the life of this thrice-famed Duke.
Suff. A dreadful Oath, ſworn with a ſolemn Tongue:
What inſtance gives Lord Warwick for his Vow?
War. See how the Blood is ſettled in his Face.
Oft have I ſeen a timely-parted Ghoſt,
Of aſhy ſemblance, meager, pale, and bloodleſs,
Being all deſcended to the labouring Heart,
Who in the Conflict that it holds with death,
Attracts the ſame for aidance 'gainſt the Enemy,
Which with the Heart there cools, and ne're returneth
To bluſh and beautify the Cheek again.
But ſee, his Face is black, and full of Blood:
His Eye-balls further out, than when he lived,
Staring full gaſtly, like a ſtrangled Man:
His Hair up rear'd, his Noſtrils ſtretcht with ſtrugling:
His Hands abroad diſplay'd, as one that graſpt
And tugg'd for Life, and was by ſtrength ſubdued.
Look on the Sheets, his Hair (you ſee) is ſticking,
His well-proportion'd Beard, made ruſſ and rugg'd,
Like to the Summer's Corn by Tempeſt lodged:
It cannot be but he was murdered here,
The leaſt of all theſe ſigns were probable.
Suff. Why Warwick, who ſhould do the Duke to death?
My ſelf and Beauford had him in protection,
And we, I hope, Sir, are no Murtherers.
War. But both of you have vow'd Duke Humphrey's death.
And you (for ſooth) had the good Duke to keep:
'Tis like you would not feaſt him like a Friend,
And 'tis well ſeen, he found an Enemy.
Queen. Then you belike ſuſpect theſe Noble-men,
As guilty of Duke Humphrey's timeleſs death.
War. Who finds the Heifer dead, and bleeding freſh,
And ſees faſt-by, a Butcher with an Ax,
But will ſuſpect, 'twas he that made the ſlaughter?
Who finds the Partridge in the Puttocks Neſt,
But may imagine, how the Bird was dead,
Although the Kite ſoar with unbloodied Beak?
Even ſo ſuſpitious is this Tragedy.
Qu. Are you the Butcher, Suffolk? where's your Knife?
Is Beauford term'd a Kite? where are his Tallons?
Suff. I wear no Knife, to ſlaughter ſleeping men,
But here's a 'vengful Sword, ruſted with eaſe,
That ſhall be ſcoured in his rancorous Heart,
That ſlanders me with Murther's Crimſon Badge.
Say, if thou dar'ſt, proud Lord of Warwickſhire,
That I am faulty in Duke Humphrey's death.
War. What dares not Warwick, if falſe Suffolk dare him?
Queen. He dare not calm his contumelious Spirit,
Nor ceaſe to be an arrogant Controller,
Tho Suffolk dare him twenty thouſand times.
War. Madam be ſtill: with reverence may I ſay,
For every word you ſpeak in his behalf,
Is ſlaunder to your Royal Dignity.
Suff. Blunt-witted Lord, ignoble in demeanor,
If ever Lady wrong'd her Lord ſo much,
Thy Mother took into her blameful Bed,
Some ſtern untutor'd Churl; and Noble Stock
Was graft with Crab-tree ſlip, whoſe Fruit thou art,
And never of the Nevils Noble Race.
War. But that the guilt of Murther bucklers thee,
And I ſhould rob the Deaths-man of his Fee,
Quitting thee thereby of ten thouſand ſhames,
And that my Soveraigns preſence makes me mild,
I would, falſe murd'rous Coward, on thy Knee
Make thee beg pardon for thy paſſed ſpeech,
And ſay, it was thy Mother that thou meant'ſt.
That thou thy ſelf waſt born in Baſtardy;
And after all this fearful Homage done,
Give thee thy hire, and ſend thy Soul to Hell,
Pernicious Blood-ſucker of ſleeping Men.
Suff. Thou ſhalt be waking, while I ſhed thy Blood.
If from this preſence thou dar'ſt go with me.
War. Away even now, or I will drag thee hence,
Unworthy though thou art, I'le cope with thee,
And do ſome ſervice to Duke Humphrey's Ghoſt. [Exeunt.
King. What ſtronger Breaſt-plate than a Heart untainted?
Thrice is he arm'd, that hath his Quarrel juſt;
And he but naked, though lockt up in Steel,
Whoſe Conſcience with injuſtice is corrupted.
A noiſe within.
Queen. What noiſe is this?

Enter Suffolk and Warwick, with their weapons drawn.

King. Why how now Lords?
Your wrathful Weapons drawn,
Here in our preſence? Dare you be ſo bold?
Why, what tumultuous clamor have we here?
Suff. The trayt'rous Warwick with the Men of Bury,
Set all upon me, mighty Soveraign.
Enter Salisbury.
Salis. Sirs, ſtand apart, the King ſhall know your mind.
Dread Lord, the Commons ſend you word by me,
Unleſs Lord Suffolk ſtraight be done to death,
Or baniſhed fair England's Territories,
They will by violence tear him from your Palace,
And torture him with grievous lingring death.
They ſay, by him the good Duke Humphrey dy'd:
They ſay, in him they fear your Highneſs death;
And mere inſtinct of Love and Loyalty,
Free from a ſtubborn oppoſite intent,
As being thought to contradict your liking,
Makes them thus forward in his Baniſhment.
They ſay, in care of your moſt Royal Perſon,
That if your Highneſs ſhould intend to ſleep,
And charge that no Man ſhould diſturb your reſt,
In pain of your diſlike, or pain of death;
Yet notwithſtanding ſuch a ſtrange Edict,
Where there is a Serpent ſeen with forked Tongue,
That ſlyly glided towards your Majeſty,
It were but neceſſary you were wak't:
Leſt being ſuffer'd in that harmleſs ſlumber,
The mortal Worm might make the ſleep Eternal,
And therefore do they cry, though you forbid,
That they will guard you whe're you will, or no,
From ſuch fell Serpents as falſe Suffolk is;
With whoſe invenomed and fatal ſting,
Your loving Uncle, twenty times his worth,
They ſay is ſhamefully bereſt of life.
Commons within. An Anſwer from the King, my Lord of Salisbury.
Suff. 'Tis like the Commons, rude unpoliſht hinds,
Could ſend ſuch Meſſage to their Soveraign:
But you, my Lord, were glad to be employ'd,
To ſhew how queint an Orator you are.
But all the honour Salisbury hath won,
Is, that he was the Lord Embaſſador
Sent from a ſort of Tinkers to the King.
Within. An Anſwer from the King, or we will all break in.
King. Go Salisbury, and tell them all from me,
I thank them for their tender loving care;
And had I not been cited ſo by them,
Yet did I purpoſe as they do intreat:
For ſure my thoughts do hourly propheſie
Miſchance unto my State by Suffolk's means.
And therefore by his Majeſty I ſwear,
Whoſe far-unworthy Deputy I am,
He ſhall not breed infection in this Air,
But three days longer, on the pain of death.
Queen. Oh Henry, let me plead for gentle Suffolk.
King. Ungentle Queen, to call him gentle Suffolk.
No more, I ſay: if thou do'ſt plead for him,

Thou

Thou wilt but add increaſe unto my Wrath.
Had I but ſaid, I would have kept my word;
But when I ſwear it is irrevocable:
If after three days ſpace thou here be'ſt found,
On any ground that I am Ruler of,
The World ſhall not be Ranſome for thy Life.
Come Warwick, come good Warwick, go with me,
I have great matters to impart to thee. [Exit.

Queen. Miſchance and Sorrow go along with you,
Hearts Diſcontent, and ſower Affliction,
Be Play-fellows to keep you company:
There's two of you, the Devil made a third,
And three-fold Vengeance tend upon your ſteps.

Suff. Ceaſe, gentle Queen, theſe Execrations,
And let thy Suffolk take his heavy leave.

Queen. Fie Coward woman, and ſoft-hearted wretch,
Haſt thou not Spirit to Curſe thine Enemy?

Suff. A Plague upon them: wherefore ſhould I Curſe them?
Would Curſes kill, as doth the Mandrakes groan,
I would invent as bitter ſearching terms,
As curſt, as harſh, and horrible to hear,
Deliver'd ſtrongly through my fixed Teeth,
With full as many ſignes of deadly Hate,
As lean-fac'd Envy in her loathſome Cave.
My Tongue ſhould ſtumble in mine earneſt words,
Mine Eyes ſhould ſparkle like the beaten Flint,
Mine Hair be fixt an end, as one diſtract:
I, every Joynt ſhould ſeem to Curſe and Ban,
And even now my burthen'd heart would break,
Should I not Curſe them. Poiſon be their Drink,
Gall, worſe than Gall, the daintieſt that they taſte:
Their ſweeteſt ſhade, a Grove of Cypreſs Trees:
Their chiefeſt Proſpect, murd'ring Baſilisks:
Their ſofteſt Touch, as ſmart as Lizards ſtings:
Their Muſick, frightful as the Serpents hiſs,
And boading Screech-Owls, make the Conſort full.
All the foul Terrors in dark-ſeated Hell——

Queen. Enough ſweet Suffolk, thou torment'ſt thy ſelf,
And theſe dread Curſes like the Sun 'gainſt Glaſs,
Or like an overcharg'd Gun, recoil,
And turns the force of them upon thy ſelf.

Suff. You bade me ban, and will you bid me leave?
Now by the ground that I am baniſh'd from,
Well could I Curſe away a Winters Night,
Though ſtanding naked on a Mountain top,
Where biting Cold would never let Graſs grow,
And think it but a minute ſpent in ſport.

Queen. Oh, let me intreat thee ceaſe, give me thy hand,
That I may dew it with my mournful Tears;
Nor let the Rain of Heaven wet this pace,
To waſh away my woful Monuments.
Oh, could this kiſs be printed in thy Hand,
That thou might'ſt think upon theſe by the Seal,
Through whom a thouſand ſighs are breath'd for thee.
So get thee gone, that I may know my grief,
'Tis but ſurmiz'd whil'ſt thou art ſtanding by,
As one that Surfeits, thinking on a want:
I will repeal thee, or be well aſſur'd,
Adventure to be baniſhed my ſelf:
And baniſhed I am, if but from thee.
Go, ſpeak not to me; even now be gone,
Oh go not yet. Even thus, two Friends Condemn'd
Embrace, and kiſs, and take ten thouſand leaves,
Loather a hundred times to part than dye;
Yet now farewel, and farewel Life with thee.

Suff. Thus is poor Suffolk ten times baniſhed,
Once by the King, and three times thrice by thee.
'Tis not the Land I care for, wer't thou hence,
A Wilderneſs is populous enough,
So Suffolk had thy heavenly Company,
For where thou art, there is the World it ſelf,
With every ſeveral Pleaſure in the World:
And where thou art not, Deſolation.
I can no more: Live thou to joy thy Life;
My ſelf no Joy in ought, but that thou liv'ſt.

Enter Vaux.

Queen. Whither goes Vaux ſo faſt? what News, I prithee?

Vaux. To ſignifie unto his Majeſty,
That Cardinal Beauford is at the point of death:
For ſuddenly a grievous ſickneſs took him,
That makes him gaſp, and ſtare, and catch the Air,
Blaſpheming God, and Curſing Men on Earth.
Sometimes he talks, as if Duke Humphrey's Ghoſt
Were by his ſide: ſometimes he calls the King,
And whiſpers to his Pillow, as to him,
The ſecrets of his over-charged Soul,
And I am ſent to tell his Majeſty,
That even now he cries aloud for him.

Queen. Go tell this heavy Meſſage to the King. [Exit
Ay me! What is this World? What news are theſe?
But wherefore grieve I at an hours poor loſs,
Omitting Suffolk's Exile, my Soul's Treaſure?
Why only Suffolk mourn I not for thee?
And with the Southern clouds, contend in tears?
Theirs for the Earths increaſe; mine for my Sorrows.
Now get thee hence, the King thou know'ſt is coming,
If thou be found by me, thou art but dead.

Suff. If I depart from thee, I cannot live,
And in thy ſight to dye, what were it elſe,
But like a pleaſant ſlumber in thy lap?
Here could I breathe my ſoul into the Air,
As mild and gentle, as the Cradle-babe,
Dying with Mother's Dug between its lips.
Where from thy ſight, I ſhould be raging mad:
And cry out for thee to cloſe up mine Eyes:
To have thee with thy Lips to ſtop my Mouth:
So ſhould'ſt either turn my flying Soul,
Or I ſhould breathe it ſo into thy Body,
And then it lives in ſweet Elyſium.
To dye by thee, were but to dye in jeſt,
From thee to dye, were torture more than death;
Oh let me ſtay, befal what may befal.

Queen. Away: though parting be a fretful Corroſive,
It is applyed to a deathful wound.
To France ſweet Suffolk: Let me hear from thee:
For whereſoever thou art in this VVorld's Globe,
I'le have an Iris that ſhall find thee out.

Suff. I go.

Queen. And take my heart with thee.

Suff. A Jewel lock'd into the woful'ſt Cask,
That ever did contain a thing of worth,
Even as a ſplitted Bark, ſo ſunder we:
This way fall I to death.

Queen. This way for me. [Exeunt.

Enter the King, Salisbury, and VVarwick, to the Cardinal in Bed.

King. How fares my Lord? Speak Beauford to thy Soveraign.

Car. If thou beeſt Death, I'le give thee Englands Treaſure,
Enough to purchaſe ſuch another Iſland,
So thou wilt let me live, and feel no pain.

King. Ah, what a ſign it is of Evil Life,
VVhere Death's approach is ſeen ſo terrible.

War. Beauford, it is thy Soveraign ſpeaks to thee.

Beau. Bring me unto my Tryal when you will.
Dy'd he not in his Bed? Where ſhould he dye?
Can I make Men live where they will no?
Oh torture me no more, I will confeſs.
Alive again? Then ſhew me where he is:
I'le give a thouſand pound to look upon him,
He hath no Eyes, the Duſt hath blinded them:
Combe down his hair; look, look, it ſtands upright,
Like Lime-twigs ſet to catch my winged Soul:
Give me ſome drink, and bid the Apothecary

Bring the ſtrong poyſon that I bought of him.
King. O thou eternal Mover of the Heavens,
Look with a gentle Eye upon this Wretch,
Oh beat away the buſie meddling Fiend,
That lays ſtrong Siege unto this Wretch's Soul,
And from his Boſom purge this black deſpair.
War. See how the pangs of death do make him grin.
Sal. Diſturb him not, let him paſs peaceably.
King. Peace to his Soul, if Gods good pleaſure be.
Lord Card'nal, if thou think'ſt on Heavens bliſs,
Hold up thy Hand, make ſignal of thy hope.
He dies, and makes no Sign: Oh God forgive him.
War. So bad a Death argues a monſtrous Life.
King. Forbear to judge, for we are ſinners all.
Cloſe up his Eyes, and draw the Curtain cloſe,
And let us all to Meditation. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Fight at Sea. Ordnance goes off.

Enter Lieutenant, Suffolk, and others.

Lieu. The gaudy blabbing and remorſeful day,
Is crept into the boſom of the Sea:
And now loud howling Wolves arouſe the Jades
That drag the Tragick melancholy night:
Who with their drowſie, ſlow, and flagging wings
Cleap dead mens Graves; and from their miſty Jaws,
Breath foul contagious darkneſs in the Air:
Therefore bring forth Souldiers of our prize,
For whil'ſt our Pinnace Anchors in the Downs,
Here ſhall they make their Ranſom on the Sand,
Or with their Blood ſtain this diſcoloured ſhore.
Maſter, this Priſoner freely give I thee.
And thou that art his Mate, make Boot of this:
The other Walter Whitmore is thy ſhare.
1. Gent. What is my Ranſom, Maſter, let me know.
Ma. A thouſand Crowns, or elſe lay down your Head.
Mate. And ſo much ſhall you give, or off goes yours.
Lieu. What think you much to pay 2000 Crowns,
And bear the name and port of Gentlemen?
Cut both the Villains Throats, for dye you ſhall:
The lives of thoſe which we have loſt in fight,
Be counter-pois'd with ſuch a petty Sum.
1. Gent. I'le give it, Sir, and therefore ſpare my life.
2. Gent. And ſo will I, and write home for it ſtraight.
Whitm. I loſt mine Eye in laying the prize aboard,
And therefore to revenge it, ſhalt thou die,
And ſo ſhould theſe, if I might have my Will.
Lieu. Be not ſo raſh, take Ranſom, let him live.
Suff. Look on my George, I am a Gentleman,
Rate me at what thou wilt, thou ſhalt be paid.
Whit. And ſo am I: my name is Walter Whitmore,
How now? why ſtart'ſt thou? what doth death affright?
Suff. Thy name affrights me, in whoſe ſound is Death:
A Cunning-man did calculate my Birth,
And told me, that by Water I ſhould die:
Yet let not this make thee be Bloody-minded,
Thy name is Gualtier, being rightly ſounded.
Whit. Gualtier or Walter, which it is I care not,
Never yet did baſe diſhonour blur our name,
But with our Sword we wip'd away the blot.
Therefore, when Merchant-like I ſell revenge,
Broke be my Sword, my Arms torn and defac'd,
And I proclaim'd a Coward through the World.
Suff. Stay Whitmore, for thy Priſoner is a Prince,
The Duke of Suffolk, William de la Pole.
Whit. The Duke of Suffolk, muffled up in Rags?
Suff. I, but theſe rags are no part of the Duke.
Lieu. But Jove was never ſlain as thou ſhalt be,
Obſcure and lowſie Swain, King Henry's Blood.
Suff. The Honourable Blood of Lancaſter
Muſt not be ſhed by ſuch a jaded Groom:
Haſt thou not kiſt thy Hand, and held my Stirrop?
Bare-headed plodded by my Foot-cloth Mule,
And thought thee happy when I ſhook my Head.
How often haſt thou waited at my Cup,
Fed from my Trencher, kneel'd down at the Board,
When I have feaſted with Queen Margaret?
Remember it, and let it make thee Creſt-faln,
I, and allay this thy abortive Pride:
How in our voiding Lobby haſt thou ſtood,
And duly waited for my coming forth?
This Hand of thine hath writ in thy behalf,
And therefore ſhall it charm thy riotous Tongue.
Whit. Speak Captain, ſhall I ſtab the forlorn Swain?
Lieu. Firſt let my words ſtab him, as he hath me.
Suff. Baſe Slave, thy words are blunt, and ſo art thou.
Lieu. Convey him hence, and on our Long-boats ſide,
Strike off his Head. Suff. Thou dar'ſt not for thy own.
Lieu. Poole, Sir Poole? Lord?
I kennel, puddle, ſink, whoſe filth and dirt
Troubles the Silver Spring, where England drinks:
Now will I dam up this thy yawning Mouth,
For ſwallowing up the Treaſure of the Realm.
Thy Lips that kiſt the Queen, ſhall ſweep the Ground:
And thou that ſmil'ſt at good Humphrey's Death,
Againſt the ſenſeleſs Winds ſhalt grin in vain,
Who in contempt ſhall hiſs at thee again.
And wedded be thou to the Hags of Hell,
For daring to affye a mighty Lord
Unto the Daughter of a worthleſs King,
Having neither Subject, Wealth, nor Diadem:
By deviliſh policy art thou grown great,
And like ambitious Sylla over-gor'd,
With gobbets of thy Mother-bleeding Heart.
By thee Anjou and Main were ſold to France.
The falſe revolting Normans through thee,
Diſdain to call us Lord, and Picardie
Hath ſlain their Governors, ſurpriz'd our Forts,
And ſent the ragged Souldiers wounded home:
The Princely Warwick, and the Nevils all,
Whoſe dreadful Swords were never drawn in vain,
As hating thee, and riſing up in Arms.
And now the Houſe of York thruſt from the Crown,
By ſhameful murther of a guiltleſs King,
And lofty proud incroaching tyranny,
Burns with revenging Fire, whoſe hopeful colours
Advance our half-fac'd Sun, ſtriving to ſhine;
Under the which is writ, Invitis nubibus.
The Commons here in Kent are up in Arms,
And to conclude, Reproach and Beggery,
Is crept into the Palace of our King,
And all by thee: away, convey him hence.
Suff. O that I were a God, to ſhoot forth Thunder
Upon theſe paltry, ſervile, abject drudges:
Small things make baſe Men proud. This Villain here,
Being Captain of a Pinnace, threatens more
Than Bargullus the ſtrong Illyrian Pirate.
Drones ſuck not Eagles Blood, but rob Bee-hives.
It is impoſſible that I ſhould die
By ſuch a lowly Vaſſal as thy ſelf.
Thy words move Rage, and not Remorſe in me:
I go of Meſſage from the Queen to France:
I charge thee waft me ſafely croſs the Channel.
Lieu. Water: W. Come Suffolk, I muſt waft thee to thy death.
Suff. Gelidus timor occupat artus, it is thee I fear.
Wal Thou ſhalt have cauſe to fear before I leave thee.
What, are ye daunted now? will you ſtoop?
1. Gent. My gracious Lord intreat him; ſpeak him fair.
Suff. Suffolks Imperial Tongue is ſtern and rough:
Us'd to command, untaught to plead for favour.
Far be it, we ſhould honour ſuch as theſe
With humble ſuit: no, rather let my Head
Stoop to the Block, than theſe Knees Bow to any,
Save to the God of Heaven, and to my King:
And ſooner dance upon a bloody pole,
Than ſtand uncover'd to the Vulgar Groom.

True

True Nobility is exempt from fear:
More can I bear, than you dare execute.

Lieu. Hale him away, and let him talk no more:
Come Souldiers, shew what Cruelty ye can.

Suff. That this my Death may never be forgot.
Great Men oft dye by vile Bezonians.
A Roman Sworder, and Bandetto Slave
Murder'd sweet Tully. Brutus Bastard hand
Stab'd Julius Cæsar. Savage Islanders
Pompey the Great; and Suffolk dies by Pyrats.
[Exit Walter with Suffolk.

Lieu. And as for these whose ransome we have set,
It is our pleasure one of them depart:
Therefore come you with us, and let him go.
[Exit Lieutenant and the rest.

Manet the first Gent. Enter Walter with the Body.

Wal. There let his Head, and liveless Body lie.
Until the Queen his Mistress bury it. [Exit Walter.

1 Gent. O barbarous and bloody spectacle!
His Body will I bear unto the King:
If he revenge it not, yet will his Friends,
So will the Queen, that living held him dear. [Exit.

Enter Bevis, and John Holland.

Bevis. Come and get thee a Sword, though made of a Lath, they have been up these two days.

Holl. They have the more need to sleep now then.

Bevis. I tell thee, Jack Cade the Clothier means to dress the Common-wealth, and turn it, and set a new Nap upon it.

Holl. So he had need, 'tis thred-bare. Well, I say, it was never a merry World in England, since Gentlemen came up.

Bevis. O miserable Age: Vertue is not regarded in Handy-crafts men.

Holl. The Nobility think scorn to go in Leather Aprons.

Bevis. Nay more, the Kings Councel are no good Workmen.

Holl. True: and yet it is said, Labour in thy Vocation: which is as much as to say, let the Magistrates be labouring men, and therefore should we be Magistrates.

Bevis. Thou hast hit it: for there's no better sign of a brave Mind, than a hard Hand.

Holl. I see them, I see them: There's Best's Son, the Tanner of Wingham.

Bevis. He shall have the Skins of our Enemies, to make Dogs Leather of.

Holl. And Dick the Butcher.

Bevis. Then is Sin struck down like an Ox, and Iniquities Throat cut like a Calf.

Holl. And Smith the Weaver.

Bevis. Argo, their thred of Life is spun.

Holl. Come, come, lets fall in with them.

Drum. Enter Cade, Dick Butcher, Smith the Weaver, and a Sawyer, with infinite numbers.

Cade. We John Cade, so term'd of our supposed Father.

But. Or rather of stealing a Cade of Herrings.

Cade. For our Enemies shall fall before us, inspired with the Spirit of putting down Kings and Princes. Command Silence.

But. Silence.

Cade. My Father was a Mortimer.

But. He was an honest Man, and a good Bricklayer.

Cade. My Mother a Plantagenet.

But. I knew her well, she was a Midwife.

Cade. My Wife descended of the Lacies.

But. She was indeed a Pedlers Daughter, and sold many Laces.

Weaver. But now of late, not able to travel with her furr'd Pack; she washes Bucks here at home.

Cade. Therefore am I of an Honourable house.

But. I by my Faith the Field is Honourable, and there was he born, under a Hedg: for his Father had never a House but a Cage.

Cade. Valiant I am.

Weaver. A must needs, for Beggery is valiant.

Cade. I am able to endure much.

But. No question of that: for I have seen him whipt three Market days together.

Cade. I fear neither Sword nor Fire.

Weav. He need not fear the Sword, for his Coat is of proof.

But. But methinks he should stand in fear of Fire, being burnt i'th the hand for stealing of Sheep.

Cade. Be brave then, for your Captain is brave, and vows Reformation. There shall be in England seven half penny Loaves sold for a penny: the three hoop'd pot shall have ten hoops, and will make it Felony to drink small Beer. All the Realm shall be in Common, and in Cheap-side shall my Palfrey go to Grass: and when I am King, as King I will be.

All. God save your Majesty.

Cade. I thank you good People. There shall be no Money, all shall eat and drink upon my Score, and I will apparel them all in one Livery, that they may agree like Brothers, and worship me their Lord.

But. The first thing we do, lets kill all the Lawyers.

Cade. Nay, that I mean to do. Is not this a lamentable thing, that the Skin of an innocent Lamb should be made Parchment; that Parchment being scribled o're, should undo a Man. Some say the Bee stings, but I say, 'tis Bees wax: for I did but Seal once to a thing, and I was never my own man since. How now? Who's there?

Enter a Clerk.

Weav. The Clerk of Chattam; he can Write and Read, and cast Accompt.

Cade. O monstrous!

Weav. We took him setting Boys Copies.

Cade. Here's a Villain.

Weav. Ha's a Book in his Pocket with red Letters in't.

Cade. Nay then he is a Conjurer.

But. Nay, he can make Obligations, and write Court-hand.

Cade. I am sorry for't: The Man is a proper Man of mine Honour: unless I find him Guilty, he shall not die. Come hither, Sirrah, I must examine thee: What is thy Name?

Clerk. Emanuel.

But. They use to write it on the top of Letters: 'Twill go hard with you.

Cade. Let me alone: Do'st thou use to write thy Name? Or hast thou a mark to thy self, like an honest plain dealing man?

Clerk. Sir, I thank God, I have been so well brought up, that I can write my Name.

All. He hath confest, away with him: he is a Villain and a Traytor.

Cade. Away with him, I say: Hang him with his Pen and Ink-horn about his Neck.
[Exit one with the Clerk.

Enter Michael.

Mich. Where is our General?

Cade. Here I am, thou particular Fellow.

Mich. Fly, fly, fly, Sir Humphrey Stafford and his Brother are hard by, with the Kings Forces.

Cade. Stand Villain, stand or I'le fell thee down: he shall be encountred with a Man as good as himself. He is but a Knight, is a?

Mich. No.

Cade. To equal him I will make my self a Knight presently; Rise up, Sir John Mortimer. Now have at him.

Enter Sir Humphrey Stafford and his Brother, with Drum and Souldiers.

Staf. Rebellous Hinds, the filth and ſcum of Kent,
Mark'd for the Gallows; lay your Weapons down,
Home to your Cottages: forſake this Groom.
The King is merciful if you revolt.
Bro. But angry, wrathful, and inclin'd to Blood,
If you go forward; therefore yield or die.
Cade. As for theſe Silken-coated Slaves I paſs not,
It is to you good People, that I ſpeak,
Over whom (in time to come) I hope to reign:
For I am rightful Heir unto the Crown.
Staf. Villain, thy Father was a Plaiſterer,
And thou thy ſelf a Shearman, art thou not?
Cade. And Adam was a Gardiner.
Bro. And what of that?
Cade. Marry, this Edmond Mortimer Earl of March, married the Duke of Clarence's Daughter, did he not?
Staffford. I Sir.
Cade. By her he had two Children at one birth,
Bro. That's falſe.
Cade. I, there's the Queſtion; but I ſay, 'tis true:
The elder of them being put to Nurſe,
Was by a Beggar-woman ſtoln away,
And ignorant of his Birth and Parentage,
Became a Bricklayer, when he came to age.
His Son am I, deny it if you can.
But. Nay, 'tis too true, therefore he ſhall be King.
Weav. Sir, he made a Chimny in my Fathers Houſe, and the Bricks are alive at this day to teſtify it: therefore deny it not.
Staf. And will you credit this baſe Drudges words, that ſpeaks he knows not what?
All. I marry will we, therefore get you gone.
Bro. Jack Cade, the D. of York hath taught you this.
Cade. He lies, for I invented it my ſelf. Go too, Sirrah, tell the King from me: That for his Fathers ſake Henry the Fifth, (in whoſe time Boys went to Span-counter for French Crowns) I am content he ſhall Reign, but I'le be Protector over him.
But. And further more we'll have the Lord Says Head, for ſelling the Dukedom of Main.
Cade. And good reaſon: for thereby is England maim'd, and fain to go with a Staff, but that my puiſſance holds it up; Fellow-Kings, I tell you, that Lord Say hath gelded the Commonwealth, and made it an Eunuch: and more than that, he can ſpeak French, and therefore he is a Traitor.
Staff. O groſs and miſerable ignorance.
Cade. Nay, anſwer if you can: the Frenchmen are our Enemies: go too then: I ask but this, Can he that ſpeaks with the Tongue of an Enemy, be a good Councellor, or no?
All. No, no, and therefore we'll have his Head.
Bro. Well, ſeeing gentle words will not prevail,
Aſſayl them with the Army of the King.
Staf. Herauld away, and throughout every Town,
Proclaim them Traitors that are up with Cade,
That thoſe which flye before the Battel ends,
May even in their Wives and Childrens ſight,
Be hang'd up for Example at their Doors:
And you that be the Kings Friends follow me. [Exit.
Cade. And you that love the Commons follow me:
Now ſhew your ſelves Men, 'tis for Liberty.
We'll not leave one Lord, one Gentleman:
Spare none, but ſuch as go in clouted Shoons
For they are thrifty honeſt Men, and ſuch
As would (but that they dare not) take our parts.
But. They are all in order, and march towards us.
Cade. But then are we in order, when we are moſt out of order. Come march forward.

Alarum to the fight, wherein both the Staffords are ſlain. Enter Cade and the reſt.

Cade. Where's Dick, the Butcher of Aſhford?
But. Here Sir.
Cade. They fell before thee like Sheep and Oxen, and thou behaved'ſt thy ſelf, as if thou haſt been in thine own Slaughter-houſe: Therefore thus I will reward thee, the Lent ſhall be as long again as it is, and thou ſhalt have a Licenſe to kill for a hundred lacking one.
But. I deſire no more.
Cade. And to ſpeak truth, thou deſerv'ſt no leſs.
This Monument of the Victory will I bear, and the Bodies ſhall be drag'd at my Horſes heels, till I do come to London, where we will have the Mayor's Sword born before us.
But. If we mean to thrive, and do good, break open the Goals, and let out the Priſoners.
Cade. Fear not that, I warrant thee. Come lets march towards London. [Exeunt.

Enter the King with a Supplication, and the Queen with Suffolks Head, the Duke of Buckingham, and the Lord Say.

Queen. Oft have I heard that Grief ſoftens the Mind,
And makes it fearful and degenerate,
Think therefore on revenge, and ceaſe to weep.
But who can ceaſe to weep, and look on this,
Here may his Head lye throbbing on my Breſt:
But where's the Body that I ſhould imbrace?
Buck. What anſwer makes your Grace to the Rebels Supplication?
King. I'le ſend ſome Holy Biſhop to intreat:
For God forbid, ſo many ſimple Souls
Should periſh by the Sword. And I my ſelf,
Rather than bloody War ſhall cut them ſhort,
Will parly with Jack Cade their General.
But ſtay, I'le read it over once again.
Queen. Ah barbarous Villains: Hath this lovely Face,
Rul'd like a wandring Planet over me,
And could it not inforce them to relent,
That were unworthy to behold the ſame?
King. Lord Say, Jack Cade hath ſworn to have thy Head.
Say. I, but I hope your Highneſs ſhall have his.
King. How now Madam?
Still lamenting and mourning for Suffolk's death?
I fear me (Love) if that I had been dead,
Thou would'ſt not half have mourn'd ſo much for me.
Qu. No, my Love, I ſhould not mourn, but dye for thee.

Enter a Meſſenger.

King. How now? What news? Why com'ſt thou in ſuch haſt?
Meſ. The Rebels are in Southwark: Flie my Lord:
Jack Cade proclaims himſelf Lord Mortimer,
Deſcended from the Duke of Clarence's Houſe,
And calls your Grace Uſurper openly,
And vows to Crown himſelf in Weſtminſter.
His Army is a ragged multitude
Of Hinds and Peaſants, rude and mercileſs:
Sir Humphrey Stafford, and his Brothers death,
Hath given them heart and courage to proceed:
All Scholars, Lawyers, Courtiers, Gentlemen,
They call falſe Caterpillars, and intend their death.
King. O graceleſs Men: they know not what they do.
Buck. My gracious Lord, retire to Killingworth,
Until a power be rais'd to put them down.
Queen. Ah! were the Duke of Suffolk now alive,
Theſe Kentiſh Rebels ſhould be ſoon appeas'd.
King. Lord Say, the Traitors hate thee,
Therefore away with us to Killingworth.
Say. So might your Graces perſon be in danger:

The

The ſight of me is odious in their Eyes:
And therefore in this City will I ſtay,
And live alone as ſecret as I may.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſ. Jack Cade hath gotten London-bridge,
The Citizens fly him and forſake their Houſes:
The Raſcal People thirſting after prey
Joyn with the Traitor, and they joyntly ſwear
To ſpoyle the City and your Royal Court.
Buck. Then linger not, my Lord, away, take Horſe.
King. Come, Margaret, God our hope will ſuccour us.
Queen. My hope is gone, now Suffolk is deceas'd.
King. Farewel, my Lord, truſt not to Kentiſh Rebels.
Buck. Truſt no body for fear you be betray'd.
Say. The truſt I have is in mine innocence,
And therefore am I bold and reſolute. [Exeunt.

Enter Lord Scales upon the Tower walking. Then enter two or three Citizens below.

Scales. How now? Is Jack Cade ſlain?
1. Cit. No my Lord, nor like to be ſlain:
For they have won the Bridge,
Killing all thoſe that withſtand them:
The L. Mayor craves aid of your Honour from the Tower
To defend the City from the Rebels.
Scales. Such aid as I can ſpare you ſhall command,
But I am troubled here with them my ſelf.
The Rebels have aſſay'd to win the Tower.
But get you into Smithfield, and gather Head,
And thither will I ſend you Matthew Goff.
Fight for your King, your Countrey, and your Lives,
And ſo farewel, for I muſt hence again. [Exeunt.

Enter Jack Cade and the reſt, and ſtrikes his Staff on London Stone.

Cade. Now is Mortimer Lord of this City,
And here ſitting upon London-ſtone:
I charge and command, that of the Cities coſt
The piſſing Conduit run nothing but Claret Wine
The firſt year of our Reign.
And now henceforward it ſhall be Treaſon for any,
That calls me other than Lord Mortimer.

Enter a Souldier running.

Soul. Jack Cade, Jack Cade.
Cade. Knock him down there. [They kill him.
But. If this fellow be wiſe, he'll never call ye Jack Cade more, I think he hath a very fair warning.
Dick. My Lord, there's an Army gathered together in Smithfield.
Cade. Come, then let's go fight with them:
But firſt, go and ſet London-bridge on Fire,
And if you can, burn down the Tower too.
Come, let's away. [Exeunt omnes.

Alarums. Matthew Goff is ſlain, and all the reſt. Then enter Jack Cade, with his Company.

Cade. So Sirs: now go ſome and pull down the Savoy: Others to the Inns of Court, down with them all.
But. I have a Suit unto your Lordſhip.
Cade. Be it a Lordſhip, thou ſhalt have it for that word.
But. Onely that the Laws of England may come out of your Mouth.
John. Maſs, 'twill be ſore Law then, for he was thruſt in the Mouth with a Spear, and 'tis not whole yet.
Smith. Nay John, it will be ſtinking Law, for his breath ſtinks with toſted Cheeſe.
Cade. I have thought upon it, it ſhall be ſo. Away, burn all the Records of the Realm, my Mouth ſhall be the Parliament of England.
Joh. Then we are like to have biting Statutes, Unleſs his Teeth be pull'd out.
Cade. And hence-forward all things ſhall be in Common.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. My Lord, a prize, a prize, here's the Lord Say, which ſold the Towns in France, He that made us pay one and twenty fifteens and one Shilling to the pound, the laſt Subſidie.

Enter George with the Lord Say.

Cade. Well, he ſhall be beheaded for it ten times. Ah thou Say, thou Surge, nay thou Buckram Lord, now art thou within point-blanck of our Juriſdiction Regal. What canſt thou anſwer to my Majeſty for giving up of Normandy unto Monſieur Baſimecu, the Dolphin of France? Be it known unto thee by theſe preſents, even the preſence of Lord Mortimer, that I am the Beſom that muſt ſweep the Court clean of ſuch filth as thou art: Thou haſt moſt traiterouſly corrupted the youth of the Realm in erecting a Grammar School: and where as before, our Fore-fathers had no other Books but the Score and the Tally, thou haſt cauſed Printing to be us'd, and contrary to the King, his Crown, and Dignity, thou haſt built a Paper-Mill. It will be proved to thy Face, that thou haſt Men about thee, that uſually talk of a Noun and a Verb, and ſuch abominable words, as no Chriſtian ear can endure to hear. Thou haſt appointed Juſtices of Peace, to call poor Men before them, about matters they were not able to anſwer. Moreover thou haſt put them in Priſon, and becauſe they could not read, thou haſt hang'd them, when (indeed) only for that cauſe they have been moſt worthy to live. Thou do'ſt ride on a foot-cloth, do'ſt thou not?
Say. What of that?
Cade. Marry, thou ought'ſt not to let thy Horſe wear a Cloak, when honeſter Men than thou go in their Hoſe and Doublets.
Dick. And work in their ſhirt too, as my ſelf for example, that am a Butcher.
Say. You Men of Kent.
Dick. What ſay you of Kent?
Say. Nothing but this: 'Tis bona terra, mala gens.
Cade. Away with him, away with him, he ſpaks Latin.
Say. Hear me but ſpeak, and bear me where you will:
Kent in the Commentaries Ceſar writ,
Is term'd the civil'ſt place of all this Iſle:
Sweet is the Country, becauſe full of Riches,
The People Liberal, Valiant, Active, Wealthy,
Which makes me hope thou art not void of pity.
I ſold not Main, I loſt not Normandy.
Yet to recover them would loſe my life:
Juſtice with favour have I always done,
Prayers and Tears have mov'd me, Gifts could never;
When have I ought exacted at your Hands?
Kent to maintain, the King, the Realm and you,
Large gifts have I beſtow'd on learn'd Clearks,
Becauſe my Book preferr'd me to the King.
And ſeeing Ignorance is the curſe of God,
Knowledge the Wing wherewith we flye to Heaven,
Unleſs you be poſſeſt with deviliſh Spirits,
Ye cannot but forbear to murther me:
This Tongue hath parlied unto Forraign Kings
For your behoof.
Cade. Tut, when ſtruck'ſt thou one blow in the Field?
Say. Great Men have reaching hands: oft have I ſtruck Thoſe that I never ſaw, and ſtruck them dead.
Geo. O monſtrous Coward! What, to come behind Folks?
Say. Theſe Cheeks are pale with watching for your good.
Cade. Give him a box o'th ear, and that will make 'em red again.
Say. Long ſitting to determine poor Mens Cauſes

Hath

Hath made me full of Sickneſs and Diſeaſes.

Cade. Ye ſhall have a hempen Caudle then, and the help of a Hatchet.

Dic. Why do'ſt thou quiver, man?

Say. The Palſie, and not Fear provokes me.

Cade. Nay, he nodds at us, as who ſhould ſay, I'le be even with you. I'le ſee if his Head will ſtand ſteadier on a Pole, or no: Take him away, and behead him.

Say. Tell me: wherein have I offended moſt?
Have I affected Wealth or Honour? Speak.
Are my Cheſts fill'd up with extorted Gold?
Is my Apparel Sumptuous to behold?
Whom have I injur'd, that ye ſeek my Death?
Theſe hands are free from guiltleſs blood-ſhedding.
This Breaſt from harbouring foul deceitful thoughts.
O let me live.

Cade. I feel remorſe in my ſelf with his words: but I'le bridle it: he ſhall dye, and be it but for pleading ſo well for his Life. Away with him, he ha's a Familiar under his Tongue, he ſpeaks not a Gods Name. Go, take him away I ſay, and ſtrike off his Head preſently, and then break into his Son in Laws Houſe, Sir James Cromer, and ſtrike off his Head, and bring them both upon two Poles hither.

All. It ſhall be done.

Say. Ah Country-men; if when you make your Pray'rs,
God ſhould be ſo obdurate as your ſelves:
How would it fare with your departed Souls?
And therefore yet relent, and ſave my Life.

Cade. Away with him, and do as I command ye: the proudeſt Peer of the Realm ſhall not wear a Head on his Shoulders, unleſs he pay me tribute: there ſhall not a Maid be married, but ſhe ſhall pay me her Maiden-head e're they have it: Men ſhall hold of me in Capite. And we Charge and Command, that their Wives be as free as Heart can wiſh, or Tongue can tell.

Dick. My Lord,
When ſhall we go to Cheapſide, and take up Commodities upon our Bills?

Cade. Marry preſently.

All. O brave.

Enter one with the Heads.

Cade. But is not this brave?
Let them kiſs one another: For they lov'd well
When they were alive. Now part them again,
Leſt they conſult about the giving up
Of ſome more Towns in France. Souldiers,
Defer the ſpoil of the City until Night;
For with theſe borne before us, inſtead of Maces,
We will ride through the Streets, at every Corner
Have them kiſs. Away. [Exit.

Alarum, and Retreat. Enter again Cade, and all his Rabblement.

Cade. Up Fiſh-ſtreet, down Saint Magnes Corner, kill and knock down, throw them into Thames.

Sound a Parley.

What noiſe is this I hear?
Dare any be ſo bold to ſound Retreat or Parley,
When I command them kill?

Enter Buckingham, and old Clifford.

Buck. I here they be that dare and will diſturb thee:
Know, Cade, we come Ambaſſadors from the King
Unto the Commons, whom thou haſt miſled,
And here pronounce free Pardon to them all,
That will forſake thee, and go home in peace.

Clif. What ſay ye, Countrymen, will ye relent
And yield to Mercy, whil'ſt 'tis offered you,
Or let a Rabble lead you to your Deaths.
Who loves the King, and will imbrace his Pardon,
Fling up his Cap, and ſay, God ſave his Majeſty;
Who hateth him, and honours not his Father,
Henry the Fifth, that made all France to quake,
Shake he his Weapon at us, and paſs by.

All. God ſave the King, God ſave the King.

Cade. What Buckingham and Clifford, are ye ſo brave? And you baſe Pezants, do ye believe him, will you needs be hang'd with your Pardons about your Necks? Hath my Sword therefore broke through London gates, that you ſhould leave me at the White-hart in Southwark. I thought ye would never have given out theſe Arms till you had recovered your ancient Freedom: but you are all Recreants and Daſtards, and delight to live in ſlavery to the Nobility. Let them break your backs with burthens, take your Houſes over your Heads, raviſh your Wives and Daughters before your Faces. For me, I will make ſhift for one, and ſo Gods Curſe light upon you all.

All. We'll follow Cade.
We'll follow Cade.

Clif. Is Cade the Son of Henry the Fifth,
That thus you do exclaim you'll go with him.
Will he Conduct you through the heart of France,
And make the meaneſt of you Earls and Dukes?
Alas, he hath no home, no place to fly to:
Nor knows he how to live, but by the Spoyl.
Unleſs by robbing of your Friends, and us.
Wer't not a ſhame, that whil'ſt you live at jar,
The fearful French, whom you late vanquiſhed;
Should make a ſtart o're Seas, and vanquiſh you?
Methinks already in this civil broyl,
I ſee them Lording it in London ſtreets,
Crying Villiago unto all they meet.
Better ten thouſand baſe-born Cades miſcarry,
Than you ſhould ſtoop unto a French-mans Mercy.
To France, to France, and get what you have loſt;
Spare England, for it is your Native Coaſt:
Henry hath Mony, you are ſtrong and manly:
God on our ſide, doubt not of Victory.

All. A Clifford, a Clifford,
We'll follow the King and Clifford.

Cade. Was ever Feather ſo lightly blown to and fro, as this multitude? The name of Henry the Fifth, hales them to an hundred miſchiefs, and makes them leave me deſolate. I ſee them lay their Heads together to ſurprize me. My Sword make way for me, for here is no ſtaying: in deſpight of the Devils and Hell, have through the very midſt of you, and Heavens and honour be witneſs, that no want of Reſolution in me, but only my Followers baſe and ignominious Treaſons make me betake me to my Heels. [Exit.

Buck. What, is he fled? Go ſome and follow him.
And he that brings his Head unto the King,
Shall have a thouſand Crowns for his reward.

[Exeunt ſome of them.

Follow me Souldiers, we'll deviſe a mean,
To reconcile you all unto the King. [Exeunt omnes.

Sound Trumpets. Enter King, Queen, and Somerſet on the Tarras.

King. Was ever King that joy'd an Earthly Throne,
And could command no more Content than I?
No ſooner was I crept out of my Cradle,
But I was made a King at nine months old:
Was never ſubject long to be a King,
As I do long and wiſh to be a Subject.

Enter Buckingham and Clifford.

Buck. Health and glad tydings to your Majeſty.

King. Why Buckingham, is the Traytor Cade ſurpriz'd?
Or is he but retir'd to make him ſtrong.

Enter Multitudes with Halters about their Necks.

Clif. He is fled my Lord, and all his powers do yield,
And

And humbly thus with halters on their necks,
Expect your Highneſs doom of Life or Death.
King. Then Heaven ſet ope thy everlaſting gates,
To entertain my Vows of Thanks and Praiſe.
Souldiers, this day have you redeem'd your lives,
And ſhew'd how well you love your Prince and Country:
Continue ſtill in this ſo good a mind.
And Henry though he be unfortunate,
Aſſure your ſelves will never be unkind:
And ſo with thanks and pardon to you all,
I do diſmiſs you to your ſeveral Countries.
All. God ſave the King, God ſave the King.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Pleaſe it your Grace to be advertiſed,
The Duke of York is newly come from Ireland,
And with a puiſſant and mighty Power
Of Gallow-glaſſes and ſtout Kernes,
Is marching hitherward in proud array
And ſtill proclaimeth as he comes along,
His Armies are only to remove from thee
The Duke of Somerſet, whom he termes a Traitor.
King. Thus ſtands my State, 'twixt Cade and York diſtreſt,
Like to a Ship, that having ſcap'd a Tempeſt,
Is ſtraightway calm'd and boarded with a Pyrate.
But now is Cade driven back, his men diſpers'd,
And now is York in Arms to ſecond him.
I pray thee Buckingham go and meet him,
And ask him what's the Reaſon of theſe Arms:
Tell him, I'le ſend Duke Edmund to the Tower,
And Somerſet, we will commit thee thither,
Untill his Army be diſmiſt from him.
Somer. My Lord,
I'le yield my ſelf to priſon willingly,
Or unto Death, to do my Country good.
King. In any caſe, be not too rough in termes,
For he is fierce and cannot brook hard Language.
Buck. I will, my Lord, and doubt not ſo to deal,
As all things ſhall redound unto your good.
King. Come Wife, let's in, and learn to govern better,
For yet may England curſe my wretched reign. [Exeunt.

Enter Jack Cade.

Cade. Fie on Ambition: fie on my ſelfe, that haue a Sword, and yet am ready to famiſh. Theſe five dayes have I hid me in theſe Woods, and durſt not peep out, for all the Country is laid for me: But now am I hungry, that if I might have a leaſe of my life for a thouſand years, I could ſtay no longer. Wherefore on a Brick wall have I climb'd into this Garden, to ſee if I can eat Graſs, or pick a Sallet another while, which is not amiſs to cool a mans ſtomack this hot weather: and I think this word Sallet, was born to do me good; for many a time but for a Sallet, my Brain-pan had been cleft with a brown Bill; and many a time when I have been dry, and bravely marching, it hath ſerv'd me in ſtead of a quart pot to drink in: and now the word Sallet, muſt ſerve me to feed on.

Enter Iden.

Iden. Lord, who would live turmoyled in the Court,
And may enjoy ſuch quiet walks as theſe,
This ſmall inheritance my Father left me,
Contenteth me, and worth a Monarchy.
I ſeek not to wax great by others warning,
Or gather wealth I care not with what envy:
Sufficeth, that I have maintains my State,
And ſends the Poor well pleaſed from my Gate.
Cade. Here's the Lord of the Soil come to ſeize me for a ſtray, for entring his Fee-ſimple without leave. Ah Villain, thou wilt betray me, and get a 1000 Crowns of the King, by carrying my head to him, but I'le make thee eat Iron like an Oſtridge, and ſwallow my Sword like a great pin, e're thou and I part.
Iden. Why rude Companion, whatſoe're thou be,
I know thee not, why then ſhould I betray thee?
Is't not enough to break into my Garden,
And like a Thief, to come to rob my Grounds:
Climbing my Walls in ſpight of me the Owner,
But thou wilt brave me with theſe ſawcie termes?
Cade. Brave thee? I, by the beſt blood that ever was broach'd, and beard thee too. Look on me well I have eat no meat theſe five dayes, yet come thou and thy five men, and if I do not leave you all as dead as a door nail, I pray God I may never eat graſs more.
Iden. Nay, it ſhall ne're be ſaid, while England ſtands,
That Alexander Iden an Eſquire of Kent,
Took odds to combate a poor famiſh'd man.
Oppoſe thy ſtedfaſt gazing eyes to mine,
See if thou canſt out-face me with thy looks:
Set Limb to Limb, and thou art far the leſſer:
Thy hand is but a finger to my fiſt,
Thy Leg a ſtick compared with this Truncheon,
My Foot ſhall fight with all the ſtrength thou haſt,
And if mine Arm be heaved in the Air,
Thy Grave is digg'd already in the Earth:
As for words, whoſe greatneſs anſwers words,
Let this my Sword report what ſpeech forbears.
Cade. By my valour: the moſt compleat Champion that ever I heard. Steel, if thou turn thine edge, or cut not out the burly bon'd Clown in chines of Beef, e're thou ſleep in thy Sheath, I beſeech Jove on my knees thou may'ſt be turned to Hobnails.

Here they Fight.

O I am ſlain, Famine and no other hath ſlain me, let ten thouſand Devils come againſt me, and give me but the ten meals I have loſt, and I'de defye them all. Wither Garden, and be henceforth a burying place to all that do dwell in this houſe, becauſe the unconquered ſoul of Cade is fled.
Iden. Is't Cade that I have ſlain, that monſtruous Traitor?
Sword, I will hallow thee for this thy deed.
And hang thee o're my Tomb when I am Dead.
Ne're ſhall this Blood be wiped from thy Point,
But thou ſhalt wear it as a Heralds Coat,
To emblaze the Honour thy Maſter got.
Cade. Iden farewell, and be proud of thy victory: Tell Kent from me, ſhe hath loſt her beſt man, and exhort all the World to be Cowards: for I that never feared any am vanquiſhed by Famine, not by Valour. [Dies.
Id. How much thou wrong'ſt me, Heaven be my Judge;
Die damned Wretch, the curſe of her that bare thee:
And as I thruſt thy Body in with my Sword,
So wiſh I, I might thruſt thy Soul to Hell.
Hence will I drag thee headlong by the heels
Unto a Dunghill, which ſhall be thy Grave,
And there cut of thy moſt ungracious Head,
Which I will bear in Triumph to the King,
Leaving thy Trunk for Crows to feed upon. [Exit.

Enter York, and his Army of Iriſh, with Drum and Colours.

York. From Ireland thus comes York to claim his Right,
And pluck the Crown from feeble Henry's head.
Ring Bells aloud, burn Bonfires clear and bright,
To entertain great Englands lawfull King.
Ah Sanctæ Majeſtas: who would not buy thee dear?
Let them obey that knows not how to Rule.
This hand was made to handle nought but Gold.
I cannot give due action to my words,
Except a Sword or Scepter ballance it.
A Scepter ſhall it have, have I a Soul,
On which I'le toſs the Floure-de-Luce of France.

Enter

Enter Buckingham.

Whom have we here? Buckingham to disturb me?
The King hath sent him sure: I must dissemble.
Buck. York, if thou meanest well, I greet the well.
York. Humfrey of Buckingham, I accept thy greeting.
Art thou a Messenger, or come of pleasure?
Buck. A Messenger from Henry, our dread Liege,
To know the reason of these Armes in peace.
Or why, thou being a Subject, as I am,
Against thy Oath, and true Allegiance sworn,
Should raise so great a Power without his leave?
Or dare to bring thy Force so near the Court?
Yor. Scarce can I speak my Choler is so great.
Oh, I could hew up Rocks, and fight with Flint,
I am so angry at these abject terms.
And now like Ajax Telamonius,
On Sheep or Oxen could I spend my fury.
I am far better born than is the King:
More like a King, more Kingly in my Thoughts.
But I must make fair Weather yet a while,
Till Henry be more weak, and I more strong.
O Buckingham, I prithee pardon me,
That I have given no answer all this while;
My mind was troubled with deep Melancholly.
The cause why I have brought this Army hither,
Is to remove proud Somerset from the King,
Seditious to his Grace, and to the State.
Buck. That is too much presumption on thy part,
But if thy Armes be to no other end,
The King hath yielded unto thy demand:
The Duke of Somerset is in the Tower.
York. Upon thine Honour is he Prisoner?
Buc. Upon mine Honour he is Prisoner.
York. Then Buckingham, I do dismiss my Powers.
Souldiers, I thank you all: disperse your selves:
Meet me to morrow in S. Georges field,
You shall have pay, and every thing you wish.
And let my Soveraign, vertuous Henry,
Command my eldest, nay all my Sons,
As pledges of my Fealty and Love,
I'le send them all as willing as I live:
Lands, Goods, Horse, Armour, any thing I have
Is his to use, so Somerset may dye.
Buck. York, I commend this kind submission,
We twain will go into his Highness Tent.

Enter King and Attendants.

King. Buckingham, doth York intend no harm to us,
That thus he marcheth with thee Arm in Arm?
York. In all submission and humility,
York doth present himself unto your Highness.
King. Then what intend these Forces thou dost bring?
York. To have the Traitor Somerset from hence,
And fight against that monstrous Rebel Cade,
Whom since I heard to be discomfited.

Enter Iden with Cades Head.

Iden. If one so rude, and of so mean condition
May pass into the presence of a King:
Lo, I present your Grace a Traitors Head,
The head of Cade, whom I in Combat slew.
King. The head of Cade? great God! how just art thou?
O let me view his Visage being dead,
That living wrought me such exceeding trouble.
Tell me my Friend, art thou the man that slew him?
Iden. I was, an't like your Majesty.
King. How art thou call'd? And what is thy degree?
Iden. Alexander Iden, that's my name,
A poor Esquire of Kent, that love the King.
Buck. So please you my Lord, 'twere not amiss
He were created Knight for his good service.
King. Iden, kneel down, rise up a Knight:
We give thee for reward a thousand Merks,
And will, that thou henceforth attend on us.
Iden. May Iden live to merit such a Bounty,
And never live but true unto his Liege.

Enter Queen and Somerset.

King. See Buckingham, Somerset comes with th'Queen,
Go bid her hide him quickly from the Duke.
Queen. For thousand Yorks he shall not hide his Head,
But boldly stand and front him to his Face.
York. How now? Is Somerset at liberty?
Then York unloose thy long imprisoned thoughts,
And let thy Toung be equal with thy Heart.
Shall I endure the sight of Somerset?
False King, why hast thou broken faith with me,
Knowing how hardly I can brook abuse?
King did I call thee? no, thou art no King:
Not fit to Govern, and rule multitudes,
Which dar'st not, no nor canst not rule a Traitor.
That Head of thine doth not become a Crown:
Thy hand is made to grasp a Palmers Staff,
And not to grace an awful Princely Scepter.
That Gold must round engirt the Brows of mine,
Whose smile and frown, like Achilles Spear
Is able with the change, to kill and cure.
Here is a Hand to hold a Scepter up,
And with the same to act controlling Laws:
Give place: by Heaven thou shalt Rule no more
O're him, whom Heaven created for thy Ruler.
Som. O Monstrous Traitor! I arrest thee York
Of Capital Treason 'gainst the King and Crown:
Obey audacious Traitor, kneel for Grace.
York. Would'st have me kneel? First let me ask of thee,
If they can brook; I bow a knee to man!
Sirrah, call in my Sons to be my Bail:
I know e're they will let me go to Ward,
They'll pawn their Swords for my enfranchisement.
Queen. Call hither Clifford, bid him come amain,
To say, if that the Bastard Boys of York
Shall be the Surety for their Traitor Father.
York. O bloud-bespotted Neapolitan,
Out-cast of Naples, England's bloody Scourge:
The Sons of York, thy Betters in their Birth,
Shall be their Fathers Bail, and bane to those
That for my Surety will refuse the Boys.

Enter Edward and Richard.

See where they come, I'le warrant they'll make it good.

Enter Clifford.

Queen. And here comes Clifford to deny their Bail.
Cliff. Health and all happiness to the Lord the King.
York, I thank thee Clifford. Say, what news with thee?
Nay, do not fright me with an angry look:
We are thy Soveraign, Clifford, kneel again;
For thy mistaking so, We pardon thee.
Cliff. This is my King, York, I do not mistake,
But thou mistak'st me much to think I do,
To Bedlam with him, is the man grown mad?
King. I Clifford, a Bedlam and ambitious humour
Makes him oppose himself against his King.
Cliff. He is a Traitor, let him to the Tower,
And crop away that factious Pate of his.
Queen. He is arrested, but will not obey:
His Son (he sayes) shall give their words for him.
York. Will you not, Sons?
Edm. I, Noble Father, if our words will serve.
Rich. And if words will not, then our Weapons shall.
Cliff. Why, what a brood of Traitors have we here?
York. Look in a Glass, and call thy Image so.
I am the King, and thou a false-heart Traitor:
Call hither to the Stake my two brave Bears,
That with the very shaking of their Chains,
They may astonish these fell-lurking Curs:
Bid Salisbury and Warwick come to me.

Enter

Enter the Earls of Warwick and Salisbury.

Clif. Are theſe thy Bears? We'll bait thy Bears to death,
And manacle the Bearard in their Chains,
If thou dar'ſt bring them to the baiting place.
Rich. Oft have I ſeen a hot o're-weening Cur
Run back and bite, becauſe he was with-held,
Who being ſuffer'd with the Bears fell paw,
Hath clapt his tail betwixt his legs and cry'd,
And ſuch a piece of ſervice will you do,
If you ſuppoſe your ſelves to match Lord Warwick.
Clif. Hence heap of Wrath, foul indigeſted Lump,
As crooked in thy Manners, as thy Shape.
York. Nay, we ſhall heat you thoroughly anon.
Clif. Take heed leſt by your heat you burn your ſelves.
King. Why Warwick hath thy Knee forgot to bow?
Old Salisbury, ſhame to thy ſilver Hair,
Thou mad miſleader of thy Brain-ſick Son,
What wilt thou on thy Death-bed play the Ruffian?
And ſeek for Sorrow with thy Spectacles?
Oh where is Faith? Oh where is Loyalty?
If it be baniſh'd from the Froſty head,
Where ſhall it find a harbour in the Earth?
Wilt thou go dig a Grave to find out War,
And ſhame thine Honourable Age with Blood?
Why art thou old, and want'ſt experience?
Or wherefore do'ſt abuſe it, if thou haſt it?
For ſhame in duty bend thy Knee to me
That bows unto the Grave with Milky Age.
Sal. My Lord, I have conſidered with my ſelf
The Title of this moſt renowned Duke,
And in my Conſcience, do repute his Grace,
The Rightful Heir to Englands Royal Seat.
King. Haſt thou not ſworn Allegiance unto me?
Sal. I have.
Kin. Canſt thou diſpenſe with Heaven for ſuch an Oath?
Sal. It is a great ſin to ſwear unto a ſin:
But greater ſin to keep a ſinful Oath:
Who can be bound by any ſolemn Vow
To do a murd'rous deed, to Rob a man,
To force a ſpotleſs Virgins Chaſtity,
To reave the Orphan of his Patrimony,
To wring the Widow from her cuſtom'd right,
And have no other reaſon for his wrong,
But that he was bound by a ſolemn Oath?
Qu. A ſubtle Traytor needs no Sophiſter.
King. Call Buckingham, and bid him arm himſelf.
York. Call Buckingham, and all the Friends thou haſt,
I am reſolv'd for Death and Dignity.
Old Clif. The firſt I warrant thee, if Dreams prove true.
War. You were beſt to go to Bed, and dream again,
To keep thee from the Tempeſt of the Field.
Old Cliff. I am reſolv'd to bear a greater ſtorm,
Than any thou canſt Conjure up to day:
And that I'le write upon thy Burgonet,
Might I but know thee by thy Houſes Badge.
War. Now by my Fathers Badg, old Nevils Creſt,
The rampant Bear chain'd to the ragged Staff,
This day I'le wear aloft my Burgonet,
As on a Mountain top, the Cedar ſhews,
That keeps his Leaves in ſpight of any ſtorm,
Even ſo affright thee with the view thereof.
Old Clif. And from thy Burgonet, I'le rend thy Bear,
And tread it under foot with all contempt,
Deſpight the Bearard, that protects the Bear.
Yo. Clif. And ſo to Arms victorious noble Father,
To quell the Rebels, and their Complices.
Rich. Fie, Charity for ſhame, ſpeak not in ſpight,
For you ſhall ſup with Jeſu Chriſt to night.
Yo. Clif. Foul Stigmatick, that's more than thou canſt tell.
Rich. If not in Heaven, you'l ſurely ſup in Hell. [Exeunt.

Enter Warwick.

War. Clifford of Cumberland, 'tis Warwick calls:
And if thou doſt not hide thee from the Bear,
Now when the angry Trumpet ſounds Alarum,
And dead Mens cries do fill the empty Air,
Clifford, I ſay, come forth and fight with me,
Proud Northern Lord, Clifford of Cumberland,
Warwick is hoarſe with calling thee to Arms.

Enter York.

War. How now my Noble Lord? What all a-foot?
York. The deadly handed Clifford ſlew my Steed:
But match to match I have encountred him,
And made a prey for Carrion, Kytes and Crows,
Even of the bonny Beaſt he lov'd ſo well.

Enter Clifford.

War. Of one or both of us the time is come.
York. Hold Warwick: ſeek thee out ſome other Chaſe,
For I my ſelf muſt hunt this Deer to death.
War. Then nobly York, 'tis for a Crown thou fight'ſt:
As I intend, Clifford, to thrive to day,
It grieves my Soul to leave thee unaſſail'd. [Exit. War.
Clif. What ſeeſt thou in me, York?
Why doſt thou pauſe?
York. With thy brave bearing ſhould I be in love,
But that thou art ſo faſt mine Enemy.
Clif. Nor ſhould thy Proweſs want praiſe and eſteem.
But that 'tis ſhewn ignobly, and in Treaſon.
York. So let it help me againſt thy Sword,
As I in Juſtice, and true Right expreſs it.
Clif. My Soul and Body on the Action both.
York. A dreadful day, addreſs thee inſtantly.
Clif. La fin Corronne les oevres. [Dies.
York. Thus War hath given thee Peace, for thou art ſtill, Peace with his Soul, Heaven if it be thy will.

Enter young Clifford.

Clif. Shame and Confuſion all is on the rout,
Fear frames diſorder, and diſorder wounds
Where it ſhould guard. O War thou Son of Hell,
Whom angry Heavens do make their Miniſter,
Throw in the frozen boſoms of our Part,
Hot Coals of Vengeance. Let no Souldiers flye.
He that is truly dedicate to War
Hath no Self-love: nor he that loves himſelf,
Hath not eſſentially, but by circumſtance
The name of Valour. O let the vile World end,
And the premiſed Flames of the laſt day,
Knit Earth and Heaven together.
Now let the general Trumpet blow his blaſt,
Particularities, and petty ſounds
To ceaſe. Was't thou ordained (O dear Father)
To loſe thy Youth in Peace, and to atchieve
The Silver Livery of adviſed Age,
And in thy Reverence, and thy Chair-days, thus
To die in Ruffian Battel? Even at this ſight,
My heart is turn'd to ſtone: and while 'tis mine,
It ſhall be ſtony. York, not our old men ſpares:
No more will I their Babes, Tears Virginal,
Shall be to me, even as the Dew to Fire,
And Beauty, that the Tyrant oft reclaims,
Shall to my flaming Wrath, be Oyl and Flax:
Henceforth, I will not have to do with pity,
Meet I an Infant of the Houſe of York,
Into as many gobbits will I cut it,
As wild Medea, young Abſirtis did.
In cruelty, will I ſeek out my Fame.
Come thou new ruin of old Cliffords houſe:
As did Æneas old Anchiſes bear,
So bear I thee upon my manly ſhoulders:
But then, Æneas bare a living load;
Nothing ſo heavy as theſe woes of mine.

Enter Richard, and Somerſet to fight.

Rich. So lie thou there:
For underneath an Ale-houſe paltry ſigne,
The Caſtle in St. Albans, Somerſet

Hath

Hath made the Wizard famous in his Death:
Sword, hold thy temper; Heart, be wrathful ſtill:
Prieſts pray for Enemies, but Princes kill.
Fight. Excurſions.

Enter King, Queen, and others.

Qu. Away my Lord, you are ſlow, for ſhame away.
King. Can we out-run the Heavens? Good Margaret ſtay.
Qu. What are you made of? You'l not fight nor flye:
Now is it Manhood, Wiſdom, and Defence,
To give the Enemy way, and to ſecure us
But what we can, which can no more but flye.
[Alarum afar off.
If you be tane, we then ſhould ſee the bottom
Of all our Fortunes: but if we haply ſcape,
(As well we may, if not through your neglect)
We ſhall to London get, where you are lov'd,
And where this breach now in our Fortunes made
May readily be ſtopt.

Enter Clifford.

Clif. But that my Hearts on future miſchief ſet,
I would ſpeak Blaſphemy e're bid you flye:
But flye you muſt: Uncureable diſcomfite
Reigns in the hearts of all our preſent parts.
Away for your relief, and we will live
To ſee their Day, and then our Fortune give.
Away my Lord, away. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Retreat. Enter York, Richard, Warwick, and Souldiers, with Drum and Colours.

York. Of Salisbury, who can report of him,
That Winter Lyon, who in Rage forgets
Aged Contuſions, and all bruſh off time:
And like a Gallant in the brow of Youth,
Repairs him with occaſion. This happy day
Is not it ſelf, nor have we won one Foot,
If Salisbury be loſt.
Rich. My Noble Father:
Three times to day I hope him to his Horſe,
Three times beſtri'd him: Thrice I led him off,
Perſwaded him from any further Act:
But ſtill where danger was, ſtill there I met him,
And like rich Hangings in an homely Houſe,
So was his VVill in his Old feeble Body.
But Noble as he is, look where he comes.

Enter Salisbury.

Sal. Now, by my Sword, well haſt thou fought to day:
By th' Maſs ſo did we all. I thank you Richard.
God knows how long it is I have to live:
And it hath pleas'd him that three times to day
You have defended me from Eminent Death.
VVell Lords, we have not got that which we have,
'Tis not enough our Foes are this time fled,
Being oppoſites of ſuch repairing Nature.
York. I know our ſafety is to follow them,
For (as I hear) the King is fled to London,
To call a preſent Court of Parliament.
Let us purſue him e're the VVrits go forth.
What ſays Lord Warwick, ſhall we after them?
War. After them! nay, before them, if we can:
Now by my hand (Lords) 'twas a glorious day.
Saint Albans battel won by famous York,
Shall we be eterniz'd in all Age to come.
Sound Drum and Trumpets, and to London all,
And more ſuch days as theſe to us befall. [Exeunt.

THE

The third Part of KING HENRY VI, With the Death of the DUKE of YORK.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Alarum. Enter Plantagenet, Edward, Norfolk, Mountague, Warwick, and Souldiers.

Warwick.
I Wonder how the King escap'd our Hands?
Pl. While we pursu'd the Horsemen of the North,
He slily stole away, and left his Men:
Whereat the great Lord of Northumberland,
Whose Warlike Ears could never brook retreat,
Chear'd up the drooping Army, and himself.
Lord Clifford and Lord Stafford all a-breast
Charg'd our main Battels Front: and breaking in,
Were by the Swords of Common Souldiers slain.
Edw. Lord Staffords Father, Duke of Buckingham,
Is either slain or wounded dangerous.
I cleft his Beaver with a down-right blow:
That this is true (Father) behold his Blood.
Mount. And Brother, here's the Earl of Wiltshires Blood,
Whom I encountred as the Battels joyn'd.
Rich. Speak thou for me, and tell them what I did.
Plan. Richard hath best deserv'd of all my Sons:
But is your Grace dead, my Lord of Somerset?
Nor. Such hope have all the Line of John of Gaunt.
Rich. Thus do I hope to shake King Henry's Head.
War. And so do I, victorious Prince of York.
Before I see thee seated in the Throne,
Which now the House of Lancaster usurps,
I vow by Heaven, these Eyes shall never close.
This is the Palace of the fearful King,
And this the Regal Seat: possess it York,
For this is thine, and not King Henry's Heirs.
Plan. Assist me then, sweet Warwick, and I will,
For hither we have broken in by force.
Norf. We'll all assist you: he that flies shall dye.
Plant. Thanks gentle Norfolk, stay by me my Lords,
And Souldiers stay and lodge by me this Night.
[They go up.
War. And when the King comes, offer him no violence,
Unless he seek to thrust you out perforce.
Plant. The Queen this day here holds her Parliament,
But little thinks we shall be of her Counsel,
By Words or Blows here let us win our right.
Rich. Arm'd as we are, let's stay within this House.
War. The bloody Parliament shall this be called,
Unless Plantagenet, Duke of York, be King,
And bashful Henry depos'd, whose Cowardize
Hath made us by-words to our Enemies.
Plant. Then leave me not, my Lords be resolute,
I mean to take possession of my Right.
War. Neither the King, nor he that loves him best,
The proudest he that holds up Lancaster,
Dares stir a Wing, if Warwick shake his Bells.
I'le plant Plantagenet, root him up who dares:
Resolve thee Richard, claim the English Crown.

Enter King Henry, Clifford, Northumberland, Westmerland, Exeter, and the rest.

Hen. My Lords, look where the sturdy Rebel sits,
Even in the Chair of State: belike he means,
Back'd by the Power of Warwick, that false Peer,
To aspire unto the Crown, and Reign as King.
Earl of Northumberland, he slew thy Father,
And thine, Lord Clifford, and you have both vow'd revenge
On him, his Sons, his Favourites, and his Friends.
North. If I be not, Heavens be reveng'd on me.
Clifford. The hope thereof makes Clifford mourn in Steel.
West. What, shall we suffer this? Let's pluck him down,
My Heart for anger burns, I cannot brook it.
Henry. Be patient, gentle Earl of Westmerland.
Clifford. Patience is for Poltroons, and such is he:
He durst not sit there had your Father liv'd.
My Gracious Lord, here in the Parliament
Let us assayl the Family of York.
North. Well hast thou spoken, Cousin be it so.
Henry. Ah, know you not the City favours them,
And they have Troops of Souldiers at their beck?
Westm. But when the Duke is slain, they'll quickly flye.
Henry. Far be the thought of this from Henry's Heart.
To make a Shambles of the Parliament House.
Cousin of Exeter, Frowns, Words, and Threats,
Shall be the War that Henry means to use:
Thou Factious Duke of York, descend my Throne,
And kneel for Grace and Mercy at my Feet,
I am thy Soveraign.
York. I am thine.
Exet. For shame come down, he made thee Duke of York.
York. It was my Inheritance, as the Earldom was.
Exet. Thy Father was a Traytor to the Crown.
Warw. Exeter thou art a Traytor to the Crown,
In following this usurping Henry.
Cliff. Whom should he follow, but his natural King?
War. True, Clifford, and that's Richard Duke of York.
Henry. And shall I stand, and thou sit in my Throne?
York. It must and shall be so, content thy self.
War. Be Duke of Lancaster, let him be King.

Westm. He is both King and Duke of Lancaster,
And that the Lord of Westmerland shall maintain.
War. And Warwick shall disprove it. You forget,
That we are those which chas'd you from the Field,
And slew your Fathers, and with Colours spread
March'd through the City to the Palace Gates.
North. Yes, Warwick, I remember it to my grief.
And by his Soul, thou and thy House shall rue it.
West. Plantaganet, of thee and these thy Sons,
Thy Kinsmen, and thy Friends, I'le have more lives
Than drops of blood were in my Fathers Veins.
Cliff. Urge it no more, least that instead of words
I send thee, Warwick, such a Messenger,
As shall revenge his death, before I stir.
War. Poor Clifford, how I scorn his worthless Threats.
Plant. Will you, we shew our Title to the Crown?
If not, our Swords shall plead it in the Field.
Hen. What Title hast thou, Traitor, to the Crown?
My Father was, as thou art, Duke of York,
Thy Grandfather Roger Mortimer, Earl of March.
I am the Son of Henry the Fifth,
VVho made the Dolphin and the French to stoop,
And seiz'd upon their Towns and Provinces.
War. Talk not of France, sith thou hast lost it all.
Henry. The Lord Protector lost it, and not I;
VVhen I was Crown'd I was but nine months old.
Rich. You are old enough now,
And yet methinks you lose:
Father, tear the Crown from the Usurpers Head.
Edw. Sweet Father do so, set it on your Head.
Mount. Good Brother,
As thou lov'st and honorest Arms,
Let's fight it out, and not stand cavelling thus.
Rich. Sound Drums and Trumpets, and the King will flye.
Plant. Sons, peace.
Hen. Peace thou, and give King Henry leave to speak.
War. Plantagenet shall speak first: Hear him Lords,
And be you silent and attentive too,
For he that interrupts him, shall not live.
Hen. Think'st thou that I will leave my Kingly Throne,
VVherein my Grandsire and my Father sat?
No: first shall VVar unpeople this my Realm;
I, and their Colours often born in France,
And now in England, to our hearts great sorrow,
Shall be my VVinding-sheet, why faint you Lords?
My Title's good, and better far than his.
War. But prove it, Henry, and thou shalt be King.
Hen. Henry the Fourth by Conquest got the Crown.
Plant. 'Twas by Rebellion against his King.
Hen. I know not what to say, my Title's weak:
Tell me, may not a King adopt an Heir?
Plant. VVhat then?
Hen. If he may, then am I lawful King:
For Richard, in the view of many Lords,
Resign'd the Crown to Henry the Fourth,
VVhose Heir my Father was, and I am his.
Plant. He rose against him, being his Soveraign,
And made him to resign his Crown perforce.
War. Suppose, my Lords, he did it unconstrain'd,
Think you 'twere prejudicial to his Crown?
Exet. No: for he could not so resign his Crown,
But that the next Heir should succeed and reign.
Hen. Art thou against us, Duke of Exeter?
Exet. His is the right, and therefore pardon me.
Plant. VVhy whisper you, my Lords, and answer not?
Exet. My Conscience tells me, he is lawful King.
Hen. All will revolt from me, and turn to him.
North. Plantagenet, for all the claim thou lay'st,
Think not, that Henry shall be depos'd.
War. Depos'd he shall be in despight of all.
Northumb. Thou art deceiv'd:
'Tis not thy Southern power
Of Essex, Norfolk, Suffolk, nor of Kent,
Which makes thee thus presumptuous and proud,
Can set the Duke up in despight of me.
Cliff. King Henry, be thy Title right or wrong,
Lord Clifford vows to fight in thy defence:
May that ground gape, and swallow me alive;
Where I shall kneel to him that slew my Father.
Hen. Oh Clifford, how thy words revive my Heart.
Plant. Henry of Lancaster, resign thy Crown:
What mutter you, or what conspire you, Lords?
War. Do right unto this Princely Duke of York,
Or I will fill the House with armed men,
And o're the Chair of State where now he sits,
Write up his Title with usurping Blood.
He stamps with his foot, and the Souldiers shew themselves.
Hen. My Lord of Warwick, hear me but one word;
Let me for this time reign as King.
Plant. Confirm the Crown to me, and to mine Heirs,
And thou shalt Reign in quiet while thou liv'st.
Hen. I am content: Richard Plantagenet
Enjoy the Kingdom after my decease.
Cliff. What wrong is this unto the Prince, your Son?
War. What good is this to England, and himself?
West. Base, fearful, and despairing Henry.
Cliff. How hast thou injur'd both thy self and us?
West. I cannot stay to hear these Articles.
Northumb. Nor I.
Cliff. Come Cousin, let us tell the Queen these News.
West. Farewel faint-hearted and degenerate King,
In whose cold blood no spark of honour bides.
North. Be thou a prey unto the House of York,
And die in Bands, for this unmanly deed.
Cliff. In dreadful War, may'st thou be overcome,
Or live in peace abandon'd and despis'd.
War. Turn this way, Henry, and regard them not.
Exeter. They seek revenge, and therefore will not yield.
Hen. Ah Exeter.
War. Why should you sigh, my Lord?
Hen. Not for my self, Lord Warwick, but my Son,
Whom I unnaturally shall disinherit,
But be it as it may: I here entayl
The Crown to thee, and to thine Heirs for ever,
Conditionally, that here you take an Oath,
To cease this Civil-war: and whil'st I live,
To honour me as thy King and Soveraign:
Neither by Treason nor Hostility,
To seek to put me down, and Reign thy self.
Plant. This Oath I willingly take, and will perform.
War. Long live King Henry: Plantagenet embrace him.
Hen. And long live thou, and these thy forward Sons.
Plant. Now York and Lancaster are reconcil'd.
Exet. Accurst be he that seeks to make them foes.
Sonet. Here they come down.
Plant. Farewel, my gracious Lord, I'le to my Castle.
War. And I'le keep London with my Souldiers.
Norf. And I to Norfolk with my followers.
Mount. And I unto the Sea from whence I came.
Hen. And I with grief and sorrow to the Court.
Enter the Queen.
Exet. Here comes the Queen,
VVhose looks bewray, her anger
I'le steal away.
Henry. Exeter, so will I.
Queen. Nay, go not from me, I will follow thee.
Hen. Be patient, gentle Queen, and I will stay.
Queen. VVho can be patient in such extreams?
A wretched Man, would I had dy'd a Maid,
And never seen thee, never born thee Son,
Seeing thou hast prov'd so unnatural a Father.
Hath he deserv'd to lose his Birth-right thus?
Hadst thou but lov'd him half so much as I,
Or felt that pain which I did for him once,
Or nourisht him, as I did with my blood;
Thou would'st have left thy dearest Heart-blood there,

Rather

Rather than made that ſavage Duke thine Heir,
And diſ-inherited thine only Son.
Prin. Father, you cannot diſ-inherit me:
If you be King, why ſhould not I ſucceed?
Hen. Pardon me, Margaret, pardon me, ſweet Son,
The Earl of Warwick and the Duke enforc'd me.
Queen. Enforc'd thee? art thou King, and wilt be forc'd?
I ſhame to hear thee ſpeak: ah timorous Wretch,
Thou haſt undone thy ſelf, thy Son, and me,
And given unto the Houſe of York ſuch head,
As thou ſhalt Reign but by their ſufferance.
To entail him and his Heirs unto the Crown,
What is it, but to make thy Sepulchre,
And creep into it far before thy time?
Warwick is Chancellor, and the Lord of Calice,
Stern Falconbridge commands the Narrow Seas,
The Duke is made Protector of the Realm,
And yet ſhalt thou be ſafe? ſuch ſafety finds
The trembling Lamb, invironed with Wolves.
Had I been there, which am a ſilly Woman,
The Souldiers ſhould have toſs'd me on their Pikes,
Before I would have granted to that Act.
But thou preferr'ſt thy life before thine honour.
And ſeeing thou do'ſt, I here divorce my ſelf,
Both from thy Table, Henry, and thy Bed,
Until that Act of Parliament be repealed,
Whereby my Son is diſ-inherited.
The Northern Lords, that have forſworn thy Colours,
Will follow mine, if once they ſee them ſpread:
And ſpread they ſhall be, to thy foul diſgrace,
And utter ruine of the Houſe of York.
Thus do I leave thee: Come Son, let's away,
Our Army is ready, come, we'll after them.
Henry. Stay, gentle Margaret, and hear me ſpeak.
Queen. Thou haſt ſpoke too much already: get thee gone.
Hen. Gentle Son Edward, thou wilt ſtay with me?
Queen. I, to be murther'd by his Enemies.
Prin. When I return with victory from the Field,
I'le ſee your Grace: till then I'le follow her.
Queen. Come, Son, away, we may not linger thus.
Hen. Poor Queen,
How love to me, and to her Son,
Hath made her break out into terms of Rage.
Reveng'd may ſhe be on that hateful Duke,
Whoſe haughty Spirit, winged with deſire,
Will coſt my Crown, and like an empty Eagle,
Tyre on the Fleſh of me, and of my Son.
The loſs of thoſe three Lords torments my Heart:
I'le write unto them, and entreat them fair;
Come, Couſin, you ſhall be the Meſſenger.
Exet. And I hope ſhall reconcile them all. [Exit.

Enter Richard, Edward, and Mountague.

Rich. Brother, though I be youngeſt, give me leave.
Edw. No, I can better play the Orator.
Moun. But I have reaſons ſtrong and forcible.

Enter the Duke of York.

Yor. Why, how now Sons and Brothers, at a ſtrife?
What is your Quarrel? how began it firſt?
Edw. No Quarrel, but a ſlight Contention.
Yor. About what?
Rich. About that which concerns your Grace and us,
The Crown of England, Father, which is yours.
Yor. Mine, Boy? not until King Henry be dead.
Rich. Your Right depends not on his life, or Death.
Edw. Now you are Heir, therefore enjoy it now:
By giving the Houſe of Lancaſter leave to breathe,
It will out-run you, Father, in the end.
Yor. I took an Oath, that he ſhould quietly Reign.
Edw. But for a Kingdom any Oath may be broken:
I would break a thouſand Oaths to Reign one year.
Richard. No: God forbid, your Grace ſhould be forſworn.
Yor. I ſhall be, if I claim by open War.
Richard. I'le prove the contrary, if you'l hear me ſpeak.
Yor. Thou canſt not, Son, 'tis impoſſible.
Rich. An Oath is of no moment, being not took
Before a true and lawful Magiſtrate,
That hath authority over him that ſwears.
Henry had none, but did uſurp the place.
Then ſeeing 'twas he that made you to depoſe,
Your Oath, my Lord, is vain and frivolous.
Therefore to Arms: and, Father, do but think,
How ſweet a thing it is to wear a Crown,
Within whoſe Circuit is Elyſium,
And all that Poets feign of Bliſs and Joy.
Why do we linger thus? I cannot reſt,
Until the White Roſe that I wear, be dy'd
Even in the luke-warm blood of Henry's Heart.
Yor. Richard, enough: I will be King, or die.
Brother, thou ſhalt to London preſently,
And whet on Warwick to this Enterprize.
Thou, Richard, ſhalt be Duke of Norfolk,
And tell him privily of our intent.
You, Edward, ſhall unto my Lord Cobham,
With whom the Kentiſh-men will willingly riſe.
In them I truſt; for they are Souldiers,
Witty, courteous, liberal, full of Spirit.
While you are thus employ'd, what reſteth more,
But that I ſeek occaſion how to riſe?
And yet the King not privy to my drift,
Nor any of the Houſe of Lancaſter.

Enter Gabriel.

But ſtay, what News? why com'ſt thou in ſuch poſt?
Gabriel. The Queen,
With all the Northern Earls and Lords,
Intend here to beſiege you in your Caſtle.
She is hard by, with twenty thouſand Men:
And therefore fortifie your hold, my Lord.
Yor. I, with my Sword.
What? think'ſt thou, that we fear them?
Edward and Richard, you ſhall ſtay with me,
My Brother Montague ſhall poſt to London.
Let noble Warwick, Cobham, and the reſt,
Whom we have left Protectors of the King,
With powerful Policy ſtrengthen themſelves,
And truſt not ſimple Henry, nor his Oaths.
Moun. Brother, I go: I'le win them, fear it not.
And thus moſt humbly I do take my leave.
[Exit Mountague.

Enter Mortimer, and his Brother.

Yor. Sir John, and Sir Hugh Mortimer, mine Uncles,
You are come to Sandal in a happy hour.
The Army of the Queen means to beſiege us.
John. She ſhall not need, we'll meet her in the Field.
Yor. What, with five thouſand Men?
Rich. I, with five hundred, Father, for a need.
A Woman's General: what ſhould we fear?
[A march afar off.
Edw. I hear their Drums:
Let's ſet our Men in order,
And iſſue forth, and bid them Battel ſtreight.
Yor. Five Men to twenty though the odds be great,
I doubt not, Uncle, of our Victory.
Many a Battel have I won in France,
When as the Enemy hath been ten to one:
Why ſhould I not now have the like ſucceſs?
Alarum. [Exit.

Enter Rutland and his Tutor.

Rut. Ah, whither ſhall I flye, to ſcape their hands?
Ah, Tutor, look where bloody Clifford comes.

Enter Clifford.

Clif. Chaplain, away, thy Prieſthood ſaves thy life,
As for the Brat of this accurſed Duke,
Whoſe Father ſlew my Father, he ſhall die.
Tutor. And I, my Lord, will bear him company.
Clif. Souldiers, away with him.
Tutor. Ah Clifford, murther not this innocent Child,
Leſt thou be hated both of God and Man. [Exit.
Clif. How now? is he dead already?
Or is it fear that makes him cloſe his Eyes?
I'le open them.
Rut. So looks the pent-up Lyon o're the wretch,
That trembles under his devouring Paws:
And ſo he walks, inſulting o're his Prey,
And ſo he comes to rend his Limbs aſunder.
Ah, gentle Clifford, kill me with thy Sword,
And not with ſuch a cruel threatning look.
Sweet Clifford, hear me ſpeak, before I die:
I am too mean a ſubject for thy wrath,
Be thou reveng'd on Men, and let me live.
Clif. In vain thou ſpeak'ſt, poor Boy:
My Fathers blood hath ſtop't the paſſage
Where thy words ſhould enter.
Rut. Then let my Fathers blood open it again,
He is a Man, and, Clifford, cope with him.
Clif. Had I thy Brethren here, their lives and thine
Were not revenge ſufficient for me:
No, if I digg'd up thy Fore-fathers Graves,
And hung their rotten Coffins up in Chains,
It could not ſlake mine ire, nor eaſe my heart.
The ſight of any of the Houſe of York,
Is as a fury to torment my Soul:
And till I root out their accurſed Line,
And leave not one alive, I live in Hell.
Therefore——
Rut. Oh let me pray, before I take my death:
To thee, I pray, ſweet Clifford, pity me.
Clif. Such pity as my Rapier's point affords.
Rut. I never did thee harm: why wilt thou ſlay me?
Clif. Thy Father hath.
Rut. But 'twas e're I was born.
Thou haſt one Son, for his ſake pity me,
Leaſt in revenge thereof, ſith God is juſt,
He be as miſerably ſlain as I.
Ah, let me live in Priſon all my days,
And when I give occaſion of offence,
Then let me die, for now thou haſt no cauſe.
Clif. No cauſe? thy Father ſlew my Father: therefore die.
Rut. Dii faciant laudis ſumma ſit iſta tuæ.
Clif. Plantagenet, I come, Plantagenet.
And this thy Sons blood cleaving to my Blade,
Shall ruſt upon my Weapon, till thy blood
Congeal'd with this, do make me wipe off both. [Exit.

Alarum. Enter Richard Duke of York.

Yor. The Army of the Queen hath got the Field:
My Uncles both are ſlain in reſcuing me,
And all my followers to the eager Foe
Turn back, and flye, like Ships before the wind,
Or Lambs purſu'd by hunger-ſtarved Wolves.
My Sons, God knows what hath bechanced them:
But this I know, they have demean'd themſelves
Like Men born to Renown, by Life or Death.
Three times did Richard make a Lane to me,
And thrice cry'd, Courage, Father, fight it out:
And full as oft came Edward to my ſide,
With Purple Faulchion, painted to the Hilt
In blood of thoſe that had encountred him:
And when the hardieſt Warriers did retire,
Richard cry'd, Charge, and give no foot of ground,
And cry'd, a Crown, or elſe a glorious Tomb,
A Scepter or an Earthly Sepulcher.
With this we charg'd again: but out alas,
We bodg'd again: as I have ſeen a Swan
With bootleſs labour ſwim againſt the Tide,
And ſpend her ſtrength with overmatching Waves.
[A ſhort Alarum within.
Ah hark, the fatal followers do purſue,
And I am faint, and cannot flye their fury.
And were I ſtrong, I would not ſhun their fury.
The Sands are numbred, that make up my Life,
Here muſt I ſtay, and here my Life muſt end.

Enter the Queen, Clifford, Northumberland, the young Prince and Souldiers.

Come bloody Clifford, rough Northumberland,
I dare you quenchleſs fury to more rage:
I am your But, and I abide your ſhot.
North. Yield to our mercy, proud Plantagenet.
Clif. I, to ſuch mercy, as his ruthleſs Arm
With down-right payment, ſhew'd unto my Father.
Now Phaeton hath tumbled from his Carre,
And made an Evening at the Noon-tide Prick.
Yor. My Aſhes, as the Phœnix, may bring forth
A Bird, that will revenge upon you all:
And in that hope, I throw mine Eyes to Heaven,
Scorning what e're you can inflict me with.
Why come you not? what? multitudes, and fear?
Clif. So Cowards fight, when they can flye no further,
So Doves do peck the Falcons piercing Talons,
So deſperate Thieves, all hopeleſs of their lives,
Breath out invectives 'gainſt the Officers.
Yor. Oh Clifford, but bethink thee once again,
And in thy thought o're-run my former-time:
And if thou canſt, for bluſhing, view this Face,
And bite thy Tongue, that ſlanders him with Cowardice,
Whoſe frown hath made thee faint and flye e're this.
Clif. I will not bandy with thee word for word,
But buckler with thee blows twice two for one.
Queen. Hold, valiant Clifford, for a thouſand cauſes
I would prolong a while the Traytors Life:
Wrath makes him deaf; ſpeak thou, Northumberland.
North. Hold Clifford, do not honour him ſo much,
To prick thy Finger, though to wound his Heart.
What valour were it, when a Curr doth grin,
For one to thruſt his Hand between his Teeth,
When he might ſpurn him with his foot away?
It is Wars prize to take all vantages,
And ten to one, is no impeach of Valour.
Clif. I, I, ſo ſtrives the Woodcock with the Gynn.
North. So doth the Cony ſtruggle in the Net.
Yor. So triumph Thieves, upon their conquer'd Booty,
So true Men yield, with Robbers ſo o're-matcht.
North. What would your Grace have done unto him now?
Queen. Brave Warriors, Clifford and Northumberland,
Come make him ſtand upon this Mole-hill here,
That caught at Mountains with out-ſtretched Aarms,
Yet parted but the ſhadow with his hand.
What, was it you that would be England's King?
Was't you that revell'd in our Parliament,
And made a Preachment of your high Deſcent?
Where are your meſs of Sons to back you now?
The wanton Edward, and the luſty George?
And where's that valiant Crook-back Prodigy,
Dicky, your Boy, that with his grumbling voyce
Was wont to cheer his Dad in Mutinies?
Or with the reſt, where is your Darling Rutland?
Look York, I ſtain'd this Napkin with the blood
That valiant Clifford, with his Rapiers point,
Made iſſue from the boſom of the Boy,
And if thine Eyes can water for his Death,

I give

I give thee this to dry thy Cheeks withal.
Alas poor York, but that I hate thee deadly,
I ſhould lament thy miſerable ſtate.
I prithee grieve, to make me merry, York.
What hath thy fiery Heart ſo parcht thine entrails,
That not a Tear can fall to Rutland's Death,
Why art thou patient, Man? thou ſhould'ſt be mad:
And I, to make thee mad, do mock thee thus,
Stamp, rave, and fret, that I may ſing and dance.
Thou would'ſt be fee'd, I ſee, to make me ſport:
York cannot ſpeak, unleſs he wear a Crown.
A Crown for York; and, Lords, bow low to him:
Hold you his Hands, whilſt I do ſet it on.
I marry, Sir, now looks he like a King:
I, this is he that took King Henry's Chair,
And this is he was his adopted Heir.
But how is it, that great Plantagenet
Is Crown'd ſo ſoon, and broke your ſolemn Oath?
As I bethink me, you ſhould not be King,
Till our King Henry had ſhook hands with Death.
And will you pale your head in Henry's Glory,
And rob his Temples of the Diadem,
Now in this Life againſt the holy Oath?
Oh 'tis a fault too too unpardonable.
Off with the Crown, and with the Crown, his Head,
And whil'ſt we breath take time to do him dead.
Clif. That is my Office, for my Fathers ſake.
Queen. Nay ſtay, let's here the Orizons he makes.
York. She-Wolf of France,
But worſe than Wolves of France,
Whoſe Tongue more poyſon's than the Adders Tooth:
How ill-beſeeming is it in thy Sex,
To triumph like an Amazonian Trull,
Upon their Woes, whom Fortune Captivates?
But that thy Face is Vizard-like, unchanging,
Made impudent with uſe of evil deeds,
I would aſſay, proud Queen, to make thee bluſh.
To tell thee whence thou cam'ſt, of whom deriv'd,
Were ſhame enough to ſhame thee
Wer't thou not ſhameleſs,
Thy Father bears the type of King of Naples,
Of both the Sicils, and Jeruſalem,
Yet not ſo wealthy as an Engliſh Yeoman.
Hath that poor Monarch taught thee to inſult?
It needs not, nor it boots thee not, proud Queen,
Unleſs the Adage muſt be verify'd,
That Beggars mounted, run their Horſe to death.
'Tis Beauty that doth oft make Women proud,
But God he knows, thy ſhare thereof is ſmall.
'Tis Vertue that doth make them moſt admir'd,
The contrary doth make thee wondred at.
'Tis Government that makes them ſeem Divine,
The want thereof makes thee abominable.
Thou art as oppoſite to every good,
As the Antipodes are unto us,
Or as the South to the Septentrion.
Oh Tigres Heart, wrapt in a Womans Hide,
How could'ſt thou drain the Life-blood of the Child,
To bid the Father wipe his Eyes withal,
And yet be ſeen to bear a Womans Face?
Women are ſoft, mild, pitiful, and flexible;
Thou ſtern, obdurate, flinty, rough, remorſeleſs,
Bidſt thou me rage? why now thou haſt thy wiſh.
Would'ſt have me weep? why now thou haſt thy will.
For raging Wind blows up inceſſant ſhowr's,
And when the rage allays, the Rain begins.
Theſe Tears are my ſweet Rutland's Obſequies,
And every drop cries vengeance to his death.
'Gainſt thee, fell Clifford, and thee, falſe French-woman.
Northumb. Beſhrew me, but his Paſſions move me ſo,
That hardly can I check mine Eyes from Tears.
York. That Face of his,
The hungry Cannibals would not have toucht,
Would not have ſtain'd the Roſes juſt with blood:
But you are more inhumane, more inexorable,
Oh ten times more than Tigers of Hyrcania.
See, ruthleſs Queen, a hapleſs Fathers Tears:
This Cloth thou dip'dſt in blood of my ſweet Boy,
And I with tears do waſh the blood away.
Keep thou the Napkin, and go boaſt of this,
And if thou tell'ſt the heavy ſtory right,
Upon my Soul, the hearers will ſhed Tears:
Yea, even my Foes will ſhed faſt-falling Tears,
And ſay, alas, it was a piteous deed.
There take the Crown, and with the Crown, my Curſe.
And in thy need, ſuch comfort come to thee,
As now I reap at thy too cruel hand.
Hard-hearted Clifford, take me from the World,
My Soul to Heaven, my Blood upon your Heads.
North. Had he been ſlaughter-man to all my Kin,
I ſhould not for my life but weep with him,
To ſee how inly ſorrow gripes his Soul.
Queen. What, weeping ripe, my Lord Northumberland?
Think but upon the wrong he did us all,
And that will quickly dry thy melting Tears.
Clifford. Here's for my Oath, here's for my Fathers Death.
Queen. And here's to right our gentle-hearted King.
Yor. Open thy Gate of Mercy, gracious God.
My Soul flies through theſe wounds, to ſeek out thee.
Queen. Off with his Head, and ſet it on York Gates,
So York may over-look the Town of York. [Exeunt.

A March. Enter Edward, Richard, and their power.

Edw. I wonder how our Princely Father ſcap't:
Or whether he be ſcap'd away, or no,
From Clifford's and from Northumberland's purſuit?
Had he been ta'ne, we would have heard the news:
Had he been ſlain, we ſhould have heard the news:
Or had he ſcap't, methinks we ſhould have heard
The happy tydings of his good eſcape.
How fares my Brother? why is he ſo ſad?
Rich. I cannot joy until I be reſolv'd
Where our right valiant Father is become.
I ſaw him in the Battel range about,
And watcht him how he ſingled Clifford forth,
Me thought he bore him in the thickeſt troop,
As doth a Lyon in a Heard of Neat,
Or as a Bear encompaſs'd round with Dogs:
Who having pincht a few, and made them cry,
The reſt ſtand all aloof, and bark at him.
So far'd our Father with his Enemies,
So fled his Enemies my Warlike Father:
Methinks 'tis prize enough to be his Son.
See how the Morning opes her Golden Gates,
And takes her farewel of the glorious Sun.
How well reſembles it the prime of Youth,
Trimm'd like a Yonker, prancing to his Love?
Ed. Dazle mine Eyes, or do I ſee three Suns?
Rich. Three glorious Suns, each one a perfect Sun,
Not ſeparated with the racking Clouds,
But ſever'd in a pale clear-ſhining Skie.
See, ſee they joyn, embrace, and ſeem to kiſs,
As if they vow'd ſome League inviolable.
Now are they but one Lamp, one Light, one Sun:
In this, the Heaven figures ſome event.
Edw. 'Tis wondrous ſtrange,
The like yet never heard of.
I think it cites us (Brother) to the Field,
That we, the Sons of brave Plantagenet,
Each one already blazing by our meeds,
Should notwithſtanding joyn our Lights together,
And over-ſhine the Earth, as this the World.
What e're it bodes, hence-forward will I bear
Upon my Target three fair ſhining Suns.
Rich. Nay, bear three Daughters:
By your leave, I ſpeak it,

You love the Breeder better than the Male.

Enter one blowing.

But what art thou, whoſe heavy Looks foretel
Some dreadful Story hanging on thy Tongue?
Meſſ. Ah, one that was a woful looker on,
When as the Noble Duke of York was ſlain,
Your Princely Father, and my loving Lord.
Edw. Oh ſpeak no more, for I have heard too much.
Rich. Say how he dy'd, for I will hear it all.
Meſſ. Environed he was with many Foes,
And ſtood againſt them, as the hope of Troy
Againſt the Greeks, that would have entred Troy.
But Hercules himſelf muſt yield to odds:
And many ſtroaks, though with a little Axe,
Hewes down and fells the hardeſt-timber'd Oak.
By many hands your Father was ſubdu'd,
But only ſlaughter'd by the ireful Arm
Of unrelenting Clifford, and the Queen:
Who Crown'd the gracious Duke in high deſpight,
Laugh'd in his face: and when with grief he wept,
The ruthleſs Queen gave him, to dry his Cheek,
A Napkin, ſteep'd in the harmleſs blood
Of ſweet young Rutland, by rough Clifford ſlain:
And after many ſcorns, many foul taunts,
They took his Head, and on the Gates of York
They ſet the ſame, and there it doth remain,
The ſaddeſt ſpectacle that e're I view'd.
Edw. Sweet Duke of York, our prop to lean upon,
Now thou art gone, we have no Staff, no Stay.
Oh Clifford, boyſt'rous Clifford, thou haſt ſlain
The flower of Europe, for his Chevalry,
And treacherouſly haſt thou vanquiſh'd him;
For hand to hand he would have vanquiſh'd thee.
Now my Souls Palace is become a Priſon:
Ah, would ſhe break from hence, that this my body
Might in the Ground be cloſed up in reſt:
For never henceforth ſhall I joy again:
Never, oh never ſhall I ſee more joy.
Rich. I cannot weep, for all my Bodies moiſture
Scarce ſerves to quench my Furnace-burning Heart:
Nor can my Tongue unload my Hearts great burthen,
For ſelf-ſame Wind that I ſhould ſpeak withall,
Is kindling Coals that fires up all my Breaſt,
And burns me up with Flames, that Tears would quench.
To weep, is to make leſs the depth of Grief:
Tears then for Babes; Blows, and revenge for me.
Richard, I bear thy Name, I'le venge thy Death,
Or die renowned by attempting it.
Edw. His Name that valiant Duke hath left with thee:
His Dukedom, and his Chair, with me is left.
Rich. Nay, if thou be that Princely Eagles Bird,
Shew thy deſcent, by gazing 'gainſt the Sun:
For Chair and Dukedom, Throne and Kingdom ſay,
Either that is thine, or elſe thou wert not his.

March. Enter Warwick, Marqueſs Mountacute, and their Army.

War. How now, fair Lords? what fare? what news abroad.
Rich. Great Lord of Warwick, if we ſhould recount
Our baleful news, and at each words deliverance
Stab Poinards in our Fleſh, till all were told,
The words would add more anguiſh than the wounds.
O, valiant Lord, the Duke of York is ſlain.
Edw. O, Warwick, Warwick, that Plantagenet,
Which held thee dearly as his Souls Redemption,
Is by the ſtern Lord Clifford done to Death.
War. Ten days ago I drown'd theſe news in tears,
And now to add more meaſure to your woes,
I come to tell you things ſith then befaln.
After the bloody Fray at Wakefield fought,
Where your brave Father breath'd his lateſt Gaſp,
Tidings as ſwiftly, as the Poſt could run,
Were brought me of your loſs, and his depart.
I then in London, Keeper of the King,
Muſter'd my Souldiers, gathered Flocks of Friends,
March'd toward St. Albans, to intercept the Queen,
Bearing the King in my behalf along:
For by my Scouts, I was advertiſed
That ſhe was coming with a full intent
To daſh our late Decree in Parliament,
Touching King Henry's Oath, and your Succeſſion:
Short Tale to make, we at St. Albans met,
Our Battels joyn'd and both ſides fiercely fought:
But whether 'twas the coldneſs of the King,
Who look'd full gently on his War-like Queen,
That robb'd my Souldiers of their heated Spleen.
Or whether 'twas report of her Succeſs,
Or more than common fear of Cliffords Rigour,
Who thunders to his Captives, Blood and Death,
I cannot judge: but to conclude with truth,
Their Weapons like to Lightning, came and went:
Our Souldiers like the Night-Owls lazy flight,
Or like a lazy Threſher with a Flayle,
Fell gently down, as if they ſtruck their Friends.
I cheer'd them up with Juſtice of our Cauſe.
With promiſe of high Pay, and great Reward:
But all in vain, they had no heart to fight,
And we (in them) no hope to win the Day,
So that we fled: the King unto the Queen,
Lord George, your Brother Norfolk, and my ſelf,
In haſte, poſt-haſte, are come to joyn with you:
For in the Marches here we heard you were,
Making another Head, to fight again.
Ed Where is the Duke of Norfolk, gentle Warwick?
And when came George from Burgundy to England?
War. Some ſix miles off the Duke is with the Souldiers;
And for your Brother he was lately ſent
From your kind Aunt, Dutcheſs of Burgundy,
With aid of Souldiers to this needful War.
Rich. 'Twas odds belike, when valiant Warwick fled;
Oft have I heard his praiſes in purſuit,
But ne're till now, his ſcandal of Retire.
War. Nor now my ſcandal, Richard, doſt thou hear;
For thou ſhalt know this ſtrong right hand of mine,
Can pluck the Diadem from faint Henry's Head,
And wring the awful Scepter from his Fiſt,
Were he as famous, and as bold in War,
As he is fam'd for Mildneſs, Peace, and Prayer.
Rich. I know it well, Lord Warwick, blame me not,
'Tis love I bear thy Glories makes me ſpeak.
But in this troublous time, what's to be done?
Shall we go throw away our Coats of Steel,
And wrap our Bodies in black mourning Gowns,
Numb'ring our Ave-Maries with our Beads!
Or ſhall we on the Helmets of our Foes,
Tell our Devotion with revengeful Arms?
If for the laſt, ſay I, and to it Lords.
War. Why therefore VVarwick came to ſeek you out,
And therefore comes my Brother Mountague:
Attend me Lords, the proud inſulting Queen,
With Clifford, and the haught Northumberland,
And of their Feather many moe proud Birds,
Have wrought the eaſie-melting King, like Wax,
He ſwore conſent to your Succeſſion,
His Oath enrolled in the Parliament,
And now to London all the Crew are gone,
To fruſtrate both his Oath, and what beſide
May make againſt the Houſe of Lancaſter.
Their power (I think) is thirty thouſand ſtrong:
Now, if the help of Norfolk, and my ſelf,
With all the Friends that thou brave Earl of March,
Amongſt the loving Welch-men canſt procure,
Will but amount to five and twenty thouſand,
Why Via, to London will we march,
And once again beſtride our foaming Steeds,

And once again cry, Charge upon our Foes,
But never once again turn back and flye.
Rich. I, now methinks I hear great Warwick speak;
Ne're may he live to see a Sun-shine day,
That cries Retire, if Warwick bid him stay.
Rich. Lord Warwick, on thy Shouldier will I lean,
And when thou fail'st (as God forbid the hour)
Must Edward fall, with peril Heaven forfend.
War. No longer Earl of March, but Duke of York:
The next Degree, is Englands Royal Throne:
For King of England shalt thou be proclaim'd
In every Burrough as we pass along,
And he that throws not up his Cap for joy,
Shall for the fault make forfeit of his Head.
King Edward, valiant Richard Mountague:
Stay we no longer, dreaming of Renown,
But sound the Trumpets, and about our Task.
Rich. Then Clifford, were thy Heart as hard as Steel,
As thou hast shewn it Flinty by thy Deeds,
I come to pierce it, or to give thee mine.
Edw. Then strike up Drums, God and St. George for us.

Enter a Messenger.

War. How now? what news?
Mess. The Duke of Norfolk sends you word by me,
The Queen is coming with a puissant Hoste,
And craves your company, for speedy Counsel.
War. Why then it sorts, brave Warriors lets away.

[Exeunt omnes.

Enter the King, the Queen, Clifford, Northumberland, and young Prince, with Drum and Trumpets.

Qu. Welcome, my Lord to this brave Town of York,
Yonder's the Head of that Arch-enemy,
That sought to be encompast with your Crown.
Doth not the Object cheer your Heart, my Lord?
K. I, as the Rocks cheer them that fear their Wrack,
To see this sight it irks my very Soul:
With-hold Revenge (dear God) 'tis not my fault,
Nor wittingly have I infring'd my Vow.
Clif. My gracious Liege, this too much Lenity
And harmful pity must be laid aside:
To whom do Lyons cast their gentle looks?
Not to the Beast that would usurp their Den.
Whose Hand is that the Forrest Bear doth lick?
Not his that spoyls her young before her Face.
Who scapes the lurking Serpents mortal sting?
Not he that sets his foot upon her back.
The smallest Worm will turn, being troden on,
And Doves will peck in safeguard of their Brood.
Ambitious York did level at thy Crown,
Thou smiling, while he knit his angry Brows.
He but a Duke, would have his Son a King,
And raise his issue like a loving Sire,
Thou being a King, blest with a goodly Son,
Didst yield consent to disinherit him:
Which argued thee a most unloving Father.
Unreasonable Creatures feed their Young,
And though mans Face be fearful to their Eyes,
Yet in protection of their tender ones,
Who hath not seen them even with those wings,
Which sometimes they have us'd with fearful flight,
Make War with him that climb'd unto their Nest.
Offering their own lives in their Youngs Defence?
For shame, my Liege, make them your President:
Were it not pity that this goodly Boy
Should lose his Birth-right by his Fathers Fault,
And long hereafter say unto his Child,
What my great Grandfather, and my Grandsire got,
My careless Father fondly gave away.
Ah, what a shame were this? look on the Boy,
And let his Manly face, which promiseth
Successful Fortune steal thy melting Heart,
To hold thine own, and leave thine own with him.
King. Full well hath Clifford plaid the Orator,
Inferring Arguments of mighty Force:
But, Clifford, tell me, didst thou never hear,
That things ill got, had ever bad Success.
And happy always was it for that Son,
Whose Father for his hoording went to Hell:
I'le leave my Son my vertuous deeds behind,
And would my Father had left me no more:
For all the rest is held at such a Rate,
As brings a thousand fold more care to keep,
Than in possession any jot of pleasure.
Ah Cousin York, would thy best Friends did know,
How it doth grieve me that that thy Head is here.
Qu. My Lord, cheer up your Spirits, our Foes are nigh,
And this soft Courage makes your Followers faint:
You promis'd Knighthood to our forward Son,
Unsheath your Sword, and dub him presently.
Edward, kneel down.
King. Edward Plantagenet, arise a Knight,
And learn this Lesson, draw thy Sword in right.
Prin. My gracious Father, by your Kingly leave,
I'le draw it as apparent to the Crown,
And in that Quarrel use it to the death.
Clif. Why that is spoken like a toward Prince.

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. Royal Commanders, be in readiness,
For with a Band of thirty thousand men,
Comes Warwick backing of the Duke of York,
And in the Towns as they do march along,
Proclaims him King, and many flye to him,
Prepraign your Battel, they are at hand.
Clif. I would your Highness would depart the Field,
The Queen hath best success when you are absent.
Qu. I, good my Lord, and leave us to our Fortune.
King. Why that's my Fortune too, therefore I'le stay.
North. Be it with resolution then to fight.
Prin. My Royal Father, cheer these Noble Lords,
And hearten those that fight in your defence:
Unsheath your Sword, good Father: cry St. George.

March. Enter Edward, Warwick, Richard, Clarence, Norfolk, Mountague, and Souldiers.

Ed. Now perjur'd Henry, wilt thou kneel for Grace?
And set thy Diadem upon my Head?
Or bide the Mortal fortune of the Field.
Qu Go rate thy Minions, proud insulting Boy,
Becomes it thee to be thus bold in terms,
Before thy Soveraign, and thy lawful King?
Ed. I am his King, and he should bow his knee;
I was adopted Heir by his Consent.
Since when, his Oath is broke: for as I hear,
You that are King, though he do wear the Crown,
Have caus'd him by new Act of Parliament,
To blot out me, and put his own Son in.
Clif. And reason too:
Who should succeed the Father, but the Son?
Rich. Are you there, Butcher? O, I cannot speak.
Clif. I, Crook-back, here I stand to answer thee,
Or any he, the proudest of thy sort.
Rich. 'Twas you that kill'd young Rutland, was it not?
Clif. I, and old York, and yet not satisfied.
Rich. For God's sake, Lords, give signal to the Fight.
War. What say'st thou, Henry,
Wilt thou yield the Crown?
Q. Why how now, long-tongu'd Warwick, dare you speak?
When you and I met at St. Albans last,
Your Legs did better service than your hands.
War. Then 'twas my turn to flye, and now 'tis thine.
Clif. You said so much before, and yet you fled.
War. 'Twas not your valour, Clifford, drove me thence.
Nor. No, nor your Manhood that durst make you stay.
Rich. Northumberland, I hold thee reverently,
Break off the Parley, for scarce I can refrain

The

The execution of my big-swoln Heart
Upon that Clifford, that cruel Child-killer.
Clif. I slew thy Father, call'st thou him a Child?
Rich. I, like a Dastard, and a treacherous Coward,
As thou didst kill our tender Brother Rutland,
But ere Sun set, I'le make thee curse the deed.
King. Have you done with words (my Lords) and hear me speak.
Queen. Defie them then, or else hold close thy Lips.
King. I prithee give no limits to my Tongue,
I am a King, and priviledg'd to speak.
Clif. My Liege, the wound that bred this meeting here,
Cannot be cur'd by words, therefore be still.
Rich. Then Execution erunsheath thy Sword:
By him that made us all, I am resolv'd,
That Clifford's Manhood lies upon his Tongue.
Ed. Say, Henry, shall I have my right, or no:
A thousand Men have broke their Fasts to day,
That ne're shall dine, unless thou yield the Crown.
War. If thou deny, their Blood upon thy Head,
For York in justice puts his Armour on.
Pr. Ed. If that be right, which Warwick says is right,
There is no wrong, but every thing is right.
War. Who ever got thee, there thy Mother stands,
For well I wot, thou hast thy Mothers Tongue.
Queen. But thou art neither like thy Sire nor Dam,
But like a foul mishapen Stigmatick,
Mark'd by the Destinies to be avoided,
As venom Toads, or Lizards dreadful stings.
Rich. Iron of Naples, hid with English gilt,
Whose Father bears the Title of a King,
(As if a Channel should be call'd the Sea)
Sham'st thou not, knowing whence thou art extraught,
To let thy Tongue detect thy base-born heart.
Ed. A wisp of Straw were worth a thousand Crowns,
To make this shameless Callet know her self.
Helen of Greece was fairer far than thou,
Although thy Husband may be Menelaus,
And ne're was Agamemnon's Brother wrong'd
By that false Woman, as this King by thee.
His Father revell'd in the Heart of France,
And tam'd the King, and made the Dolphin stoop:
And had he match'd according to his State,
He might have kept that glory to this day.
But when he took a Beggar to his Bed,
And grac'd thy poor Sire with his Bridal day,
Even then that Sun-shine brew'd a shower for him,
That washt his Fathers Fortunes forth of France,
And heap'd Sedition on his Crown at home:
For what hath broach'd this tumult but thy pride?
Hadst thou been meek, our Title still had slept,
And we in pity of the Gentle King,
Had slipt our Claim until another Age.
Cla. But when we saw our Sunshine made thy Spring,
And that thy Summer bred us no encrease,
We set the Ax to thy usurping Root:
And though the edge hath something hit our selves,
Yet know thou, since we have begun to strike,
We'll never leave, till we have hewn thee down,
Or bath'd thee growing with our heated bloods.
Ed. And in this resolution I defie thee,
Not willing any longer Conference,
Since thou deni'dst the gentle King to speak.
Sound Trumpets, let our bloody Colours wave,
And either Victory, or else a Grave.
Queen. Stay, Edward.
Ed. No, wrangling Woman, we'il no longer stay.
These words will cost ten thousand lives this day.
[Exeunt omnes.

Alarum. Excursions. Enter Warwick.

War. Fore-spent with toyl, as Runners with a Race,
I lay me down a little while to breath:
For strokes received, and many blows repaid,
Have robb'd my strong knit Sinews of their strength,
And spight of spight, needs must I rest a while.
Enter Edward running.
Ed. Smile, gentle Heaven, or strike, ungentle death,
For this world frowns, and Edward's Sun is clouded.
War. How now, my Lord, what hap? what hope of good?
Enter Clarence.
Cla. Our hap is loss, our hope but sad depair,
Our ranks are broke, and ruine follows us.
What Counsel give you? whether shall we flye?
Ed. Bootless is flight, they follow us with Wings,
And weak we are, and cannot shun pursuit.
Enter Richard.
Rich. Ah Warwick, why hast thou withdrawn thy self?
Thy Brothers blood the thirsty Earth hath drunk,
Broach'd with the steely point of Clifford's Launce:
And in the very pangs of death he cry'd,
Like to a dismal Clangor heard from far,
Warwick, revenge; Brother, revenge my death.
So underneath the belly of their Steeds,
That stain'd their Fetlocks in his smoaking blood,
The Noble Gentleman gave up the Ghost.
War. Then let the Earth be drunken with our blood:
I'le kill my Horse because I will not flye:
Why stand we like soft-hearted Women here,
Wailing our losses, whiles the Foe doth rage,
And look upon, as if the Tragedy
Were plaid in jest by counterfeiting Actors.
Here on my Knee, I vow to God above,
I'le never pawse again, never stand still,
Till either death hath clos'd these Eyes of mine,
Or Fortune given me measure of revenge.
Ed. O Warwick, I do bend my Knee with thine,
And in this Vow do Chain my Soul to thine.
And e're my Knee rise from the Earths cold Face,
I throw my Hands, mine Eyes, my Heart to thee,
Thou setter up, and plucker down of Kings,
Beseeching thee, (if with thy Will it stands)
That to my Foes this body must be prey,
Yet that thy Brazen Gates of Heaven may ope,
And give sweet passage to my sinful Soul.
Now Lords, take leave until we meet again,
Where e're it be, in Heaven, or in the Earth.
Rich. Brother,
Give me thy Hand, and gentle Warwick,
Let me embrace thee in my weary arms:
I that did never weep, now melt with woe,
That Winter should cut off our Spring-time so.
War. Away, away:
Once more, sweet Lords, farewel.
Cla. Yet let us altogether to our Troops:
And give them leave to flye that will not stay:
And call them Pillars that will stand to us:
And if we thrive, promise them such rewards
As Victors wear at the Olympian Games.
This may plant Courage in their quailing breasts,
For yet is hope of Life and Victory:
Fore-slow no longer, make we hence amain. [Exeunt.

Excursions. Enter Richard and Clifford.

Rich. Now Clifford, I have singled thee alone,
Suppose this arm is for the Duke of York,
And this for Rutland, both bound to revenge,
Wer't thou environ'd with a Brazen Wall.
Clif. Now, Richard, I am with thee here alone,
This is the Hand that stabb'd thy Father York,
And this the Hand that slew thy Brother Rutland,
And here's the Heart, that triumphs in their death,
And cheers these Hands that slew thy Sire and Brother,
To execute the like upon thy self,
And so have at thee.
They fight, Warwick comes, Clifford flies.

Rich.

Rich. Nay Warwick, ſingle out ſome other Chace,
For I my ſelf will hunt this Wolf to Death. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter King Henry alone.

Hen. This Battel fares like to the mornings War,
When dying Clouds contend with growing Light,
What time the Shepherd blowing of his Nails,
Can neither call it perfect Day, nor Night.
Now ſways it this way, like a mighty Sea,
Forc'd by the Tide to combat with the Wind:
Now ſways it that way, like the ſelf-ſame Sea,
Forc'd to retire by fury of the Wind.
Sometime, the Flood prevails; and then the Wind:
Now, one the better, then another beſt;
Both tugging to be Victors, breaſt to breaſt:
Yet neither Conquerour, nor conquered.
So is the equal poize of this fell War.
Here on this Mole-hil will I ſit me down,
To whom God will, there be the Victory:
For Margaret my Queen, and Clifford too
Have chid me from the Battel; ſwearing both,
They proſper beſt of all when I am thence.
Would I were dead, if Gods good will were ſo:
For what is in this World, but grief and woe?
Oh God! methinks it were a happy Life,
To be no better than a homely Swain,
To ſit upon a Hill, as I do now,
To carve our Dials queintly, point by point,
Thereby to ſee the Minutes how they run:
How many makes the Hour full compleat,
How many Hours bring about the Day,
How many days will finiſh up the year,
How many years a Mortal Man may live.
When this is known, then to divide the Times:
So many hours muſt I tend my Flock;
So many hours muſt I take my reſt;
So many hours muſt I contemplate:
So many hours muſt I ſport my ſelf;
So many days my Ewes have been with young:
So many days e're the poor Fools will Ean:
So many years e're I ſhall ſheer the Fleece:
So Minutes, Hours, Days, Months, and Years,
Paſt over to the end they were Created,
Would bring white Hairs unto a quiet Grave.
Ah! what a Life were this? How ſweet, how lovely?
Gives not the Haw-thorn buſh a ſweeter ſhade
To Shepherds, looking on their ſilly Sheep,
Than doth a rich embroider'd Canopy
To Kings, that fear their Subjects treachery?
Oh yes, it doth, a thouſand fold it doth.
And to conclude, the Shepherds homely Curds,
His cold thin drink out of his Leather Bottle,
His wonted ſleep, under a freſh Trees ſhade,
All which ſecure, and ſweetly he enjoys,
Is far beyond a Princes Delicates:
His Viands ſparkling in a Golden Cup,
His body couched in a curious Bed,
When Care, Miſtruſt, and Treaſons waits on him.

Alarum. Enter a Son that had kill'd his Father at one door, and a Father that had kill'd his Son at another door.

Son. Ill blows the wind that profits no body,
This Man whom hand to hand I ſlew in fight,
May be poſſeſſed with ſome ſtore of Crowns,
And I that (haply) take them from him now,
May yet (e're Night) yield both my Life and them
To ſome Man elſe, as this dead Man doth me.
Who's this? Oh God! it is my Fathers Face,
Whom in this Conflict, I (unawares) have kill'd:
Oh heavy times! begetting ſuch events.
From London, by the King was I preſt forth,
My Father being the Earl of Warwick's Man
Came on the part of York; preſt by his Maſter:
And I, who at his hands receiv'd my life,
Have by my hands of life bereaved him.
Pardon me, God, I knew not what I did:
And pardon, Father, for I knew not thee.
My Tears ſhall wipe away theſe bloody marks:
And no more words, till they have flow'd their fill.

King. O piteous ſpectacle! O bloody Times!
Whiles Lyons War, and Battel for their Dens,
Poor harmleſs Lambs abide their Enmity.
Weep, wretched Man, I'le aid thee Tear for Tear,
And let our Hearts and Eyes, like Civil War,
Be blind with Tears, and break o're-charg'd with Grief.

Enter Father, bearing of his Son.

Fa. Thou that ſo ſtoutly haſt reſiſted me,
Give me thy Gold, if thou haſt any Gold:
For I have bought it with an hundred blows.
But let me ſee: is this our Foe-man's Face?
Ah, no, no, no, it is my only Son.
Ah Boy, if any Life be left in thee,
Throw up thine Eye; ſee, ſee, what ſhowers ariſe,
Blown with the windy Tempeſt of my Heart.
Upon thy wounds, that kills mine Eye, and Heart.
O pity God, this miſerable Age!
What ſtratagems? how fell? how butcherly?
Erroneous, Mutinous, and unnatural,
This deadly quarrel daily doth beget?
O Boy! thy Father gave thee Life too ſoon,
And hath bereft thee of thy Life too late.

Ki. Woe above woe: grief, more than common grief;
O that my Death would ſtay theſe rueful deeds:
O pity, pity, gentle Heaven, pity.
The Red Roſe and the White are on his Face,
The fatal Colours of our ſtriving Houſes.
The one is purple Blood right well reſembles,
The other his pale Cheeks (methinks) preſenteth:
Wither one Roſe, and let the other flouriſh:
If you contend, a thouſand Lives muſt wither.

Son. How will my Mother, for a Father's Death,
Take on with me, and ne're be ſatisfi'd?

Fa. How will my Wife, for ſlaughter of my Son,
Shed Seas of Tears, and ne're be ſatisfi'd?

King. How will the Country, for the woful chances,
Mis-think the King, and not be ſatisfied?

Son. Was ever Son ſo rew'd a Fathers Death?

Fath. Was ever Father ſo bemoan'd his Son?

Hen. Was ever King ſo griev'd for Subjects woe?
Much is your Sorrow; mine, ten times ſo much.

Son. I'le bear thee hence, where I may weep my fill.

Fath. Theſe Arms of mine ſhall be thy winding-ſheet,
My heart (ſweet Boy) ſhall be thy Sepulcher,
For from my Heart thine Image ne're ſhall go.
My ſighing Breaſt ſhall be thy Funeral Bell;
And ſo obſequious will thy Father be,
Man, for the loſs of thee, having no more,
As Priam was for all his valiant Sons,
I'le bear thee hence, and let them fight that will,
For I have murthered where I ſhould not kill. [Exit.

Hen. Sad-hearted men, much overgone with Care;
Here ſits a King, more woful than you are.

Alarums. Excurſions. Enter the Queen, the Prince, and Exeter.

Prin. Fly Father, flye: for all your Friends are fled.
And Warwick rages like a chafed Bull:
Away, for Death doth hold us in purſuit.

Qu. Mount you my Lord, towards Barwick poſt amain:
Edward and Richard like a brace of Grey-hounds,
Having the fearful flying Hare in ſight,
With fiery Eyes, ſparkling for very wrath,
And bloody Steel graſpt in their ireful hands,

Are

Are at our backs, and therefore hence amain.
Exet. Away: for vengeance comes along with them.
Nay, ſtay not to expoſtulate, make ſpeed,
Or elſe come after, I'le away before.
Hen. Nay, take me with thee, good ſweet Exeter:
Not that I fear to ſtay, but love to go
Whither the Queen intends. Forward, away. [Exeunt.

A loud Alarum. Enter Clifford wounded.

Clif. Here burns my Candle out; I, here it dies,
VVhich whiles it laſted, gave King Henry light.
O Lancaſter! I fear thy overthrow,
More than my Bodies parting with my Soul:
My Love and Fear glew'd many Friends to thee,
And now I fall. Thy tough Commixtures melt,
Impairing Henry, ſtrengthning mis-proud York;
And whither fly the Gnats, but to the Sun?
And who ſhines now, but Henry's Enemies?
O Phœbus! hadſt thou never gave conſent,
That Phaeton ſhould check thy fiery Steeds,
Thy burning Carr never had ſcorch'd the Earth.
And Henry, hadſt thou ſway'd as Kings ſhould do,
Or as thy Father, and his Father did,
Giving no ground unto the Houſe of York,
They never then had ſprung like Summer Flyes:
I, and ten thouſand in this luckleſs Realm,
Had left no mourning Widows for our death,
And thou this day, hadſt kept thy Chair in peace.
For what doth cheriſh Weeds, but gentle Air?
And what makes Robbers bold, but too much lenity?
Bootleſs are Plaints, and Cureleſs are my Wounds?
No way to flye, nor ſtrength to hold out flight:
The Foe is mercileſs, and will not pity:
For at their hands I have deſerv'd no pity.
The Air hath got into my deadly Wounds,
And much effuſe of blood doth make me faint:
Come York, and Richard, Warwick, and the reſt,
I ſtabb'd your Fathers boſoms: Split my Breaſt.

Alarum and Retreat. Enter Edward, Warwick, Richard, and Souldiers, Mountague, and Clarence.

Ed. Now breathe we Lords, good Fortune bids us pawſe,
And ſmooth the frowns of War with peaceful looks:
Some Troops purſue the bloody-minded Queen,
That led calm Henry, though he were a King,
As doth a Sail fill'd with a fretting Guſt,
Command an Argoſie to ſtemm the Waves:
But think you (Lords) that Clifford fled with them?
War. No, 'tis impoſſible he ſhould eſcape:
(For though before his face I ſpeak the word)
Your Brother Richard mark'd him for the Grave.
And whereſoe're he is, he's ſurely dead. [Clifford groans.
Rich. Whoſe Soul is that, which takes her heavy leave?
A deadly groan, like Life and Deaths departing.
See who it is.
Ed. And now the Battel's ended,
If Friend or Foe, let him be gently uſed.
Rich. Revoke that doom of Mercy, for 'tis Clifford,
Who not contented that he lopp'd the Branch
In hewing Rutland, when his leaves put forth,
But ſet his murth'ring Knife unto the Root,
From whence that tender ſpray did ſweetly ſpring,
I mean our Princely Father, Duke of York.
War. From off the Gates of York fetch down the head,
Your Fathers Head, which Clifford placed there:
Inſtead whereof, let his ſupply the room,
Meaſure for meaſure muſt be anſwered.
Ed. Bring forth that fatal Screech-owl to our houſe,
That nothing ſung but Death to us and ours:
Now death ſhall ſtop his diſmal threatning ſound,
And his ill-boading Tongue, no more ſhall ſpeak.
War. I think his underſtanding is bereft:
Speak Clifford, doſt thou know who ſpeaks to thee?
Dark cloudy Death o're-ſhades his beams of Life,
And he nor ſees, nor hears us, what we ſay.
Rich. O would he did, and ſo (perhaps) he doth,
'Tis but his policy to counterfeit,
Becauſe he would avoid ſuch bitter taunts
Which in the time of death he gave our Father.
Cla. If ſo thou think'ſt,
Vex him with eager words.
Rich. Clifford, ask Mercy, and obtain no Grace.
Ed. Clifford, repent in bootleſs penitence.
War. Clifford, deviſe excuſes for thy faults.
Cla. While we deviſe fell Tortures for thy faults.
Rich. Thou did'ſt love York, and I am Son to York.
Ed. Thou pitied'ſt Rutland, I will pity thee.
Cla. Where's Captain Margaret, to fence you now?
War. They mock thee, Clifford,
Swear, as thou waſt wont.
Rich. What, not an Oath? Nay, the World goes hard,
When Clifford cannot ſpare his Friends an Oath:
I know by that he's dead, and by my Soul,
If this right hand would buy but two hours life,
That I (in all deſpight) might rail at him,
This hand ſhould chop it off: and with the iſſuing blood
Stifle the Villain, whoſe unſtanched thirſt
York, and young Rutland, could not ſatisfie.
War. I, but he's dead. Off with the Traytors head,
And rear it in the place your Father's ſtands,
And now to London with triumphant march,
There to be Crowned England's Royal King:
From whence ſhall Warwick cut the Sea to France,
And ask the Lady Bona for thy Queen:
So ſhalt thou ſinew both theſe Lands together,
And having France thy Friend, thou ſhalt not dread
The ſcatter'd Foe, that hopes to riſe again:
For though they cannot greatly ſting to hurt,
Yet look to have them buz to offend thine Ears.
Firſt will I ſee the Coronation,
And then to Britany I'le croſs the Sea,
To effect this Marriage, ſo it pleaſe my Lord.
Edw. Even as thou wilt, ſweet Warwick, let it be:
For on thy Shoulder do I build my Seat;
And never will I undertake the thing
Wherein thy Counſel and conſent is wanting:
Richard, I will create thee Duke of Gloceſter,
And George of Clarence; Warwick as our Self
Shall do, and undo, as himſelf pleaſeth beſt.
Rich. Let me be Duke of Clarence, George of Gloſter,
For Gloſter's Dukedom is too ominous.
War. Tut, that's a fooliſh obſervation:
Richard, be Duke of Gloſter: Now to London,
To ſee theſe honours in poſſeſſion. [Exeunt.

Enter Sinklo, and Humphrey, with Croſs-bows in their hands.

Sin. Under this thick grown brake we'll ſhrowd ourſelves:
For through this Laund anon the Deer will come,
And in this Covert will we make our Stand,
Culling the principal of all the Deer.
Hum. I'le ſtay above the Hill, ſo both may ſhoot.
Sink. That cannot be, the noiſe of thy Croſs-bow
Will ſcare the Herd, and ſo my ſhoot is loſt:
Here ſtand we both, and aim we at the beſt:
And for the time ſhall not ſeem tedious,
I'le tell thee what befell me on a day,
In this ſelf-place, where now we mean to ſtand.
Sink. Here comes a man, let's ſtay till he be paſt.

Enter the King with a Prayer-book.

Hen. From Scotland am I ſtoln even of pure love,
To greet mine own Land with my wiſhful ſight:
No Harry, Harry, 'tis no Land of thine,

Thy

Thy place is fill'd, thy Scepter wrung from thee:
Thy Balm waſht off wherewith thou waſt anointed:
No bending Knee will call thee Cæſar now,
No humble Sutors preſs to ſpeak for right:
No, not a man comes for redreſs to thee:
For how can I help them, and not my ſelf?
Sink. I, here's a Deer, whoſe Skin's a Keepers Fee:
This is the quondam King; let's ſeize upon him.
Hen. Let me embrace the ſower Adverſaries,
For Wiſe men ſay, it is the wiſeſt courſe.
Hum. Why linger we? let us lay hands upon him.
Sink. Forbear a while, we'll hear a little more.
Hen. My Queen and Son are gone to France for aid:
And (as I hear) the great Commanding Warwick
Is thither gone, to crave the French King's Siſter
To Wife for Edward. If this news be true,
Poor Queen, and Son, your labour is but loſt:
For Warwick is a ſubtle Orator:
And Lewis, a Prince ſoon won with moving words:
By this account then Margaret may win him,
For ſhe's a Woman to be pitied much:
Her ſighs will make a batt'ry in his Breaſt,
Her Tears will pierce into a Marble Heart:
The Tyger will be mild, whiles ſhe doth mourn;
And Nero will be tainted with remorſe,
To hear and ſee her plaints, her Briniſh Tears.
I, but ſhe's come to beg, Warwick to give:
She on his left ſide, craving aid for Henry?
He on his right, asking a Wife for Edward.
She weeps, and ſays her Henry is depos'd:
He ſmiles and ſays, his Edward is inſtall'd;
That ſhe poor wretch for grief can ſpeak no more:
Whiles Warwick tells his Title, ſmooths the wrong,
Inferreth Argumen.s of mighty ſtrength,
And in concluſion wins the King from her,
With promiſe of his Siſter, and what elſe,
To ſtrengthen and ſupport King Edwards place.
O Margaret, thus 'twill be, and thou (poor ſoul)
Art then forſaken, as thou went'ſt forlorn.
Hum. Say, what art thou talk'ſt of Kings and Queens?
King. More than I ſeem, and leſs than I was born to:
A man at leaſt, for leſs I ſhould not be:
And Men may talk of Kings, and why not I?
Hum. I, but thou talk'ſt as if thou wert a King.
King. Why ſo I am (in mind) and that's enough.
Hum. But if thou be a King, where is thy Crown?
King. My Crown is in my Heart, and not my Head:
Not deck'd with Diamonds, and India Stones:
Not to be ſeen: My Crown is call'd Content,
A Crown it is that ſeldom Kings enjoy.
Hum. Well, if you be a King Crown'd with Content,
Your Crown Content, and you, muſt be contented
To go along with us. For (as we think)
You are the King, King Edward hath depos'd:
And we his Subjects, ſworn in all Allegiance,
Will apprehend you as his Enemy.
King. But did you never ſwear, and break an Oath.
Hum. No, never ſuch an Oath, nor will not now.
K. Where did you dwell, when I was King of England?
Hum. Here in this Country, where we now remain.
King. I was anointed King at nine Months old,
My Father, and my Grandfather were Kings:
And you were Sworn true Subjects unto me:
And tell me then, have you not broke your Oaths?
Si. No, for we were Subjects, but while you were a King.
King. Why? am I dead? do I not breathe a Man?
Ah ſimple Men, you know not what you ſwear:
Look, as I blow this Feather from my Face,
And as the Air blows it to me again,
Obeying with my Wind when I do blow,
And yielding to another when it blows.
Commanded always by the greater guſt:
Such is the lightneſs of you common Men,
But do not break your Oath, for of that ſin,
My mild intreaty ſhall not make you guilty.
Go where you will, the King ſhall be commanded,
And be you Kings, command, and I'le obey.
Sink. We are true Subjects to the King,
King Edward.
King. So would you be again to Henry,
If he were ſeated as King Edward is.
Sink. We charge you in Gods name and the Kings,
To go with us unto the Officers.
King. In Gods name lead, your Kings name be obey'd,
And what God will, that let your King perform,
And what he will, I humbly yield unto. [Exeunt.

Enter King Edward, Gloſter, Clarence, Lady Gray.

King. Brother of Gloſter, at St. Albans Field
This Ladies Husband, Sir Richard Grey, waſſlain,
His Land then ſeiz'd on by the Conqueror,
Her ſuit is now, to repoſſeſs thoſe Lands,
Which we in Juſtice cannot well deny,
Becauſe in quarrel of the Houſe of York,
The worthy Gentleman did loſe his Life.
Rich. Your Highneſs ſhall do well to grant her Suit:
It were diſhonour to deny it her.
King. It were no leſs, but yet I'le make a pauſe.
Rich. Yea, is it ſo:
I ſee the Lady hath a thing to grant,
Before the King will grant her humble Suit.
Cla. He knows the Game, how true he keeps the wind?
Rich. Silence.
King. Widow, we will conſider of your ſuit,
And come ſome other time to know our mind.
Wid. Right gracious Lord, I cannot brook delay,
May it pleaſe your Highneſs to reſolve me now,
And what your pleaſure is, ſhall ſatisfie me.
Rich. I Widow: then I'le warrant you all your Lands,
And if what pleaſes him, ſhall pleaſe you:
Fight cloſer, or good faith you'll catch a blow.
Cla. I fear her not, unleſs ſhe chance to fall.
Rich. God forbid, for he'll take vantages.
King. How many Children haſt thou, Widow? tell me.
Cla. I think he means to beg a Child of her.
Rich. Nay then whip me: he'll rather give her two.
Wid. Three, my moſt gracious Lord.
Rich. You ſhall have four, if you'll be rul'd by him.
King. 'Twere pity they ſhould loſe their Fathers Lands.
Wid. Be pitiful, dread Lord, and grant it then.
King. Lords, give us leave, I'le try this Widows wit.
Rich. I, good leave have you, for you will have leave,
Till Youth take leave, and leave you to the Crutch.
King. Now tell me, Madam, do you love your Children.
Wid. I, full as dearly as I love my ſelf.
King. And would you not do much to do them good.
Wid. To do them good, I would ſuſtain ſome harm.
King. Then get your Husbands Lands, to do them good.
Wid. Therefore I came unto your Majeſty.
King. I'le tell you how theſe Lands are to be got.
Wid. So ſhall you bind me to your Highneſs Service.
King. What Service wilt thou do me, if I give them?
Wid. What you command, that reſts in me to do.
King. But you will take exceptions to my Boon.
Wid. No, gracious Lord, except I cannot do it.
King. I, but thou can'ſt do what I mean to ask.
Wid. Why then I will do what your Grace commands.
Rich. He plies her hard, and much Rain wears the Marble.
Clar. As red as fire? nay, then her Wax will melt.
Wid. Why ſtops my Lord? ſhall I not hear my Task?
King. An eaſie Task, 'tis but to love a King.
Wid. That's ſoon perform'd, becauſe I am a Subject.
King. Why then, thy Husbands Lands I freely give thee.
Wid. I take my leave with many thouſand thanks.
Rich. The Match is made, ſhe ſeals it with a Curtſie.
King. But ſtay thee, 'tis the fruits of love I mean.
Wid. The fruits of Love, I mean, my loving Liege.

King.

King. I, but I fear me in another ſence.
What Love, think'ſt thou, I ſue ſo much to get?
Wid. My Love till Death, my humble Thanks, my Prayers,
That Love which Vertue begs, and Vertue grants.
King. No, by my troth, I did not, mean ſuch Love.
Wid. Why then you mean not as I thought you did.
King. But now you partly may perceive my mind.
Wid. My mind will never grant what I perceive
Your Highneſs at, if I aim aright.
King. To tell thee plain, I aim to lie with thee.
Wid. To tell you plain, I had rather lye in Priſon.
King. Why then thou ſhalt not have thy Husbands Lands.
Wid. Why then mine Honeſty ſhall be my Dower,
For by that loſs I will not purchaſe them.
King. Therein thou wrong'ſt thy Children mightily.
Wid. Herein your Highneſs wrongs both them and me:
But Mighty Lord, this merry inclination
Accords not with the ſadneſs of my Suit:
Pleaſe you diſmiſs me, either with I, or No.
King. I, if thou wilt ſay I to my requeſt:
No, if thou do'ſt ſay No to my demand.
Wid. Then, No, my Lord: my Suit is at an end.
Rich. The Widow likes him not, ſhe knits her Brows.
Clar. He is the bluntest Wooer in Chriſtendom.
King. Her looks do argue her repleat with Modeſty,
Her words do ſhew her wit incomparable,
All her perfections challenge Soveraignty,
One way or other, ſhe is for a King,
And ſhe ſhall be my Love, or elſe my Queen.
Say, that King Edward take thee for his Queen?
Wid. 'Tis better ſaid than done, my gracious Lord:
I am a Subject fit to jeſt withal,
But far unfit to be a Soveraign.
King. Sweet Widow, by my State I ſwear to thee,
I ſpeak no more than what my Soul intends,
And that is, to enjoy thee for my Love.
Wid. And that is more than I will yield unto:
I know, I am too mean to be your Queen,
And yet too good to be your Concubine.
King. You cavil, Widow, I did mean my Queen.
Wid. 'Twill grieve your Grace, my Sons ſhall call you Father.
King. No more, than when my Daughters
Call thee Mother.
Thou art a Widow, and thou haſt ſome Children,
And by Gods Mother, I being but a Batchelor,
Have other ſome. Why, 'tis a happy thing,
To be the Father unto many Sons:
Anſwer no more, for thou ſhalt be my Queen.
Rich. The Ghoſtly Father now hath done his Shrift.
Cla. When he was made a Shriver, it was for aſhift.
King. Brothers, you muſe what Chat we two have had.
Rich. The Widow likes it not, for ſhe looks ſad.
King. You'ld think it ſtrange, if I ſhould marry her.
Cla. To whom, my Lord?
King. Why Clarence, to my ſelf.
Rich. That would be ten days wonder at the leaſt.
Cla. That's a day longer than a Wonder laſts.
Rich. By ſo much is the wonder in extreams.
King. Well, jeſt on Brothers, I can tell you both,
Her ſuit is granted for her Husbands Lands.

Enter a Noble man.

Nob. My gracious Lord, Henry your Foe is taken,
And brought your Priſoner to your Palace Gate.
King. See that he be convey'd unto the Tower:
And go we, Brothers, to the Man that took him,
To queſtion of his apprehenſion.
Widow, go you along: Lords uſe her honourably.
[Exeunt.

Manet Richard.

Rich. I, Edward will uſe Women honourably.
Would he were waſted, Marrow, Bones, and all,
That from his Loyns no hopeful Branch may ſpring,
To croſs me from the Golden time I look for:
And yet, between my Souls deſire, and me,
The luſtful Edward's Title buried,
Is Clarence, Henry, and his Son young Edward
And all the unlook'd-for Iſſue of their Bodies.
To take their Rooms, e're I can place my ſelf:
A cold premeditation for my purpoſe.
Why then I do but dream on Soveraignty,
Like one that ſtands upon a Promontory,
And ſpies a far-off ſhore, where he would tread,
Wiſhing his Foot were equal with his Eye,
And chides the Sea, that ſunders him from thence,
Saying he'll lade it dry to have his way:
So do I wiſh the Crown, being ſo far off,
And ſo I chide the means that keeps from it,
And ſo (I ſay) I'le cut the Cauſes off,
Flattering me with impoſſibilities:
My Eye's too quick, my Heart o're-weens too much,
Unleſs my Hand and Strength could equal them.
Well, ſay there is no Kingdom then for Richard:
What other pleaſure can the World afford?
I'le make my Heaven in a Ladies Lap,
And deck my Body in gay Ornaments,
And 'witch ſweet Ladies with my words and looks.
Oh miſerable thought! and more unlikely,
Than to accompliſh twenty Golden Crowns.
Why, Love forſwore me in my Mothers Womb:
And for I ſhould not deal in her ſoft Laws,
She did corrupt frail Nature with ſome Bribe,
To ſhrink mine Arm like a wither'd ſhrub,
To make an envious mountain on my back,
Where ſits Deformity to mock my Body;
To ſhape my Legs of an unequal ſize,
To diſproportion me in every part:
Like to a Chaos, or unlick'd Bear-whelp,
That carries no impreſſion like the Damm.
And am I then a Man to belov'd?
Oh monſtrous fault, to harbour ſuch a thought.
Then ſince this Earth affords no Joy to me,
But to command, to check, to o're-bear ſuch
As are of better Perſon than my ſelf:
I'le make my Heaven, to dream upon the Crown,
And whiles I live, t'account this World but Hell,
Untill this mis-ſhap'd Trunk that bears this Head,
Be round impaled with a glorious Crown.
And yet I know not how to get the Crown,
For many Lives ſtand between me and home:
And I, like one loſt in a thorny Wood,
That rents the Thorns, and is rent with the Thorns,
Seeking a way, and ſtraying from the way,
Not knowing how to find the open air,
But toyling deſperately to find it out,
Torment my ſelf to catch the Engliſh Crown:
And from that torment I will free my ſelf,
Or hew my way out with a Bloody Axe.
Why I can ſmile, and murther whiles I ſmile,
And cry, Content, to that which grieves my Heart,
And wet my Cheeks with artificial Tears,
And frame my Face to all occaſions.
I'le drown more Sailors than the Mermaid ſhall,
I'le ſlay more gazers than the Baſilisk,
I'le play the Orator as well as Neſtor,
Deceive more ſlyly than Ulyſſes could,
And like a Sinon, take another Troy.
I can add Colours to the Camelion,
Change ſhapes with Proteus for advantages,
And ſet the murtherous Machevil to School.
Can I do this, and cannot get a Crown?
Tut, were it farther off, I'le pluck it down. [Exit.

Flouriſh.

Flourish. Enter Lewis the King, his Sister Bona, his Admiral, call'd Bourbon, Prince Edward, Queen Margaret, and the Earl of Oxford. Lewis ſits, and riſeth up again.

Lewis. Fair Queen of England, worthy Margaret,
Sit down with us: it ill befits thy State,
And Birth, that thou ſhould'ſt ſtand, while Lewis doth ſit.
Mar. No, mighty King of France: now Margaret
Muſt ſtrike her Sail, and learn a while to ſerve,
Where Kings command. I was (I muſt confeſs)
Great Albion's Queen, in Golden days:
But now miſchance hath trod my Title down,
And with diſhonour laid me on the Ground,
Where I muſt take like ſeat unto my Fortune,
And to my humble ſeat conform my ſelf.
Lewis. Why ſay, fair Queen, whence ſprings this deep deſpair?
Mar. From ſuch a cauſe, as fills mine Eyes with Tears,
And ſtops my Tongue, while Heart is drown'd in Cares.
Lewis. What e're it be, be thou ſtill like thy ſelf,
And ſit thee by our ſide. [Seats her by him.
Yield not thy Neck to Fortunes yoak,
But let thy dauntleſs mind ſtill ride in triumph
Over all miſchance.
Be plain, Queen Margaret, and tell thy grief,
It ſhall be eas'd, if France can yield relief.
Mar. Thoſe gracious words
Revive my drooping thoughts,
And give my tongue-ty'd ſorrows leave to ſpeak.
Now therefore be it known to Noble Lewis,
That Henry, ſole poſſeſſor of my Love,
Is, of a King, become a baniſh'd Man,
And forc'd to live in Scotland a Forlorn;
While proud ambitious Edward, Duke of York,
Uſurps the Regal Title, and the Seat
Of Englands true anointed lawful King.
This is the cauſe that I, poor Margaret,
With this my Son Prince Edward, Henry's Heir,
Am come to crave thy juſt and lawful aid:
And if thou fail us, all our hope is done.
Scotland hath Will to help, but cannot help:
Our People, and our Peers, are both mis-led,
Our Treaſure ſeiz'd, our Souldiers put to flight,
And (as thou ſeeſt) our ſelves in heavy plight.
Lew. Renowned Queen,
With patience calm the Storm,
While we bethink a means to break it off.
Mar. The more we ſtay, the ſtronger grows our Foe.
Lew. The more I ſtay, the more I'le ſuccour thee.
Mar. O, but impatience waiteth on true ſorrow.
And ſee where comes the breeder of my ſorrow.

Enter Warwick.

Lewis. What's he approacheth boldly to our preſence?
Mar. Our Earl of Warwick, Edwards greateſt Friend.
Lewis. Welcome brave Warwick, what brings thee to France?

[He deſcends. She ariſeth.

Mar. I, now begins a ſecond Storm to riſe,
For this is he that moves both Wind and Tyde.
War. From worthy Edward, King of Albion,
My Lord and Soveraign, and thy vowed Friend,
I come (in Kindneſs, and unfeigned Love)
Firſt, to do greetings to thy Royal Perſon,
And then to crave a League of Amity:
And laſtly, to confirm that Amity
With Nuptial Knot, if thou vouchſafe to grant
That vertuous Lady Bona, thy fair Siſter,
To Englands King in lawful Marriage.
Marg. If that go forward, Henry's hope is done.
War. And gracious Madam, [Speaking to Bona.
In our Kings behalf,
I am commanded, with your leave and favour,
Humbly to kiſs your Hand, and with my Tongue
To tell the paſſion of my Soveraigns Heart;
Where Fame, late entring at his heedful Ears,
Hath plac'd thy Beauties Image, and thy Vertue.
Mar. King Lewis, and Lady Bona, hear me ſpeak,
Before you anſwer Warwick. His demand
Springs not from Edwards well-meant honeſt Love,
But from Deceit, bred by Neceſſity:
For how can Tyrants ſafely govern home,
Unleſs abroad they purchaſe great allyance?
To prove him Tyrant, this reaſon may ſuffice,
That Henry liveth ſtill: but were he dead,
Yet here Prince Edward ſtands, King Henries Son.
Look therefore Lewis, that by this League and Marriage
Thou draw not on thy Danger, and Diſ-honour:
For though Uſurpers ſway the Rule a while,
Yet Heavens are juſt, and Time ſuppreſſeth Wrongs.
War. Injurious Margaret.
Edw. And why not, Queen?
War. Becauſe thy Father Henry did uſurp,
And thou no more art Prince, than ſhe is Queen.
Oxf. Then Warwick diſanuls great John of Gaunt,
Which did ſubdue the greateſt part of Spain;
And after John of Gaunt, Henry the Fourth,
Whoſe Wiſdom was a Mirror to the wiſeſt;
And after that wiſe Prince, Henry the Fifth,
Who by his Proweſs conquered all France:
From theſe our Henry lineally deſcends.
War. Oxford, how haps it in this ſmooth Diſcourſe,
You told not, how Henry the Sixth hath loſt
All that, which Henry the Fifth had gotten;
Methinks theſe Peers of France ſhould ſmile at that.
But for the reſt: you tell a Pedigree
Of threeſcore and two years, a ſilly time
To make preſcription for a Kingdoms worth.
Oxf. Why Warwick, canſt thou ſpeak againſt my Liege
Whom thou obeyd'ſt thirty and ſix years,
And not bewray thy Treaſon with a bluſh?
War. Can Oxford, that did ever fence the right,
Now buckler falſehood with a Pedigree?
For ſhame leave Henry, and call Edward King.
Oxf. Call him my King, by whoſe injurious doom
My elder Brother, the Lord Aubrey Vere
Was done to death? and more than ſo, my Father,
Even in the down-fall of his mellow'd years,
When Nature brought him to the door of Death;
No Warwick, no: while Life upholds this Arm,
This Arm upholds the Houſe of Lancaſter.
War. And I the Houſe of York.
Lew. Queen Margaret, Prince Edward, and Oxford
Vouchſafe at our requeſt, to ſtand aſide,
While I uſe farther Conference with Warwick.

They ſtand aloof.

Mar. Heavens grant, that Warwicks words bewitch him not.
Lew. Now Warwick, tell me even upon thy Conſcience,
Is Edward your true King? for I were loath
To link with him, that were not lawful choſen.
War. Thereon I pawn my Credit, and mine Honour.
Lew. But is he gracious in the Peoples Eyes?
War. The more, that Henry was unfortunate.
Lew. Then further: all diſſembling ſet aſide,
Tell me for truth, the meaſure of his love
Unto our Siſter Bona.
War. Such it ſeems,
As may beſeem a Monarch like himſelf,
My ſelf have often heard him ſay, and ſwear,
That this his Love was an external Plant,
Whereof the Root was fix'd in Vertues ground,
The Leaves and Fruit maintain'd with Beauties Sun,
Exempt from Envy, but not from diſdain,
Unleſs the Lady Bona quit his pain.
Lew. Now Siſter, let us hear your firm reſolve.

Bona. Your grant, or your deny, ſhall be mine,
Yet I confeſs, that often e're this day, [Speaks to War.
When I have heard your Kings deſert recounted,
Mine Ear hath tempted judgment to deſire.
Lew. Then Warwick, this:
Our Siſter ſhall be Edwards.
And now forthwith ſhall Articles be drawn:
Touching the Joynture that your King muſt make,
Which with her Dowry ſhall be counterpoys'd:
Draw near, Queen Margaret, and be a witneſs,
That Bona ſhall be Wife to the Engliſh King.
Prin. Edw. To Edward, but not to the Engliſh King.
Marg. Deceitful Warwick, it was thy device,
By this alliance to make void my Suit;
Before thy coming, Lewis was Henries Friend.
Lew. And ſtill is Friend to him, and Margaret,
But if your Title to the Crown be weak,
As may appear by Edwards good ſucceſs:
Then 'tis but reaſon, that I be releas'd
From giving aid, which late I promiſed.
Yet ſhall you have all kindneſs at my hand,
That your Eſtate requires, and mine can yield.
War. Henry now lives in Scotland, at his eaſe;
Where having nothing, nothing can he loſe.
And as for you your ſelf (our quondam Queen)
You have a Father able to maintain you,
And better 'twere, you troubled him, than France.
Mar. Peace impudent and ſhameleſs Warwick, peace,
Proud ſetter up, and puller down of Kings,
I will not hence, till with my Talk and Tears
(Both full of Truth) I make King Lewis behold
Thy ſly conveyance, and thy Lords falſe love.
[Poſt blowing a horn within.
For both of you are Birds of ſelf-ſame Feather.
Lew. Warwick, this is ſome Poſt to us, or thee.
Enter a Poſt.
Poſt. My Lord Ambaſſador,
Theſe Letters are for you. [Speaks to Warwick.
Sent from your Brother Marqueſs Mountague.
Theſe from our King, unto your Majeſty. [To Lewis.
And Madam, theſe for you, [To Margaret.
From whom, I know not.
They all read their Letters.
Oxf. I like it well, that our fair Queen and Miſtreſs,
Smiles at her news, while Warwick frowns at his.
Prin. Edw. Nay mark how Lewis ſtamps as he were nettled. I hope, all's for the beſt.
Lew. Warwick, what are thy News?
And yours, fair Queen?
Mar. Mine ſuch, as fills my heart with unhop'd joys.
War. Mine full of ſorrow, and hearts diſcontent.
Lew. What? has your King Married the Lady Gray?
And now to ſooth your Forgery, and his,
Sends me a Paper to perſwade me Patience?
In th' Alliance that he ſeeks with France,
Dare he preſume to ſcorn us in this manner?
Mar. I told your Majeſty as much before:
This proveth Edwards Love, and Warwicks Honeſty.
War. King Lewis, I here proteſt in ſight of Heaven,
And by the hope I have of Heavenly bliſs,
That I am clear from this miſdeed of Edwards;
No more my King, for he diſhonours me,
But moſt himſelf, if he could ſee his ſhame.
Did I forget, that by the houſe of York
My Father came untimely to his Death?
Did I let paſs th' abuſe done to my Niece?
Did I impale him with the Regal Crown?
Did I put Henry from his Native Right?
And am I guerdon'd at the laſt, with Shame?
Shame on himſelf, for my Deſert is Honour.
And to repair my Honour loſt for him,
I here renounce him, and return to Henry.
My Noble Queen, let former grudges paſs,
And henceforth I am thy true Servitour:
I will revenge his wrong to Lady Bona,
And replant Henry in his former ſtate.
Mar. Warwick,
Theſe words have turn'd my Hate to Love,
And I forgive, and quite forget old faults,
And joy that thou becom'ſt King Henries Friend.
War. So much his Friend, I, his unfeigned Friend,
That if King Lewis vouchſafe to furniſh us
With ſome few Bands of choſen Souldiers,
I'le undertake to Land them on our Coaſt,
And force the Tyrant from his Seat by War.
'Tis not his new-made Bride ſhall ſuccour him,
And as for Clarence, as my Letters tell me,
He's very likely now to fall from him,
For matching more for wanton Luſt, than Honour,
Or than for ſtrength and ſafety of our Country.
Bona. Dear Brother, how ſhall Bona be reveng'd,
But by thy help to this diſtreſſed Queen?
Mar. Renowned Prince, how ſhall poor Henry live,
Unleſs thou reſcue him from foul deſpair?
Bona. My quarrel, and this Engliſh Queens are one.
War. And mine, fair Lady Bona, joyns with yours.
Lew. And mine, with hers, and thine, and Margarets.
Therefore at laſt, I firmly am reſolv'd
You ſhall have aid.
Mar. Let me give humble thanks for all, at once.
Lew. Then Englands Meſſenger, return in Poſt,
And tell falſe Edward, thy ſuppoſed King,
That Lewis of France, is ſending over Maskers
To revel it with him, and his new Bride.
Thou ſeeſt what's paſt, go fear thy King withall.
Bona. Tell him, in hopes he'll prove a Widower ſhortly;
I wear the Willow Garland for his ſake.
Mar. Tell him, my mourning weeds are laid aſide,
And I am ready to put Armor on.
War. Tell him from me, that he hath done me wrong,
And therefore I'le un-Crown him, er't be long.
There's thy reward, be gone. [Exit Poſt.
Lew. But Warwick,
Thou and Oxford, with five thouſand men
Shall croſs the Seas, and bid falſe Edward Battel:
And as occaſion ſerves, this Noble Queen
And Prince, ſhall follow with a freſh ſupply,
Yet e're thou go, but anſwer me one doubt:
What Pledge have we of thy firm Loyalty?
War. This ſhall aſſure my conſtant Loyalty,
That if our Queen, and this young Prince agree,
I'le joyn my eldeſt Daughter, and my Joy,
To him forthwith, in holy Wedlock bands.
Mar. Yes, I agree, and thank you for your Motion.
Son Edward, ſhe is Fair and Vertuous,
Therefore delay not, give thy hand to Warwick,
And with thy Hand, thy Faith irrevocable,
That only Warwick's Daughter ſhall be thine.
Prin. Ed. Yes, I accept her, for ſhe well deſerves it,
And here to pledg my Vow, I give my hand.
[He gives his hand to Warwick.
Lew. Why ſtay we now? theſe Souldiers ſhall be levied,
And thou Lord Bourbon, our High Admiral
Shalt waft them over with our Royal Fleet.
I long till Edward fall by Wars miſchance,
For mocking Marriage with a Dame of France.
[Exeunt. Manet Warwick.
War. I came from Edward as Ambaſſador,
But I return his ſworn and mortal Foe:
Matters of Marriage was the charge he gave me,
But dreadful War ſhall anſwer his demand.
Had he none elſe to make a ſtale but me?
Then none but I, ſhall turn his Jeſt to Sorrow,
I was the Chief that rais'd him to the Crown,
And I'le be chief to bring him down again:
Not that I pity Henries miſery,
But ſeek Revenge on Edwards mockery. [Exit.

Enter

Enter Richard, Clarence, Somerſet, and Mountague.

Rich. Now tell me Brother Clarence, what think you
Of this new Marriage with the Lady Gray?
Hath not our Brother made a worthy choice?
Clar. Alas, you know, 'tis far from hence to France,
How could he ſtay till Warwick made return?
Som. My Lords, forbear this talk: here comes the King.

Flouriſh. Enter King Edward, Lady Gray, Pembrook, Stafford, Haſtings: four ſtand on one ſide, and four on the other.

Rich. And his well-choſen Bride.
Clar. I mind to tell him plainly what I think.
King. Now Brother of Clarence,
How like you our Choice,
That you ſtand penſive, as half malecontent?
Clar. As well as Lewis of France,
Or the Earl of Warwick,
Which are ſo weak of Courage, and in Judgment,
That they'l take no offence at our abuſe.
King. Suppoſe they take offence without a cauſe:
They are but Lewis and Warwick, I am Edward,
Your King and Warwicks, and muſt have my will.
Rich. And ſhall have your will, becauſe our King?
Yet haſty Marriage ſeldom proveth well.
King. Yes, Brother Richard, are you offended too?
Rich. Not I: no:
God forbid, that I ſhould wiſh them ſever'd,
Whom God hath joyn'd together.
I, and 'twere pity, to ſunder them,
That yoak ſo well together.
King. Setting your ſcorns, and your miſlike aſide,
Tell me ſome Reaſon, why the Lady Gray
Should not become my Wife, and Englands Queen?
And you too, Somerſet and Mountague,
Speak freely what you think.
Clar. Then this is my opinion:
That King Lewis becomes your Enemy,
For mocking him about the Marriage
Of the Lady Bona.
Rich. And Warwick, doing what you gave in charge,
Is now diſhonoured by this new Marriage.
King. What, if both Lewis and Warwick be appeas'd,
By ſuch invention as I can deviſe?
Mount. Yet to have joyn'd with France, in ſuch alliance,
Would more have ſtrength'ned this our Common-wealth,
'Gainſt forreign ſtorms, than any home-bred Marriage.
Haſt. Why, knows not Mountague, that of it ſelf,
England is ſafe, if true within it ſelf?
Moun. Yes, but the ſafer, when 'tis back'd with France.
Haſt. 'Tis better uſing France, than truſting France.
Let us be back'd with God, and with the Seas,
Which he hath giv'n for fence impregnable,
And with their helps only defend our ſelves:
In them, and in our ſelves, our ſafety lies.
Cla. For this one ſpeech, Lord Haſtings well deſerves
To have the Heir of the Lord Hungerford.
King. I, what of that? it was my will, and grant,
And for this once, my Will ſhall ſtand for Law.
Rich. And yet methinks, your Grace hath not done well
To give the Heir and Daughter of Lord Scales
Unto the Brother of your loving Bride:
She better would have fitted me or Clarence:
But in your Bride you bury Brotherhood.
Cla. Or elſe you would not have beſtow'd the Heir
Of the Lord Bonvill on your new Wives Son,
And leave your Brothers to go ſpeed elſewhere.
King. Alas, poor Clarence: is it for a Wife
That thou art malecontent? I will provide thee.
Cla. In chuſing for your ſelf,
You ſhew'd your judgment:
Which being ſhallow, you ſhall give me leave
To play the Brother in mine own behalf;
And to that end, I ſhortly mind to leave you.
King. Leave me, or tarry, Edward will be King;
And not be ty'd unto his Brothers will.
Lady Gray. My Lords, before it pleas'd his Majeſty
To raiſe my State to Title of a Queen,
Do me but right, and you muſt all confeſs,
That I was not ignoble of Deſcent,
And meaner than my ſelf have had like fortune.
But as this Title honours me and mine,
So your diſlikes, to whom I would be pleaſing,
Doth cloud my Joys with danger, and with ſorrow.
King. My Love, forbear to fawn upon their frowns:
What danger, or what ſorrow can befall thee,
So long as Edward is thy conſtant Friend,
And their true Soveraign, whom they muſt obey?
Nay, whom they ſhall obey, and love thee too,
Unleſs they ſeek for hatred at my hands:
Which if they do, yet will I keep thee ſafe,
And they ſhall feel the Vengeance of wrath.
Rich. I hear, yet ſay not much, but think the more.

Enter a Poſt.

King. Now Meſſenger, what Letters, or what News from France?
Poſt. My Soveraign Liege, no Letters, and few words
But ſuch as I (without your ſpecial pardon)
Dare not relate.
King. Go too, we pardon thee:
Therefore, in brief, tell their words,
As near, as thou canſt gueſs them,
What anſwer makes King Lewis unto our Letters?
Poſt. At my depart, theſe were his very words:
Go tell falſe Edward, the ſuppoſed King,
That Lewis of France is ſending over Maskers,
To revel it with him, and his new Bride.
King. Is Lewis ſo brave? belike he thinks me Henry.
But what ſaid Lady Bona to my Marriage?
Poſt. Theſe were her words, utter'd with mild diſdain:
Tell him, in hope he'll prove a Widower ſhortly,
I' lewear the Willow Garland for his ſake.
King. I blame not her, ſhe could ſay little leſs:
She had the wrong. But what ſaid Henries Queen?
For ſo I heard, that ſhe was there in place.
Poſt. Tell him (quoth ſhe)
My mourning Weeds are done,
And I am ready to put Armor on.
King. Belike ſhe means to play the Amazon.
But what ſaid Warwick to theſe injuries?
Poſt. He, more incens'd againſt your Majeſty
Than all the reſt, diſcharg'd me with theſe words:
Tell him from me, that he hath done me wrong,
And therefore I'le uncrown him er't be long.
King. Ha? durſt the Traitor breathe out ſo proud words?
Well, I will arm me, being thus fore-warn'd:
They ſhall have Wars, and pay for their preſumption.
But ſay, is Warwick Friends with Margaret?
Poſt. I, gracious Soveraign,
They are ſo link'd in Friendſhip,
That young Prince Edward Marries Warwicks Daughter.
Cla. Belike, the elder;
Clarence will have the younger.
Now Brother King farewel, and ſit you faſt,
For I wil hence to Warwick's other Daughter,
That though I want a Kingdom, yet in Marriage
I may not prove inferior to your ſelf.
You that love me, and Warwick, follow me.

[Exit Clarence, and Somerſet follows.

Rich. Not I:
My thoughts aim at a further matter:
I ſtay not for the love of Edward, but the Crown.
King. Clarence and Somerſet both gone to Warwick?
Yet I am arm'd againſt the worſt can happen:
And haſte is needful in this deſp'rate caſe.

Pembrook and Stafford, you in our behalf
Go levy Men, and make prepare for War;
They are already, or quickly will be landed:
My ſelf in Perſon will ſtreight follow you.
[Exit Pembrook and Stafford.
But e're I go, Haſtings and Mountague
Reſolve my doubt, you 'twain of all the reſt
Are near to Warwick, by blood and by allyance:
Tell me, if you love Warwick, more than me;
If it be ſo, then both depart to him:
I rather wiſh you Foes, than hollow Friends.
But if you mind to hold your true obedience,
Give me aſſurance with ſome Friendly Vow,
That I may never haue you in ſuſpect.
Mount. So God help Mountague, as he proves true.
Haſt. And Haſtings, as he favours Edwards Cauſe.
King. Now, Brother Richard, will you ſtand by us?
Rich. I, in deſpight of all that ſhall withſtand you.
King. Why ſo: then am I ſure of Victory.
Now therefore let us hence, and loſe no hour,
Till we meet Warwick, with his forreign Power.
[Exeunt.

Enter Warwick, and Oxford in England, with French Souldiers.

War. Truſt me, my Lord, all hitherto goes well,
The common people by numbers ſwarm to us.
Enter Clarence and Somerſet.
But ſee where Somerſet and Clarence comes,
Speak ſuddenly, my Lords, are we all Friends?
Clar. Fear not that, my Lord.
War. Then gentle Clarence, welcome unto Warwick,
And welcome Somerſet: I hold it Cowardize,
To reſt miſtruſtful, where a Noble Heart
Hath pawn'd an open Hand, in ſign of Love:
Elſe might I think, that Clarence, Edwards Brother,
Were but a fained Friend to our proceedings:
But welcome ſweet Clarence, my Daughter ſhall be thine.
And now, what reſts? but in Nights Coverture,
Thy Brother being careleſly encamp'd,
His Souldiers lurking in the Town about,
And but attended by a ſimple Guard,
We may ſurprize and take him at our pleaſure,
Our Scouts have found the adventure very eaſie:
That as Ulyſſes, and ſtout Diomede
With ſleight and manhood ſtole to Theſeus Tents,
And brought from thence the Thracian fatal Steeds;
So we, well covered with the Nights black Mantle,
At unawares may beat down Edwards Guard,
And ſeize himſelf: I ſay not, ſlaughter him,
For I intend but only to ſurprize him.
You that will follow me to this attempt,
Applaud the Name of Henry, with your Leader.
[They all cry Henry.
Why then, lets on our way in ſilent ſort,
For Warwick and his Friends, God and Saint George.
[Exeunt.

Enter the Watchmen to guard the Kings Tent.

1. Watch. Come on my Maſters, each man take his ſtand,
The King by this, is ſet him down to ſleep.
2. Watch. What, will he not to Bed?
1 Watch. Why, no: for he hath made a ſolemn Vow,
Never to lie and take his natural Reſt,
Till Warwick, or himſelf, be quite ſuppreſt.
2. Watch. To morrow then belike ſhall be the day,
If Warwick be ſo near as men report.
3. Watch. But ſay, I pray, what Nobleman is that,
That with the King here reſteth in his Tent?
1. Wat. 'Tis the Lord Haſtings, the Kings chiefeſt Friend.
3. Watch. O, is it ſo? but why commands the King,
That his chief followers lodg in Towns about him,
While he himſelf keeps in the cold Field?
2. Wa. 'Tis the more honour, becauſe the more dangerous.
3. Watch. I, but give me worſhip and quietneſs,
I like it better than a dangerous Honour.
If Warwick knew in what eſtate he ſtands,
'Tis to be doubted he would waken him.
1. Wat. Unleſs our Halberds did ſhut up his paſſage.
2. Wat. I: wherefore elſe guard we this Royal Tent,
But to defend his Perſon from Night-foes?

Enter Warwick, Clarence, Oxford, Somerſet, and French Souldiers, ſilent all.

War. This is his Tent, and ſee where ſtands his Guard:
Courage my Maſters: Honour now or never:
But follow me, and Edward ſhall be ours.
1 Wat. Who goes there?
2 Watch. Stay or thou dyeſt.
Warwick and the reſt cry all, Warwick, Warwick, and ſet upon the Guard, who fly, crying, Arms, Arms, Warwick and the reſt following them.

The Drum playing, and Trumpet ſounding.
Enter Warwick, Somerſet, and the reſt, bringing the King out in a Gown, ſitting in a Chair: Richard and Haſtings fly over the Stage.

Som. What are they that fly there?
War. Richard and Haſtings, let them go, here is the Duke.
King Edw. The Duke?
Why Warwick, when we parted,
Thou call'dſt me King.
War. I, but the caſe is alter'd.
When you diſgrac'd me in my Embaſſade,
Then I degraded you from being King,
And come now to create you Duke of York,
Alas how ſhould you govern any Kingdom,
That know not how to uſe Embaſſadors,
Nor how to be contented with one Wife,
Nor how to uſe your Brothers brotherly,
Nor how to ſtudy for the Peoples welfare,
Nor how to ſhrowd your ſelf from Enemies?
King Edw. Yea, Brother of Clarence,
Art thou here too?
Nay then I ſee, that Edward needs muſt down.
Yet Warwick, in deſpight of all miſchance,
Of thee thy ſelf, and all thy Complices,
Edward will always bear himſelf as King:
Though Fortunes malice overthrow my State,
My mind exceeds the compaſs of her Wheel.
War. Then for his mind, be Edward Englands King.
Takes off his Crown.
But Henry now ſhall wear the Engliſh Crown,
And be true King indeed: thou but a ſhadow.
My Lord of Somerſet, at my requeſt,
See that forthwith Duke Edward be convey'd
Unto my Brother Arch-Biſhop of York:
When I have fought with Pembrook, and his Fellows,
I'le follow you, and tell what anſwer
Lewes and the Lady Bona ſend to him.
Now for a while farewel good Duke of York,
They lead him out forcibly.
K. Ed. What Fates impoſe, that men muſt needs abide;
It boots not to reſiſt both Wind and Tide. [Exeunt.
Oxf. What now remains, my Lords, for us to do,
But march to London with our Souldiers?
War. I, that's the firſt thing that we have to do,
To free King Henry from impriſonment,
And ſee him ſeated in the Regal Throne. [Exit.

Enter Rivers, and the Lady Gray.

Riv. Madam, what makes you in this ſudden change?

Gray.

Gray. Why Brother Rivers, are you yet to learn
What late misfortune is befaln King Edward?
Riv. What? loss of some pitcht battel
Against Warwick?
Gra. No, but the loss of his own Royal person.
Riv. Then is my Soveraign slain?
Gray. I, almost slain, for he is taken Prisoner,
Either betray'd by falshood of his Guard,
Or by his Foe surpriz'd at unawares:
And as I further have to understand,
Is now committed to the Bishop of York,
Fell Warwick's Brother, and by that our Foe.
Riv. These News I must confess are full of grief,
Yet gracious Madam, bear it as you may,
Warwick may lose, that now hath won the day.
Gray. Till then, fair hope must hinder lives decay.
And I the rather wain me from despair
For love of Edward's Off-spring in my womb:
This is that makes me bridle my passion,
And bear with mildness my misfortune cross:
I, I, for this I draw in many a tear,
And stop the rising of blood-sucking sighs,
Lest with my sighs or tears, I blast or drown
Kind Edward's Fruit, true heir to th' English Crown.
Riv. But Madam,
Where is Warwick then become?
Gray. I am inform'd that he comes towards London,
To set the Crown once more on Henry's head:
Guess thou the rest, King Edward's Friends must down.
But to prevent the Tyrants violence,
(For trust not him that hath once broken faith)
I'le hence forthwith unto the Sanctuary,
To save (at least) the heir of Edward's right:
There shall I rest secure from force and fraud:
Come therefore let us flye,
If Warwick take us, we are sure to dye. [Exeunt.

Enter Richard, Lord Hastings, and Sir William Stanley.

Rich. Now my Lord Hastings, and Sir Will. Stanley
Leave off to wonder why I drew you hither,
Into this chiefest Thicket of the Park.
Thus stands the case: you know your King, my Brother,
Is Prisoner to the Bishop here, at whose hands
He hath good usage, and great liberty,
And often but attended with weak guard,
Comes hunting this way to disport himself.
I have advertis'd him by secret means,
That if about this hour he make this way,
Under the colour of his usual game,
He shall here find his Friends with Horse and Men,
To set him free from his Captivity.

Enter King Edward, and a Huntsman with him.

Hunt. This way, my Lord,
For this way lies the Game.
King Edw. Nay this way, man,
See where the Huntsmen stand.
Now Brother of Gloster, Lord Hastings and the rest,
Stand you thus close to steal the Bishops Deer?
Rich. Brother the time and case requireth haste,
Your Horse stands ready at the Park-corner.
King Edw. But whither shall we then?
Hast. To Lyn, my Lord,
And ship from thence to Flanders.
Rich. Well guest believe me, for that was my meaning.
King Edw. Stanley, I will requite thy forwardness.
Rich. But wherefore stay we? 'tis no time to talk.
King Edw. Huntsman, what say'st thou?
Wilt thou go along?
Hunt. Better do so, than tarry and be hang'd.
Rich. Come then away, let's ha no more ado.

King Edw. Bishop farewel,
Shield thee from Warwick's frown,
And pray that I may repossess the Crown. [Exeunt.

Enter King Henry the Sixth, Clarence, Warwick, Somerset, young Henry, Oxford, Mountague and Lieutenant.

King Hen. M. Lieutenant, now that God and Friends
Have shaken Edward from the Regal Seat,
And turn'd my captive state to liberty,
My fear to hope, my sorrows unto joys,
At our enlargement what are thy due Fees?
Lieu. Subjects may challenge nothing of their Sov'raigns,
But, if an humble prayer may prevail,
I then crave pardon of your Majesty.
King. For what, Lieutenant? For well using me?
Nay, be thou sure, I'le well requite thy kindness:
For that it made my imprisonment, a pleasure:
I, such a pleasure, as incag'd Birds
Conceive; when after many moody thoughts,
At last, by Notes of Household harmony,
They quite forget their loss of liberty.
But Warwick, after God, thou sett'st me free,
And chiefly therefore, I thank God, and thee.
He was the Author, thou the Instrument.
Therefore that I may conquer Fortunes spight,
By living low, where Fortune cannot hurt me,
And that the people of this blessed Land
May not be punish'd with my thwarting stars,
Warwick, although my head still wear the Crown,
I here resign my Government to thee,
For thou art fortunate in all thy deeds.
War. Your Grace hath still been fam'd for vertuous,
And now may seem as wise as vertuous,
By spying and avoiding Fortunes malice,
For few men rightly temper with the Stars:
Yet in this one thing let me blame your Grace,
For chusing me, when Clarence is in place.
Clar. No, Warwick, thou art worthy of the sway,
To whom the Heavens in thy Nativity,
Adjudg'd an Olive Branch, and Lawrel Crown,
As likely to be blest in Peace and War:
And therefore I yield thee my free consent.
War. And I choose Clarence only for Protector.
King. Warwick and Clarence, give me both your hands.
Now joyn your hands, and with your hands your hearts,
That no dissention hinder Government:
I make you both Protectors of this Land,
While I my self will lead a private Life,
And in devotion spend my latter days,
To sins rebuke, and my Creators praise.
War. What answers Clarence to his Soveraigns Will?
Clar. That he consents, if Warwick yield consent,
For on thy fortune I repose my self.
War. Why then, though loth, yet must I be content:
We'll yoak together, like a double shadow
To Henry's Body, and supply his place;
I mean, in bearing weight of Government,
While he enjoys the honour, and his ease.
And Clarence now, now then it is more than needful
Forthwith that Edward be pronounc'd a Traytor,
And all his Lands and Goods confiscated.
Clar. What else? and that Succession be determined.
War. I, therein Clarence shall not want his part.
King. But with the first, of all our chief affairs,
Let me intreat, (for I command no more)
That Margaret your Queen, and my Son Edward,
Be sent for, to return from France with speed:
For till I see them here, by doubtful fear,
My joy of liberty is half eclips'd.
Clar. It shall be done, my Soveraign, with all speed.
King. My Lord of Somerset, what youth is that,
Of whom you seem to have so tender care?
Somer. My Liege, it is young Henry, Earl of Richmond.

King. Come hither, Englands Hope:
Lays his Hand on his Head.
If ſecret Powers ſuggeſt but truth
To my divining Thoughts,
This pretty Lad will prove our Countries bliſs.
His looks are full of peaceful Majeſty,
His Head by Nature fram'd to wear a Crown,
His hand to weild a Scepter, and himſelf
Likely in time to bleſs a Regal Throne:
Make much of him, my Lords; for this is he
Muſt help you more, than you are hurt by me.
Enter a Poſt.
War. What news, my Friend?
Poſt. That Edward is eſcaped from your Brother,
And fled (as he hears ſince) to Burgundy.
War. Unſavory news: but how made he eſcape?
Poſt. He was convey'd by Richard, Duke of Gloſter,
And the Lord Haſtings, who attended him
In ſecret ambuſh, on the Foreſt ſide,
And from the Biſhops Huntſmen reſcu'd him:
For Hunting was his daily Exerciſe.
War. My Brother was too careleſs of his charge.
But let us hence, my Soveraign, to provide
A Salve for any Sore, that may betide. [Exeunt.
Manet Somerſet, Richmond, and Oxford.
Som. My Lord, I like not of this flight of Edwards:
For doubtleſs Burgundy will yield him help,
And we ſhall have more Wars before't be long.
As Henries late preſaging Prophecy
Did glad my Heart, with hope of this young Richmond:
So doth my Heart, miſ-give me, in theſe Conflicts
What may befall him, to his harm and ours.
Therefore, Lord Oxford to prevent the worſt,
Forthwith we'll ſend him hence to Britany,
Till ſtorms be paſt of Civil Enmity.
Oxf. I: for if Edward re-poſſeſs the Crown,
'Tis like that Richmond with the reſt ſhall down.
Som. Is ſhall be ſo: he ſhall to Britany.
Come therefore, let's about it ſpeedily. [Exeunt.

Enter Edward, Richard, Haſtings, and Souldiers.

Ed. Now Brother Richard, Lord Haſtings, and the reſt,
Yet thus far Fortune maketh us amends,
And ſays, that once more I ſhall enterchange
My wained State, for Henry's Regal Crown.
Well have we paſs'd, and now repaſs'd the Seas,
And brought deſired help from Burgundy.
What then remains, we being thus arriv'd
From Ravenſpurgh Haven, before the Gates of York,
But that we enter, as into our Dukedom?
Rich. The Gates made faſt?
Brother, I like not this.
For many men that ſtumble at the Threſhold,
Are well fore-told, that danger lurks within.
Ed. Tuſh man, aboadments muſt not now affright us:
By fair or foul means we muſt enter in,
For hither will our Friends repair to us.
Haſt. My Liege, I'le knock once more to ſummon them.

Enter on the Walls, the Mayor of York, and his Brethren.

Mayor. My Lords,
We were fore-warned of your coming,
And ſhut the Gates, for ſafety of our ſelves;
For now we owe Allegiance unto Henry.
Edw. But, Maſter Mayor, if Henry be your King,
Yet Edward, at the leaſt, is Duke of York.
Mayor. True, my good Lord, I know you for no leſs.
Ed. Why, and I challenge nothing but my Dukedom,
As being well content with that alone.
Rich. But when the Fox has once got in his Noſe, e'll ſoon find means to make the Body follow.
H*Haſt.* Why, Maſter Mayor, why ſtand you in a doubt?
Open the Gates, we are King Henries Friends.
Mayor. I, ſay you ſo? the Gates ſhall then be opened.
He deſcends.
Rich. A wiſe ſtout Captain, and ſoon perſwaded.
Haſt. The good old man would fain that all were well.
So 'twere not long of him: but being entred,
I doubt not I, but we ſhall ſoon perſwade
Both him, and all his Brothers, unto Reaſon.

Enter the Mayor, and two Aldermen.

Edw. So, Maſter Mayor: theſe Gates muſt not be ſhut,
But in the Night, or in the time of War.
What, fear not man, but yield me up the Keys.
Takes his Keys.
For Edward will defend the Town, and thee,
And all thoſe Friends, that deign to follow me.

March. Enter Mountgomery, with Drum and Souldiers.

Rich. Brother, this is Sir John Mountgomery,
Our truſty Friend, unleſs I be deceiv'd.
Edw. Welcome Sir John: but why come you in Arms?
Mount. To help King Edward in his time of ſtorm,
As every Loyal Subject ought to do.
Edw. Thanks, good Mountgomery:
But we now forget the Title to the Crown,
And only claim our Dukedome,
Till God pleaſe to ſend the reſt.
Mount. Then fare you well, for I will hence again,
I came to ſerve a King, and not a Duke:
Drummer ſtrike up, and let us March away.
The Drum begins to March.
Edw. Nay ſtay, Sir John, a while, and well debate
By what ſafe means the Crown may be recover'd.
Mount. What talk you of debating? in few words,
If you'l not here proclaim your ſelf our King,
I'le leave you to your Fortune, and be gone,
To keep them back, that come to ſuccour you.
Why ſhall we fight, if you pretend no Title?
Rich. Why Brother, wherefore ſtand you on nice points?
Edw. When we grow ſtronger,
Then we'll make our Claim:
Till then, 'tis Wiſdome to conceal our meaning.
Haſt. Away with ſcrupulous Wit, now Arms muſt rule.
Rich. And fearleſs minds climb ſooneſt unto Crowns.
Brother, we will proclaim you out of hand,
The bruit thereof will bring you many Friends.
Edw. Then be it as you will: for 'tis my right,
And Henry but uſurps the Diadem.
Mount. I, now my Soveraign ſpeaketh like himſelf,
And now will I be Edwards Champion.
Haſt. Sound Trumpet, Edward ſhall be here proclaim'd:
Come, Fellow Souldier, make thou Proclamation.
Flouriſh. Sound.
Soul. Edward the Fourth, by the Grace of God, King of England and France, and Lord of Ireland, &c.
Mount. And whoſee're gain-ſays King Edwards right,
By this I challenge him to ſingle Fight.
Throws down his Gauntlet.
All. Long live Edward the Fourth.
Ed. Thanks brave Mountgomery.
And thanks unto you all:
If Fortune ſerve me, I'le requite this Kindneſs.
Now for this Night, let's harbour here at York:
And when the Morning Sun ſhall raiſe his Carr
Above the Border of this Horizon,
We'll forward towards Warwick, and his Mates;
For well I wot, that Henry is no Souldier,
Ah froward Clarence, how evil it beſeems thee,
To flatter Henry, and forſake thy Brother?
Yet as we may, we'll meet both thee and Warwick,
Come on brave Souldiers: doubt not of the Day,
And that once gotten, doubt not of large pay. [Exeunt.

Enter

Enter the King, Warwick, Mountague, Clarence, Oxford, and Somerſet.

War. What Counſel, Lords? Edward from Belgia,
With haſty Germanes, and blunt Hollanders,
Hath paſs'd in ſafety through the narrow Seas,
And with his Troops doth march amain to London,
And many giddy people flock to him.
King. Let's levy Men, and beat him back again.
Clar. A little Fire is quickly trodden out,
Which being ſuffer'd, Rivers cannot quench.
War. In Warwickſhire I have true-hearted Friends,
Not mutinous in Peace, yet bold in War,
Thoſe will I muſter up: and thou Son Clarence
Shalt ſtir up in Suffolk, Norfolk, and in Kent,
The Knights and Gentlemen, to come with thee.
Thou Brother Mountague, and Buckingham,
Northampton, and in Leiceſter-ſhire ſhalt find
Men well inclin'd to hear what thou command'ſt.
And thou, brave Oxford, wondrous well belov'd,
In Oxfordſhire ſhalt muſter up thy Friends.
My Soveraign, with the loving Citizens,
Like to his Iſland, girt with the Ocean,
Or modeſt Dian, circled with her Nymphs,
Shall reſt in London, till we come to him:
Fair Lords take leave, and ſtand not to reply.
Farewel my Sov eraign.
King. Farewel my Hector, and my Troys true hope.
Clar. In ſign of truth, I kiſs your Highneſs hand.
King. Well-minded Clarence, be thou fortunate.
Mount. Comfort, my Lord, and ſo I take my leave.
Oxf. And thus I ſeal my Truth, and bid adieu.
King. Sweet Oxford, and my loving Mountague,
And all at once, once more a happy farewel.
War. Fare well, ſweet Lords, let's meet at Coventry.

[Exeunt.

King. Here at the Palace will I reſt a while.
Couſin of Exeter, what thinks your Lordſhip?
Methinks, the Power that Edward hath in Field,
Should not be able to encounter mine.
Exet. The doubt is, that he will ſeduce the reſt.
King. That's not my fear, my meed hath got me fame:
I have not ſtopt mine Ears to their demands,
Nor poſted of their Suits with ſlow delays,
My pity hath been Balm to heal their wounds,
My mildneſs hath allay'd their ſwelling griefs,
My mercy dry'd their water-flowing Tears.
I have not been deſirous of their Wealth,
Nor much oppreſt them with great ſubſidies,
Nor forward of Revenge, though they much err'd.
Then why ſhould they love Edward more than me?
No, Exeter, theſe Graces challenge Grace:
And when the Lion fawns upon the Lamb,
The Lamb will never ceaſe to follow him.
Shout within. A Lancaſter, A Lancaſter.
Ex. Heark, heark, my Lord, what Shouts are theſe?

Enter Edward and his Souldiers.

Edw. Seize on the ſhame-fac'd Henry, bear him hence,
And once again proclaim us King of England.
You are the Fount, that make ſmall Brooks to flow,
Now ſtops thy Spring, my Sea ſhall ſuck them dry,
And ſwell ſo much the higher, by their ebb.
Hence with him to the Tower, let him not ſpeak.

[Exit with King Henry.

And Lords, towards Coventry bend we our Courſe,
Where peremptory Warwick now remains:
The Sun ſhines hot, and if we uſe delay,
Cold biting Winter marrs our hop'd for Hay.
Rich. Away betimes before his Forces joyn,
And take the great-grown Traytor unawares:
Brave Warriors, march a main towards Coventry.

[Exeunt.

Enter Warwick, the Mayor of Coventry, two Meſſengers, and others upon the Walls.

War. Where is the Poſt that came from valiant Oxford?
How far hence is thy Lord, mine honeſt fellow?
Meſſ. 1. By this at Dunſmore, marching hitherward.
War. How far off is our Brother Mountague?
Where is the Poſt that came from Mountague?
Meſ. 2. By this at Daintry, with a puiſſant Troop.

Enter Somervile.

War. Say Somervile, what ſays my loving Son?
And by thy gueſs, how nigh is Clarence now?
Somerv. At Southam I did leave him with his Forces,
And do expect him here ſome two hours hence.
War. Then Clarence is at hand, I hear his Drum.
Somer. It is not his, my Lord, here Southam lies:
The Drum your Honour hears, marcheth from Warwick.
War. Who ſhould that be? Belike unlook'd for Friends.
Somer. They are at hand, and you ſhall quickly know.

March. Flouriſh. Enter Edward, Richard, and Souldiers.

Edw. Go, Trumpet, to the Walls, ſound a Parle.
Rich. See how the ſurly Warwick mans the Wall.
War. Oh unbid ſpight, is ſportful Edward come?
Where ſlept our Scouts, or how are they ſeduc'd,
That we could hear no news of his repair.
Edw. Now Warwick, wilt thou ope the City Gates,
Speak gentle words, and humbly bend thy Knee,
Call Edward King, and at his hands beg Mercy,
And he ſhall pardon thee theſe Outrages?
War. Nay rather, wilt thou draw thy Forces hence,
Confeſs who ſet thee up, and pluck'd thee down,
Call Warwick Patron, and be Penitent,
And thou ſhalt ſtill remain the Duke of York.
Rich. I thought at leaſt he would have ſaid the King,
Or did he make the Jeſt againſt his will?
War. Is not a Dukedom, Sir, a goodly gift?
Rich. I, by my Faith, for a poor Earl to give
I'le do thee ſervice for ſo good a gift.
War. 'Twas I that gave the Kingdom to thy Brother.
Edw. Why then 'tis mine, if but by Warwick's gift.
War. Thou art no Atlas for ſo great a weight:
And Weakling Warwick takes his gift again,
And Henry is my King, Warwick his Subject.
Edw. But Warwick's King is Edward's Priſoner:
And gallant Warwick, do but anſwer this,
What is the Body, when the Head is off?
Rich. Alas, that Warwick had no more fore-caſt,
But whiles he thought to ſteal the ſingle Ten,
The King was ſlily finger'd from the Deck:
You left poor Henry at the Biſhops Palace,
And ten to one you'll meet him in the Tower.
Edw. 'Tis even ſo, yet you are Warwick ſtill.
Rich. Come Warwick,
Take the time, kneel down, kneel down:
Nay when: ſtrike now, or elſe the Iron cools.
War. I had rather chop this hand off at a blow,
And with the other, fling it at thy Face,
Than bear ſo low a ſail, to ſtrike to thee.
Edw. Sail how thou canſt,
Have Wind and Tide thy Friend,
This hand, faſt wound about thy Coal-black hair,
Shall, whiles thy Head is warm, and new cut off,
Write in the duſt this Sentence with thy blood,
Wind-changing Warwick now can change no more.

Enter Oxford, with Drum and Colours.

War. Oh chearful Colours, ſee where Oxford comes.
Oxf. Oxford, Oxford, for Lancaſter.
Rich. The Gates are open, let us enter too.
Edw. So other Foes may ſet upon our backs.

Stand

Stand we in good array: for they no doubt
Will iſſue out again, and bid us battel;
If not, the City being but of ſmall defence,
We'll quickly rouze the Traytors in the ſame.
War. Oh welcome Oxford, for we want thy help.

Enter Mountague, with Drum and Colours.

Mount. Mountague, Mountague, for Lancaſter.
Rich. Thou and thy Brother both ſhall buy this Treaſon
Even with the deareſt blood your Bodies bear.
Edw. The harder match'd, the greater Victory,
My mind preſageth happy gain, and Conqueſt.

Enter Somerſet, with Drum and Colours.

Som. Somerſet, Somerſet, for Lancaſter.
Rich. Two of thy name, both Dukes of Somerſet,
Have ſold their Lives unto the Houſe of York,
And thou ſhalt be the third, if this Sword hold.

Enter Clarence, with Drum and Colours.

War. And loe, where George of Clarence ſweeps along,
Of force enough to bid his Brother Battel:
With whom, an upright zeal to right prevails
More than the nature of a Brothers love.
Come Clarence, come: thou wilt, if Warwick call.
Clar. Father of Warwick, know you what this means?
Look here, I throw my Infamy at thee:
I will not ruinate my Fathers Houſe,
Who gave his blood to lime the ſtones together,
And ſet up Lancaſter. Why, troweſt thou, Warwick,
That Clarence is ſo harſh, ſo blunt, unnatural,
To bend the fatal inſtruments of War
Againſt his Brother, and his lawful King.
Perhaps thou wilt object my holy Oath:
To keep that Oath, were more impiety,
Than Jephah, when he ſacrific'd his Daughter.
I am ſo ſorry for my Treſpaſs made,
That to deſerve well at my Brothers hands,
I here proclaim my ſelf thy mortal foe:
With reſolution, whereſoe're I meet thee,
(As I will meet thee, if thou ſtir abroad)
To plague thee for thy foul miſleading me.
And ſo, proud-hearted Warwick, I defie thee,
And to my Brother turn my bluſhing Cheeks.
Pardon me, Edward, I will make amends:
And Richard, do not frown upon my faults,
For I will henceforth be no more unconſtant.
Ed. Now welcome more, and ten times more belov'd
Than if thou never had'ſt deſerv'd our hate.
Rich. Welcome good Clarence, this is Brother-like.
War. Oh paſſing Traytor, perjur'd and unjuſt.
Edw. What Warwick,
Wilt thou leave the Town, and fight?
Or ſhall we beat the Stones about thine Ears?
War. Alas, I am not coop'd here for defence:
I will away towards Barnet preſently,
And bid thee Battel, Edward, if thou dar'ſt.
Edw. Yes Warwick, Edward dares, and leads the way:
Lords to the Field: Saint George, and Victory. [Exeunt.
March. Warwick and his company follows.

Alarum, and Excurſions. Enter Edward bringing forth Warwick wounded.

Edw. So, lie thou there: die thou, and die our fear,
For Warwick was a Bug that fear'd us all.
Now Mountague ſit faſt, I ſeek for thee,
That Warwick's Bones may keep thine company. [Exit.
War. Ah, who is nigh? come to me, friend, or foe,
And tell me who is Victor, York, or Warwick?
Why ask I that? my mangled body ſhews,
My blood, my want of ſtrength, my ſick heart ſhews,
That I muſt yield my body to the Earth,
And by my fall, the conqueſt to my foe.
Thus yields the Cedar to the Axes edge,
Whoſe Arms gave ſhelter to the Princely Eagle,
Under whoſe ſhade the ramping Lion ſlept,
Whoſe top-branch over-peer'd Joves ſpreading Tree,
And kept low Shrubs from Winters pow'rful wind.
Theſe Eyes, that now are dimn'd with Deaths black Veyl,
Have been as piercing as the Mid-day Sun,
To ſearch the ſecret Treaſons of the world:
The wrinckles in my Brows, now fill'd with blood,
Were lik'ned oft to Kingly Sepulchres:
For who liv'd King, but I could dig his Grave?
And who durſt ſmile, when Warwick bent his Brow?
Loe, now my Glory ſmear'd in duſt and blood,
My Parks, my Walks, my Mannors that I had,
Even now forſake me; and of all my Lands,
Is nothing left me, but my bodies length.
Why, what is Pomp, Rule, Reign, but Earth and Duſt?
And live we how we can, yet die we muſt.

Enter Oxford and Somerſet.

Som. Ah Warwick, Warwick, wert thou as we are,
We might recover all our loſs again:
The Queen from France hath brought a puiſſant power
Even now we heard the news: ah, could'ſt thou flye.
War. Why then I would not flye. Ah Mountague,
If thou be there ſweet Brother, take my Hand,
And with thy Lips keep in my Soul a while.
Thou lov'ſt me not: for, Brother, if thou didſt,
Thy tears would waſh this cold congealed blood,
That glews my Lips, and will not let me ſpeak.
Come quickly Montague, or I am dead.
Som. Ah Warwick, Mountague hath breath'd his laſt,
And to the laſt gaſp, cry'd out for Warwick:
And ſaid, commend me to my valiant Brother.
And more he would have ſaid, and more he ſpoke,
Which ſounded like a Cannon in a Vault,
That mought not be diſtinguiſh'd: but at laſt,
I well might hear delivered with a groan,
O farewel Warwick.
War. Sweet reſt his Soul:
Flye Lords, and ſave your ſelves,
For Warwick bids you all farewel, to meet in Heaven.
Oxf. Away, away, to meet the Queens great power.
Here they bear away his Body. [Exeunt.

Flouriſh. Enter King Edward in triumph, with Richard, Clarence, and the reſt.

King. Thus far our Fortune keeps an upward courſe,
And we are grac'd with wreaths of Victory:
But in the midſt of this bright-ſhining Day,
I ſpye a black ſuſpicious threatning Cloud,
That will encounter with our glorious Sun,
E're he attain his eaſeful Weſtern Bed:
I mean, my Lords, thoſe powers that the Queen
Hath rais'd in Gallia, have arrived our Coaſt,
And, as we hear, march on to fight with us.
Clar. A little gale will ſoon diſperſe that Cloud,
And blow it to the Source from whence it came,
Thy very Beams will dry thoſe Vapours up,
For every Cloud engenders not a Storm.
Rich. The Queen is valued thirty thouſand ſtrong,
And Somerſet, with Oxford, fled to her:
If ſhe hath time to breathe, be well aſſur'd
Her faction will be full as ſtrong as ours.
King. We are advertis'd by our loving friends,
That they do hold their courſe toward Tewkſbury.
We having now the beſt at Barnet Field,
Will thither ſtraight, for willingneſs rids way,
And as we march, our ſtrength will be augmented:
In every County as we go along,

Strike

Strike up the Drum, cry courage, and away. [Exeunt.

March. Enter the Queen, young Edward, Somerſet, Oxford, and Souldiers.

Qu. Great Lords, wiſe men ne're ſit and wail their loſs,
But chearly ſeek how to redreſs their harms.
What though the Maſt be now blown over-board,
The Cable broke, the holding-Anchor loſt,
And half our Sailors ſwallow'd in the flood?
Yet lives our Pilot ſtill. Is't meet, that he Should leave the Helm, and like a fearful Lad,
With tearful Eyes add Water to the Sea,
And give more ſtrength to that which hath too much,
Whiles in his moan, the Ship ſplits on the Rock,
Which induſtry and courage might have ſav'd?
Ah what a ſhame, ah what a fault were this.
Say, Warwick was our Anchor: what of that?
And Mountague our top-Maſt: what of him?
Our ſlaughter'd friends, the tackles: what of theſe?
Why is not Oxford here another Anchor?
And Somerſet, another goodly Maſt?
The friends of France our Shrowds and Tacklings?
And though unskilful, why not Ned and I,
For once allow'd the skilful Pilots Charge?
We will not from the Helm to ſit and weep,
But keep our Courſe (though the rough Wind ſay no)
From Shelves and Rocks, that threaten us with Wrack.
As good to chide the Waves, as ſpeak them fair.
And what is Edward, but a ruthleſs Sea?
What Clarence, but a quick-ſand of Deceit?
And Richard, but a raged fatal Rock?
All theſe, the Enemies to our poor Bark.
Say you can ſwim, alas, 'tis but a while:
Tread on the Sand, why there you quickly ſink,
Beſtride the Rock, the Tyde will waſh you off,
Or elſe you famiſh, that's a three-fold Death.
This ſpeak I (Lords) to let you underſtand,
In caſe ſome one of you would flye from us,
That there's no hop'd-for Mercy with the Brothers,
More than with ruthleſs VVaves, with Sands and Rocks.
VVhy courage then, what cannot be avoided,
'Twere childiſh weakneſs to lament, or fear.

Prin. Methinks a VVoman of this valiant Spirit,
Should, if a Coward heard her ſpeak theſe words,
Infuſe his Breaſt with magnanimity,
And make him, naked, foyl a Man at Arms.
I ſpeak not this, as doubting any here:
For did I but ſuſpect a fearful Man,
He ſhould have leave to go away betimes,
Leſt in our need he might infect another,
And make him of like ſpirit to himſelf.
If any ſuch be here, as God forbid,
Let him depart before we need his help.

Oxf. VVomen and Children of ſo high a Courage,
And VVarriors faint, why 'twere perpetual ſhame,
Oh brave young Prince: thy famous Grandfather
Doth live again in thee; long may'ſt thou live,
To bear his Image, and renew his Glories.

Som. And he that will not fight for ſuch a hope,
Go home to Bed, and like the Owl by day;
If he ariſe, be mock'd and wondred at.

Qu. Thanks gentle Somerſet, ſweet Oxford thanks.

Prin. And take his thanks, that yet hath nothing elſe.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Prepare you Lords, for Edward is at hand,
Ready to fight: therefore be reſolute.

Oxf. I thought no leſs, it is his Policy,
To haſt thus faſt, to find us unprovided.

Som. But he's deceiv'd, we are in readineſs.

Queen. This chears my Heart, to ſee your forwardneſs.

Oxf. Here pitch our Battel, hence we will not budge.

March. Enter Edward, Richard, Clarence, and Souldiers.

Ed. Brave followers, yonder ſtands the thorny VVood
VVhich by Heavens aſſiſtance, and your ſtrength,
Muſt by the Roots be hewn up yet e're Night.
I need not add more fuel to your fire,
For well I wot, ye blaze, to burn them out:
Give ſignal to the fight, and to it, Lords.

Qu. Lords, Knights, and Gentlemen, what ſhould I ſay,
My tears gain-ſay: for every word I ſpeak,
Ye ſee I drink the water of my Eye.
Therefore no more but this: Henry your Soveraign
Is Priſoner to the Foe, his State uſurp'd,
His Realm a Slaughter-houſe, his Subjects ſlain,
His Statutes cancell'd, and his Treaſure ſpent:
And yonder is the VVolf, that makes this ſpoyl.
You fight in Juſtice: Then in Gods Name, Lords,
Be valiant, and give ſignal to the fight.

Alarum, Retreat, Excurſions. [Exeunt.

Enter Edward, Richard, Queen, Clarence, Oxford, Somerſet.

Edw. Now here's a period of tumultuous Broyls.
Away with Oxford to Hames Caſtle ſtraight:
For Somerſet, off with his guilty Head.
Go bear them hence, I will not hear them ſpeak.

Oxf. For my part, I'le not trouble thee with words.

Som. Nor I, but ſtoop with patience to my fortune.
[Exeunt.

Queen. So part we ſadly in this troublous world,
To meet with Joy in ſweet Jeruſalem.

Edw. Is Proclamation made, That who finds Edward
Shall have a high reward, and he his Life?

Rich. It is, and loe where youthful Edward comes.

Enter the Prince.

Edw. Bring forth the Gallant, let us hear him ſpeak.
What? can ſo young a Thorn begin to prick?
Edward, what ſatisfaction canſt thou make,
For bearing Arms, for ſtirring up my ſubjects,
And all the trouble thou haſt turn'd me to?

Prin. Speak like a Subject, proud ambitious York,
Suppoſe that I am now my Fathers Mouth,
Reſign thy Chair, and where I ſtand kneel thou,
Whil'ſt I propoſe the ſelf-ſame words to thee,
Which (Traytor) thou would'ſt have me anſwer to.

Queen. Ah, that thy Father had been ſo reſolv'd.

Rich. That you might ſtill have worn the Petticoat,
And ne're have ſtoln the Breech from Lancaſter.

Prin. Let Æſop Fable in a Winters Night,
His Curriſh Riddles ſorts not with this place.

Rich. By Heaven, Brat, I'le plague ye for that word.

Queen. I, thou waſt born to be a plague to Men.

Rich. For Gods ſake, take away this Captive Scold.

Prin. Nay, take away this ſcolding Crook-back, rather.

Edw. Peace wilful Boy, or I will charm your Tongue.

Clar. Untutor'd Lad, thou art too malapert.

Prin. I know my duty, you are all undutiful:
Laſcivious Edward, and thou perjur'd George,
And thou miſ-ſhapen Dick, I tell ye all,
I am your better, Traytors as ye are.
And thou uſurp'ſt my Fathers right and mine.

Edw. Take that, the likeneſs of this Rayler here.
[Stabs him.

Rich. Sprawl'ſt thou? take that, to end thy agony.
[Rich. Stabs him.

Clar. And there's for twitting me with perjury.
[Clar. Stabs him.

Queen. Oh, kill me too.

Rich.

Rich. Marry, and ſhall. [Offers to kill her.
Edw. Hold, Richard, hold, for we have done too much.
Rich. Why ſhould ſhe live, to fill the world with words?
Edw. What? doth ſhe ſwoon? uſe means for her recovery.
Rich. Clarence excuſe me to the King my Brother:
I'le hence to London on a ſerious matter,
E're ye come there, be ſure to hear ſome news.
Clar. What? what?
Rich. Tower, the Tower. [Exit.
Queen. Oh Ned, ſweet Ned, ſpeak to thy Mother, Boy.
Can'ſt thou not ſpeak? O Traytors, Murderers!
They that ſtabb'd Cæſar, ſhed no blood at all:
Did not offend, nor were not worthy Blame,
If this foul deed were by, to equal it.
He was a Man; this (in reſpect) a Child,
And Men ne're ſpend their fury on a Child.
What's worſe than Murther, that I may name it?
No, no, my Heart will burſt, and if I ſpeak,
And I will ſpeak, that ſo my Heart may burſt.
Butchers and Villains, bloody Cannibals,
How ſweet a Plant have you untimely cropt:
You have no Children (Butchers) if you had,
The thought of them would have ſtirr'd up remorſe;
But if you ever chance to have a Child,
Look in his youth to have him ſo cut off.
As deathſmen you have rid this ſweet young Prince.
King. Away with her, go bear her hence perforce.
Queen. Nay, never bear me hence, diſpatch me here:
Here ſheath thy Sword, I'le pardon thee my death:
What? wilt thou not? then Clarence do it thou.
Clar. By Heaven, I will not do thee ſo much eaſe.
Queen. Good Clarence do, ſweet Clarence do thou it.
Clar. Did'ſt thou not hear me ſwear I would not do it?
Queen. I but thou uſeſt to forſwear thy ſelf.
'Twas ſin before, but now 'tis Charity.
What wilt thou not? where is that devil's Butcher Richard,
Hard-favour'd Richard? Richard, where art thou?
Thou art not here: Murther is thy Almsdeed.
Petitioner for Blood thou ne're pull'ſt back.
Edw. Away I ſay, I charge ye bear her hence.
Queen. So come to you and yours, as to this Prince.
[Exit Queen.
Edw. Where's Richard gone.
Cla. To London all in poſt, and as I gueſs,
To make a bloody Supper in the Tower?
Edw. He's ſudden if a thing comes in his head,
Now march we hence, diſcharge the common ſort
With pay and thanks, and let's away to London,
And ſee our gentle Queen how well ſhe fares,
By this (I hope) ſhe hath a Son for me. [Exit.

Enter Henry the Sixth, and Richard, with the Lieutenant on the Walls.

Rich. Good day, my Lord, what at your Book ſo hard?
Hen. I my good Lord: my Lord, I ſhould ſay rather,
'Tis ſin to flatter, Good was little better:
Good Gloſter, and Good Devil, were alike,
And both propoſterous: therefore, not Good Lord.
Rich. Sirrah, leave us to our ſelves, we muſt confer.
Hen. So flies the wreakleſs ſhepherd from the Wolf,
So firſt the harmleſs Sheep doth yield his Fleece,
And next his Throat unto the Butchers Knife.
What Scene of Death hath Roſſius to act?
Rich. Suſpition always haunts the guilty mind,
The Thief doth fear each buſh an Officer.
Hen. The Bird that hath been limed in a buſh;
With trembling Wings miſdoubteth every buſh;
And I the helpleſs Male to one ſweet Bird,
Have now the fatal Object in my Eye,
Where my poor young was lim'd, was caught and kill'd.
Rich. Why what a peeviſh Fool was that of Creet,
That taught his Son the Office of a Fowl,
And yet for all his Wings, the Fool was drown'd.
Hen. I, Dædalus, my poor Boy, Icarus,
Thy Father, Minos, that deny'd our courſe,
The Sun that ſear'd the wings of my ſweet Boy.
Thy Brother Edward, and thy ſelf, the Sea
Whoſe envious Gulf did ſwallow up his life:
Ah, kill me with thy Weapon, not with words,
My breſt can better brook thy Daggers point,
Than can my Ears that Tragick Hiſtory.
But wherefore doſt thou come? Is't for my Life?
Rich. Think'ſt thou I am an Executioner?
Hen. A Perſecutor I am ſure thou art,
If murthering Innocents be Executing,
Why then thou art an Executioner?
Rich. Thy Son I kill'd for his preſumption:
Hen. Hadſt thou been kill'd when firſt thou didſt preſume,
Thou had'ſt not liv'd to kill a Son of mine:
And thus I propheſie that many a thouſand,
Which now miſtruſt no parcel of my fear,
And many an Old-mans ſigh, and many a Widows,
And many an Orphans Water-ſtanding-eye,
Men for their Sons, Wives for their Husbands fate,
And Orphans, for their Parents timeleſs death,
Shall rue the hour that ever thou waſt born.
The Owl ſhriek'd at thy birth, an evil ſign,
The Night-Crow cry'd, aboding luckleſs time,
Dogs howl'd, and hideous tempeſt ſhook down Trees:
The Raven rook'd her on the Chimnies top,
And chatt'ring Pies in diſmal Diſcords ſung:
Thy Mother felt more than a Mothers pain,
And yet brought forth leſs than a Mothers hope,
To wit, an indigeſted deform'd lump,
Not like the fruit of ſuch a goodly Tree.
Teeth had'ſt thou in thy head, when thou was't born,
To ſignifie, thou cam'ſt to bite the world:
And if the reſt be true which I have heard,
Thou cam'ſt——
Rich. I'le hear no more:
Die Prophet in thy ſpeech, [Stabs him.
For this (among'ſt the reſt) was I ordain'd.
Hen. I, and for much more ſlaughter after this,
O God forgive my ſins, and pardon thee. [Dies.
Rich. What? will the aſpiring blood of Lancaſter
Sink in the ground? I thought it would have mounted.
See how my Sword weeps for the poor Kings death.
O may ſuch purple tears be alway ſhed
From thoſe that wiſh the downfal of our Houſe.
If any ſpark of life be yet remaining:
Down, down to Hell, and ſay I ſent thee thither.
[Stabs him again.
I that have neither pity, love, nor fear.
Indeed 'tis true that Henry told me of:
For I have often heard my Mother ſay,
I came into the world with my Legs forward.
Had I not reaſon (think ye) to make haſt,
And ſeek their Ruine, that uſurp'd our Right?
The Midwife wonder'd, and the Women cry'd,
O Jeſus bleſs us, he is born with Teeth,
And ſo I was, which plainly ſignified,
That I ſhould ſnarle, and bite, and play the Dog:
Then ſince the Heavens have ſhap'd my body ſo,
Let Hell make crook'd my Mind to anſwer it.
I have no Brother, I am like no Brother:
And this word [Love] which Gray-beards call Divine,
Be reſident in Men like one another,
And not in me: I am my ſelf alone.
Clarence beware, thou keep'ſt me from the light,
But I will ſort a pitchy day for thee:
For I will buz abroad ſuch Propheſies,
That Edward ſhall be fearful of his life,
And then to purge his fear, I'le be thy death.
King Henry, and the Prince his Son are gone,
Clarence thy turn is next, and then the reſt.

Counting

Counting my ſelf but bad, till I be beſt.
I'le throw thy body in another room,
And triumph Henry in thy day of Doom. [Exit.

Enter King, Queen, Clarence, Richard, Haſtings, Nurſe, and Attendants.

King. Once more we ſit in Enngland's Royal Throne,
Re-purchas'd with the blood of Enemies:
What, valiant Foe-men, like to Autumns Corn,
Have we mow'd down in tops of all their pride?
Three Dukes of Somerſet, threefold Renown,
For hardy and undoubted Champions:
Two Clifford's, as the Father and the Son,
And two Northumberland's: two braver Men,
Ne're ſpurr'd their Courſers at the Trumpets ſound.
With them, the two brave Bears, Warwick and Mountague,
That in their Chains fetter'd the Kingly Lion,
And made the Forreſt tremble when they roar'd.
Thus have we ſwept Suſpition from our Seat,
And made our footſtool of Security.
Come hither Beſs, and let me kiſs my Boy:
Young Ned, for thee, thine Uncles, and my ſelf,
Have in our Armors watch'd the Winter night,
Went all afoot in Summers ſcalding heat,
That thou might'ſt repoſſeſs the Crown in peace,
And of our Labours thou ſhalt reap the gain.

Rich. I'le blaſt his harveſt, if your Head were laid,
For I yet am not look'd on in the world.
This Shoulder was ordain'd ſo thick, to heave,
And heave it ſhall ſome weight, or break my back,
Work thou the way, and that ſhall execute.

King. Clarence and Gloſter, love my lovely Queen,
And kiſs your Princely Nephew, Brothers both.

Clar. The duty that I owe your Majeſty,
I Seal upon the lips of this ſweet Babe.

King. Thanks, Noble Clarence, worthy Brother, thanks.

Ri. And that I love the Tree from whence thou ſprang'ſt
Witneſs the loving kiſs I give the Fruit:
To ſay the truth, ſo Judas kiſt his Maſter,
And cried, all hail, when as he meant all harm.

King. Now am I ſeated as my Soul delights,
Having my Countries peace, and Brothers loves.

Clar. What will your Grace have done with Margaret?
Reynard her Father, to the King of France
Hath pawn'd the Sicils and Jeruſalem,
And hither have they ſent it for her Ranſom.

King. Away with her, and waft her hence to France:
And now what reſts, but that we ſpend the time
With Stately Triumphs, mirthful Comick ſhews,
Such as befits the pleaſure of the Court.
Sound Drums and Trumpets, farewel ſower annoy,
For here I hope begins our laſting joy. [Exeunt omnes.

THE TRAGEDY OF RICHARD III:

With the Landing of the EARL of RICHMOND,

And the Battel at BOSWORTH FIELD.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter Richard Duke of Gloſter, ſolus.

NOw is the Winter of our Diſcontent,
Made glorious Summer by this Son of York:
And all the Clouds that lowr'd upon our Houſe
In the deep boſom of the Ocean buried.
Now are our brows bound with Victorious Wreaths,
Our bruiſed arms hung up for Monuments;
Our ſtern Alarums chang'd to merry Meetings;
Our dreadful Marches to delightful Meaſures.
Grim-viſag'd War, hath ſmooth'd his wrinkled Front:
And now, in ſtead of mounting Barbed Steeds,
To fright the Souls of fearful Adverſaries,
He capers nimbly in a Ladies Chamber,
To the laſcivious pleaſing of a Lute.
But I, that am not ſhap'd for ſportive tricks,
Nor made to court an amorous Looking-glaſs:
I, that am rudely ſtampt, and want Love's Majeſty,
To ſtrut before a wanton ambling Nymph:
I, that am curtail'd of this fair Proportion,
Cheated of Feature by diſſembling Nature,
Deform'd, unfiniſh'd, ſent before my time
Into this breathing World, ſcarce half made up,
And that ſo lamely and unfaſhionable,
That dogs bark at me, as I halt by them:
Why I (in this weak piping time of Peace)
Have no delight to paſs away the time,
Unleſs to ſee my Shadow in the Sun,
And deſcant on mine own Deformity.
And therefore, ſince I cannot prove a Lover,
To entertain theſe fair well-ſpoken days,
I am determined to prove a Villain,
And hate the idle pleaſures of theſe days.
Plots have I laid, Inductions dangerous,
By drunken Prophecies, Libels, and Dreams,
To ſet my Brother Clarence and the King
In deadly hate, the one againſt the other:
And if King Edward be as true and juſt,
As I am Subtle, Falſe, and Treacherous,
This day ſhould Clarence cloſely be mew'd up;
About a Prophecy, which ſays that G
Of Edward's Heirs the murtherer ſhall be.
Dive thoughts down to my Soul, here Clarence comes.

Enter Clarence, and Brakenbury, guarded.

Brother, good day: What means this armed Guard
That waits upon your Grace?
Cla. His Majeſty tendring my perſons ſafety,
Hath appointed this Conduct to convey me to th' Tower.
Rich. Upon what cauſe?
Cla. Becauſe my name is George.
Rich. Alack, my Lord, that fault is none of yours:
He ſhould for that commit your Grandfathers.
O belike, his Majeſty hath ſome intent,
That you ſhould be new Chriſtned in the Tower.
But what's the matter, Clarence, may I know?
Cla. Yea Richard, when I know: but I proteſt
As yet I do not: But as I can learn,
He hearkens after Prophecies, and Dreams,
And from the Croſs-row plucks the letter G:
And ſays, a Wizard told him, that by G,
His iſſue diſ-inherited ſhould be.
And for my name of George begins with G,
It follows in his thought that I am he.

Theſe

These (as I learn) and such toyes as these,
Have mov'd his Highness to commit me now.
Rich. Why this it is, when Men are rul'd by Women.
'Tis not the King that sends you to the Tower,
My Lady Gray his Wife, Clarence, 'tis she,
That tempts him to this harsh Extremity.
Was it not she, and that good Man of Worship,
Anthony Woodvil her Brother there,
That made him send Lord Hastings to the Tower?
From whence this present day he is delivered.
We are not safe, Clarence, we are not safe.
Cla. By Heaven, I think there is no man secure
But the Queens Kindred, and night-walking Heralds,
That trudge betwixt the King, and Mistress Shore.
Heard you not what an humble Suppliant
Lord Hastings was for his delivery?
Rich. Humbly complaining to her Deity
Got my Lord Chamberlain his liberty.
I'le tell you what, I think it is our way,
If we will keep in favour with the King,
To be her Men, and wear her Livery:
The jealous o're-worn Widow, and her self,
Since that our Brother dub'd them Gentlewomen,
Are mighty Gossips in our Monarchy.
Bra. I beseech your Graces both to pardon me,
His Majesty hath straightly given in charge,
That no Man shall have private Conference
(Of what degree soever) with your Brother.
Rich. Even so, and please your worship, Brakenbury,
You may partake of any thing we say:
We speak no Treason, man; we say the King
Is Wise and Vertuous, and his Noble Queen
Well strook in years, fair, and not jealous.
We say, that Shore's Wife hath a pretty Foot,
A cherry Lip, a bonny Eye, a passing pleasing Tongue:
And that the Queen's Kindred are made Gentle-folks.
How say you, Sir? can you deny all this?
Bra. With this (my Lord) my self have nought to do.
Rich. Naught to do with Mistress Shore?
I tell thee, Fellow, he that doth naught with her
(Excepting one) were best to do it secretly alone.
Bra. What one, my Lord?
Rich. Her Husband, Knave, would'st thou betray me?
Bra. I do beseech your Grace
To pardon me, and withal forbear
Your Conference with the noble Duke.
Cla. We know thy charge, Brakenbury, and will obey.
Rich. We are the Queen's Abjects, and must obey.
Brother farewel, I will unto the King,
And whatsoe're you will employ me in,
Were it to call King Edward's Widow, Sister,
I will perform it to infranchise you.
Mean time, this deep disgrace of Brotherhood
Touches me deeper than you can imagine.
Cla. I know it pleaseth neither of us well.
Rich. Well, your imprisonment shall not be long,
I will deliver you, or else lye for you:
Mean time have patience.
Cla. I must perforce: farewel. [Exit Cla.
Rich. Go tread the path that thou shalt ne're return:
Simple plain Clarence, I do love thee so,
That I will shortly send thy Soul to Heaven,
If Heaven will take the Present at our hands;
But who comes here? the new delivered Hastings?

Enter Lord Hastings.

Hast. Good time of day unto my gracious Lord.
Rich. As much unto my good Lord Chamberlain:
Well are you welcome to this open Air,
How hath your Lordship brook'd Imprisonment?
Hast. With patience (noble Lord) as Prisoners must:
But I shall live (my Lord) to give them thanks
That were the cause of my Imprisonment.
Rich. No doubt, no doubt, and so shall Clarence too,
For they that were your Enemies are his,
And have prevail'd as much on him, as you.
Hast. More pity, that the Eagles should be mew'd,
Whiles Kites and Buzzards play at liberty.
Rich. What news abroad?
Hast. No news so bad abroad as this at home:
The King is sickly, weak, and melancholy,
And his Physitians fear him mightily.
Rich. Now by Saint John, that news is bad indeed.
O he hath kept an evil Diet long,
And over-much consumed his Royal Person:
'Tis very grievous to be thought upon.
Where is he, in his Bed?
Hast. He is.
Rich. Go you before, and I will follow you.
[Exit Hastings.
He cannot live I hope, and must not dye,
'Till George be pack'd with post-horse up to Heaven.
I'le in to urge his hatred more to Clarence,
With lies well steel'd with weighty arguments,
And if I fail not in my deep intent,
Clarence hath not another day to live:
Which done, God take King Edward to his Mercy,
And leave the World for me to bustle in.
For then, I'le marry Warwick's youngest Daughter,
What though I kill'd her Husband, and her Father,
The readiest way to make the Wench amends,
Is to become her Husband and her Father:
The which will I, not all so much for Love,
As for another secret close intent,
By marrying her, which I must reach unto.
But yet I run before my Horse to Market:
Clarence still breathes, Edward still lives and raigns,
When they are gone, then must I count my gains. [Exit.

Scena Secunda.

Enter the Coarse of Henry the Sixth, with Halberds to guard it, Lady Anne being the Mourner.

Anne. Set down, set down your honourable load,
If Honour may be shrowded in a Herse;
Whil'st I a-while obsequiously lament
Th'untimely fall of Vertuous Lancaster.
Poor key-cold Figure of a holy King,
Pale ashes of the House of Lancaster;
Thou bloodless Remnant of that Royal Blood,
Be it lawful that I invocate thy Ghost,
To hear the Lamentations of poor Anne,
Wife to thy Edward, to thy slaughtred Son,
Stab'd by the selfsame hand that made these wounds.
Loe, in these Windows that let forth thy Life,
I pour the helpless Balm of my poor Eyes.
O curs'd be the hand that made these holes:
Curs'd the Heart, that had the heart to do it:
Curs'd the Blood, that let this blood from hence,
More direful hap betide that hated wretch
That makes us wretched by the death of thee,
Than I can wish to Wolves, to Spiders, Toads,
Or any creeping venom'd thing that lives.
If ever he have Child, abortive be it,
Prodigious, and untimely brought to light,
Whose ugly and unnatural Aspect
May fright the hopeful Mother at the view,
And that be Heir to his unhappiness.
If ever he have Wife, let her be made
More miserable by the death of him,
Than I am made by my young Lord, and thee.
Come now towards Chertsey with your holy Load,
Taken from Paul's to be interred there.
And still as you are weary of this weight,
Rest you, whiles I lament King Henry's Coarse.

Enter Richard Duke of Gloſter.

Rich. Stay you that bear the Coarſe, and ſet it down.
Anne. What black Magician conjures up this Fiend,
To ſtop devoted charitable deeds?
Rich. Villains, ſet down the Coarſe; or by St. Paul,
I'le make a Coarſe of him that diſobeys.
Gen. My Lord, ſtand back, and let the Coffin paſs.
Rich. Unmanner'd Dog,
Stand thou when I command:
Advance thy Halbert higher than my Breaſt,
Or by St. Paul, I'le ſtrike thee to my Foot,
And ſpurn upon thee, Beggar, for thy boldneſs.
Anne. What do you tremble? are you all afraid?
Alas, I blame you not, for you are Mortal,
And Mortal Eyes cannot endure the Devil.
Avant thou dreadful Miniſter of Hell;
Thou had'ſt but power over his Mortal Body,
His Soul thou canſt not have; therefore be gone.
Rich. Sweet Saint, for Charity, be not ſo curſt.
Anne. Foul Devil,
For God's ſake hence, and trouble us not,
For thou haſt made the happy Earth thy Hell:
Fill'd it with curſing cries, and deep exclaims:
If thou delight to view thy hainous deeds,
Behold this pattern of thy Butcheries.
Oh Gentlemen, ſee, ſee dead Henry's wounds
Open their congeal'd mouths, and bleed a-freſh.
Bluſh, bluſh, thou lump of foul Deformity:
For 'tis thy preſence that exhales this Blood
From cold and empty Veins, where no blood dwells.
Thy deeds inhumane and unnatural
Provoke this Deluge moſt unnatural.
O God! which this Blood mad'ſt, revenge his Death:
O Earth! which this Blood drink'ſt, revenge his Death.
Either Heav'n with Lightning ſtrike the Murth'rer dead,
Or Earth, gape open wide, and eat him quick,
As thou doſt ſwallow up this good Kings Blood,
Which this Hell-govern'd arm hath butchered.
Rich. Lady, you know no Rules of Charity,
Which renders good for bad, Bleſſings for Curſes.
Anne. Villain, thou know'ſt nor law of God nor Man,
No Beaſt ſo fierce, but knows ſome touch of pity.
Rich. But I know none, and therefore am no Beaſt.
Anne. O wonderful, when Devils tell the truth!
Rich. More wonderful, when Angels are ſo angry:
Vouchſafe (divine perfection of a Woman)
Of theſe ſuppoſed Crimes, to give me leave,
By circumſtance, but to acquit my ſelf.
Anne. Vouchſafe (diffus'd infection of a Man)
Of theſe known evils, but to give me leave
By circumſtance, to curſe thy curſed Self.
Rich. Fairer than tongue can name thee, let me have
Some patient leiſure to excuſe my ſelf.
Anne. Fouler than heart can think thee,
Thou can'ſt make no excuſe currant,
But to hang thy ſelf.
Rich. By ſuch deſpair, I ſhould accuſe my ſelf.
Anne. And by deſpairing ſhalt thou ſtand excuſed,
For doing worthy Vengeance on thy ſelf,
That did'ſt unworthy ſlaughter upon others.
Rich. Say, that I ſlew them not.
Anne. Then ſay, they were not ſlain:
But dead they are, and, deviliſh ſlave, by thee.
Rich. I did not kill your Husband.
Anne. Why then he is alive.
Rich. Nay, he is dead, and ſlain by Edward's hands.
Anne. In thy foul Throat thou ly'ſt,
Queen Margaret ſaw
Thy murd'rous Faulchion ſmoaking in his Blood:
The which thou once did'ſt bend againſt her Breaſt,
But that thy Brothers beat aſide the point.
Rich. I was provok'd by her ſland'rous tongue,
That laid their guilt upon my guiltleſs ſhoulders.
Anne. Thou waſt provoked by thy bloody mind,
That never dream'ſt on ought but Butcheries:
Did'ſt thou not kill this King?
Rich. I grant ye.
Anne. Do'ſt grant me, Hedg-Hog,
Then God grant me too,
Thou may'ſt be damn'd for that wicked deed:
O he was gentle, mild, and vertuous.
Rich. The better for the King of Heaven that hath him.
Anne. He is in Heaven where thou ſhalt never come.
Rich. Let him thank me that holp to ſend him thither:
For he was fitter for that place than Earth.
Anne. And thou unfit for any place but Hell.
Rich. Yes one place elſe, if you will hear me name it.
Anne. Some Dungeon.
Rich. Your Bed-chamber.
Anne. Ill reſt betide the Chamber where thou lyeſt.
Rich. So will it, Madam, till I lye with you.
Anne. I hope ſo.
Rich. I know ſo. But gentle Lady Anne,
To leave this keen encounter of our Wits,
And fall ſomething into a ſlower method.
Is not the Cauſer of the timeleſs deaths
Of theſe Plantagenets, Henry and Edward,
As blameful as the Executioner?
Anne. Thou waſt the Cauſe, and moſt accurſt effect.
Rich. Your Beauty was the cauſe of that effect:
Your Beauty that did haunt me in my ſleep,
To undertake the Death of all the World,
So I might live one hour in your ſweet Boſome.
Anne. If I thought that, I tell thee, Homicide,
Theſe Nails ſhould rent that Beauty from my Cheeks.
Rich. Theſe Eyes could not endure that Beauties wrack,
You ſhould not blemiſh it, if I ſtood by;
As all the world is cheered by the Sun,
So I by that: it is my day, my life.
An. Black night o're-ſhade thy day, and death thy life.
Rich. Curſe not thy ſelf, fair Creature,
Thou art both.
Anne. I would I were, to be reveng'd on thee.
Rich. It is a quarrel moſt unnatural,
To be reveng'd on him that loveth thee.
Anne. It is a quarrel juſt and reaſonable,
To be reveng'd on him that kill'd my Husband.
Rich. He that bereft thee, Lady of thy Husband.
Did it to help thee to a better Husband.
Anne. His better doth not breathe upon the Earth.
Rich. He lives, that loves thee better than he could.
Anne. Name him.
Rich. Plantagenet.
Anne. Why that was he.
Rich. The ſelf-ſame name, but one of better Nature.
Anne. Where is he?
Rich. Here: [Spits at him.
Why doſt thou ſpit at me?
Anne. Would it were mortal poiſon for thy ſake.
Rich. Never came poiſon from ſo ſweet a place.
Anne. Never hung poiſon on a fouler Toad.
Out of my ſight, thou doſt infect mine Eyes.
Rich. Thine Eyes (ſweet Lady) have infected mine.
Anne. Would they were Baſilisks, to ſtrike thee dead.
Rich. I would they were, that I might dye at once:
For now they kill me with a living Death.
Thoſe Eyes of thine from mine have drawn ſalt Tears;
Sham'd their Aſpects with ſtore of childiſh drops:
Theſe Eyes which never ſhed remorſeful Tear,
No, when my Father York, and Edward wept.
To hear the piteous moan that Rutland made
When black-fac'd Clifford ſhook his Sword at him.
Nor when my Warlike Father, like a Child,
Told the ſad ſtory of my Father's Death,
And twenty times made pauſe to ſob and weep,
That all the ſtanders by had wet their Cheeks,
Like Trees be-daſh'd with rain: in that ſad time,

My

My manly Eyes did ſcorn an humble Tear:
And what theſe Sorrows could not thence exhale,
Thy Beauty hath, and made them blind with weeping.
I never ſued to Friend, nor Enemy:
My Tongue could never learn ſweet ſmoothing word.
But now thy Beauty is propos'd my Fee,
My proud Heart ſues, and prompts my Tongue to ſpeak.
[She looks ſcornfully at him.
Teach not thy Lip ſuch ſcorn, for it was made
For killing, Lady, not for ſuch contempt.
If thy revengeful Heart cannot forgive,
Loe here I lend thee this ſharp-pointed Sword,
Which if thou pleaſe to hide in this true Breaſt,
And let the Soul forth that adoreth thee,
I lay it naked to the deadly ſtroke,
And humbly beg the death upon my knee.
[He lays his Breaſt open, ſhe offers at it with his Sword.
Nay, do not pauſe: for I did kill King Henry,
But 'twas thy Beauty that provoked me.
Nay, now diſpatch: 'Twas I that ſtab'd young Edward,
But 'twas thy Heavenly Face that ſet me on.
[She falls the Sword.
Take up the Sword again, or take up me.
Anne. Ariſe Diſſembler, though I wiſh thy Death,
I will not be thy Executioner.
Rich. Then bid me kill my ſelf, and I will do it.
Anne. I have already.
Rich. That was in thy Rage:
Speak it again, and even with thy word,
This Hand, which for thy love, did kill thy Love,
Shall for thy love, kill a far truer Love,
To both their Deaths ſhalt thou be acceſſary.
Anne. I would I knew thy Heart.
Rich. 'Tis figur'd in my Tongue.
Anne. I fear me, both are falſe.
Rich. Then never Man was true.
Anne. Well, well, put up your Sword.
Rich. Say then, my Peace is made.
Anne. That ſhalt thou know hereafter.
Rich. But ſhall I live in hope?
Anne. All men I hope live ſo.
Vouchſafe to wear this Ring.
Rich. Look how thy Ring encompaſſeth my Finger,
Even ſo thy Breaſt incloſeth my poor Heart:
Wear both of them, for both of them are thine.
And if thy poor devoted Servant may
But beg one favour at thy gracious hand,
Thou doſt confirm this happineſs for ever.
Anne. What is it?
Rich. That it may pleaſe you leave theſe ſad Deſigns
To him that hath moſt cauſe to be a Mourner,
And preſently repair to Crosby Houſe:
Where (after I have ſolemnly interr'd
At Chertſey Monaſtery this Noble King,
And wet his Grave with my Repentant Tears)
I will with all expedient duty ſee you.
For divers unknown Reaſons, I beſeech you,
Grant me this Boon.
Anne. With all my Heart, and much it joys me too,
To ſee you are become ſo penitent.
Treſſel and Barkley, go along with me.
Rich. Bid me farewel.
Anne. 'Tis more than you deſerve:
But ſince you teach me how to flatter you,
Imagine I have ſaid farewel already. [Ex. two with Anne.
Gent. Towards Chertſey, Noble Lord?
Rich. Now to White-Fryers, there attend my coming.
[Exit Coarſe.
Was ever Woman in this humour Woo'd?
Was ever woman in this humour won?
I'le have her, but I will not keep her long.
What? I have kill'd her Husband, and his Father,
To take her in her hearts extreameſt hate,
With Curſes in her Mouth, tears in her Eyes,
The bleeding witneſs of my hatred by,
Having God, her Conſcience, and theſe bars againſt me,
And I no Friends to back my ſuit withall,
But the plain Devil and diſſembling looks?
And yet to win her? All the World to nothing.
Hah!
Hath ſhe forgot already that brave Prince,
Edward, her Lord, whom I (ſome three months ſince)
Stab'd in my angry mood, at Teuksbury?
A ſweeter and a lovelier Gentleman,
Fram'd in the prodigality of Nature,
Young, Valiant, Wiſe, and (no doubt) right Royal,
The ſpacious world cannot again afford,
And will ſhe thus abaſe her Eyes on me,
That cropt the Golden prime of this ſweet Prince,
And made her Widow to a woful Bed?
On me, whoſe All not equals Edwards Moytie?
On me, that halts, and am miſhapen thus?
My Dukedome to a beggarly Denier?
I do miſtake my perſon all this while:
Upon my life ſhe finds, (although I cannot)
My ſelf to be a marv'lous proper man.
I'le be at charges for a Looking-glaſs,
And entertain a ſcore or two of Taylors,
To ſtudy Faſhions to adorn my Body:
Since I am erept in favour with my ſelf,
I will maintain it with ſome little coſt,
But firſt I'le turn yon fellow in his Grave,
And then return lamenting to my Love.
Shine out, fair Sun, 'till I have bought a Glaſs,
That I may ſee my Shadow as I paſs. [Exit.

Scena Tertia.

Enter the Queen Mother, Lord Rivers, and Lord Gray.

Riv. Have patience, Madam, there is no doubt his Majeſty
Will ſoon recover his accuſtom'd health.
Gray. In that you brook it ill, it makes him worſe,
Therefore for God's ſake entertain good comfort,
And cheer his Grace with quick and merry Eyes.
Queen. If he were dead, what would betide on me?
Gray. No other harm, but loſs of ſuch a Lord.
Qu. The loſs of ſuch a Lord includes all harms.
Gray. The Heavens have bleſt you with a goodly Son
To be your Comforter, when he is gone.
Qu. Ah! he is young; and his Minority
Is put unto the truſt of Richard Gloſter,
A man that loves not me, nor none of you.
Riv. Is it concluded he ſhall be Protector?
Qu It is determin'd, not concluded yet:
But ſo it muſt be, if the King miſcarry.

Enter Buckingham and Derby.

Gray. Here comes the Lord of Buckingham and Derby.
Buck. Good time of day unto your Royal Grace.
Derb. God make your Majeſty joyful, as you have been.
Qu. The Counteſs Richmond, good my L. of Derby,
To your good Prayer will ſcarcely ſay, Amen.
Yet Derby, notwithſtanding ſhe's your Wife,
And loves not me, be you, good Lord, aſſur'd,
I hate not you for her proud arrogance.
Derb. I do beſeech you, either not believe
The envious Slanders of her falſe Accuſers:
Or if ſhe be accus'd on true report,
Bear with her weakneſs, which I think proceeds
From wayward ſickneſs, and no grounded malice.
Qu. Saw you the King to day, my Lord of Derby?
Derb. But now the Duke of Buckingham and I,
Are come from viſiting his Majeſty.
Qu. What likelihood of his amendment, Lords?

Buck. Madam, good hope, his Grace ſpeaks chearfully.
Qu. God grant him health, did you confer with him?
Buck. I, Madam, deſires to make atonement,
Between the Duke of Gloſter, and your Brothers,
And between them, and my Lord Chamberlain,
And ſent to warn them to his Royal preſence.
Qu. Would all were well, but that will never be,
I fear our happineſs is at the height.

Enter Richard.

Rich. They do me wrong, and I will not endure it,
Who is it that complains unto the King,
That I (forſooth) am ſtern, and love them not?
By holy Paul, they love his Grace but lightly,
That fill his Ears with ſuch diſſentious Rumors.
Becauſe I cannot flatter, and look fair,
Smile in Mens Faces, ſmooth, deceive, and cog,
Duck with French nods, and Apiſh Courteſie,
I muſt be held a rancorous Enemy.
Cannot a plain Man live, and think no harm,
But thus his ſimple truth muſt be abus'd,
With ſilken, ſlye, inſinuating Jacks?
Gray. To whom in all this preſence ſpeaks your Grace?
Rich. To thee, that haſt nor Honeſty nor Grace:
When have I injur'd thee? When done thee wrong?
Or thee? or thee? or any of your Faction?
A Plague upon you all. His Royal Grace
(Whom God preſerve, better than you would wiſh)
Cannot be quiet ſcarce a breathing while,
But you muſt trouble him with lew'd Complaints.
Qu. Brother of Gloſter, you miſtake the matter:
The King on his own Royal diſpoſition,
(And not provok'd by any Suitor elſe)
~~Aiming (belike) at your interior hatred,~~
That in your outward action ſhews it ſelf
Againſt my Children, Brothers, and my Self,
Makes him to ſend, that he may learn the ground.
Rich. I cannot tell, the world is grown ſo bad,
That Wrens make prey, where Eagles dare not perch.
Since every Jack became a Gentleman,
There's many a gentle perſon made a Jack.
Qu. Come, come, we know your meaning, Brother Gloſter,
You envy my advancement, and my Friends:
God grant we never may have need of you.
Rich. Mean time, God grants that I have need of you.
Our Brother is impriſon'd by your means,
My ſelf diſgrac'd, and the Nobility
Held in contempt, while great Promotions
Are daily given to enoble thoſe
That ſcarce ſome two days ſince were worth a Noble.
Qu. By him that rais'd me to this careful height,
From that contented hap which I enjoy'd.
I never did incenſe his Majeſty
Againſt the Duke of Clarence, but have been
An earneſt Advocate to plead for him.
My Lord, you do me ſhameful injury,
Falſely to draw me in theſe vile ſuſpects.
Rich. You may deny that you were not the mean
Of my Lord Haſtings late impriſonment.
Riv. She may, my Lord, for——
Rich. She may, Lord Rivers, why who knows not ſo?
She may do more, Sir, then denying that:
She may help you to many fair Preferments,
And then deny her aiding hand therein,
And lay thoſe Honours on your high deſert.
What may ſhe not? ſhe may, I marry may ſhe.
Riv. What marry may ſhe?
Rich. What marry may ſhe? Marry with a King,
A Batchelor, and a handſom ſtripling too,
I wis your Grandam had a worſer match.
Qu. My Lord of Gloſter, I have too long born
Your blunt upbraidings, and your bitter ſcoffs:
By Heaven, I will acquaint his Majeſty
Of thoſe groſs taunts that oft I have endur'd.
I had rather be a Country ſervant Maid
Than a great Queen, with this condition,
To be ſo baited, ſcorn'd, and ſtorm'd at,
Small joy have I in being England's Queen.

Enter old Queen Margaret.

Mar. And leſsned be that ſmall, God I beſeech him,
Thy Honour, State, and Seat, is due to me.
Rich. What? threat you me with telling of the King?
I will avouch't in preſence of the King:
I dare adventure to be ſent to th' Tower.
'Tis time to ſpeak,
My pains are quite forgot.
Margaret. Out Devil,
I do remember them too well:
Thou kild'ſt my Husband Henry in the Tower,
And Edward my poor Son, at Tewkſbury.
Rich. E're you were Queen,
I, or your Husband King:
I was a pack-horſe in his great Affairs:
A weeder out of his proud Adverſaries,
A liberal rewarder of his Friends,
To Royalize his blood, I ſpent mine own.
Margaret. I, and much better blood
Than his or thine.
Rich. In all which time, you and your Husband Gray
Were factious for the Houſe of Lancaſter;
And Rivers, ſo were you: was not your Husband,
In Margaret's Battel, at Saint Albans, ſlain?
Let me put in your minds, if you forget,
What you have been e're this, and what you are:
Withall, what I have been, and what I am.
Q. M. A murth'rous Villain, and ſo ſtill thou art.
Rich. Poor Clarence did forſake his Father Warwick,
I, and forſwore himſelf (which Jeſu pardon.)
Q. M. Which God revenge.
Rich. To fight on Edward's party, for the Crown,
And for his meed, poor Lord, he is mewed up:
I would to God my heart were Flint, like Edward's,
Or Edward's, ſoft and pitiful, like mine;
I am too childiſh fooliſh for this World.
Qu. M. Hye thee to Hell for ſhame, and leave this world,
Thou Cacodæmon, there thy Kingdom is.
Riv. My Lord of Gloſter: in thoſe buſie days,
Which here you urge, to prove us Enemies,
We follow'd then our Lord, our Soveraign King,
So ſhould we you, if you would be our King.
Rich. If I ſhould be? I had rather be a Pedler:
Far be it from my heart, the thought thereof.
Qu. As little joy (my Lord) as you ſuppoſe
You ſhould enjoy, were you this Countries King,
As little joy you may ſuppoſe in me,
That I enjoy, being the Queen thereof.
Q. M. A little joy enjoys the Queen thereof.
For I am ſhe, and altogether joyleſs.
I can no longer hold me patient.
Hear me, you wrangling Pyrats that fall out,
In ſharing that which you have pill'd from me:
Which of you trembles not, that looks on me?
If not, that I am Queen, you bow like Subjects;
Yet that by you depos'd, you quake like Rebels.
Ah gentle Villain do not turn away.
Rich. Foul wrinckl'd Witch, what mak'ſt thou in my ſight?
Q. M. But repetition of what thou haſt marr'd,
That will I make, before I let thee go.
Rich. Were't thou not baniſhed on pain of Death?
Q. M. I was: but I do find more pain in baniſhment,
Than death can yield me here, by abode.
A Husband and a Son thou ow'ſt to me,
And thou a Kingdom, all of you allegiance:
This Sorrow that I have by right is yours,
And all the Pleaſures you uſurp are mine.
Rich. The Curſe my Noble Father laid on thee,
When thou did'ſt Crown his warlike Brows with Paper,

And

And with thy ſcorns drew'ſt Rivers from his Eyes,
And then to dry them, gav'ſt the Duke a Clout,
Steep'd in the faultleſs blood of pretty Rutland:
His Curſes then from bitterneſs of Soul,
Denounc'd againſt thee, are fal'n upon thee:
And God, not we, have plagu'd thy bloody Deed.
Qu. So juſt is God, to right the innocent.
Haſt. O, 'twas the fouleſt deed to ſlay that Babe,
And the moſt mercileſs that e're was heard of.
Riv. Tyrants themſelves wept, when it was reported.
Dorſ. No man but propheſied revenge for it.
Buck. Northumberland, then preſent, wept to ſee it.
Q. M. What? were you ſnarling all before I came,
Ready to catch each other by the Throat,
And turn you all your hatred now on me?
Did York's dread Curſe prevail ſo much with Heaven,
That Henry's Death, my lovely Edward's Death,
Their Kingdoms loſs, my woful Baniſhment,
Should all but anſwer for that peeviſh Brat?
Can Curſes pierce the Clouds and enter Heaven?
Why then give way, dull Clouds, to my quick Curſes.
Though not by War, by Surfeit dye your King,
As ours by Murther to make him a King.
Edward thy Son, that now is Prince of Wales,
For Edward our Son that was Prince of Wales,
Dye in his Youth, by like untimely violence.
Thy ſelf a Queen, for me that was a Queen,
Out-live thy Glory, like my wretched ſelf:
Long may'ſt thou live, to wail thy Children's death,
And ſee another, as I ſee thee now,
Deck'd in thy Rights, as thou art ſtall'd in mine,
Long dye thy happy days, before thy Death,
And after many length'ned hours of grief,
Dye neither Mother, Wife, nor England's Queen.
Rivers and Dorſet, you were ſtanders by,
And ſo waſt thou, Lord Haſtings, when my Son
Was ſtabb'd with bloody Daggers: God, I pray him,
That none of you may live his natural age,
But by ſome un-look'd-for accident cut off.
Ric. Have done thy Charm, thou hateful wither'd Hag.
Q. M. And leave out thee? ſtay Dog, for thou ſhalt hear me.
If Heaven have any grievous plague in ſtore,
Exceeding thoſe that I can wiſh upon thee,
O let them keep it, till thy ſins be ripe,
And then hurl down their Indignation
On thee, the troubler of the poor World's peace.
The worm of Conſcience ſtill be-gnaw thy Soul,
Thy Friends ſuſpect for Traytors while thou liv'ſt,
And take deep Traytors for thy deareſt Friends:
No ſleep cloſe up that deadly Eye of thine,
Unleſs it be while ſome tormenting Dream
Affright thee with a Hell of ugly Devils.
Thou elviſh, markt, abortive rooting Hog,
Thou that waſt ſeal'd in thy Nativity
The Slave of Nature, and the Son of Hell:
Thou ſlander of thy heavy Mothers Womb,
Thou loathed Iſſue of thy Fathers loyns,
Thou Rag of Honour, thou deteſted——
Rich. Margaret.
Q. M. Richard. Rich. Ha!
Q. M. I call thee not.
Rich. I cry thee mercy then: for I did think,
That thou had'ſt call'd me all theſe bitter names.
Q. M. Why ſo I did, but look'd for no reply.
Oh let me make the Period to my Curſe.
Rich. 'Tis done by me, and ends in Margaret.
Thus have you breath'd your Curſe againſt your ſelf.
Q. M. Poor painted Queen, vain flouriſh of my Fortune,
Why ſtrew'ſt thou Sugar on that Bottel'd Spider,
Whoſe deadly web enſnareth thee about?
Fool, fool, thou whett'ſt a Knife to kill thy ſelf:
The day will come, that thou ſhalt wiſh for me,
To help thee curſe this poyſonous Bunch-back'd Toad.
Haſt. Falſe boading Woman, end thy frantick Curſe,
Leſt to thy harm thou move our patience.
Q. M. Foul ſhame upon you, you have all mov'd mine.
Riv. Were you well ſerv'd, you would be taught your duty.
Q. M. To ſerve me well, you all ſhould do me duty,
Teach me to be your Queen, and you my Subjects:
O ſerve me well, and teach your ſelves that duty.
Dorſ. Diſpute not with her, ſhe is Lunatick.
Q. M. Peace, Maſter Marqueſs, you are malapert,
Your fire-new ſtamp of Honour is ſcarce currant.
O that your young Nobility can judge
What 'twere to loſe it, and be miſerable.
They that ſtand high have many blaſts to ſhake them,
And if they fall, they daſh themſelves to pieces.
Rich. Good Counſel marry, learn it, learn it, Marqueſs.
Dor. It touches you, my Lord, as much as me.
Rich. I, and much more: but I was born ſo high:
Our ayrie buildeth in the Cedar's top,
And dallies with the wind, and ſcorns the Sun.
Mar. And turns the Sun to ſhade: alas, alas,
Witneſs my Son now in the ſhade of death,
Whoſe bright out-ſhining beams, thy cloudy Wrath
Hath in Eternal Darkneſs folded up.
Your ayry buildeth in our ayries Neſt:
O God, that ſeeſt, it do not ſuffer it,
As it is won with blood, loſt be it ſo.
Buck. Peace, peace for Shame, if not for Charity.
Mar. Urge neither Charity, nor Shame to me:
Uncharitably with me have you dealt,
And ſhamefully my hopes (by you) are butcher'd.
My Charity is outrage, Life my ſhame,
And in that ſhame, ſtill live my ſorrows rage.
Buck. Have done, have done.
Mar. O Princely Buckingham, I'le kiſs thy hand,
In ſign of League and Amity with thee:
Now fair befall thee, and thy Noble houſe:
Thy Garments are not ſpotted with our blood:
Nor thou within the compaſs of my Curſe.
Buck. Nor no one here: for Curſes never paſs
The lips of thoſe that breathe them in the Air.
Mar. I will not think but they aſcend the Sky,
And there awake God's gentle ſleeping Peace.
O Buckingham, take heed of yonder Dog:
Look when he fawns, he bites; and when he bites,
His venom Tooth will rankle to the death:
Have not to do with him, beware of him,
Sin, Death, and Hell have ſet their marks on him,
And all their Miniſters attend on him.
Rich. What doth ſhe ſay, my Lord of Buckingham?
Buck. Nothing that I reſpect, my gracious Lord.
Mar. What doſt thou ſcorn me
For my gentle Counſel?
And ſooth the Devil that I warn thee from.
O but remember this another day:
When he ſhall ſplit thy very heart with Sorrow:
And ſay poor Margaret was a Propheteſs:
Live each of you the ſubjects to his hate,
And he to yours, and all of you to Gods. [Exit.
Buck. My Hair doth ſtand an end to hear her Curſes.
Riv. And ſo doth mine, I muſe why ſhe's at liberty.
Rich. I cannot blame her, by God's holy Mother,
She hath had too much wrong, and I repent
My part thereof, that I have done to her.
Der. I never did her any to my knowledge.
Rich. Yet you have all the vantage of her wrong:
I was too hot, to do ſome body good,
That is too cold in thinking of it now:
Marry as for Clarence, he is well repay'd:
He is frank'd up to faſting for his pains,
God pardon them that are the cauſe thereof.
Riv. A virtuous, and a Chriſtian-like concluſion,
To pray for them that have done ſcathe to us.
Rich. So do I ever, being well adviſ'd.
[Speaks to himſelf.
For had I curſt now, I had curſt my ſelf.

Enter Catesby.

Cates. Madam, his Majesty doth call for you,
And for your Grace, and yours, my gracious Lord.
Q. Catesby, I come, Lords will you go with me?
Riv. We wait upon your Grace.
[Exeunt all but Gloster.
Rich. I do thee wrong, and first begin to brawl.
The secret mischiefs that I set a-broach,
I lay unto the grievous charge of others.
Clarence, whom I indeed have cast in darkness,
I do beweep to many simple Gulls,
Namely to Derby, Hastings, Buckingham,
And tell them 'tis the Queen, and her Allies
That stir the King against the Duke my Brother.
Now they believe it, and withall whet me
To be reveng'd on Rivers, Dorset, Gray.
But then I sigh, and with a piece of Scripture,
Tell them that God bids us do good for evil:
And thus I cloath my naked Villany
With odd old ends, stolen forth of Holy Writ,
And seem a Saint, when most I play the Devil.

Enter two Murtherers.

But soft, here come my Executioners,
How now my hardy stout resolved Mates,
Are you now going to dispatch this thing?
Vill. We are, my Lord, and come to have the Warrant,
That we may be admitted, where he is.
Rich. Well thought upon, I have it here about me:
When you have done, repair to Crosby Place;
But, Sirs, be sudden in the Execution,
Withal obdurate, do not hear him plead;
For Clarence is well-spoken, and perhaps
May move your Hearts to pity, if you mark him.
Vill. Tut, tut, my Lord, we will not stand to prate,
Talkers are no good doers; be assur'd,
We go to use our Hands, and not our Tongues.
Rich. Your Eyes drop Mill-stones, when Fools Eyes fall Tears.
I like you Lads, about your business straight.
Go, go, dispatch.
Vill. We will, my Noble Lord. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Clarence and Keeper.

Keep. Why looks your Grace so heavily?
Cla. O, I have past a miserable night,
So full of fearful Dreams, of ugly sights,
That as I am a Christian faithful man,
I would not spend another such a Night,
Though 'twere to buy a world of happy days:
So full of dismal terrour was the time.
Keep. What was your dream, my Lord, I pray you tell me.
Cla. Methoughts that I had broken from the Tower,
And was embark'd to cross to Burgundy,
And in my company my Brother Gloster,
Who from my Cabin tempted me to walk
Upon the Hatches: There we look'd toward England,
And cited up a thousand heavy times,
During the Wars of York and Lancaster,
That had befal'n us. As he pac'd along
Upon the giddy footing of the Hatches,
Methought that Gloster stumbled, and in falling
Strook me (that thought to stay him) over-board,
Into the tumbling billows of the Main.
O Lord, methought what pain it was to drown,
What dreadful noise of Water in mine Ears,
What sights of ugly Death within mine Eyes.
Methoughts, I saw a thousand fearful Wracks;
A thousand men that Fishes gnaw'd upon:
Wedges of Gold, great Anchors, heaps of Pearl,
Inestimable Stones, unvalued Jewels
All scattered in the bottom of the Sea:
Some lay in dead-men's Sculls, and in the holes
Where Eyes did once inhabit, there were crept
(As 'twere in scorn of Eyes) reflecting Gems,
That woo'd the slimy bottom of the Deep,
And mock'd the dead Bones that lay scattered by.
Keep. Had you such leisure in the time of Death,
To gaze upon the secrets of the deep?
Cla. Methought I had, and often did I strive
To yield the Ghost: but still the envious Flood
Stop'd in my Soul, and would not let it forth
To find the empty, vast, and wand'ring Air;
But smother'd it within my panting Bulk,
Who almost burst to belch it in the Sea.
Keep. Awak'd you not in this sore Agony?
Clar. No, no, my Dream was lengthen'd after life.
O then, began the Tempest to my Soul,
I past (methought) the Melancholy Flood,
With that sowre Ferry-man which Poets write of,
Unto the Kingdom of perpetual Night.
The first that there did greet my Stranger-soul,
Was my great Father-in-law, renowned Warwick,
Who spake aloud: What scourge for Perjury
Can this dark Monarchy afford false Clarence?
And so he vanish'd. Then came wand'ring by,
A Shadow like an Angel, with bright Hair
Dabbl'd in Blood, and he shriek'd out aloud
Clarence is come, false, fleeting, perjur'd Clarence,
That stabb'd me in the Field by Tewksbury:
Seize on him Furies, take him unto torment.
With that (methought) a Legion of foul Fiends
Inviron'd me, and howled in mine Ears
Such hideous cries, that with the very Noise,
I (trembling) wak'd, and for a season after,
Could not believe, but that I was in Hell,
Such terrible Impression made my Dream.
Keep. No marvel, Lord, though it affrighted you,
I am afraid (methinks) to hear you tell it.
Cla. Ah Keeper, Keeper, I have done these things
(That now give evidence against my Soul)
For Edward's sake, and see how he requites me.
O God! if my deep Prayers cannot appease thee,
But thou wilt be aveng'd on my misdeeds,
Yet execute thy wrath in me alone:
O spare my guiltless Wife, and my poor Children.
Keeper, I prithee sit by me a while,
My Soul is heavy, and I fain would sleep.
Keep. I will, my Lord, God give your Grace good rest.

Enter Brakenbury the Lieutenant.

Bra. Sorrow breaks Seasons and reposing hours,
Makes the Night Morning, and the Noon-tide Night:
Princes have but their Titles for their Glories,
An outward Honour, for an inward Toil,
And for unfelt Imaginations
They often feel a world of restless Cares:
So that between their Titles, and low name,
There's nothing differs but the outward Fame.

Enter two Murtherers.

1. Mur. Ho, who's here?
Bra. What would'st thou, Fellow? And how cam'st thou hither?
2. Mur. I would speak with Clarence, and I came hither on my Legs.
Bra. What, so brief?
1. 'Tis better (Sir) than to be tedious:
Let him see our Commission, and talk no more. [Reads.
Bra. I am in this, commanded to deliver
The Noble Duke of Clarence to your hands.
I will not reason what is meant hereby,
Because I will be guiltless from the meaning.
There lies the Duke asleep, and there the Keys.

I'le

I'le to the King, and ſignifie to him,
That thus I have reſign'd to you my charge. [Exit.
1. You may, Sir, 'tis a point of wiſdom:
Fare you well.
2. What, ſhall we ſtab him as he ſleeps?
1. No: he'll ſay 'twas done cowardly, when he wakes.
2. Why he ſhall never wake, until the great Judgment day.
1. Why then he'll ſay, we ſtab'd him ſleeping.
2. The urging of that word Judgment, hath bred a kind of remorſe in me.
1. What? art thou afraid?
2. Not to kill him, having a Warrant.
But to be damn'd for killing him, from the which
No Warrant can defend me.
1. I thought thou had'ſt been reſolute.
2. So I am, to let him live.
1. I'le back to the Duke of Gloſter, and tell him ſo.
2. Nay, prithee ſtay a little:
I hope this paſſionate humour of mine will change,
It was wont to hold me but while one tells twenty.
1. How do'ſt thou feel thy ſelf now?
2. Some certain dregs of Conſcience are yet within me.
1. Remember the Reward, when the deed's done.
2. Come, he dies: I had forgot the Reward.
1. Where's thy Conſcience now?
2. O, in the Duke of Gloſter's Purſe.
1. When he opens his Purſe to give us our Reward, thy Conſcience flies out.
2. 'Tis no matter, let it go: there's few or none will entertain it.
1. What if it come to thee again?
2. I'le not meddle with it, it makes a Man a Coward: A Man cannot ſteal, but it accuſeth him: A Man cannot Swear, but it Checks him: A Man cannot lie with his Neighbours Wife, but it detects him. 'Tis a bluſhing ſhamefac'd Spirit, that mutinies in a Mans boſom: It fills a Man full of Obſtacles. It made me once reſtore a Purſe of Gold that (by chance) I found: It beggars any Man that keeps it: It is turn'd out of Towns and Cities for a dangerous thing, and every Man that means to live well, endeavours to truſt to himſelf, and live without it.
1. 'Tis even now at my elbow, perſuading me not to kill the Duke.
2. Take the Devil in thy mind, and believe him not: He would inſinuate with thee but to make thee ſigh.
1. I am ſtrong fram'd, he cannot prevail with me.
2. Spoke like a tall Man, that reſpects thy Reputation. Come, ſhall we fall to work?
1. Take him on the Coſtard, with the Hilts of thy Sword, and then throw him into the Malmſie-butt in the next room.
2. O excellent device; and make a Sop of him.
1. Soft, he wakes.
2. Strike.
1. No, we'll reaſon with him.
Cla. Where art thou, Keeper? give me a Cup of Wine.
2. You ſhall have Wine enough, my Lord, anon.
Clar. In Gods name, what art thou?
1. A man, as you are.
Clar. But not as I am, Royal.
1. Nor you as we are, Loyal.
Cla. Thy voice is thunder, but thy looks are humble.
1. My voice is now the Kings, my looks mine own.
Cla. How darkly, and how deadly do'ſt thou ſpeak?
Your Eyes do menace me: why look you pale?
Who ſent you hither? wherefore do you come?
2. To, to, to———
Clar. To murther me?
Both. I, I.
Clar. You ſcarcely have the hearts to tell me ſo.
And therefore cannot have the hearts to do it.
Wherein, my friends, have I offended you?
1. Offended us you have not, but the King.
Clar. I ſhall be reconcil'd to him again.
2. Never, my Lord, therefore prepare to dye.
Clar. Are you drawn forth among a world of Men
To ſlay the innocent? What's my offence?
Where is the Evidence that doth accuſe me?
What lawful Queſt have given their Verdict up
Unto the frowning Judge? Or who pronounc'd
The bitter ſentence of poor Clarence's death?
Before I be convict by courſe of Law,
To threaten me with death, is moſt unlawful.
I charge you, as you hope for any goodneſs,
That you depart, and lay no hands on me:
The deed you undertake is damnable.
1. What we will do, we do upon command.
2. And he that hath commanded, is our King.
Cla. Erroneous Vaſſals, the great King of Kings
Hath in the Table of his Law commanded,
That Thou ſhalt do no Murther, Will you then
Spurn at his Edicts, and fulfil a Mans?
Take heed, for he holds Vengeance in his hand
To hurle upon their heads that break his Law.
2. And that ſame Vengeance doth he hurle on thee
For falſe forſwearing, and for murther too:
Thou didſt receive the Sacrament, to fight
In quarrel of the Houſe of Lancaſter.
1. And like a Traytor to the name of God,
Did'ſt break that Vow, and with thy treacherous blade,
Unripp'ſt the Bowels of thy Soveraign's Son.
2. Whom thou was't ſworn to cheriſh and defend.
1. How canſt thou urge Gods dreadful Law to us,
When thou haſt broke it in ſuch high degree?
Clar. Alas! for whoſe ſake did I that ill deed?
For Edward, for my Brother, for his ſake.
He ſends you not to murther me for this:
For in that ſin he is as deep as I.
If God will be avenged for the deed,
O know you yet, he doth it publickly,
Take not the quarrel from his powerful Arm:
He needs no indirect, or lawleſs courſe,
To cut off thoſe that have offended him.
1. Who made thee then a bloody Miniſter,
When gallant ſpringing brave Plantagenet,
That Princely Novice was ſtruck dead by thee?
Clar. My Brother's love, the Devil, and my Rage.
1. Thy Brother's Love, our Duty, and thy Faults,
Provoke us hither now, to ſlaughter thee.
Clar. If you do love my Brother, hate not me:
I am his Brother, and I love him well.
If you are hir'd for meed, go back again,
And I will ſend you to my Brother Gloſter:
Who ſhall reward you better for my life,
Than Edward will for tidings of my death.
2. You are deceiv'd,
Your Brother Gloſter hates you.
Cla. Oh no, he loves me, and he holds me dear:
Go you to him from me.
1. I, ſo we will.
Cla. Tell him, when that our Princely Father York
Bleſt his three Sons with his victorious Arm,
He little thought of this divided Friendſhip:
Bid Gloſter think on this, and he will weep.
1. I, Milſtones, as he leſſoned us to weep.
Clar. O do not ſlander him, for he is kind.
1. Right, as Snow in Harveſt:
Come, you deceive your ſelf,
'Tis he that ſends us to deſtroy you here.
Cla. It cannot be, for he bewept my Fortune,
And hugg'd me in his Arms, and ſwore with ſobs,
That he would labour my delivery.
1. Why ſo he doth, when he delivers you
From this Earths thraldom, to the joys of Heaven.
2. Make peace with God, for you muſt die, my Lord.
Cla. Have you that holy feeling in your Souls,

To

To counſel me to make my peace with God,
And are you yet to your own Souls ſo blind,
That you will War with God, by murd'ring me?
O Sirs, conſider, they that ſet you on
To do this deed, will hate you for the deed.
2. What ſhall we do?
Clar. Relent, and ſave your Souls:
Which of you, if you were a Princes Son,
Being pent from Liberty, as I am now,
If two ſuch murtherers as your ſelves came to you,
Would not intreat for Life, as you would beg
Were you in my diſtreſs.
1. Relent? no: 'Tis cowardly and womaniſh.
Cla. Not to relent, is beaſtly, ſavage, deviliſh.
My Friend, I ſpy ſome pity in thy looks:
O, if thine Eye be not a flatterer,
Come thou on my ſide, and intreat for me,
A begging Prince what Beggar pities not?
2. Look behind you, my Lord.
1. Take that, and that, if all this will not do, [Stabs him.
I'le drown you in the Malmſey-Butt within. [Exit.
2. A bloody deed, and deſperately diſpatcht:
How fain (like Pilate) would I waſh my hands
Of this moſt grievous murther.

Enter 1. Murtherer.

1. How now? what mean'ſt thou that thou help'ſt me not? By Heaven, the Duke ſhall know how ſlack you have been.
2. Mur. I would he knew, that I had ſav'd his Brother;
Take thou the Fee, and tell him what I ſay,
For I repent me that the Duke is ſlain. [Exit.
1. Mur. So do not I: go Coward as thou art.
Well, I'le go hide the Body in ſome hole,
'Till that the Duke give order for his burial:
And when I have my meed, I will away;
For this will out, and then I muſt not ſtay. [Exit.

Actus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Flouriſh. Enter the King ſick, the Queen, Lord Marqueſs, Dorſet, Rivers, Haſtings, Catesby, Buckingham, Woodvil.

King. Why ſo: now have I done a good days work.
You Peers continue this united League:
I, every day expect an Embaſſage
From my Redeemer, to redeem me hence.
And more to peace my Soul ſhall part to Heaven,
Since I have made my Friends at peace on earth.
Dorſet and Rivers, take each others hand,
Diſſemble not your hatred, Swear your love.
Riv. By Heaven, my Soul is purg'd from bearing hate,
And with my hand I ſeal my true Hearts-love.
Haſt. So thrive I, as I truly ſwear the like.
King. Take heed you dally not before your King,
Leſt he that is the ſupreme King of Kings
Confound your hidden falſhood, and award
Either of you to be the others end.
Haſt. So proſper I, as I ſwear perfect love.
Riv. And I, as I love Haſtings with my heart.
King. Madam, your ſelf is not exempt from this:
Nor you Son Dorſet, Buckingham nor you;
You have been factious one againſt the other.
Wife, love Lord Haſtings, let him kiſs your hand,
And what you do, do it unfeignedly.
Queen. There Haſtings, I will never more remember
Our former hatred, ſo thrive I, and mine.
King. Dorſet, embrace him:
Haſtings, love Lord Marqueſs.
Dor. This interchange of love, I here proteſt
Upon my part, ſhall be inviolable.
Haſt. And ſo ſwear I.
King. Now Princely Buckingham, ſeal thou this League
With thy embracements to my Wives Allies,
And make me happy in your unity.
Buck. When ever Buckingham doth turn his hate
Upon your Grace, but with all duteous love,
Doth cheriſh you and yours, God puniſh me
With hate in thoſe where I expect moſt love,
When I have moſt need to imploy a Friend,
And moſt aſſured that he is a Friend,
Deep, hollow, treacherous, and full of guile,
Be he unto me: this do I beg of Heaven,
When I am cold in love, to you or yours. [Embrace.
King. A pleaſing Cordial, Princely Buckingham,
Is this thy Vow unto my ſickly heart.
There wanteth now our Brother Gloſter here,
To make the bleſſed Period of this peace.
Buck. And in good time,
Here comes Sir Richard Ratcliff, and the Duke.

Enter Ratcliff, and Gloſter.

Rich. Good morrow to my Sovereign King and Queen,
And Princely Peers, a happy time of day.
King. Happy indeed, as we have ſpent the day:
Gloſter, we have done deeds of Charity,
Made Peace of Enmity, fair love of hate,
Between theſe ſwelling wrong incenſed Peers.
Rich. A bleſſed labour, my moſt Sovereign Lord:
Among this Princely heap, if any here
By falſe intelligence, or wrong ſurmiſe
Hold me a Foe: if I unwillingly, or in my rage,
Have ought committed that is hardly born,
To any in this preſence, I deſire
To reconcile me to his friendly peace:
'Tis death to me to be at Enmity:
I hate it, and deſire all good Mens love.
Firſt, Madam, I intreat true peace of you,
Which I will purchaſe with my duteous ſervice,
Of you my Noble Couſin Buckingham,
If ever any grudge were lodg'd between us.
Of you, and you, Lord Rivers and of Dorſet,
That all without deſert have frown'd on me:
Of you Lord Woodvil, and Lord Scales of you,
Dukes, Earls, Lords, Gentlemen, indeed of all.
I do not know that Engliſhman alive,
With whom my Soul is any jot at odds,
More than the Infant that is born to night:
I thank my God for my Humility.
Queen. A Holy day ſhall this be kept hereafter:
I would to God all ſtrifes were well compounded.
My Sovereign Lord, I do beſeech your Highneſs
To take our Brother Clarence to your Grace.
Rich. Why Madam, have I offer'd love for this,
To be ſo flouted in this Royal preſence?
Who knows not that the gentle Duke is dead? [They all ſtart.
You do him injury to ſcorn his Coarſe.
King. Who knows not he is dead!
Who knows he is?
Queen. All-ſeeing Heaven, what a world is this?
Buck. Look I ſo pale, Lord Dorſet, as the reſt?
Dor. I, my good Lord, and no Man in the preſence,
But his red colour hath forſook his Cheeks.
King. Is Clarence dead? the Order was revers'd.
Rich. But he (poor Man) by your firſt Order died,
And that a winged Mercury did bear:
Some tardy Cripple bare the Countermand,
That came too lagg to ſee him buried.
God grant, that ſome leſs Noble, and leſs Loyal,
Nearer in bloody thoughts, and not in blood,
Deſerve no worſe than wretched Clarence did,
And yet go currant from ſuſpicion.

Enter Earl of Derby.

Derb. A boon, my Soveraign, for my ſervice done.

King.

King. I prithee peace, my Soul is full of ſorrow.
Derb. I will not riſe, unleſs your Highneſs hear me.
King. Then ſay at once, what is it thou requeſt'ſt.
Derb. The forfeit (Soveraign) of my ſervants life,
Who ſlew to day a Riotous Gentleman,
Lately attendant on the Duke of Norfolk.
King. Have I a Tongue to doom my Brothers death?
And ſhall that Tongue give pardon to a Slave?
My Brother kill'd no man, his fault was Thought,
And yet his puniſhment was bitter death.
Who ſued to me for him? Who (in my wrath)
Kneel'd at my feet; and bid me be advis'd?
Who ſpoke of Brotherhood? who ſpoke in love?
Who told me, how the poor Soul did forſake
The mighty Warwick, and did fight for me:
Who told me in the Field at Tewkſbury,
When Oxford had me down, he reſcued me:
And ſaid, dear Brother live, and be a King?
Who told me, when we both lay in the Field,
Frozen (almoſt) to death, how he did lap me
Even in his Garments, and did give himſelf
(All thin and naked) to the num cold night?
All this from my Remembrance, bruitiſh wrath
Sinfully pluckt, and not a Man of you
Had ſo much Grace to put it in my mind.
But when your Carters, or your waiting Vaſſals
Have done a drunken ſlaughter, and defac'd
The pretious image of our dear Redeemer,
You ſtraight are on your Knees for Pardon, Pardon,
And I (unjuſtly too) muſt grant it you.
But for my Brother, not a Man would ſpeak,
Nor I (ungracious) ſpeak unto my ſelf
For him, poor Soul. The proudeſt of you all,
Have been beholding to him in his life:
Yet none of you, would ouce beg for his life.
O God! I fear thy Juſtice will take hold
On me, and you; and mine, and yours for this.
Come Haſtings help me to my Cloſet.
Ah poor Clarence. [Exeunt ſome with K. and Queen.
Rich. This is the fruits of raſhneſs: Mark't you not,
How that the kindred of the Queen
Look'd pale, when they did hear of Clarence's death?
O! they did urge it ſtill unto the King,
God will revenge it. Come, Lords, will you go,
To comfort Edward with our company?
Buck. We wait upon your Grace. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter the old Dutcheſs of York, with the two Children of Clarence.

Edw. Good Grandam tell us, is our Father dead?
Dutch. No, Boy.
Daugh. Why do you weep ſo oft? and beat your Breaſt?
And cry, O Clarence, my unhappy Son?
Boy. Why do you look on us, and ſhake your head,
And call us Orphans, Wretches, Caſtaways,
If that our Noble Father were alive?
Dut. My pretty Couſins, you miſtake me both,
I do lament the ſickneſs of the King,
As loth to loſe him, not your Father's death:
It were loſt ſorrow to wail one that's loſt.
Boy. Then you conclude (my Grandam) he is dead:
The King mine Uncle is to blame for it.
God will revenge it, whom I will importune
With earneſt Prayers, all to that effect.
Daugh. And ſo will I.
Dut. Peace, Children, peace: the King doth love you well.
Incapable and ſhallow Innocents,
You cannot gueſs who caus'd your Father's death.
Boy. Grandam, we can: for my good Uncle Gloſter
Told me, the King provok'd to it by the Queen,
Devis'd Impeachments to Impriſon him;
And when my Uncle told me ſo, he wept,
And pitied me, and kindly kiſt my Cheek:
Bad me rely on him, as on my Father,
And he would love me dearly as a Child.
Dut. Ah! that Deceit ſhould ſteal ſuch gentle ſhape,
And with a vertuous Vizor hide deep Vice.
He is my Son, I, and therein my ſhame,
Yet from my Dugs, he drew not this deceit.
Boy. Think you my Uncle did diſſemble, Grandam?
Dutch. I, Boy.
Boy. I cannot think it. Hark, what noiſe is this?

Enter the Queen with her Hair about her Ears, Rivers and Dorſet after her.

Queen. Ah! who ſhall hinder me to wail and weep?
To chide my Fortune, and torment my ſelf.
I'le joyn with black deſpair againſt my Soul,
And to my ſelf become an Enemy.
Dutch. What means this Scene of rude impatience?
Queen. To make an act of Tragick violence.
Edward, my Lord, thy Son, our King is dead.
Why grow the Branches, when the Root is gone?
Why wither not the leaves that want their ſap?
If you will live, lament: if dye, be brief,
That our ſwift-winged Souls may catch the King's,
Or like obedient Subjects follow him,
To his new Kingdom of ne're-changing night.
Dutch. Ah, ſo much intereſt have I in thy ſorrow,
As I had Title to thy Noble Husband:
I have bewept a worthy Husband's death,
And liv'd with looking on his Images:
But now two Mirrors of his Princely ſemblance,
Are crack'd in pieces, by malignant death,
And I for comfort have but one falſe Glaſs,
That grieves me, when I ſee my ſhame in him.
Thou art a Widow; yet thou art a Mother,
And haſt the comfort of thy Children left,
But death hath ſnatch'd my Husband from mine arms,
And pluckt two Crutches from my feeble hands,
Clarence, and Edward. O, what cauſe have I,
(Thine being but a moiety of my moan)
To over-go thy woes, and drown my cries.
Boy. Ah Aunt! you wept not for our Father's death?
How can we aid you with our Kindred tears?
Daugh. Our Fatherleſs diſtreſs was left unmoan'd,
Your Widow-dolour likwiſe be unwept.
Queen. Give me no help in Lamentation,
I am not barren to bring forth Complaints:
All Springs reduce their currents to mine Eyes,
That I being govern'd by the Watry Moon,
May ſend forth plenteous tears to drown the World.
Ah, for my Husband, for my dear Lord Edward.
Chil. Ah, for our Father, for our dear Lord Clarence.
Dutch. Alas, for both, both mine Edward and Clarence.
Queen. What ſtay had I, but Edward? and he's gone.
Chil. What ſtay had we, but Clarence? and he's gone.
Dutch. What ſtays had I, but they? and they are gone.
Queen. Was never Widow had ſo dear a loſs.
Chil. Were never Orphans had ſo dear a loſs.
Dutch. Was never Mother had ſo dear a loſs.
Alas! I am the Mother of theſe Griefs.
Their woes are parcel'd, mine is general.
She for an Edward weeps, and ſo do I:
I for a Clarence weep, ſo doth not ſhe;
Theſe Babes for Clarence weep, ſo do not they.
Alas! you three, on me threefold diſtreſt
Pour all your tears, I am your ſorrows Nurſe,
And I will pamper it with Lamentation.
Dor. Comfort, dear Mother, God is much diſpleas'd,
That you take with unthankfulneſs his doing.
In common wordly things 'tis call'd ungrateful,

With

With dull unwillingneſs to repay a debt,
Which with a bounteous hand was kindly lent:
Much more to be thus oppoſite with Heaven,
For it requires the Royal debt it lent you.
Rivers. Madam, bethink you like a careful Mother
Of the young Prince your Son: ſend ſtraight for him,
Let him be Crown'd, in him your comfort lives.
Drown deſperate ſorrow in dead Edward's Grave,
And plant your joys in living Edward's Throne.

Enter Richard, Buckingham, Derby, Haſtings, and Ratcliff.

Rich. Siſter, have comfort, all of us have cauſe
To wail the dimming of our ſhining Star:
But none can help our harms by wailing them.
Madam, my Mother, I do cry you mercy,
I did not ſee your Grace. Humbly on my Knee
I crave your Bleſſing.
Dutch. God bleſs thee, and put meekneſs in thy breaſt,
Love, Charity, Obedience, and true Dutie.
Rich. Amen, and make me die a good old man,
That is the butt end of a Mothers Bleſſing;
I marvel that her Grace did leave it out.
Buck. You cloudy-Princeſs, and heart-ſorrowing-Peers,
That bear this heavy mutual load of Moan,
Now cheer each other in each others love:
Though we have ſpent our Harveſt of this King,
We are to reap the Harveſt of his Son.
The broken rancour of your high-ſwoln hates,
But lately ſplintr'd, knit, and joyn'd together,
Muſt gently be preſerv'd, cheriſht, and kept:
Me ſeemeth good, that with ſome little Train,
Forthwith from Ludlow the young Prince be fet
Hither to London, to be crown'd our King.
Rivers. Why with ſome little Train,
My Lord of Buckingham?
Buck. Marry, my Lord, leſt by a multitude
The new-heal'd wound of Malice ſhould break out,
Which would be ſo much the more dangerous,
By how much the Eſtate is green, and yet ungovern'd.
Where every Horſe bears his commanding Rein,
And may direct his courſe as pleaſe himſelf,
As well the fear of harm, as harm apparent,
In my opinion, ought to be prevented.
Rich. I hope the King made peace with all of us,
And the compact is firm, and true in me.
Rivers. And ſo in me, and ſo (I think) in all,
Yet ſince it is but green, it ſhould be put
To no apparent likelyhood of breach,
Which haply by much company might be urg'd:
Therefore I ſay, with Noble Buckingham,
That it is meet ſo few ſhould fetch the Prince.
Haſt. And ſo ſay I.
Rich. Then be it ſo, and go we to determine
Who they ſhall be, that ſtraight ſhall poſt to London.
Madam, and you my Siſter, will you go
To give your cenſures in this buſineſs? [Exeunt.

[Manent Buckingham, and Richard.

Buck. My Lord, whoever journies to the Prince,
For God's ſake let not us two ſtay at home:
For by the way, I'l ſort occaſion,
As Index to the ſtory we lately talk'd of,
To part the Queen's proud Kindred from the Prince.
Rich. My other ſelf, my Counſel's Conſiſtory,
My Oracle, my Prophet, my dear Couſin,
I, as a Child, will go by thy direction.
Toward London then, for we'll not ſtay behind. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter one Citizen at one Door, and another at the other.

2. Cit. Good morrow, Neighbour, whither away ſo faſt?
2. Cit. I promiſe you I hardly know my ſelf:
Hear you the News abroad?
1. Yes, the King is dead.
2. Ill News by'r Lady, ſeldom comes the better:
I fear, I fear, 'twill prove a giddy world.

Enter another Citizen.

3. Neighbours, God ſpeed.
1. Give you good morrow, Sir.
3. Doth the news hold of good King Edward's death?
2. I Sir, it is too true, God help the while.
3. Then Maſters look to ſee a troublous world.
1. No, no, by Gods good Grace, his Son ſhall Reign.
3. Woe to that Land that's gouern'd by a Child.
2. In him there is a hope of Government.
Which in his Non-age, Counſel under him,
And in his full and ripened years, himſelf
No doubt ſhall then, and till then govern well.
1. So ſtood the ſtate when Henry the Sixth
Was Crown'd in Paris, but at nine months old.
3. Stood the State ſo? No, no, good friends, God wot;
For then this Land was famouſly enrich'd
Which politick grave Counſel; then the King
Had vertuous Uncles to protect his Grace.
1. Why ſo hath this, both by his Father and Mother.
3. Better it were they all came by his Father;
Or by his Father there were none at all:
For Emulation, who ſhall now be neareſt,
Will touch us all too near, if God prevent not.
O full of Danger is the Duke of Gloſter,
And the Queens Sons, and Brothers, haught and proud:
And were they to be rul'd, and not to rule,
This ſickly Land, might ſolace as before.
1. Come, come, we fear the worſt, all will be well.
3. When Clouds are ſeen, wiſe men put on their Cloaks;
When great leaves fall, then Winter is at hand;
When the Sun ſets, who doth not look for night?
Untimely ſtorms make men expect a Dearth:
All may be well; but if God ſort it ſo,
'Tis more than we deſerve, or I expect.
2. Truly the Hearts of Men are full of fear:
You cannot reaſon (almoſt) with a Man,
That looks not heavily, and full of dread.
3. Before the days of Change, ſtill is it ſo
By a divine inſtinct, mens minds miſtruſt
Purſuing danger: as by proof we ſee
The Water ſwell before a boyſt'rous ſtorm:
But leave it all to God, Whither away?
2. Marry we were ſent for to the Juſtices.
3. And ſo was I, I'le bear you company. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Arch-Biſhop, young York, the Queen, and the Dutcheſs.

Arch. Laſt night I heard they lay at Stony Stratford,
And at Northampton they do reſt to night:
To morrow, or next day, they will be here.
Dutch. I long with all my heart to ſee the Prince:
I hope he is much grown ſince laſt I ſaw him.
Queen. But I hear no, they ſay my Son of York
Has almoſt overtane him in his growth.
Yor. I Mother, but I would not have it ſo.
Dutch. Why, my good Couſin, it is good to grow.
Yor. Grandam, one night as we did ſit at Supper,
My Uncle Rivers talk'd how I did grow
More than my Brother. I, quoth my Uncle Gloſter,
Small Herbs have Grace, great Weeds do grow apace.
And ſince, methinks I would not grow ſo faſt,
Becauſe ſweet Flowers are ſlow, and Weeds make haſt.
Dutch. Good faith, good faith, the ſaying did not hold
In him that did object the ſame to thee.

He

He was the wretched'ſt thing when he was young,
So long a growing, and ſo leiſurely,
That if his rule were true, he ſhould be gracious.
Yor. And ſo no doubt he is, my gracious Madam.
Dut. I hope he is, but yet let Mothers doubt.
Yor. Now by my troth, if I had been remembred,
I could have given my Uncles Grace, a flout,
To touch his growth, nearer than he touch'd mine.
Dut. How, my young York,
I prithee let me hear it.
Yor. Marry (they ſay) my Uncle grew ſo faſt,
That he could gnaw a cruſt at two hours old,
'Twas full two years e're I could get a Tooth.
Grandam, this would have been a biting Jeſt.
Dut. I prithee, pretty York, who told thee this?
Yor. Grandam, his Nurſe.
Dut. His Nurſe? why ſhe was dead, e're thou waſt born.
Yor. If 'twere not ſhe, I cannot tell who told me.
Queen. A parlous Boy: go to, you are too ſhrew'd.
Dut. Good Madam, be not angry with a Child.
Queen. Pitchers have ears.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Arch. Here comes a Meſſenger: What News?
Meſ. Such News, my Lord, as grieves me to report.
Queen. How doth the Prince?
Meſ. Well, Madam, and in health.
Dut. What is thy News?
Meſ. Lord Rivers and Lord Grey,
Are ſent to Pomfret, and with them
Sir Thomas Vaughan, Priſoners.
Dut. Who hath committed them?
Meſ. The mighty Dukes, Gloſter and Buckingham.
Arch. For what offence?
Meſ. The ſum of all I can, I have diſclos'd:
Why, or for what, the Nobles were committed,
Is all unknown to me, my gracious Lord.
Queen. Aye me! I ſee the ruine of my Houſe:
The Tiger now hath ſeiz'd the gentle Hind.
Inſulting Tyranny begins to jut
Upon the Innocent, and awleſs Throne:
Welcome Deſtruction, Blood, and Maſſacre,
I ſee (as in a Map) the end of all.
Dut. Accurſed, and unquiet wrangling days,
How many of you have mine Eyes beheld;
My Husband loſt his life, to get the Crown,
And often up and down my Sons were toſt,
For me to joy, and weep, their gain and loſs.
And being ſeated, and Domeſtick broyls
Clean over-blown, themſelves (the Conquerors)
Make War upon themſelves, Brother to Brother;
Blood to Blood; ſelf againſt ſelf: O prepoſterous
And frantick outrage! end thy damn'd ſpleen,
Or let me die, to look on Earth no more.
Queen. Come, come, my Boy, we will to Sanctuary.
Madam, farewel.
Dut. Stay, I will go with you.
Queen. You have no cauſe.
Arch. My gracious Lady, go,
And thither bear your Treaſure and your Goods,
For my part, I'le reſign unto your Grace
The Seal I keep, and ſo betide it me,
As well I tender you, and all of yours.
Go, I'le conduct you to the Sanctuary. [Exeunt.

Actus Tertius. Scena Prima.

The Trumpets ſound. Enter young Prince, the Dukes of Gloceſter and Buckingham, Lord Cardinal, with others.

Buck. Welcome ſweet Prince to London,
To your Chamber.
Rich. Welcome dear Couſin, my thoughts Soveraign,
The weary way hath made you Melancholy.
Prin. No Uncle, but our croſſes on the way
Have made it tedious, weariſom, and heavy.
I want more Uncles here to welcome me.
Rich. Sweet Prince, the untainted vertue of your years
Hath not yet div'd into the Worlds deceit:
No more can you diſtinguiſh of a Man,
Than of his outward ſhew, which, God he knows,
Seldom or never jumpeth with the heart.
Thoſe Uncles which you want were dangerous:
Your Grace attended to their Sugred words,
But look'd not on the poiſon of their Hearts:
God keep you from them, and from ſuch falſe Friends.
Prin. God keep me from falſe Friends,
But they were none.
Rich. My Lord, the Mayor of London comes to greet you.

Enter Lord Mayor.

Lo. Mayor. God bleſs your Grace, with health and happy days.
Prin. I thank you, good my Lord, and thank you all:
I thought my Mother, and my Brother York,
Would long e're this, have met us on the way.
Fie, what a ſlug is Haſtings, that he comes not,
To tell us, whether they will come, or no.

Enter Lord Haſtings.

Buck. And in good time, here comes the ſweating Lord.
Prince. Welcome, my Lord: what, will our Mother come?
Haſt. On what occaſion God he knows, not I,
The Queen your Mother, and your Brother York,
Have taken Sanctuary: The tender Prince
Would fain have come with me, to meet your Grace,
But by his Mother was perforce with-held.
Buck. Fie, what an indirect and peeviſh courſe
Is this of hers? Lord Cardinal, will your Grace
Perſuade the Queen, to ſend the Duke of York
Unto his Princely Brother preſently?
If ſhe deny, Lord Haſtings, you go with him,
And from her jealous arms pluck him perforce.
Car. My Lord of Buckingham, if my weak Oratory
Can from his Mother win the Duke of York,
Anon expect him here: but if ſhe be obdurate
To mild entreaties, God forbid
We ſhould infringe the holy Priviledge
Of bleſſed Sanctuary: not for all this Land,
Would I be guilty of ſo great a Sin.
Buck. You are too ſenceleſs obſtinate, my Lord,
Too ceremonious, and traditional.
Weigh it but with the groſſneſs of this Age,
You break not Sanctuary, in ſeizing him:
The benefit thereof is always granted
To thoſe, whoſe dealings have deſerv'd the place,
And thoſe who have the wit to claim the place:
This Prince hath never claim'd it, nor deſerv'd it,
Therefore, in mine opinion, cannot have it.
Then taking him from thence, that is not there,
You break no Priviledge, nor Charter there:
Oft have I heard of Sanctuary Men,
But Sanctuary Children, ne're till now.
Car. My Lord, you ſhall o're-rule my mind for once.
Come on, Lord Haſtings, will you go with me?
Haſt. I go, my Lord. [Exit Cardinal and Haſtings.
Prin. Good Lords, make all the ſpeedy haſte you may.
Say, Uncle Gloceſter, if our Brother come,
Where ſhall we ſojourn till our Coronation?
Glo. Where it think'ſt beſt unto your Royal ſelf.
If I may counſel you, ſome day or two
Your Highneſs ſhall repoſe you at the Tower:
Then where you pleaſe, and ſhall be thought moſt fit
For your beſt health, and recreation.
Prin. I do not like the Tower of any place:
Did Julius Cæſar build that place, my Lord?
Buck. He did, my gracious Lord, begin that place,
VVhich ſince, ſucceeding Ages have re-edify'd.

Prin.

Prin. Is it upon Record? or elſe reported
Succeſſively from age to age, he built it?
Buck. Upon Record, my gracious Lord.
Prin. But ſay, my Lord, it were not Regiſtred,
Methinks the truth ſhould live from age to age,
As 'twere retail'd to all poſterity,
Even to the general ending day.
Glo. So wiſe, ſo young, they ſay do never live long.
Prin. What ſay you, Uncle?
Glo. I ſay, without Characters, Fame lives long.
Thus, like the formal Vice, Iniquity, [Aſide.
I moralize two meanings in one word.
Prin. That Julius Cæſar was a famous Man;
With what his Valour did enrich his Wit,
His Wit ſet down, to make his Valour live:
Death makes no Conqueſt of his Conqueror,
For now he lives in Fame, though not in Life.
I'le tell you what, Couſin Buckingham.
Buck. What, my gracious Lord?
Prin. And if I live until I be a man,
I'le win our ancient Right in France again,
Or die a Souldier, as I liv'd a King.
Glo. Short Summers lightly have a forward Spring.

Enter young York, Haſtings, and Cardinal.

Buck. Now in good time, here comes the Duke of York.
Prin. Richard of York, how fares our Noble Brother?
Yor. Well, my dear Lord, ſo muſt I call you now.
Prin. I, Brother, to our grief as it is yours:
Too late he dy'd, that might have kept that Title,
Which by his death hath loſt much Majeſty.
Glo. How fares our Couſin, Noble Lord of York?
Yor. I thank you, gentle Uncle. O my Lord,
You ſaid, that idle Weeds are faſt in growth:
The Prince my Brother hath outgrown me far.
Glo. He hath, my Lord.
Yor. And therefore is he idle.
Glo. Oh my fair Couſin, I muſt not ſay ſo.
Yor. Then he is more beholding to you, than I.
Glo. He may command me as my Soveraign,
But you have power in me, as in a Kinſman.
Yor. I pray you, Uncle, give me this Dagger.
Glo. My Dagger, little Couſin? with all my heart.
Prin. A Beggar, Brother?
Yor. Of my kind Uncle, that I know will give,
And being a Toy, it is no grief to give.
Glo. A greater gift than that, I'le give my Couſin.
Yor. A greater gift? O, that's the Sword to it.
Glo. I, gentle Couſin, were it light enough.
Yor. O then I ſee, you will part but with light gifts,
In weightier things you'll ſay a Begger Nay.
Glo. It is too weighty for your Grace to wear.
Yor. I weigh it lightly, were it heavier.
Glo. What would you have my Weapon, little Lord?
Yor. I would, that I might thank you, as you call me.
Glo. How?
Yor. Little.
Prin. My Lord of York will ever be croſs in talk:
Uncle, your Grace knows how to bear with him.
Yor. You mean to bear me, not to bear with me:
Uncle, my Brother mocks both you and me,
Becauſe that I am little, like an Ape,
He thinks that you ſhould bear me on your ſhoulders.
Buck. With what a ſharp provided Wit he reaſons:
To mitigate the ſcorn he gives his Uncle,
He prettily, and aptly taunts himſelf:
So cunning, and ſo young, is wonderful.
Glo. My Lord, wilt pleaſe you paſs along?
My ſelf, and my good Couſin Buckingham,
Will to your Mother, to entreat of her
To meet you at the Tower, and welcome you.
Yor. What, will you go unto the Tower, my Lord?
Prin. My Lord Protector will have it ſo.
Yor. I ſhall not ſleep in quiet at the Tower.
Glo. Why, what ſhould you fear?
Yor. Marry, my Uncle Clarence angry Ghoſt:
My Grandam told me, he was murther'd there.
Prin. I fear no Uncles dead.
Glo. Nor none that live, I hope.
Prin. And if they live, I hope I need not fear.
But come, my Lord, and with a heavy heart,
Thinking on them, go I unto the Tower.
[Exeunt Prince, York, Haſtings, and Dorſet.

Manent Richard, Buckingham and Catesby.

Buck. Think you, my Lord, this little prating York
Was not incenſed by his ſubtle Mother,
To taunt and ſcorn you thus opprobriouſly?
Gloſt. No doubt, no doubt: Oh 'tis a parlous Boy,
Bold, quick, ingenious, forward, capable:
He is all the Mothers, from top to toe.
Buck. Well let them reſt: Come hither Catesby,
Thou art ſworn as deeply to effect what we intend,
As cloſely to conceal what we impart:
Thou know'ſt our reaſons urg'd upon the way,
What think'ſt thou? is it not an eaſie matter,
To make William Lord Haſtings of our mind,
For the Inſtalment of this Noble Duke
In the ſeat Royal of this famous Ile?
Cates. He for his Fathers ſake ſo loves the Prince,
That he will not be won to ought againſt him.
Buck. What think'ſt thou then of Stanley? Will not he?
Cates. He will do all in all as Haſtings doth.
Buck. Well then, no more but this:
Go gentle Catesby, and as it were far off,
Sound thou Lord Haſtings,
How he doth ſtand affected to our purpoſe,
And ſummon him to morrow to the Tower,
To ſit about the Coronation.
If thou doſt find him tractable to us,
Encourage him, and tell him all our reaſons:
If he be laden, icy, cold, unwilling,
Be thou ſo too, and ſo break off the talk,
And give us notice of his inclination:
For we to morrow hold divided Councils,
Wherein thy ſelf ſhalt highly be employ'd.
Rich. Commend me to Lord William: tell him (Catesby)
His ancient Knot of dangerous Adverſaries
To morrow are let blood at Pomfret Caſtle,
And bid my Lord, for joy of this good News,
Give Miſtreſs Shore one gentle Kiſs the more.
Buck. Good Catesby, go effect this buſineſs ſoundly.
Cates. My good Lords both, with all the heed I can.
Rich. Shall we hear from you Catesby, e're we ſleep?
Cates. You ſhall, my Lord.
Rich. At Crosby Houſe there ſhall you find us both.
[Exit Catesby.
Buck. Now, my Lord,
What ſhall we do, if we perceive
Lord Haſtings will not yield to our Complots?
Rich. Chop off his Head:
Something we will determine:
And look when I am King, claim thou of me
The Earldom of Hereford, and all the moveables
Whereof the King, my Brother, was poſſeſt.
Buck. I'le claim that promiſe at your Graces hand.
Rich. And look to have it yielded with all kindneſs.
Come, let us ſup betimes, that afterwards
We may digeſt our complots in ſome form. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter a Meſſenger to the Door of Haſtings.

Meſ. My Lord, my Lord.

Haſt.

Haſt. Who knocks?
Meſ. One from the Lord Stanly.
Haſt. What is't a Clock?
Meſ. Upon the ſtroak of four.

Enter Lord Haſtings.

Haſt. Cannot my Lord Stanly ſleep theſe tedious Nights?
Meſ. So it appears by what I have to ſay:
Firſt, he commends him to your Noble ſelf.
Haſt. What then?
Meſ. Then certifies your Lordſhip, that this Night
He dreamt, the Boar had raiſed off his Helm:
Beſides, he ſays there are two Councils kept;
And that may be determin'd at the one,
Which may make you and him to rue at th'other.
Therefore he ſends to know your Lordſhips pleaſure,
If you will preſently take Horſe with him,
And with all ſpeed poſt with him toward the North,
To ſhun the danger that his Soul divines.
Haſt. Go Fellow, go, return unto thy Lord,
Bid him not fear the ſeparated Councill:
His Honour and my ſelf are at the one,
And at the other is my good Friend Catesby;
Where nothing can proceed that toucheth us,
Whereof I ſhall not have Intelligence:
Tell him his Fears are ſhallow, without inſtance.
And for his Dreams, I wonder he's ſo ſimple,
To truſt the mock'ry of unquiet ſlumbers.
To fly the Boar, before the Boar purſues,
Were to incenſe the Boar to follow us,
And make purſuit, where he did mean to chaſe.
Go, bid thy Maſter riſe, and come to me,
And we will both together to the Tower,
Where he ſhall ſee the Boar will uſe us kindly.
Meſ. I'le go, my Lord, and tell him what you ſay.
[Exit.

Enter Catesby.

Cates. Many good morrows to my Noble Lord.
Haſt. Good morrow, Catesby, you are early ſtirring:
What news, what news in this our tott'ring State?
Cates. It is a reeling World indeed, my Lord:
And I believe will never ſtand upright,
Till Richard wear the Garland of the Realm.
Haſt. How! wear the Garland?
Do'ſt thou mean the Crown?
Cates. I, my good Lord.
Haſt. I'le have this Crown of mine cut from my Shoulders,
Before I'le ſee the Crown ſo foul miſ-plac'd:
But canſt thou gueſs, that he doth aim at it?
Cates. I, on my life, and hopes to find you forward,
Upon his Party, for the gain thereof:
And thereupon he ſends you this good news,
That this ſame very day your Enemies,
The Kindred of the Queen, muſt die at Pomfret.
Haſt. Indeed I am no mourner for that news,
Becauſe they have been ſtill my Adverſaries:
But that I'le give my voice on Richard's ſide,
To bar my Maſters Heirs in true Deſcent,
God knows I will not do it to the death.
Cates. God keep your Lordſhip in that gracious mind.
Haſt. But I ſhall laugh at this a twelve-month hence,
That they which brought me in my Maſters hate,
I live to look upon their Tragedy.
Well Catesby, e're a Fort-night make me older,
I'le ſend ſome packing, that yet think not on't.
Cates. 'Tis a vile thing to dye, my gracious Lord,
When men are unprepar'd, and look not for it.
Haſt. O monſtrous, monſtrous! and ſo falls it out
With Rivers, Vaughan, Gray: and ſo 'twill do
With ſome men elſe, that think themſelves as ſafe
As thou and I, who (as thou know'ſt) are dear
To Princely Richard, and Buckingham.
Cates. The Princes both make high account of you,
For they account his Head upon the Bridge. [Aſide.
Haſt. I know they do, and I have well deſerv'd it.

Enter Lord Stanly.

Come on, come on, where is your Boar-ſpear, man?
Fear you the Boar, and go ſo unprovided?
Stan. My Lord, good morrow, good morrow, Catesby:
You may jeaſt on, but by the holy Rood,
I do not like theſe ſeveral Councils, I.
Haſt. My Lord, I hold my Life as dear as yours,
And never in my days, I do proteſt,
Was it ſo precious to me, as 'tis now:
Think you, but that I know the State ſecure,
I would be ſo triumphant as I am?
St. The Lords at Pomfret, when they rode from London,
Were jocund, and ſuppos'd their ſtates were ſure,
And they indeed had no cauſe to miſtruſt:
But yet you ſee, how ſoon the day o're-caſt.
The ſudden ſtab of Rancour I miſdoubt,
Pray God (I ſay) I prove a needleſs Coward.
What, ſhall we toward the Tower? the day is ſpent.
Haſt. Come, come, have with you:
Wot you what, my Lord,
To day the Lords you talk of are beheaded.
St. They, for their truth, might better wear their Heads,
Than ſome that have accus'd them, wear their Hats.
But come, my Lord, let's away.

Enter a Purſuivant.

Haſt. Go on before, I'le talk with this good Fellow.
[Exit Lord Stanly and Catesby.
How now, Sirrah? how goes the World with thee?
Purſ. The better, that your Lordſhip pleaſe to ask.
Haſt. I tell thee man, 'tis better with me now,
Than when thou met'ſt me laſt, where now we meet:
Then was I going Priſoner to the Tower,
By the ſuggeſtion of the Queens Allies.
But now I tell thee (keep it to thy ſelf)
This day thoſe Enemies are put to death,
And I in better ſtate than e're I was.
Purſ. God hold it, to your Honours good content.
Haſt. Gramercy Fellow: there drink that for me.
[Throws him his Purſe.
Purſ. I thank your Honour. [Exit Purſuivant.

Enter a Prieſt.

Prieſt. Well met, my Lord, I am glad to ſee your Honour.
Haſt. I thank thee, good Sir John, with all my heart.
I am in your debt, for your laſt Exerciſe:
Come the next Sabbath, and I will content you.
Prieſt. I'le wait upon your Lordſhip.

Enter Buckingham.

Buck. What, talking with a Prieſt, Lord Chamberlain?
Your Friends at Pomfret, they do need the Prieſt,
Your Honour hath no ſhriving work in hand.
Haſt. Good faith, and when I met this holy Man,
The men you talk of came into my mind.
What, go you toward the Tower?
Buck. I do, my Lord, but long I cannot ſtay there:
I ſhall return before your Lordſhip thence.
Haſt. Nay, like enough, for I ſtay Dinner there.
Buck. And Supper too, although thou know'ſt it not.
Come, will you go?
Haſt. I'le wait upon your Lordſhip. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Sir Richard Ratcliffe, with Halberds, carrying the Nobles to Death at Pomfret.

Rivers. Sir Richard Ratcliffe, let me tell thee this,
To day ſhalt thou behold a Subject die,
For Truth, for Duty, and for Loyalty.
Gray. God bleſs the Prince from all the pack of you,
A Knot you are, of damned Blood-ſuckers.
Vaugh. You live, that ſhall cry woe for this hereafter.
Rat. Diſpatch, the limit of your Lives is out.

Riv. O Pomfret, Pomfret! O thou bloody Priſon!
Fatal and ominous to Noble Peers,
Within the guilty Cloſure of thy Walls,
Richard the Second here was hackt to death:
And for more ſlander to thy diſmal Seat,
We give to thee our guiltleſs Blood to drink.
Gray. Now Margarets Curſe is faln upon our Heads,
When ſhe exclaim'd on Haſtings, you, and I,
For ſtanding by, when Richard ſtab'd her Son.
Riv. Then curs'd ſhe Richard,
Then curs'd ſhe Buckingham,
Then curs'd ſhe Haſtings. O remember God,
To hear her Prayer for them, as now for us:
As for my Siſter, and her Princely Sons,
Be ſatisfi'd, dear God, with our true Blood,
Which as thou know'ſt, unjuſtly muſt be ſpilt.
Rat. Make haſte, the hour of death is now expir'd.
Riv. Come Gray, come Vaughan, let us here embrace,
Farewel, until we meet again in Heaven. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Buckingham, Derby, Haſtings, Biſhop of Ely, Norfolk, Ratcliffe, Lovel, with others, at a Table.

Haſt. Now Noble Peers, the cauſe why we are met,
Is to determine of the Coronation:
In Gods Name ſpeak, when is the Royal day?
Buck. Is all things ready for the Royal time?
Derb. It is, and wants but Nomination.
Ely. To morrow then I judge a happy day.
Buck. Who knows the Lord Protectors mind herein?
Who is moſt inward with the Noble Duke?
Ely. Your Grace, we think, ſhould ſooneſt know his mind.
Buck. We know each others Faces: for our Hearts,
He knows no more of mine, than I of yours,
Or I of his, my Lord, than you of mine:
Lord Haſtings, you and he are near in love.
Haſt. I thank his Grace, I know he loves me well:
But for his purpoſe in the Coronation,
I have not ſounded him, nor he deliver'd
His gracious pleaſure any way therein:
But you, my Honourable Lord, may name the time,
And in the Dukes behalf I'le give my Voice,
Which I preſume he'll take in gentle part.

Enter Glouceſter.

Ely. In happy time here comes the Duke himſelf.
Rich. My Noble Lords, and Couſins all, good morrow:
I have been long a ſleeper: but I truſt,
My abſence doth neglect no great deſign,
Which by my preſence might have been concluded.
Buck. Had you not come upon your Q my Lord,
William, Lord Haſtings, had pronounc'd your part;
I mean your Voice, for Crowning of the King.
Rich. Than my Lord Haſtings, no man might be bolder,
His Lordſhip knows me well, and loves me well.
My Lord of Ely, when I was laſt in Holbourn,
I ſaw good Strawberries in your Garden there,
I do beſeech you, ſend for ſome of them.
Ely. Marry and will, my Lord, with all my heart.
[Exit Biſhop.
Rich. Couſin of Buckingham, a word with you.
Catesby hath ſounded Haſtings in our buſineſs,
And finds the teſty Gentleman ſo hot,
That he will loſe his Head, e're give conſent
His Maſter's Child, as worſhipfully he tearms it,
Shall loſe the Royalty of Englands Throne.
Buck. Withdraw your ſelf a while, I'le go with you.
[Exeunt.
Derb. We have not yet ſet down this day of Triumph:
To morrow, in my judgment, is too ſudden,
For I my ſelf am not ſo well provided,
As elſe I would be, were the day prolong'd.

Enter Biſhop of Ely.

Ely. Where is my Lord, the Duke of Gloceſter?
I have ſent for theſe Strawberries.
Ha. His Grace looks chearfully and ſmooth this morning,
There's ſome conceit or other likes him well,
When that he bids Good morrow with ſuch Spirit.
I think there's never a Man in Chriſtendom
Can leſſer hide his love, or hate than he,
For by his Face ſtraight ſhall you know his Heart.
Derb. What of his Heart perceive you in his Face,
By any livelihood he ſhew'd to day?
Haſt. Marry that with no man here he is offended:
For were he, he had ſhewn it in his Looks.

Enter Richard, and Buckingham.

Rich. I pray you all, tell me what they deſerve,
That do conſpire my death with deviliſh Plots
Of damned Witchcraft, and that have prevail'd
Upon my Body with their Helliſh Charmes.
Haſt. The tender love I bear your Grace, my Lord,
Makes me moſt forward, in this Princely preſence,
To doom th' Offenders, whoſoe're they be:
I ſay, my Lord, they have deſerved death.
Rich. Then be your Eyes the witneſs of their Evil,
Look how I am bewitch'd: behold mine Arm
Is like a blaſted Sapling wither'd up:
And this is Edward's Wife, that monſtrous Witch,
Conſorted with that Harlot, Strumpet Shore,
That by their Witchcraft thus have marked me.
Haw. If they have done this deed, my Noble Lord.
Rich. If? thou Protector of this damned Strumpet,
Talk'ſt thou to me of Iffs; Thou art a Traytor,
Off with his Head; now by Saint Paul I ſwear,
I will not dine, until I ſee the ſame.
Lovel and Ratcliffe, look that it be done:
The reſt that love me, riſe, and follow me. [Exeunt.

Manent Lovel and Ratcliffe, with the Lord Haſtings.

Haſt. Woe, woe for England, not a whit for me,
For I, too fond, might have prevented this:
Stanly did dream, the Boar did rowze our Helmes,
And I did ſcorn it, and diſdain to flye:
Three times to day my Foot-Cloth-Horſe did ſtumble,
And ſtarted, when he looked upon the Tower,
As loath to bear me to the ſlaughter-houſe.
O now I need the Prieſt that ſpake to me:
I now repent I told the Purſuivant,
As too triumphing, how mine Enemies
To day at Pomfret bloodily were butcher'd,
And I my ſelf ſecure, in grace and favour.
Oh Margaret, Margaret, now thy heavy Curſe
Is lighted on poor Haſting's wretched Head.
Ra. Come, come, diſpatch, the Duke would be at dinner,
Make a ſhort Shrift, he longs to ſee your Head.
Haſt. O momentary grace of mortal men,
Which we more hunt for, than the grace of God!
Who builds his hope in air of your good Looks,
Lives like a drunken Sailor on a Maſt,
Ready with every Nod to tumble down
Into the fatal Bowels of the Deep.
Lov. Come, come, diſpatch, 'tis bootleſs to exclaim.
Haſt. O bloody Richard, miſerable England,
I propheſie the fearfull'ſt time to thee,
That ever wretched Age hath look'd upon.
Come, lead me to the Block, bear him my Head,
They ſmile at me, who ſhortly ſhall be dead.
[Exeunt.

Enter

Enter Richard, and Buckingham, in rotten Armour marvellous ill-favour'd.

Rich. Come Couſin,
Can'ſt thou quake, and change thy colour,
Murther thy breath in middle of a word,
And then again begin, and ſtop again,
As if thou were diſtraught, and mad with terror?
Buck. Tut, I can counterfeit the deep Tragedian,
Speak, and look back, and pry on every ſide,
Tremble, and ſtart at wagging of a Straw!
Intending deep ſuſpition, gaſtly Looks
Are at my ſervice, like enforced Smiles;
And both are ready in their Offices,
At any time to grace my Stratagems.
But what, is Catesby gone?
Rich. He is, and ſee he brings the Mayor along.

Enter the Mayor and Catesby.

Buck. Lord Mayor.
Rich. Look to the Draw-bridge there.
Buck. Hearke, a Drum.
Rich. Catesby, o'relook the Walls.
Buck. Lord Mayor, the reaſon we have ſent.
Rich. Look back, defend there, here are Enemies.
Buck. God and our Innocency defend, and guard us.

Enter Lovel and Ratcliffe, with Haſtings Head.

Rich. Be patient, they are Friends: Ratcliffe and Lovel.
Lov. Here is the Head of that ignoble Traitor,
The dangerous and unſuſpected Haſtings.
Rich. So dear I lov'd the man, that I muſt weep:
I took him for the plaineſt harmleſs Creature,
That breath'd upon the Earth, a Chriſtian:
Made him my Book, wherein my Soul recorded
The Hiſtory of her ſecret thoughts.
So ſmooth he daub'd his Vice with ſhew of Vertue.
That his apparent open Guilt omitted,
I mean his Converſation with Shore's Wife,
He liv'd from all Attainder of ſuſpects.
Buck. Well, well, he was the covert'ſt ſhelter'd Traitor
That ever liv'd.
Would you imagine, or almoſt believe,
Wer't not, that by great preſervation
We live to tell it, that the ſubtle Traitor
This day had plotted, in the Counſel-Houſe,
To murther me, and my good Lord of Gloſter.
May. Had he done ſo?
Rich. What! think you we are Turks, or Infidels?
Or that we would, againſt the form of Law,
Proceed thus raſhly in the Villains death,
But that the extream peril of the caſe,
The Peace of England, and our Perſons ſafety,
Enforc'd us to this Execution.
May. Now fair befall you, he deſerv'd his death,
And your good Graces both have well proceeded,
To warn falſe Traitors from the like Attempts.
Buck. I never look'd for better at his hands,
After he once fell in with Miſtreſs Shore:
Yet had we not determin'd he ſhould die,
Until your Lordſhip came to ſee his end,
Which now the loving haſte of theſe our Friends,
Something againſt our meanings, have prevented;
Becauſe, my Lord, I would have had you heard
The Traitor ſpeak, and timerouſly confeſs
The manner and the purpoſe of his Treaſons:
That you might well have ſignify'd the ſame
Unto the Citizens, who haply may
Miſconſtrue us in him, and wail his death.
May. But, my good Lord, your Grace's words ſhall ſerve,
As well as I had ſeen, and heard him ſpeak:
And do not doubt, right Noble Princes both,
But I'le acquaint our duteous Citizens
With all your juſt proceedings in this caſe.
Rich. And to that end we wiſh'd your Lordſhip here,
T'avoid the Cenſures of the carping World.
Buck. Which ſince you come too late of our intent,
Yet witneſs what you hear we did intend:
And ſo, my good Lord Mayor, we bid farewel.
[Exit Mayor.
Rich. Go after, after, Couſin Buckingham.
The Mayor towards Guild-Hall hyes him in all poſt:
There, at your meeteſt vantage of the time,
Infer the Baſtardy of Edward's Children,
Tell them, how Edward put to death a Citizen,
Only for ſaying, he would make his Son
Heir to the Crown, meaning indeed his Houſe,
Which, by the Sign thereof was termed ſo.
Moreover, urge his hateful Luxury,
And beſtial appetite in change of Luſt,
Which ſtretch'd unto their Servants, Daughters, Wives,
Even where his raging Eye, or ſavage Heart,
Without controll, luſted to make a prey.
Nay, for a need, thus far come near my Perſon:
Tell them, when that my Mother went with Child
Of that inſatiate Edward, Noble York,
My Princely Father then had Wars in France,
And by true computation of the time,
Found, that the Iſſue was not his begot:
Which well appear'd in his Lineaments,
Being nothing like the Noble Duke, my Father:
Yet touch this ſparingly, as 'twere far off,
Becauſe, my Lord, you know my Mother lives.
Buck. Doubt not, my Lord, I'le play the Orator,
As if the Golden Fee, for which I plead,
Were for my ſelf: and ſo, my Lord, adieu.
Rich. If you thrive well, bring them to Baynards Caſtle,
Where you ſhall find me well accompanied
With reverend Fathers, and well-learned Biſhops.
Buck. I go, and towards three or four a Clock
Look for the News that the Guild-Hall affords.
[Exit Buckingham.
Rich. Go, Lovell, with all ſpeed to Doctor Shaw,
Go thou to Fryar Penker, bid them both
Meet me within this hour at Baynard's Caſtle. [Exit.
Now will I go to take ſome privy Order,
To draw the Brats of Clarence out of ſight,
And to give order, that no manner of perſon
Have any time recourſe unto the Princes. [Exit.

Enter a Scrivener.

Scr. Here is the Indictment of the good Lord Haſtings,
Which in a ſet hand fairly is engroſs'd.
That it may be to day read o're in Pauls.
And mark how well the ſequel hangs together:
Eleven hours I have ſpent to write it over,
For yeſter-night by Catesby was it ſent me,
The Precedent was full as long a doing,
And yet within theſe five hours Haſtings liv'd,
Untainted, unexamin'd, free, at liberty.
Here's a good World the while; who is ſo groſs
That cannot ſee this palpable device?
Yet who ſo bold, but ſay he ſees it not?
Bad is the World, and all will come to nought,
When ſuch ill dealing muſt be ſeen in thought. [Exit.

Enter Richard and Buckingham at ſeveral doors.

Rich. How now, how now, what ſay the Citizens?
Buck. Now by the holy Mother of our Lord,
The Citizens are mum, ſay not a word.
Rich. Touch'd you the Baſtardy of Edwards Children?
Buck. I did, with his Contract with Lady Lucy,
And his Contract by Deputy in France.
Th'unſatiate greedineſs of his deſire,
And his enforcement of the City Wives,

His Tyranny for Trifles, his own Baſtardy,
As being got, your Father then in France,
And his reſemblance, being not like the Duke.
Withal, I did inſer your Lineaments,
Being the right Idea of your Father,
Both in your form, and Nobleneſs of Mind:
Laid open all your Victories in Scotland,
Your Diſcipline in War, Wiſdom in Peace,
Your Bounty, Vertue, fair Humility:
Indeed, left nothing fitting for your purpoſe,
Untoucht, or ſleightly handled in diſcourſe.
And when my Oratory grew toward end,
I bid them that did love their Countries good,
Cry, God ſave Richard, England's Royal King.
Rich. And did they ſo?
Buck. No, ſo God help me, they ſpake not a word,
But like dumb Statues or breathing Stones,
Star'd each on other, and look'd deadly pale:
Which when I ſaw, I reprehended them,
And ask'd the Mayor, what meant this wilful ſilence?
His anſwer was, the people were not uſed
To be ſpoke to, but by the Recorder.
Then he was urg'd to tell my Tale again:
Thus ſaith the Duke, thus hath the Duke inferr'd,
But nothing ſpoke in warrant from himſelf.
When he had done, ſome followers of mine own,
At lower end of the Hall, hurl'd up their Caps,
And ſome ten voices cry'd, God ſave King Richard:
And thus I took the vantage of thoſe few.
Thanks, gentle Citizens and Friends, quoth I,
This general applauſe, and chearful ſhout,
Argues your wiſdom, and your love to Richard:
And even here brake off, and came away.
Rich. What Tongue-leſs Blocks were they,
Would they not ſpeak?
Will not the Mayor then, and his Brethren, come?
Buck. The Mayor is here at hand: intend ſome fear,
Be not you ſpoke with, but by mighty ſuit:
And look you get a Prayer-Book in your hand,
And ſtand between two Church-men, good my Lord,
For on that ground I'le make a holy Deſcant:
And be not eaſily won to our requeſts,
Play the Maids part, ſtill anſwer nay, and take it.
Rich. I go: and if you plead as well for them,
As I can ſay nay to thee for my ſelf,
No doubt we bring it to a happy iſſue.
Buck. Go, go up to the Leads, the Lord Mayor knocks.

Enter Lord Mayor, and Citizens.

Welcome my Lord, I dance attendance here,
I think the Duke will not be ſpoke withall.
Enter Catesby.
Buck. Now Catesby, what ſays your Lord to my requeſt?
Cates. He doth intreat your Grace, my Noble Lord,
To viſit him to morrow, or next day:
He is within, with two right Reverend Fathers,
Divinely bent to Meditation,
And in no worldly Suits would he be mov'd,
To draw him from his holy Exerciſe.
Buck. Return, good Catesby, to the gracious Duke,
Tell him, my ſelf, the Mayor and Aldermen,
In deep deſigns, in matter of great moment,
No leſs importing than our general Good,
Are come to have ſome conference with his Grace.
Cates. I'le ſignifie ſo much unto him ſtraight. [Exit.
Buck. Ah ha, my Lord, this Prince is not an Edward,
He is not lulling on a lew'd Love-Bed:
But on his Knees at Meditation:
Not dallying with a Brace of Curtizans,
But meditating with two deep Divines:
Not ſleeping, to engroſs his idle Body,
But praying, to enrich his watchful Soul.
Happy were England, would this vertuous Prince
Take on his Grace the Soveraignty thereof.
But ſure I fear we ſhall not win him to it.
Mayor. Marry God defend his Grace ſhould ſay us nay.
Buck. I fear he will: here Catesby comes again.
Enter Catesby.
Now Catesby, what ſays his Grace?
Cates. He wonders to what end you have aſſembled
Such troops of Citizens to come to him,
His Grace not being warn'd thereof before:
He fears, my Lord, you mean no good to him.
Buck. Sorry I am, my Noble Couſin ſhould
Suſpect me, that I mean no good to him:
By Heaven, we come to him in perfect love,
And ſo once more return, and tell his Grace. [Exit.
When holy and devout Religious men
Are at their Beads, 'tis much to draw them thence,
So ſweet is zealous Contemplation.

Enter Richard aloft, between two Biſhops.

Ma See where his Grace ſtands 'tween two Clergymen.
Buck. Two Props of Vertue, for a Chriſtian Prince,
To ſtay him from the fall of Vanity:
And ſee a Book of Prayer in his hand,
True Ornaments to know a holy Man.
Famous Plantagenet, moſt gracious Prince,
Lend favourable ear to our requeſts,
And pardon us the interruption
Of thy Devotion and right Chriſtian Zeal.
Rich. My Lord, there needs no ſuch Apology:
I do beſeech your Grace to pardon me,
Who earneſt in the ſervice of th' high God,
Deferr'd the viſitation of my Friends.
But leaving this, what is your Graces pleaſure?
Buck. Even that (I hope) which pleaſeth God above,
And all good men, of this ungovern'd Iſle.
Rich. I do ſuſpect I have done ſome offence,
That ſeems diſgracious in the Cities Eye,
And that you come to reprehend my Ignorance.
Buck. You have, my Lord,
Would it might pleaſe your Grace,
On our entreaties to amend your fault.
Rich. Elſe wherefore breathe I in a Chriſtian Land.
Buck. Know then, it is your fault that you reſign
The Supream Seat, the Throne Majeſtical,
The Sceptred office of your Anceſtors,
Your State of Fortune, and your due of Birth,
The Lineal Glory of your Royal Houſe,
To the corruption of a blemiſh'd Stock:
Whiles in the mildneſs of your ſleepy thoughts,
(Which here we waken to our Countries good,)
The Noble Iſle doth want his proper Limbs:
His Face defac'd with ſkars of Infamy,
His Royal Stock graft with ignoble Plants,
And almoſt ſhouldred in the ſwallowing Gulf
Of dark forgetfulneſs, and deep Oblivion.
Which to recure, we heartily ſolicit
Your gracious ſelf to take on you the charge
And Kingly Government of this your Land:
Not as Protector, Steward, Subſtitute,
Or lowly Factor, for anothers gain;
But as ſucceſſively, from Blood to Blood,
Your right of Birth, your Empiry, your own.
For this, conſorted with the Citizens,
Your very Worſhipful and loving Friends,
And by their vehement inſtigation,
In this juſt Cauſe come I to move your Grace.
Rich. I cannot tell, if to depart in ſilence,
Or bitterly to ſpeak in your reproof,
Beſt fitteth my Degree, or your Condition.
For not to anſwer, you might haply think
Tongue-ty'd Ambition, not replying, yielded
To bear the Golden Yoak of Soveraignty,
Which fondly you would here impoſe on me.

If to reprove you for this ſuit of yours,
So ſeaſon'd with your faithful love to me,
Then on the other ſide I check'd my Friends.
Therefore to ſpeak, and to avoid the firſt,
And then in ſpeaking, not to incur the laſt,
Definitively thus I anſwer you.
Your love deſerves my thanks, but my deſert
Unmeritable, ſhuns your high requeſt.
Firſt, if all Obſtacles were cut away,
And that my Path were even to the Crown,
As the ripe Revenue, and due of Birth:
Yet ſo much is my poverty of Spirit,
So mighty, and ſo many my defects,
That I would rather hide me from my Greatneſs,
Being a Bark to brook no mighty Sea;
Than in my Greatneſs covet to be hid,
And in the vapour of my Glory ſmother'd.
But God be thank'd, there is no need of me,
And much I need to help you, were there need:
The Royal Tree hath left us Royal Fruit,
Which mellow'd by the ſtealing hours of time,
Will well become the Seat of Majeſty,
And make us (no doubt) happy by his Reign.
On him I lay that, you would lay on me,
The Right and Fortune of his happy Stars,
Which God defend that I ſhould wring from him.

Buck. My Lord, this argues Conſcience in your Grace,
But the reſpects thereof are nice, and trivial,
All circumſtances well conſidered.
You ſay, that Edward is your Brothers Son,
So ſay we too, but not by Edwards Wife:
For firſt was he contract to Lady Lucy,
Your Mother lives a witneſs to his Vow,
And afterward by ſubſtitute betroth'd
To Bona, Siſter to the King of France.
Theſe both put off, a poor Petitioner,
A Care-craz'd Mother to a many Sons,
A Beauty-waining, and diſtreſſed Widow,
Even in the after-noon of her beſt day,
Made prize and purchaſe of his wanton Eye,
Seduc'd the pitch, and height of his degree,
To baſe declenſion, and loath'd Bigamie.
By her, in his unlawful Bed, he got
This Edward, whom our Manners call the Prince.
More bitterly could I expoſtulate,
Save that for reverence of ſome alive,
I give a ſparing limit to my Tongue.
Then, good my Lord, take to your Royal ſelf
This proffer'd benefit of Dignity:
If not to bleſs us, and the Land withal,
Yet to draw forth your Noble Anceſtry
From the corruption of abuſing times,
Unto a Lineal true derived courſe.

Mayor. Do, good my Lord, your Citizens intreat you.

Buck. Refuſe not, mighty Lord, this proffer'd love.

Cates. O make them joyful, grant their lawful ſuit.

Rich. Alas, why would you heap this Care on me?
I am unfit for State, and Majeſty:
I do beſeech you take it not amiſs,
I cannot, nor I will not yield to you.

Buck. If you refuſe it, as in love and zeal,
Loth to depoſe the Child your Brothers Son,
As well we know your tenderneſs of Heart,
And gentle, kind, effeminate remorſe,
Which we have noted in you to your Kindred,
And equally indeed to all Eſtates:
Yet know, where you accept our ſuit, or no,
Your Brothers Son ſhall never reign our King,
But we will plant ſome other in the Throne,
To the diſgrace and down-fall of your Houſe:
And in this reſolution here we leave you.
Come Citizens, we will intreat no more. [Exeunt.

Cates. Call him again, ſweet Prince, accept their ſuit:
If you deny them, all the Land will rue it.

Rich. Will you enforce me to a world of Cares?
Call them again, I am not made of Stones,
But penetrable to your kind entreaties,
Albeit againſt my Conſcience and my Soul.

Enter Buckingham and the reſt.

Couſin of Buckingham, and Sage men,
Since you will buckle Fortune on my back,
To bear her burthen, whether, I will or no,
I muſt have patience to endure the Load:
But if black Scandal, or foul-fac'd Reproach,
Attend the ſequel of your Impoſition,
Your meer enforcement ſhall acquittance me
From all the impure blots and ſtains thereof,
For God doth know, and you may partly ſee,
How far I am from the deſire of this.

Mayor. God bleſs your Grace, we ſee it, and will ſay it.

Rich. In ſaying ſo, you ſhall but ſay the truth.

Buck. Then I ſalute you with this Royal Title,
Long live King Richard, Englands worthy King.

All. Amen.

Buck. To morrow may it pleaſe you to be Crown'd.

Rich. Even when you pleaſe, for you will have it ſo.

Buck. To morrow then we will attend your Grace,
And ſo moſt joyfully we take our leave.

Rich. Come, let us to our holy Work again.
Farewel my Couſins, farewel gentle Friends. [Exeunt.

Actus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter the Queen, Anne Dutcheſs of Gloceſter, the Dutcheſs of York, and Marqueſs of Dorſet.

Dutch. York. Who meets us here?
My Niece Plantagenet,
Led in the hand of her kind Aunt of Gloſter?
Now, for my Life, ſhe's wandring to the Tower,
On pure hearts love, to greet the tender Prince.
Daughter, well met.

Anne. God give your Graces both a happy
And a joyful time of day.

Qu. As much to you, good Siſter: whither away?

Anne. No farther than the Tower, and as I gueſs,
Upon the like devotion as your ſelves,
To gratulate the gentle Princes there.

Qu. Kind Siſter thanks, we'll never enter all together.

Enter the Lieutenant.

And in good time, here the Lieutenant comes.
Maſter Lieutenant, pray you, by your leave,
How doth the Prince, and my young Son of York?

Lieu. Right well, dear Madam: by your patience,
I may not ſuffer you to viſit them,
The King hath ſtrictly charg'd the contrary.

Qu. The King? who's that?

Lieu. I mean the Lord Protector.

Qu. The Lord protect him from that Kingly Title.
Hath he ſet bounds between their love, and me?
I am their Mother, who ſhall bar me from them?

Dutch. York. I am their Fathers Mother, I will ſee them.

Anne. Their Aunt I am in Law, in love their Mother:
Then bring me to their ſights, I'le bear thy blame,
And take thy Office from thee, on my peril.

Lieu. No, Madam, no, I may not leave it ſo:
I am bound by Oath, and therefore pardon me.
[Exit Lieutenant.

Enter Stanly.

Stan. Let me but meet you Ladies one hour hence,
And I'le ſalute your Grace of York as Mother,
And reverend looker on of two fair Queens.
Come Madam, you muſt ſtraight to Weſtminſter,
There to be Crowned Richards Royal Queen.

Qu. Ah, cut my Lace aſunder,

That my pent Heart may have ſome ſcope to beat,
Or elſe I ſwoon with this dead-killing news.
Ann. Deſpightful tidings, O unpleaſing news.
Dorſ. Be of good chear: Mother, how fares your Grace?
Qu. O Dorſet, ſpeak not to me, get thee gone,
Death and Deſtruction dogs thee at thy heels,
Thy Mothers Name is ominous to Children.
If thou wilt out-ſtrip Death, go croſs the Seas,
And live with Richmond, from the reach of Hell.
Go hye thee, hye thee from this ſlaughter-houſe,
Leſt thou increaſe the number of the dead,
And make me die the thrall of Margaret's Curſe,
Nor Mother, Wife, nor England's counted Queen.
Stan. Full of wiſe care is this your Counſel, Madam:
Take all the ſwift advantage of the hours:
You ſhall have Letters from me to my Son,
In your behalf, to meet you on the way:
Be not ta'ne tardy by unwiſe delay.
Duc. Yor. O ill diſperſing Wind of Miſery,
O my accurſed Womb, the Bed of Death:
A Cockatrice haſt thou hatch'd to the World,
Whoſe unavoided Eye is Murtherous.
Stan. Come, Madam, come, I in all haſte was ſent.
Ann. And I with all unwillingneſs will go.
O would to God, that the incluſive Verge
Of Golden Metal, that muſt round my Brow,
Were red hot Steel to ſear me to the Brains,
Anointed let me be with deadly Venom,
And die e're Men ſay, God ſave the Queen.
Qu. Go, go, poor Soul, I envy not thy Glory,
To feed my humour wiſh thy ſelf no harm.
Ann. No: why? When he that is my Husband now,
Came to me, as I follow'd Henry's Coarſe,
When ſcarce the Blood was well waſh'd from his hands,
Which iſſued from my other Angel Husband,
And that dear Saint, which then I weeping follow'd:
O, when I ſay, I look'd on Richard's Face,
This was my Wiſh: Be thou (quoth I) accurſt,
For making me, ſo young, ſo old a Widow:
And when thou wed'ſt, let Sorrow haunt thy Bed:
And be thy Wife, if any be ſo mad,
More miſerable, by the Life of thee,
Than thou haſt made me, by my dear Lords Death.
Loe, e're I can repeat this Curſe again,
Within ſo ſmall a time my Womans Heart
Groſsly grew captive to his honey words,
And prov'd the ſubject of mine own Souls Curſe,
Which hitherto hath held mine Eyes from reſt:
For never yet one hour in his Bed
Did I enjoy the golden dew of Sleep,
But with his timorous Dreams was ſtill awak'd.
Beſides, he hates me for my Father Warwick,
And will (no doubt) ſhortly be rid of me.
Qu. Poor heart, Adieu, I pity thy complaining.
Ann. No more than with my Soul I mourn for yours.
Dorſ. Farewel, thou woful welcomer of Glory.
Ann. Adieu, poor Soul, that tak'ſt thy leave of it.
Duc. Yor. Go thou to Richmond, and good fortune guide thee, [To Dorſet.
Go thou to Richard, and good Angels tend thee, [To Ann.
Go thou to Sanctuary, and good thoughts poſſeſs thee,
[To the Queen.
I to my Grave, where Peace and reſt lye with me.
Eighty odd years of ſorrow have I ſeen,
And each hours joy wrack'd with a week of teen.
Qu. Stay, yet look back with me unto the Tower,
Pity, you ancient Stones, thoſe tender Babes,
Whom Envy hath immur'd within your Walls,
Rough Cradle for ſuch little pretty ones,
Rude ragged Nurſe, old ſullen Play-fellow,
For tender Princes: uſe my Babies well;
So fooliſh Sorrows bid your Stones farewel. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Sound a Sonnet. Enter Richard in pomp, Buckingham, Catesby, Ratcliffe, Lovel.

Rich. Stand all apart, Couſin of Buckingham.
Buck. My gracious Soveraign.
Rich. Give me thy hand. [Sound.
Thus high, by thy advice, and thy aſſiſtance,
Is King Richard Seated:
But ſhall we wear theſe Glories for a day?
Or ſhall they laſt, and we rejoice in them?
Buck. Still live they, and for ever let them laſt.
Rich. Ah Buckingham, now do I play the Touch,
To try if thou be current Gold indeed:
Young Edward lives, think now what I would ſpeak.
Buck. Say on, my loving Lord.
Rich. Why, Buckingham, I ſay I would be King.
Buck. Why ſo you are, my thrice renowned Lord.
Rich. Ha? am I King? 'tis ſo: but Edward lives.
Buck. True, Noble Prince.
Rich. O bitter Conſequence!
That Edward ſtill ſhould live true Noble Prince.
Couſin, thou waſt not wont to be ſo dull.
Shall I be plain? I wiſh the Baſtards dead,
And I would have it ſuddenly perform'd.
What ſay'ſt thou now? ſpeak ſuddenly, be brief.
Buck. Your Grace may do your pleaſure.
Rich. Tut, tut, thou art all Ice, thy kindneſs freezes:
Say, have I thy conſent, that they ſhall die?
Buck. Give me ſome little breath, ſome pauſe, dear Lord,
Before I poſitively ſpeak in this:
I will reſolve you herein preſently. [Exit. Buckingham.
Cates. The King is angry, ſee he gnaws his Lip.
Rich. I will converſe with Iron-witted Fools,
And unreſpective Boys: none are for me,
That look into me with conſiderate Eyes,
High-reaching Buckingham grows circumſpect.
Boy.
Page. My Lord.
Rich. Know'ſt thou not any, whom corrupting Gold
Will tempt unto a cloſe exploit of Death?
Page. I know a diſcontented Gentleman,
Whoſe humble means match not his haughty ſpirit:
Gold were as good as twenty Orators,
And will (no doubt) tempt him to any thing.
Rich. What is his Name?
Page. His Name, my Lord, is Tirrell.
Rich. I partly know the Man: go call him hither,
Boy. [Exit.
The deep revolving witty Buckingham,
No more ſhall be the neighbour to my Counſels.
Hath he ſo long held out with me untyr'd,
And ſtops he now for Breath? Well, be it ſo.
Enter Stanly.
How now, Lord Stanly, what's the news?
Stan. Know, my loving Lord, the Marqueſs Dorſet,
As I hear, is fled to Richmond,
In the parts where he abides.
Rich. Come hither, Catesby, rumor it abroad,
That Ann my Wife is very grievous ſick,
I will take order for her keeping cloſe.
Inquire me out ſome mean poor Gentleman,
Whom I will marry ſtraight to Clarence Daughter:
The Boy is fooliſh, and I fear not him.
Look how thou dream'ſt: I ſay again, give out,
That Ann my Queen is ſick, and like to die.
About it, for it ſtands me much upon
To ſtop all hopes, whoſe growth may damage me.
I muſt be married to my Brothers Daughter:
Or elſe my Kingdom ſtands on brittle Glaſs:
Murther her Brothers, and then marry her,

Uncertain

Uncertain way of gain. But I am in
So far in blood, that ſin will pluck on ſin,
Tear-falling Pity dwells not in this Eye.
Enter Tirrel.
Is thy Name Tirrel?
Tir. James Tirrel, and your moſt obedient Subject.
Rich. Art thou indeed?
Tir. Prove me, my gracious Lord.
Rich. Dar'ſt thou reſolve to kill a Friend of mine?
Tir. Pleaſe you:
But I had rather kill two Enemies.
Rich. Why then thou haſt it: two deep Enemies,
Foes to my Reſt, and my ſweet ſleeps diſturbers,
Are they that I would have thee deal upon:
Tirrel, I mean thoſe Baſtards in the Tower.
Tir. Let me have open means to come to them,
And ſoon I'le rid you from the fear of them.
Rich. Thou ſing'ſt ſweet Muſick:
Heark, come hither Tirrel,
Go by this token: riſe, and lend thine Ear, [Whiſpers.
There is no more but ſo: ſay it is done,
And I will love thee, and prefer thee for it.
Tir. I will diſpatch it ſtraight. [Exit.
Enter Buckingham.
Buck. My Lord, I have conſider'd in my mind,
The late requeſt that you did ſound me in.
Rich. Well, let that reſt: Dorſet is fled to Richmond.
Buck. I hear the news, my Lord.
Rich. Stanly, he is your Wives Son: well, look unto it.
Buck. My Lord, I claim the gift, my due by promiſe,
For which your Honour and your Faith is pawn'd.
Th' Earldom of Hereford, and the Moveables,
Which you have promiſed I ſhall poſſeſs.
Rich. Stanly, look to your Wife: if ſhe convey
Letters to Richmond, you ſhall anſwer it.
Buck. What ſays your Highneſs to my juſt requeſt?
Rich. I do remember me, Henry the Sixth
Did Propheſie, that Richmond ſhould be King,
When Richmond was a little peeviſh Boy.
A King perhaps.
Buck. May it pleaſe you to reſolve me in my ſuit.
Rich. Thou troubleſt me, I am not in the vein. [Exit.
Buck. And is it thus? repays he my deep ſervice
With ſuch contempt? made I him King for this?
O let me think on Haſtings, and be gone
To Brecnock, while my fearful head is on. [Exit.
Enter Tirrel.
Tir. The tyrannous and bloody Act is done,
The moſt Arch deed of piteous maſſacre
That ever yet this Land was guilty of:
Dighton and Forreſt, whom I did ſuborn
To do this piece of ruthful Butchery,
Albeit they were fleſht Villains, bloody Dogs,
Melted with tenderneſs, and mild compaſſion,
Wept like to Children, in their deaths ſad ſtory,
O thus (quoth Dighton) lay the gentle Babes:
Thus, thus (quoth Forreſt) girdling one another
Within their Alabaſter innocent arms:
Their lips were four red Roſes on a ſtalk,
And their Summer Beauty kiſt each other.
A Book of Prayers on their Pillow lay,
Which once (quoth Forreſt) almoſt chang'd my mind:
But oh the Devil, there the Villain ſtopt:
When Dighton thus told on, we ſmothered
The moſt repleniſhed ſweet work of Nature,
That from the prime Creation e're ſhe framed.
Hence both are gone with Conſcience and Remorſe,
They could not ſpeak, and ſo I left them both,
To bear theſe tydings to the bloody King.
Enter Richard.
And here he comes. All health my Soveraign Lord.
Rich. Kind Tirrel, am I happy in the News?
Tir. If to have done the thing you gave in charge
Beget your happineſs, be happy then,
For it is done.
Rich. But did'ſt thou ſee them dead?
Tir. I did, my Lord.
Rich. And buried, gentle Tirrel?
Tir. The Chaplain of the Tower hath buried them,
But where (to ſay the truth) I do not know.
Rich. Come to me Tirrel ſoon, and after Supper,
When thou there ſhalt tell the proceſs of their death.
Mean time, but think how I may do thee good,
And be inheritor of thy deſire.
Farewel till then.
Tir. I humbly take leave.
Rich. The Son of Clarence have I pent up cloſe,
His Daughter meanly have I match'd in marriage,
The Sons of Edward ſleep in Abrahams boſom,
And Ann my Wife hath bid this World good night.
Now for I know the Britain Richmond aims
At young Elizabeth my Brothers Daughter,
And by that knot looks proudly on the Crown,
To her go I, a jolly thriving Wooer.
Enter Ratcliff.
Rat. My Lord.
Rich. Good or bad News, that thou com'ſt in ſo bluntly?
Rat. Bad news, my Lord, Mourton is fled to Richmond,
And Buckingham, backt with the hardy Welſhmen,
Is in the Field, and ſtill his power encreaſeth.
Rich. Ely with Richmond troubles me more near,
Than Buckingham and his raſh levied ſtrength.
Come, I have learn'd that fearful commenting
Is leaden Servitor to dull delay.
Delay leads impotent and Snail-pac'd Beggery:
Then fiery expedition be my wing,
Joves Mercury, and Herald for a King:
Go muſter men: My Counſel is my Shield,
We muſt be brief, when Traytors brave the Field. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Old Queen Margaret.

Mar. So now proſperity begins to mellow,
And drop into the rotten mouth of death:
Here in theſe Confines ſlily have I lurkt,
To watch the waining of mine Enemies.
A dire induction am I witneſs to,
And will to France, hoping the conſequence
Will prove as bitter, black, and Tragical.
Withdraw thee wretched Margaret, who comes here?
Enter Dutcheſs and Queen.
Queen. Ah my poor Princes! ah my tender Babes!
My unblown Flowers, new appearing ſweets:
If yet your gentle Souls fly in the Air,
And be not fixt in doom perpetual,
Hover about me with your airy Wings,
And here your Mothers Lamentation.
Mar. Hover about her, ſay that right for right
Hath dim'd your Infant morn, to Aged night.
Dut. So many miſeries have craz'd my voice,
That my woe-wearied tongue is ſtill and mute.
Edward Plantagenet why art thou dead?
Mar. Plantagenet doth quit Plantagenet,
Edward for Edward pays a dying debt.
Qu. Wilt thou, O God, flye from ſuch gentle Lambs,
And throw them in the intrails of the Wolf?
Why didſt thou ſleep, when ſuch a deed was done?
Mar. When Holy Henry died, and my ſweet Son.
Dut. Dead life, blind ſight, poor mortal living Ghoſt,
Woes Scene, Worlds ſhame, Graves due, by life uſurpt,
Brief abſtract and record of tedious days,
Reſt thy unreſt on Englands lawful Earth,
Unlawfully made drunk with innocent blood.
Queen. Ah that thou would'ſt as ſoon afford a Grave,

As

As thou canſt yield a melancholy ſeat:
Then would I hide my bones, not reſt them here,
Ah who hath any cauſe to mourn, but we?
Mar. If ancient be moſt reverent,
Give mine the benefit of Signeury,
And let my griefs frown on the upper hand
If ſorrow can admit Society.
I had an Edward till a Richard kill'd him:
I had an Husband, till a Richard kill'd him:
Thou had'ſt an Edward, till a Richard kill'd him:
Thou had'ſt a Richard, till a Richard kill'd him.
Dut. I had a Richard too and thou did'ſt kill him;
I had a Rutland too, thou holp'ſt to kill him.
Mar. Thou had'ſt a Clarence too,
And Richard kill'd him.
From forth the kennel of thy Womb hath crept
A Hell-hound that doth hunt us all to death:
That Dog, that had his Teeth before his Eyes,
To worry Lambs, and lap their gentle blood:
That foul defacer of Gods handy work:
That reigns in gauled Eyes of weeping Souls:
That excellent grand Tyrant of the Earth,
Thy womb let looſe to chaſe us to our Graves.
O upright, juſt, and true diſpoſing God,
How do I thank thee, that this carnal Cur
Preys on the iſſue of his Mothers body,
And makes her Pue-fellow with others moan.
Dut. Oh Harries Wife, triumph not in my woes:
God witneſs with me, I have wept for thine.
Mar. Bear with me: I am hungry for revenge,
And now I cloy me with beholding it.
Thy Edward he is dead, that kill'd my Edward.
The other Edward dead, to quit my Edward:
Young York, he is but boot, becauſe both they
Match'd not the high perfection of my loſs.
Thy Clarence he is dead, that ſtab'd my Edward,
And the beholders of this frantick Play,
Th' adulterate Haſtings, Rivers, Vaughan, Gray,
Untimely ſmother'd in their duſky Graves.
Richard yet lives, Hell's black Intelligencer,
Onely reſerv'd their Factor, to buy Souls,
And ſend them thither: But at hand, at hand
Inſues his piteous and unpitied end.
Earth gapes, Hell burns, Fiends roar, Saints pray,
To have him ſuddenly convey'd from hence:
Cancel his Bond of life, dear God, I pray,
That I may live, and ſay, The Dog is dead.
Queen. O thou did'ſt Prophecy, the time would come,
That I ſhould wiſh for thee to help me Curſe
That bottel'd Spider, that foul bunch-back'd Toad.
Mar. I call'd thee then, vain flouriſh of my Fortune:
I call'd thee then, poor Shadow, painted Queen,
The repreſentation of but what I was;
The flattering Index of a direful Pageant,
One heav'd a high, to be hurl'd down below:
A Mother onely mock'd with two fair Babes;
A dream of what thou waſt, a gariſh Flag
To be the aim of every dangerous Shot;
A ſign of Dignity, a Breath, a Bubble:
A Queen in leaſt, only to fill the Scene.
Where is thy Husband now? where be thy Brothers?
Where be thy two Sons? Wherein do'ſt thou Joy?
Who ſues, and kneels, and ſays, God ſave the Queen?
Where be the bending Peers that flattered thee?
Where be the thronging Troops that followed thee?
Decline all this, and ſee now what thou art.
For happy Wife, a moſt diſtreſſed Widow:
For joyful Mother, one that wails the name:
For one being ſued to, one that humbly ſues:
For Queen, a very Caytiff, crown'd with care:
For ſhe that ſcorn'd at me, now ſcorn'd of me:
For ſhe being feared of all, now fearing one:
For ſhe commanding all obey'd, of none.
Thus hath the courſe of Juſtice whirl'd about,
And left thee but a very prey to time,
Having no more but thought of what thou waſt,
To torture thee the more, being what thou art.
Thou did'ſt uſurp my place, and doſt thou not
Uſurp the juſt proportion of my Sorrow?
Now thy proud Neck bears half my burthen'd yoak,
From which, even here I ſlip my wearied head,
And leave the burthen of it all, on thee.
Farewel York's Wife, and Queen of ſad miſchance,
Theſe Engliſh woes ſhall make me ſmile in France.
Queen. O thou well skil'd in Curſes, ſtay a while,
And teach me how to curſe mine Enemies.
Mar. Forbear to ſleep the night, and faſt the day:
Compare dead happineſs with living woe:
Think that thy Babes were ſweeter than they were,
And he that ſlew them fowler than he is:
Bett'ring thy loſs makes the bad cauſer worſe,
Revolving this, will teach thee how to Curſe.
Queen. My words are dull, O quicken them with thine.
Mar. Thy woes will make them ſharp,
And pierce like mine. [Exit Margaret.
Dut. Why ſhould calamity be full of words?
Queen. Windy Atturnies to their Clients Woes,
Aiery ſucceeders of inteſtine joys,
Poor breathing Orators of miſeries,
Let them have ſcope, though what they will impart
Help nothing elſe, yet do they eaſe the heart.
Dut. If ſo, then be not Tongue-ty'd: go with me,
And in the breath of bitter words, let's ſmother
My damned Son, that thy two ſweet Sons ſmother'd.
The Trumpet ſounds, be copious in exclaims.

Enter King Richard and his Train.

Rich. Who intercepts me in my Expedition?
Dut. O ſhe, that might have intercepted thee
By ſtrangling thee in her accurſed Womb,
From all the ſlaughters (Wretch) that thou haſt done.
Qu. Hid'ſt thou that Forehead with a Golden Crown,
Where't ſhould be branded, if that right were right?
The ſlaughter of the Prince that ow'd that Crown,
And the dire death of my poor Sons and Brothers.
Tell me, thou Villain-ſlave, where are my Children?
Dut. Thou Toad, thou Toad,
Where is thy Brother Clarence?
And little Ned Plantagenet his Son?
Queen. Where is the gentle Rivers, Vaughan, Gray?
Dut. Where is kind Haſtings?
Rich. A flouriſh, Trumpets; ſtrike Alarum, Drums:
Let not the Heavens hear theſe Tell-tale women
Rail on the Lords Anointed. Strike I ſay.
Flouriſh. Alarums.
Either be patient, and intreat me fair,
Or with the clamorous reports of War,
Thus will I drown your exclamations.
Dut. Art thou my Son?
Rich. I, I thank God, my Father, and your ſelf.
Dut. Then patiently hear my impatience.
Rich. Madam, I have a touch of your condition,
That cannot brook the accent of reproof.
Dut. O let me ſpeak.
Rich. Do then, but I'le not hear.
Dut. I will be mild, and gentle in my words.
Rich. And brief (good Mother) for I am in haſt.
Dut. Art thou ſo haſty? I have ſtaid for thee
(God knows) in torment and in agony.
Rich. And came I not at laſt to comfort you?
Dut. No by the holy Rood, thou know'ſt it well,
Thou cam'ſt on Earth, to make the Earth my Hell.
A grievous burthen was thy Birth to me,
Tetchy and wayward was thy infancy.
Thy School-days frightful, deſperate, wild, and furious,
Thy prime of Man-hood, daring, bold, and venturous:
Thy Age confirm'd, proud, ſubtle, ſlye, and bloody,

More mild, but yet more harmful, kind in hatred:
What comfortable hour canſt thou name,
That ever grac'd me with thy company?
Rich. Faith none, but Humphrey Hower,
That call'd your Grace
To breakfaſt once, forth of my company.
If I be ſo diſgracious in your Eye,
Let me march on, and not offend you, Madam.
Strike up the Drum.
Dut. I prithee hear me ſpeak.
Rich. You ſpeak too bitterly.
Dut. Hear me a word:
For I ſhall never ſpeak to thee again.
Rich. So.
Dut. Either thou wilt die by Gods juſt Ordinance
E're from this War thou turn a Conqueror:
Or I with grief and extream age ſhall periſh,
And never more behold thy Face again.
Therefore take with thee my moſt grievous Curſe,
Which in the day of Battel tire thee more
Than all the compleat Armour that thou wear'ſt.
My Prayers on the adverſe Party fight,
And there the little Souls of Edward's Children
Whiſper the Spirits of thine Enemies,
And promiſe them ſucceſs and Victory:
Bloody thou art, bloody will be thy end:
Shame ſerves thy life, and doth thy death attend. [Exit.
Queen. Though far more cauſe, yet much leſs Spirit to curſe
Abides in me, I ſay Amen to her.
Rich. Stay, Madam, I muſt talk a word with you.
Queen. I have no more Sons of the Royal blood
For thee to ſlaughter. For my Daughters (Richard)
They ſhall be praying Nuns, not weeping Queens:
And therefore level not to hit their lives.
Rich. You have a Daughter call'd Elizabeth,
Virtuous and fair, Royal and Gracious.
Queen. And muſt ſhe die for this? O let her live,
And I'le corrupt her Manners, ſtain her Beauty,
Slander my ſelf, as falſe to Edward's Bed:
Throw over her the vail of infamy,
So ſhe may live unſcarr'd of bleeding ſlaughter,
I will confeſs ſhe was not Edward's Daughter.
Rich. Wrong not her Birth, ſhe is a Royal Princeſs.
Queen. To ſave her life, I'le ſay ſhe is not ſo.
Rich. Her life is ſafeſt only in her Birth.
Queen. And only in that ſafety dy'd her Brothers.
Rich. Loe, at their Birth good Stars were oppoſite.
Queen. No, to their lives ill Friends were contrary.
Rich. All unavoided is the doom of Deſtiny.
Queen. True: when avoided Grace makes Deſtiny.
My Babes were deſtin'd to a fairer death,
If Grace had bleſt thee with a fairer life.
Rich. You ſpeak as if that I had ſlain my Couſins?
Queen. Couſins indeed, and by their Uncle cozen'd,
Of Comfort, Kingdom, Kindred, Freedom, Life,
Whoſe hands ſoever lanch'd their tender hearts,
Thy head (all indirectly) gave direction.
No doubt the murd'rous Knife was dull and blunt,
Till it was whetted on thy ſtone-hard heart,
To revel in the Intrails of my Lambs.
But that ſtill uſe of grief makes wild grief tame,
My tongue ſhould to thy ears not name my Boys,
Till that my Nails were anchor'd in thine Eyes:
And I in ſuch a deſp'rate Bay of death,
Like a poor Bark, of ſails and tackling reft,
Ruſh all to pieces on thy Rocky boſom.
Rich. Madam, ſo thrive I in my enterprize,
And dangerous ſucceſs of bloody Wars,
As I intend more good to you and yours,
Than ever you or yours by me were harm'd.
Queen. What good is cover'd with the Face of Heaven,
To be diſcovered, that can do me good?
Rich. Th' advancement of your Children, gentle Lady.
Queen. Up to ſome Scaffold, there to loſe their heads.
Rich. Unto the dignity and height of Fortune,
The high Imperial Type of this Earth's glory.
Queen. Flatter my ſorrow with report of it:
Tell me, what ſtate, what dignity, what honour
Canſt thou deviſe to any Child of mine?
Rich. Even all I have; I, and my ſelf and all,
Will I withal endow a Child of thine:
So in the Lethe of thy angry Soul,
Thou drown the ſad remembrance of thoſe wrongs,
Which thou ſuppoſeſt I have done to thee.
Queen. Be brief, leſt that the proceſs of thy kindneſs
Laſt longer telling than thy kindneſs date.
Rich. Then know,
That from my Soul I love thy Daughter.
Queen. My Daughter's Mother thinks it with her Soul.
Rich. What do you think?
Queen. That thou doſt love my Daughter from thy Soul:
So from thy Souls love didſt thou love her Brothers,
And from thy hearts love, I do thank thee for it.
Rich. Be not ſo haſty to confound my meaning:
I mean, that with my Soul I love thy Daughter,
And do intend to make her Queen of England.
Queen. Well then, who do'ſt thou mean ſhall be her King.
Rich. Even he that makes her Queen;
Who elſe ſhould be?
Queen. What thou?
Rich. Even ſo: how think you of it?
Queen. How can'ſt thou woo her?
Rich. That I would learn of you,
As one being beſt acquainted with her humour.
Queen. And wilt thou learn of me?
Rich. Madam, with all my heart.
Queen. Send to her, by the man that ſlew her Brothers,
A pair of bleeding hearts: thereon engrave
Edward and York, then haply will ſhe weep:
Therefore preſent to her, as ſometime Margaret
Did to thy Father, ſteept in Rutland's blood,
A Hand-kerchief, which ſay to her did drain
The purple ſap from her ſweet Brothers body,
And bid her wipe her weeping Eyes withal.
If this inducement move her not to love,
Send her a Letter of thy Noble deeds:
Tell her, thou mad'ſt away her Uncle Clarence,
Her Uncle Rivers; I, (and for her ſake)
Mad'ſt quick conveyance with her good Aunt Anne.
Rich. You mock me, Madam, this is not the way
To win your Daughter.
Queen. There is no other way,
Unleſs thou could'ſt put on ſome other ſhape,
And not be Richard, that hath done all this.
Rich. Say, that I did all this for love of her.
Queen. Nay then indeed ſhe cannot chooſe but hate thee,
Having bought love with ſuch a bloody ſpoyl.
Rich. Look what is done, cannot be now amended:
Men ſhall deal unadviſedly ſometimes,
Which after-hours gives leiſure to repent.
If I did take the Kingdom from your Sons,
To make amends, I'le give it to your Daughter:
If I have kill'd the iſſue of your Womb,
To quicken your encreaſe, I will beget
Mine iſſue of your blood, upon your Daughter:
A Grandams name is little leſs in love,
Than is the doting Title of a Mother;
They are as Children but one ſtep below,
Even of your metal, of your very blood:
Of all one pain, ſave for a night of groans
Endur'd of her, for whom you bid like ſorrow.
Your Children were vexation to your youth,
But mine ſhall be a comfort to your age,
The loſs you have, is but a Son being King,
And by that loſs your Daughter is made Queen.
I cannot make you what amends I would,
Therefore accept ſuch kindneſs as I can.
Dorſet, your Son, that with a fearful Soul,

Leads

Leads diſcontented ſteps in forreign ſoyl,
This fair Alliance quickly ſhall call home
To high Promotions, and great Dignity.
The King that calls your beauteous Daughter Wife,
Familiarly ſhall call thy Dorſet Brother:
Again ſhall you be Mother to a King:
And all the ruins of diſtreſsful times,
Repair'd with double riches of Content.
What? we have goodly days to ſee:
The liquid drops of tears that you have ſhed,
Shall come again, transform'd to Orient Pearl,
Advantaging their love with intereſt
Often-times double gain of happineſs.
Go then (my Mother) to thy Daughter, go,
Make bold your baſhful years with your experience,
Prepare her Ears to hear a Wooers tale.
Put in her tender heart th' aſpiring flame
Of golden Soveraignty: Acquaint the Princeſs
With the ſweet ſilent hours of Marriage joys;
And when this Arm of mine hath chaſtiſed
The petty Rebel, dull-brain'd Buckingham,
Bound with triumphant Garlands will I come,
And lead thy Daughter to a Conquerors Bed:
To whom I will retail my Conqueſt won,
And ſhe ſhall be ſole Victreſs, Cæſar's Cæſar.

Queen. What were I beſt to ſay, her Fathers Brother
Would be her Lord? or ſhall I ſay her Uncle?
Or he that ſlew her Brothers? and her Uncles?
Under what Title ſhall I woo for thee,
That God, the Law, my Honour, and her Love,
Can make ſeem pleaſing to her tender years?

Rich. Infer fair Englands Peace by this Alliance.

Qu. Which ſhe ſhall purchaſe with ſtill laſting War.

Rich. Tell her, the King that may command, intreats.

Queen. That at her hands, which the King's King forbids.

Rich. Say, ſhe ſhall be a high and mighty Queen.

Queen. To vail the Title, as her Mother doth.

Rich. Say I will love her everlaſtingly.

Qu. But how long ſhall that Title ever laſt?

Rich. Sweetly in force, unto her fair lives end.

Qu. But how long fairly ſhall her ſweet life laſt?

Rich. As long as Heaven and Nature lengthens it.

Qu. As long as Hell and Richard likes of it.

Rich. Say, I, her Soveraign, am her Subject low.

Qu. But ſhe your Subject loaths ſuch Soveraignty.

Rich. Be eloquent in my behalf to her.

Qu. An honeſt tale ſpeeds beſt, being plainly told.

Rich. Then plainly to her, tell my loving tale.

Qu. Plain and not honeſt, is too harſh a ſtyle.

Rich. Your Reaſons are too ſhallow, and too quick.

Qu. O no, my Reaſons are too deep and dead,
Two deep and dead (poor Infants) in their Graves,
Harp on it ſtill ſhall I, till heart-ſtrings break.

Rich. Harp not on that ſtring, Madam, that is paſt.
Now by my George, my Garter, and my Crown.

Qu. Profan'd, diſhonour'd, and the third uſurpt.

Rich. I ſwear.

Qu. By nothing, for this is no Oath:
Thy George profan'd, hath loſt his Lordly honour;
Thy Garter blemiſh'd, pawn'd his Kingly Virtue;
Thy Crown uſurpt, diſgrac'd his Kingly Glory:
If ſomething thou would'ſt ſwear to be believ'd,
Swear then by ſomething that thou haſt not wrong'd.

Rich. Then by my ſelf.

Qu. Thy ſelf, is ſelf miſus'd.

Rich. Now by the World.

Qu. 'Tis full of thy foul wrongs.

Rich. My Fathers death.

Qu. Thy life hath it diſhonour'd.

Rich. Why then, by Heaven.

Qu. Heaven's wrong is moſt of all:
If thou did'ſt fear to break an Oath with him,
The unity the King my Husband made,
Thou hadſt not broken, nor my Brothers dy'd,
If thou hadſt fear'd to break an Oath by him,
Th' Imperial Metal, circling now thy head,
Had grac'd the tender Temples of my Child,
And both the Princes had been breathing here,
Which now two tender Bed-fellows for duſt,
Thy broken Faith hath made the prey for Worms.
What canſt thou ſwear by now?

Rich. The time to come.

Qu. That thou haſt wronged in the time o're-paſt:
For I my ſelf have many tears to waſh
Hereafter time, for time paſt wrong'd by thee.
The Children live, whoſe Fathers thou haſt ſlaughter'd,
Ungovern'd youth, to wail it with their age.
The Parents live, whoſe Children thou haſt butcher'd,
Old barren Plants, to wail it with their age.
Swear not by time to come, for that thou haſt
Miſus'd e're us'd, by times ill-us'd repaſt.

Rich. As I intend to proſper, and repent:
So thrive I in my dangerous Affairs
Of hoſtile Arms: My ſelf, my ſelf confound:
Heaven and Fortune bar me happy hours:
Day, yield me not thy light? nor Night thy reſt.
Be oppoſite all Planets of good luck
To my proceeding, if with dear hearts love,
Immaculate devotion, holy thoughts,
I tender not thy beauteous Princely Daughter.
In her conſiſts my happineſs and thine:
Without her follows to my ſelf and thee,
Her ſelf, the Land, and many a Chriſtian Soul,
Death, Deſolation, Ruine, and Decay:
It cannot be avoided, but by this:
It will not be avoided, but by this.
Therefore dear Mother (I muſt call you ſo)
Be the Atturney of my love to her:
Plead what I will be, not what I have been;
Not my deſires, but what I will deſerve:
Urge the neceſſity and ſtate of times,
And be not peeviſh found in great Deſigns.

Qu. Shall I be tempted of the Devil thus?

Rich. I, if the Devil tempt you to do good.

Qu. Shall I forget my ſelf to be my ſelf?

Rich. I, if your ſelf's remembrance wrong your ſelf.

Qu. Yet thou didſt kill my Children.

Rich. But in your Daughters Womb I bury them.
Where in that Neſt of Spicery they will breed
Selves of themſelves, to your recomforture.

Qu. Shall I go win my Daughter to thy will?

Rich. And be a happy Mother by the deed.

Qu. I go, write to me very ſhortly,
And you ſhall underſtand from me her mind. [Exit Qu.

Rich. Bear her my true loves kiſs, and ſo farewel.
Relenting Fool, and ſhallow-changing Woman.
How now, What news?

Enter Ratcliff.

Rat. Moſt mighty Soveraign, on the Weſtern Coaſt
Rides a puiſſant Navy: To our Shores
Throng many doubtful hollow-hearted friends,
Unarm'd, and unreſolv'd to beat them back.
'Tis thought, that Richmond is their Admiral:
And there they hull, expecting but the aid
Of Buckingham, to welcome them aſhore.

Rich. Some light-foot friend poſt to the Duke of Norfolk, Ratcliff, thy ſelf, or Catesby, where is he?

Cat. Here, my good Lord.

Rich. Catesby, fly to the Duke.

Cat. I will, my Lord, with all convenient haſt.

Rich. Catesby, come hither, poſt to Salisbury.
When thou com'ſt thither: Dull unmindful Villain,
Why ſtay'ſt thou here, and go'ſt not to the Duke?

Cat. Firſt, mighty Liege, tell me your Highneſs pleaſure,
What from your Grace I ſhall deliver to him.

Rich. O true, good Catesby, bid him levy ſtraight
The greateſt ſtrength and power that he can make,
And meet me ſuddenly at Salisbury.

Cat.

Cat. I go. [Exit.
Rat. What, may it pleaſe you, ſhall I do at Salisbury.
Rich. Why, what would'ſt thou do there before I go?
Rat. Your Highneſs told me I ſhould poſt before.
Rich. My mind is chang'd:

Enter Lord Stanly.

Stanly, what news with you?
Sta. None good, my Liege, to pleaſe you with the hearing,
Nor none ſo bad, but well may be reported.
Rich. Hoyday, a Riddle neither good nor bad:
What need'ſt thou run ſo many miles about,
When thou may'ſt tell thy tale the neareſt way?
Once more, what News?
Stan. Richmond is on the Seas.
Rich. There let him ſink, and be the Seas on him,
White-liver'd Run-a-gate, what doth he there?
Stan. I know not, mighty Soveraign, but by gueſs.
Rich. Well, as you gueſs.
Stan. Stirr'd up by Dorſet, Buckingham, and Morton,
He makes for England, here to claim the Crown.
Rich. Is the Chair empty? is the Sword unſway'd?
Is the King dead? the Empire unpoſſeſt?
What Heir of York is there alive, but we?
And who is England's King, but great York's Heir?
Then tell me, what makes he upon the Seas?
Stan. Unleſs for that, my Leige, I cannot gueſs.
Rich. Unleſs for that he comes to be your Liege,
You cannot gueſs, wherefore the Welch-man comes.
Thou wilt revolt, and fly to him, I fear.
Stan. No, my good Lord, therefore miſtruſt me not.
Rich. Where is thy power then to beat him back?
Where be thy Tenants, and thy followers?
Are they not now upon the Weſtern ſhore,
Safe-conducting the Rebels from their Ships?
Stan. No, my good Lord, my friends are in the North.
Rich. Cold friends to me: what do they in the North,
When they ſhould ſerve their Soveraign in the Weſt?
Stan. They have not been commanded, mighty King,
Pleaſeth your Majeſty to give me leave,
I'le muſter up my friends, and meet your Grace,
Where, and what time your Majeſty ſhall pleaſe.
Rich. I, thou would'ſt be gone, to joyn with Richmond:
But I'le not truſt thee.
Stan. Moſt mighty Soveraign,
You have no cauſe to hold my friendſhip doubtful,
I never was, nor never will be falſe.
Rich. Go then, and muſter men: but leave behind
Your Son George Stanly: look your heart be firm,
Or elſe his heads aſſurance is but frail.
Stan. So deal with him, as I prove true to you.
[Exit Stanly.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. My gracious Soveraign, now in Devon-ſhire,
As I by friends am well advertis'd,
Sir Edward Courtney, and the haughty Prelate,
Biſhop of Exeter, his elder Brother,
With many more Confederates are in Arms.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſſ. In Kent, my Liege, the Guilford's are in Arms,
And every hour Competitors
Flock to the Rebels, and their power grows ſtrong.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſſ. My Lord, the Army of great Buckingham.
Rich. Out on ye, Owls, nothing but Songs of Death.
[He ſtriketh him.
There, take thou that, till thou bring better News.
Meſſ. The News I have to tell your Majeſty,
Is, that by ſuddain Flood, and fall of Waters,
Buckingham's Army is diſpers'd and ſcatter'd,
And he himſelf wandred away alone,
No man knows whither.
Rich. I cry thee mercy;
There is my Purſe, to cure that blow of thine.
Hath any well adviſed friend proclaim'd
Reward to him that brings the Traytor in?
Meſſ. Such Proclamation hath been made, my Lord.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſſ. Sir Thomas Lovel, and Lord Marqueſs Dorſet,
'Tis ſaid, my Liege, in York-ſhire are in Arms:
But this good comfort bring I to your Highneſs,
The Britain Navy is diſpers'd by Tempeſt.
Richmond in Dorſet-ſhire ſent out a Boat
Unto the ſhore, to ask thoſe on the Banks,
If they were his Aſſiſtants, yea, or no?
Who anſwer'd him, they came from Buckingham
Upon his party: he miſtruſting them,
Hoys'd ſail, and made his courſe again for Britain.
Rich. March on, march on, ſince we are up in Arms,
If not to fight with Forreign Enemies,
Yet to beat down theſe Rebels here at home.

Enter Catesby.

Cat. My Liege, the Duke of Buckingham is taken,
That is the beſt News, that the Earl of Richmond
Is with a mighty power Landed at Milford,
Is colder News, but yet they muſt be told.
Rich. Away towards Salisbury: while we reaſon here,
A Royal Battel might be won and loſt:
Some one take order Buckingham be brought
To Salisbury, the reſt march on with me. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Derby, and Sir Chriſtopher.

Der. Sir Chriſtopher, tell Richmond this from me,
That in the Stye of the moſt deadly Boar,
My Son George Stanly is frankt up in hold:
If I revolt, off goes young George's head,
The fear of that holds off my preſent aid.
So get thee gone: commend me to thy Lord.
Withal ſay, that the Queen hath heartily conſented
He ſhould eſpouſe Elizabeth her Daughter.
But tell me, where is Princely Richmond now?
Chri. At Pembrook, or at Hertford Weſt in Wales.
Der. What men of Name reſort to him?
Chri. Sir Walter Herbert, a renowned Souldier,
Sir Gilbert Talbot, Sir William Stanly,
Oxford, redoubted Pembrook, Sir James Blunt,
And Rice ap Thomas, with a valiant Crew,
And many other of great name and worth:
And towards London do they bend their power,
If by the way they be not fought withal.
Der. Well, hye thee to thy Lord: I kiſs his hand,
My Letter will reſolve him of my mind.
Farewel. [Exeunt.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Buckingham with Halberds led to Execution.

Buck. Will not King Richard let me ſpeak with him?
Sher. No, my good Lord, therefore be patient.
Buck. Haſtings, and Edward's Children, Gray, and Rivers,
Holy King Henry, and thy fair Son Edward,
Vaughan, and all that have miſcarried
By under-hand corrupted foul injuſtice,
If that your moody diſcontented Souls,
Do through the Clouds behold this preſent hour,
Even for revenge mock my deſtruction.
This is All-Souls Day (Fellow) is it not?
Sher. It is.
Buck. Why then All-Souls Day, is my Bodies Doomſ-day.
This is the day, which in King Edwards time
I wiſht might fall on me, when I was found

Falſe

False to his Children, and his Wives Allies.
This is the day, wherein I wisht to fall
By the false Faith of him whom most I trusted.
This, this All-Souls Day to my fearful Soul,
Is the determin'd respite of my wrongs:
That high All-seer, which I dallied with,
Hath turn'd my feign'd Prayer on my head,
And given in earnest, what I begg'd in jest.
Thus doth he force the Swords of wicked men
To turn their own points in their Masters bosoms.
Thus Margaret's curse falls heavy on my neck:
When he (quoth she) will split thy heart with sorrow,
Remember Margaret was a Prophetess:
Come lead me Officers to the Block of shame,
Wrong hath but wrong, and blame the due of blame.
[Exeunt Buckingham with Officers.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Richmond, Oxford, Blunt, Herbert, and others, with Drum and Colours.

Richm. Fellows in Arms, and my most loving Friends,
Bruis'd underneath the yoak of Tyranny,
Thus far into the Bowels of the Land,
Have we marcht on without impediment;
And here receive we from our Father Stanly
Lines of fair comfort and encouragement:
The wretched, bloody, and usurping Boar,
(That spoyl'd your Summer-Fields, and fruitful Vines)
Swills your warm blood like wash, and makes his trough
In your embowell'd bosoms: This foul Swine
Is now even in the Center of this Isle,
Near to the Town of Leicester, as we learn:
From Tamworth thither, is but one days march.
In Gods name cheerly on, couragious Friends,
To reap the Harvest of perpetual peace,
By this one bloody tryal of sharp War.
Oxf. Every mans Conscience is a thousand men,
To fight against this guilty Homicide.
Her. I doubt not, but his Friends will turn to us.
Blun. He hath no friends, but what are friends for fear,
Which in his dearest need will fly from him.
Rich. All for our vantage, then in Gods name march,
True hope is swift, and flyes with Swallow's wings,
Kings it makes Gods, and meaner Creatures Kings.
[Exeunt omnes.

Enter King Richard in Arms, with Norfolk, Ratcliff, and the Earl of Surrey.

Rich. Here pitch our Tent, even here in Bosworth-field;
My Lord of Surrey, why look you so sad?
Sur. My heart is ten times lighter than my looks.
Rich. My Lord of Norfolk.
Nor. Here, most gracious Liege.
Rich. Norfolk, we must have knocks:
Ha, must we not?
Nor. We must both give and take, my loving Lord.
Rich. Up with my Tent, here will I lie to night,
But where to morrow? well, all's one for that.
Who hath descried the number of the Traytors?
Nor. Six or seven thousand is their utmost power.
Rich. Why our Battalia trebble that account:
Besides the King's name is a Tower of strength,
Which they upon the adverse Faction want.
Up with the Tent: Come, Noble Gentlemen,
Let us survey the vantage of the ground.
Call for some men of sound direction:
Let's lack no Discipline, make no delay,
For, Lords, to morrow is a busie day. [Exeunt.

Enter Richmond, Sir William Brandon, Oxford, and Dorset.

Richm. The weary Sun hath made a Golden set,
And by the bright Tract of his fiery Car,
Gives token of a goodly day to morrow.
Sir William Brandon, you shall bear my Standard:
Give me some Ink and Paper in my Tent:
I'le draw the Form and Model of our Battel,
Limit each Leader to his several Charge,
And part in just proportion our small Power.
My Lord of Oxford, you Sir William Brandon,
And you Sir Walter Herbert stay with me:
The Earl of Pembrook keeps his Regiment;
Good Captain Blunt, bear my Good night to him,
And by the second hour in the morning,
Desire the Earl to see me in my Tent:
Yet one thing more, good Captain, do for me:
Where is Lord Stanly Quarter'd, do you know?
Blunt. Unless I have mista'ne his Colours much,
(Which well I am assur'd I have not done)
His Regiment lies half a mile at least
South, from the mighty power of the King.
Rich. If without peril it be possible,
Sweet Blunt, make some good means to speak with him,
And give him from me this most needful Note.
Blunt. Upon my self, my Lord, I'le undertake it,
And so God give you quiet rest to night.
Rich. Good night, good Captain Blunt:
Come Gentlemen,
Let us consult upon to morrows Business;
Into my Tent, the Dew is raw and cold.
[They withdraw into the Tent.

Enter Richard, Ratcliff, Norfolk, and Catesby.

Rich. What is't a Clock?
Cat. It's Supper time, my Lord, it's nine a Clock.
King. I will not sup to night,
Give me some Ink and Paper:
What, is my Beaver easier than it was?
And all my Armor laid into my Tent?
Cat. It is, my Liege: and all things are in readiness.
Rich. Good Norfolk, hye thee to thy charge,
Use careful Watch, chuse trusty Centinels.
Nor. I go, my Lord.
Rich. Stir with the Lark to morrow, gentle Norfolk.
Nor. I warrant you, my Lord. [Exit.
Rich. Ratcliff.
Rat. My Lord.
Rich. Send out a Pursuivant at Arms
To Stanly's Regiment: bid him bring his power
Before Sun-rising, lest his Son George fall
Into the blind Cave of eternal night.
Fill me a Bowl of Wine: give me a Watch:
Saddle white Surrey for the Field to morrow:
Look that my Staves be sound, and not too heavy. Ratcliff.
Rat. My Lord.
Rich. Saw'st the melancholy Lord Northumberland?
Rat. Thomas the Earl of Surrey, and himself,
Much about Cock-shut time, from Troop to Troop
Went through the Army, cheering up the Souldiers.
King. So, I am satisfied: give me a Bowl of Wine,
I have not that alacrity of Spirit,
Nor cheer of Mind, that I was wont to have.
Set it down. Is Ink and Paper ready?
Rat. It is, my Lord.
Rich. Bid my Guard watch. Leave me.
Ratcliff, about the mid of night come to my Tent,
And help to Arm. Leave me I say. [Exit Ratcliff.
Enter Derby to Richmond in his Tent.
Derb. Fortune and Victory sit on thy Helm.
Richm. All comfort, that the dark night can afford,

Be

Be to thy Perſon, noble Father-in-Law.
Tell me, how fares our Noble Mother?
Der. I, by Attourney, bleſs thee from thy Mother,
Who prays continually for Richmond's good:
So much for that. The ſilent hours ſteal on,
And flaky darkneſs breaks within the Eaſt.
In brief, for ſo the ſeaſon bids us be,
Prepare thy Battel early in the morning,
And put thy Fortune to th' Arbitrement
Of bloody ſtroaks, and mortal ſtaring War:
I, as I may, that which I would, I cannot,
With beſt advantage will deceive the time,
And aid thee in this doubtful ſhock of Armes.
But on thy ſide I may not be too forward,
Leſt being ſeen, thy Brother, tender George,
Be executed in his Fathers ſight.
Farewel: the leiſure, and the fearful time
Cuts off the ceremonious Vows of Love,
And ample enterchange of ſweet Diſcourſe,
Which ſo long ſundred Friends ſhould dwell upon:
God give us leiſure for theſe rites of Love.
Once more Adieu, be valiant, and ſpeed well.
Richm. Good Lords, conduct him to his Regiment:
I'le ſtrive, with troubled noiſe, to take a Nap,
Leſt leaden ſlumber poize me down to morrow,
When I ſhould mount with wings of Victory:
Once more, Good night, kind Lords and Gentlemen.
[Exeunt. Manet Richmond.
O thou, whoſe Captain I account my ſelf,
Look on my Forces with a gracious Eye:
Put in their hands thy bruſing Irons of wrath,
That they may cruſh down with a heavy fall,
Th' uſurping Helmets of our Adverſaries.
Make us thy Miniſters of Chaſtiſement,
That we may praiſe thee in thy Victory:
To thee I do commend my watchful ſoul,
E're I let fall the windows of mine Eyes:
Sleeping, and waking, oh defend me ſtill. [Sleeps.

Enter the Ghoſt of Prince Edward, Son to Henry the Sixth.

Gh. to Ri. Let me ſit heavy on thy ſoul to morrow:
Think how thou ſtabb'ſt me in the prime of youth
At Tewkſbury; deſpair therefore, and die.
Ghoſt to Richm. Be cheerful, Richmond,
For the wronged Souls
Of Butcher'd Princes fight in thy behalf:
King Henry's iſſue, Richmond, comforts thee.

Enter the Ghoſt of Henry the Sixth.

Ghoſt. When I was mortal, my Anointed body
By thee was punched full of holes;
Think on the Tower, and me: Deſpair and die.
Henry the Sixth bids thee deſpair, and die.
To Richm. Virtuous and holy, be thou Conqueror.
Harry that propheſied, thou ſhould'ſt be King,
Doth comfort thee in ſleep: live, and flouriſh.
Enter the Ghoſt of Clarence.
Ghoſt. Let me ſit heavy in thy ſoul to morrow.
I that was waſh'd to death in Fulſom Wine:
Poor Clarence, by thy guile betray'd to death:
To morrow in the Battel think on me,
And fall thy edgleſs Sword, deſpair and dye.
To Richm. Thou off-ſpring of the Houſe of Lancaſter,
The wronged Heirs of York do pray for thee,
Good Angels guard thy Battel, live and flouriſh.
Enter the Ghoſts of Rivers, Gray, and Vaughan.
Riv. Let me ſit heavy in thy ſoul to morrow,
Rivers, that di'd at Pomfret: deſpair and die.
Gray. Think upon Gray, and let thy ſoul deſpair.
Vaugh. Think upon Vaughan, and with guilty fear
Let fall thy Lance, deſpair and die.
All to Richm. Awake.
And think our wrongs in Richard's Boſome
Will conquer. Awake, and win the day.
Enter the Ghoſt of Lord Haſtings.
Ghoſt. Bloody and guilty: guilty awake,
And in a bloody Battel end thy days,
Think on Lord Haſtings; deſpair, and die.
Ghoſt to Rich. Quiet untroubled ſoul,
Awake, awake:
Arm, fight, and conquer, for fair Englands ſake.
Enter the Ghoſts of the two young Princes.
Ghoſts. Dream on thy Couſins
Smother'd in the Tower:
Let us be laid within thy Boſome, Richard,
And weigh thee down to ruin, ſhame, and death.
Thy Nephews ſouls bid thee deſpair and die.
Ghoſts to Richm. Sleep Richmond,
Sleep in peace, and wake in joy,
Good Angels guard thee from the Boars annoy,
Live, and beget a happy race of Kings.
Edward's unhappy Sons do bid thee flouriſh:
Enter the Ghoſt of Anne his Wife.
Ghoſt to Rich. Richard, thy Wife,
That wretched Anne thy Wife,
That never ſlept a quiet hour with thee,
Now fills thy ſleep with perturbations,
To morrow in the Battel think on me,
And fall thy edgleſs Sword, deſpair and die.
Ghoſt to Richm. Thou quiet Soul,
Sleep thou a quiet ſleep:
Dream of ſucceſs, and happy Victory,
Thy Adverſaries Wife doth pray for thee.
Enter the Ghoſt of Buckingham.
Ghoſt to Rich. The firſt was I,
That help'd thee to the Crown:
The laſt was I, that felt thy Tyranny.
O, in the Battel think on Buckingham,
And die in terror of thy guiltineſs.
Dream on, dream on, of bloody deeds and death,
Fainting deſpair; deſpairing yield thy breath.
Ghoſt to Richm. I di'd for hope.
E're I could lend thee aid;
But cheer thy heart, and be thou not diſmay'd:
God, and good Angels fight on Richmond's ſide,
And Richard fall in height of all his pride.
[Richard ſtarts out of his Dream.
Rich. Give me another Horſe, bind up my Wounds:
Have mercy, Jeſu. Soft, I did but dream.
O coward Conſcience! how do'ſt thou afflict me?
The Lights burn blew. It is not dead mid-night,
Cold fearful drops ſtand on my trembling fleſh:
What? do I fear my ſelf? There's none elſe by,
Richard loves Richard, that is, I am I.
Is there a Murtherer here? No; Yes, I am:
Then flye? what from my ſelf? Great reaſon: why?
Leſt I revenge. What? my ſelf upon my ſelf?
Alack, I love my ſelf. Wherefore? For any good
That I my ſelf have done upon my ſelf?
O no. Alas, I rather hate my ſelf,
For hateful Deeds committed by my ſelf.
I am a Villain: yet I Lye, I am not.
Fool, of thy ſelf ſpeak well: Fool, do not flatter.
My Conſcience hath a thouſand ſeveral Tongues,
And every tongue brings in a ſeveral tale,
And every tale condemns me for a Villain;
Perjury, in the high'ſt Degree,
Murther, ſtern murther, in the dir'ſt degree,
All ſeveral ſins, all us'd in each degree,
Throng all to th' Bar, crying all, Guilty, Guilty,
I ſhall deſpair, there is no Creature loves me;
And if I die, no ſoul ſhall pity me.
Nay, wherefore ſhould they? ſince that I my ſelf
Find in my ſelf no pity to my ſelf.
Methought, the Souls of all that I had murther'd
Came to my Tent, every one did threat

To morrows vengeance on the head of Richard.

Enter Ratcliffe.

Rat. My Lord.

King. Who's there?

Rat. Ratcliffe, my Lord, 'tis I: the early Village Cock
Hath twice done salutation to the morn,
Your Friends are up, and buckle on their Armour.

King. O Ratcliffe, I fear, I fear.

Rat. Nay, good my Lord, be not afraid of shadows.

King. By the Apostle Paul, shadows to night
Have struck more terrour to the soul of Richard,
Than can the substance of ten thousand Souldiers
Armed in proof, and led by shallow Richmond.
'Tis not yet near day. Come, go with me,
Under our Tents; I'le play the Eaves-dropper,
To hear if any man shrink from me.

[Exeunt Richard and Ratcliffe.

Enter the Lords to Richmond sitting in his Tent.

Lords. Good morrow, Richmond.

Rich. Cry you mercy, Lords, and watchful Gentlemen,
That you have ta'ne a tardy sluggard here?

Lords. How have you slept, my Lord?

Rich. The sweetest sleep,
And fairest boading Dreams,
That ever entred in a drowsie head,
Have I since your departure had, my Lords.
Methought their Souls, whose bodies Richard murther'd,
Came to my Tent, and cried on Victory,
I promise you my heart is very jocund,
In the remembrance of so fair a Dream.
How far into the Morning is it, Lords?

Lords. Upon the stroak of four.

Rich. Why then 'tis time to Arm, and give direction.

His Oration to his Souldiers.

More than I have said, loving Countrymen,
The leisure and enforcement of the time
Forbids to dwell upon: yet remember this,
God, and our good cause, fight upon our side,
The Prayers of holy Saints, and wronged Souls,
Like high rear'd Bulwarks, stand before our Faces,
(Richard except) those whom we fight against,
Had rather have us win, than him they follow.
For, what is he they follow? Truly Gentlemen,
A bloody Tyrant, and a Homicide:
One rais'd in blood, and one in blood establish'd;
One that made means to come by what he hath,
And slaughter'd those that were the means to help him:
A base foul Stone, made precious by the foyl
Of England's Chair, where he is falsely set:
One that hath ever been Gods Enemy.
Then if you fight against Gods Enemy,
God will in justice ward you as his Souldiers.
If you do swear to put a Tyrant down,
You sleep in peace, the Tyrant being slain:
If you do fight against your Countries Foes,
Your Countries Fat shall pay your pains the hire.
If you do fight in safeguard of your Wives,
Your Wives shall welcome home the Conquerours,
If you do free your Children from the Sword,
Your Childrens Children quits it in your Age.
Then in the name of God and all these rights,
Advance your Standards, draw your willing Swords.
For me, the ransom of my bold attempt,
Shall be this cold Corps on the Earths cold face.
But if I thrive, the gain of my attempt,
The least of you shall share his part thereof.
Sound Drums and Trumpets boldly, and chearfully,
God, and Saint George, Richmond, and Victory.

Enter King Richard, Ratcliff, and Catesby.

King. What said Northumberland, as touching Richmond?

Rat. That he was never trained up in Arms.

King. He said the truth: and what said Surrey then.

Rat. He smil'd and said, the better for our purpose.

King. He was in the right, and so indeed it is.
Tell the Clock there. [Clock strikes.
Give me a Kalender, who saw the Sun to day?

Rat. Not I, my Lord.

King. Then he disdains to shine: for, by the Book,
He should have brav'd the East an hour ago,
A black day will it be to some body, Ratcliffe.

Rat. My Lord.

King. The Sun will not be seen to day,
The Sky doth frown and lowre upon our Army.
I would these dewy Tears were from the Ground.
Not shine to day? why what is that to me
More than to Richmond? for the self-same Heaven
That frowns on me, looks sadly upon him.

Enter Norfolk.

Nor. Arm, arm, my Lord, the Foes vaunts in the Field.

King. Come, bustle, bustle. Caparison my Horse.
Call up Lord Stanly, bid him bring his Power,
I will lead forth my Souldiers to the plain,
And thus my Battel shall be ordered.
My foreward shall be drawn in length,
Consisting equally of Horse and Foot:
Our Archers shall be placed in the midst;
John Duke of Norfolk, Thomas Earl of Surrey,
Shall have the leading of the Foot and Horse.
They thus directed, we will follow
In the main Battel, whose puissance on either side
Shall be well wing'd with our cheifest Horse:
This, and Saint George to boot.
What think'st thou, Norfolk?

Nor. A good direction, warlike Soveraign,
This found I on my Tent this Morning,

Jocky of Norfolk, be not so bold.
For Dickon thy Master is bought and sold.

King. A thing devised by the Enemy.
Go Gentlemen, every Man to his Charge,
Let not our babling Dreams affright our Souls:
For Conscience is a word that Cowards use,
Devis'd at first to keep the strong in awe,
Our strong Arms be our Conscience, Swords our Law.
March on, joyn bravely, let us to't pell mell,
If not to Heaven, then hand in hand to Hell.
What shall I say more than I have inferr'd?
Remember whom you are to cope withall,
A sort of Vagabonds, Rascals, Run-aways,
A scum of Britains, and base Lackey-Peasants,
Whom their o're-cloyed Country vomits forth
To desperate Adventures, and assur'd Destruction.
You sleeping safe, they bring you to unrest:
You having Lands, and blest with beauteous Wives,
They would restrain the one, distain the other.
And who doth lead them, but a paltry Fellow?
Long kept in Britain at our Mothers cost,
A Milk-sop, one that never in his Life
Felt so much cold, as over shooes in Snow:
Let's whip these straglers o're the Seas again,
Lash hence these over-weening Rags of France,
These famish'd Beggars, weary of their lives,
Who (but for dreaming on this fond exploit)
For want of means (poor Rats) had hang'd themselves.
If we be conquered, let Men conquer us,
And not these Bastard-Britains, whom our Fathers
Have in their own Land beaten, bobb'd and thump'd,
And on Record, left them the Heirs of shame.
Shall these enjoy our Lands? lie with our Wives?
Ravish our Daughters? [Drum afar off.
Heark, I hear their Drum,
Right Gentlemen of England, fight boldly, yeomen,
Draw, Archers, draw your Arrows to the head.
Spur your proud Horses hard, and ride in blood,
Amaze the Welkin with your broken staves.

Enter

Enter a Meſſenger.

What ſays Lord Stanly, will he bring his Power?

Meſ. My Lord, he doth deny to come.

King. Off with his Son George's Head.

Nor. My Lord, the Enemy is paſt the Marſh:
After the Battel let George Stanly dye.

King. A thouſand Hearts are great within my Boſom.
Advance our Standards, ſet upon our Foes,
Our ancient word of Courage, fair Saint George
Inſpire us with the ſpleen of fiery Dragons:
Upon them, Victory ſits on our Helms.

Alarum. Excurſions. Enter Catesby.

Cat. Reſcue, my Lord of Norfolk,
Reſcue, Reſcue:
The King enacts more wonders than a Man,
Daring an oppoſite to every danger:
His Horſe is ſlain, and all on foot he fights,
Seeking for Richmond in the throat of Death:
Reſcue, fair Lord, or elſe the day is loſt.

Alarums. Enter Richard.

Rich. A Horſe, a Horſe, my Kingdom for a Horſe.

Cat. Withdraw, my Lord, I'le help you to a Horſe.

Rich. Slave, I have ſet my life upon a caſt,
And I will ſtand the hazard of the Die:
I think there be ſix Richmonds in the Field,
Five have I ſlain to day, inſtead of him.
A Horſe, a Horſe, my Kingdom for a Horſe.

Alarum. Enter Richard and Richmond, they fight, Richard is ſlain.

Retreat, and Flouriſh. Enter Richmond, Derby bearing the Crown, with divers other Lords.

Rich. God and your Arms
Be prais'd, Victorious Friends;
This Day is ours, the bloody Dog is dead.

Der. Couragious Richmond,
Well haſt thou acquit thee: Loe,
Here theſe long uſurped Royalties,
From the dead Temples of this Bloody Wretch,
Have I pluckt off, to grace thy Brows withal.
Wear it, and make much of it.

Rich. Great God of Heaven, ſay Amen to all.
But tell me, is young George Stanly living?

Der. He is, my Lord, and ſafe in Leiceſter Town,
Whither (if you pleaſe) we may with-draw us.

Rich. What men of note are ſlain on either ſide?

Der. John Duke of Norfolk, Walter Lord Ferris,
Sir Robert Brakenbury, and Sir William Brandon.

Rich. Inter their Bodies, as become their Births,
Proclaim a Pardon to the Souldiers fled,
That in ſubmiſſion will return to us,
And then, as we have ta'ne the Sacrament,
We will unite the White Roſe, and the Red.
Smile Heaven upon this fair Conjunction,
That long have frown'd upon their Enmity:
What Traytor hears me, and ſays not Amen.
England hath long been mad, and ſcar'd her ſelf;
The Brother blindly ſhed the Brother's blood;
The Father raſhly ſlaughter'd his own Son;
The Sons, compell'd, been Butchers to the Sire;
All this divided York and Lancaſter,
Divided in their dire Diviſion.
O now let Richmond and Elizabeth,
The true Succeeders of each Royal Houſe,
By Gods fair Ordinance, conjoyn together:
And let thy Heirs (God, if they will be ſo)
Enrich the time to come, with ſmooth'd-fac'd Peace
With ſmiling Plenty, and fair proſperous days.
Abate the edge of Traytors, Gracious Lord,
That would reduce theſe bloody days again,
And make poor England weep in ſtreams of Blood.
Let them not live to taſte this Lands encreaſe,
That would with Treaſon, wound this fair Lands peace.
Now Civil wounds are ſtop'd, Peace lives agen;
That ſhe may long live here, God ſay, Amen. [Exeunt.

The Famous HISTORY Of the LIFE of KING HENRY VIII.

The PROLOGUE.

I Come no more to make you laugh; Things now,
That bear a Weighty, and a Serious Brow,
Sad, high, and working, full of State and Woe;
Such Noble Scenes, as draw the Eye to flow,
We now present. Those that can Pity, here
May (if they think it well) let fall a Tear,
The Subject will deserve it. Such as give
Their Mocy out of hope they may believe,
May here find Truth too. Those that come to see
Only a show or two, and so agree,
The Play may pass: If they be still, and willing,
I'le undertake may see away their Shilling
Richly in two short hours. Only they
That come to hear a merry, bawdy Play,
A noise of Targets: Or to see a Fellow
In a long Motley Coat, guarded with Yellow,
Will be deceiv'd: For, gentle Hearers, know
To rank our chosen Truth with such a show
As Fool, and Fight is, beside forfeiting
Our own Brains, and the Opinion that we bring
To make that only true, we now intend,
Will leave us never an understanding Friend.
Therefore, for Goodness sake, and as you are known
The First and Happiest Hearers of the Town,
Be sad, as we would make ye. Think ye see
The very Persons of our Noble Story,
As they were Living: Think you see them Great,
And follow'd with the general throng, and sweat
Of thousand Friends: then, in a moment, see
How soon this Mightiness meets Misery.
And if you can be merry then, I'le say,
A Man may weep upon his Wedding Day.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter the Duke of Norfolk at one door. At the other, the Duke of Buckingham, and the Lord Aburgavenny.

Buckingham,
GOod morrow, and well met. How have ye done
Since last we saw y'in France?
Nor. I thank your Grace:
Healthful, and ever since a fresh admirer
Of what I saw there.
Buck. An untimely Ague
Staid me a Prisoner in my Chamber, when
Those Sons of Glory, those two Lights of Men
Met in the vale of Arde.
Nor. 'Twixt Guynes and Arde,
I was then present, saw them salute on Horse-back,
Beheld them when they lighted, how they clung
In their Embracement, as they grew together,
Which had they,
What four Thron'd ones could have weigh'd
Such a compounded one?
Buck. All the whole time
I was my Chambers Prisoner.
Nor. Then you lost
The view of earthly Glory: Men might say
Till this time Pomp was single, but now married
To one above it self. Each following day
Became the next days Master, till the last
Made former Wonders, its. To day the French,
All Clinquant all in Gold, like Heathens Gods
Shone down the English; and to morrow, they Made Britain, India: Every man that stood,
Shew'd like a Mine. Their Dwarfish Pages were
As Cherubins, all gilt: the Madams too,
Not us'd to toyl, did almost sweat to bear
The Pride upon them, that their very labour
Was to them as a Painting. Now this Mask
Was cry'd incomparable; and th'ensuing night
Made it a Fool, and Beggar. The two Kings
Equal in lustre, were now best, now worst
As presence did present them: him in Eye,
Still him in praise; and being present both,
'Twas said they saw but one, and no Discerner

Durst

Durſt wag his Tongue in cenſure, when theſe Suns
(For ſo they phraſe 'em) by their Heralds challeng'd
The Noble Spirits to Arms, they did perform
Beyond thought's compaſs, that former fabulous Story
Being now ſeen, poſſible enough, got credit
That Bevis was believ'd.
Buck. Oh, you go far.
Nor. As I belong to worſhip, and affect
In Honour, Honeſty, the tract of ev'ry thing
Would by a good Diſcourſer loſe ſome life,
Which Actions ſelf was tongue to.
Buck. All was Royal,
To the diſpoſing of it nought rebell'd,
Order gave each thing view. The Office did
Diſtinctly his full Function: who did guide,
I mean who ſet the Body and the Limbs
Of this great ſport together,
As you gueſs?
Nor. Once certes, that promiſes no Element
In ſuch a buſineſs.
Buck. I pray you, who, my Lord?
Nor. All this was ordered by the good Diſcretion
Of the right Reverend Cardinal of York.
Buck. The Devil ſpeed him: No mans Pye is freed
From his ambitious Finger. What had he
To do in theſe fierce Vanities? I wonder,
That ſuch a Ketch can with his very Bulk
Take up the Rays oth' Beneficial Sun;
And keep it from the Earth.
Nor. Surely, Sir,
There's in him ſtuff, that puts him to theſe ends:
For being not propt by Anceſtry, whoſe grace
Chalks Succeſſors their way; nor call'd upon
For high feats done to th' Crown; neither Allied
To eminent Aſſiſtants; but Spider-like
Out of his ſelf-drawing Web. O! gives us note,
The force of his own merit makes his way,
A gift that Heaven gives for him, which buyes
A place next to the King.
Abur. I cannot tell
What Heaven hath given him: let ſome Graver eye
Pierce into that, but I can ſee his Pride
Peep through each part of him: whence has he that,
If not from Hell? the Devil is a Niggard,
Or has given him all before, and he begins
A new Hell in himſelf.
Buck. Why the Devil,
Upon this French going out, took he upon him
(Without the privity o'th' King) t'appoint
Who ſhould attend on him? He makes up the File
Of all the Gentry; for the moſt part ſuch
To whom as great a Charge, as little Honour
He meant to lay upon: and his own Letter
The Honourable Board of Council out
Muſt fetch him in, he Papers.
Abur. I do know
Kinſmen of mine, three at the leaſt, that have
By this ſo ſicken'd their Eſtates, that never
They ſhall abound, as formerly.
Buck. O many
Have broke their Backs with laying Mannors on 'em
For this great Journey. What did this Vanity
But miniſter communication of
A moſt poor iſſue.
Nor. Grievingly, I think.
The Peace between the Frerch and us not values
The Coſt that did conclude it.
Buck. Every Man,
After the hideous ſtorm that follow'd, was
A thing inſpired, and not conſulting, broke
Into a general Propheſie; That this tempeſt,
Daſhing the Garment of this Peace, aboaded
The ſudden breach on't.
Nor. Which is budded out:
For France hath flaw'd the League, and hat h attach'd
Our Merchants goods at Bourdeaux.
Abur. Is it therefore
Th' Ambaſſador is ſilenc'd?
Nor. Marry is't.
Abur. A proper Title of Peace, and purchas'd
At a ſuperfluous rate.
Buck. Why all this buſineſs
Our Reverend Cardinal carried.
Nor. Like it your Grace,
The State takes notice of the private difference
Betwixt you, and the Cardinal. I adviſe you
(And take it from a Heart that wiſhes towards your Honour, and plenteous ſafety) that you read
The Cardinals Malice, and his Potency
Together: To conſider further, that
What his high Hatred would effect, wants not
A Miniſter in his Power. You know his Nature,
That he's revengeful; and I know, his Sword
Hath a ſharp edge: It's long, and't may be ſaid
It reaches far, and where 'twill not extend,
Thither he darts it. Boſome up my counſel,
You'l find it wholeſome. Loe, where comes that Rock
That I adviſe your ſhunning.

Enter Cardinal Wolſey, the Purſe born before him, certain of the Guard, and two Secretaries with Papers: the Cardinal in his paſſage fixeth his eye on Buckingham, and Buckingham on him, both full of diſdain.

Car. The Duke of Buckingham's Surveyor? Ha?
Where's his Examination?
Secr. Here, ſo pleaſe you.
Car. Is he in perſon ready?
Secr. I, an't pleaſe your Grace.
Car. Well, we ſhall then know more, and Buckingham ſhall leſſen his big look.
[Exeunt Cardinal and his Train.
Buck. This Butchers Cur is venom'd-mouth'd, and I
Have not the power to muzzle him, therefore beſt
Not wake him in his ſlumber. A Beggars book
Out-worths a Nobles blood.
Wor. What, are you chaf'd?
Ask God for temp'rance, that's th' appliance only
Which your diſeaſe requires.
Buck. I read in's looks
Matter againſt me, and his Eye revil'd
Me as his abject object, at this inſtant
He bores me with ſome trick; He's gone to th' King:
I'le follow, and out-ſtare him.
Nor. Stay, my Lord,
And let your Reaſon with your Choler queſtion
What 'tis you go about: to climbe ſteep hills
Requires ſlow pace at firſt. Anger is like
A full-hot Horſe, who being allow'd his way
Self-mettle tires him: Not a man in England
Can adviſe me, like you: Be to your ſelf,
As you would to your Friend.
Buck. I'le to the King,
And, from a mouth of Honour, quite cry down
This Ipſwich Fellows inſolence; or proclaim,
There's difference in no perſons.
Norf. Be adviſ'd;
Heat not a Furnace for your Foe ſo hot
That it do ſinge your ſelf. We may out-run
By violent ſwiftneſs, that which we run at;
And loſe by our over-running: know you not,
The Fire, that mounts the Liquor til't run o're,
In ſeeming to augment it, waſtes it: be adviſ'd;
I ſay again, there is no Engliſh ſoul
More ſtronger to direct you than your ſelf,
If with the ſap of reaſon you would quench,
Or but allay, the Fire of paſſion.
Buck. Sir,

I am thankful to you, and I'le go along
By your preſcription: but this top-proud Fellow,
Whom from the flow of gall I name not, but
From ſincere motions, by intelligence,
And proofs as clear as Founts in July, when
We ſee each grain of Gravel, I do know
To be corrupt and treaſonous.
Norf. Say not, treaſonous.
Buck. To th'King I'le ſay't, and make my vouch as ſtrong
As ſhore of Rock: attend. This holy Fox,
Or Wolf, or both (for he is equal rav'nous
As he is ſubtle, and as prone to miſchief,
As able to perform't) his mind and place
Infecting one another; yea reciprocally,
Only to ſhew his pomp, as well in France,
As here at home, ſuggeſts the King our Maſter
To his coſtly Treaty, th'enterview,
That ſwallow'd ſo much treaſure, and like a glaſs
Did break ith' wrenching.
Norf. Faith, and ſo it did.
Buck. Pray give me favour, Sir: This cunning Cardinal
The Articles oth' Combination drew
As himſelf pleas'd: and they were ratifi'd
As he cri'd, Thus let it be, to as much end,
As give a Crutch to th' dead. But our Count-Cardinal
Has done this, and 'tis well: for worthy Wolſey,
(Who cannot err) he did it. Now this follows,
(Which, as I take it, is a kind of Puppy
To th' old Dam, Treaſon) Charles the Emperour,
Under pretence to ſee the Queen his Aunt,
(For 'twas indeed his Colour, but he came
To whiſper Wolſey) here makes viſitation:
His fears were that the Interview betwixt
England and France, might through their amity
Breed him ſome prejudice; for from this League
Peep'd harms that menac'd him. He privily
Deals with our Cardinal, and as I trow,
Which I do well; for I am ſure the Emperour
Paid e're he promis'd, whereby his ſuit was granted
E're it was ask'd. But when the way was made,
And pav'd with Gold: the Emperour thus deſir'd,
That he would pleaſe to alter the Kings courſe,
And break the foreſaid Peace. Let the King know
(As ſoon he ſhall by me) that thus the Cardinal
Does buy and ſell his honour as he pleaſes,
And for his own advantage.
Nor. I am ſorry
To hear this of him; and could wiſh you were Something miſtaken in't.
Buck. No, not a ſyllable:
I do pronounce him in that very ſhape
He ſhall appear in proof.

Enter Brandon, a Serjeant at Arms before him, and two or three of the Guard.

Brandon. Your Office, Serjeant: execute it.
Serjeant. Sir,
My Lord the Duke of Buckingham, and Earl
Of Hertford, Stafford, and Northampton, I
Arreſt thee of high Treaſon, in the name
Of our moſt Soveraign King.
Buck. Loe you, my Lord,
The net has faln upon me, I ſhall periſh
Under device and practice.
Bran. I am ſorry
To ſee you ta'ne from liberty, to look on
The buſineſs preſent. 'Tis his Highneſs pleaſure
You ſhall to th' Tower.
Buck. It will help me nothing
To plead mine Innocence: for that Dye is on me,
Which makes my whit'ſt part black. The will of Heav'n
Be done in this and all things: I obey.
O my Lord Aburgany, Fare you well.
Bra. Nay, he muſt bear you company. The King
Is pleas'd you ſhall to th' Tower till you know,
How he determines further.
Abur. As the Duke ſaid,
The will of Heaven be done, and the Kings pleaſure
By me obey'd.
Bran. Here is a Warrant from
The King, t'attach Lord Mountacute, and the Bodies
Of the Dukes Confeſſor, John de la Car,
One Gilbert Peck, his Counſellour.
Buck. So, ſo;
Theſe are the Limbs o'th' Plot, no more I hope.
Bra. A Monk oth' Chartreux.
Buck. O Michael Hopkins.
Bra. He.
Buck. My Surveyor is falſe; the o're-great Cardinal
Hath ſhew'd him gold; my Life is ſpann'd already:
I am the ſhadow of poor Buckingham;
Whoſe Figure even this inſtant Cloud puts on,
By darkning my clear Sun. My Lords, Farewel. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Cornets. Enter King Henry, leaning on the Cardinals ſhoulder: the Nobles, and Sir Thomas Lovel: the Cardinal places him under the Kings Feet, on his right ſide.

King. My life it ſelf, and the beſt heart of it,
Thanks you for this great care: I ſtood i'th' level
Of a full-charg'd confederacy, and give thanks
To you that choak'd it. Let be call'd before us
That Gentleman of Buckinghams, in perſon,
I'le hear him his Confeſſions juſtifie,
And point by point the Treaſons of his Maſter
He ſhall again relate.

A noiſe, with crying, Room for the Queen, Uſher'd by the Duke of Norfolk. Enter the Queen, Norfolk and Suffolk: ſhe kneels. King riſeth from his State, takes her up, kiſſes and placeth her by him.

Quee. Nay, we muſt longer kneel; I am a Suitor.
King. Ariſe, and take place by us; half your Suit
Never name to us; you have half our power:
The other moiety e're you ask is given;
Repeat your will, and take it.
Quee. Thank your Majeſty.
That you would love your ſelf, and in that love
Not unconſidered leave your Honour, nor
The dignity of your Office, is the point
Of my Petition.
King. Lady mine, proceed.
Quee. I am ſolicited not by a few,
And thoſe of true condition, That your Subjects
Are in great grievance: There have been Commiſſions
Sent down among 'em, which have flaw'd the heart
Of all their Loyalties; wherein, although,
My good Lord Cardinal, they vent reproaches
Moſt bitterly on yon, as putter on
Of theſe exactions, yet the King, our Maſter,
Whoſe honour heaven ſhield from Soil, even he eſcapes not
Language unmannerly: yea, ſuch which breaks
The ſides of Loyalty, and almoſt appears
In loud Rebellion.
Norf. Not almoſt appears,
It doth appear: for, upon theſe Taxations,
The Clothiers all, not able to maintain
The many to them 'longing, have put off
The Spinſters, Carders, Fullers, Weavers, who,
Unfit for other life, compell'd by hunger,
And lack of other means, in deſperate manner,
Daring th' event to th' teeth, are all in uproar,
And danger ſerves among them.
King. Taxation?

Wherein?

Wherein? and what Taxation? My Lord Cardinal,
You that are blam'd for it alike with us,
Know you of this Taxation?
Card. Please you, Sir,
I know but of a single part in ought
Pertains to th' State, and front but in that file
Where others tell steps with me.
Quee. No, my Lord,
You know no more than others: But you frame
Things that are known alike, which are not wholsome
To those which would not know them, and yet must Perforce be their acquaintance. These exactions
(Whereof my Soveraign would have note) they are
Most pestilent to th' hearing, and to bear 'em,
The Back is sacrifice to th' load; They say,
They are devis'd by you, or else you suffer
Too hard an exclamation.
King. Still, Exaction!
The nature of it, in what kind, let's know,
Is this Exaction?
Quee. I am much too venturous
In tempting of your patience, but am boldned
Under your promis'd pardon. The Subjects grief
Comes through Commissions, which compels from each
The sixth part of his substance, to be levied
Without delay; and the pretence for this
Is nam'd, your Wars in France: this makes bold mouths,
Tongues spit their duties out, and cold hearts freeze
Allegiance in them; their Curses now
Live where their Prayers did: and it's come to pass,
This tractable obedience is a slave
To each incensed Will: I would your Highness
Would give it quick consideration; for
There is no primer baseness.
King. By my Life,
This is against our pleasure.
Card. And for me,
I have no further gone in this, than by
A single voice, and that not past me, but
By learned approbation of the Judges: if I am
Traduc'd by ignorant Tongues, which neither know
My faculties nor person, yet will be
The Chronicles of my doing: Let me say,
'Tis but the fate of Place, and the rough Brake
That Virtue must go through; we must not stint
Our necessary actions, in the fear
To cope malicious Censurers, which ever,
As rav'nous Fishes, do a Vessel follow
That is new trimm'd; but benefit no further
Than vainly longing. What we oft do best,
By sick interpreters (once weak ones) is
Not ours, or not allow'd; what worst, as oft
Hitting a grosser quality, is cry'd up
For our best Act: if we stand still,
In fear our motion will be mock'd or carp'd at,
We should take root here where we sit;
Or sit State-Statues only.
King. Things done well,
And with a care, exempt themselves from fear.
Things done without example, in their issue
Are to be fear'd. Have you a President
Of this Commission? I believe not any.
We must not rend our Subjects from our Laws,
And stick them in our Will. Sixth part of each?
A trembling Contribution: why we take
From every tree, lop, bark, and part oth' timber:
And though we leave it with a root thus hackt,
The Air will drink the Sap. To every County
Where this is question'd, send our Letters, with
Free pardon to each man that has deny'd
The Force of this Commission: pray look to't
I put it to your care.
Card. A word with you.
Let there be Letters writ to every Shire
Of the Kings Grace and Pardon: the grieved Commons
Hardly conceive of me. Let it be nois'd,
That through our Intercession, this Revokement
And Pardon comes: I shall anon advise you
Further in the proceeding. [Exit Secret.

Enter Surveyor.

Quee. I am sorry, that the Duke of Buckingham
Is run in your displeasure.
King. It grieves many:
The Gentleman is Learn'd, and a most rare Speaker,
To Nature none more bound, his training such,
That he may furnish and instruct great Teachers,
And never seek for aid out of himself: yet see,
When these so Noble benefits shall prove
Not well dispos'd, the mind growing once corrupt
They turn to vicious forms, ten times more ugly
Than ever they were fair. This man so compleat,
Who was enroll'd 'mongst wonders; and when we Almost with ravisht listning, could not find
His hour of speech, a minute: He, (my Lady)
Hath into monstrous habits put the Graces
That once were his, and is become as black,
As if besmear'd in Hell. Sit by Us, and you shall hear
(This was his Gentleman in trust) of him
Things to strike Honour sad. Bid him recount
The fore-recited practices, whereof
We cannot feel too little, hear too much.
Card. Stand forth, and with bold spirit relate, what you
Most like a careful Subject have collected
Out of the Duke of Buckingham.
King. Speak freely.
Surv. First, it was usual with him every day
It would infect his Speech, That if the King
Should without issue dye, hee'l carry it so
To make the Scepter, his. These very words
I've heard him utter to his Son in Law,
Lord Aburgany, to whom by Oath he menac'd
Revenge upon the Cardinal.
Card. Please your Highness, note
This dangerous conception in this point,
Not friended by his wish to your High person;
His will is most malignant, and it stretches
Beyond you to your Friends.
Quee. My learned Lord Cardinal,
Deliver all with Charity.
King. Speak on;
How grounded he his Title to the Crown
Upon our fail; to this point hast thou heard him,
At any time speak ought?
Surv. He was brought to this,
By a vain Prophesie of Nicholas Henton.
King. What was that Henton?
Surv. Sir, a Chartreux Fryer,
His Confessor, who fed him every minute
With words of Soveraignty.
King. How know'st thou this?
Sur. Not long before your highness sped to France,
The Duke being at the Rose, within the Parish
Saint Lawrence Poultney, did of me demand
What was the speech among the Londoners
Concerning the French Journey. I reply'd,
Men fear the French would prove perfidious
To the King's danger: presently, the Duke
Said, 'twas the fear indeed, and that he doubted
'Twould prove the verity of certain words
Spoke by a holy Monk, that oft, says he,
Hath sent to me, wishing me to permit
John de la Car, my Chaplain, a choice hour
To hear from him a matter of some moment:
Whom after under the Commissions Seal,
He solemnly had sworn, that what he spoke
My Chaplain to no Creature living, but
To me, should utter, with demure Confidence,
Thus pawsingly ensu'd; Neither the King nor's Heirs

(Tell

(Tell you the Duke) ſhall proſper, bid him ſtrive
To gain the love o'th' Commonalty, the Duke
Shall govern England.
Queen. If I know you well,
You were the Duke's Surveyor, and loſt your Office
On the complaint o'th' Tenants; take good heed
You charge not in your ſpleen a Noble Perſon,
And ſpoil your Noble Soul; I ſay, take heed;
Yes, heartily I beſeech you.
King. Let him on. Go forward.
Sur. On my Soul, I'le ſpeak but truth.
I told my Lord the Duke, by th' Devils illuſions
The Monk might be deceiv'd, and that 'twas dangerous
For this to ruminate on this ſo far, until
It forg'd him ſome deſign, which, being believ'd,
It was much like to do: He anſwer'd, Tuſh,
It can do me no dammage; adding further,
That had the King in his laſt ſickneſs fail'd,
The Cardinal's, and Sir Thomas Lovell's Heads
Should have gone off.
King. Ha? What, ſo rank? Ah, ha,
There's miſchief in this man; canſt thou ſay further?
Sur. I can, my Liege.
King. Proceed.
Sur. Being at Greenwich,
After your Highneſs had reprov'd the Duke
About Sir William Blumer.
King. I remember of ſuch a time, being my ſworn ſervant,
The Duke retain'd him, his. But on: what hence?
Sur. If (quoth he) I for this deed had been committed,
As to the Tower, I thought; I would have plaid
The Part my Father meant to act upon
Th' Uſurper Richard, who being at Salisbury,
Made ſuit to come in's preſence; which, if granted,
(As he made ſemblance of his duty) would
Have put his Knife into him.
King. A Gyant Traytor.
Card. Now, Madam, may his Highneſs live in freedom,
And this Man out of Priſon.
Queen. God mend all. (ſay'ſt?
King. There's ſomething more would out of thee; what
Sur. After the Duke his Father, with the Knife
He ſtretch'd him, and with one hand on his Dagger,
Another ſpread on's Breaſt, mounting his Eyes,
He did diſcharge a horrible Oath, whoſe tenour
Was, were he evil us'd, he would out-go
His Father, by as much as a performance
Do's an irreſolute purpoſe.
King. There's his period,
To ſheath his Knife in us: he is attach'd,
Call him to preſent Tryal: if he may
Find Mercy in the Law, 'tis his; if none,
Let him not ſeek't of us: By day and night
He's Traytor to th' height. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter L. Chamberlain, and L. Sandys.

L. Ch. Is't poſſible the ſpells of France ſhould juggle
Men into ſuch ſtrange Myſteries?
L. San. New Cuſtoms,
Though they be never ſo ridiculous,
(Nay let 'em be unmanly) yet are follow'd.
L. Ch. As far as I ſee, all the good our Engliſh
Have got by the late Voyage, is but meerly
A fit or two o'th' Face, (but they are ſhrew'd ones)
For when they hold 'em, you would ſwear directly
Their very Noſes had been Counſellors
To Pepin or Clotharius, they keep State ſo.
L. San. They have all new Legs,
And lame ones; one would take it,
That never ſee 'em pace before, the Spaven
A Spring-halt-reign'd among 'em.
L. Ch. Death, my Lord,
Their Cloaths are after ſuch a Pagan cut too,
That ſure th'have worn out Chriſtendom, how now?
What news, Sir Thomas Lovell?

Enter Sir Thomas Lovell.

Lovell. Faith my Lord,
I hear of none, but the new Proclamation,
That's clapt upon the Court Gate.
L. Cham. What is't for?
Lov. The Reformation of our travell'd Gallants,
That fill the Court with Quarrels, Talk, and Taylors.
L. Cham. I'm glad 'tis there;
Now I would pray our Monſieurs
To think an Engliſh Courtier may be wiſe,
And never ſee the Lovure.
Lov. They muſt either
(For ſo run the Conditions) leave thoſe remnants
Of Fool and Feather, that they got in France,
With all their honourable points of ignorance
Pertaining thereunto, as Fights and Fire-works,
Abuſing better men than they can be
Out of a foreign Wiſdom, renouncing clean
The faith they have in Tennis and tall Stockings,
Short bolſtred Breeches, and thoſe types of Travel;
And underſtand again like honeſt men;
Or pack to their old Play-fellows, there I take it,
They may Cum Privilegio wear away
The Lag-end of their lewdneſs, and be laugh'd at.
L. San. 'Tis time to give them Phyſick, their diſeaſes
Are grown ſo catching.
L. Cham. What a loſs our Ladies
Will have of theſe trim vanities?
Lovel. I marry,
There will be woe indeed, Lords, the ſly whoreſons
Have got a ſpeeding trick to lay down Ladies.
A French Song, and a Fiddle, has no Fellow.
L. San. The Devil fiddle 'em;
I am glad they are going,
For ſure there's no converting 'em: now
An honeſt Country Lord, as I am, beaten
A long time out of play, may bring his plain Song,
And have an hour of hearing, and by'r Lady
Held currant Muſick too.
L. Cham. Well ſaid, Lord Sands,
Your Colts tooth is not caſt yet?
L. San. No, my Lord,
Nor ſhall not, while I have a ſtump.
L. Cham. Sir Thomas,
Whither were you a going?
Lov. To the Cardinals;
Your Lordſhip is a gueſt too.
L. Cham. O, 'tis true;
This Night he makes a Supper, and a great one,
To many Lords and Ladies; there will be
The Beauty of this Kingdom, I'le aſſure you.
Lov. That Churchman
Bears a bounteous mind indeed;
A hand as fruitful as the Land that feeds us,
His dews fall every where.
L. Cham. No doubt, he's Noble;
He had a black Mouth that ſaid other of him.
L. San. He may, my Lord,
Has wherewithall in him;
Sparing would ſhew a worſe ſin, than ill Doctrine.
Men of his way ſhould be moſt liberal,
They are ſet here for Examples.
L. Cham. True, they are ſo;
But few now give ſo great ones:
My Barge ſtays;
Your Lordſhip ſhall along: Come, good Sir Thomas,
We ſhall be late elſe, which I would not be,
For I was ſpoke to, with Sir Henry Guilford

This

This night to be Comptrollers.
L. San. I am your Lordſhips. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Hoboys. A ſmall Table under a State for the Cardinal, a longer Table for the Gueſts. Then enter Anne Bullen, and divers other Ladies and Gentlemen, as Gueſts at one door; at another door enter Sir Henry Guilford.

S. Hen. Guilf. Ladies,
A general welcome from his Grace
Salutes ye all: This night he Dedicates
To fair content, and you: None here he hopes
In all this Noble Bevy, has brought with her
One care abroad: he would have all as merry,
As firſt good Compan y, good Wine, good Welcome,
Can make good Peopl e.

Enter L. Chamberlain, L. Sands, and Lovel.

O my Lord, y' are tardy;
The very thought of this fair Company,
Clapt wings to me.
Cham. You are young, Sir Harry Guilford.
San. Sir Thomas Lovel, had the Cardinal
But half my Lay-thoughts in him, ſome of theſe
Should find a running Banquet, e're they reſted,
I think would better pleaſe 'em: by my life,
They are a ſweet Society of fair ones.
Lov. O that your Lordſhip were but now Confeſſor
To one or two of theſe.
San. I would I were,
They ſhould find eaſie penance.
Lov. Faith, how eaſie?
San. As eaſie as a down Bed would afford it.
Cham. Sweet Ladies, will it pleaſe you ſit; Sir Harry,
Place you that ſide, I'le take the charge of this:
His Grace is entring, nay you muſt not freeze,
Two Women plac'd together makes cold weather:
My Lord Sands, you are one will keep 'em waking:
Pray ſit between theſe Ladies.
San. By my Faith,
And thank your Lordſhip: by your leave, ſweet Ladies,
If I chance to talk a little wild, forgive me:
I had it from my Father.
An. Bul. Was he mad, Sir?
San. O very mad, exceeding mad, in love too;
But he would bite none, juſt as I do now,
He would kiſs you twenty with a breath.
Cham. Well ſaid, my Lord:
So now y'are fairly ſeated: Gentlemen,
The penance lies on you; if theſe fair Ladies
Paſs away frowning.
San. For my little Cure,
Let me alone.

Hoboys. Enter Cardinal Wolſey, and takes his State.

Card. Y'are welcome, my fair Gueſts; that noble Lady
Or Gentleman that is not freely merry
Is not my Friend. This to confirm my welcome,
And to you all good health.
San. Your Grace is Noble,
Let me have ſuch a Bowl may hold my thanks,
And ſave me ſo much talking.
Card. My Lord Sands,
I am beholding to you: cheer your Neighbour:
Ladies, you are not merry; Gentlemen,
Whoſe fault is this?
San. The red Wine firſt muſt riſe
In their fair Cheeks, my Lord, then we ſhall have 'em
Talk us to ſilence.
An. Bul. You are a merry Gamſter,
My Lord Sands.
San. Yes, if I make my play:
Here's to your Ladiſhip, and pledge it, Madam:
For 'tis to ſuch a thing.
An. Bul. You cannot ſhew me.
Drum and Trumpets, Chambers diſcharged.
San. I told your Grace, they would talk anon.
Card. What's that?
Cham. Look out there, ſome of ye.
Car. What warlike voice,
And to what end is this? Nay, Ladies, fear not;
By all the Laws of War y' are priviledg'd.
Enter a Servant.
Cham. How now, what is't?
Serv. A noble troop of Strangers,
For ſo they ſeem; they have left their Barge and Landed,
And hither make, as great Embaſſadors
From foreign Princes.
Card. Good Lord Chamberlain,
Go, give 'em welcome; you can ſpeak the French-tongue,
And pray receive 'em Nobly, and conduct 'em
Into our preſence, where this Heaven of beauty
Shall ſhine at full upon them. Some attend him.
All ariſe, and Tables removed.
You have now a broken Banquet, but we'll mend it.
A good diſgeſtion to you all; and once more
I ſhowre a welcome on ye: welcome all.

Hoboys. Enter King and Others as Maskers, habited like Shepherds, uſher'd by the Lord Chamberlain. They paſs directly before the Cardinal, and gratefully ſalute him.

A Noble Company: what are their pleaſures?
Cham. Becauſe they ſpeak no Engliſh, thus they pray'd
To tell your Grace, that having heard by fame
Of this ſo noble and ſo fair Aſſembly,
This night to meet here, they could do no leſs,
(Out of the great reſpect they bear to beauty)
But leave their Flocks, and under your fair conduct
Crave leave to view theſe Ladies, and entreat
An hour of Revels with 'em.
Card. Say, Lord Chamberlain,
They have done my poor houſe Grace:
For which I pay 'em a thouſand thanks,
And pray 'em take their pleaſures.
Chooſe Ladies, King and Anne Bullen.
King. The faireſt hand I ever touch'd: O Beauty,
Till now I never knew thee.
Muſick, Dance.
Card. My Lord.
Cham. Your Grace.
Card. Pray tell 'em thus much from me:
There ſhould be one amongſt 'em by his perſon
More worthy this place than my ſelf, to whom
(If I but knew him) with my love and duty
I would ſurrender it. [Whiſper.
Cham. I will, my Lord.
Card. What ſay they?
Cham. Such a one, they all confeſs
There is indeed, which they would have your Grace
Find out, and he will take it.
Card. Let me ſee then,
By all your good leaves, Gentlemen, here I'le make
My royal choice.
King. Ye have found him Cardinal,
You hold a fair Aſſembly, you do well, Lord.
You are a Church-man, or I'le tell you, Cardinal,
I ſhould judge now unhappily.
Card. I am glad
Your Grace is grown ſo pleaſant.
King. My Lord Chamberlain,

Prithee

Prithee come hither, what fair Lady's that?
Cham. An't pleaſe your Grace,
Sir Thomas Bullen's Daughter, the Viſcount Rochford,
One of her Highneſſes Women.
King. By Heaven ſhe is a dainty one; Sweet heart,
I were unmannerly to take you out,
And not to kiſs you. A health Gentlemen,
Let it go round.
Card. Sir Thomas Lovel, is the Banquet ready
Ith' Privy Chamber?
Lov. Yes, my Lord.
Card. Your Grace,
I fear, with dancing is a little heated.
King. I fear too much.
Card. There's freſh Air, my Lord,
In the next Chamber.
King. Lead in your Ladies every one: Sweet Partner
I muſt not yet forſake you: let's be merry,
Good my Lord Cardinal: I have half a dozen Healths
To drink to theſe fair Ladies, and a meaſure
To lead 'em once again, and then let's dream
Who's beſt in favour. Let the Muſick knock it.
[Exeunt with Trumpets

Actus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Enter two Gentlemen at ſeveral doors,

3. Whither away ſo faſt?
2. O, God ſave ye:
Even to the Hall, to hear what ſhall become
Of the great Duke of Bukingham.
1. I'le ſave you
That labour, Sir. All's now done, but the Ceremony
Of bringing back the Priſoner.
2. Were you there?
1. Yes indeed was I.
2. Pray ſpeak what has hapn'd.
1. You may gueſs quickly what.
2. Is he found guilty?
1. Yes truly is he,
And condemn'd upon't.
2. I am ſorry for't.
1. So are a number more.
2. But pray how paſt it?
1. I'le tell you in a little. The great Duke
Came to the Bar; where, to his accuſations
He pleaded ſtill not guilty, and alledged
Many ſharp reaſons to defeat the Law.
The King's Atturney on the contrary;
Urg'd on the Examinations, Proofs, Confeſſions
Of divers witneſſes, which the Duke deſir'd
To him brought viva voce to his Face;
At which appear'd againſt him, his Surveyor,
Sir Gilbert Peck his Chancellor, and John Car
Confeſſor to him, with that Devil Monk,
Hopkins, that made this miſchief.
2. That was he,
That fed him with his Prophecies.
1. The ſame,
All theſe accus'd him ſtrongly, which he fain
Would have flung from him; but indeed he could not;
And ſo his Peers upon this Evidence,
Have found him guilty of high Treaſon. Much
He ſpoke, and learnedly for life: but all
Was either pitied in him, or forgotten.
2. After all this, how did he bear himſelf?
1. When he was brought agen to th' Bar, to hear
His Knell-rung out, his Judgment, he was ſtirr'd
With ſuch an Agony, he ſweat extreamly,
And ſomething ſpoke in choler, ill and haſty;
But he fell to himſelf again, and ſweetly
In all the reſt ſhew'd a moſt noble patience.
2. I do not think he fears death.
1. Sure he does not,
He never was ſo womaniſh, the cauſe
He may a little grieve at.
2. Certainly,
The Cardinal is the end of this.
1. 'Tis likely,
By all conjectures: Firſt Kildare's Attaindure,
Then Deputy of Ireland, who remov'd,
Earl Surrey was ſent thither, and in haſt too,
Leſt he ſhould help his Father.
2. That trick of State
Was a deep envious one.
1. At his return,
No doubt he will requite it; this is noted
(And generally) who ever the King favours,
The Cardinal inſtantly will find employment for,
And far enough from Court too.
2. All the Commons
Hate him perniciouſly, and O' my Conſcience.
Wiſh him ten fathom deep: This Duke as much
They love and doat on, call him Bounteous Buckingham,
The Mirror of all courteſie.

Enter Buckingham from his Arraignment. Tipſtaves before him, the Ax with the edge towards him, Halberds on each ſide, accompanied with Sir Thomas Lovel, Sir Nicholas Vaux, Walter Sands, and Common people, &c.

1. Stay there, Sir,
And ſee the Noble ruin'd man you ſpeak of.
2. Let's ſtand cloſe and behold him.
Buck. All good people,
You that thus have come to pity me;
Hear what I ſay, and then go home and loſe me.
I have this day receiv'd a Traytors Judgment,
And by that name muſt die; yet Heaven bear witneſs,
And if I have a Conſcience, let it ſink me,
Even as the Ax falls, if I be not faithful.
To th' Law I bear no malice for my death,
'T has done upon the premiſes, but Juſtice:
But thoſe that ſought it, I could wiſh more Chriſtians:
(Be what they will) I heartily forgive 'em;
Yet let 'em look they glory not in miſchief;
Nor build their evils on the Graves of great men;
For then, my guiltleſs blood muſt cry again 'em.
For further life in this world I ne're hope,
Nor will I ſue, although the King have mercies
More than I dare make faults.
You few that lov'd me,
And dare be bold to weep for Buckingham,
His Noble Friends and Fellows; whom to leave
Is onely bitter to him, onely dying:
Go with me like good Angels to my end,
And as the long divorce of Steel falls on me,
Make of your Prayers one ſweet Sacrifice,
And lift my Soul to Heaven.
Lead on a Gods name.
Lov. I do beſeech your Grace for Charity,
If ever any malice in your heart
Were hid againſt me, now to forgive me frankly.
Buck. Sir Thomas Lovel, I as free forgive you
As I would be forgiven: I forgive all.
There cannot be thoſe numberleſs offences
'Gainſt me, that I cannot take peace with:
No black envy ſhall make my Grave.
Commend me to his Grace:
And if he ſpeak of Buckingham; pray tell him,
You met him half in Heaven: my vows and prayers
Yet are the Kings; and till my Soul forſake,
Shall cry for bleſſings on him. May he live
Longer than I have time to tell his years;

Ever

Ever belov'd and loving may his Rule be;
And when old time ſhall lead him to his end,
Goodneſs and he fill up one Monument.
Lov. To th' Water-ſide I muſt conduct your Grace,
Then give my Charge up to Sir Nicholas Vaux,
Who undertakes you to your end.
Vaux. Prepare there,
The Duke is coming: See the Barge be ready,
And fit it with ſuch furniture as ſuits
The greatneſs of his Perſon.
Buck. Nay, Sir Nicholas,
Let it alone; my State now will but mock me.
When I came hither, I was Lord High Conſtable,
And Duke of Buckingham; now, poor Edward Bohun;
Yet I am richer than my baſe Accuſers,
That never knew what Truth meant: I now ſeal it;
And with that blood will make 'em one day groan for't.
My Noble Father, Henry of Buckingham,
Who firſt rais'd head againſt Uſurping Richard,
Flying for ſuccour to his Servant Baniſter,
Being diſtreſt, was by that wretch betray'd,
And without Tryal, fell; Gods peace be with him.
Henry the Seventh ſucceeding, truly pitying
My Fathers loſs, like a moſt Royal Prince
Reſtor'd me to my Honours: and out of ruines
Made my Name once more Noble. Now his Son,
Henry the Eighth, Life, Honour, Name, and all
That made me happy, at one ſtroke has taken
For ever from the World. I had my Tryal,
And muſt needs ſay, a Noble one; which makes me
A little happier than my wretched Father:
Yet thus far are we one in Fortunes, both
Fell by our Servants, by thoſe men we lov'd moſt:
A moſt unnatural and faithleſs Service.
Heaven has an end in all: yet, you that hear me,
This from a dying man receive as certain:
Where you are liberal of your loves and Counſels,
Be ſure you be not looſe; for thoſe you make friends,
And give your hearts to, when they once perceive
The leaſt rub in your fortunes, fall away
Like Water from ye, never found again
But where they mean to ſink ye: all good People
Pray for me, I muſt now forſake ye; the laſt hour
Of my long weary life is come upon me:
Farewel; and when you would ſay ſomething that is ſad,
Speak how I fell.
I have done; and God forgive me.
[Exeunt Duke and Train.
1. O, this is full of pity; Sir, it calls,
I fear, too many curſes on their Heads,
That were the Authors.
2. If the Duke be guiltleſs,
'Tis full of woe: yet I can give you inckling
Of an enſuing evil, if it fall,
Greater than this.
1. Good Angels keep it from us:
What may it be? you do not doubt my faith, Sir?
2. This Secret is ſo weighty, 'twill require
A ſtrong faith to conceal it.
1. Let me have it;
I do not talk much.
2. I am confident;
You ſhall, Sir: Did you not of late days hear
A buzzing of a Separation
Between the King and Katharine?
1. Yes, but it held not;
For when the King once heard it, out of anger
He ſent command to the Lord Mayor ſtraight
To ſtop the rumour, and allay the tongues
That durſt diſperſe it.
2. But that ſlander, Sir,
Is a ſound truth now: for it grows agen
Freſher than e're it was, and held for certain
The King will venture at it. Either the Cardinal,
Or ſome about him near, have, out of malice
To the good Queen, poſſeſt him with a ſcruple
That will undo her: To confirm this too,
Cardinal Campeius is arriv'd, and lately,
As all think, for this buſineſs.
1. 'Tis the Cardinal;
And meerly to revenge him on the Emperour,
For not beſtowing on him, at his asking,
The Arch-Biſhoprick of Toledo, this is purpos'd.
2. I think
You have hit the mark; but is't not cruel,
That ſhe ſhould feel the ſmart of this? the Cardinal
Will have his will, and ſhe muſt fall.
1. 'Tis woful.
We are too open here to argue this:
Let's think in Private more. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Lord Chamberlain, reading this Letter.

My Lord, the Horſes, your Lordſhip ſent for, with all the care I had, I ſaw well choſen, ridden, and furniſh'd. They were young and handſome, and of the beſt Breed in the North. When they were ready to ſet out for London, a Man of my Lord Cardinals, by Commiſſion, and main power took 'em from me, with this reaſon: His Maſter would be ſerv'd before a Subject, if not before the King, which ſtopp'd our Mouths, Sir.

I fear, he will indeed; well, let him have them; he will have all I think.

Enter to the Lord Chamberlain, the Dukes of Norfolk and Suffolk.

Norf. Well met, my Lord Chamberlain.
Cham. Good day to both your Graces.
Suf. How is the King employ'd?
Cham. I left him private,
Full of ſad thoughts and troubles.
Norf. What's the cauſe?
Cham. It ſeems the Marriage with his Brothers Wife
Has crept too near his Conſcience.
Suf. No, his Conſcience
Has crept too near another Lady.
Norf. 'Tis ſo;
This is the Cardinals doing: the King-Cardinal,
That blind Prieſt, like the eldeſt Son of Fortune,
Turns what he liſt. The King will know him one day.
Suf. Pray God he do,
He'll never know himſelf elſe.
Norf. How holily he works in all his buſineſs;
And with what zeal? For now he has crackt the League
Between us and the Emperor (the Queens great Nephew)
He dives into the Kings Soul, and there ſcatters
Dangers, Doubts, wringing of the Conſcience,
Fears, and Deſpairs, and all theſe for his Marriage:
And out of all theſe, to reſtore the King,
He counſels a Divorce, a loſs of her,
That like a Jewel, has hung twenty years
About his neck, yet never loſt her luſtre;
Of her that loves him with that excellence,
That Angels love good men with: even of her,
That, when the greateſt ſtroke of Fortune falls,
Will bleſs the King: and is not this courſe pious?
Cham. Heaven keep me from ſuch counſel: 'tis moſt true,
Theſe news are every where, every tongue ſpeaks 'em,
And every true heart weeps for't. All that dare
Look into theſe affairs, ſee his main end,
The French Kings Siſter. Heaven will one day open
The Kings Eyes, that ſo long have ſlept upon
This bold bad man.

Suff.

Suff. And free us from his ſlavery.
Norf. We had need pray,
And heartily, for our deliverance;
Or this Imperious man will work us all
From Princes into Pages: all mens Honours
Lie like one lump before him, to be faſhion'd
Into what pitch he pleaſe.
Suff. For me, my Lords,
I love him not, nor fear him, there's my Creed:
As I am made without him, ſo I'le ſtand,
If the King pleaſe: his Curſes and his Bleſſings
Touch me alike: th' are breath I not believe in.
I knew him, and I know him: ſo I leave him
To him that made him proud, the Pope.
Norf. Let's in;
And with ſome other buſineſs, put the King
From theſe ſad thoughts, that work too much upon him;
My Lord, you'l bear us company?
Cham. Excuſe me,
The King has ſent me other-where: Beſides
You'l find a moſt unfit time to diſturb him:
Health to your Lordſhips.
Norf. Thanks, my good Lord Chamberlain.

Exit Lord Chamberlain, and the King draws the Curtain, and ſits reading penſively.

Suff. How ſad he looks; ſure he is much afflicted.
King. Who's there? Ha?
Norf. Pray God, he be not angry.
King. Who's there I ſay? how dare you thruſt your ſelves
Into my private Meditations?
Who am I? ha?
Norf. A gracious King, that pardons all offences
Malice ne're meant: Our breach of Duty this way,
Is buſineſs of Eſtate; in which, we come
To know your Royal pleaſure.
King. Ye are too bold:
Go too; I'le make ye know your times of buſineſs:
Is this an hour for temporal Affairs? ha?

Enter Wolſey and Campeius with a Commiſſion.

Who's there? my good Lord Cardinal? O my Wolſey,
The quiet of my wounded Conſcience;
Thou art a cure fit for the King; you're welcome,
Moſt Learned Reverend Sir, into our Kingdom,
Uſe us, and it: my good Lord, have great care,
I be not found a Talker.
Wol. Sir, you cannot:
I would your Grace would give us but an hour
Of private conference.
King. We are buſie; go.
Norf. This Prieſt has no pride in him?
Suff. Not to ſpeak of:
I would not be ſo ſick, though for his place:
But this cannot continue.
Norf. If it do, I'le venture one heave at him.
Suff. I another. [Exeunt Norfolk and Suffolk.
Wol. Your Grace has given a Precedent of Wiſdom
Above all Princes, in committing freely
Your ſcruple to the voice of Chriſtendom:
Who can be angry now? what Envy reach you?
The Spaniard, ty'd by blood and favour to her,
Muſt now confeſs, if they have any goodneſs,
The Trial juſt and noble. All the Clerks,
(I mean the learned ones in Chriſtian Kingdoms)
Have their free voices. Rome (the Nurſe of Judgment,)
Invited by your Noble ſelf hath ſent
One general Tongue unto us, this good man,
This juſt and learned Prieſt, Cardinal Campeius,
Whom once more I preſent unto your Highneſs.
King. And once more in mine arms I bid him welcome,
And thank the holy Conclave for their Loves,
They have ſent me ſuch a Man I would have wiſh'd for.
Cam. Your Grace muſt needs deſerve all Strangers loves,
You are ſo Noble: To your Highneſſes hand
I tender my Commiſſion; by whoſe virtue,
The Court of Rome commanding, You, my Lord
Cardinal of York, are joyn'd with me, their Servant,
In the impartial judging of this buſineſs.
King. Two equal men: The Queen ſhall be acquainted
Forthwith for what you come. Where's Gardiner?
Wol. I know your Majeſty has always lov'd her
So dear in heart, not to deny her that,
A Woman of leſs Place might ask by Law;
Scholars allow'd freely to argue for her.
King. I, and the beſt ſhe ſhall have; and my favour
To him that does beſt, God forbid elſe: Cardinal,
Prithee call Gardiner to me, my new Secretary,
I find him a fit Fellow.

Enter Gardiner.

Wol. Give me your hand: much joy and favour to you;
You are the King's now.
Gard. But to be commanded
For ever by your Grace, whoſe hand has rais'd me.
King. Come hither, Gardiner.
[Walks and whiſpers.
Camp. My Lord of York, was not one Doctor Pace
In this mans place before him?
Wol. Yes, he was.
Camp. Was he not held a Learned man?
Wol. Yes ſurely.
Camp. Believe me, there's an ill opinion ſpred then
Even of your ſelf, Lord Cardinal.
Wol. How? of me?
Camp. They will not ſtick to ſay, you envy'd him;
And fearing he would riſe (he was ſo virtuous)
Kept him a foreign man ſtill, which ſo griev'd him,
That he ran mad, and dy'd.
Wol. Heavens peace be with him:
That's Chriſtian care enough: for living murmurers,
There's places of rebuke. He was a Fool,
For he would needs be virtuous. That good fellow,
If I command him, follows my appointment,
I will have none ſo near elſe. Learn this Brother,
We live not to be grip'd by meaner perſons.
King. Deliver this with modeſty to th' Queen.
[Exit Gardiner.
The moſt convenient place that I can think of,
For ſuch receit of Learning, is Black Fryers:
There ye ſhall meet about this weighty buſineſs.
My Wolſey, ſee it furniſh'd. O my Lord,
Would it not grieve an able man to leave
So ſweet a Bedfellow? But Conſcience, Conſcience;
O 'tis a tender place, and I muſt leave her. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Anne Bullen, and an old Lady.

An. Not for that neither, here's the pang that pinches.
His Highneſs having liv'd ſo long with her, and ſhe
So good a Lady, that no tongue could ever
Pronounce diſhonour of her; by my life,
She never knew harm-doing: Oh, now after
So many courſes of the Sun enthron'd,
Still growing in a Majeſty and Pomp, the which
To leave, a thouſand fold more bitter, than
'Tis ſweet at firſt t' acquire. After this Proceſs,
To give her the avant, it is a pity
Would move a Monſter.
Old La. Hearts of moſt hard temper
Melt and lament for her.
An. O' Gods will, much better

She ne're had known Pomp; though't be temporal,
Yet if that quarrel, Fortune, do divorce
It from the bearer, 'tis a ſufferance, panging
As Soul and Bodies ſevering.
Old La. Alas, poor Lady,
She's Stranger now again.
An. So much the more
Muſt pity drop upon her; verily
I ſwear, 'tis better to be lowly born,
And range with humble livers in Content,
Than to be perk'd up in a gliſtring grief,
And wear a golden ſorrow.
Old L. Our content
Is our beſt having.
Anne. By my troth, and Maiden-head,
I would not be a Queen.
Old L. Beſhrew me, I would,
And venture Maiden-head for't, and ſo would you
For all this ſpice of your Hypocriſie;
You that have ſo fair parts of Woman on you,
Have (too) a Womans heart, which ever yet
Affected Eminence, Wealth, Sovereignty;
Which, to ſay ſooth, are Bleſſings; and which gifts
(Saving your mincing) the capacity
Of your ſoft Chiverel Conſcience would receive,
If you might pleaſe to ſtretch it.
An. Nay, good troth.
Old L. Yes, troth and troth: you would not be a Queen?
An. No, not for all the riches under Heaven.
Old L. 'Tis ſtrange; a three-pence bow'd now would Old as I am, to Queen it: but I pray you, (hire me,
What think you of a Dutcheſs? have you limbs
To bear that load of Title?
An. No, in truth.
Old L. Then you are weakly made, pluck off a little,
I would not be a young Count in your way,
For more than bluſhing comes to: If your back
Cannot vouchſafe this burthen, 'tis too weak
Ever to get a Boy.
An. How you do talk;
I ſwear again, I would not be a Queen
For all the world.
Old L. In faith for little England
You'll venture an emballing: I my ſelf
Would for Carnarvanſhire, although there long'd
No more to th' Crown but that: Lo, who comes here?

Enter Lord Chamberlain.

L. Ch. Good morrow, Ladies; what wer't worth to know
The ſecret of your Conference?
An. My good Lord,
Not your demand; it values not your asking:
Our Miſtreſs Sorrows we were pitying.
Cham. It was a gentle buſineſs, and becoming
The action of good women, there is hope
All will be well.
An. Now I pray God, Amen.
Cham. You bear a gentle mind, and heavenly bleſſings
Follow ſuch Creatures. That you may, fair Lady,
Perceive I ſpeak ſincerely, and high notes
Ta'ne of your many Vertues: the Kings Majeſty
Commends his good opinion of you, to you; and Do's purpoſe Honour to you no leſs flowing
Than Marchioneſs of Pembrook; to which Title
A thouſand pound a year, Annual ſupport,
Out of his Grace, he adds.
An. I do not know
What kind of my obedience, I ſhould tender;
More than my All, is nothing: Nor my Prayers
Are not words duly hallowed, nor my Wiſhes
More worth than empty vanities: yet prayers and wiſhes
Are all I can return. 'Beſeech your Lordſhip,
Vouchſafe to ſpeak my thanks, and my obedience,
As from a bluſhing Handmaid, to his Highneſs;
Whoſe Health and Royalty I pray for.
Cham. Lady;
I ſhall not fail t'approve the fair conceit
The King hath of you. I have perus'd her well,
Beauty and Honour in her are ſo mingled,
That they have caught the King: and who knows yet,
But from this Lady may proceed a Gem,
To lighten all this Iſle? I'le to the King,
And ſay I ſpoke with you. [Exit Lord Chamberlain.
An. My honour'd Lord.
Old L. Why this it is: See, ſee,
I have been begging ſixteen years in Court
(Am yet a Courtier beggarly) nor could
Come pat betwixt too early, and too late
For any ſuit of pounds: and you, (oh fate)
A very freſh Fiſh here; fie, fie, fie upon
This compell'd fortune, have your mouth fill'd up,
Before you open it.
An. This is ſtrange to me.
Old L. How taſtes it? Is it bitter? Forty pence, no:
There was no Lady once ('tis an old Story)
That would not be a Queen, that would ſhe not
For all the mud in Egypt; have you heard it?
An. Come, you are pleaſant.
Old L. With your Theme, I could
O're-mount the Lark: The Marchioneſs of Pembrook?
A thouſand pounds a year, for pure reſpect?
No other obligation? by my Life,
That promiſes moe thouſands: Honours train
Is longer than his fore-skirt; by this time
I know your back will bear a Dutcheſs. Say,
Are you not ſtronger than you were?
An. Good Lady,
Make your ſelf mirth with your particular fancy,
And leave me out on't. Would I had no being,
If this ſalute my blood a jot; it faints me
To think what follows.
The Queen is comfortleſs, and we forgetful
In our long abſence: pray do not deliver,
What here y'ave heard to her.
Old L. What do you think me—— [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Trumpets, Sonnet, and Cornets. Enter two Vergers, with ſhort ſilver wands; next them two Scribes in the habits of Doctors: after them, the Biſhop of Canterbury alone; after him, the Biſhops of Lincoln, Ely, Rocheſter, and St. Aſaph: next them, with ſome ſmall diſtance, follows a Gentleman bearing the Purſe, with the great Seal, and a Cardinals Hat: then two Prieſts, bearing each a Silver Croſs: then a Gentleman-Uſher bare-headed, accompanied with a Serjeant at Arms, bearing a Mace: then two Gentlemen, bearing two great Silver Pillars; after them, ſide by ſide, the two Cardinals, two Noblemen, with the Sword and Mace. The King takes place under the Cloth of State. The two Cardinals ſit under him as Judges. The Queen takes place ſome diſtance from the King. The Biſhops place themſelves on each ſide the Court in manner of a Conſiſtory: Below them, the Scribes. The Lords ſit next the Biſhops. The reſt of the Attendants ſtand in convenient order about the Stage.

Card. Whil'ſt our Commiſſion from Rome is read,
Let ſilence be commanded.
King. What's the need?
It hath already publickly been read,
And on all ſides th' Authority allow'd,
You may then ſpare that time.
Card. Be't ſo, proceed.
Scri. Say, Henry K. of England, come into the Court.
Cryer. Henry King of England, &c.
King. Here.

Scribe. Say, Katharine Queen of England,
Come into the Court.
Cryer. Katharine, Queen of England, &c.
[The Queen makes no answer, rises out of her Chair, goes about the Court, comes to the King, and kneels at his Feet. Then speaks.
Sir, I desire you to do me Right and Justice,
And to bestow your Pity on me; for
I am a most poor Woman, and a stranger,
Born out of your Dominions: having here
No Judge indifferent, nor no more assurance
Of equal Friendship and Proceeding. Alas, Sir,
In what have I offended you? What cause
Hath my behaviour given to your displeasure,
That thus you should proceed to put me off,
And take your Good Grace from me? Heaven witness,
I have been to you a true and humble Wife,
At all times to your Will conformable:
Ever in fear to kindle your Dislike,
Yea, subject to your Countenance: Glad, or sorry,
As I saw it inclin'd? when was the hour
I ever contradicted your Desire?
Or made it not mine too? Or which of your Friends
Have I not strove to Love, although I knew
He were mine Enemy? What Friend of mine,
That had to him deriv'd your Anger, did I
Continue in my Liking? nay, gave notice
He was from thence discharg'd? Sir, call to mind,
That I have been your Wife, in this Obedience,
Upward of twenty years, and have been blest
With many Children by you. If in the course
And process of this time you can report,
And prove it too, against mine Honour ought,
My bond of Wedlock, or my love and duty
Against your Sacred Person; in Gods name
Turn me away: and let foul'st Contempt
Shut door upon me, and so give me up
To the sharp'st kind of Justice. Please you, Sir,
The King, your Father, was reputed for
A Prince most prudent, and an excellent
And unmatch'd Wit and Judgment. Ferdinand
My Father, King of Spain, was reckon'd one
The wisest Prince, that there had reign'd, by many
A year before. It is not to be question'd,
That they had gather'd a wise Council to them
Of every Realm, that did debate this business,
Who deem'd our Marriage lawful. Wherefore, I humbly
Beseech you, Sir, to spare me, till I may
Be by my Friends in Spain advis'd; whose Counsel
I will implore. If not, i'th' name of God
Your Pleasure be fulfill'd.
Wol. You have here, Lady,
(And of your choice) these Reverend Fathers, men
Of singular Integrity and Learning:
Yea, the elect o'th' Land, who are assembled
To plead your Cause. It shall be therefore bootless,
That longer you defer the Court, as well
For your own quiet, as to rectifie
What is unsetled in the King.
Camp. His Grace
Hath spoken well, and justly; Therefore, Madam,
It's fit this Royal Session do proceed,
And that (without delay) their Arguments
Be now produc'd, and heard.
Queen. Lord Cardinal, to you I speak.
Wol. Your pleasure, Madam.
Qu. Sir, I am about to weep; but thinking that
We are a Queen, (or long have dream'd so) certain
The Daughter of a King, my drops of Tears
I'le turn to sparks of Fire.
Wol. Be patient yet.
Qu. I will, when you are humble, nay before,
Or God will punish me. I do believe,
(Induc'd by potent Circumstances) that
You are mine Enemy, and make my Challenge.
You shall not be my Judge. For it is you
Have blown this Coal, betwixt my Lord and me;
(Which Gods dew quench) therefore, I say again,
I utterly abhor, yea, from my Soul
Refuse you for my Judge, whom yet once more
I hold my most malicious Foe, and think not
At all a Friend to truth.
Wol. I do profess
You speak not like your self, who ever yet
Have stood to Charity, and display'd th' effects
Of Disposition gentle, and of Wisdom
O're-topping Womans power. Madam, you do me wrong,
I have no Spleen against you, nor injustice
For you, or any: how far I have proceeded,
Or how far further (shall), is warranted
By a Commission from the Consistory,
Yea, the whole Consistory of Rome. You charge me,
That I have blown this Coal: I do deny it,
The King is present: If it be known to him,
That I gainsay my Deed, how may he wound,
And worthily, my Falshood, yea, as much
As you have done my Truth. If he know
That I am free of your Report, he knows
I am not of your Wrong. Therefore in him
It lies to Cure me, and the Cure is to Remove these thoughts from you. The which before
His Highness shall speak in, I do beseech
You (gracious Madam) to unthink your speaking,
And to say no more.
Queen. My Lord, my Lord,
I am a simple Woman, much too weak
T'oppose your Cunning. Y'are meek, and humble-mouth'd,
You sign your Place and Calling, in full seeming,
With Meekness and Humility: But your heart
Is cramm'd with Arrogance, Spleen, and Pride.
You have by Fortune and his Highness Favours,
Gone slightly o're low steps, and now are mounted
Where Powers are your Retainers, and your words
(Domesticks to you) serve your Will, as't please
Your self pronounce their Office. I must tell you,
You tender more your Person's Honour, than
Your high Profession Spiritual. That again
I do refuse you for my Judge, and here
Before you all, Appeal unto the Pope,
To bring my whole Cause 'fore his Holiness,
And to be judg'd by him
She curtsies to the King, and offers to depart.
Camp. The Queen is obstinate,
Stubborn to Justice, apt to accuse it, and Disdainful to be try'd by't; 'tis not well.
She's going away.
King. Call her again.
Cryer. Katharine, Q. of England, come into the Court.
Gent. Ush. Madam, you are call'd back.
Qu. What need you note it? pray you keep your way,
When you are call'd, return. Now the Lord help,
They vex me past my patience, pray you pass on;
I will not tarry: no, nor ever more
Upon this business my appearance make
In any of their Courts.
[Exit Queen, and her Attendants.
King. Go thy ways, Kate,
That man i'th' world, who shall report he has
A better Wife, let him in nought be trusted,
For speaking false in that; Thou art alone
(If thy rare qualities, sweet gentleness,
Thy meekness Saint-like, Wife-like Government,
Obeying in commanding, and thy parts
Sovereign and Pious, could speak thee out)
The Queen of earthly Queens: She's Noble born:
And like her true Nobility, she has
Carried her self towards me.
Wol. Most gracious Sir,

In humbleſt manner I require your Highneſs,
That it ſhall pleaſe you to declare in hearing
Of all theſe ears (for where I am robb'd and bound,
There muſt I be unloos'd, although not there
At once, and fully ſatisfi'd) whether ever I
Did broach this buſineſs to your Highneſs, or Laid any ſcruple in your way, which might
Induce you to the queſtion on't: or ever
Have to you, but with thanks to God for ſuch
A Royal Lady, ſpake one, the leaſt, word that might
Be to the prejudice of her preſent State,
Or touch of her good Perſon?

King. My Lord Cardinal,
I do excuſe you; yea, upon mine Honour,
I free you from't: You are not to be taught,
That you have many Enemies, that know not
Why they are ſo, but like the Village Curs,
Bark when their fellows do. By ſome of theſe
The Queen is put in anger; y'are excus'd:
But will you be more juſtifi'd? You ever
Have wiſh'd the ſleeping of this buſineſs, never deſir'd
It to be ſtirr'd; but oft have hindred, oft,
The paſſages made toward it; on my Honour,
I ſpeak, my good Lord Cardinal to this point;
And thus far clear him.
Now, what mov'd me to't,
I will be bold with time and your attention:
Then mark th'inducement. Thus it came; give heed to't:
My Conſcience firſt receiv'd a tenderneſs,
Scruple, and prick, on certain Speeches utter'd
By th' Biſhop of Bayon, then French Embaſſador,
Who had been hither ſent on the debating
And Marriage 'twixt the Duke of Orleance, and
Our Daughter Mary: Ith' Progreſs of this buſineſs,
E're a determinate reſolution, he
(I mean the Biſhop) did require a reſpite,
Wherein he might the King his Lord advertiſe,
Whether our Daughter were Legitimate,
Reſpecting this our Marriage with the Dowager,
Sometimes our Brothers Wife. This reſpite ſhook
The boſome of my Conſcience, enter'd me,
Yea with a ſplitting Power, and made to tremble
The region of my Breaſt, which forc'd ſuch way,
That many maz'd conſiderings did throng
And preſt in with this Caution. Firſt, methought
I ſtood not in the ſmile of Heaven, who had Commanded Nature, that my Ladies womb,
If it conceiv'd a Male-child by me, ſhould
Do no more Offices of life to't, than
The Grave does to th' dead: For her Male Iſſue,
Or dyed where they were made, or ſhortly after
This world had air'd them. Hence I took a thought,
This was a Judgment on me, that my Kingdom
(Well worthy the beſt Heir ot' world) ſhould not
Be glad in't by me. Then follows, that
I weigh'd the danger that my Realms ſtood in
By this my Iſſues fail, and that gave to me
Many a groaning throw: thus hulling in
The wild Sea of my Conſcience, I did ſteer
Towards this remedy, whereupon we are
Now preſent here together: that's to ſay,
I meant to rectifie my Conſcience, which
I then did feel ful ſick, and yet not well,
By all the Reverend Fathers of the Land,
And Doctors Learn'd. Firſt, I began in private,
With you, my Lord of Lincoln; you remember
How under my Oppreſſion I did reek,
When I firſt mov'd you.

B. Lin. Very well, my Liege.

King. I have ſpoke long, be pleas'd your ſelf to ſay
How far you ſatisfi'd me.

Lin. So pleaſe your Highneſs,
The Queſtion did at firſt ſo ſtagger me,
Bearing a ſtate of mighty moment in't,
And conſequence of dread, that I committed
The daring'ſt Councel which I had to doubt,
And did intreat your Highneſs to this Courſe,
Which you are running here.

King. I then mov'd you,
My Lord of Canterbury, and got your leave
To make this preſent Summons unſolicited.
I left no reverend Perſon in this Court,
But by particular conſent proceeded
Under your Hands and Seals: therefore go on,
For no diſlike ith' world againſt the Perſon
Of our good Queen, but the ſharp thorny points
Of my alledged reaſons drives this forward:
Prove but our Marriage lawful, by my Life
And Kingly Dignity, we are contented
To wear her mortal State to come, with her
(Katharine our Queen) before the primeſt Creature
That's Parragon'd oth' World.

Camp. So pleaſe your Highneſs,
The Queen being abſent, 'tis a needful fitneſs,
That we Adjourn this Court to a further day;
Mean while muſt be an earneſt motion
Made to the Queen, to call back her Appeal
She intends unto his Holineſs.

King. I may perceive
Theſe Cardinals trifle with me: I abhor
This dilatory ſloth, and tricks of Rome.
My Learn'd and well beloved Servant Cranmer,
Prithee return; with thy approach, I know,
My comfort comes along: break up the Court;
I ſay, ſet on. [Exeunt, in manner as they enter'd.

Actus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Queen and her Woman, as at work.

Queen. Take thy Lute, Wench,
My Soul grows ſad with troubles,
Sing, and diſperſe 'em if thou can'ſt: leave working.

SONG.

Orpheus with his Lute made Trees,
And the Mountain tops, that freeze,
Bow themſelves when he did ſing.
To his Muſick, Plants and Flowers
Ever ſpring, as Sun and Showers
There had made a laſting Spring.
Every thing that heard him play,
Even the Billows of the Sea,
Hung their Heads, and then lay by.
In ſweet Muſick is ſuch Art,
Killing care, and grief of heart,
Fall aſleep, or hearing dye.

Enter a Gentleman.

Quee. How now?

Gent. And't pleaſe your Grace, the two great Cardinals
Wait in the Preſence.

Queen. Would they ſpeak with me?

Gent. They will'd me ſay ſo, Madam.

Queen. Pray their Graces
To come near: what can be their buſineſs
With me, a poor weak woman, fal'n from favour,
I do not like their coming; now I think on't,
They ſhould be Good men, their affairs are righteous,
But, All Hoods make not Monks.

Enter the two Cardinals, Wolſey, and Campeius.

Wolſ. Peace to your Highneſs.

Qu. Your Graces find me here part of a Houſe wife,

(I would be all) againſt the worſt may happen:
What are your pleaſures with me, Reverend Lords?
Wol. May it pleaſe you, Noble Madam, to withdraw
Into your private Chamber; we ſhall give you
The full cauſe of our coming.
Queen. Speak it here.
There's nothing I have done yet o'my Conſcience
Deſerves a Corner: would all other Women
Could ſpeak this with as free a Soul, as I do:
My Lords, I care not (ſo much I am happy
Above a number) if my actions
Were try'd by every Tongue, every Eye ſaw 'em,
Envy and baſe opinion ſet againſt 'em,
I know my life ſo even. If your buſineſs
Seek me out, and that way I am Wife in;
Out with it boldly: Truth loves open dealing.
Car. Tanta eſt erga te mentis integritas (Regina Sereniſſima.)
Queen. Good my Lord, no Latine;
I am not ſuch a Truant ſince my coming,
As not to know the Language, I have liv'd in:
A ſtrange Tongue makes my cauſe more ſtrange, ſuſpitious:
Pray ſpeak in Engliſh; here are ſome will thank you,
If you ſpeak truth, for their poor Miſtreſs ſake;
Believe me ſhe has had much wrong. Lord Cardinal,
The willing'ſt ſin I ever yet committed,
May be abſolv'd in Engliſh.
Card. Noble Lady,
I am ſorry my integrity ſhould breed
(And ſervice to his Majeſty and you)
So deep ſuſpition, where all Faith was meant;
We come not by the way of Accuſation,
To taint that honour every good Tongue bleſſes;
Nor to betray you any way to ſorrow,
You have too much, good Lady: But to know
How you ſtand minded in the weighty difference
Between the King and you, and to deliver
(Like free and honeſt men) our juſt opinions,
And comforts to your cauſe.
Camp. Moſt honoured Madam,
My Lord of York, out of his Noble nature,
Zeal and Obedience he ſtill bore your Grace,
Forgetting (like a good man) your late Cenſure
Both of his truth and him (which was too far)
Offers, as I do, in a ſign of peace,
His Service, and his Counſel.
Queen. To betray me.
My Lords, I thank you both for your good wills,
Ye ſpeak like honeſt men, (pray God ye prove ſo)
But how to make ye ſuddenly an Anſwer
In ſuch a point of weight, ſo near mine Honour,
(More near my Life, I fear) with my weak wit;
And to ſuch men of Gravity and Learning;
In truth I know not. I was ſet at work
Among my Maids, full little (God knows) looking
Either for ſuch man, or ſuch buſineſs;
For her ſake that I have been, for I feel
The laſt fit of my Greatneſs; good your Graces
Let me have time and Council for my Cauſe:
Alas, I am a Woman friendleſs, hopeleſs.
Wol. Madam,
You wrong the Kings love with theſe fears,
Your hopes and friends are infinite.
Queen. In England,
But little for my profit: can you think, Lord,
That any Engliſh-man dare give me Counſel?
Or be a known friend 'gainſt his Highneſs pleaſure,
(Though he be grown ſo deſperate to be honeſt)
And live a Subject? Nay, forſooth my Friends,
They that muſt weigh out my afflictions,
They that my truſt muſt grow to, live not here,
They are (as all my other comforts) far hence
In mine own Country, Lords.
Camp. I would your Grace
Would leave your griefs, and take my Counſel.
Queen. How, Sir?
Camp. Put your main cauſe into the King's protection,
He's loving and moſt gracious. 'Twill be much
Both for your Honour better, and your Cauſe:
For if the Tryal of the Law o're-take ye,
You'l part away diſgrac'd.
Wol. He tells you rightly.
Queen. Ye tell me what ye wiſh for both, my ruin:
Is this your Chriſtian Counſel? Out upon ye,
Heaven is above all yet; there ſits a Judge,
That no King can corrupt.
Camp. Your rage miſtakes us.
Queen. The more ſhame for ye; Holy men I thought ye,
Upon my Soul, two Reverend Cardinal Vertues:
But Cardinal Sins, and hollow hearts I fear ye:
Mend 'em for ſhame, my Lords: Is this your comfort?
The Cordial that ye bring a wretched Lady?
A woman loſt among ye, laugh'd at, ſcorn'd?
I will not wiſh ye half my miſeries,
I have more Charity. But ſay I warn'd ye;
Take heed, for Heavens ſake take heed, leaſt at once
The burthen of my ſorrows fall upon ye.
Car. Madam, this is a meer diſtraction,
You turn the good we offer into envy.
Queen. Ye turn me into nothing. Woe upon ye,
And all ſuch falſe profeſſors. Would you have me
(If you have any Juſtice, any Pity,
If ye be any thing, but Churchmens habit)
Put my ſick cauſe into his hands that hates me?
Alas, ha's baniſh'd me his Bed already,
His Love too, long ago. I am old, my Lords,
And all the Fellowſhip I hold now with him
Is only by Obedience. What can happen
To me, above this wretchedneſs? All your Studies
Make me a Curſe, like this:
Camp. Your tears are worſe.
Qu. Have I liv'd thus long (let me ſpeak my ſelf,
Since Virtue finds no Friends) a Wife, a true one?
A Woman (I dare ſay without Vain-glory)
Never yet branded with ſuſpition?
Have I, with all my full Affections
Still met the King? Lov'd him next Heav'n? Obey'd him?
Been (out of fondneſs) ſuperſtitious to him?
Almoſt forgot my Prayers to content him?
And am I thus rewarded? 'tis not well, Lords.
Bring me a conſtant woman to her Husband,
One that ne're dream'd a Joy, beyond his pleaſure:
And to that Woman (when ſhe has done moſt)
Yet will I add an Honour; a great Patience.
Car. Madam, you wander from the good
We aim at.
Queen. My Lord,
I dare not make my ſelf ſo guilty,
To give up willingly that Noble Title
Your Maſter wed me to: nothing but death
Shall e're divorce my Dignities.
Card. Pray, hear me.
Qu. Would I had never trod this Engliſh Earth,
Or felt the Flatteries that grow upon it:
Ye have Angels Faces, but Heaven knows your hearts
What ſhall become of me now, wretched Lady?
I am the moſt unhappy Woman living.
Alas (poor Wenches) where are now your Fortunes?
Ship-wrack'd upon a Kingdom, where no Pity,
No Friends, no Hope, no Kindred weep for me?
Almoſt no Grave allow'd me? Like the Lilly,
That once was Miſtreſs of the Field, and flouriſh'd,
I'le hang my head, and periſh.
Car. If your Grace
Could but be brought to know our ends are honeſt,
You'l feel more comfort. Why ſhould we (good Lady)
Upon what cauſe wrong you? Alas, our Places,
The way of our Profeſſion is againſt it;
We are to cure ſuch ſorrows, not to ſow 'em.

For

For goodneſs ſake conſider what you do,
How you may hurt your ſelf, ay, undo it:
Grow from the Kings Acquaintance, by this Carriage.
The hearts of Princes kiſs Obedience,
So much they love it. But to ſtubborn Spirits,
They ſwell and grow as terrible as ſtorms.
I know you have a gentle, noble temper,
A Soul as even as a Calm; Pray think us,
Thoſe we profeſs, Peace-makers, Friends, and Servants.
Camp. Madam, you'll find it ſo:
You wrong your Vertues
With theſe weak Womens fears. A Noble Spirit,
As yours was, put into you ever caſts
Such doubts as falſe Coyne from it. The King loves you,
Beware you loſe it not: For us (if you pleaſe
To truſt us in your buſineſs) we are ready
To uſe our utmoſt Studies in your Service.
Qu. Do what you will, my Lords:
And pray forgive me,
If I have us'd my ſelf unmannerly;
You know I am a Woman lacking wit
To make a ſeemly anſwer to ſuch perſons.
Pray do my ſervice to his Majeſty,
He has my Heart yet, and ſhall have my Prayers
While I ſhall have my Life. Come, Reverend Fathers,
Beſtow your Counſells on me. She now begs
That little thought when ſhe ſet footing here,
She ſhould have bought her Dignities ſo dear. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter the Duke of Norfolk, Duke of Suffolk, Lord Surrey, and Lord Chamberlain.

Norf. If you will now unite in your Complaints,
And force them with a Conſtancy, the Cardinal
Cannot ſtand under them. If you omit
The offer of this time, I cannot promiſe,
But that you ſhall ſuſtain moe new diſgraces,
With theſe you bear already.
Sur. I am joyful
To meet the leaſt occaſion, that may give me
Remembrance of my Father-in-Law the Duke,
To be reveng'd on him.
Suf. Which of the Peers
Have uncontemn'd gone by him, or at leaſt
Strangely neglected? When did he regard
The ſtamp of Nobleneſs in any perſon
Out of himſelf?
Cham. My Lords, you ſpeak your pleaſures:
What he deſerves of you and me, I know:
What we can do to him (though now the time Gives way to us) I much fear. If you cannot Bar his acceſs to th' King, never attempt
Any thing on him: for he hath a witchcraft
Over the King in's Tongue.
Norf. O fear him not,
His ſpell in that is out: the King hath found
Matter againſt him, that for ever mars
The Honey of his Language. No, he's ſetl'd
(Not to come off) in his diſpleaſure.
Sur. Sir,
I ſhould be glad to hear ſuch News as this
Once every hour.
Norf. Believe it, this is true.
In the Divorce, his contrary proceedings
Are all unfolded: wherein he appears,
As I would wiſh mine Enemy.
Sur. How came
His Practices to light?
Suf. Moſt ſtrangely.
Sur. O how? how?
Suf. The Cardinals Letters to the Pope miſcarried,
And came to th' eye oth' King, wherein was read
How that the Cardinal did intreat his Holineſs
To ſtay the Judgment oth' Divorce; for if
It did take place, I do (quoth he) perceive
My King is tangled in affection to
A Creature of the Queens, Lady Anne Bullen.
Sur. Ha's the King this?
Suf. Believe it.
Sur. Will this work?
Cham. The King in this perceives him, how he coaſts
And hedges his own way. But in this point,
All his tricks founder, and he brings his Phyſick
After his Patients death; the King already
Hath married the fair Lady.
Sur. Would he had.
Suf. May you be happy in your wiſh, my Lord,
For I profeſs you have it.
Sur. Now all my joy
Trace the Conjunction.
Suf. My Amen to't.
Nor. All mens.
Suf. There's order given for her Coronation:
Marry this is yet but young, and may be left
To ſome ears unrecounted. But, my Lords,
She is a gallant Creature, and compleat
In mind and feature, I perſwade me from her
Will fall ſome bleſſing to this Land, which ſhall
In it be memoriz'd.
Sur. But will the King
Digeſt this Letter of the Cardinals?
The Lord forbid.
Nor. Marry, Amen.
Suf. No, no:
There be moe Waſps that buz about his Noſe,
Will make this ſting the ſooner. Cardinal Campeius,
Is ſtoln away to Rome, hath ta'ne no leave,
Ha's left the cauſe to th' King unhandled, and
Is poſted as the Agent of our Cardinal,
To ſecond all his plot. I do aſſure you,
The King cry'd Ha, at this.
Cham. Now God incenſe him.
And let him cry Ha, louder.
Norf. But, my Lord,
When returns Cranmer?
Suf. He is return'd in his Opinions, which
Have ſatisfi'd the King for his Divorce,
Together with all famous Colledges
Almoſt in Chriſtendom: ſhortly (I believe)
His ſecond Marriage ſhall be publiſhed, and
Her Coronation. Katharine no more
Shall be call'd Queen, but Princeſs Dowager,
A Widow to Prince Arthur.
Nor. This ſame Cranmer's
A worthy Fellow, and hath ta'ne much pain
In the Kings buſineſs.
Suf. He has, and we ſhall ſee him
For it an Arch-Biſhop.
Nor. So I hear.
Suf. 'Tis ſo.
Enter Wolſey and Cromwel.
The Cardinal.
Nor. Obſerve, obſerve, he's mocdy.
Car. The Packquet, Cromwel,
Gav't you the King?
Crom. To his own hand, in's Bed-chamber.
Card. Look'd he oth' inſide of the Paper?
Crom. Preſently,
He did unſeal them, and the firſt he view'd,
He did it with a ſerious mind: a heed
Was in his Countenance. You he bad
Attend him here this Morning.
Card. Is he ready to come abroad?
Crom. I think by this he is.

Card. Leave me a while. [Exit Cromwel.
It ſhall be to the Dutcheſs of Alanſon,
The French Kings Siſter; He ſhall marry her.
Anne Bullen? No: I'le no Anne Bullens for him,
There's more in't than fair Viſage. Bullen?
No, we'll no Bullens: Speedily I wiſh
To hear from Rome: The Marchioneſs of Pembrook?
Nor. He's diſcontented.
Suf. May be he hears the King
Does whet his anger to him.
Sur. Sharp enough,
Lord for thy Juſtice.
Car. The late Queens Gentlewoman?
A Knights Daughter
To be her Miſtreſs's Miſtreſs? the Queen's Queen?
This Candle burns not clear, 'tis I muſt ſnuff it,
Then out it goes. What though I know her virtuous
And well-deſerving? yet I know her for
A ſpleeny Lutheran, and not wholſome to
Our cauſe, that ſhe ſhould lie i'th' boſom of
Our hard-rul'd King. Again, there is ſprung up
An Heretick, an Arch-one; Cranmer, one
Hath craw'ld into the favour of the King,
And is his Oracle.
Nor. He's vex'd at ſomething.
Enter King reading of a Schedule.
Sur. I would 'twere ſomething that would fret the ſtring
The Maſter-cord on's heart.
Suf. The King, the King.
King. What piles of Wealth hath he accumulated
To his own portion? and what expence by th' hour
Seems to flow from him? how, i'th' name of Thrift
Does he rake this together? Now, my Lords,
Saw you the Cardinal?
Nor. My Lord, we have
Stood here obſerving him. Some ſtrange Commotion
Is in his brain: he bites his lip and ſtarts,
Stops on a ſudden, looks upon the ground,
Then lays his Finger on his Temple: ſtraight
Springs out into faſt gate, then ſtops again,
Strikes his breaſt hard, and anon, he caſts
His Eye againſt the Moon, in moſt ſtrange Poſtures
We have ſeen him ſet himſelf.
King. It may well be,
There is a Mutiny in's mind. This morning,
Papers of State he ſent me to peruſe,
As I requir'd: and wot you what I found
There (on my Conſcience put unwittingly)
Forſooth an Inventory, thus importing
The ſeveral parcels of his Plate, his treaſure,
Rich Stuffs and Ornaments of Houſhold, which
I find at ſuch a proud Rate, that it out-ſpeaks
Poſſeſſion of a Subject.
Nor. It's Heavens will,
Some Spirit put this Paper in the Packquet,
To bleſs your Eye withal.
King. If we did think
His Contemplations were above the Earth,
And fix'd on ſpiritual objects, he ſhould ſtill
Dwell in his Muſings, but I am afraid
His thinkings are below the Moon, nor worth
His ſerious conſidering.

King takes his Seat, whiſpers Lovel, who goes to the Cardinal.

Car. Heaven forgive me,
Ever God bleſs your Highneſs.
King. Good my Lord,
You are full of Heavenly ſtuff, and bear the Inventory
Of your beſt Grace, in your mind; the which
You were now running o're: you have ſcarce time
To ſteal from Spiritual leiſure, a brief ſpan
To keep your earthly Audit, ſure in that
I deem you an ill Husband, and am glad
To have you therein my Companion.
Car. Sir,
For Holy Offices I have a time; a time
To think upon the part of buſineſs, which
I bear i'th' State: and Nature does require
Her times of preſervation, which perforce
I her frail ſon, among'ſt my Brethren mortal,
Muſt give my tendance to.
King. You have ſaid well.
Car. And ever may your Highneſs yoke together,
(As I will lend you cauſe) my doing well,
With my well ſaying.
King. 'Tis well ſaid again,
And 'tis a kind of good deed to ſay well,
And yet words are no deeds. My Father lov'd you,
He ſaid he did, and with this deed did Crown
His ſword upon you. Since I had my Office,
I have kept you next my Heart, have not alone
Imploy'd you where high Profits might come home,
But par'd my preſent Havings, to beſtow
My Bounties upon you.
Car. What ſhould this mean?
Sur. The Lord increaſe this buſineſs.
King. Have I not made you
The Prime man of the State? I pray you tell me.
If what I now pronounce, you have found true:
And if you may confeſs it, ſay withall
If you are to bound to us, or no. What ſay you?
Car. My Soveraign, I confeſs your Royal graces
Showr'd on me daily, have been more than could
My ſtudied purpoſes require, which went
Beyond all man's endeavours. My endeavours,
Have ever come too ſhort of my deſires,
Yet fill'd with my Abilities: Mine own ends
Have been ſo, that evermore they pointed
To th' good of your moſt Sacred Perſon, and
The profit of the State: For your great Graces
Heap'd upon me (poor Undeſerver) I
Can nothing render but Allegiant thanks,
My Prayers to Heaven for you; my Loyalty
Which ever has, and ever ſhall be growing,
'Till death (that Winter) kill it.
King. Fairly anſwer'd:
A Loyal and Obedient Subject is
Therein illuſtrated, the Honour of it
Does pay the Act of it, as i'th' contrary
The foulneſs is the puniſhment. I preſume,
That as my hand has open'd Bounty to you,
My Heart dropp'd Love, my Pow'r rain'd Honour, more
On you, than any: So your Hand, and Heart.
Your Brain, and every Function of your Power,
Should, notwithſtanding that your bond of duty,
As 'twere in Loves particular, be more
To me, your Friend, than any.
Car. I do profeſs,
That for your Highneſs good, I ever labour'd
More than mine own: that am, have, and will be (Though all the World ſhould crack their duty to you,
And throw it from their Soul; though perils did
Abound, as thick as thought could make 'em, and
Appear in forms more horrid, yet, my Duty
As doth a Rock againſt the chiding Flood,
Should the approach of this wild River break)
And ſtand unſhaken yours.
King. 'Tis Nobly ſpoken;
Take notice Lords, he has a Loyal Breaſt,
For you have ſeen him open't. Read o're this,
And after this, and then to Breakfaſt with
What appetite you have.

Exit King, frowning upon the Cardinal, the Nobles throng after him whiſpering, and ſmiling.

Car. What ſhould this mean?

What

What ſudden Anger's this? How have I reap'd it?
He parted frowning from me, as if Ruine
Leap'd from his Eyes. So looks the chafed Lion
Upon the daring Huntſman that has gall'd him,
Then makes him nothing. I muſt read this Paper:
I fear the Story of his Anger. 'Tis ſo:
This Paper has undone me: 'Tis th' Account
Of all that World of Wealth I have drawn together
For mine own ends, (indeed to gain the Popedom
And ſee my Friends in Rome.) O Negligence!
Fit for a Fool to fall by: What croſs Devil
Made me put this main Secret in the Packet
I ſent the King? Is there no way to cure this?
No new device to beat this from his Brains?
I know 'twill ſtir him ſtrongly; yet I know
A way, if it take right, in ſpight of Fortune
Will bring me off again. What's this? To the Pope?
The Letter (as I live) with all the Buſineſs
I writ to's Holineſs. Nay then farewel:
I have touch'd the higheſt point of all my Greatneſs,
And from that full Meridian of my Glory,
I haſte now to my Setting, I ſhall fall
Like a bright Exhalation in the Evening,
And no man ſee me more.

Enter to Wolſey, the Dukes of Norfolk and Suffolk, the Earl of Surrey, and the Lord Chamberlain.

Norf. Hear the King's pleaſure, Cardinal,
Who commands you
To render up the great Seal preſently
Into our hands, and to confine your ſelf
To Aſher-houſe, my Lord of Wincheſter's,
'Till you hear further from his Highneſs.
Car. Stay:
Where's your Commiſſion? Lords, words cannot carry
Authority ſo mighty.
Suff. Who dare croſs 'em,
Bearing the Kings will from his mouth expreſsly?
Car. Till I find more than will, or words to do it,
(I mean your Malice) know, Officious Lords,
I dare, and muſt deny it. Now I feel
Of what courſe Metal ye are molded, Envy:
How eagerly ye follow my Diſgrace
As if it fed ye, and how ſleek and wanton
Ye appear in every thing may bring my ruine?
Follow your envious courſes, Men of Malice;
You have a Chriſtian warrant for 'em, and no doubt
In time will find their fit Rewards. That Seal
You ask with ſuch a violence, the King
(Mine, and your Maſter) with his own hand gave me:
Bad me enjoy it, with the Place, and Honours
During my life; and to confirm his goodneſs,
Ty'd it by Letters Patents. Now, who'l take it?
Sur. The King that gave it.
Car. It muſt be himſelf then.
Sur. Thou art a proud Traytor, Prieſt.
Car. Proud Lord, thou lyeſt:
Within theſe forty hours, Surrey durſt better
Have burnt that Tongue, than ſaid ſo.
Sur. Thy Ambition,
(Thou Scarlet ſinner) robb'd this bewailing Land
Of Noble Buckingham, my Father-in-law,
The Heads of all thy Brother Cardinals,
(With thee, and all thy beſt parts bound together)
Weigh'd not a Hair of his. Plague of your Policy,
You ſent me Deputy for Ireland,
Far for his ſuccour; from the King, from all
That might have mercy on the fault, thou gav'ſt him:
Whil'ſt your great Goodneſs, out of holy pity,
Abſolv'd him with an Ax.
Wol. This, and all elſe
This talking Lord can lay upon my credit,
I anſwer, is moſt falſe. The Duke by Law
Found his deſerts. How innocent I was
From any private malice in his end,
His Noble Jury, and foul Cauſe can witneſs.
If I lov'd many words, Lord, I ſhould tell you,
You have as little Honeſty, as Honour,
That in the way of Loyalty, and Truth
Toward the King, my ever Royal Maſter,
Dare mate a Sounder man than Surrey can be,
And all that love his follies.
Sur. By my Soul,
Your long Coat (Prieſt) protects you,
Thou ſhould'ſt feel
My Sword i'th' life blood of thee elſe. My Lords,
Can ye endure to hear this Arrogance?
And from this Fellow? If we live thus tamely,
To be thus Jaded by a piece of Scarlet,
Farewel Nobility: let his Grace go forward,
And dare us with his Cap, like Larks.
Car. All Goodneſs
Is poiſon to thy Stomack.
Sur. Yes, that Goodneſs
Of gleaning all the Lands-wealth into one,
Into your own hands (Card'nal) by Extortion:
The goodneſs of your intercepted Packets
You writ to the Pope, againſt the King: your goodneſs,
Since you provoke me, ſhall be moſt notorious.
My Lord of Norfolk, as you are truly noble,
As you reſpect the Common good, the State
Of our deſpis'd Nobility, our Iſſues,
(Who, if he live, will ſcarce be Gentlemen)
Produce the grand ſum of his ſins, the Articles
Collected from his life. I'le ſtartle you
Worſe than the Sacring Bell, when the brown Wench
Lay kiſſing in your arms, Lord Cardinal.
Car. How much methinks I could deſpiſe this man,
But that I am bound in Charity againſt it.
Nor. Thoſe Articles, my Lord, are in the Kings hand:
But thus much, they are foul ones.
Wol. So much fairer
And ſpotleſs ſhall mine Innocence ariſe,
When the King knows my Truth.
Sur. This cannot ſave you:
I thank my Memory, I yet remember
Some of theſe Articles, and out they ſhall.
Now, if you can bluſh, and cry Guilty, Cardinal,
You'l ſhew a little Honeſty.
Wol. Speak on, Sir,
I dare your worſt Objections: If I bluſh,
It is to ſee a Nobleman want Manners.
Sur. I had rather want thoſe, than my Head;
Have at you.
Firſt, that without the Kings aſſent or knowledge,
You wrought to be a Legate, by which power
You maim'd the Juriſdiction of all Biſhops.
Nor. Then, that in all you writ to Rome, or elſe
To Foreign Princes, Ego & Rex meus
Was ſtill inſcrib'd: in which you brought the King
To be your Servant.
Suff. Then, that without the knowledge
Either of King or Council, when you went
Embaſſador to the Emperour, you made bold
To carry into Flanders the Great Seal.
Sur. Item, You ſent a large Commiſſion
To Gregory de Caſſado, to conclude
Without the Kings will, or the States allowance,
A League between his Highneſs, and Ferrara.
Suf. That out of meer Ambition, you have caus'd
Your Holy-Hat to be ſtamp'd on the Kings Coin.
Sur. Then, that you have ſent innumerable ſubſtance,
(By what means got, I leave to your own Conſcience)
To furniſh Rome, and to prepare the ways
You have for Dignities, to the meer undoing
Of all the Kingdom. Many more there are,
Which ſince they are of you, and odious,

I will

I will not taint my mouth with.
Cham. O my Lord,
Preſs not a falling man too far; 'tis Virtue:
His faults lye open to the Laws, let them
(Not you) correct him. My heart weeps to ſee him
So little, of his great Self.
Sur. I forgive him.
Suff. Lord Cardinal, the Kings further pleaſure is,
Becauſe all thoſe things you have done of late
By your power Legantine within this Kingdom,
Fall into the compaſs of a Præmunire;
That therefore ſuch a Writ be ſued againſt you,
To forfeit all your Goods, Lands, Tenements,
Caſtles, and whatſoever, and to be
Out of the Kings Protection. This is my Charge.
Norf. And ſo we'l leave you to your Meditations
How to live better. For your ſtubborn anſwer
About the giving back the great Seal to us,
The King ſhall know it, and (no doubt) ſhall thank you.
So fare you well, my little good Lord Cardinal.
[Exeunt all but Wolſey.
Wol. So farewel to the little good you bear me.
Farewel? A long farewel to all my Greatneſs.
This is the ſtate of Man; to day he puts forth
The tender leaves of Hopes, to morrow Bloſſoms,
And bears his bluſhing Honours thick upon him:
The third day comes a Froſt, a killing Froſt,
And when he thinks, good eaſie man, full ſurely
His Greatneſs is a ripening, nips his Root,
And then he falls, as I do. I have ventur'd
Like little wanton Boys that ſwim on Bladders:
This many Summers in a Sea of Glory,
But far beyond my depth: my high-blown Pride
At length broke under me, and now has left me
Weary, and old with ſervice, to the mercy
Of a rude ſtream, that muſt for ever hide me.
Vain pomp, and glory of the World, I hate ye,
I feel my heart new open'd. Oh how wretched
Is that poor man that hangs on Princes Favours?
There is betwixt that ſmile we would aſpire to,
That ſweet Aſpect of Princes, and their ruine,
More pangs, and fears than Wars or Women have:
And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer,
Never to hope again.
Enter Cromwel ſtanding amaz'd.
Why how now Cromwel?
Crom. I have no power to ſpeak, Sir.
Car. What, amaz'd
At my misfortunes? Can thy Spirit wonder
A great man ſhould decline. Nay, and you weep
I am fal'n indeed.
Crom. How does your Grace?
Card. Why well:
Never ſo truly happy, my good Cromwel,
I know my ſelf now, and I feel within me,
A Peace above all Earthly Dignities,
A ſtill and quiet Conſcience. The King has cur'd me,
I humbly thank his Grace: and from theſe ſhoulders
'This ruin'd Pillet, out of pity, taken
A load would ſink a Navy, (too much honour.)
O 'tis a burden, Cromwel, 'tis a burden
Too heavy for a man, that hopes for Heaven.
Crom. I am glad your Grace
Has made that right uſe of it.
Card. I hope, I have:
I am able now (methinks)
(Out of a fortitude of Soul, I feel)
To endure more Miſeries, and greater far
Than my weak-hearted Enemies dare offer.
What news abroad?
Crom. The heavieſt, and the worſt,
Is your diſpleaſure with the King.
Card. God bleſs him.
Crom. The next is, that Sir Thomas Moor is choſen
Lord Chancellor, in your place.
Card. That's ſomewhat ſuddain.
But he's a Learned man. May he continue
Long in his Highneſs favour, and do Juſtice
For Truth's-ſake, and his Conſcience; that his bones,
When he has run his courſe, and ſleeps in Bleſſings,
May have a Tomb of Orphans tears wept on him.
What more?
Crom. That Cranmer is returned with welcome;
Inſtall'd Lord Arch-biſhop of Canterbury.
Card. That's News indeed.
Crom. Laſt, that the Lady Ann,
Whom the King hath in ſecrecy long married,
This day was view'd in open, as his Queen,
Going to Chappel: and the voice is now
Only about her Coronation.
Card. There was the weight that pull'd me down.
O Cromwel,
The King has gone beyond me: All my Glories
In that one Woman I have loſt for ever.
No Sun ſhall ever uſher forth mine Honours,
Or gild again the Noble Troops that waited
Upon my ſmiles. Go get thee from me, Cromwel,
I am a poor fallen man unworthy now
To be thy Lord and Maſter. Seek the King,
(That Sun, I pray may never ſet) I have told him,
What, and how true thou art; he will advance thee:
Some little memory of me, will ſtir him
(I know his Noble Nature) not to let
Thy hopeful ſervice periſh too. Good Cromwel,
Neglect him not; make uſe now, and provide
For thine own future ſafety.
Crom. O my Lord,
Muſt I then leave you? Muſt I needs forgo
So good, ſo noble, and ſo true a Maſter?
Bear witneſs, all that have not hearts of Iron,
With what a ſorrow Cromwel leaves his Lord.
The King ſhall have my ſervice; but my prayers
For ever and for ever ſhall be yours.
Card. Cromwel, I did not think to ſhed a tear
In all my miſeries: but thou haſt forc'd me
(Out of thy honeſt truth) to play the Woman.
Let's dry our Eyes: And thus far hear me, Cromwel,
And when I am forgotten, as I ſhall be,
And ſleep in dull cold Marble, where no mention
Of me more muſt be heard of: Say, I taught thee;
Say, Wolſey, that once trod the ways of Glory,
And ſounded all the Depths and Shoals of Honour,
Found thee a way (out of his wrack) to riſe in:
A ſure, and ſafe one, though thy Maſter miſt it.
Mark but my Fall, and that that Ruin'd me:
Cromwel, I charge thee, fling away Ambition,
By that ſin fell the Angels: how can man then
(The Image of his Maker) hope to win it?
Love thy ſelf laſt, cheriſh thoſe hearts that hate thee:
Corruption win not more than Honeſty,
Still in thy right hand, carry gentle peace
To ſilence envious tongues. Be juſt, and fear not:
Let all the ends thou aim'ſt at, be thy Countries,
Thy God's and Truth's: then if thou fall'ſt (O Cromwel)
Thou fall'ſt a bleſſed Martyr.
Serve the King: and prithee lead me in:
There take an Inventory of all I have,
To the laſt Penny, 'tis the Kings. My Robe,
And my Integrity to Heaven, is all,
I dare now call mine own. O Cromwel, Cromwel,
Had I but ſerv'd my God, with half the Zeal
I ſerv'd my King: he would not in mine age
Have left me naked to mine Enemies.
Crom. Good Sir, have patience.
Card. So I have. Farewel
The hopes of Court, my hopes in Heaven do dwell.
[Exeunt.

Actus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter two Gentlemen, meeting one another.

1. Y'are well met once again.
2. So are you.
1. You come to take your Stand here, and behold
The Lady Anne paſs from her Coronation.
2. 'Tis all my buſineſs. At our laſt encounter,
The Duke of Buckingham came from his Tryal.
1. 'Tis very true. But that time offer'd ſorrow,
This, general Joy.
2. 'Tis well: the Citizens
I am ſure have ſhewn at full their Royal minds,
As let 'em have their rights, they are ever forward
In Celebration of this day with Shews,
Pageants, and Sights of Honour.
1. Never greater,
Nor I'le aſſure you better taken, Sir.
2. May I be bold to ask what that contains,
That Paper in your hands?
1. Yes, 'tis the Liſt
Of thoſe that claim their Offices this day,
By cuſtom of the Coronation.
The Duke of Suffolk is the firſt, and claims
To be high Steward; next the Duke of Norfolk,
He to be Earl Marſhal: you may read the reſt.
2. I thank you, Sir: Had I not known thoſe cuſtoms,
I ſhould have been beholding to your Paper:
But I beſeech you what's become of Katharine,
The Princeſs Dowager? How goes her buſineſs?
1. That I can tell you too: the Archbiſhop
Of Canterbury, accompanied with other
Learned, and Reverend Fathers of his Order,
Held a late Court at Dunſtable, ſix miles off
From Ampthil, where the Princeſs lay, to which
She was often cited by them, but appear'd not:
And to be ſhort, for not Appearance, and
The Kings late ſcruple, by the main aſſent
Of all theſe Learned men, ſhe was Divorc'd,
And the late Marriage made of none effect:
Since which, ſhe was remov'd to Kimbolton,
Where ſhe remains now ſick.
1. Alas good Lady.
The Trumpets ſound: ſtand cloſe,
The Queen is coming. [Ho-boys.

The Order of the Coronation.

1. A lively Flouriſh of Trumpets.
2. Then two Judges.
3. Lord Chancellor, with Purſe and Mace before him.
4. Quiriſters ſinging. [Muſick.
5. Mayor of London, bearing the Mace. Then Garter in his Coat of Arms, and on his head he wore a Gilt Copper Crown.
6. Marqueſs of Dorſet, bearing a Scepter of Gold, on his Head a Demi-Coronal of Gold. With him, the Earl of Surrey, bearing the Rod of Silver with the Dove, Crown'd with an Earl's Coronet. Collars of Eſſes.
7. Duke of Suffolk, in his Robe of Eſtate, his Coronet on his Head, bearing a long white Wand, as High Steward. With him the Duke of Norfolk, with the Rod of Marſhalſhip, A Coronet on his Head. Collars of Eſſes.
8. A Canopy born by four of the Cinque-ports, under it the Queen in her Robe; in her hair, richly adorned with Pearl, Crowned. On each ſide her the Biſhops of London and Wincheſter.
9. The old Dutcheſs of Norfolk, in a Coronal of Gold, wrought with Flowers, bearing the Queens Train.
10. Certain Ladies or Counteſſes, with plain Circlets of Gold without Flowers.

Exeunt, firſt paſſing over the Stage in Order and State, and then, A great Flouriſh of Trumpets.

2. A Royal Train, believe me: theſe I know:
Who's that bears the Scepter?
1. Marqueſs Dorſet,
And that the Earl of Surrey, with the Rod.
2. A bold brave Gentleman. That ſhould be
The Duke of Suffolk.
1. 'Tis the ſame: High Steward.
2. And that my Lord of Norfolk?
1. Yes.
2. Heaven bleſs thee,
Thou haſt the ſweeteſt face I ever look'd on.
Sir, as I have a Soul, ſhe is an Angel;
Our King has all the Indies in his Arms,
And more, and richer, when he ſtrains that Lady,
I cannot blame his Conſcience.
1. They that bear
The Cloath of Honor over her, are four Barons
Of the Cinque-Ports.
2. Thoſe men are happy,
And ſo are all, are near her,
I take it, ſhe that carries up the Train,
Is that old Noble Lady, Dutcheſs of Norfolk.
1. It is, and all the reſt are Counteſſes.
2. Their Coronets ſay ſo. Theſe are ſtars indeed,
And ſometimes falling ones.
1. No more of that.

Enter a third Gentleman.

1. God ſave you Sir. Where have you been broiling?
3. Among the croud i' th' Abby, where a finger
Could not be wedg'd in more: I am ſtifled
With the meer rankneſs of their joy.
2. You ſaw the Ceremony?
3. I did.
1. How was it?
3. Well worth the ſeeing.
2. Good Sir, ſpeak it to us.
3. As well as I am able. The rich ſtream
Of Lords, and Ladies, having brought the Queen
To a prepar'd place in the Quire, fell off
A diſtance from her; while her Grace ſat down
To reſt a while, ſome half an hour, or ſo,
In a rich Chair of State, oppoſing freely
The Beauty of her Perſon to the People.
Believe me, Sir, ſhe is the goodlieſt Woman
That ever lay by man: which when the people
Had the full view of, ſuch a noiſe aroſe,
As the ſhrowds make at Sea in a ſtiff Tempeſt,
As loud, and to as many tunes. Hats, Cloaks,
Doublets, (I think) flew up, and had their Faces
Been looſe, this day they had been loſt. Such joy
I never ſaw before. Great-belly'd Women,
That had not half a week to go, like Rams
In the old time of War, ſhould ſhake the preſs
And make 'em reel before 'em. No man living
Could ſay, this is my Wife there, all were woven
So ſtrangely in one piece.
2. But what follow'd?
3. At length, her Grace roſe, and with modeſt paces
Came to the Altar, where ſhe kneel'd, and Saint-like
Caſt her fair Eyes to Heaven, and pray'd devoutly.
Then roſe again, and bow'd her to the people:
When by the Arch-biſhop of Canterbury,
She had all the Royal makings of a Queen;
As holy Oyl, Edward Confeſſor's Crown,
The Rod, and Bird of Peace, and all ſuch Emblems
Laid Nobly on her: which perform'd, the Quire
With all the choiceſt Muſick of the Kingdom,
Together ſung Te Deum. So ſhe parted,
And with the ſame full State pac'd back again

To York-Place, where the Feast is held.
1. Sir,
You must no more call it York-place, that's past.
For since the Cardinal fell, that title's lost,
'Tis now the King's, and call'd Whitehal.
3. I know it:
But 'tis so lately alter'd, that the old name
Is fresh about me.
2. What two Reverend Bishops
Were those, that went on each side of the Queen?
3 Stokesly and Gardiner, the one of Wincheſter,
Newly prefer'd from the Kings Secretary:
The other, London.
2. He of Wincheſter
Is held no great good Lover of the Archbishop,
The virtuous Cranmer.
3 All the Land knows that:
However yet there is no great breach, when it comes,
Cranmer will find a Friend will not shrink from him.
2. Who may be that, I pray you.
3. Thomas Cromwel,
A man in much esteem with th' King, and truly
A worthy Friend. The King has made him
Master o'th' Jewel House,
And one already of the Privy Councel.
2. He will deserve more.
3. Yes without all doubt.
Come Gentlemen, ye shall go my way,
Which is to th' Court, and there ye shall be my Guests:
Something I can command: as I walk thither
I'le tell ye more.
Both. You may command us, Sir. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Katharine Dowager, sick, led between Griffith her Gentleman-Usher, and Patience her Woman.

Grif. How do's your Grace?
Kath. O Griffith, sick to death:
My Legs like loaded Branches bow to th' Earth,
Willing to leave their burthen: Reach a Chair,
So now (methinks) I feel a little ease.
Did'st thou not tell me, Griffith, as thou lead'st me,
That the great Child of Honour, Cardinal Wolsey
Was dead?
Grif. Yes, Madam: but I think your Grace
Out of the pain you suffer'd, gave no ear to't.
Kath. Prithee, good Griffith, tell me how de dy'd.
If well, he stept before me happily
For my Example.
Grif. Well, the voice goes, Madam,
For after the stout Earl Northumberland
Arrested him at York, and brought him forward
As a man sorely tainted, to his Answer,
He fell sick suddenly, and grew so ill,
He could not sit his Mule.
Kath. Alas, Poor man.
Grif. At last, with easie Roads he came to Leicester,
Lodg'd in the Abby; where the reverend Abbot,
With all his Covent, honourably receiv'd him;
To whom he gave these words. O Father Abbot,
An old man broken with the storms of State,
Is come to lay his weary bones among ye:
Give him a little Earth for Charity.
So went to Bed; where eagerly his sickness
Pursu'd him still, and three nights after this,
About the hour of eight, which he himself
Foretold should be his last, full Repentance,
Continual Meditations, Tears, and Sorrows,
He gave his Honours to the world agen,
His blessed part to heaven, and slept in peace.
Kath. So may he rest,
His faults lie on him.
Yet thus far, Griffith, give me leave to speak him,
And yet with Charity: he was, a man
Of an unbounded Stomach, ever ranking
Himself with Princes. One that by suggestion
Ty'd all the Kingdom, Simony was fair play,
His own Opinion was his Law. I'th' Presence
He would say untruths, and be ever double
Both in his words, and meaning. He was never
(But where he meant to Ruin) Pitiful.
His Promises were, as he then was, Mighty:
But his Performance, as he is now, Nothing:
Of his own Body he was ill, and gave
The Clergy ill example.
Grif. Noble Madam:
Men's evil manners live in Brass, their Virtues
We write in Water. May it please your Highness
To hear me speak his Good now?
Kath. Yes, good Griffith,
I were malicious else.
Grif. This Cardinal,
Though from an humble Stock, undoubtedly
Was fashion'd to much Honour. From his Cradle
He was a Scholar, and a ripe, and good one:
Exceeding wise, fair spoken, and persuading:
Lofty, and sour to them that lov'd him not:
But to those men that sought him, sweet as Summer.
And though he were unsatisfied in getting,
(Which was a sin) yet in bestowing, Madam,
He was most Princely: Ever witness for him
Those twins of Learning, that he rais'd in you,
Ipswich and Oxford: one of which, fell with him,
Unwilling to out-live the good that did it.
The other (though unfinish'd) yet so Famous,
So excellent in Art, and still so rising,
That Christendom shall ever speak his Virtue.
His Overthrow heap'd happiness upon him:
For then, and not till then, he felt himself,
And found the Blessedness of being little.
And to add greater honours to his Age
Than man could give him; he dy'd, Fearing God.
Kath. After my death, I wish no other Herald,
No other Speaker of my living Actions,
To keep mine Honour from Corruption,
But such an honest Chronicler, as Griffith.
Whom I most hated living, thou hast made me
With thy Religious Truth and Modesty,
(Now in his Ashes) Honour: Peace be with him.
Patience, be near me still, and set me lower.
I have not long to trouble thee. Good Griffith,
Cause the Musicians play me that sad note
I nam'd my Knell; whil'st I sit meditating
On that Celestial Harmony, I go to.
Sad and solemn Musick.
Grif. She is asleep: Good wench, let's sit down quiet,
For fear we wake her. Softly, gentle Patience.

The Vision. Enter solemnly tripping one after another, six Personages, clad in white Robes, wearing on their head Garlands of Bays, and golden Vizards on their Faces, Branches of Bays or Palm in their hands. They first Congee unto her, then Dance: and at certain Changes, the first two hold a spare Garland over her Head, at which the other four make reverend Curtsies. Then the two, that held the Garland, deliver the same to the other next two, who observe the same order in their Changes, and holding the Garland over her Head. Which done, they deliver the same Garland to the last two, who likewise observe the same Order. At which (as it were by Inspiration) she makes (in her sleep) signs of rejoycing, and holdeth up her hands to Heaven. And so, in their Dancing vanish, carrying the Garland with them. The Musick continues.

Kath. Spirits of Peace, where are ye? are ye all gone?
And

And leave me here in wretchedneſs, behind ye?
Grif. Madam, we are here.
Kath. It is not you, I call for,
Saw ye none enter, ſince I ſlept?
Grif. None, Madam.
Kath. No? Saw you not even now a bleſſed Troop
Invite me to a Banquet, whoſe bright Faces
Caſt a thouſand Beams upon me, like the Sun?
They promis'd me eternal happineſs,
And brought me Garlands (Griffith) which I feel
I am not worthy yet to wear: I ſhall aſſuredly.
Grif. I am moſt joyful, Madam, ſuch good Dreams
Poſſeſs your Fancy.
Kath. Bid the Muſick leave,
They are harſh and heavy to me. [Muſick ceaſes.
Patience. Do you note
How much her Grace is alter'd on the ſudden?
How long her Face is drawn? How pale ſhe looks,
And of an earthy cold? Mark her Eyes.
Grif. She is going, Wench. Pray, pray.
Pati. Heaven comfort her.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. And't like your Grace——
Kath. You are a ſawcy Fellow,
Deſerve we no more Reverence?
Grif. You are to blame,
Knowing ſhe will not loſe her wonted Greatneſs
To uſe ſo rude behavior. Go to, kneel.
Meſ. I humbly do intreat your Highneſs Pardon,
My haſte made me unmannerly. There is ſtaying
A Gentleman ſent from the King, to ſee you.
Kath. Admit him entrance, Griffith. But this fellow
Let me ne're ſee again. [Exit Meſſenger.

Enter Lord Capuchius.

If my ſight fail me not,
You ſhould be Lord Ambaſſador from the Emperor,
My Royal Nephew, and your name Capuchius.
Cap. Madam, the ſame. Your Servant.
Kath. O my Lord,
The times and titles now are alter'd ſtrangely
With me, ſince firſt you knew me.
But I pray you,
What is your Pleaſure with me?
Cap. Noble Lady,
Firſt mine own ſervice to your Grace, the next
The Kings requeſt that I would viſit you,
Who grieves much for your weakneſs, and by me
Sends you his Princely commendations,
And heartily intreats you take good comfort.
Kath. O my good Lord, that comfort comes too late,
'Tis like a Pardon after Execution;
That gentle Phyſick given in time had cur'd me:
But now I am paſt all Comforts here, but Prayers.
How does his Highneſs?
Cap. Madam, in good health.
Kath. So may he ever do, and ever flouriſh,
When I ſhall dwell with Worms, and my poor Name
Baniſh'd the Kingdom. Patience, is that Letter,
I caus'd you write, yet ſent away.
Pat. No, Madam.
Kath. Sir, I moſt humbly pray you to deliver
This to my Lord the King.
Cap. Moſt willingly, Madam.
Kath. In which I have commended to his Goodneſs
The Model of our chaſte loves, his young Daughter,
The dews of Heaven fall thick in Bleſſings on her,
Beſeeching him to give her virtuous breeding.
She is young, and of a Noble modeſt Nature,
I hope ſhe will deſerve well, and a little
To love her for her Mother's ſake, that lov'd him,
Heaven knows how dearly.
My next poor Petition
Is, That his Noble Grace would have ſome pity
Upon my wretched Women, that ſo long
Have follow'd both my Fortunes, faithfully,
Of which there is not one, I dare avow
(And now I ſhould not lye) but well deſerve
For Virtue, and true Beauty of the Soul,
For Honeſty, and decent Carriage
A right good Husband (let him be a Noble)
And ſure thoſe men are happy, that ſhall have 'em.
The laſt is for my Men, they are the pooreſt,
(But Poverty could never draw 'em from me)
That they may have their wages duely paid 'em,
And ſomething over to remember me by.
If Heaven had pleas'd to have given me longer life
And able means, we had not parted thus.
Theſe are the whole Contents, and good my Lord,
By that you love the deareſt in this world,
As you wiſh Chriſtian peace to Souls departed,
Stand theſe poor Peoples Friend, and urge the King
To do me this laſt Right.
Cap. By Heaven I will,
Or let me loſe the Faſhion of a man.
Kath. I thank you, honeſt Lord. Remember me
In all humility unto his Highneſs:
Say, his long trouble now is paſſing
Out of this World. Tell him, in death I bleſt him
(For ſo I will:) mine Eyes grow dim. Farewel
My Lord. Griffith farewel. Nay, Patience,
You muſt not leave me yet. I muſt to Bed,
Call in more Women. When I am dead, good Wench,
Let me be us'd with Honour, ſtrew me over
With Maiden Flowers, that all the world may know
I was a chaſt Wife to my Grave: Embalm me,
Then lay me forth (although un-Queen'd) yet like
A Queen, and Daughter to a King inter me.
I can no more.

[Exeunt leading Katharine.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Gardiner Biſhop of Wincheſter, a Page with a Torch before him, met by Sir Thomas Lovel.

Gard. It's one a clock Boy, is't not?
Boy. It hath ſtruck.
Gard. Theſe ſhould be hours for neceſſities,
Not for delights: times to repair our Nature
With comforting repoſe, and not for us
To waſte theſe times. Good hour of night, Sir Thomas,
Whither ſo late?
Lov. Came you from the King, my Lord?
Gard. I did, Sir Thomas, and left him at Primero
With the Duke of Suffolk.
Lov. I muſt to him too,
Before he go to Bed. I'le take my leave.
Gard. Not yet, Sir Thomas Lovel, What's the matter?
It ſeems you are in haſte: and if there be
No great offence belongs to't, give your Friend
Some touch of your late buſineſs: Affairs that walk,
(As they ſay Spirits do) at midnight, have
In them a wilder Nature, than the buſineſs
That ſeeks diſpatch by day.
Lov. My Lord, I love you;
And durſt commend a Secret to your Ear
Much weightier than this work. The Queen's in Labour
They ſay in extremity, and fear'd
She'll, with the Labour, end.
Gard. The Fruit ſhe goes with
I pray for heartily, that it may find
Good time, and live: but for the Stock, Sir Thomas,
I wiſh it grubb'd up now.
Lov. Methinks I could
Cry the Amen, and yet my Conſcience ſays,
She is a good Creature, and ſweet Lady, do's

Deſerve

Deſerve our better wiſhes.
Gard. But Sir, Sir.
Hear me, Sir Thomas, y' are a Gentleman
Of mine own way, I know you are Wiſe, Religious,
And let me tell you, it will ne're be well;
'Twill not, Sir Thomas Lovel, tak't of me,
'Till Cranmer, Cromwel, her two hands, and ſhe
Sleep in their Graves.
Lov. Now, Sir, you ſpeak of two
The moſt remark'd i'th' Kingdom: as for Cromwel,
Beſide that of the Jewel-houſe, is made Maſter
O'th' Rolls, and the Kings Secretary. Further, Sir,
Stands in the gap and trade for moe Preferments,
With which the Time will load him. Th' Archbiſhop
Is the King's hand, or tongue, and who dare ſpeak
One ſyllable againſt him?
Gard. Yes, yes, Sir Thomas,
There are that dare, and I my ſelf have ventur'd
To ſpeak my mind of him: and indeed this day,
Sir (I may tell it you) I think I have
Incens'd the Lords of the Council, that he is
(For ſo I know he is, they know he is)
A moſt Arch-heretick, a Peſtilence
That does infect the Land: with which they moved
Have broken with the King, who hath ſo far
Given year to our Complaint, of his great Grace,
And Princely Care, foreſeeing thoſe fell Miſchiefs
Our Reaſons laid before him, hath commanded
To morrow morning to the Council Board
He be Convented. He's a rank weed, Sir Thomas,
And we muſt root him out. From your Affairs
I hinder you too long: Good night, Sir Thomas.
[Exit Gardiner and Page.
Lov. Many Good nights, my Lord, I reſt your Servant.
Enter King and Suffolk.
King. Charles, I will play no more to night,
My mind's not on't, you are too hard for me.
Suff. Sir, I did never win of you before.
King. But little, Charles,
Nor ſhall not when my Fancy's on my Play.
Now, Lovel, from the Queen what is the News.
Lov. I could not perſonally deliver to her
What you commanded me, but by her Woman
I ſent your Meſſage, who return'd her thanks
In the greateſt humbleneſs, and deſir'd your Highneſs
Moſt heartily to pray for her.
King. What ſay'ſt thou? Ha?
To pray for her, What, is ſhe crying out?
Lov. So ſaid her Woman, and that her ſuff'rance made
Almoſt each pang, a death.
King. Alas, good Lady.
Suff. God ſafely quit her of her Burthen, and
With gentle travail, to the gladding of
Your Highneſs with an Heir.
King. 'Tis midnight, Charles,
Prithee to Bed, and in thy Prayers remember
Th' eſtate of my poor Queen. Leave me alone,
For I muſt think of that, which company
Would not be friendly to.
Suff. I wiſh your Highneſs
A quiet night, and my good Miſtreſs will Remember in my Prayers.
King. Charles, Good night: [Exit Suffolk.
Well, Sir, what follows?
Enter Sir Anthony Denny.
Den. Sir, I have brought my Lord the Archbiſhop,
As you commanded me.
King. Ha? Canterbury?
Den. I, my good Lord.
King. 'Tis true: where is he, Denny?
Den. He attends your Highneſs pleaſure.
King. Bring him to us.
Lov. This is about that, which the Biſhop ſpake,
I am happily come hither.
Enter Cranmer and Denny.
King. Avoid the Gallery. [Lovel ſeemeth to ſtay.
Ha? I have ſaid, be gone.
[Exeunt Lovel and Denny.
Cran. I am fearful: Wherefore frowns he thus?
'Tis his Aſpect of terror. All's not well.
King. How now, my Lord?
You do deſire to know, wherefore
I ſent for you.
Cran. It is my duty
T' attend your Highneſs pleaſure.
King. Pray you ariſe,
My good and gracious Lord of Canterbury:
Come, you and I muſt walk a turn together:
I have News to tell you.
Come, come, give me your hand.
Ah my good Lord, I grieve at what I ſpeak,
And am right ſorry to repeat what follows,
I have, and moſt unwillingly, of late
Heard many grievous, I do ſay, my Lord,
Grievous complaints of you; which being conſider'd,
Have mov'd us, and our Council, that you ſhall
This morning come before us, where I know
You cannot with ſuch freedom purge your ſelf,
But that till further Trial, in thoſe Charges
Which will require your Anſwer, you muſt take
Your Patience to you, and be well contented
To make your houſe our Tower: you, a Brother of us,
It fits we thus proceed, or elſe no witneſs
Would come againſt you.
Cran. I humbly thank your Highneſs,
And am right glad to catch this good occaſion
Moſt throughly to be winnowed, where my Chaff
And Corn ſhall flie aſunder. For I know,
There's none ſtands under more calumnious tongues,
Than I my ſelf, poor man.
King. Stand up, good Canterbury,
Thy Truth, and thy Integrity is rooted
In us, thy Friend. Give me thy hand, ſtand up,
Prithee let's walk. Now by my Holydame,
What manner of man are you? my Lord, I look'd
You would have given me your Petition, that
I ſhould have ta'ne ſome pains, to bring together
Your ſelf, and your Accuſers, and to have heard you
Without indurance further.
Cran. Moſt dread Liege,
The good I ſtand on, is my Truth and Honeſty:
If they ſhall fail, I, with mine Enemies,
Will triumph o're my perſon, which I weigh not,
Being of thoſe Virtues vacant. I fear nothing
What can be ſaid againſt me.
King. Know you not
How your ſtate ſtands i'th' world, with the whole world?
Your Enemies are many, and not ſmall; their practices
Muſt bear the ſame proportion, and not ever
The Juſtice and the Truth o'th' queſtion carries
The due o'th' Verdict with it; at what eaſe
Might corrupt minds procure Knaves as corrupt
To ſwear againſt you: Such things have been done.
You are potently oppos'd; and with a Malice
Of as great a ſize. Ween you of better luck,
I mean in perjur'd Witneſs, than your Maſter,
Whoſe Miniſter you are, whiles here he liv'd
Upon this naughty Earth? Go to, go to,
You take a Precipice for no leap of danger,
And woo your own deſtruction.
Cran. God and your Majeſty
Protect mine innocence, or I fall into
The trap is laid for me.
King. Be of good cheer,
They ſhall no more prevail, than we give way to:
Keep comfort to you, and this morning ſee
You do appear before them. If they ſhall chance
In charging you with matters, to commit you:

The beſt perſuaſions to the contrary
Fail not to uſe; and with what vehemency
Th' occaſion ſhall inſtruct you. If intreaties
Will render you no remedy, this Ring
Deliver them, and your Appeal to us
There make before them. Look, the Good man weeps:
He's honeſt, on mine Honour. God's bleſt Mother,
I ſwear he is true-hearted, and a ſoul
None better in my Kingdom. Get you gone,
And do, as I have bid you. [Exit Cranmer.
He has ſtrangled all his Language in his Tears.

Enter Old Lady.

Gent. within. Come back: what mean you?
Lady. I'le not come back, the tidings that I bring
Will make my boldneſs, Manners. Now good Angels
Fly o're thy Royal Head, and ſhade thy Perſon
Under their bleſſed Wings.
King. Now by thy looks
I gueſs thy Meſſage. Is the Queen deliver'd?
Say, I, and of a Boy.
Lady. I, I, my Liege;
And a lovely Boy; the God of Heaven
Both now, and ever bleſs her: 'Tis a Girl
Promiſes Boys hereafter. Sir, your Queen
Deſires your Viſitation, and to be
Acquainted with this Stranger; 'tis as like you,
As Cherry is to Cherry.
King. Lovel.
Lov. Sir.
King. Give her an hundred Marks.
I'le to the Queen. [Exit King.
Lady. An hundred Marks? By this light, I'le ha more.
An ordinary Groom is for ſuch payment.
I will have more, or ſcold it out of him.
Said I for this, the Girl was like to him? I'le
Have more, or elſe unſay't: and now, while 'tis hot,
I'le put it to the iſſue. [Exit Lady.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Cranmer, Archbiſhop of Canterbury.

Cran. I hope I am not too late, and yet the Gentleman
That was ſent to me from the Council, pray'd me
To make great haſte. All faſt? What means this? Hoa?
Who waits there? Sure you know me?

Enter Keeper.

Keep. Yes, my Lord:
But yet I cannot help you.
Cran. Why?
Keep. Your Grace muſt wait till you be call'd for.

Enter Doctor Butts.

Cran. So.
Butts. This is a piece of Malice: I am glad
I came this way ſo haply. The King
Shall underſtand it preſently. [Exit Butts.
Cran. 'Tis Butts,
The King's Phyſician, as he paſt along
How earneſtly he caſt his Eyes upon me:
Pray Heaven he found not my diſgrace: for certain
This is of purpoſe laid by ſome that hate me,
(God turn their Hearts, I never ſought their malice)
To quench mine Honour; they would ſhame to make me
Wait elſe at door: a Fellow Councellor
'Mong Boys, Grooms, and Lackeys.
But their Pleaſures
Muſt be fulfill'd, and I attend with Patience.

Enter the King, and Butts at a Window above.

Butts. I'le ſhew your Grace the ſtrangeſt ſight.
King. What's that, Butts?
Butts. I think your Highneſs ſaw this many a day.
King. Body a me: where is it?
Butts. There, my Lord:
The high Promotion of his Grace of Canterbury,
Who holds his State at door 'mongſt Purſevants,
Pages, and Foot-boys.
King. Ha? 'tis He indeed.
Is this the Honour they do one another?
'Tis well there's one above 'em yet; I had thought
They had parted ſo much Honeſty among 'em,
At leaſt good Manners; as not thus to ſuffer
A man of his Place, and ſo near our Favour
To dance attendance on their Lordſhips pleaſures,
And at the door too, like a Poſt with Packets:
By holy Mary, (Butts) there's Knavery;
Let 'em alone, and draw the Curtain cloſe,
We ſhall hear more anon.

A Council Table brought in with Chairs and Stools, and placed under the State. Enter Lord Chancellor, places himſelf at the upper end of the Table, on the left hand: A Seat being left void above him, as for Canterburies Seat. Duke of Suffolk, Duke of Norfolk, Surrey, Lord Chamberlain, Gardiner, ſeat themſelves in Order on each ſide. Cromwel at lower end, as Secretary.

Chan. Speak to the buſineſs, Mr. Secretary;
Why are we met in Council?
Crom. Pleaſe your Honours,
The chief Cauſe concerns his Grace of Canterbury.
Gard. Ha's he knowledge of it?
Crom. Yes.
Norf. Who waits there?
Keep. Without, my Noble Lords.
Gard. Yes.
Keep. My Lord Archbiſhop,
And ha's done half an hour to know your pleaſures.
Chan. Let him come in.
Keep. Your Grace may enter now.
[Cranmer approaches the Council Table.
Chan. My good Lord Archbiſhop, I'm very ſorry
To ſit here at this preſent, and behold
That Chair ſtand empty: But we all are men
In our own Natures frail, and capable
Of our fleſh, few are Angels; out of which Frailty
And want of Wiſdom, you that beſt ſhould teach us,
Have miſdemean'd your ſelf, and not a little,
Toward the King firſt, then his Laws, in filling
The whole Realm, by your teaching and your Chaplains,
(For ſo we are inform'd) with new Opinions
Divers and dangerous, which are Hereſies;
And not Reform'd, may prove pernicious.
Gard. Which Reformation muſt be ſudden too,
My Noble Lords, for thoſe that tame wild Horſes,
Pace 'em not in their hands to make 'em gentle;
But ſtop their Mouths with ſtubborn Bits, and ſpur 'em
'Till they obey the manage. If we ſuffer
Out of our eaſineſs and childiſh pity
To one man's Honour, this contagious ſickneſs;
Farewel all Phyſick: and what follows then?
Commotions, uproars, with a general taint
Of the whole State: of late days our Neighbours,
The upper Germany can dearly witneſs,
Yet freſhly pitied in our memories.
Cran. My good Lords; hitherto, in all the Progreſs,
Both of my Life and Office, I have labour'd,
And with no little ſtudy, that my teaching
And the ſtrong courſe of my Authority,
Might go one way, and ſafely; and the end
Was ever to do well: nor is there living,
(I ſpeak it with a ſingle heart, my Lords)
A man that more detеſts, more ſtirs againſt,
Both in his private Conſcience, and his Place,
Defacers of a publick Peace, than I do:

Pray Heaven the King may never find a heart
With leſs Allegiance in it. Men that make
Envy, and crooked malice, nouriſhment,
Dare bite the beſt. I do beſeech your Lordſhips,
That in this caſe of Juſtice, my Accuſers,
Be what they will, may ſtand forth Face to Face,
And freely urge againſt me.
Suff. Nay, my Lord,
That cannot be; you are a Counſellor,
And by that Virtue no man dare accuſe you.
Gard. My Lord, becauſe we have buſineſs of more moment,
We will be ſhort with you. 'Tis his Highneſs pleaſure
And our conſent, for better tryal of you,
From hence you be committed to the Tower,
Where being but a private man again,
You ſhall know many dare accuſe you boldly,
More than (I fear) you are provided for.
Cran. Ah, my good Lord of Wincheſter: I thank you,
You are always my good Friend, if your will paſs,
I ſhall both find your Lordſhip, Judge, and Juror,
You are ſo merciful. I ſee your end,
'Tis my undoing. Love and Meekneſs, Lord,
Become a Church-man better than Ambition:
Win ſtraying Souls with modeſty again,
Caſt none away. That I ſhall clear my ſelf,
Lay all the weight ye can upon my patience,
I make as little doubt, as you do Conſcience
In doing daily wrongs. I could ſay more,
But Reverence to your calling makes me modeſt.
Gard. My Lord, my Lord, you are a Sectary,
That's the plain truth; your painted gloſs diſcovers
To men that underſtand you, words and weakneſs.
Crom. My Lord of Wincheſter, y'are a little,
By your good favour, too ſharp; Men ſo Noble,
How ever faulty, yet ſhould find reſpect
For what they have been: 'tis a cruelty,
To load a falling man.
Gard. Good Mr. Secretary,
I cry your Honour Mercy; you may, worſt
Of all this Table, ſay ſo.
Crom. Why, my Lord?
Gard. Do not I know you for a Favourer
Of this new Sect? ye are not ſound.
Crom. Not ſound?
Gard. Not ſound, I ſay.
Crom. Would you were half ſo honeſt:
Men's Prayers then would ſeek you, not their Fears.
Gard. I ſhall remember this bold Language.
Crom. Do.
Remember your bold life too.
Cham. This is too much.
Forbear for ſhame, my Lords.
Gard. I have done.
Crom. And I.
Cham. Then thus for you, my Lord, it ſtands agreed,
I take it, by all voices: that forthwith
You be convey'd to th' Tower a Priſoner;
There to remain till the Kings further pleaſure
Be known unto us; are you all agreed, Lords?
All. We are.
Cran. Is there no other way of Mercy,
But I muſt needs to th' Tower, my Lords?
Gard. What other
Would you expect? You are ſtrangely troubleſome:
Let ſome o'th' Guard be ready there.

Enter the Guard.

Cran. For me?
Muſt I go like a Traitor thither?
Gard. Receive him,
And ſee him ſafe i'th' Tower.
Cran. Stay, good my Lords,
I have a little yet to ſay. Look there, my Lords,
By virtue of that Ring, I take my Cauſe
Out of the gripes of cruel men, and give it
To a moſt Noble Judg, the King my Maſter.
Cham. This is the King's Ring.
Suf. 'Tis no counterfeit.
Suff. 'Tis his right Ring, by Heav'n: I told ye all,
When we firſt put this dangerous ſtone a rowling,
'Twould fall upon our ſelves.
Norf. Do you think, my Lords,
The King will ſuffer but the little Finger
Of this man to be vex'd?
Cham. 'Tis now too certain,
How much more is his Life in value with him?
Would I were fairly out on't.
Crom. My mind gave me,
In ſeeking Tales and Informations
Againſt this Man, whoſe Honeſty the Devil
And his Diſciples only envy at.
Ye blew the Fire that burns ye: now have at ye.

Enter King frowning on them, takes his Seat.

Gard. Dread Soveraign,
How much are we bound to Heaven,
In daily thanks; that gave us ſuch a Prince;
Not only good and wiſe, but moſt Religious:
One that in all obedience, makes the Church
The chief aim of his Honour, and to ſtrengthen
That holy duty of our dear reſpect,
His Royal ſelf in Judgment comes to hear
The Cauſe betwixt her, and this great offender.
King. You were ever good at ſudden Commendations,
Biſhop of Wincheſter. But know, I come not
To hear ſuch flattery now, and in my preſence,
They are too thin, and baſe to hide offences,
To me you cannot reach. You play the Spaniel,
And think with wagging of your Tongue to win me:
But whatſoe're thou tak'ſt me for, I'm ſure
Thou haſt a cruel Nature, and a bloody;
Good man, ſit down: Now let me ſee the proudeſt
He, that dares moſt, but wag his Finger at thee.
By all that's holy, he had better ſtarve,
Then but once think, this place becomes thee not.
Sur. May it pleaſe your Grace,——
King. No, Sir, it doe's not pleaſe me,
I had thought, I had had men of ſome underſtanding,
And wiſdom, of my Council; but I find none:
Was it diſcretion, Lords, to let this man,
This good man (few of you deſerve the title)
This honeſt man, wait like a lowſie Foot-boy
At Chamber door? and one, as great as you are?
Why, what a ſhame was this? Did my Commiſſion
Bid ye ſo far forget your ſelves? I gave ye
Power, as he was a Counſellour to try him,
Not as a Groom; there's ſome of ye, I ſee,
More out of Malice than Integrity,
Would try him to the utmoſt, had ye mean,
Which ye ſhall never have, while I do live.
Cham. Thus far,
My moſt dread Soveraign, may it like your Grace,
To let my Tongue excuſe all. What was purpos'd
Concerning his Impriſonment, was rather
(If there be faith in men) meant for his Tryal,
And fair purgation to the world than malice,
I'm ſure in me.
King. Well, well, my Lords, reſpect him,
Take him, and uſe him well, he's worthy of it.
I will ſay thus much for him, if a Prince
May be beholding to a Subject, I
Am, for his love and ſervice, ſo to him.
Make me no more ado, but all embrace him;
Be Friends for ſhame, my Lords: My Lord of Canterbury,
I have a Suit, which you muſt not deny me.
That is, a fair young Maid that yet wants Baptiſme,
You muſt be God-father, and anſwer for her.
Cran. The greateſt Monarch now alive may glory

In

In ſuch an honour: how may I deſerve it,
That am a poor and humble Subject to you?

King. Come, come, my Lord, you'd ſpare your Spoons:
You ſhall have two Noble Partners with you: the old
Dutcheſs of Norfolk, and Lady Marqueſs of Dorſet?
Will theſe pleaſe you?
Once more, my Lord of Wincheſter, I charge you
Embrace, and love this man.

Gard. With a true heart,
And Brothers love I do it.

Cran. And let Heaven
Witneſs, how dear I hold this Confirmation.

King. Good Man, thoſe joyful tears ſhew thy true heart,
The common voice I ſee is verified
Of thee, which ſays thus: Do my Lord of Canterbury
A ſhrewd turn, and he's your Friend for ever:
Come, Lords, we trifle time away: I long
To have this young one made a Chriſtian.
As I have made ye one, Lords, one remain:
So I grow ſtronger, you more Honour gain. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Noiſe and Tumult within: Enter Porter and his man.

Port. You'll leave your noiſe anon, ye Raſcals: do you take the Court for Paris-Garden: ye rude Slaves, leave your gaping.

Within. Good Mr. Porter, I belong to th' Larder.

Port. Belong to th' Gallows, and be hang'd, ye Rogue: Is this a place to roar in? Fetch me a dozen Crab-tree ſtaves, and ſtrong ones; theſe are but ſwitches to 'em: I'le ſcratch your Heads; you muſt be ſeeing Chriſtnings? Do you look for Ale and Cakes here, you rude Raſcals?

Man. Pray, Sir, be patient; 'tis as much impoſſible,
Unleſs we ſwept them from the door with Cannons,
To ſcatter 'em, as 'tis to make 'em ſleep
On May-day Morning, which will never be:
We may as well puſh againſt Pauls, as ſtir 'em.

Port. How got they in, and be hang'd?

Man. Alas, I know not, how gets the Tide in?
As much as one ſound Cudgel of four foot
(You ſee the poor remainder) could diſtribute,
I made no ſpare, Sir.

Port. You did nothing, Sir.

Man. I am not Sampſon, nor Sir Guy, nor Colebrand,
To mow 'em down before me: but if I ſpar'd any
That had a head to hit, either young or old,
He or ſhe, Cuckold, or Cuckold-maker;
Let me ne're hope to ſee a Chine again,
And that I would not for a Cow, God ſave her.

Within. Do you hear, Mr. Porter?

Port. I ſhall be with you preſently, good Mr. Puppy.
Keep the door cloſe, Sirrah.

Man. What would you have me do?

Port. What ſhould you do,
But knock 'em down by th' dozens? Is this Moor-fields to muſter in? Or have we ſome ſtrange Indian with the great Toole, come to Court, the women ſo beſiege us? Bleſs me! what a fry of Fornication is at the door? On my Chriſtian Conſcience, this one Chriſtning will beget a thouſand, here will be Father, God-father, and all together.

Man. The Spoons will be the bigger, Sir: there is a Fellow ſomewhat near the door, he ſhould be a Braſier by his Face, for o' my Conſcience twenty of the Dog-dayes now reign in's Noſe; all that ſtand about him are under the Line, they need no other penance: that Fire-Drake did I hit three times on the Head, and three times was his Noſe diſcharged againſt me; he ſtands there like a Morter-piece to blow us up. There was a Haberdaſhers Wife of ſmall Wit, near him, that rail'd upon me, till her pinck'd Porrenger fell off her Head, for kindling ſuch a combuſtion in the State. I miſt the Meteor once, and hit that Woman, who cryed out Clubs, when I might ſee from far, ſome forty Truncheons draw to her ſuccour, which were the hope o'th' Strand, where ſhe was quartered; they fell on, I made good my place; at length they came to th' Broom-ſtaff to me, I defi'd 'em ſtill, when ſuddenly a File of Boyes behind 'em, looſe ſhot, deliver'd ſuch a ſhower of Pibbles, that I was fain to draw mine Honour in, and let 'em win the Work, the Devil was amongſt 'em, I think ſurely.

Por. Theſe are the Youths that thunder at a Play-houſe, and fight for bitten Apples, that no Audience but the tribulation of Tower-Hill, or the Limbs of Lime-houſe, their dear Brothers are able to endure. I have ſome of 'em in Limbo-Patrum, and there they are like to dance theſe three days; beſides the running Banquet of two Beadles, that is to come.

Enter Lord Chamberlain.

L. Cham. Mercy o'me: what a Multitude are here?
They grow ſtill too; from all Parts they are coming,
As if we kept a Fair here? Where are theſe Porters?
Theſe lazy Knaves? Y'ave made a fine hand, Fellows?
There's a trim Rabble let in: are all theſe
Your faithful Friends o'th' Suburbs? We ſhall have Great ſtore of room no doubt left for the Ladies,
When they paſs back from the Chriſtning?

Por. And't pleaſe your Honour,
We are but Men, and what ſo many may do,
Nor being torn in pieces, we have done:
An Army cannot rule 'em.

Cham. As I live,
If the King blame me for't; I'le lay ye all
By th' heels, and ſuddenly: and on your Heads,
Clap round Fines for neglect: y'are lazy Knaves;
And here ye lye baiting of Bombards, when
Ye ſhould do Service. Hark, the trumpets ſound,
Th'are come already from the Chriſtning;
Go break among the preſs, and find a way out
To let the troop paſs fairly; or I'le find
A Marſhalſey, ſhall hold ye play theſe two Months.

Por. Make way there, for the Princeſs.

Man. You great Fellow,
Stand cloſe up, or I'le make your head ake.

Por. You i'th' Chamblet, get up o' th' rail,
I'le peck you o're the pales elſe. [Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Trumpets ſounding: Then two Alder-men, L. Mayor, Garter, Cranmer, Duke of Norfolk with his Marſhal's Staff, Duke of Suffolk, two Noblemen, bearing great ſtanding Bowls for the Chriſtning Gifts: Then four Noblemen bearing a Canopy, under which the Dutcheſs of Norfolk, God-mother, bearing the Child richly habited in a Mantle, &c. Train born by a Lady: Then follows the Marchioneſs of Dorſet, the other God-mother, and Ladies. The Troop paſs once about the Stage, and Garter ſpeaks.

Gart. Heaven,
From thy endleſs Goodneſs ſend proſperous Life,
Long, and ever happy, to the high and mighty
Princeſs of England, Elizabeth.

Flouriſh. Enter King and Guard.

Cran. And to your Royal Grace, and the good Queen,
My Noble Partners, and my ſelf thus pray
All comfort, joy in this moſt gracious Lady,
Heaven ever laid up to make Parents happy,
May hourly fall upon ye.

King. Thank you good Lord Arch-biſhop:
What is her Name?

Cran. Elizabeth.

King. Stand up, Lord;
With this Kiſs, take my Bleſſing: God protect thee,
Into whoſe hand, I give thy Life.
Cran. Amen.
King. My Noble Goſſips, y'have been too Prodigal,
I thank ye heartily: So ſhall this Lady,
When ſhe has ſo much Engliſh.
Cran. Let me ſpeak, Sir,
For Heaven now bids me; and the words I utter,
Let none think Flattery; for they'll find 'em Truth.
This Royal Infant, Heaven ſtill move about her,
Though in her Cradle, yet now promiſes
Upon this Land, a thouſand thouſand Bleſſings,
Which time ſhall bring to ripeneſs: She ſhall be,
(But few now living can behold that Goodneſs)
A Pattern to all Princes living with her,
And all that ſhall ſucceed: Saba was never
More covetous of Wiſdom, and fair Virtue
Than this pure Soul ſhall be. All Princely Graces
That mould up a mighty Piece as this is,
With all the Virtues that attend the Good,
Shall ſtill be doubled on her. Truth ſhall Nurſe her,
Holy and Heavenly thoughts ſtill Counſel her:
She ſhall be lov'd and fear'd. Her own ſhall bleſs her;
Her Foes ſhake like a Field of beaten Corn,
And hang their heads with ſorrow:
Good grows with her.
In her days every man ſhall eat in ſafety,
Under his own Vine what he plants; and ſing
The merry Songs of Peace to all his Neighbours.
God ſhall be truly known, and thoſe about her
From her ſhall read the perfect ways of Honour,
And by thoſe claim their Greatneſs, not by Blood.
Nor ſhall this Peace ſleep with her: But as when
The Bird of wonder dies, the Maiden Phœnix,
Her Aſhes new create another Heir,
As great in admiration as her ſelf;
So ſhall ſhe leave her Bleſſedneſs to One,
(When Heaven ſhall call her from this cloud of darkneſs)
Who from the ſacred Aſhes of her Honour
Shall Star-like riſe, as Great in fame as ſhe was,
And ſo ſtand fix'd. Peace, Plenty, Love, Truth, Terrour,
That were the Servants to this choſen Infant,
Shall then be His, and like a Vine grow to him;
Where ever the bright Sun of Heaven ſhall ſhine,
His Honour, and the Greatneſs of his name,
Shall be, and make new Nations. He ſhall flouriſh,
And like a Mountain Cedar, reach his branches,
To all the Plains about him: Our Children's Children
Shall ſee this, and bleſs Heaven.
King. Thou ſpeakeſt Wonders.
Cran. She ſhall be to the Happineſs of England,
An Aged Princeſs; many Days ſhall ſee her,
And yet no Day without a deed to Crown it.
Would I had known no more: But ſhe muſt dye,
She muſt, the Saints muſt have her; yet a Virgin,
A moſt unſpotted Lilly ſhall ſhe paſs
To th' ground, and all the world ſhall mourn her.
King. O Lord Archbiſhop,
Thou haſt made me now a Man: never, before
This happy Child, did I get any thing.
This Oracle of comfort, has ſo pleas'd me,
That when I am in Heaven, I ſhall deſire
To ſee what this Child does, and praiſe my Maker,
I thank ye all. To you, my good Lord Mayor,
And you good Brethren, I am much beholding:
I have receiv'd much Honour by your preſence,
And ye ſhall find me thankful. Lead the way, Lords,
Ye muſt all ſee the Queen, and ſhe muſt thank ye,
She will be ſick elſe. This day, no man think
'Has buſineſs at his houſe, for all ſhall ſtay:
This little One ſhall make it Holy-day. [Exeunt.

The EPILOGUE.

'Tis ten to one this Play can never pleaſe
All that are here: Some come to take their eaſe,
And ſleep out an Act or two; but thoſe we fear
W' have affrighted with our Trumpets: ſo 'tis clear,
They'll ſay it's naught. Others, to hear the City
Abus'd extreamly, and to cry that's witty,
Which we have not done neither, that I fear
All the expected good w' are like to hear,
For this Play at this time, is only in
The merciful conſtruction of good Women;
For ſuch a one we ſhew'd 'em: if they ſmile,
And ſay 'twill do; I know within a while,
All the beſt Men are ours; for 'tis ill hap,
If they hold, when their Ladies bid 'em clap.

THE

THE TRAGEDY OF Troilus and Creſſida.

The PROLOGUE.

IN Troy there lies the Scene: from Iſles of Greece
The Princes Orgillous, their high Blood chaf'd,
Have to the Port of Athens ſent their Ships
Fraught with the Miniſters and Inſtruments
Of Cruel War: Sixty and nine that wore
Their Crownets Regal, from th' Athenian Bay
Put forth toward Phrygia, and their Vow is made
To ranſack Troy, within whoſe ſtrong Immures
The raviſh'd Helen, Menelaus Queen,
With wanton Paris ſleeps, and that's the Quarrel.
To Tenedos they come,
And the deep-drawing Barks do there diſgorge
Their Warlike fraughtage: now on Dardan Plains
The freſh and yet unbruiſed Greeks do pitch
Their brave Pavillions. Priam's ſix-gated City,
Dardan, and Timbria, Helias, Chetas, Troien,
And Antenonidus with maſſy Staples
And correſponſive and fulfilling Bolts
Stir up the Sons of Troy.
Now Expectation tickling skittiſh Spirits,
On one and other ſide, Trojan and Greek,
Sets all on hazard. And hither am I come
A Prologue arm'd, but not in confidence
Of Author's Pen, or Actor's voice; but ſuited
In like conditions, as our Argument;
To tell you (fair Beholders) that our Play
Leaps o're the vaunt and firſtlings of thoſe Broils,
Beginning in the middle: ſtarting thence away,
To what may be digeſted in a Play:
Like, or find fault, do as your pleaſures are,
Now good, or bad, 'tis but the chance of War.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter Pandarus and Troilus.

Troilus.

CAll here my Varlet, I'le unarm again.
Why ſhould I War without the Walls of Troy
That find ſuch cruel battel here within?
Each Trojan that is Maſter of his heart,
Let him to Field, Troilus alas hath none.

Pan. Will this geer ne're be mended? (ſtrength,

Troi. Ths Greeks are ſtrong, and ſkilful to their
Fierce to their skill, and to their fierceneſs Valiant:
But I am weaker than a Womans tear:
Tamer than ſleep, fonder than ignorauce;
Leſs valiant than the Virgin in the night,
And skilleſs as unpractis'd infancy.

Pan. Well, I have told you enough of this: For my part, I'le not meddle nor make no farther. He that will have a Cake out of the Wheat, muſt needs tarry the grinding.

Troi. Have I not tarried?

Pan. I the grinding; but you muſt tarry the boulting.

Troi. Have I not tarried?

Pan. I, the boulting; but you muſt tarry the leav'ning.

Troi. Still have I tarried.

Pan. I, to the leavening: but here's yet in the word hereafter, the Kneading, the making of the Cake, the heating of the Oven, and the Baking; nay, you muſt ſtay the cooling too, or you may chance to burn your lips.

Troi. Patience her ſelf, what Goddeſs e're ſhe be,
Doth leſſer blench at ſufferance, than I do:
At Priam's Royal Table I ſit;
And when fair Creſſida comes into my thoughts,
So (Traitor) then ſhe comes, when ſhe is thence——

Pan. Well?

She look'd yeſternight fairer than ever I ſaw her look,
Or any Woman elſe.

Troi. I was about to tell thee, when my heart,
As wedged with a ſigh, would rive in twain,
Leſt Hector, or my Father ſhould perceive me:
I have (as when the Sun doth light a-ſcorn)
Buried this ſigh, in wrinkle of a ſmile:
But ſorrow, that is couch'd in ſeeming gladneſs,
Is like that mirth Fate turns to ſudden ſadneſs.

Pan. And her hair were not ſomewhat darker than

Helens, well go to, there were no more compariſon between the Women. But for my part ſhe is my Kinſwoman, I would not (as they term it) praiſe it, but I would ſome body had heard her talk yeſterday, as I did: I wil not diſpraiſe your Siſter Caſſandra's wit, but——

Troi. O Pandarus! I tell thee, Pandarus;
When I do tell thee, there my hopes lie drown'd,
Reply not in how many Fathoms deep
They lie indrench'd. I tell thee, I am mad
In Creſſid's Love. Thou anſwer'ſt, ſhe is Fair,
Pour'ſt in the open Ulcer of my Heart,
Her Eyes, her Hair, her Cheek, her Gate, her Voice,
Handleſt in thy diſcourſe. O that her Hand
(In whoſe compariſon, all whites are Ink
Writing their own reproach) to whoſe ſoft ſeizure
The Cignets Down is harſh, and ſpirit of Senſe
Hard as the Palm of Ploughman. This thou tell'ſt me;
As true thou tell'ſt me, when I ſay I love her:
But ſaying thus, inſtead of Oyl and Balm,
Thou lay'ſt in every gaſh that love hath given me,
The Knife that made it.

Pan. I ſpeak no more than truth.

Troi. Thou doſt not ſpeak ſo much.

Pan. Faith, I'le not meddle in't. Let her be as ſhe is, if ſhe be fair, 'tis the better for her: and ſhe be not, ſhe ha's the mends in her own hands.

Troi. Good Pandarus; how now, Pandarus?

Pan. I have had my labour for my travel, ill thought on of her, and ill thought on of you: Gone between and between, but ſmall thanks for my labour.

Troi. What art thou angry, Pandarus? what with me?

Pan. Becauſe ſhe is Kin to me, therefore ſhe's not ſo fair as Helen, and ſhe were not Kin to me, ſhe would be as fair on Fryday, as Helen is on Sunday. But what care I? I care not and ſhe were a Black-a-Moor, 'tis all one to me.

Troi. Say I, ſhe is not fair?

Pan. I do not care, whether you do or no. She's a Fool to ſtay behind her Father: Let her to the Greeks, and ſo I'le tell her the next time I ſee her: for my part, I'le meddle nor make no more i'th' matter.

Troi. Pandarus?

Pan. Not I.

Troi. Sweet Pandarus.

Pan. Pray you ſpeak no more to me, I will leave all as I found it, and there's an end. [Exit. Pand.

Sound Alarum.

Troi. Peace you ungracious Clamors, peace rude Sounds,
Fools on both ſides, Helen muſt needs be fair,
When with your blood you daily paint her thus.
I cannot fight upon this Argument:
It is too ſtarv'd a ſubject for my Sword:
But Pandarus: O Gods! How do you plague me?
I cannot come to Creſſid, but by Pandar,
And he's as teachy to be woo'd to woe,
As ſhe is ſtubborn, chaſt, againſt all ſute.
Tell me Apollo for thy Daphnes Love
What Creſſid is, what Pandar, and what we:
Her bed is India, there ſhe lies, a Pearl,
Between our Ilium, and where ſhe reſides
Let it be call'd the mild and wandring flood,
Our ſelf the Merchant, and this ſailing Pandar
Our doubtful Hope, our Convoy and our Bark.

Alarum. Enter Æneas.

Æne. How now, Prince Troilus?
Wherefore not a field?

Troi. Becauſe not there; this womans anſwer ſorts,
For womaniſh it is to be from thence:
What news Æneas from the field to day?

Æne. That Paris is returned home, and hurt.

Troi. By whom, Æneas?

Æne. Troilus by Menelaus.

Troi. Let Paris bleed, 'tis but a ſcar to ſcorn.
Paris is gor'd with Menelaus horn. [Alarum.

Æne. Heark, what good ſport is out of Town to day?

Troi. Better at home, if Would I might, were May;
But to the ſport abroad, are you bound thither?

Æne. In all ſwift haſte.

Troi. Come, go we then together. [Exeunt.

Enter Creſſid and her Man.

Cre. Who were thoſe went by?

Man. Queen Hecuba and Helen.

Cre. And whither go they?

Man. Up to the Eaſtern Tower,
Whoſe height commands as ſubject all the Vale,
To ſee the Battel; Hector, whoſe patience
Is as a Vertue fix'd, to day was mov'd:
He chides Andromache, and ſtruck his Armorer,
And like as there were Husbandry in War
Before the Sun roſe, he was harneſt light,
And to the Field goes he; where every flower
Did as a Prophet weep what it foreſaw,
In Hector's wrath.

Cre. What was his cauſe of Anger?

Man. The noiſe goes this;
There is among the Greeks,
A Lord of Trojan Blood, Nephew to Hector,
They call him Ajax.

Cre. Good; and what of him?

Man. They ſay, he is a very man per ſe and ſtands alone.

Cre. So do all Men, unleſs they are drunk, ſick, or have no Legs.

Man. This Man, Lady, hath robb'd many Beaſts of their particular additions, he is as valiant as the Lyonchurliſh as the Bear, ſlow as the Elephant: a man into whom nature hath ſo crowded humours, that his valour is cruſht into folly, his folly ſauced with diſcretion: There is no man hath a Vertue, that he hath not a glimpſe of, nor any man an attaint, but he carries ſome ſtain of it. He is melancholy without cauſe, and merry againſt the hair, he hath the joints of every thing, but every thing ſo out of joynt, that he is a gouty Briareus, many hands and no uſe; or purblinded Argus, all eyes and no ſight.

Cre. But how ſhould this man, that makes me ſmile, make Hector angry?

Man. They ſay, he yeſterday cop'd Hector in the battel and ſtruck him down, the diſdain and ſhame whereof hath ever ſince kept Hector faſting and waking.

Enter Pandarus.

Cre. Who comes here?

Man. Madam, your Uncle Pandarus.

Cre. Hector's a gallant man.

Man. As may be in the world, Lady.

Pan. What's that? what's that?

Cre. Good morrow, Uncle Pandarus.

Pan. Good morrow, Cozen Creſſid: what do you talk of? good morrow, Alexander, how do you, Cozen? when were you at Ilium?

Cre. This morning, Uncle.

Pan. What were you talking of, when I came? Was Hector arm'd and gone, e're ye came to Ilium? Helen was not up? was ſhe?

Cre. Hector was gone, bnt Helen was not up.

Pan. E'n ſo; Hector was ſtirring early.

Cre. That were we talking of, and of his Anger.

Pan. Was he angry?

Cre. So he ſays here.

Pan. True, he was ſo; I know the cauſe too, he'l lay about him to day I can tell them that, and there's Troilus will not come far behind him, let them take heed of Troilus; I can tell them that too.

Cre. What is he angry too?

Pan. Who, Troilus? Troilus is the better man of the two.

Cre. Oh Jupiter; there's no compariſon.

Pan. What not between Troilus and Hector? do you know a man if you ſee him?

Cre. I, if I ever ſaw him before and knew him.

Pan. Well, I ſay Troilus is Troilus.

Cre.

Cre. Then you ſay, as I ſay,
For I am ſure he is not Hector.

Pan. No, nor Hector is not Troilus in ſome degrees.

Cre. 'Tis juſt to each of them he is himſelf.

Pan. Himſelf? alas poor Troilus I would he were.

Cre. So he is.

Pan. Condition I had gone bare-foot to India.

Cre. He is not Hector.

Pan. Himſelf? no? he's not himſelf, would a were himſelf; well, the Gods are above, time muſt friend or end: well, Troilus, well, I would my heart were in her body; no, Hector is not a better man than Troilus.

Cre. Excuſe me.

Pan. He is Elder.

Cre. Pardon me, pardon me.

Pan. Th' others not come too't, you ſhall tell me another tale when th'others come to't: Hector ſhall not have his will this year.

Cre. He ſhall not need it, if he have his own.

Pan. Nor his qualities.

Cre. No matter.

Pan. Nor his Beauty.

Cre. 'Twould not become him, his own's better.

Pan. You have no judgment, Neece; Helen her ſelf ſwore th'other day, that Troilus for a brown favour, (for ſo 'tis I muſt confeſs) not brown neither.

Cre. No, but brown.

Pan. Faith, to ſay truth, brown and not brown.

Cre. To ſay the truth, true and not true.

Pan. She prais'd his complexion above.

Cre. Why Paris hath colour enough.

Pan. So he has.

Cre. Then Troilus ſhould have too much, if ſhe prais'd him above, his complexion is higher than his, he having colour enough, and the other higher, is too flaming a praiſe for a good complexion. I had as lieve Helens golden tongue had commended Troilus for a copper noſe.

Pan. I ſwear to you,
I think Helen loves him better than Paris.

Cre. Then ſhe's a merry Greek indeed.

Pan. Nay, I am ſure ſhe does, ſhe came to him th'other day into the compaſt window, and you know he has not paſt three or four hairs on his chin.

Cre. Indeed a Tapſters Arithmetique may ſoon bring his particulars therein to a Total.

Pan. Why he is very young, and yet will he within three pound lift as much as his Brother Hector.

Cre. Is he ſo young a man, and ſo old a lifter?

Pan. But to prove to you that Helen loves him, ſhe came and puts me her white hand to his cloven chin.

Cre. Juno have mercy, how came it cloven?

Pan. Why, you know 'tis dimpled,
I think his ſmiling becomes him better, than any man in all Phrigia.

Cre. Oh, he ſmiles valiantly.

Pan. Does he not?

Cre. Oh yes, and 'twere a cloud in Autumn.

Pan. Why go to then, but to prove to you that Helen loves Troilus.

Cre. Troilus will ſtand to the
Proof, if you'l prove it ſo.

Pan. Troilus? why he eſteems her no more, than I eſteem an addle Egg.

Cre. If you love an addle Egg, as well as you love an idle head, you would eat Chickens i'th' ſhell.

Pan. I cannot chuſe but laugh to think how ſhe tickled his chin, indeed ſhe has a marvell's white hand, I muſt needs confeſs.

Cre. Without the Rack.

Pan. And ſhe takes upon her to ſpy a white hair on his Chin.

Cre. Alas poor Chin? many a Wart is richer.

Pan. But there was ſuch laughing, Queen Hecuba laught that her Eye run o're.

Cre. With Milſtones.

Pan. And Caſſandra laught.

Cre. But there was more temperate fire under the pot of her Eyes: did her Eyes run o're too?

Pan. And Hector laught.

Cre. At what was all this laughing?

Pan. Marry at the white hair, that Helen ſpied on Troilus's chin.

Cre. And 'had been a green hair, I ſhould have laught too.

Pan. They laught not ſo much at the hair, as at his pretty anſwer.

Cre. What was his anſwer?

Pan. Quoth ſhe, here's but two and fifty hairs on your chin; and one of them is white.

Cre. This is her queſtion.

Pan. That's true, make no queſtion of that: two and fifty hairs, quoth he, and one white, that white hair is my Father, and all the reſt are his Sons. Jupiter, quoth ſhe, which of theſe hairs is Paris, my Husband? The forked one, quoth he, pluck't out and give it him: but there was ſuch laughing, and Helen ſo bluſht, and Paris ſo chaft, and all the reſt ſo laught, that it paſt.

Cre. So let it now,
For it has been a great while going by.

Pan. Well, Cozen,
I told you a thing yeſterday, think on't.

Cre. So I do.

Pan. I'le be ſworn 'tis true, he will weep you an 'twere a man born in April. [Sound a Retreat.

Cre. And I'le ſpring up in his tears, an 'twere a nettle againſt May.

Pan. Heark, they are coming from the field, ſhall we ſtand up here and ſee them, as they paſs toward Ilium? good Neece do, ſweet Neece Creſſida.

Cre. At your pleaſure.

Pan. Here, here, here's an excellent place, here we may ſee moſt bravely, I'le tell you them all by their names, as they paſs by, but mark Troilus above the reſt.

Enter Æneas.

Cre. Speak not ſo loud.

Pan. That's Æneas, is not that a brave Man? he's one of the flowers of Troy, I can tell you, but mark Troilus, you ſhall ſee anon.

Cre. Who's that? Enter Antenor.

Pan. That's Antenor, he has a ſhrew'd wit, I can tell you, and he's a man good enough, he's one o'th' ſoundeſt judgment in Troy whoſoever, and a proper man of perſon: when comes Troilus? I'le ſhew you Troilus anon, if he ſee me, you ſhall ſee him nod at me.

Cre. Will he give you the nod?

Pan. You ſhall ſee.

Cre. If he do, the rich ſhall have more.

Enter Hector.

Pan. That's Hector, that, that, look you, that, there's a Fellow. Go thy way Hector, there's a brave man, Neece, O brave Hector! Look how he looks? there's a countenance; is't not a brave Man?

Cre. O brave Man!

Pan. Is a not? It does a Mans Heart good, look you what hacks are on his Helmet, look you yonder, do you ſee? Look you there? There's no jeſting, laying on, tak't off who will, as they ſay, there be hacks.

Cre. Be thoſe with Swords?

Enter Paris.

Pan. Swords, any thing he cares not, and the Devil come to him, it's all one, by Godslid it does ones heart good. Yonder comes Paris, yonder comes Paris: look ye yonder, Neece, is't not a gallant man too, is't not? Why, this is brave now: who ſaid he came hurt home to day? He's not hurt, why this will do Helens's heart good now, ha? Would I could ſee Troilus now, you ſhall ſee Troilus anon.

Cre. Whoſe that?

Enter

Enter Helenus.

Pan. That's Helenus, I marvel where Troilus is, that's Helenus, I think he went not forth to day: that's Helenus.

Cre. Can Helenus fight, Uncle?

Pan. Helenus, no: yes he'l fight indifferent well, I marvel where Troilus is; heark, do you not hear the peole cry Troilus? Helenus is a Prieſt.

Cre. What ſneaking Fellow comes yonder?

Enter Troilus.

Pan. Where? Yonder? That's Deiphobus. 'Tis Troilus! There's a man, Niece, hem; Brave Troilus, the Prince of Chivalry.

Cre. Peace, for ſhame, peace.

Pand. Mark him, note him: O brave Troilus: look well upon him, Niece, look you how his Sword is bloodied, and his Helm more hack'd than Hectors, and how he looks, and how he goes, O admirable youth! he ne're ſaw three and twenty. Go thy way Troilus, go thy way, had I a Siſter were a Grace, or a Daughter a Goddeſs, he ſhould take his choice. O admirable man! Paris? Paris is durt to him, and I warrant, Helen to change, would give money to boot.

Enter common Souldiers.

Cre. Here come more.

Pan. Aſſes, Fools, Dolts, Chaff and Bran, Chaff and Bran; Porridge after Meat. I could live and dye i'th' Eyes of Troilus. Ne're look, ne're look; the Eagles are gone, Crows and Daws, Crows and Daws: I had rather be ſuch a Man as Troilus, than Agamemnon, and all Greece.

Cre. There is among the Greeks Achilles, a better Man than Troilus.

Pan. Achilles? a Dray-man, a Porter, a very Camel.

Cre. Well, well.

Pan. Well, well? Why, have you any diſcretion? Have you any Eyes? Do you know what a man is? Is not Birth, Beauty, good Shape, Diſcourſe, Manhood, Learning, Gentleneſs, Virtue, Youth, Liberality, and ſo forth, the Spice, and Salt that ſeaſons a Man?

Cre. I, a minc'd man, and then to be bak'd with no Date in the Pye, for then the man's date is out.

Pan. You are ſuch another Woman, one knows not at what ward you lie.

Creſ. Upon my Back, to defend my Belly; upon my Wit, to defend my Wiles; upon my Secreſie, to defend mine Honeſty; my Mask to defend my Beauty, and you to defend all theſe: and at all theſe wards I lie at a thouſand watches.

Pan. Say one of your watches.

Cre. Nay I'le watch you for that, and that's one of the chiefeſt of them too; if I cannot ward what I would not have hit, I can watch you for telling how I took the blow, unleſs it ſwell paſt hiding, and then it is paſt watching.

Enter Boy.

Pan. You are ſuch another.

Boy. Sir, my Lord would inſtantly ſpeak with you.

Pan. Where?

Boy. At your own Houſe.

Pan. Good Boy, tell him I come, I doubt he be hurt. Fare ye well, good Niece.

Creſ. Adieu, Uncle.

Pan. I'le be with you, Niece, by and by.

Creſ. To bring, Uncle.

Pan. I, a token from Troilus.

Creſ. By the ſame token, you are a Bawd. [Exit Pand.
Words, Vows, Gifts, Tears, and Loves full Sacrifice,
He offers in anothers enterprize:
But more in Troilus thouſand fold I ſee,
Than in the Glaſs of Pandar's praiſe may be,
Yet hold I off. Women are Angels wooing,
Things won are done, the ſouls joy lies in doing:
That ſhe belov'd, knows nought that knows not this:
Men prize the thing ungain'd, more than it is.
That ſhe was never yet, that ever knew
Love go ſo ſweet, as when deſire did ſue:
" Atchievment is command: ungain'd, beſeech,
Therefore this Maxim out of love I teach;
That though my hearts Content's firm love doth bear,
Nothing of that ſhall from mine Eyes appear. [Exit.

Sonnet. Enter Agamemnon, Neſtor, Ulyſſes, Diomedes, Menelaus, with others.

Agam. Princes:
What grief hath ſet the Jaundiſe on your Cheeks?
The ample Propoſition that hopes makes
In all deſigns begun on Earth below,
Fails in the promis'd largeneſs: checks and diſaſters
Grow in the veins of Actions higheſt rear'd.
As knots by the conflux of meeting ſap,
Infect the ſound Pine, and diverts his Grain
Tortive and errant from his courſe of growth.
Nor, Princes, is it matter new to us,
That we come ſhort of our ſuppoſe ſo far,
That after ſeven years ſiege, yet Troy Walls ſtand,
Sith every action that hath gone before,
Whereof we have Record, Tryal did draw
Bias and thwart, not anſwering the aim,
And that unbodied Figure of the thought
That gav't ſurmiſed ſhape. Why then (you Princes)
Do you with Cheeks abaſh'd, behold our works,
And think them ſhame, which are (indeed) nought elſe
But the protractive tryals of great Jove,
To find perſiſtive Conſtancy in men?
The fineneſs of which Metal is not found
In Fortunes love: for then, the Bold and Coward,
The Wiſe and Fool, the Artiſt and un-read,
The hard and ſoft, ſeem all affin'd, and kin.
But in the Wind and Tempeſt of her frown,
Diſtinction with a loud and powerful Fan,
Puffing at all, winnows the light away;
And what hath Maſs, or Matter by it ſelf,
Lies rich in Virtue, and unmingled.

Neſt. With due obſervance of thy godly Seat,
Great Agamemnon, Neſtor ſhall apply
Thy lateſt words.
In the reproof of Chance,
Lies the true proof of men: The Sea being ſmooth,
How many ſhallow bauble Boats dare ſail
Upon her patient breaſt, making their way
With thoſe of noble Bulk?
But let the Ruſſian Boreas once enrage
The gentle Thetis, and anon behold
The ſtrong ribb'd Bark, through liquid mountains cuts
Bounding between the two moiſt Elements,
Like Perſeus Horſe. Where's then the ſawcy Boat,
Whoſe weak untimber'd ſides but even now
Co-rival'd Greatneſs? Either to harbour fled,
Or made a Toſt for Neptune. Even ſo,
Doth Valours ſhew, and Valours worth divide
In ſtorms of Fortune.
For, in her ray and brightneſs,
The Herd hath more annoyance by the Brize
Than by the Tyger: But, when the ſplitting wind
Makes flexible the knees of knotted Oaks,
And flyes fled under ſhade, why then
The thing of Courage,
As rowz'd with rage, with rage doth ſympathize,
And with an accent tun'd in ſelf-ſame key,
Retires to chiding Fortune.

Ulyſ. Agamemnon,
Thou great Commander, Nerve, and Bone of Greece,
Heart of our Numbers, Soul, and only Spirit,
In whom the tempers, and the minds of all
Should be ſhut up; Hear what Ulyſſes ſpeaks,
Beſides th' applauſe and approbation
The which (moſt Mighty) for thy place and merit,
And thou moſt reverend for thy ſtretcht-out life,
I give to both your Speeches, which were ſuch,
As Agamemnon and the hand of Greece
Should hold up high in Braſs: and ſuch again

As

As venerable Neſtor (hatch'd in Silver)
Should with a bond of Air, ſtrong as the Axletree
On which the Heavens ride, knit all Greeks ears
To his experienc'd tongue: yet let it pleaſe both (Thou Great, and Wiſe) to hear Ulyſſes ſpeak.
Aga. Speak, Prince of Ithaca, and be't of leſs exſpect;
That matter needleſs of importleſs burthen
Divide thy lips: then we are confident,
When rank Therſites opes his Maſtick jaws,
We ſhall hear Muſick, Wit, and Oracle.
Ulyſ. Troy, yet upon her Baſis, had been down,
And the great Hector's Sword had lack'd a Maſter,
But for theſe inſtances.
The ſpeciality of Rule hath been neglected;
And look how many Grecian Tents do ſtand
Hollow upon this Plain, ſo many hollow Factions.
When that the General is not like the Hive,
To whom the Forragers ſhall all repair,
What Hony is expected? Degree being vizarded,
Th' unworthieſt ſhews as fairly in the Mask.
The Heavens themſelves, the Planets, and this Center,
Obſerve degree, priority, and place,
Inſiſture, courſe, proportion, ſeaſon, form,
Office, and cuſtom, in all line of Order:
And therefore is the glorious Planet Sol,
In noble eminence, enthron'd and ſphear'd
Amidſt the other, whoſe Med'cinable eye
Corrects the ill Aſpects of Planets evil,
And poſts like the Command'ment of a King,
Sans check, to good and bad. But when the Planets
In evil mixture to diſorder wander,
What Plagues, and what Portents, what Mutiny?
What raging of the Sea? ſhaking of Earth?
Commotion in the Winds? Frights, changes, horrours,
Divert and crack, rend and deracinate
The unity, and married calm of States
Quite from their fixture? O, when Degree is ſhak'd,
(Which is the Ladder to all High deſigns)
The enterprize is ſick. How could Communities,
Degrees in Schools, and Brother-hoods in Cities,
Peaceful Commerce from dividible ſhores,
The Primogenitive, and due of Birth,
Prerogative of Age, Crowns, Scepters, Lawrels,
(But by Degree) ſtand in Authentique place?
Take but Degree away, untune that ſtring,
And hark what Diſcord follows: each thing meets
In meer oppugnancy. The bounded Waters
Would lift their boſoms higher than the Shores,
And make a ſop of all this ſolid Globe:
Strength would be Lord of imbecillity,
And the rude Son would ſtrike his Father dead:
Force would be right, or rather, Right and Wrong,
(Between whoſe endleſs jar, Juſtice reſides)
Would loſe their names, and ſo would juſtice too.
Then every thing includes it ſelf in Power,
Power into Will, Will into Appetite,
And Appetite (an univerſal Wolf,
So doubly ſeconded with Will, and Power)
Muſt make perforce an univerſal Prey,
And laſt, eat up himſelf.
Great Agamemnon,
This Chaos, when Degree is ſuffocate,
Follows the choaking:
And this neglection of Degree, is it
That by a pace goes backward in a purpoſe
It hath to climb. The General's diſdain'd
By him one ſtep below; he by the next,
That next, by him beneath: ſo every ſtep
Exampled by the firſt pace that is ſick
Of his Superiour, grows to an envious Feaver
Of pale, and bloodleſs Emulation.
And 'tis this Feaver that keeps Troy on foot,
Not her own Sinews. To end a tale of length,
Troy in our weakneſs lives, not in her ſtrength.

Neſt. Moſt wiſely hath Ulyſſes here diſcover'd
The Feaver, whereof all our Power is ſick.
Aga. The Nature of the ſickneſs found, (Ulyſſes)
What is the Remedy?
Ulyſſ. The great Achilles, whom Opinion crowns
The Sinew, and the Fore-hand of our Hoſt,
Having his ear full of his airy Fame,
Grows dainty of his Worth, and in his Tent
Lies mocking our Deſigns. With him Patroclus,
Upon a lazy Bed, the live-long day
Breaks ſcurril Jeſts,
And with ridiculous and aukward action,
(Which, Slanderer, he imitation calls)
He Pageants us. Sometime, great Agamemnon,
Thy topleſs Deputation he puts on;
And like a ſtrutting Player, whoſe conceit
Lies in his Ham-ſtring, and doth think it rich
To hear the wooden Dialogue and ſound
'Twixt his ſtretch'd footing, and the Scaffoldage,
(Such to be pitied, and o're-reſted ſeeming
He acts thy Greatneſs in) and when he ſpeaks,
'Tis like a Chime a mending, with terms unſquar'd,
Which from the tongue of roaring Typhon dropt,
Would ſeem Hyperboles. At this fuſty ſtuff,
The large Achilles (on his preſt-bed lolling)
From his deep Cheſt, laughs out a loud applauſe,
Cries, excellent: 'tis Agamemnon juſt.
Now play me Neſtor; hum, and ſtroke thy Beard
As he, being dreſt to ſome Oration,
That's done, as neer as the extremeſt ends
Of Parallels; as like, as Vulcan and his Wife,
Yet good Achilles ſtill cries, Excellent,
'Tis Neſtor right. Now play him (me) Patroclus,
Arming to anſwer in a Night-alarm,
And then (forſooth) the faint defects of Age
Muſt be the Scene of mirth, to cough and ſpit,
And with a Palſie fumbling on his Gorget,
Shake in and out the Rivet: and at this ſport
Sir Valour dies; cries, O enough Patroclus,
Or, give me ribs of Steel, I ſhall ſpilt all
In pleaſure of my ſpleen. And in this faſhion,
All our abilities, gifts, natures, ſhapes,
Severals and generals of Grace exact,
Atchievements, plots, orders, preventions,
Excitements to the Field, or ſpeech for Truce,
Succeſs or loſs, what is, or is not, ſerves
As ſtuff for theſe two, to make Paradoxes.
Neſt. And in the Imitation of theſe twain,
Who (as Ulyſſes ſays) Opinion crowns
With an Imperial voice, many are infect:
Ajax is grown ſelf-will'd, and bears his head
In ſuch a rein, in full as proud a place,
As broad Achilles, and keeps his Tent like him;
Makes factious Feaſts, rails on our ſtate of War,
Bold as an Oracle, and ſets Therſites
A Slave (whoſe Gall coins ſlanders like a Mint,)
To match us in compariſons with Dirt,
To weaken and diſcredit our expoſure,
How rank ſoever rounded in with danger.
Ulyſſ. They tax our policy, and call it Cowardiſe,
Count Wiſdom as no member of the War,
Fore-ſtall preſcience, and eſteem no act
But that of hand: The ſtill and mental parts,
That do contrive how many hands ſhall ſtrike
When fitneſs calls them on, and know by meaſure
Of their obſervant toyl, the Enemies weight,
Why this hath not a fingers dignity:
They call this Bedwork, Mapp'ry, Cloſet-War,
So that the Ram that batters down the Wall
For the great ſwing and rudeneſs of his poize,
They place before his hand that made the Engine,
Or thoſe that, with the fineneſs of their Souls,
By Reaſon guide his Execution.
Neſt. Let this be granted, and Achilles horſe

Makes

Makes many Thetis Sons. [Tucket.
Aga. What Trumpet? Look Menelaus.
Men. From Troy.

Enter Æneas.

Aga. What would you 'fore our Tent?
Æne. Is this great Agamemnon's Tent, I pray you?
Aga. Even this.
Æne. May one that is a Herald, and a Prince,
Do a fair meſſage to his Kingly ears?
Aga. With ſurety ſtronger than Achilles arm,
'Fore all the Greekiſh heads, which with one voice
Call Agamemnon Head and General.
Æne. Fair leave, and large ſecurity. How may
A ſtranger to thoſe moſt Imperial looks,
Know them from eyes of other Mortals?
Aga. How?
Æne. I ask, that I might waken reverence,
And on the Cheek be ready with a bluſh
Modeſt as morning, when ſhe coldly eyes
The youthful Phœbus:
Which is that God in Office guiding men?
Which is the high and mighty Agamemnon?
Aga. This Trojan ſcorns us, or the men of Troy
Are ceremonious Courtiers.
Æne. Courtiers as free, as debonair, unarm'd,
As bending Angels: that's their Fame, in peace:
But when they would ſeem Souldiers, they have galls,
Good Arms, ſtrong joynts, true Swords, and Joves accord,
Nothing ſo full of heart. But peace, Æneas,
Peace Trojan, lay thy finger on thy lips,
The worthineſs of praiſe diſtains his worth,
If that he prais'd himſelf, bring the praiſe forth:
What the repining Enemy commends,
That breath fame blows, that praiſe ſole pure tranſcends.
Aga. Sir, you of Troy, call you your ſelf, Æneas?
Æne. I, Greek, that is my name.
Aga. What's your Affair, I pray you?
Æne. Sir pardon, 'tis for Agamemnon's ears.
Aga. He hears nought privately,
That comes from Troy.
Æne. Nor I from Troy come not to whiſper him,
I bring a Trumpet to awake his ear,
To ſet his ſenſe on the attentive bent,
And then to ſpeak.
Aga. Speak frankly as the wind,
It is not Agamemnon's ſleeping hour;
That thou ſhalt know, Trojan, he is awake,
He tells thee ſo himſelf.
Æne. Trumpet blow loud:
Send thy braſs voice through all theſe lazy Tents,
And every Greek of Mettle, let him know,
What Troy means fairly, ſhall be ſpoke alowd.
[The Trumpets ſound.
We have, great Agamemnon, here in Troy,
A Prince call'd Hector, Priam is his Father:
Who in this dull and long continu'd Truce
Is ruſty grown, he bad me take a Trumpet,
And to this purpoſe ſpeak: Kings, Princes, Lords,
If there be one amongſt the fair'ſt of Greece,
That holds his Honour higher than his eaſe,
That ſeeks his praiſe, more than he fears his peril,
That knows his Valour, and knows not his Fear,
That loves his Miſtreſs more than in Confeſſion,
(With truant vows to her own lips he loves)
And dare avow her Beauty, and her Worth,
In other arms than hers: to him this Challenge.
Hector, in view of Trojans and of Greeks,
Shall make it good, or do his beſt to do it.
He hath a Lady, wiſer, fairer, truer,
Than ever Greek did compaſs in his arms,
And will to morrow with his Trumpet call,
Midway between your Tents, and Walls of Troy,
To rowze a Grecian that is true in love.
If any come, Hector ſhall honour him:
If none, he'll ſay in Troy when he retires,
The Grecian Dames are ſun-burnt, and not worth
The ſplinter of a Lance: Even ſo much.
Aga. This ſhall be told our Lovers, Lord Æneas.
If none of them have Soul in ſuch a kind,
We left them all at home: But we are Souldiers,
And may that Souldier a meer Recreant prove,
That means not, hath not, or is not in love;
If then one is, or hath, or means to be,
That one meets Hector, if none, I'le be he.
Neſ. Tell him of Neſtor, one that was a Man
When Hector's Granſire ſuckt; he is old now,
But if there be not in our Grecian mould,
One Nobleman, that hath one ſpark of Fire
To anſwer for his Love; tell him from me,
I'le hide my Silver Beard in a Gold Beaver,
And in my Vantbrace put this wither'd brawn,
And meeting him, will tell him, that my Lady
Was fairer than his Grandam, and as chaſte
As may be in the world: his youth in flood,
I'le pawn this truth with my three drops of Blood.
Æne. Now Heavens forbid ſuch ſcarcity of youth.
Ulyſ. Amen.
Aga. Fair Lord Æneas,
Let me touch your hand:
To our Pavillion ſhall I lead you firſt:
Achilles ſhall have word of this intent,
So ſhall each Lord of Greece from Tent to Tent;
Your ſelf ſhall feaſt with us before you go,
And find the welcome of a Noble Foe. [Exeunt.

Manent Ulyſſes and Neſtor.

Ulyſſ. Neſtor.
Neſ. What ſays Ulyſſes?
Ulyſ. I have a young conception in my brain,
Be you my time to bring it to ſome ſhape.
Neſ. What is't?
Ulyſ. This 'tis:
Blunt wedges rive hard knots: the ſeeded Pride
That hath to this maturity blown up
In rank Achilles, muſt or now be cropt,
Or (ſhedding) breed a Nurſery of like evil
To over-bulk us all.
Neſt. Well, and how?
Ulyſ. This challenge, that the gallant Hector ſends,
However it is ſpread in general Name,
Relates in purpoſe only to Achilles.
Neſt. The purpoſe is perſpicuous even as ſubſtance,
Whoſe groſſneſs little Characters ſum up,
And in the publication make no ſtrain,
But that Achilles, were his brain as barren,
As banks of Libya, though (Apollo knows)
'Tis dry enough, will with great ſpeed of judgment,
I, with celerity, find Hector's purpoſe
Pointing on him.
Ulyſ. And wake him to the anſwer, think you?
Neſt. Yes, 'tis moſt meet; whom may you elſe oppoſe
That can from Hector bring his honour off,
If not Achilles; though't be a ſportful Combat,
Yet in this Tryal much Opinion dwells.
For here the Trojans taſte our dear'ſt repute
With their fin'ſt Palate: and truſt to me, Ulyſſes,
Our imputation ſhall be odly poiz'd
In this wild action. For the ſucceſs
(Although particular) ſhall give a ſcantling
Of good or bad, unto the General:
And in ſuch Indexes, although ſmall Pricks
To their ſubſequent Volums, there is ſeen
The baby figure of the Giant-maſs
Of things to come at large. It is ſuppos'd,
He that meets Hector, iſſues from our choice;
And choice being mutual act of all our Souls,
Makes Merit her election, and doth boyl
As 'twere from forth us all; a man diſtill'd
Out of our Virtues; who miſcarrying,

What

What heart from hence receives the conq'ring part
To ſteel a ſtrong Opinion to themſelves,
Which entertain'd, Limbs are his inſtruments,
In no leſs working, than are Swords and Bows
Directive by the Limbs.
Vlyſſ. Give pardon to my ſpeech:
Therefore 'tis meet, Achilles meet not Hector:
Let us (like Merchants) ſhew our fowleſt Wares,
And think perchance they'll ſell: if not,
The luſtre of the better, yet to ſhew,
Shall ſhew the better: Do not conſent,
That ever Hector and Achilles meet:
For both our Honour, and our Shame in this,
Are dogg'd with two ſtrange Followers.
Neſt. I ſee them not with my old eyes: What are they?
Vlyſſ. What glory our Achilles ſhares from Hector,
(Were he not proud) we all ſhould wear with him:
But he already is too inſolent:
And we were better parch in Africk Sun
Than in the pride and ſalt ſcorn of his Eyes,
Should he ſcape Hector fair. If he were foyl'd,
Why then we did our main Opinion cruſh
In taint of our beſt man. No, make a Lott'ry,
And by device let blockiſh Ajax draw
The ſort to fight with Hector: Among our ſelves,
Give him allowance as the worthyer man,
For that will Phyſick the great Myrmidon
Who broyls in lowd applauſe, and make him fall
His Creſt, that prouder than blew Iris bends.
If the dull brainleſs Ajax come ſafe off,
We'll dreſs him up in voices: if he fail,
Yet go we under our Opinion ſtill,
That we have better men. But hit or miſs,
Our projects life this ſhape of ſence aſſumes,
Ajax imploy'd plucks down Achilles Plumes.
Neſt. Now Ulyſſes, I begin to reliſh thy advice,
And I will give a taſt of it forthwith
To Agamemnon, go we to him ſtreight;
Two Curs ſhall tame each other, Pride alone
Muſt tar the Maſtiffs on as 'twere their bone. [Exeunt.

Enter Ajax and Therſites.

Aja. Therſites.
Ther. Agamemnon, how if he had Biles (full) all over generally.
Aja. Therſites?
Ther. And thoſe Biles did run, ſay ſo; did not the General run, were not that a botchy core?
Aja. Dog.
Ther. Then there would come ſome matter from him: I ſee none now.
Aja. Thou Bitch-Wolfs Son, canſt thou not hear? Feel then. [Strikes him.
Ther. The Plague of Greece upon thee, thou Mungrel beef-witted Lord.
Aja. Speak then, you whinid'ſt leaven, ſpeak, I will beat thee into handſomneſs.
Ther. I ſhall ſooner rail thee into wit and holineſs: but I think thy Horſe will ſooner con an Oration, than thou learn a Prayer without book: Thou canſt ſtrike, canſt thou? A red Murren o'thy Jades tricks.
Aja. Toads-ſtool, learn me the Proclamation.
Ther. Doeſt thou think, I have no ſence thou ſtrik'ſt me (thus?
Aja. The Proclamation.
Ther. Thou art proclaim'd a Fool, I think.
Aja. Do not Porpentine, do not: my Fingers itch.
Ther. I would thou didſt itch from head to foot, and I had the ſcratching of thee, I would make thee the lothſom'ſt ſcab in Greece.
Aja. I ſay, the Proclamation.
Ther. Thou grumbleſt and rayleſt every hour on Achilles, and thou art as full of envy at his greatneſs, as Cerberus is at Proſerpina's beauty. I, that thou bark'ſt at him.
Aja. Miſtreſs Therſites.
Ther. Thou ſhould'ſt ſtrike him.
Aja. Cobloaf.
Ther. He would pun thee into ſhivers with his fiſt, as a Sailor breaks a bisket.
Aja. You whorſon Cur.
Ther. Do, do.
Aja. Thou ſtool for a Witch.
Ther. I, do, do, thou ſodden-witted Lord: thou haſt no more brain than I have in mine elbows: An Aſinico may tutor thee. Thou ſcurvy valiant Aſs, thou art here but to threſh Trojans, and thou art bought and ſold among thoſe of any wit, like a Barbarian Slave. If thou uſe to beat me, I will begin at thy heel, and tell what thou art by inches, thou thing of no bowels, thou.
Aja. You dog.
Ther. You ſcurvy Lord.
Aja. You Cur.
Ther. Mars his Idiot: do rudeneſs, do Camel, do, do.

Enter Achilles, and Patroclus.

Achil. Why how now, Ajax? wherefore do yo this? How now, Therſites? what's the matter, man?
Ther. You ſee him there, do you?
Achil. I, what's the matter?
Ther. Nay look upon him.
Achil. So I do, what's the matter?
Ther. Nay, but regard him well.
Achil. Well, why I do ſo.
Ther. But yet you look not well upon him: for whoſoever you take him to be, he is Ajax.
Achil. I know that fool.
Ther. I, but that fool knows not himſelf.
Aja. Therefore I beat thee.
Ther. Lo, lo, lo, lo, what modicums of wit he utters, his evaſions have ears thus long. I have bobb'd his Brain more than he has beat my Bones: I will buy nine Sparrows for a Penny, and his Pia Mater is not worth the ninth part of a Sparrow. This Lord (Achilles) Ajax, who wears his wit in his belly, and his guts in his head, I'le tell you what I ſay of him.
Achil. What?
Ther. I ſay, this Ajax———
Achil. Nay, Good Ajax.
Ther. Has not ſo much wit———
Achil. Nay, I muſt hold you.
Ther. As will ſtop the Eye of Helens Needle, for whom he comes to fight.
Achil. Peace, fool.
Ther. I would have peace and quietneſs, but the fool will not: he there, that he, look you there.
Aja. O thou damn'd Cur, I ſhall———
Achil. Will you ſet your wit to a Fool's?
Ther. No I warrant you, for a fools will ſhame it.
Pat. Good words, Therſites.
Achil. What's the quarrel?
Aja. I bad thee, vile Owl, go learn me the tenure of the Proclamation, and he rails upon me.
Ther. I ſerve thee not.
Ajax. We'll, go to, go to.
Ther. I ſerve here voluntary.
Achil. Your laſt ſervice was ſufferance, 'twas not voluntary, no man is beaten voluntary: Ajax was here the voluntary, and you as under an Impreſs.
Ther. E'ne ſo, a great deal of your wit too lies in your Sinews, or elſe there be Liars: Hector ſhall have a great catch, if he knock out either of your brains, he were as good crack a fuſty Nut with no Kernel.
Achil. What with me too, Therſites?
Ther. There's Ulyſſes, and old Neſtor, whoſe Wit was mouldy e're their Granſires had nails on their toes, yoke you like draft-Oxen, and make you plough up the wair.
Achil. What? what?
Ther. Yes, good ſooth, to Achilles, to Ajax, to———
Ajax. I ſhall cut out your tongue.
Ther. 'Tis no matter, I ſhall ſpeak as much as thou afterwards.

Pat.

Pat. No more words, Therſites.

Ther. I will hold my peace when Achilles Brooch bids me, ſhall I?

Achil. There's for you, Patroclus.

Ther. I will ſee you hang'd like Clotpoles, e're I come any more to your Tents, I will keep where there is wit ſtirring, and leave the Faction of fools. [Exit.

Pat. A good riddance.

Achil. Marry this, Sir, is proclaim'd through all our hoſt, That Hector by the fifth hour of the Sun, Will with a Trumpet, 'twixt our Tents and Troy, To morrow morning call ſome Knight to Arms, That hath a Stomach, and ſuch a one that dare Maintain I know not what: 'tis trash, Farewel.

Ajax. Farewel? who ſhall anſwer him?

Achil. I know not, 'tis put to Lott'ry: otherwiſe He knew his man.

Aja. O, meaning you, I will go learn more of it. [Exit.

Enter Priam, Hector, Troilus, Paris, and Helenus.

Pri. After ſo many hours, lives, ſpeeches ſpent, Thus once again ſays Neſtor from the Greeks, Deliver Helen, and all damage elſe (As honour, loſs of time, travel, expence, Wounds, friends, and what elſe dear, that is conſum'd In not diſgeſtion of this Cormorant War) Shall be ſtruck off. Hector, what ſay you to't?

Hect. Though no man leſſer fears the Greeks than I, As far as touches my particular: yet, dread Priam, There is no Lady of more ſofter bowels, More ſpungy to ſuck in the ſenſe of fear, More ready to cry out, Who knows what follows, Than Hector is: the wound of peace is ſurety, Surety ſecure: but modeſt doubt is call'd The Beacon of the wiſe: the Tent that ſearches To'th' bottom of the worſt. Let Helen go. Since the firſt Sword was drawn about this Queſtion, Every Tithe Soul 'mongſt many thouſand diſmes, Hath been as dear as Helen, I mean of ours: If we have loſt ſo many Tenths of ours To guard a thing not ours, nor worth to us (Had it our name) the value of one Ten; What merit's in that reaſon, which denies The yielding of her up?

Troi. Fie, fie, my Brother: Weigh you the worth and honour of a King (So great is our dread Father) in a Scale Of common Ounces? Will you with Counters ſum The paſt proportion of his Infinite? And buckle in a waſt, moſt fathomleſs, With ſpans and inches ſo diminutive, As fears and reaſons? Fye for godly ſhame?

Hel. No marvel, though you bite ſo ſharp at reaſons, You are empty of them, ſhould not our Father Bear the great ſway of his affairs with reaſons, Becauſe your ſpeech hath none, that tells him ſo?

Troi. You are for dreams and ſlumbers, Brother Prieſt, You fur your Gloves with reaſon: here are your reaſons, You know an Enemy intends you harm: You know, a Sword imploy'd is perillous, And reaſon flies the object of all harm: Who marvels then, when Helenus beholds A Grecian and his Sword, if he do ſet The very wings of reaſon to his heels: Or like a Star diſorb'd. Nay, if we talk of reaſon, And flye like chidden Mercury from Jove, Let's ſhut our Gates and ſleep: Manhood and Honour Should have hard hearts, would they but fat their thoughts With this cramm'd reaſon: reaſon and reſpect Makes lovers pale, and luſtiehood deject.

Hect. Brother, ſhe is not worth, What ſhe doth coſt the holding.

Troi. What's ought, but as 'tis valu'd?

Hect. But value dwells not in particular will, It holds his eſtimate and dignity, As well wherein 'tis precious of it ſelf, As in the prizer: 'Tis made Idolatry, To make the Service greater than the God; And the will dotes, that is inclinable To what infectiouſly it ſelf affects, Without ſome image of th' affected merit.

Troi. I take to day a Wife, and my election Is led on in the conduct of my Will; My Will enkindled by mine eyes and ears, Two traded Pilots 'twixt the dangerous ſhores Of Will and Judgment. How may I avoid (Although my Will diſtaſt what is elected) The Wife I choſe, there can be no evaſion To blench from this, and to ſtand firm by honour. We turn not back the Silks upon the Merchant, When we have ſpoil'd them; nor the remainder Viands We do not throw in unreſpective place, Becauſe we now are full. It was thought meet, Paris ſhould do ſome vengeance on the Greeks; Your breath of full conſent bellied his Sails, The Seas and Winds (old Wranglers) took a Truce, And did him ſervice; he touch'd the Ports deſir'd And for an old Aunt, whom the Greeks held Captive, He brought a Grecian Queen, whoſe youth and freſhneſs Wrinkles Apollo's, and makes ſtale the morning. Why keep we her? the Grecians keep our Aunt: Is ſhe worth keeping? Why, ſhe is a Pearl, Whoſe Price hath launched above a thouſand Ships, And turn'd Crown'd Kings to Merchants. If you'l avouch, 'twas Wiſdom, Paris went, (As you muſt needs, for you all cry'd, Go, go:) If you'l confeſs, he brought home Noble Prize, (As you muſt needs, for you all clapt your hands) And cry'd, ineſtimable; why do you now The iſſue of your proper Wiſdoms rate, And do a deed that Fortune never did, Begger the eſtimation, which you priz'd Richer than Sea and Land? O Theft moſt baſe! That we have ſtollen what we do fear to keep. But Thieves, unworthy of a thing ſo ſtoln, That in their Countrey did them that diſgrace, We fear to warrant in our Native place.

Enter Caſſandra with her hair about her ears.

Caſ. Cry, Trojans, cry.

Priam. What noiſe? what ſhriek is this?

Troi. 'Tis our mad Siſter, I do know her voice.

Caſ. Cry, Trojans.

Hec. It is Caſſandra.

Caſ. Cry, Trojans, cry; lend me ten thouſand eyes, And I will fill them with Prophetick tears.

Hec. Peace, Siſter, peace.

Caſ. Virgins and Boys; mid-age and wrinkled old, Soft infancy, that nothing can but cry, Add to my clamour: let us pay betimes A moiety of that maſs of moan to come. Cry, Trojans, cry, practiſe your eyes with tears, Troy muſt not be, nor goodly Ilion ſtand, Our Fire-brand Brother Paris burns us all. Cry, Trojans, cry, a Helen and a woe; Cry, cry, Troy burns, or elſe let Helen go. [Exit.

Hec. Now, youthful Troilus, do not theſe high ſtrains Of Divination in our Siſter work Some touches of remorſe? Or is your Blood So madly hot, that no diſcourſe of reaſon, Nor fear of bad Succeſs in a bad cauſe, Can qualifie the ſame?

Troi. Why Brother Hector, We may not think the juſtneſs of each act Such and no other than event doth form it; Nor once deject the courage of our minds, Becauſe Caſſandra's mad, her brainſick raptures Cannot diſtaſt the goodneſs of a quarrel,

Which

Which hath our ſeveral Honours all engag'd
To make it gracious. For my private part,
I am no more touch'd, than all Priam's Sons,
And Jove forbid, there ſhould be done amongſt us
Such things as might offend the weakeſt ſpleen,
To fight for, and maintain.

Par. Elſe might the world convince of Levity,
As well my undertakings, as your counſels:
But I atteſt the Gods, your full conſent
Gave wings to my propenſion, and cut off
All fears attending on ſo dire a project.
For what (alas) can theſe my ſingle arms?
What propugnation is in one mans valour
To ſtand the puſh and enmity of thoſe
This quarrel would excite? Yet, I proteſt,
Were I alone to paſs the difficulties,
And had as ample Power, as I have Will,
Paris ſhould ne're retract what he hath done,
Nor faint in the purſuit.

Pri. Paris, you ſpeak
Like one beſotted on your ſweet delights;
You have the Honey ſtill, but theſe the Gall,
So to be valiant, is no praiſe at all.

Par. Sir, I propoſe not meerly to my ſelf,
The pleaſures ſuch a beauty brings with it:
But I would have the ſoyl of her fair Rape
Wip'd off in honourable keeping her.
What Treaſon were it to the ranſack'd Queen,
Diſgrace to your great worths, and ſhame to me,
Now to deliver her poſſeſſion up,
On terms of baſe compulſion? Can it be,
That ſo degenerate a ſtrain as this,
Should once ſet foot in your generous boſoms?
There's not the meaneſt ſpirit on our party,
Without a Heart to dare, or Sword to draw,
When Helen is defended: Nor none ſo Noble,
Whoſe Life were ill beſtow'd, or death unfam'd,
Where Helen is the Subject. Then (I ſay)
Well may we fight for her, whom we know well,
The Worlds large ſpaces cannot parallel.

Hect. Paris, and Troilus, you have both ſaid well:
And on the Cauſe and Queſtion, now in hand,
Have gloz'd, but ſuperficially; not much
Unlike young Men, whom Ariſtotle thought
Unfit to hear Moral Philoſophy,
The Reaſons you alledge, do more conduce
To the hot paſſion of diſtemper'd blood,
Than to make up a free determination
'Twixt right and wrong: For pleaſure and revenge,
Have Ears more deaf than Adders, to the voice
Of any true deciſion. Nature craves
All dues be rendred to their Owners; now
What nearer debt in all humanity,
Than Wife is to the Husband? If this Law
Of Nature be corrupted through affection,
And that great minds of partial indulgence,
To their benummed wills reſiſt the ſame,
There is a Law in each well-ordered Nation,
To curb thoſe raging appetites that are
Moſt diſobedient and refractory.
If Helen then be Wife to Sparta's King,
(As it is known ſhe is) theſe Moral Laws
Of Nature, and of Nation, ſpeak aloud
To have her back return'd. Thus to perſiſt
In doing wrong, extenuates not wrong,
But makes it much more heavy. Hector's opinion
Is this in way of truth: yet ne're the leſs,
My ſpritely Brethren, I propend to you
In reſolution to keep Helen ſtill;
For 'tis a cauſe that hath no mean dependance,
Upon our joint and ſeveral Dignities.

Troi. Why? there you touch'd the Life of our deſign:
Were it not Glory that we more affected,
Than the performance of our heaving ſpleens,
I would not wiſh a drop of Trojan blood,
Spent more in her defence. But, worthy Hector,
She is a Theam of Honour and Renown,
A Spur to valiant and magnanimous deeds,
Whoſe preſent courage may beat down our Foes,
And Fame, in time to come, canonize us.
For I preſume, brave Hector would not loſe
So rich advantage of a promis'd Glory,
As ſmiles upon the fore-head of this action,
For the wide VVorlds Revenue.

Hect. I am yours,
You valiant Off-ſpring of great Priamus,
I have a roiſting challenge ſent amongſt
The dull and factious Nobles of the Greeks,
VVill ſtrike amazement to their drowſie Spirits.
I was advertis'd, their great General ſlept,
Whil'ſt Emulation in the Army crept:
This I preſume will wake him. [Exeunt.

Enter Therſites ſolus.

Now, now, Therſites? what loſt in the Labyrinth of thy Fury? Shall the Elephant Ajax, carry it thus? He beats me, and I rail at him: O worthy ſatisfaction, would it were otherwiſe: that I could beat him, whil'ſt he rail'd at me: 'Sfoot, I'le learn to Conjure and raiſe Devils, but I'le ſee ſome iſſue of my ſpiteful execrations. Then there's Achilles, a rare Engineer. If Troy be not taken till theſe two undermine it, the walls will ſtand till they fall of themſelves. O thou great Thunder-darter of Olympus, forget that thou art Jove the King of Gods: and Mercury, loſe all the Serpentine craft of thy Caduceus, if thou take not that little little leſs than little wit from them that they have, which ſhort-arm'd ignorance it ſelf knows, is ſo abundant ſcarce, it will not in circumvention deliver a Fly from a Spider, without drawing the maſſie Irons and cutting the web: after this, the vengeance on the whole Camp, or rather the bone-ach, for that methinks is the curſe dependant on thoſe that war for a Placket. I have ſaid my Prayers, and Devil, Envy, ſay, Amen: VVhat ho? my Lord Achilles?

Enter Patroclus.

Patr. VVho's there? Therſites. Good Therſites come in and rail.

Ther. If I could have remembred a guilt counterfeit, thou would'ſt not have ſlipt out of my Contemplation, but it is no matter, thy ſelf upon thy ſelf. The common Curſe of mankind, folly and ignorance be thine in great Revenue; Heaven bleſs thee from a Tutor, and Diſcipline come not near thee. Let thy blood be thy direction till thy death, then if ſhe that lays thee out, ſays thou art a fair Coarſe, I'le be ſworn and ſworn upon't, ſhe never ſhrowded any but Lazars, Amen. VVhere's Achilles?

Patr. VVhat, art thou devout? waſt thou in a Prayer?

Ther. I, the Heavens hear me.

Enter Achilles.

Achil. VVho's there?

Patr. Therſites, my Lord.

Achil. VVhere, where, art thou come? why, my cheeſe, my digeſtion, why haſt thou not ſerv'd thy ſelf into my Table, ſo many meals? Come, what's Agamemnon?

Ther. Thy Commander, Achilles, then tell me, Patroclus, what's Achilles?

Patr. Thy Lord, Therſites: then tell me, I pray thee, what's thy ſelf?

Ther. Thy knower, Patroclus: then tell me, Patroclus, what art thou?

Patr. Thou may'ſt tell, that know'ſt.

Achil. O tell, tell.

Ther. I'le decline the whole queſtion: Agamemnon commands Achilles, Achilles is my Lord, I am Patroclus's knower, and Patroclus is a Fool.

Patr. You Raſcal.

Ther. Peace, Fool, I have not done.

Achil. He is a priviledg'd man, proceed, Therſites.

Ther. Agamemnon is a Fool, Achilles is a Fool, Therſites

ſites is a Fool, and, as aforeſaid, Patroclus is a Fool.

Achil. Derive this: come?

Ther. Agamemnon is a Fool to offer to command Achilles, Achilles is a Fool to be commanded of Agamemnon, Therſites is a Fool to ſerve ſuch a Fool: and Patroclus is a Fool poſitive.

Patr. Why am I a Fool?

Enter Agamemnon, Ulyſſes, Neſtor, Diomedes, Ajax, and Chalcas.

Ther. Make that demand to the Creator, it ſuffices me thou art. Look you, who comes here?

Achil. Patroclus, I'le ſpeak with no body: come in with me, Therſites. [Exit.

Ther. Here is ſuch Patchery, ſuch Jugling, and ſuch Knavery: all the argument is a Cuckold and a Whore, a good quarrel to draw emulatious Factions, and bleed to death upon: Now the dry Serpigo on the ſubject, and War and Lechery confound all.

Agam. Where is Achilles?

Patr. Within his Tent, but ill diſpos'd, my Lord.

Agam. Let it be known to him that we are here.
He ſent our Meſſengers, and we lay by
Our appertainments, viſiting of him:
Let him be told of, leſt perchance he think
We dare not move the queſtion of our place,
Or know not what we are.

Patr. I ſhall ſo ſay to him.

Ulyſ. We ſaw him at the opening of his Tent,
He is not ſick.

Aja. Yes, Lion-ſick, ſick of a proud heart: you may call it Melancholy if you will favour the Man, but by my head, 'tis pride; but why, why, let him ſhew us the cauſe? A word, my Lord.

Neſt. What moves Ajax thus to bay at him?

Ulyſ. Achilles hath inveigled his Fool from him.

Neſt. Who, Therſites?

Ulyſ. He.

Neſt. Then will Ajax lack matter, if he have loſt his Argument.

Ulyſ. No, you ſee he is his Argument, that has his Argument, Achilles.

Neſt. All the better, their fraction is more our wiſh than their Faction; but it was a ſtrong Counſel that a Fool could diſunite.

Ulyſ. The amity that Wiſdom knits not, Folly may eaſily untye. Enter Patroclus.
Here comes Patroclus.

Neſt. No Achilles with him?

Ulyſ. The Elephant hath joints, but none for courteſie; His Legs are legs for neceſſity, not for flight.

Patr. Achilles bids me ſay, he is much ſorry,
If any thing more than your ſport and pleaſure,
Did move your Greatneſs, and this noble State,
To call upon him; he hopes it is no other,
But for your health, and your digeſtion-ſake;
An after Dinners breath.

Aga. Hear you, Patroclus:
We are too well acquainted with theſe anſwers:
But his evaſion wing'd thus ſwift with ſcorn,
Cannot outflye our apprehenſions.
Much attribute he hath, and much the reaſon,
Why we aſcribe it to him, yet all his virtues,
(Not virtuouſly of his own part beheld)
Do in our Eyes, begin to loſe their gloſs;
And like fair Fruit in an unwholſom diſh,
Are like to rot untaſted; go and tell him,
We come to ſpeak with him, and you ſhall not ſin,
If you do ſay, we think him over-proud,
And under-honeſt: in ſelf-aſſumption greater
Than in the note of judgment: and worthier than himſelf.
Here tends the ſavage ſtrangeneſs he puts on,
Diſguiſe the holy ſtrength of their command:
And under write in an obſerving kind
His humorous predominance, yea, watch
His pettiſh lines, his ebbs, his flows, as if
The paſſage and whole carriage of this action
Rode on his tide. Go tell him this, and add,
That if he over-hold his price ſo much,
We'll none of him; but let him, like an Engine
Not portable, lye under this report.
Bring action hither, this cannot go to war:
A ſtirring Dwarf, we do allowance give,
Before a ſleeping Gyant: tell him ſo.

Pat. I ſhall, and bring his anſwer preſently.

Aga. In ſecond voice we'll not be ſatisfied,
We come to ſpeak with him, Ulyſſes, enter you. [Exit Ulyſſes.

Aja. What is he more than another?

Aga. No more than what he thinks he is.

Aja. Is he ſo much? do you not think, he thinks himſelf a better Man than I am?

Aga. No queſtion.

Aja. VVill you ſubſcribe his thought, and ſay, he is?

Aga. No, Noble Ajax, you are as ſtrong, as valiant, as wiſe, no leſs noble, much more gentle, and altogether more tractable.

Aja. VVhy ſhould a Man be proud? How doth Pride grow? I know not what it is.

Aga. Your mind is the clearer, Ajax, and your virtues the fairer; he that is proud, eats up himſelf, Pride is his own Glaſs, his own Trumpet, his own Chronicle, and what ever praiſes it ſelf but in the deed, devours the deed in the praiſe.

Enter Ulyſſes.

Aja. I do hate a proud Man, as I hate the engendring of Toads.

Neſt. Yet he loves himſelf: is't not ſtrange?

Ulyſ. Achilles will not to the field to morrow.

Aga. VVhat's his excuſe?

Ulyſ. He doth rely on none,
But carries on the ſtream of his diſpoſe,
VVithout obſervance or reſpect of any,
In will peculiar, and in ſelf-admiſſion.

Aga. VVhy, will he not upon our fair requeſt,
Untent his perſon, and ſhare the Ayr with us?

Ulyſ. Things ſmall as nothing, for requeſts ſake only
He makes important: poſſeſt he is with greatneſs,
And ſpeaks not to himſelf, but with a pride
That quarrels at ſelf-breath. Imagin'd wrath
Holds in his blood ſuch ſwoln and hot diſcourſe,
That 'twixt his mental and his active parts,
Kingdom'd Achilles in commotion rages,
And batters 'gainſt it ſelf; what ſhould I ſay?
He is ſo plaguy proud, that the death-tokens of it
Cry no recovery.

Aga. Let Ajax go to him.
Dear Lord, go you and greet him in his Tent;
'Tis ſaid he holds you well, and will be led
At your requeſt a little from himſelf.

Ulyſ. O, Agamemnon, let it not be ſo.
VVe'll conſecrate the ſteps that Ajax makes,
VVhen they go from Achilles; ſhall the proud Lord,
That baſtes his arrogance with his own ſeam,
And never ſuffers matter of the world
Enter his thoughts, ſave ſuch as do revolve
And ruminate himſelf; Shall he be worſhipt,
Of that we hold an Idol, more than he?
No, this thrice worthy, and right valiant Lord,
Muſt not ſo ſtaul his Palm, nobly acquir'd,
Nor by my will aſſubjugate his Merit,
As amply titled, as Achilles is, by going to Achilles,
That were to enlard his fat already pride,
And add more Coles to Cancer, when he burns
With entertaining great Hyperion.
This Lord go to him? Jupiter forbid,
And ſay in thunder, Achilles go to him.

Neſt. O this is well, he rubs the vein of him.
Dio. And how his ſilence drinks up his applauſe.
Aja. If I go to him, with my armed Fiſt, I'le paſh him o're the Face.
Aga. O no, you ſhall not go.
Aja. And a be proud with me, I'le pheſe his Pride: let me go to him.
Ulyſ. Not for the worth that hangs upon our quarrel.
Aja. A paultry inſolent Fellow.
Neſt. How he deſcribes himſelf.
Aja. Can he not be ſociable?
Ulyſ. The Raven chides blackneſs.
Aja. I'le let his humours blood.
Aga. He will be the Phyſitian, that ſhould be the Patient.
Aja. And all Men were a my mind.
Ulyſ. Wit would be out of faſhion.
Aja. A ſhould not bear it ſo, a ſhould eat Swords firſt: ſhall pride carry it?
Neſt. And 'twould, you'ld carry half.
Ulyſ. A would have ten ſhares.
Aja. I will knead him, I'le make him ſupple, he's not yet through warm.
Neſt. Force him with praiſes, pour in, pour in, his Ambition is dry.
Ulyſ. My Lord, you feed too much on this diſlike.
Neſt. Our noble General, do not do ſo.
Dio. You muſt prepare to fight without Achilles.
Ulyſ. Why, 'tis this naming of him doth him harm.
Here is a man, but 'tis before his Face,
I will be ſilent.
Neſt. Wherefore ſhould you ſo?
He is not emulous, as Achilles is.
Ulyſ. Know the whole world, he is as valiant.
Aja. A horſon Dog, that ſhall palter thus with us, would he were a Trojan.
Neſt. What a vice were it in Ajax now——
Ulyſ. If he were proud.
Dio. Or covetous of praiſe.
Ulyſ. I, or ſurly born.
Dio. Or ſtrange, or ſelf-affected.
Ul. Thank the Heavens L. thou art of ſweet compoſure
Praiſe him that got thee, ſhe that gave thee ſuck:
Fame be thy Tutor, and thy parts of Nature
Thrice fam'd beyond, beyond all erudition;
But he that diſciplin'd thy arms to fight,
Let Mars divide Eternity in twain,
And give him half, and for thy vigor,
Bull-bearing Milo his addition yield
To ſinewy Ajax: I will not praiſe thy wiſdom
Which, like a bourn, a pale, a ſhore, confines
Thy ſpacious and dilated parts; here's Neſtor
Inſtructed by the Antiquary times:
He muſt, he is, he cannot but be wiſe.
But pardon, Father Neſtor, were your days
As green as Ajax, and your Brain ſo temper'd,
You ſhould not have the eminence of him,
But he as Ajax.
Aja. Shall I call you Father?
Ulyſ. I, my good Son.
Dio. Be rul'd by him, Lord Ajax.
Ulyſ. There is no tarrying here, the Hart Achilles
Keeps thicket: pleaſe it our General,
To call together all this ſtate of war;
Freſh Kings are come to Troy; to morrow
We muſt with all our main of power ſtand faſt:
And here's a Lord (come Knights from Eaſt to Weſt,
And cull their flower) Ajax ſhall cope the beſt.
Ag. Go we to Council, let Achilles ſleep;
Light Boats may ſail ſwift, though greater bulks draw deep. [Exeunt. Muſick ſounds within.

Enter Pandarus, and a Servant.

Pan. Friend, you, pray you a word; Do not you follow the young Lord Paris?
Ser. I, Sir, when he goes before me.
Pan. You depend upon him, I mean?
Ser. Sir, I do depend upon the Lord.
Pan. You depend upon a Noble Gentleman: I muſt needs praiſe him.
Ser. The Lord be praiſed.
Pan. You know me, do you not?
Ser. Faith, Sir, ſuperficially.
Pan. Friend, know me better, I am the Lord Pandarus.
Ser. I hope I ſhall know your Honour better.
Pan. I do deſire it.
Ser. You are in the ſtate of Grace?
Pan. Grace, not ſo, Friend, Honour and Lordſhip are my Titles: What Muſick is this?
Ser. I do but partly know, Sir: it is Muſick in parts.
Pan. Know you the Muſicians?
Ser. Wholly, Sir.
Pan. Who play they to?
Ser. To the hearers, Sir.
Pan. At whoſe pleaſure, Friend?
Ser. At mine, Sir, and theirs that love Muſick.
Pan. Command, I mean, Friend.
Ser. Who ſhall I command, Sir?
Pan. Friend, we underſtand not one another: I am too courtly, and thou art too cunning. At whoſe requeſt do theſe Men play?
Ser. That's to't indeed, Sir: marry, Sir, at the requeſt of Paris, my Lord, who's there in perſon; with him the mortal Venus, the heart blood of Beauty, loves inviſible ſoul.
Pan. Who? my Couſin Creſſida.
Ser. No, Sir, Helen, could you not find out that by her attributes?
Pan. It ſhould ſeem, Fellow, that thou haſt not ſeen the Lady Creſſida. I come to ſpeak with Paris from the Prince Troilus: I will make a complemental aſſault upon him, for my buſineſs ſeethes.
Ser. Sodden buſineſs, there's a ſtew'd phraſe indeed.

Enter Paris and Helena.

Pan. Fair be to you, my Lord, and to all this fair company: fair deſires in all fair meaſure fairly guide them, eſpecially to you, fair Queen, fair thoughts be your fair pillow.
Hel. Dear Lord, you are full of fair words.
Pan. You ſpeak your fair pleaſure, ſweet Queen: fair Prince, here is good broken Muſick.
Par. You have broken it, Couſin: and by my life you ſhall make it whole again, you ſhall piece it out with a piece of your performance. Nel, he is full of harmony.
Pan. Truly, Lady, no.
Hel. O, Sir.
Pan. Rude in ſooth, in good ſooth very rude.
Par. Well ſaid, my Lord: well, you ſay ſo in fits.
Pan. I have buſineſs to my Lord, dear Queen: my Lord will you vouchſafe me a word?
Hel. Nay, this ſhall not hedge us out, we'l hear you ſing certainly.
Pan. Well, ſweet Queen, you are pleaſant with me; but, marry thus, my Lord, my dear Lord, and moſt eſteemed Friend, your Brother Troilus——
Hel. My Lord Pandarus, hony-ſweet Lord.
Pan. Go to, ſweet Queen, go to,
Commends himſelf moſt affectionately to you.
Hel. You ſhall not bob us out of our melody:
If you do, our melancholy upon your head.
Pan. Sweet Queen, ſweet Queen, that's a ſweet Queen I'faith——
Hel. And to make a ſweet Lady ſad, is a ſower offence.
Pan. Nay, that ſhall not ſerve your turn, that ſhall it not in truth la. Nay, I care not for ſuch words, no, no. And, my Lord, he deſires you, that if the King call for him at Supper, you will make his excuſe.
Hel. My Lord Pandarus.
Pan. What ſays my ſweet Queen, my very, very ſweet Queen?
Par. What exploit's in hand, where ſups he to night?

Hel. Nay, but my Lord.

Pan. What ſays my ſweet Queen? my Couſin will fall out with you.

Hel. You muſt not know where he ſups.

Par. With my diſpoſer, Creſſida.

Pan. No, no, no ſuch matter, you are wide, come, your diſpoſer is ſick.

Par. Well, I'le make excuſe.

Pan. I, good my Lord: why ſhould you ſay, Creſſida? no, your poor diſpoſer's ſick.

Par. I ſpy.

Pan. You ſpy, what do you ſpy? Come, give me an Inſtrument now, ſweet Queen.

Hel. Why this is kindly done.

Pan. My Niece is horrible in love with a thing you have, ſweet Queen.

Hel. She ſhall have it, my Lord, if it be not my Lord Paris.

Pan. He? no, ſhe'll none of him, they two are twain.

Hel. Falling in after falling out, may make them three.

Pan. Come, come, I'le hear no more of this, I'le ſing you a Song now.

Hel. I, I, prithee now: by my troth, ſweet Lord, thou haſt a fine fore-head.

Pan. I, you may, you may.

Hel. Let thy Song be Love: this Love will undo us all. Oh, Cupid, Cupid, Cupid.

Pan. Love? I, that it ſhall i'faith.

Par. I, good now, Love, Love, nothing but Love.

Pan. In good troth it begins ſo.

Love, Love, nothing but Love, ſtill more:
For O, Loves Bow
Shoots both Buck and Doe:
The Shaft confounds not that it wounds,
But tickles ſtill the Sore:
Theſe Lovers cry, oh ho they dye;
Yet that which ſeems they wound to kill,
Doth turn oh ho, to ha ha he:
So dying love lives ſtill,
O ho a while, but ha ha ha;
O ho groans out for ha ha ha—hey ho.

Hel. In Love i'faith to the very tip of the Noſe.

Par. He eats nothing but Doves, Love, and that breeds hot blood, and hot blood begets hot thoughts, and hot thoughts beget hot deeds, and hot deeds is Love.

Pan. Is this the generation of Love? Hot blood, hot thoughts, and hot deeds, why they are Vipers, is Love a generation of Vipers?
Sweet Lord, who's a field to day?

Par. Hector, Deiphobus, Helenus, Anthenor, and all the gallantry of Troy. I would fain have arm'd to day, but my Nell would not have it ſo.
How chance my Brother Troilus went not?

Hel. He hangs the lip at ſomething; you know all, Lord Pandarus?

Pan. Not I, hony-ſweet Queen: I long to hear how they ſped to day:
You'l remember your Brothers excuſe?

Par. To a hair.

Pan. Farewel, ſweet Queen.

Hel. Commend me to your Niece.

Pan. I will, ſweet Queen. [Sound a Retreat.

Par. They're come from Field: let us to Priam's Hall,
To greet the Warriors. Sweet Helen, I muſt woo you,
To help unarm our Hector: his ſtubborn buckles,
With theſe your white enchanting Fingers toucht,
Shall more obey, than to the edg of Steel,
Or force of Greekiſh ſinews, you ſhall do more
Than all the Iſland Kings, diſarm great Hector.

Hel. 'Twill make us proud to be your Servant, Paris:
Yea, what he ſhall receive of us in duty,
Gives us more palm in Beauty than we have:
Yea, over-ſhines our ſelf.
Sweet above thought, I love thee. [Exeunt.

Enter Pandarus, and Troilus's Man.

Pan. How now, where's thy Maſter, at my Couſin Creſſida's?

Man. No, Sir, he ſtays for you to conduct him thither.

Enter Troilus.

Pan. O, here he comes: How now, how now?

Troi. Sirrah, walk off.

Pan. Have you ſeen my Couſin?

Troi. No, Pandarus: I ſtalk about her door
Like a ſtrange Soul upon the Stygian banks
Staying for waftage. O be thou my Charon,
And give me ſwift tranſportance to thoſe Fields,
Where I may wallow in the Lilly beds
Propos'd for the deſerver. O gentle Pandarus,
From Cupids ſhoulder pluck his painted wings,
And fly with me to Creſſid.

Pan. Walk here i'th' Orchard, I'le bring her ſtraight. [Exit Pandarus.

Troi. I am giddy; expectation whirles me round,
Th' imaginary reliſh is ſo ſweet,
That it inchants my ſenſe: what will it be
When that the watry palats taſte indeed
Loves thrice reputed Nectar? Death, I fear me
Sounding deſtruction, or ſome joy too fine,
Too ſubtile, potent, and too ſharp in ſweetneſs,
For the Capacity of my ruder powers;
I fear it much, and I do fear beſides,
That I ſhall loſe diſtinction in my joys,
As doth a Battle, when they charge on heaps
The Enemy flying.

Enter Pandarus.

Pan. She's making her ready, ſhe'l come ſtraight; you muſt be witty now, ſhe does ſo bluſh, and fetches her wind ſo ſhort, as if ſhe were fraid with a ſprite: I'le fetch her; it is the prittieſt villain, ſhe fetches her breath ſo ſhort as a new ta'en Sparrow. [Exit Pand.

Troi. Even ſuch a paſſion doth embrace my boſom:
My Heart beats thicker than a feavorous Pulſe,
And all my powers do their beſtowing loſe,
Like vaſſalage at unawares encountring
The Eye of Majeſty.

Enter Pandarus and Creſſida.

Pan. Come, come, what need you bluſh?
Shame's a Baby; here ſhe is now, ſwear the oaths now to her, that you have ſworn to me. What are you gone again, you muſt be watcht e're you be made tame, muſt you? come your ways, come your ways, and you draw backward we'll put you i'th' Files: why do you not ſpeak to her? Come draw this Curtain, and lets ſee your Picture. Alas the day, how loath you are to offend day light? and 'twere dark you'ld cloſe ſooner. So, ſo, rub on, and kiſs the Miſtreſs; how now, a kiſs in fee-farm? build there Carpenter; the Ayr is ſweet. Nay, you ſhall fight your Hearts out e're I part you. The Faulcon, as the Tercel, for all the Ducks i'th' River: go to, go to.

Troi. You have bereft me of all words, Lady.

Pan. Words pay no debts; give her deeds: but ſhe'll bereave you o'th' deeds too, if ſhe call your activity in queſtion: what, billing again? here's in witneſs whereof the Parties interchangeably. Come in, come in, I'le go get a fire. [Exit Pand.

Creſ. Will you walk in, my Lord?

Troi. O Creſſida, how often have I wiſht me thus?

Creſ. Wiſht, my Lord? the Gods grant; O, my Lord.

Troi. What ſhould they grant; what makes this pretty abruption: what too curious dreg eſpies my ſweet Lady in the Fountain of our love?

Creſ. More dregs than water, if my tears have eyes.

Troi. Fears make Devils of Cherubins, they never ſee truly.

Creſ. Blind fear, that ſeeing reaſon leads, finds ſafer footing footing, than blind reaſon, ſtumbling without fear: to fear the worſt, oft cures the worſe.

Troi. O let my Lady apprehend no fear,
In all Cupid's Pageant there is preſented no Monſter.

Creſ. Nor nothing monſtrous neither?

Troi. Nothing, but their undertakings, when we vow to weep Seas, live in Fire, eat Rocks, tame Tygers, thinking it harder for our Miſtreſs to deviſe impoſition enough, than for us to undergo any difficulty impoſed. This is the monſtroſity in love (Lady,) that the will is infinite, and the execution confin'd; that the deſire is boundleſs, and the act a ſlave to limit.

Creſ. They ſay all Lovers ſwear more performance than they are able, and yet reſerve an ability that they never perform vowing more than the perfection of ten; and diſcharging leſs than the tenth part of one. They that have the voice of Lions, and the act of Hares, are they not Monſters?

Troi. Are there ſuch? ſuch are not we: Praiſe us as we are taſted, allow us as we prove: our head ſhall go bare, till merit crown it: no perfection in reverſion ſhall have a praiſe in preſent: we will not name deſert before his birth, and being born, his addition ſhall be humble: few words to fair faith. Troilus ſhall be ſuch to Creſſida, as what Envy can ſay worſt, ſhall be a mock for his truth; and what truth can ſpeak trueſt, not truer than Troilus.

Creſ. Will you walk in, my Lord?

Enter Pandarus.

Pan. What, bluſhing ſtill? have you not done talking yet?

Creſ. Well, Uncle, what folly I commit, I dedicate to you.

Pan. I thank you for that: if my Lord get a Boy of you, you'l give him me: be true to my Lord, if he flinch, chide me for it.

Troi. You know now your Hoſtages: your Unckle's word and my firm faith.

Pan. Nay, I'le give my word for her too: our kindred though they be long e're they are wooed, they are conſtant being won: they are Burs, I can tell you, they'l ſtick where they are thrown.

Creſ. Boldneſs comes to me now, and brings me heart:
Prince Troilus, I have lov'd you night and day, for many weary Months.

Troi. Why was my Creſſida then ſo hard to win?

Creſ. Hard to ſeem won: but I was won, my Lord,
With the firſt glance that ever: pardon me,
If I confeſs much, you will play the Tyrant:
I love you now, but not till now ſo much
But I might maſter it; in faith I lye:
My thoughts were like unbridled Children, grown
Too head-ſtrong for their Mother: ſee we Fools,
Why have I blab'd? who ſhall be true to us
When we are ſo unſecret to our ſelves?
But though I lov'd you well, I wooed you not,
And yet good faith I wiſht my ſelf a Man:
Or that the Women had mens priviledge
Of ſpeaking firſt. Sweet, bid me hold my tongue,
For in this rapture I ſhall ſurely ſpeak
The thing I ſhall repent: ſee, ſee your ſilence
Coming in dumbneſs, from my weakneſs draws
My Soul of Counſel from me. Stop my mouth.

Troi. And ſhall, albeit ſweet Muſick iſſues thence.

Pan. Pretty, i'faith.

Creſ. My Lord, I do beſeech you pardon me,
'Twas not my purpoſe thus to beg a kiſs:
I am aſham'd; O Heavens, what have I done!
For this time will I take my leave, my Lord.

Troi. Your leave, ſweet Creſſid?

Pan. Leave! and you take leave till to morrow morning——

Creſ. Pray you, content you.

Troi. What offends you, Lady?

Creſ. Sir, mine own company.

Troi. You cannot ſhun your ſelf.

Creſ. Let me go and try:
I have a kind of ſelf reſides with you:
But an unkind ſelf, that it ſelf will leave,
To be anothers Fool. Where is my Wit?
I would be gone: I ſpeak I know not what.

Troi. Well know they what they ſpeak, that ſpeak ſo wiſely.

Creſ. Perchance, my Lord, I ſhew more craft than love.
And fell ſo roundly to a large Confeſſion,
To angle for your thoughts: but you are wiſe,
Or elſe you love not: for to be wiſe and love,
Exceeds mans might, that dwells with Gods above.

Troi. O that I thought it could be in a woman;
And if it can, I will preſume in you,
To feed for ay her lamp and flames of love,
To keep her conſtancy in plight and youth,
Out-living beauties outward, with a mind
That doth renew ſwifter than blood decays:
Or that perſwaſion could but thus convince me,
That my integrity and truth to you,
Might be affronted with the match and weight
Of ſuch a winnowed purity in love:
How were I then up-lifted! but alas,
I am as true, as truth's ſimplicity,
And ſimpler than the infancy of truth.

Creſ. In that I'le war with you.

Troi. O vertuous fight,
When right with right wars, who ſhould be moſt right?
True Swains in love, ſhall in the world to come
Approve their truths by Troilus, when their Rhimes,
Full of proteſt, of oath, and big compare,
Want ſimilies: truth tir'd with iteration,
As true as Steel, as plantage to the Moon,
As Sun to day, as Turtle to her mate,
As Iron to Adamant, as Earth to th' Center:
Yet after all compariſons of truth,
(As truths Authentick author to be cited)
As true as Troilus, ſhall crown up the verſe,
And ſanctifie the numbers.

Creſ. Prophet may you be:
If I be falſe, or ſwerve a hair from truth,
When time is old and hath forgot it ſelf,
When water-drops have worn the ſtones of Troy,
And blind oblivion ſwallow'd Cities up,
And mighty States characterleſs are grated
To duſty nothing; yet let memory,
From falſe to falſe, among falſe Maids in love,
Upbraid my falſehood, when they've ſaid as falſe,
As Air, as Water, as Wind, as ſandy Earth;
As Fox to Lamb; as Wolf to Heifers Calf;
Pard to the Hind, or Stepdame to her Son;
Yea, let them ſay, to ſtick the heart of falſehood,
As falſe as Creſſid.

Pand. Go to, a bargain made: ſeal it, ſeal it, I'le be, the witneſs, here I hold your hand: here, my Couſins, if ever you prove falſe to one another, ſince I have taken ſuch pains to bring you together, let all pitiful goers between be call'd to the worlds end after my name: call them all Panders; let all conſtant men be Troiluſſes, all falſe Women Creſſida's, and all brokers between, Panders; ſay, Amen.

Troi. Amen.

Creſ. Amen.

Pand. Amen.
Whereupon I will ſhew you a Chamber, which Bed, becauſe it ſhall not ſpeak of your pretty encounters, preſs it to death: away.
And Cupid grant all Tongue-ty'd Maidens here,
Bed, Chamber, and Pander, to provide this geer.

[Exeunt.

Enter Ulyſſes, Diomedes, Neſtor, Agamemnon, Menelaus, and Calcas.

Cal. Now, Princes, for the ſervice I have done you,
Th' advantage of the time prompts me aloud,
To call for recompence: appear it to your mind,
That through the ſight I bear in things to come,
I have abandon'd Troy, left my poſſeſſion,
Incurr'd a Traytors name, expos'd my ſelf,
From certain and poſſeſt conveniencies,
To doubtful Fortunes, ſequeſtring from me all
That Time, Acquaintance, Cuſtom, and Condition,
Made tame, and moſt familiar to my nature:
And here to do you ſervice am become
As new into the World, ſtrange, unacquainted.
I do beſeech you, as in way of taſte,
To give me now a little benefit,
Out of thoſe many regiſtred in promiſe,
Which you ſay live to come in my behalf.
Aga. What would'ſt thou of us, Trojan? make demand?
Cal. You have a Trojan priſoner, call'd Anthenor,
Yeſterday took: Troy holds him very dear.
Oft have you (often have you, thanks therefore)
Deſir'd my Creſſid in right great exchange,
Whom Troy hath ſtill deni'd: but this Anthenor,
I know is ſuch a wreſt in their affairs,
That their negotiations all muſt ſlack,
Wanting his manage: and they will almoſt
Give us a Prince o'th' blood, a Son of Priam,
In change of him. Let him be ſent, great Princes,
And he ſhall buy my Daughter: and her preſence
Shall quite ſtrike off all ſervice I have done,
In moſt accepted pain.
Aga. Let Diomedes bear him,
And bring us Creſſid hither: Calcas ſhall have
What he requeſts of us: good Diomede,
Furniſh you fairly for this enterchange;
With all, bring word, if Hector will to morrow
Be anſwer'd in his Challenge. Ajax is ready.
Dio. This ſhall I undertake, and 'tis a burthen
Which I am proud to bear. [Exit.

Enter Achilles, and Patroclus in their Tent.

Ulyſ. Achilles ſtands i'th' entrance of his Tent;
Pleaſe it our General to paſs ſtrangely by him,
As if he were forgot: and Princes all,
Lay negligent and looſe regard upon him;
I will come laſt, 'tis like he'll queſtion me,
Why ſuch unplauſive Eyes are bent? why turn'd on him?
If ſo, I have deciſion medicinable,
To uſe between your ſtrangeneſs and his pride,
Which his own will ſhall have deſire to drink;
It may do good, Pride hath no other glaſs
To ſhew it ſelf, but Pride: for ſupple knees
Feed arrogance, and are the proud mans fees.
Agam. We'el execute your purpoſe, and put on
A form of ſtrangeneſs as we paſs along,
So do each Lord, and either greet him not,
Or elſe diſdainfully, which ſhall ſhake him more,
Than if not look't on, I will lead the way.
Achil. What, comes the General to ſpeak with me?
You know my mind. I'le fight no more 'gainſt Troy.
Aga. What ſays Achilles, would he ought with us?
Neſt. Would you, my Lord, ought with the General?
Achil. No.
Neſt. Nothing, my Lord.
Aga. The better.
Achil. Good day, good day.
Men. How do you? how do you?
Achil. What does the Cuckold ſcorn me?
Ajax. How now, Patroclus?
Achil. Good morrow, Ajax.
Ajax. Ha.
Achil. Good morrow.
Ajax. I, and Good next day too. [Exeunt.
Achil. What mean theſe Fellows? know they not Achilles?
Patr. They paſs ſtrangely: they were us'd to bend,
To ſend their ſmiles before them to Achilles:
To come as humbly, as they us'd to creep to holy Altars.
Achil. What am I poor of late?
'Tis certain, Greatneſs once fal'n out with Fortune,
Muſt fall out with Men too: what the declin'd is,
He ſhall as ſoon read in the Eyes of others,
As feel in his own fall: for Men like Butter-flies,
Shew not their mealy wings, but to the Summer;
And not a Man, for being ſimple Man,
Hath any Honour, but Honour'd by thoſe Honours
That are without him; as Place, Riches, Favour,
Prizes of accident, as oft as merit:
Which when they fall (as being ſlippery ſtanders)
The love that lean'd on them as ſlippery too,
Doth one pluck down another, and together
Dye in the fall: But 'tis not ſo with me,
Fortune and I are Friends, I do enjoy
At ample point all that I did poſſeſs,
Save theſe men's looks, who do methinks find out
Something not worth in me ſuch rich beholding,
As they have often given. Here is Ulyſſes,
I'le interupt his reading: How now, Ulyſſes?
Ulyſ. Now, great Thetis Son.
Achil. What are you reading?
Ulyſ. A ſtrange Fellow here
Writes me, that man, how dearly ever parted,
How much in having, or without, or in,
Cannot make boaſt to have that which he hath;
Nor feels not what he owes, but by reflection,
As when his virtues ſhining upon others,
Heat them, and they retort that heat again
To the firſt giver.
Achil. This is not ſtrange, Ulyſſes,
The beauty that is born here in the Face,
The bearer knows not, but commends it ſelf,
Not going from it ſelf, but eye to eye oppos'd,
Salute each other, with each others form.
For ſpeculation turns not to it ſelf,
Till it hath travell'd and is married there
Where it may ſee it ſelf; this is not ſtrange at all.
Ulyſ. I do not ſtrain it at the Poſition,
It is familiar; but at the Authors drift,
Who in his circumſtance, expreſly proves
That no man is the Lord of any thing,
(Though in and of him there is much conſiſting,)
Till he communicate his parts to others:
Nor doth he of himſelf know them for ought,
Till he behold them formed in th' applauſe,
Where they're extended: who like an arch reverb'rates
The voice again, or like a gate of Steel,
Fronting the Sun, receives and renders back
His Figure, and his Heat. I was much rapt in this,
And apprehended here immediately
The unknown Ajax.
Heavens, what a man is there? a very Horſe,
That has he knows not what Nature, what things there are
Moſt abject in regard, and dear in uſe;
What things again moſt dear in the eſteem,
And poor in worth: now ſhall we ſee to morrow,
And act that very chance doth throw upon him?
Ajax renown'd! O Heavens, what ſome men do,
While ſome men leave to do!
How ſome men creep in skittiſh fortunes Hall,
While others play the Idiots in her eyes:
How one man eats into anothers Pride,
While Pride is feaſting in his wantonneſs
To ſee theſe Grecian Lords; why, even already,

They

They clap the lubber Ajax on the ſhoulder,
As if his foot were on brave Hector's breaſt,
And great Troy ſhrinking.
Achil. I do believe it,
For they paſt by me, as Miſers do by Beggars,
Neither gave to me good word, nor good look:
What, are my deeds forgot?
Ulyſ. Time hath (my Lord) a wallet at his back,
Wherein he puts alms for oblivion:
A great-ſiz'd Monſter of ingratitudes:
Thoſe ſcraps are good deeds paſt,
Which are devour'd as faſt as they are made,
Forgot as ſoon as done: perſeverance, dear my Lord,
Keeps Honour bright: to have done, is to hang
Quite out of faſhion, like a ruſty Male,
In monumental mockr'y: take the inſtant way,
For Honour travels in a Streight ſo narrow,
Where one but goes abreaſt, keep then the path,
For Emulation hath a thouſand Sons,
That one by one purſue; if you give way
Or hedge aſide from the direct forth-right,
Like to an entred Tide, they all ruſh by,
And leave you hindmoſt;
Or like a gallant Horſe fal'n in firſt rank,
Lye there for pavement to the abject, near
O're-run and trampled on: then what they do in preſent,
Though leſs than yours in paſt, muſt o'retop yours:
For time is like a faſhionable Hoſt,
That ſlightly ſhakes his parting Gueſt by th' hand;
And with his arms out-ſtretch'd, as he would flye,
Graſps in the comer: the welcome ever ſmiles,
And farewels goes out ſighing: O let not virtue ſeek
Remuneration for the thing it was: for Beauty, Wit,
High-birth, vigor of Bone, deſert in Service,
Love, Friendſhip, Charity, are ſubjects all
To envious and calumniating time:
One touch of nature makes the whole World kin;
That all with one conſent praiſe new-born gauds,
Though they are made and moulded of things paſt,
And go to duſt, that is a little gilt,
More laud in gilt o're-duſted.
The preſent Eye praiſes the preſent object.
Then marvel not, thou great and compleat Man,
That all the Greeks begin to worſhip Ajax;
Since things in motion 'gin to catch the Eye,
Than what not ſtirs, the cry went out on thee,
And ſtill it might, and yet it may again,
If thou would'ſt not entomb thy ſelf alive,
And caſe thy reputation in thy Tent;
Whoſe glorious deeds, but in theſe fields of late,
Made emulous miſſions 'mongſt the Gods themſelves,
And drave great Mars to Faction.
Achil. Of this my privacy,
I have ſtrong reaſons.
Ulyſ. But 'gainſt your privacy,
The reaſons are more potent and heroical:
'Tis known, Achilles, that you are in love
With one of Priam's Daughters.
Achil. Ha? known?
Ulyſ. Is that a wonder?
The providence that's in a watchful State,
Knows almoſt every grain of Pluto's Gold;
Finds bottom in th' uncomprehenſive deeps
Keeps place with thought; and, almoſt like the Gods,
Does thoughts unveil in their dumb Cradles:
There is a Myſtery (with whom relation
Durſt never meddle) in the ſoul of ſtate;
Which hath an operation more divine,
Than Breath or Pen can give expreſſure to:
All the commerce that you have had with Troy,
As perfectly is ours, as yours, my Lord.
And better would it fit Achilles much,
To throw down Hector than Polyxena,
But it muſt grieve young Pyrrhus now at home,
When Fame ſhall in her Iſland ſound her Trump;
And all the Greekiſh Girles ſhall tripping ſing,
Great Hector's Siſter did Achilles win;
But our Great Ajax bravely beat down him.
Farewel, my Lord: I, as your Lover, ſpeak;
The Fool ſlides o're the Ice that you ſhould break.
Patr. To this effect, Achilles, have I mov'd you;
A woman impudent and manniſh grown,
Is not more loath'd, than an effeminate man,
In time of action: I ſtand condemn'd for this;
They think my little ſtomach to the war,
And your great love to me, reſtrains you thus:
Sweet, rouſe your ſelf: and the weak wanton Cupid
Shall from your neck unlooſe his amorous fold,
And like a dew-drop from the Lions mane,
Be ſhook to airy air.
Achil. Shall Ajax fight with Hector?
Patr. I, and perhaps receive much Honour by him.
Achil. I ſee my Reputation is at ſtake,
My Fame is ſhrewdly gored.
Patr. O then beware:
Thoſe wounds heal ill, that men do give themſelves:
Omiſſion to do what is neceſſary,
Seals a Commiſſion to a blank of danger,
And danger, like an Ague, ſubtly taints
Even then when, we ſit idly in the ſun.
Achil. Go call Therſites hither, ſweet Patroclus,
I'le ſend the Fool to Ajax, and deſire him
T'invite the Trojan Lords after the Combat
To ſee us here unarm'd: I have a Womans longing,
An appetite that I am ſick withall,
To ſee great Hector in the weeds of peace.
Enter Therſites.
To talk with him, and to behold his viſage,
Even to my full of view. A labour ſav'd.
Ther. A wonder.
Achil. What?
Ther. Ajax goes up and down the Field, asking for himſelf.
Achil. How ſo?
Ther. He muſt fight ſingly to morrow with Hector, and is ſo prophetically proud of an heroical cudgelling, that he raves in ſaying nothing.
Achil. How can that be?
Ther. Why, he ſtalks up and down like a Peacock, a ſtride and a ſtand: ruminates, like an Hoſteſs, that hath no Arithmetique, but her Brain to ſet down her reckoning: bites his lip with a politique regard, as who ſhould ſay, there were wit in his head, and 'twoud out; and ſo there is, but it lies as coldly in him, as Fire in a Flint, which will not ſhew without knocking. The man's undone for ever; for if Hector break not his Neck i'th' Combat, hee'l break't himſelf in vain-glory. He knows not me: I ſaid, good morrow Ajax. And he replies, thanks Agamemnon. What think you of this man, that takes me for the General? He's grown a very Land-fiſh, languageleſs, a Monſter, a Plague of Opinion, a man may wear it on both ſides like a Leather Jerkin.
Achil. Thou muſt be my Embaſſador to him, Therſites.
Ther. Who I? while he'll anſwer no body: he profeſſes not anſwering; ſpeaking is for Beggars: he wears his Tongue in's Arms: I will put on his preſence; let Patroclus make his demands to me, you ſhall ſee the Pageant of Ajax.
Achil. To him, Patroclus, tell him, I humbly deſire the valiant Ajax, to invite the moſt valorous Hector, to come unarm'd to my Tent, and to procure ſafe conduct for his perſon, of the magnanimous, and moſt illuſtrious, ſix or ſeven times honour'd Captain, General of the Grecian Army, Agamemnon, &c. do this.
Patr. Jove bleſs great Ajax.
Ther. Hum.
Patr. I come from the worthy Achilles.
Ther. Ha?
Patr. Who moſt humbly deſires you to invite Hector to his Tent.

Ther.

Ther. Hum.
Patr. And to procure ſafe conduct from Agamemnon.
Ther. Agamemnon?
Patr. I, my Lord.
Ther. Ha?
Patr. What ſay you to't.
Ther. God b'you, with all my Heart.
Patr. Your anſwer, Sir.
Ther. If to morrow be a fair day, by eleven a Clock it will go one way or other; howſoever, he ſhall pay for me e're he has me.
Patr. Your anſwer, Sir.
Ther. Fare you wel with all my heart.
Achil. Why, but he is not in this tune, is he?
Ther. No, but he's out a tune thus: what Muſick will he be in when Hector has knockt out his brains, I know not: but I am ſure none, unleſs the Fidler Apollo get his Sinews to make Catlings on.
Achil. Come, thou ſhalt bear a Letter to him ſtraight.
Ther. Let me carry another to his Horſe; for that's the more capable creature.
Achil. My mind is troubled like a Fountain ſtirr'd,
And I my ſelf ſee not the bottom of it.
Ther. Would the Fountain of your mind were clear again, that I might water an Aſs at it: I had rather be a Tick in a Sheep, than ſuch a valiant ignorance.

Enter at one Door Æneas with a Torch, at another Paris, Deiphobus, Anthenor, Diomede the Grecian, with Torches.

Patr. See ho, who is that there?
Deip. It is the Lord Æneas.
Æne. Is the Prince there in perſon?
Had I ſo good occaſion to lie long
As you Prince Paris, nothing but Heavenly buſineſs,
Should rob my Bed-mate of my company.
Diom. That's my mind too: good morrow, Lord Æneas,
Par. A valiant Greek, Æneas, take his Hand,
Witneſs the proceſs of your ſpeech within;
You told how Diomede, in a whole week by days
Did haunt you in a Field.
Æne. Health to you, valiant Sir,
During all queſtion of the gentle Truce:
But when I meet you arm'd, as black defiance,
As heart can think, or courage execute.
Diom. The one and other Diomede embraces,
Our Bloods are now in calm; and ſo long health:
But when contention, and occaſion meet,
By Jove, I'le play the Hunter for thy life,
With all my Force, Purſuit, and Policy.
Æne. And thou ſhalt hunt a Lion that will flie
With his Face backward, in humane gentleneſs:
Welcome to Troy; now by Anchiſes's life,
Welcome indeed: by Venus hand I ſwear,
No Man alive can love in ſuch a ſort,
The thing he means to kill, more excellently.
Diom. We ſympathize. Jove let Æneas live
(If to my Sword his fate be not the glory)
A thouſand compleat courſes of the Sun:
But in mine emulous Honour let him die,
With every joynt a wound, and that to morrow.
Æne. We know each other well.
Dio. We do, and long to know each other worſe.
Par. This is the moſt deſpightful'ſt gentle greeting;
The nobleſt hateful love, that e're I heard of.
What buſineſs, Lord, ſo early?
Æne. I was ſent for to the King; but why, I know not.
Par. His purpoſe meets you; it was to bring this Greek
To Calcha's houſe: and there to render him,
For the enfreed Anthenor, the fair Creſſid:
Lets have your company; or if you pleaſe,
Haſte there before us, I conſtantly do think
(Or rather call my thought a certain knowledge)
My Brother Troilus lodges there to Night.
Rouſe him, and give him note of our approach,
With the whole quality, whereof I fear
We ſhall be much unwelcome.
Æne. That I aſſure you:
Troilus had rather Troy were born to Greece,
Than Creſſid born from Troy.
Par. There is no help:
The bitter diſpoſition of the time will have it ſo.
On, Lord, wee'l fellow you.
Æne. Good morrow all. [Exit Æneas.
Par. And tell me, Noble Diomede; faith tell me true,
Even in the Soul of ſound good fellowſhip,
Who in your thoughts merits fair Helen moſt?
My ſelf, or Menelaus?
Diom. Both alike.
He merits well to have her, that doth ſeek her,
Not making any ſcruple of her ſoylure,
With ſuch a Hell of pain, and world of charge.
And you as well to keep her that defend her,
Not pallating the taſt of her diſhonour,
With ſuch a coſtly loſs of wealth and friends;
He, like a puling Cuckold, would drink up
The Lees and dregs of a flat tamed piece;
You like a letcher, out of whoriſh Loins,
Are pleas'd to breed out your Inheritors:
Both merits poiz'd, each weighs no leſs nor more,
But he as he, with heavier for a Whore.
Par. You are too bitter to your Country-woman.
Dio. She's bitter to her Countrey: hear me, Paris,
For every falſe drop in her baudy Veins
A Grecians life hath ſunk: for every Scruple
Of her contaminated Carrion weight,
A Trojan hath been ſlain. Since ſhe could ſpeak,
She hath not given ſo many good words breath,
As for her Greeks and Trojans ſuffred death.
Par. Fair Diomede, you do as Chapmen do,
Diſpraiſe the thing that you deſire to buy:
But we in ſilence hold this virtue well;
We'll not commend, what we intend to ſell.
Here lies our way. [Exeunt.

Enter Troilus and Creſſida.

Troi. Dear, trouble not your ſelf: the morn is cold.
Creſ. Then, ſweet my Lord, I'le call my Uncle down:
He ſhall unbolt the Gates.
Troi. Trouble him not:
To Bed, to Bed: ſleep kill thoſe pretty Eyes,
And give as ſoft attachment to thy Sences,
As Infants empty of all thought.
Creſ. Good morrow then.
Troi. I prithee now to Bed.
Creſ. Are you a weary of me?
Troi. O Creſſida! but that the buſy day
Wak'd by the Lark, has rouz'd the Ribald Crows,
And dreaming Night will hide our Eyes no longer:
I would not from thee.
Creſ. Night hath been too brief. (ſtays,
Troi. Beſhrew the Witch! with venemous weights ſhe
As hideouſly as Hell; but flies the graſps of love,
With wings more momentary, ſwifter than thought:
You will catch cold and curſe me.
Creſ. Prithee tarry, you men will never tarry;
O fooliſh Creſſida, I might have ſtill held off,
And then you would have tarried. Heark there's one up.
Par. within. What's all the doors open here?
Troi. It is your Uncle.
[Enter Pandarus.
Creſ. A Peſtilence on him: now will he be mocking:
I ſhall have ſuch a life.
Pan. How now, how now? how go Maiden-heads?
Hear, you Maid: where's my Couſin Creſſid?
Creſ. Go hang your ſelf, you naughty mocking Uncle:
You bring me to do——and then you flout me too.
Pan. To do what? to do what? let her ſay, what:
What have I brought you to do?

Creſ.

Creſ. Come, come, beſhrew your heart: you'l ne're be good, nor ſuffer others.

Pan. Ha, ha: alas poor wretch: a poor Chipochia, haſt not ſlept to night? would he not (a naughty man) let it ſleep: a bug-bear take him. [One knocks.

Creſ. Did not I tell you? would he were knock'd i'th' head. Who's that at door? good Uncle, go and ſee.
My Lord, come you again into my Chamber:
You ſmile and mock me, as if I meant naughtily.

Troi. Ha, ha.

Creſ. Come, you are deceiv'd, I think of no ſuch thing.
How earneſtly they knock: pray you come in. [Knock.
I would not for half Troy have you ſeen here. [Exeunt.

Pan. Who's there? what's the matter? will you beat down the door? How now, what's the matter?

Æne. Good morrow Lord, good morrow.

Pan. Who's there, my Lord Æneas? by my troth I knew you not: what news with you ſo early?

Æne. Is not Prince Troilus here?

Pan. Here? what ſhould he do here?

Æne. Come, he is here, my Lord, do not deny him:
It doth import him much to ſpeak with me.

Pan. Is he here ſay you? 'tis more than I know, I'le be ſworn: For my own part, I came in late; what ſhould he do here?

Æne. Who, nay then: Come, come, you'll do him wrong, e're y' are ware: you'll be ſo true to him, to be falſe to him: Do not you know of him, but yet go fetch him hither, go.

Enter Troilus.

Troi. How now, what's the matter?

Æne. My Lord, I ſcarce have leiſure to ſalute you,
My matter is ſo raſh: there is at hand,
Paris your Brother, and Deiphobus,
The Grecian Diomede, and our Anthenor
Deliver'd to us, and for him forth-with,
E're the firſt Sacrifice, within this hour,
We muſt give up to Diomedes hand
The Lady Creſſida.

Troi. Is it concluded ſo?

Æne. By Priam, and the general State of Troy,
They are at hand, and ready to effect it.

Troi. How many atchievments mock me?
I will go meet them: and my Lord Æneas,
We met by chance, you did not find me here.

Æne. Good, good, my Lord, the ſecrets of nature
Have not more gift in taciturnity. [Exeunt.

Enter Pandarus and Creſſid.

Pan. Is't poſſible? no ſooner got but loſt: the Devil take Anthenor; the young Prince will go mad: a plague upon Anthenor; I would they had broke's neck.

Creſ. How now? what's the matter? who was here?

Pan. Ah, ah!

Creſ. Why ſigh you ſo profoundly? where's my Lord? gone? tell me, ſweet Uncle, what's the matter?

Pan. Would I were as deep under the earth, as I am above.

Creſ. O the Gods! what's the matter?

Pan. Prithee get thee in: would thou hadſt ne're been born; I knew thou would'ſt be his death. O poor Gentleman: a plague upon Anthenor.

Creſ. Good Uncle, I beſeech you, on my knees, I beſeech you, what's the matter?

Pan. Thou muſt be gone, wench, thou muſt be gone; thou art chang'd for Anthenor: thou muſt to thy Father, and be gone from Troilus: 'twill be his death: 'twill be his bane, he cannot bear it.

Creſ. O you immortal Gods! I will not go.

Pan. Thou muſt.

Creſ. I will not, Uncle: I have forgot my Father.
I know no touch of conſanguinity:
No Kin, no Love, no Blood, no Soul ſo near me,
As the ſweet Troilus: O you Gods divine!
Make Creſſid's name the very crown of falſhood,
If ever ſhe leave Troilus: time, and death,
Do to this body what extremity you can;
But the ſtrong Baſe and building of my love
Is as the very Centre of the earth,
Drawing all things to it. I will go in, and weep.

Pan. Do, do.

Creſ. Tear my bright Hair, and ſcratch my praiſed cheeks,
Crack my clear voice with ſobs, and break my heart
With ſounding Troilus. I will not go from Troy. [Exit.

Enter Paris, Troilus, Æneas, Deiphobus, Anthenor, and Diomedes.

Par. It is great morning, and the hour prefixt
Of her delivery to this valiant Greek
Comes faſt upon: good my Brother Troilus,
Tell you the Lady what ſhe is to do,
And haſte her to the purpoſe.

Troi. Walk into her houſe:
I'le bring her to the Grecian preſently;
And to his hand when I deliver her,
Think it an Altar, and thy Brother Troilus
A Prieſt, there offering to it his heart.

Par. I know, what 'tis to love,
And would, as I ſhall pity, I could help.
Pleaſe you walk in, my Lords. [Exeunt.

Enter Pandarus and Creſſid.

Pan. Be moderate, be moderate.

Creſ. Why tell you me of moderation?
The grief is fine, full perfect that I taſte,
And no leſs in a ſenſe as ſtrong, as that
Which cauſeth it. How can I mod'rate it?
If I could temporiſe with my affection,
Or brew it to a weak and colder palat,
The like allayment could I give my grief;
My love admits do qualifying croſs.

Enter Troilus.

No more my grief, in ſuch a precious loſs.

Pan. Here, here, here he comes, a ſweet Duck.

Creſ. O Troilus, Troilus.

Pan. What a pair of ſpectacles is here? let me embrace too: oh Heart, as the goodly ſaying is; O Heart, heavy Heart, why ſitteſt thou without breaking? where he anſwers again; becauſe thou canſt not eaſe thy ſmart by friendſhip, nor by ſpeaking: there was never a truer time; let us caſt away nothing, for we may live to have need of ſuch a Verſe; we ſee it, we ſee it: how now, Lambs?

Troi. Creſſid, I love thee in ſo ſtrange a purity,
That the bleſt Gods, as angry with my fancy,
More bright in zeal, than the devotion which
Cold lips blow to their Deities, take thee from me.

Creſ. Have the Gods envy?

Pan. I, I, I, I, 'tis too plain a caſe.

Creſ. And is it true, that I muſt go from Troy?

Troi. A hateful truth.

Creſ. What, and from Troilus too?

Troi. From Troy, and Troilus.

Creſ. Is't poſſible?

Troi. And ſuddenly, where injury of chance
Puts back leave-taking, juſtles roughly by
All time of pauſe: rudely beguiles our lips
Of all rejoyndure: forcibly prevents
Our lock'd embraſures; ſtrangles our dear vows,
Even in the birth of our own labouring breath.
We two, that with ſo many thouſand ſighs
Did buy each other, muſt poorly ſell our ſelves,
With the rude brevity and diſcharge of one;
Injurious time, now with a Robbers haſte
Crams his rich Theevery up, he knows not how.
As many farewels as be ſtars in Heaven,
With diſtinct breath, and conſign'd kiſſes to them,
He fumbles up in a looſe adieu:
And ſcants us with a ſingle famiſht kiſs,

Diſtaſting

Diſtaſting with the Salt of broken tears.

Enter Æneas.

Æneas within. My Lord, is the Lady ready?

Troi. Hark, you are call'd: ſome ſay the Genius ſo Cries, come, to him that inſtantly muſt die. Bid them have patience; ſhe ſhall come anon.

Pan. Where are my tears? rain, to lay this wind, or my Heart will be blown up by the Root.

Creſ. I muſt then to the Grecians?

Troi. No remedy.

Creſ. A woful Creſſid 'mongſt the merry Greeks.

Troi. When ſhall we ſee again? Hear me, my Love: be thou but true of Heart.

Creſ. I true? how now? what wicked deem is this?

Troi. Nay, we muſt uſe expoſtulation kindly, For it is parting from us: I ſpeak not, be thou true, as fearing thee: For I will throw my Glove to death himſelf, That there's no maculation in thy Heart; But be thou true, ſay I, to faſhion in My ſequent Proteſtation: be thou true, And I will ſee thee.

Creſ. O you ſhall be expos'd, my Lord, to dangers As infinite, as imminent: but I'le be true.

Troi. And I'le grow friend with danger; Wear this Sleeve.

Creſ. And you this Glove. When ſhall I ſee you?

Troi. I will corrupt the Grecian Centinels To give thee nightly viſitation: But yet be true.

Creſ. O Heavens, be true again?

Troi. Hear why I ſpeak it, Love: The Grecian youths are full of quality, Their loving well compos'd, with gift of Nature, Flowing and ſwelling o're with Arts and exerciſe: How novelties may move, and parts with perſon, Alas, a kind of godly jealouſie, Which I beſeech you call a vertuous ſin, Makes me afraid.

Creſ. O Heavens, you love me not!

Troi. Dye I a villain then: In this I do not call your Faith in queſtion So mainly as my merit: I cannot ſing, Nor heel the high Lavolt; not ſweeten talk; Nor play at ſubtle games; fair Virtues all: To which the Grecians are moſt prompt and pregnant: But I can tell that in each grace of theſe, There lurks a ſtill and dumb-diſcourſive devil, That tempts moſt cunningly: but be not tempted.

Creſ. Do not think, I will.

Troi. No, but ſome thing may be done that we will not: And ſometimes we are Devils to our ſelves, When we will tempt the frailty of our powers, Preſuming on their changeful potencie.

Æneas within. Nay, good my Lord.

Troi. Come kiſs, and let us part.

Paris within. Brother Troilus.

Troi. Good Brother, come you hither, And bring Æneas and the Grecian with you.

Creſ. My Lord, will you be true?

Troi. Who I? alas it is my vice, my fault: While others Fiſh with craft for great Opinion, I, with great truth, catch meer ſimplicity; Whil'ſt ſome with cunning gild their Copper Crowns, With truth and plainneſs I do wear mine bare.

Enter the Greeks.

Fear not my truth; the moral of my Wit Is plain and true, there's all the reach of it. Welcome, Sir Diomede, here is the Lady Which for Anthenor we deliver you. At the Port (Lord) I'le give her to thy hand, And by the way poſſeſs thee what ſhe is. Entreat her fair; and by my Soul, fair Greek, If e're thou ſtand at mercy of my Sword, Name Creſſid, and thy life ſhall be as ſafe As Priam is in Ilion.

Diom. Fair Lady Creſſid, So pleaſe you, ſave the thanks this Prince expects: The luſtre in your Eye, Heaven in your cheek, Pleads your fair uſage, and to Diomede You ſhall be Miſtreſs, and command him wholly.

Troi. Grecian, thou doſt not uſe me courteouſly: To ſhame the Seal of my Petition towards, I praiſing her. I tell thee, Lord of Greece, She is as far high-ſoaring o're thy praiſes, As thou unworthy to be call'd her Servant: I charge thee uſe her well, even for my charge: For by the dreadful Pluto, if thou do'ſt not, (Though the great bulk Achilles be thy Guard) I'le cut thy Throat.

Diom. Oh be not mov'd, Prince Troilus; Let me be privileg'd by my place and meſſage, To be a ſpeaker free: when I am hence, I'le anſwer to my luſt: and know, my Lord, I'le nothing do on charge: to her own worth She ſhall be priz'd: but that you ſay, be't ſo; I'le ſpeak in my Spirit and honour, no.

Troi. Come to the Port. I'le tell thee, Diomede, This Brave ſhall oft make thee to hide thy Head: Lady, give me your hand, and as we walk, To our own ſelves bend we our needful talk.

[Sound Trumpet.

Par. Hark, Hector's Trumpet.

Æne. How have we ſpent this morning? The Prince muſt think me tardy and remiſs, That ſwore to ride before him in the Field.

Par. 'Tis Troilus fault: come, come, to Field with him.

[Exeunt.

Dio. Let us make ready ſtreight.

Æne. Yea, with a Bridegroom's freſh alacrity Let us addreſs to tend on Hector's heels: The glory of our Troy doth this day lie On his fair worth, and ſingle Chivalry.

Enter Ajax armed, Achilles, Patroclus, Agamemnon, Menelaus, Ulyſſes, Neſtor, Calcas, &c.

Aga. Here art thou in appointment freſh and fair, Anticipating time. With ſtarting courage, Give with thy Trumpet a loud note to Troy, Thou dreadful Ajax, that the appauled-Air May pierce the head of the great Combatant, And hale him hither.

Aja. Thou Trumpet, there's my Purſe; Now crack thy Lungs, and ſplit thy Braſen Pipe: Blow villain, till thy ſphered Bias Cheek Out-ſwell the Cholick of puft Aquilon: Come, ſtretch thy cheſt, and let thy Eyes ſpout Blood: Thou bloweſt for Hector.

Ulyſſ. No Trumpet anſwers.

Achil. 'Tis but early days.

Enter Diomede and Creſſid.

Aga. Is't not young Diomede with Calcas Daughter?

Ulyſſ. 'Tis he, I ken the manner of his Gate, He riſes on the Toe: that Spirit of his In aſpiration lifts him from the Earth.

Aga. Is this the Lady Creſſid?

Dio. Even ſhe.

Aga. Moſt dearly welcome to the Greeks, ſweet Lady.

Neſt. Our General doth ſalute you with a Kiſs.

Ulyſſ. Yet is your kindneſs but particular; 'twere better ſhe were kiſt in general.

Neſt. And very courtly counſel: I'le begin. So much for Neſtor.

Achil. I'le take that Winter from your Lips: fair Lady, Achilles bids you welcome.

Mene.

Men. I had good argument for kiſſing once.
Patro. But that's no argument for kiſſing now;
For thus pop'd Paris in his hardiment.
Ulyſſ. Oh deadly gall, and theam of all our ſcorns,
For which we loſe our heads, to gild his horns.
Patro. The firſt was Menelaus kiſs, this mine;
Patroclus kiſſes you.
Men. Oh this is trim.
Patr. Paris and I kiſs evermore for him.
Men. I'le have my kiſs, Sir: Lady, by your leave.
Creſ. In kiſſing do you render, or receive?
Patr. Both take and give.
Creſ. I'le make my match to give,
The kiſs you take is better than you give: therefore no kiſs.
Men. I'le give you boot, I'le give you three for one.
Creſ. You are an odd Man, give even, or give none.
Men. An odd Man, Lady? every man is odd.
Creſ. No, Paris is not; for you know 'tis true,
That you are odd, and he is even with you.
Men. You fillip me o'th' head.
Creſ. No, I'le be ſworn.
Ulyſſ. It were no match, your Nail againſt his Horn:
May I, ſweet Lady, beg a kiſs of you?
Creſ. You may.
Ulyſſ. I do deſire it.
Creſ. Why beg then.
Ulyſſ. Why then for Venus ſake, give me a kiſs:
When Helen is a Maid again, and his———
Creſ. I am your debtor, claim it when 'tis due.
Ulyſſ. Never's my Day, and then a kiſs of you.
Diom. Lady, a word, I'le bring you to your Father.
Neſt. A Woman of quick Sence.
Ulyſſ. Fie, fie upon her:
There's language in her Eye, her Cheek, her Lip;
Nay, her Foot ſpeaks, her wanton Spirits look out
At every joynt, and motive of her Body:
Oh theſe encounters ſo glib of Tongue,
That give a coaſting welcome e're it comes;
And wide unclaſp the Tables of their thoughts,
To every tickling Reader: ſet them down,
For ſluttiſh ſpoils of opportunity;
And Daughters of the game. [Exeunt.

Enter all of Troy, Hector, Paris, Æneas, Helenus, and Attendants.

All. The Trojans Trumpet.
Aga. Yonder comes the Troop.
Æne. Hail all you ſtate of Greece: what ſhall be done
To him that Victory commands? or do you purpoſe,
A Victor ſhall be known: will you, the Knights
Shall to the edge of all extremity
Purſue each other; or ſhall be divided
By any voice, or order of the Field: Hector bad ask?
Aga. Which way would Hector have it?
Æne. He cares not, he'll obey conditions.
Aga. 'Tis done like Hector, but ſecurely done,
A little proudly, and great deal diſpriſing
The Knight oppos'd.
Æne. If not Achilles, Sir, what is your name?
Achil. If not Achilles, nothing.
Æne. Therefore Achilles: but what e're, know this,
In the extremity of great and little:
Valour and Pride excel themſelves in Hector;
The one almoſt as infinite as all,
The other blank as nothing: weigh him well:
And that which looks like Pride, is Courteſie:
This Ajax is half made of Hector's Blood,
In love whereof, half Hector ſtay's at home:
Half heart, half hand, half Hector, comes to ſeek
This blended Knight, half Trojan and half Greek.
Achil. A Maiden Battel then? O I perceive you.
Aga. Here is Sir Diomede: Go gentle Knight,
Stand by our Ajax: as you and Lord Æneas
Conſent upon the order of their fight,
So be it; either to the uttermoſt,
Or elſe a breach: the Combatants being kin,
Half ſtints their ſtrife, before their ſtrokes begin.
Ulyſſ. They are oppos'd already.
Aga. What Trojan is that ſame, that looks ſo heavy?
Ulyſſ. The youngeſt Son of Priam,
And a true Knight; they call him Troilus;
Not yet mature, yet matchleſs, firm of word,
Speaking in deeds, and deedleſs in his Tongue;
Not ſoon provok'd, nor being provok'd, ſoon calm'd;
His heart and hand both open, and both free:
For what he has, he gives; what thinks, he ſhews;
Yet gives he not till judgment guide his bounty,
Nor dignifies an impair thought with Breath:
Manly as Hector, but more dangerous;
For Hector in his blaze of wrath ſubſcribes
To tender Objects; but he in heat of Action
Is more vindicative than jealous love.
They call him Troilus; and on him erect
A ſecond hope, as fairly built as Hector.
Thus ſays Æneas, one that knows the youth,
Even to his inches: and with private Soul,
Did in great Ilion thus tranſlate him to me. [Alarum.
Aga. They are in action.
Neſt. Now Ajax hold thine own.
Troi. Hector thou ſleep'ſt, awake thee.
Aga. His blows are well diſpos'd there, Ajax. [Trumpets ceaſe.
Diom. You muſt no more.
Æne. Princes, enough, ſo pleaſe you.
Aja. I am not warm yet, let us fight again.
Diom. As Hector pleaſes.
Hect. Why then will I no more:
Thou art, great Lord, my Father's Siſter's Son;
A Couſin German to great Priam's Seed:
The obligation of our Blood forbids
A gory emulation 'twixt us twain:
Were thy commixtion Greek and Trojan ſo,
That thou could'ſt ſay, this hand is Grecian all,
And this is Trojan: the Sinews of this Leg
All Greek, and this all Troy: my Mother's Blood
Runs on the dexter Cheek, and this Siniſter
Bounds in my Father's: by Jove multipotent,
Thou ſhould'ſt not bear from me a Greekiſh member
Wherein my Sword had not impreſſure made
Of our rank feud: but the juſt Gods gainſay,
That any drop thou borrow'dſt from thy Mother,
My ſacred Aunt, ſhould by my mortal Sword
Be drain'd. Let me embrace thee, Ajax:
By him that thunders, thou haſt luſty Arms;
Hector would have them fall upon him thus,
Couſin, all honour to thee.
Aja. I thank thee, Hector:
Thou art too gentle, and too free a man:
I came to kill thee, Couſin, and bear hence
A great addition, earned in thy death.
Hect. Not Neoptolemus ſo mirable,
On whoſe bright Creſt, Fame with her loud'ſt (O yes)
Cries, This is he, could promiſe to himſelf,
A thought of added Honour, torn from Hector.
Æne. There is expectance here from both the ſides:
What further you will do.
Hect. We'll anſwer it:
The iſſue is embracement: Ajax, farewel.
Aja. If I might in entreaties find ſucceſs,
As ſeld I have the chance; I would deſire
My famous Couſin to our Grecian Tents.
Diom. 'Tis Agamemnon's wiſh, and great Achilles
Doth long to ſee unarm'd the valiant Hector.
Hect. Æneas, call my Brother Troilus to me:
And ſignifie this loving enterview
To the expectors of our Trojan part:
Deſire them home. Give me thy hand, my Couſin:

I will

I will go eat with thee, and ſee your Knights.
Enter Agamemnon and the reſt.
Aja. Great Agamemnon comes to meet us here.
Hect. The worthieſt of them, tell me name by name:
But for Achilles, mine own ſearching eyes
Shall find him by his large and portly ſize.
Aga. Worthy of Arms: as welcome as to one,
That would be rid of ſuch an Enemy.
But that's no welcome: underſtand more clear,
What's paſt and what's to come, is ſtrew'd with husk's
And formleſs ruin of oblivion:
But in this extant moment, faith and troth,
Strain'd purely from all hollow bias drawing,
Bids thee with moſt divine integrity,
From heart of very heart, great Hector, welcome.
Hect. I thank thee, moſt imperious Agamemnon.
Aga. My well fam'd Lord of Troy, no leſs to you.
Men. Let me confirm my Princely Brothers greeting,
You brace of warlike Brothers, welcome hither.
Hect. Whom muſt we anſwer?
Æne. The Noble Menelaus.
Hect. O, you my Lord, by Mars his gauntlet, thanks,
Mock not, that I affect th' untraded Oath,
Your quondam wife ſwears ſtill by Venus Glove;
She's well, but bad me not commend her to you.
Men. Name her not now, Sir, ſhe's a deadly Theam.
Hect. O pardon, I offend.
Neſt. I have (thou gallant Trojan) ſeen thee oft
Labouring for deſtiny, make cruel way
Through ranks of Greekiſh youth; and I have ſeen thee,
As hot as Perſeus, ſpur thy Phrygian Steed,
And ſeen thee ſcorning forfeits and ſubduements,
When thou haſt hung thy advanced Sword i'th' Air,
Nor letting it decline on the declined:
That I have ſaid unto my ſtanders by,
Lo Jupiter is yonder, dealing life.
And I have ſeen thee pauſe, and take thy breath,
When that a Ring of Greeks, have hemm'd thee in,
Like an Olympian wraſtling. This have I ſeen,
But this thy countenance (ſtill lockt in Steel)
I never ſaw till now. I knew thy Grandſire,
And once fought with him; he was a Souldier good,
But by great Mars (the Captain of us all,)
Never like thee. Let an Old Man embrace thee,
And (worthy Warrior) welcome to our Tents.
Æne. 'Tis the old Neſtor.
Hect. Let me embrace thee, good old Chronicle,
That haſt ſo long walkt hand in hand with time:
Moſt Reverend Neſtor, I am glad to claſp thee.
Neſt. I would my Arms could match thee in contention,
As they contend with thee in courteſie.
Hect. I would they could.
Neſt. Ha? by this white beard I'ld fight with thee to morrow. Well, welcome. welcome: I have ſeen the time---
Ulyſ. I wonder now how yonder City ſtands,
When we have here her Baſe and Pillar by us.
Hect. I know your favour, Lord Ulyſſes, well.
Ah, Sir, there's many a Greek and Trojan dead;
Since firſt I ſaw your ſelf and Diomede
In Ilion, on your Greekiſh Embaſie.
Ulyſ. Sir, I foretold you then what would enſue,
My Propheſy is but half his journey yet;
For yonder Walls that partly front your Town:
Yond Towers, whoſe wanton tops do buſs the Clouds,
Muſt kiſs their own Feet.
Hect. I muſt not believe you:
There they ſtand yet: and modeſtly I think,
The fall of every Phrygian Stone will coſt
A drop of Grecian Blood: the end crowns all,
And that old common Arbitrator, Time,
Will one Day end it.
Ulyſ. So to him we leave it.
Moſt gentle, and moſt valiant Hector, welcome;
After the General, I beſeech you next
To feaſt with me, and ſee me at my Tent.
Achill. I ſhall foreſtal thee, Lord Ulyſſes, thou:
Now Hector I have fed mine Eyes on thee,
I have with exact view perus'd thee, Hector,
And quoted joynt by joynt.
Hect. Is this Achilles?
Achil. I am Achilles.
Hect. Stand fair, I prithee, let me look on thee.
Achil. Behold thy fill.
Hect. Nay, I have done already.
Achil. Thou art too brief, I will the ſecond time,
As I would buy thee, view thee, limb by limb.
Hect. O like a Book of ſport thou'lt read me o're:
But there's more in me than thou underſtand'ſt.
Why doeſt thou ſo oppreſs me with thine Eye?
Achil. Tell me, you Heavens, in which part of his Body
Shall I deſtroy him? Whether there, or there, or there,
That I may give the Local wound a name,
And make diſtinct the very breach, where-out
Hector's great Spirit flew. Anſwer me, Heavens.
Hect. It would diſcredit the bleſt Gods, Proud Man,
To anſwer ſuch a Queſtion: Stand again;
Think'ſt thou to catch my life ſo pleaſantly,
As to prenominate in nice conjecture,
Where thou wilt hit me dead?
Achil. I tell thee, yea.
Hect. Wert thou the Oracle to tell me ſo,
I'ld not believe thee: henceforth guard thee well,
For I'le not kill thee there, nor there, nor there,
But by the Forge that ſtythied Mars his Helm,
I'le kill thee every where, yea o're and o're.
You wiſeſt Grecians, pardon me this brag,
His inſolence draws folly from my Lips,
But I'le endeavour Deeds to match theſe Words,
Or may I never———
Ajax. Do not chafe thee, Couſin:
And you Achilles, let theſe threats alone
Till accident, or purpoſe bring you to't.
You may have every day enough of Hector,
If you have Stomach. The general ſtate, I fear,
Can ſcarce intreat you to be odd with him.
Hect. I pray you, let us ſee you in the Field,
We have had pelting Wars ſince you refus'd
The Grecian's Cauſe.
Achil. Do'ſt thou intreat me, Hector?
To morrow do I meet thee, fell as death,
To Night, all Friends.
Hect. Thy hand upon that match.
Aga. Firſt, all you Peers of Greece go to my Tent,
There in the full convive you: Afterwards,
As Hector's leiſure, and your bounties ſhall
Concur together, ſeverally intreat him.
Beat loud the Taborins, let the Trumpets blow.
That this great Souldier may his welcome know. [Exeunt.
Troi. My Lord Ulyſſes, tell me, I beſeech you,
In what place of the Field doth Calcas keep?
Ulyſ. At Menelaus Tent, moſt Princely Troilus,
There Diomede doth feaſt with him to Night,
Who neither looks on Heaven, nor on Earth,
But gives all gaze and bent of amorous view
On the fair Creſſid.
Troi. Shall I (ſweet Lord) be bound to thee ſo much,
After we part from Agamemnon's Tent,
To bring me thither?
Ulyſ. You ſhall command me, Sir:
As gentle tell me, of what Honour was
This Creſſida in Troy, had ſhe no Lover there,
That wails her abſence?
Troi. O Sir, to ſuch as boaſting ſhew their ſcars,
A mock is due: will you walk on, my Lord?
She was belov'd, ſhe lov'd; ſhe is, and doth.
But ſtill, ſweet love is Food for Fortunes tooth. [Exeunt.
Enter Achilles and Patroclus.
Achil. I'le heat his Blood with Greekiſh Wine to Night,
Which

Patroclus, let us Feaſt him to the height.
Patr. Here comes Therſites.
Enter Therſites.
Achil. How now, thou core of Envy?
Thou cruſty batch of Nature, what's the news?
Ther. Why, thou Picture of what thou ſeem'ſt, and Idol of Idiot-worſhippers, here's a Letter for thee.
Achil. From whence, Fragment?
Ther. Why, thou full diſh of Fool, from Troy.
Patr. Who keeps the Tent now?
Ther. The Surgeon's Box, or the Patient's Wound.
Patr. Well ſaid, Adverſity, and what need theſe tricks?
Ther. Prithee be ſilent, Boy, I profit not by thy talk, thou art thought to be Achilles's male Varlet.
Patr. Male Varlet, you Rogue? What's that?
Ther. Why, his maſculine Whore. Now the rotten diſeaſes of the South, Guts-griping, Ruptures, Catarrhs, Loads o'gravel i'th' backs, Lethargies, cold Palſies, and the like, take and take again ſuch prepoſterous diſcoveries.
Patr. Why, thou damnable box of Envy, thou, what mean'ſt thou to Curſe thus?
Ther. Do I Curſe thee?
Patr. Why no, you ruinous Butt, you whorſon indiſtinguiſhable Cur.
Ther. No? Why art thou then exaſperate, thou idle immaterial skein of ſleyd Silk; thou green Sarcenet flap for a ſore Eye, thou toſſel of a Prodigals Purſe, thou? Ah, how the poor World is peſtred with ſuch water-flies, diminutives of Nature.
Patr. Out gall.
Ther. Finch Egg.
Achil. My ſweet Patroclus, I am th'warted quite
From my great purpoſe in to morrows battel:
Here is a Letter from Queen Hecuba,
A Token from her daughter, my fair Love,
Both taxing me, and gaging me to keep
An Oath that I have ſworn. I will not break it,
Fall Greek, fail Fame, Honour, or go, or ſtay,
My major Vow lies here; this I'le obey:
Come, come, Therſites, help to trim my Tent,
This night in banqueting muſt all be ſpent.
Away, Patroclus. [Exit.
Ther. With too much blood, and too little brain, theſe two may run mad: but if with too much brain, and too little blood, they do, I'le be a Curer of Mad-men. Here's Agamemnon, an honeſt Fellow enough, and one that loves Quails, but he has not ſo much Brain as Ear-wax; and the good transformation of Jupiter there his Brother, the Bull, the primitive Statue, and oblique memorial of Cuckolds, a thrifty ſhooing-horn in a chain, hanging at his Brothers Leg; to what form, but that he is, ſhould wit larded with malice, and malice forced with wit, turn him to? to an Aſs were nothing, he is both Aſs and Ox; to an Ox were nothing, he is both Ox and Aſs; to be a Dogg, a Mule, a Cat, a Fitchew, a Toad, a Lizard, an Owl, a Puttock, or a Herring without a Roe, I would not care: But to be Menelaus, I would conſpire againſt Deſtiny. Ask me not what I would be, if I were not Therſites: for I care not to be the Lowſe of a Lazar, ſo I were not Menelaus. Hoy-day, Spirits and Fires.

Enter Hector, Ajax, Agamemnon, Ulyſſes, Neſtor, Diomede, with Lights.

Aga. We go wrong, we go wrong.
Aja. No, yonder 'tis, there where we ſee the Light.
Hect. I trouble you.
Ajax. No, not a whit.
Enter Achilles.
Ulyſ. Here comes himſelf to guide you.
Achil. Welcome brave Hector, welcome Princes all.
Agam. So, now fair Prince of Troy, I bid good night, Ajax commands the Guard to tend on you.
Hect. Thanks, and good night to the Greek's General,
Men. Good night, my Lord.
Hect. Good night, ſweet Lord Menelaus.
Ther. Sweet draught: ſweet quoth a? ſweet Sink, ſweet Sure.
Achil. Good night, and welcom, both at once, to thoſe that go, or tarry.
Aga. Good night.
Achil. Old Neſtor tarries, and you too, Diomede,
Keep Hector company an hour or two.
Dio. I cannot, Lord, I have important buſineſs,
The tide whereof is now; Good night, great Hector.
Hect. Give me your hand.
Ulyſ. Follow his Torch, he goes to Calchas's Tent,
I'le keep you company.
Troi. Sweet Sir, you honour me.
Hect. And ſo Good night.
Achil. Come, come, enter my Tent. [Exeunt.
Ther. That ſame Diomed's a falſe-hearted Rogue, a moſt unjuſt Knave; I will no more truſt him when he leers, than I will a Serpent when he hiſſes: He will ſpend his mouth and promiſe, like Brabler the Hound; but when he performs, Aſtronomers foretel it, that it is prodigious, there will come ſome change: The Sun borrows of the Moon, when Diomede keeps his word. I will rather leave to ſee Hector, than not to dog him: they ſay, he keeps a Trojan Drab, and uſes the Traytor Calchas his Tent. I'le after——Nothing but Lechery? All incontinent Varlets. [Exeunt.
Enter Diomede.
Dio. What are you up here, ho? ſpeak.
Chal. Who calls?
Dio. Diomede, Calchas, I think, where's your Daughter?
Chal. She comes to you.
Enter Troilus, and Ulyſſes.
Ulyſ. Stand where the Torch may not diſcover us.
Enter Creſſid.
Troi. Creſſid come forth to him.
Dio. How now, my charge?
Creſ. Now my ſweet Guardian: hark, a word with you.
Troi. Yea, ſo familiar?
Ulyſ. She will ſing any man at firſt ſight.
Ther. And any man may find her, if he can take her life: ſhe's noted.
Dio. Will you remember?
Creſ. Remember? yes.
Dio. Nay, but do then; and let your mind be coupled with your words.
Troi. What ſhould ſhe remember?
Ulyſ. Liſt.
Creſ. Sweet honey, Greek, tempt me no more to folly.
Ther. Roguery.
Dio. Nay, then.
Creſ. I'le tell you what.
Dio. Fo, fo, come tell a pin, you are a forſworn——
Creſ. In Faith I cannot: what would you have me do?
Ther. A jugling trick, to be ſecretly open.
Dio. What did you ſwear you would beſtow on me?
Creſ. I prethee do not hold me to mine Oath;
Bid me do any thing but that, ſweet Greek.
Dio. Good night.
Troi. Hold, Patience.
Ulyſ. How now, Trojan?
Creſ. Diomede.
Dio. No, no, good night: I'le be your Fool no more.
Troi. Thy better muſt.
Creſ. Hark, one word in your Ear.
Troi. O Plague and Madneſs!
Ulyſ. You are mov'd, Prince, let us depart, I pray you,
Leſt your diſpleaſure ſhould enlarge it ſelf
To wrathful terms: this place is dangerous;
The time right deadly: I beſeech you go.
Troi. Behold, I pray you.
Ulyſ. Nay, good my Lord go off:
You flow to great diſtraction: come, my Lord.

Troi. I pray thee ſtay?
Ulyſ. You have not patience, come.
Troi. I pray you ſtay; by Hell, and all Hells torments, I will not ſpeak a word.
Dio. And ſo good night.
Creſ. Nay, but you part in anger.
Troi. Doth that grieve thee? O withered truth!
Ulyſ. Why, how now, Lord?
Troi. By Jove, I will be patient.
Creſ. Guardian? why, Greek?
Dio. Fo, fo, adieu, you palter.
Cre. In faith, I do not: come hither once again.
Ulyſ. You ſhake, my Lord, at ſomething; will you go? You will break out.
Troi. She ſtroaks his Cheek.
Ulyſ. Come, come.
Troi. Nay, ſtay, by Jove, I will not ſpeak a word. There is between my will, and all offences,
A guard of patience, ſtay a little while.
Ther. How the Devil Luxury with his fat Rump, and Potato Finger, tickles theſe together: fry, Lechery, fry.
Dio. But will you then?
Creſ. In Faith I will go; never truſt me elſe.
Dio. Give me ſome token for the ſurety of it.
Creſ. I'le fetch you one.
Ulyſ. You have ſworn patience.
Troi. Fear me not, ſweet Lord.
I will not be my ſelf, nor have cognition
Of what I feel: I am all patience.

Enter Creſſid.

Ther. Now the pledge, now, now, now.
Creſ. Here, Diomede, keep this Sleeve.
Troi. O Beauty! where is thy Faith?
Ulyſ. My Lord.
Troi. I will be patient, outwardly I will.
Creſ. You look upon that Sleeve; behold it well: He lov'd me: O falſe Wench: give't me again.
Dio. Whoſe was't?
Creſ. It is no matter now I have't again.
I will not meet with you to morrow night:
I prithee, Diomede, viſit me no more.
Ther. Now ſhe ſharpens: well ſaid Whetſtone.
Dio. I ſhall have it.
Creſ. What, this?
Dio. I, that.
Creſ. O all you Gods! O pretty, pretty pledge; Thy Maſter now lies thinking in his Bed,
Of thee and me, and ſighs, and takes my Glove,
And gives memorial dainty kiſſes to it:
As I kiſs thee.
Dio. Nay, do not ſnatch it from me.
Creſ. He that takes that, takes my Heart withall.
Dio. I had your Heart before, this follows it.
Troi. I did ſwear patience.
Creſ. You ſhall not have it, Diomede: faith you ſhall not, I'le give you ſomething elſe.
Dio. I will have this: whoſe was it?
Creſ. It is no matter.
Dio. Come tell me whoſe it was?
Creſ. 'Twas one that lov'd me better than you will. But now you have it, take it.
Dio. Whoſe was it?
Creſ. By all Diana's waiting Women yonder,
And by her ſelf, I will not tell you whoſe.
Dio. To morrow will I wear it on my Helm,
And grieve his Spirit that dares not challenge it.
Troi. Wert thou the Devil, and wor'ſt it on thy horn, It ſhould be challeng'd.
Creſ. Well, well, 'tis done, 'tis paſt; and yet it is not, I will not keep my word.
Dio. Why then farewel,
Thou never ſhalt mock Diomede again.
Creſ. You ſhall not go: one cannot ſpeak a word,
But it ſtreight ſtarts you.
Dio. I do not like this fooling.
Ther. Nor I, by Pluto: but that that likes not me, pleaſes me beſt.
Dio. What ſhall I come? the hour.
Creſ. I, come: O, Jove! do, come: I ſhall be plagu'd.
Dio. Farewel till then. [Exit.
Creſ. Good night: I prithee come:
Troilus, farewel; one Eye yet looks on thee,
But with my Heart, the other Eye doth ſee——
Ah poor our Sex; this fault in us I find,
The error of our Eye, directs our mind.
What error leads muſt err: O then conclude,
Minds ſway'd by Eyes, are full of turpitude. [Exit.
Ther. A proof of ſtrength ſhe could not publiſh more; Unleſs ſhe ſay, my Mind is now turn'd Whore.
Ulyſ. All's done, my Lord.
Troi. It is.
Ulyſ. Why ſtay we then?
Troi. To make a recordation to my Soul,
Of every ſyllable that here was ſpoke:
But if I tell how theſe two did co-act;
Shall I not lye in publiſhing a truth?
Sith yet there is a credence in my Heart,
An eſperance ſo obſtinately ſtrong,
That doth invert that teſt of Eyes and Ears;
As if thoſe Organs had deceptious Functions,
Created only to calumniate.
Was Creſſid here?
Ulyſ. I cannot conjure, Trojan.
Troi. She was not ſure.
Ulyſ. Moſt ſure ſhe was.
Troi. Why, my negation hath no taſt of madneſs.
Ulyſ. Nor mine, my Lord: Creſſid was here but now.
Troi. Let it not be believ'd for woman-hood:
Think we had Mothers; do not give advantage
To ſtubborn Criticks, apt without a Theme
For depravation, to ſquare the general Sex,
By Creſſid's rule. Rather think this not Creſſid.
Ulyſ. What hath ſhe done, Prince, that can ſoyl our Mothers?
Troi. Nothing at all, unleſs that this were ſhe.
Ther. Will he ſwagger himſelf out on's own Eyes?
Troi. This ſhe? no, this is Diomede's Creſſid:
If Beauty have a Soul, this is not ſhe:
If Souls guide vows, if vows are Sanctimony;
If Sanctimony be the Gods delight:
If there be rule in unity it ſelf,
This is not ſhe: O madneſs of diſcourſe!
That Cauſe ſets up, with, and againſt thy ſelf,
By foul Authority: where reaſon can revolt
Without Perdition, and loſs aſſume all Reaſon,
Without Revolt. This is, and is not Creſſid:
Within my Soul, there doth conduce a fight
Of this ſtrange nature, that a thing inſeparate,
Divides more wider than the Sky and Earth,
And yet the ſpacious breadth of this diviſion,
Admits no Orifice for a point as ſubtle,
As Ariachnes broken woof to enter;
Inſtance, O inſtance! ſtrong as Pluto's Gates;
Creſſid is mine, tied with the bonds of Heaven;
Inſtance, O inſtance! ſtrong as Heaven it ſelf;
The bonds of Heaven are ſlipt, diſſolv'd, and loos'd:
And with another knot five finger'd tied,
The fractions of her Faith, orts of her Love:
The fragments, ſcraps, the bits, and greaſie Reliques,
Of her o're-eaten Faith, are bound to Diomede.
Ulyſ. May worthy Troilus be half attached
With that which here his paſſion doth expreſs?
Troi. I, Greek, and that ſhall be divulged well
In Characters, as red as Mars his heart
Inflam'd with Venus; never did young man fancy
With ſo Eternal, and ſo fixt a ſoul.
Hark, Greek: as much as I do Creſſida love;
So much by weight, hate I her Diomede:

That

That Sleeve is mine, that he'l bear in his Helm:
Were it a Caſk compos'd by Vulcan's skill,
My Sword ſhould bite it: Not the dreadful ſpout,
Which Ship-men do the Hurricano call,
Conſtring'd in maſs by the Almighty Fenn,
Shall dizzy with more clamour Neptune's ear
In his deſcent, than ſhall my prompted Sword
Falling on Diomede.

Ther. He'l tickle it for his Concupy.

Troi. O, Creſſid! O falſe Creſſid! falſe, falſe, falſe:
Let all untruths ſtand by thy ſtained name,
And they'l ſeem glorious.

Ulyſ. O contain your ſelf:
Your Paſſion draws ears hither.

Enter Æneas.

Æne. I have been ſeeking you this hour, my Lord:
Hector by this is arming him in Troy.
Ajax, your Guard, ſtays to conduct you home.

Troi. Have with you, Prince: my courteous Lord, adieu:
Farewel, revolted fair: and, Diomede,
Stand faſt, and wear a Caſtle on thy head.

Ulyſ. I'le bring you to the Gates.

Troi. Accept diſtracted thanks.

[Exeunt Troilus, Æneas, and Ulyſſes.

Ther. Would I could meet that Rogue Diomede, I would croak like a Raven: I would bode, I would bode: Patroclus will give me any thing for the intelligence of this Whore: the Parrot will not do more for an Almond, than he for a commodious drab: Lechery, Lechery, ſtill wars and Lechery, nothing elſe holds faſhion. A burning Devil take them. [Exit.

Enter Hector, and Andromache.

And. When was my Lord ſo much ungently temper'd,
To ſtop his Ears againſt admoniſhment?
Unarm, unarm, and do not fight to day.

Hect. You train me to offend you: get you gone.
By the everlaſting Gods, I'le go.

And. My Dreams will ſure prove ominous to the day.

Hect. No more, I ſay.

Enter Caſſandra.

Caſ. Where is my Brother Hector?

And. Here Siſter, arm'd, and bloody in intent:
Conſort with me in loud and dear Petition:
Purſue we him on knees: for I have dreamt
Of bloody turbulence; and this whole night
Hath nothing been but ſhapes, and forms of ſlaughter.

Caſ. O, 'tis true.

Hect. Ho? bid my Trumpet ſound.

Caſ. No notes of ſally, for the Heavens, ſweet Brother.

Hect. Be gone, I ſay: the Gods have heard me ſwear.

Caſ. The Gods are deaf to hot and peeviſh Vows;
They are polluted Offerings, more abhorr'd
Than ſpotted Livers in the Sacrifice.

And. O be perſuaded, do not count it holy,
To hurt by being juſt; it is as lawful:
For we would count give much to as violent theſts,
And rob in the behalf of Charity.

Caſ. It is the purpoſe that makes ſtrong the Vow;
But Vows to every purpoſe muſt not hold:
Unarm, ſweet Hector.

Hect. Hold you ſtill, I ſay;
Mine Honour keeps the weather of my Fate:
Life every man holds dear, but the dear man
Holds Honour far more precious-dear than life.

Enter Troilus.

How now, young man? mean'ſt thou to fight to day?

And. Caſſandra, call my Father to perſuade.

[Exit Caſſandra.

Hect. No Faith, young Troilus; doff thy harneſs, Youth:
I am to day i'th' vein of Chivalry:
Let grow thy Sinews till their knots be ſtrong;
And tempt not yet the bruſhes of the war.
Unarm thee, go, and doubt thou not, brave Boy,
I'le ſtand to day, for thee, and me, and Troy.

Troi. Brother, you have a vice of mercy in you;
Which better fits a Lion, than a Man.

Hect. What vice is that? good Troilus chide me for it.

Troi. When many times the Captive Grecian falls,
Even in the fan and wind of your fair Sword,
You bid them riſe, and live.

Hect. O, 'tis fair play.

Troi. Fools play, by Heaven, Hector.

Hect. How now? how now?

Troi. For th' love of all the Gods,
Let's leave the Hermit pity with our Mothers;
And when we have our Armors buckled on,
The venom'd vengeance ride upon our Swords,
Spur them to rueful work, rein them from ruth.

Hect. Fie, Savage, fie.

Troi. Hector, then 'tis wars.

Hect. Troilus, I would not have you fight to day.

Troi. Who ſhould with-hold me?
Not Fate, Obedience, nor the hand of Mars,
Beckning with fiery Truncheon my retire;
Not Priamus, and Hecuba on knees;
Their Eyes o're-galled with recourſe of Tears;
Nor you, my Brother, with your true Sword drawn,
Oppos'd to hinder me, ſhould ſtop my way;
But by my ruin.

Enter Priam and Caſſandra.

Caſ. Lay hold upon him, Priam, hold him faſt:
He is thy Crutch; now if thou loſe thy ſtay,
Thou on him leaning, and all Troy on thee,
Fall all together.

Priam. Come, Hector, come, go back:
Thy Wife hath dreamt, thy Mother hath had viſions,
Caſſandra doth foreſee; and I my ſelf,
Am like a Prophet ſuddenly enrapt,
To tell thee that this day is Ominous:
Therefore come back.

Hect. Æneas is a-field,
And I do ſtand engag'd to many Greeks,
Even in the faith of valour to appear
This morning to them.

Priam. I, but thou ſhalt not go.

Hect. I muſt not break my Faith:
You know me dutiful, therefore, dear Sir,
Let me not ſhame reſpect; but give me leave
To take that courſe by your conſent and voice,
Which you do here forbid me, Royal Priam.

Caſ. O, Priam, yield not to him.

And. Do not, dear Father.

Hect. Andromache, I am offended with you:
Upon the love you bear me, get you in.

[Exit Andromache.

Troi. This fooliſh, dreaming, ſuperſtitious Girl,
Makes all theſe bodements.

Caſ. O farewel, dear Hector:
Look how thou dieſt; look how thy Eye turns pale;
Look how thy wounds do bleed at many vents;
Hark how Troy roars; how Hecuba cries out;
How poor Andromache ſhrils her dolour forth;
Behold diſtraction, frenzy, and amazement,
Like witleſs Anticks, one another meet,
And all cry, Hector, Hector's dead: O Hector!

Troi. Away.

Caſ. Farewel: yet, ſoft: Hector, I take my leave;
Thou do'ſt thy ſelf, and all our Troy deceive. Exit.

Hect. You are amaz'd, my Liege, at her exclaim:
Go in and cheer the Town, we'll forth and fight:
Do deeds of praiſe, and tell you them at night.

Priam. Farewel: the Gods with ſafety ſtand about thee.

[Alarum.

Troi. They are at it, hark: proud Diomede, believe
I come to loſe my Arm, or win my Sleeve.

Enter Pandar.

Pand. Do you hear, my Lord? do you hear?

Troi. What now?

Pand. Here's a Letter come from yond poor Girl.

Troi. Let me read.

Pand. A whorſon tiſick, a whorſon raſcally tiſick, ſo troubles me: and the fooliſh Fortune of this Girl, and what one thing, what another, that I ſhall leave you one o'th'days; and I have a Rheum in mine Eyes too, and ſuch an ach in my Bones, that unleſs a Man were curſt I cannot tell what to think on't. What ſays ſhe, there?

Troi. Words, words, meer words, no matter from the Heart:
Th'effect doth operate another way.
Go wind to wind, there, turn and change together:
My love with words and errors ſtill ſhe feeds;
But edifies another with her deeds.

Pand. Why, but hear you?

Troi. Hence, brother Lacky; Ignominy and Shame
Purſue thy life, and live aye with thy name.

Alarum. [Exeunt.

Enter Therſites in excurſion.

Ther. Now they are clapper-clawing one another, I'le go look on: that diſſembling abominable varlet, Diomede, has got that ſame ſcurvy, doting, fooliſh young Knaves Sleeve of Troy, there in his Helm: I would fain ſee them meet, that, that ſame young Trojan aſs, that loves the Whore there, might ſend that Greekiſh Whore-maſterly Villain, with the Sleeve, back to the diſſembling luxurious Drab, of a ſleeveleſs errant. O'th'tother ſide, the Policy of thoſe crafty ſwearing Raſcals; that ſtale old Mouſe-eaten dry-cheeſe, Neſtor: and that ſame dog-fox Ulyſſes is not prov'd worth a Black-berry. They ſet me up in Policy, that mungril Cur Ajax, againſt that Dog of as bad a kind, Achilles. And now is the Cur Ajax prouder than the Cur Achilles, and will not arm to day. Whereupon the Grecians began to proclaim Barbariſm; and Policy grows into an ill opinion.

Enter Diomede, and Troilus.

Soft, here comes Sleeve, and th' other.

Troi. Fly not: for ſhould'ſt thou take the River Styx, I would ſwim after.

Diom. Thou do'ſt miſcall, retire:
I do not flye, but advantagious care
With-drew me from the odds of multitude:
Have at thee.

Ther. Hold thy Whore, Grecian: now for thy Whore, Trojan: Now the Sleeve, now the Sleeve.

Enter Hector.

Hect. What art thou, Greek? art thou for Hector's match? Art thou of Blood, and Honour?

Ther. No, no: I am a Raſcal; a Scurvy railing Knave; a very filthy Rogue.

Hect. I do believe thee, live.

Ther. God a mercy, that thou wilt believe me; but a plague break thy neck——for frighting me: what's become of the Wenching Rogues? I think, they have ſwallowed one another. I would laugh at that miracle——yet in a ſort, Lechery eats it ſelf: I'le ſeek them. [Exit.

Enter Diomede and Servant.

Dio. Go, go, my Servant, take thou Troilus's Horſe;
Preſent the fair Steed to my Lady Creſſid:
Fellow, commend my Service to her Beauty:
Tell her, I have chaſtis'd the amorous Trojan,
And am her Knight by proof.

Ser. I go, my Lord. Enter Agamemnon.

Aga. Renew, renew, the fierce Polydamus
Hath beat down Menon: Baſtard Margarelon
Hath Doreus Priſoner,
And ſtands, Coloſſus wiſe, waving his beam,
Upon the paſhed courſes of the Kings,
Epiſtrophus and Cedus, Polyxines is ſlain;
Amphimachus, and Thous, deadly hurt;
Patroclus ta'ne or ſlain, and Palamedes
Sore hurt and bruiſed; the dreadful Sagittary
Appals our numbers, haſte we, Diomede,
To re-inforcement, or we periſh all.

Enter Neſtor.

Neſt. Go bear Patroclus's Body to Achilles,
And bid the Snail-pac'd Ajax arm for ſhame,
There is a thouſand Hectors in the Field:
Now here he fights on Galathe his Horſe;
And there lacks work: anon he's there a-foot,
And there they flye or dye, like ſcaled Sculs,
Before the belching Whale: then is he yonder,
And there the ſtraying Greeks, ripe for his edge,
Fall down before him, like the Mower's Swath;
Here, there, and every where, he leaves and takes;
Dexterity ſo obeying appetite,
That what he will, he does, and does ſo much,
That Proof is call'd Impoſſibility.

Enter Ulyſſes.

Ulyſ. Oh Courage, Courage, Princes: great Achilles
Is arming, weeping, curſing, vowing Vengeance;
Patroclus's wounds have rouz'd his drowſie blood,
Together with his mangled Myrmidons,
That noſeleſs, handleſs, hackt, and chipt, come to him;
Crying on Hector. Ajax hath loſt a Friend,
And foams at Mouth, and he is arm'd, and at it:
Roaring for Troilus; who hath done to day,
Mad and fantaſtick execution;
Engaging and redeeming of himſelf,
With ſuch a careleſs Force, and forceleſs Care,
As if that luck, in very ſpight of cunning, bad him win all.

Enter Ajax.

Aja. Troilus, thou Coward, Troilus. [Exit.

Dio. I, there, there.

Neſt. So, ſo, we draw together. [Exit.

Enter Achilles.

Achil. Where is this Hector?
Come, come, thou Boy-killer, ſhew thy Face:
Know what it is to meet Achilles angry.
Hector, where's Hector? I will none but Hector. [Exit.

Enter Ajax.

Aja. Troilus, thou Coward Troilus, ſhew thy head.

Enter Diomede.

Diom. Troilus, I ſay, where's Troilus?

Aja. What would'ſt thou?

Dio. I would correct him.

Aja. Were I the General,
Thou ſhoul'dſt have my Office,
E're that Correction: Troilus, I ſay, what, Troilus?

Enter Troilus.

Troi. Oh Traytor Diomede!
Turn thy falſe Face, thou Traitor,
And pay thy life, thou oweſt me for my Horſe.

Dio. Ha, art thou there?

Aja. I'le fight with him alone, ſtand, Diomede.

Dio. He is my prize, I will not look upon.

Troi. Come both you cogging Greeks, have at you both. [Exit Troilus.

Enter Hector.

Hect. Yea, Troilus? O well fought, my youngeſt Brother.

Enter Achilles.

Achil. Now do I ſee thee; have at thee, Hector.

Hect. Pauſe, if thou wilt.

Achil. I do diſdain thy Courteſie, proud Trojan;
Be happy that my Arms are out of uſe:
My reſt and negligence befriend thee now,
But thou anon ſhalt hear of me again:
Till when, go ſeek thy Fortune.

Hect. Fare thee well:
I would have been much more a freſher Man,
Had I expected thee: how now, my Brother?

Enter Troilus.

Troi. Ajax hath ta'ne Æneas; ſhall it be?
No, by the flame of yonder glorious Heaven,
He ſhall not carry him: I'le be ta'ne too,

Or

Or bring him off: Fate, hear me what I ſay;
I wreak not, though thou end my Life to day. [Exit.

Enter one in Armour.

Hect. Stand, ſtand, thou Greek,
Thou art a goodly Mark:
No? wilt thou not? I like thy Armour well,
I'le fruſh it, and unlock the Rivets all,
But I'le be Maſter of it: wilt thou not, beaſt, abide?
Why then fly on, I'le hunt thee for thy Hide. [Exit.

Enter Achilles with Myrmidons:

Achil. Come here about me, you my Myrmidons:
Mark what I ſay; attend me where I wheel:
Strike not a ſtroak, but keep your ſelves in breath;
And when I have the bloody Hector found,
Empale him with your weapons round about:
In felleſt manner execute your Arms,
Follow me, Sirs, and my proceeding Eye;
It is decreed, Hector the great muſt die. [Exit.

Enter Therſites, Menelaus, and Paris.

Ther. The Cuckold, and the Cuckold-maker are at it: now Bull, now Dog, 'loo; Paris, 'loo; now my double hen'd ſparrow; 'loo, Paris, 'loo; the Bull has the game: 'ware Horns, ho.

[Exit Paris, and Menelaus.

Enter Baſtard.

Baſt. Turn, Slave, and fight.
Ther. What art thou?
Baſt. A Baſtard Son of Priam's.
Ther. I am a Baſtard too, I love Baſtards, I am a Baſtard begot, Baſtard inſtructed, Baſtard in mind, Baſtard in valour, in every thing illegitimate: One Bear will not bite another, and wherefore ſhould one Baſtard? Take heed, the quarrel's moſt ominous to us: If the Son of a Whore fight for a VVhore, he tempts Judgment: farewel, Baſtard.
Baſt. The Devil take the Coward. [Exeunt.

Enter Hector.

Hect. Moſt putrified Core ſo fair without:
Thy goodly Armour thus hath coſt thy Life.
Now is my days work done; I'le take good breath:
Reſt Sword, thou haſt thy fill of Blood and Death.

Enter Achilles, and his Myrmidons.

Achil. Look, Hector, how the Sun begins to ſet;
How ugly Night comes breathing at his heels,
Even with the veil and darking of the Sun.
To cloſe the day up, Hector's Life is done.
Hect. I am unarm'd, forgo this vantage, Greek.
Achil. Strike, Fellows, ſtrike, this is the Man I ſeek.
So, Ilion, fall thou: now, Troy, ſink down:
Here lies thy Heart, thy Sinews, and thy Bone.
On, Myrmidons, cry you all amain,
Achilles hath the mighty Hector ſlain. [Retreat.
Hark, a Retreat upon our Grecian part.
Gree. The Trojan Trumpets ſounds the like, my Lord.
Achil. The dragon wing of Night, o're-ſpreads the Earth.
And, Stickler-like, the Armies ſeparates;
My half ſupt Sword, that frankly would have fed,
Pleas'd with this dainty bit, thus goes to bed.
Come, tye his Body to my Horſes Tail:
Along the Field, I will the Trojan trail. [Exeunt.

Sound Retreat. Shout.

Enter Agamemnon, Ajax, Menelaus, Neſtor, Diomede, and the reſt marching.

Aga. Hark, hark, what ſhout is that?
Neſt. Peace Drums.
Sold. Achilles, Achilles, Hector's ſlain, Achilles.
Dio. The bruit is, Hector ſlain, and by Achilles.
Aja. If it be ſo, yet bragleſs let it be:
Great Hector was a man as good as he.
Aga. March patiently along; let one be ſent
To pray Achilles ſee us at out Tent.
If in his death the Gods have us befriended,
Great Troy is ours, and our ſharp Wars are ended.
[Exeunt.

Enter Æneas; Paris, Anthenor and Deiphobus.

Æne. Stand ho, yet are we Maſters of the Field,
Never go home; here ſtarve we out the night.

Enter Troilus.

Troi. Hector is ſlain.
All. Hector? the Gods forbid.
Troi. He's dead: and at the Murtherers Horſes tail,
In beaſtly ſort, dragg'd through the ſhameful Field,
Frown on, you Heavens, effect your rage with ſpeed:
Sit Gods upon your Throns, and ſmile at Troy.
I ſay at once, let your brief Plagues be mercy,
And linger not our ſure deſtructions on.
Æne. My Lord, you do diſcomfort all the Hoſt.
Troi. You underſtand me not, that tell me ſo:
I do not ſpeak of flight, of fear, of death,
But dare all imminence, that Gods and Men
Addreſs their dangers in. Hector is gone:
Who ſhall tell Priam ſo? or Hecuba?
Let him that will a ſcriech-oul ay be call'd,
Go in to Troy, and ſay there, Hector's dead:
There is a word will Priam turn to ſtone;
Make wells, and Niob's of the Maids and Wives;
Cool ſtatues of the youth; and in a word,
Scare Troy out of ſelf. But march away,
Hector is dead: there is no more to ſay.
Stay yet: you vile abominable Tents,
Thus proudly pight upon our Phrygian Plains:
Let Titan riſe, as early as he dare,
I'le through, and through you, and thou great ſiz'd coward,
No ſpace of Earth ſhall ſunder our two hates,
I'le haunt thee, like a wicked Conſcience ſtill,
That mouldeth Goblins ſwift, as frenſies thoughts.
Strike a free march to Troy, with comfort go:
Hope of revenge, ſhall hide our inward woe.

Enter Pandarus.

Pand. But hear you? hear you?
Troi. Hence brothel, lacky, ignominy and ſhame
Purſue thy Life, and live aye with thy name. [Exeunt.
Pan. A goodly med'cine for mine aking bones: oh world, world, world! thus is the poor Agent deſpis'd: Oh Traitors, and Bawds; how earneſtly are you ſet a work, and how ill requited? why ſhould our endeavour be ſo deſir'd, and the performance ſo loath'd? What Verſe for it? what Inſtance for it? let me ſee,
Full merrily, the Humble Bee doth ſing,
Till he hath loſt his honey, and his ſting;
And being once ſubdu'd in armed tail,
Sweet Honey, and ſweet Notes together fail.
Good Traders in the Fleſh, ſet this in your painted cloaths,
As many as be here of Pandars Hall,
Your Eyes half out, weep out at Pandar's Fall,
Or if you cannot weep, yet give ſome groans;
Though not for me, yet for your aking bones,
Brethren and Siſters of the hold-dore Trade,
Some two months hence, my will ſhall here be made:
It ſhould be now, but that my fear is this,
Some galled Gooſe of Wincheſter would hiſs:
Till then, I'le ſwear, and ſeek about for eaſes;
And at that time bequeath you my diſeaſes. [Exeunt.

THE TRAGEDY OF CORIOLANUS.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter a Company of Mutinous Citizens, with Staves, Clubs, and other Weapons.

1 Citizen.

BEfore we proceed any further, hear me ſpeak.

All. Speak, Speak.

1 Cit. You are all reſolv'd rather to die than to famiſh?

All. Reſolv'd, reſolv'd.

1. Cit. Firſt, you know, Caius Martius is chief Enemy to the People.

All. We know't.

1 Cit. Let us kill him, and we'll have Corn at our own price. Is't a Verdict?

All. No more talking on't, Let it be done, away, away.

2 Cit. One word, good Citizens.

1 Cit. We are accounted poor Citizens, the Patricians good: what Authority ſurfeits on, would relieve us; If they would yield us but the ſuperfluity, while it were wholeſom, we might gueſs they relieved us humanly: But they think we are too dear, the leanneſs that afflicts us, the object of our Miſery, is as an Inventory to particulariſe their abundance, our ſufferance is a gain to them. Let us revenge this with our Pikes, e're we become Racks. For the Gods know, I ſpeak this in hunger for Bread, not in thirſt for Revenge.

2 Cit. Would you proceed eſpecially againſt Caius Martius?

All. Againſt him firſt: He's a very Dog to the Commonalty.

2 Cit. Conſider you what Services he has done for his Country?

1 Cit. Very well, and could be content to give him good report for't, but that he pays himſelf with being proud.

All. Nay, but ſpeak not maliciouſly.

1 Cit. I ſay unto you, what he hath done Famouſly, he did it to that end: though ſoft conſcienc'd men can be content to ſay it was for his Country, he did it to pleaſe his Mother, and to be partly proud, which he is, even to the altitude of his virtue.

2 Cit. What he cannot help in his Nature, you account a Vice in him: You muſt in no way ſay, he is Covetous.

1 Cit. If I muſt not, I need not be barren of Accuſations, he hath faults (with ſurplus) to tire in repetition.

[Shouts within.

What ſhouts are thoſe? The other ſide o'th' City is riſen, why ſtay we prating here? To th' Capitol.

All. Come, come.

1 Cit. Soft, who comes here?

Enter Menenius Agrippa.

2 Cit. Worthy Menenius Agrippa, one that hath always lov'd the People.

1 Cit. He's one honeſt enough, would all the reſt were ſo.

Men. What works my Country-men in hand? Where go you with your Bats and Clubs? The matter, Speak, I pray you.

2 Cit. Our buſineſs is not unknown to th' Senat, they have had inkling this fortnight, what we intend to do, which now we'll ſhew'm in deeds: They ſay, poor Suiters have ſtrong Breaths, they ſhall know we have ſtrong Arms too.

Men. Why Maſters, my good Friends, mine honeſt Neighbours, will you undo your ſelves?

2 Cit. We cannot, Sir, we are undone already.

Men. I tell you, Friends, moſt charitable care
Have the Patricians of you, for your wants,
Your ſuffering in this dearth, you may as well
Strike at the Heaven with your Staves, as lift them
Againſt the Roman State, whoſe courſe will on
The way it takes: cracking ten thouſand Curbs
Of more ſtrong link'd aſunder, than can ever
Appear in your impediment. For the Dearth,
The Gods, not the Patricians make it, and
Your Knees to them (not Arms) muſt help. Alack,
You are tranſported by Calamity
Thither, where more attends you, and you ſlander
The Helms o'th' State; who care for you, like Fathers,
When you curſe them, as Enemies.

2 Cit. Care for us? True indeed, they ne're cared for us yet. Suffer us to famiſh, and their Store-houſes cramm'd with Grain: Make Edicts for Uſury, to ſupport Uſurers; repeal daily any wholeſome Act eſtabliſhed againſt the Rich, and provide more piercing Statutes daily, to chain up and reſtrain the Poor. If the Wars eat us not up, they will, and there's all the love they bear us.

Men. Either you muſt
Confeſs your ſelves wondrous Malicious,
Or be accus'd of Folly. I ſhall tell you
A pretty tale, it may be you have heard it,
But ſince it ſerves my purpoſe, I will venture
To ſcale't a little more.

2 Cit. Well,

I'le

I'le hear it, Sir: yet you muſt not think,
To fobb off our diſgrace with a tale:
But and't pleaſe you deliver.
Men. There was a time, when all the bodies Members
Rebell'd againſt the Belly; thus accus'd it;
That only like a Gulf it did remain
I'th' mid'ſt o'th' Body, idle and unactive,
Still cubbording the Viand, never bearing
Like labour with the reſt, where th' other Inſtruments
Did ſee, and hear, deviſe, inſtruct, walk, feel,
And mutually participate, did miniſter
Unto the Appetite, and affection common
Of the whole Body, the Belly anſwer'd
2 Cit. Well, Sir, what anſwer made the Belly.
Men. Sir, I ſhall tell you with a kind of ſmile,
Which ne'er came from the Lungs, but even thus:
For look you, I may make the Belly ſmile,
As well as ſpeak; it tauntingly reply'd
To th' diſcontented Members, the mutinous parts
That envied his receit: even ſo moſt fitly,
As you malign our Senators, for that
They are not ſuch as you.
2 Cit. Your Bellies anſwer: What
The Kingly Crown'd head, the vigilant Eye,
The Counſellor Heart, the Arm our Souldier,
Our Steed the Leg, the Tongue our Trumpeter;
With other Muniments and petty helps
In this our Fabrick, if that they———
Men. What then? For me, this fellow ſpeaks.
What then? What then?
2 Cit. Should by the Cormorant Belly be reſtrain'd,
Who is the ſink o'th' body.
Men. Well, what then?
2 Cit. The former Agents, if they did complain,
What could the Belly anſwer?
Men. I will tell you,
If you'l beſtow a ſmall (of what you have little)
Patience a while; you'ſt hear the Bellies anſwer.
2 Cit. Y'are long about it.
Men. Note me this, good Friend;
Your moſt grave Belly was deliberate,
Not raſh like his Accuſers, and thus anſwered;
True is it, my incorporate Friends (quoth he)
That I receive the general Food at firſt
Which you do live upon: and fit it is,
Becauſe I am the Store-houſe, and the Shop
Of the whole body. But if you do remember,
I ſend it through the Rivers of your Blood
Even to the Court, th' Heart, to th' ſeat o'th' Brain,
And through the Cranks and Offices of Man,
The ſtrongeſt Nerves, and ſmall inferiour Veins
From me receive that natural competency
Whereby they live. And though that all at once,
(You, my good Friends, this ſays the Belly) mark me.
2 Cit. I, Sir, well, well.
Men. Though all at once, cannot
See what I do deliver out to each,
Yet I can make my Audit up, that all
From me do back receive the flowr of all,
And leave me but the Bran. What ſay you to't?
2 Cit. It was an anſwer, how apply you this?
Men. The Senators of Rome, are this good Belly,
And you, the mutinous Members: For examine
Their Counſels, and their Care; diſgeſt things rightly,
Touching the Weal o'th' Common, you ſhall find
No publick benefit which you receive,
But it proceeds, or comes from them to you,
And no way from your ſelves. What do you think?
You, the great Toe of this Aſſembly?
2 Cit. I the great Toe? Why the great Toe?
Men. For that being one o'th' loweſt, baſeſt, pooreſt
Of this moſt wiſe Rebellion, thou goeſt formoſt:
Thou Raſcal, that art worſt in Blood to run,
Lead'ſt firſt to win ſome vantage.
But make you ready your ſtiff Bats and Clubs,
Rome, and her Rats, are at the point of Battel;
The one ſide muſt have Bail.
Enter Caius Martius.
Hayl, Noble Martius.
Mar. Thanks. What's the matter, you diſſentious Rogues?
That rubbing the poor itch of your Opinion,
Make your ſelves Scabs.
2 Cit. We have ever your good word.
Mar. He that will give good words to thee, will flatter
Beneath abhorring. What would you have, you Curs,
That like not Peace, nor War? The one affrights you,
The other makes you proud. He that truſts to you,
Where he ſhould find you Lions, finds you Hares:
Where Foxes, Geeſe you are: No ſurer, no,
Than is the coal of Fire upon the Ice,
Or Hailſtone in the Sun. Your Virtue is,
To make him worthy, whoſe offence ſubdues him,
And curſe that Juſtice did it. Who deſerves Greatneſs,
Deſerves your Hate: and your Affections are
A ſick mans Appetite, who deſires moſt that
Which would encreaſe his evil. He that depends
Upon your favours, ſwims with finns of Le ad,
And hews down Oaks with ruſhes. Hang ye: truſt ye?
With every Minute you do change a Mind,
And call him Noble, that was now your Hate:
Him vile, that was your Garland. What's the matter,
That in theſe ſeveral places of the City,
You cry againſt the Noble Senate, who
(Under the Gods) keep you in awe, which elſe
Would feed on one another? What's their ſeeking?
Men. For Corn at their own rates, whereof they ſay,
The City is well ſtor'd.
Mar. Hang 'em: They ſay,
They'l ſit by th' Fire, and preſume to know
What's done i'th' Capitol: Who's like to riſe,
Who thrives, and who declines: Side Factions, and give out
Conjectural Marriages, making parties ſtrong,
And feebling ſuch as ſtand not in their liking,
Below their cobled Shoes. They ſay, there's Grain enough,
Would the Nobility lay aſide their Ruth,
And let me uſe my Sword, I'de make a Quarry
With thouſands of theſe quarter'd Slaves, as high
As I could pick my Lance.
Men. Nay, theſe are almoſt throughly perſuaded:
For though abundantly they lack diſcretion,
Yet are they paſſing cowardly. But, I beſeech you,
What ſays the other Troop?
Mar. They are diſſolv'd: Hang 'em;
They ſaid they were an hungry, ſigh'd forth Proverbs,
That Hunger broke Stone walls: that Dogs muſt eat,
That Meat was made for Mouths. That the Gods ſent not
Corn for the Rich men only: With theſe ſhreds
They vented their Complainings, which being anſwer'd,
And a Petition granted them, a ſtrange one,
To break the heart of generoſity,
And make bold power look pale, they threw their Caps
As they would hang them on the horns o'th' Moon,
Shooting their Emulation.
Men. What is granted them?
Mar. Five Tribunes to defend their vulgar wiſdoms,
Of their own choice. One's Junius Brutus,
Sicinius Velutus, and I know not. S'death,
The rabble ſhould have firſt unroo'ſt the City
E're ſo prevail'd with me; it will in time
Win upon power, and throw forth greater Themes
For Inſurrections arguing.
Men. This is ſtrange.
Mar. Go get you home, you Fragments.
Enter a Meſſenger haſtily.
Meſ. Where's Caius Martius?
Mar. Here: what's, the matter?
Meſ. The News is, Sir, the Volſcies are in Arms.
Mar. I am glad on't, then we ſhall have means to vent
Our

Our muſty ſuperfluity. See our beſt Elders.

Enter Sicinius Velutus, Junius Brutus, Cominius, Titus Lucius, with other Senators.

1 Sen. Martius, 'tis true, that you have lately told us, The Volſcies are in Arms.

Mar. They have a Leader,
Tullus Auſidius that will put you to't:
I ſin in envying his Nobility:
And were I any thing but what I am,
I could wiſh me only, he.

Com. You have fought together?

Mar. Were half to half the World by th' ears, and he Upon my party, I'de revolt to make
Onely my Wars with him. He is a Lion
That I am proud to hunt.

1 Sen. Then worthy Martius,
Attend upon Cominius to theſe Wars.

Com. It is your former promiſe.

Mar. Sir, it is,
And I am conſtant: Titus Lucius, thou
Shalt ſee me once more ſtrike at Tullus's Face.
What art thou ſtiff? Stand'ſt out?

Tit. No, Caius Martius,
I'le lean upon one Crutch, and fight with t'other;
E're ſtay behind this buſineſs.

Men. Oh true-bred.

Sen. Your company to'th' Capitol, where I know Our greateſt Friends attend us.

Tit. Lead you on: Follow Cominius, we muſt follow you, right worthy your Prioritie.

Com. Noble Martius.

Sen. Hence to your homes, be gone.

Mar. Nay, let them follow,
The Volſcies have much Corn: take theſe Rats thither
To gnaw their Garners. Worſhipful Mutiners,
Your valour puts well forth: Pray, follow. [Exeunt.

[Citizens ſteal away. Manent Sicin. and Brutus.

Sicin. Was ever man ſo proud, as is this Martius?

Bru. He has no equal.

Sic. When we were choſen Tribunes for the People——

Bru. Mark'd you his Lip and Eyes.

Sic. Nay, but his taunts.

Bru. Being mov'd, he will not ſpare to gird the Gods.

Sic. Be-mock the modeſt Moon.

Bru. The preſent Wars devour him, he is grown Too proud to be ſo valiant.

Sicin. Such a Nature, tickled with good ſucceſs, diſdains the ſhadow which he treads on at noon, but I do wonder, his Inſolence can brook to be commanded under Cominius?

Bru. Fame, at the which he ayms,
In whom already he is well grac'd, cannot
Better be held, nor more attain'd than by
A place below the firſt: for what miſcarries
Shall be the General's fault, though he perform
To th' utmoſt of a man, and giddy cenſure
Will then cry out of Martius: Oh, if he
Had born the buſineſs.

Sic. Beſides, if things go well,
Opinion, that ſo ſticks on Martius, ſhall
Of his demerits rob Cominius.

Bru. Come: half all Cominius's Honours are to Martius, Though Martius earn'd them not: and all his faults
To Martius ſhall be Honours, though indeed
In ought he merit not.

Sic. Let's hence, and hear
How the diſpatch is made, and in what faſhion,
More than his ſingularity, he goes
Upon this preſent Action.

Bru. Let's along. [Exeunt.

Enter Tullus Auſidius with Senators of Coriolus.

1 Sen. So, your Opinion is, Auſidius,
That they of Rome are entred in our Counſels,
And know how we proceed.

Auf. Is it not yours?
Whatever hath been thought on in this State,
That could be brought to bodily act, e're Rome
Had circumvention? 'tis not four Days gone
Since I heard thence, theſe are the words, I think
I have the Letter here, yes, here it is;
They have preſt a power, but it is not known
Whether for Eaſt or Weſt: the Dearth is great,
The People Mutinous: And it is rumour'd
Cominius, Martius your old Enemy,
(Who is of Rome worſe hated than of you)
And Titus Lucius, a moſt valiant Roman,
Theſe three lead on this Preparation
Whither 'tis bent: moſt likely, 'tis for you:
Conſider of it.

1 Sen. Our Army's in the Field:
We never yet made doubt, but Rome was ready
To anſwer us.

Auf. Nor did you think it folly,
To keep your great pretences veil'd, 'till when
They needs muſt ſhews themſelves, which in the hatching
It ſeem'd appear'd to Rome. By the diſcovery,
We ſhall be ſhortned in our aim, which was
To take in many Towns, e're (almoſt) Rome
Should know we are a-foot.

2 Sen. Noble Auſidius,
Take your Commiſſion, hie you to your Bands,
Let us alone to guard Coriolus:
If they ſet down before's, for the remove
Bring up your Army: But (I think) you'l find
Th' have not prepar'd for us.

Auf. O, doubt not that,
I ſpeak from certainties. Nay more,
Some parcels of their Power are forth already,
And only hitherward. I leave your Honours.
If we, and Caius Martius chance to meet,
'Tis ſworn between us, we ſhall ever ſtrike,
'Till one can do no more.

All. The Gods aſſiſt you.

Auf. And keep your Honours ſafe.

1 Sen. Farewel.

2 Sen. Farewel.

All. Farewel. [Exeunt omnes.

Enter Volumnia and Virgilia, Mother and Wife to Martius: They ſet them down on two low Stools, and Sew.

Volu. I pray you, Daughter, ſing, or expreſs your ſelf in a more comfortable ſort: If my Son were my Huſband, I would freelier rejoyce in that abſence wherein he won Honour, than in the embracements of his Bed, where he ſhould ſhew moſt love. When yet he was but tender-bodied, and the only Son of my Womb; when Youth with Comlineſs pluck'd all gaze his way: when for a Day of Kings entreaties, a Mother ſhould not ſell him an hour from her beholding, I conſidering how Honour would become ſuch a Perſon, that it was no better than Picture-like to hang by th' wall, if Renown made it not ſtir, was pleas'd to let him ſeek Danger, where he was like to find Fame: To a cruel War I ſent him, from whence he return'd, his Brows bound with Oak. I tell thee, Daughter, I ſprang no more in joy at firſt hearing he was a Man-child, than now in firſt ſeeing he had proved himſelf a Man.

Virg. But had he died in the buſineſs, Madam, how then?

Volum. Then his good Report ſhould have been my Son, I therein would have found iſſue. Heare me profeſs ſeſs ſincerely, had I a dozen Sons each in my love alike, and none leſs dear than thine, and my good Martius, I had rather had eleven dye Nobly for their Countrey, than one voluptuouſly ſurfeit out of Action.

Enter a Gentlewoman.

Gent. Madam, the Lady Valeria is come to viſit you.
Virg. Beſeech you, give me leave to retire my ſelf.
Volum. Indeed thou ſhalt not:
Methinks, I hear hither your Husband's Drum:
See him pluck Auſidius down by th' Hair:
(As Children from a Bear) the Volſcies ſhunning him:
Methinks I ſee him ſtamp thus, and call thus,
Come on, ye Cowards, you were got in fear
Though you were born in Rome; his bloody brow,
With his mail'd hand, then wiping, forth he goes
Like to a Harveſt-man, what's task'd to mow,
Or all, or loſe his hire.
Virg. His bloody Brow? Oh Jupiter, no Blood.
Volum. Away, you Fool; it more becomes a Man
Than gilt his Trophy. The breſt of Hecuba
When ſhe did ſuckle Hector, look'd not lovelier
Than Hector's Forehead, when it ſpit forth Blood
At Grecian Swords contending: tell Valeria
We are fit to bid her welcome. [Exit Gent.
Virg. Heavens bleſs my Lord from fell Auſidius.
Vol. He'll beat Auſidius's Head below his Knee,
And tread upon his Neck.

Enter Valeria with an Uſher, and a Gentlewoman.

Val. My Ladies both, good day to you.
Vol. Sweet Madam.
Vir. I am glad to ſee your Ladyſhip.
Val. How do you both? You are manifeſt Houſe-keepers. What are you ſewing here? A fine ſpot in good faith. How does your little ſon?
Vir. I thank your Lady-ſhip: Well, good Madam.
Vol. He had rather ſee the Swords, and hear a Drum, than look upon his Schoolmaſter.
Val. A my word the Fathers Son: I'le ſwear 'tis a very pretty Boy. A my troth I look'd upon him a Wedneſday half an hour together: h'as ſuch a confirm'd countenance. I ſaw him run after a gilded Butterfly, and when he caught it, he let it go again, and after it again, and over and over he comes, and up again, and caught it again: or whether his fall enrag'd him, or how 'twas, he did ſo ſet his teeth, and tear it. Oh, I warrant how he mammockt it.
Vol. One o's Fathers moods.
Val. Indeed la, 'tis a Noble Child.
Virg. A Crack, Madam.
Val. Come, lay aſide your ſtitchery, I muſt have you play the idle Huſwife with me this afternoon.
Virg. No (good Madam)
I will not out of Doors.
Val. Not out of Doors?
Vol. She ſhall, ſhe ſhall.
Vir. Indeed, no, by your patience; I'le not over the threſhold, till my Lord, return from the Wars.
Val. Fie, you confine your ſelf moſt unreaſonably: Come, you muſt go viſit the good Lady that lies in.
Virg. I will wiſh her ſpeedy ſtrength, and viſit her with my Prayers, but I cannot go thither.
Vol. Why, I pray you?
Virg. 'Tis not to ſave labour, nor that I want love.
Val. You would be another Penelope: yet they ſay, all the Yarn ſhe ſpun in Ulyſſes's abſence, did but fill Ithaca full of Mothes. Come, I would your Cambrick were ſenſible as your Finger, that you might leave pricking it for pity. Come, you ſhall go with us.
Virg. No, good Madam, pardon me, indeed I will not forth.
Val. In truth la go with me, and I'le tell you excellent News of your Husband.
Vir. Oh, good Madam, there can be none yet.
Val. Verily I do not jeſt with you: there came News from him laſt Night.
Vir. Indeed, Madam?
Val. In earneſt it's true; I heard a Senator ſpeak it. Thus it is: the Volſcies have an Army forth, againſt whom Cominius the General is gone, with one part of our Roman Power. Your Lord, and Titus Lucius are ſet down before their City Coriolus, they nothing doubt prevailing, and to make it brief Wars. This is true on mine Honour, and ſo, I pray, go with us.
Vir. Give me excuſe, good Madam, I will obey you in every thing hereafter.
Vol. Let her alone, Lady, as ſhe is now,
She will but diſeaſe our better mirth.
Val. In troth, I think ſhe would:
Fare you well then. Come, good ſweet Lady.
Prithee, Virgilia, turn thy ſolemneſs out a Door,
And go along with us.
Virg. No,
At a word, Madam; indeed I muſt not,
I wiſh you much mirth.
Val. Well, then farewel. [Exeunt Ladies.

Enter Martius, Titus Lucius, with Drum and Colours, with Captains and Souldiers, as before the City Coriolus: to them a Meſſenger.

Mart. Yonder comes News:
A Wager they have met.
Luc. My Horſe to yours, no.
Mar. 'Tis done.
Luc. Agreed.
Mar. Say, ha's our General met the Enemy?
Meſ. They lye in view; but have not ſpoke as yet.
Luc. So, the good Horſe is mine.
Mart. I'le buy him of you.
Luc. No, I'le not ſell, nor give him: Lend him you, I will,
For half a hundred years; Summon the Town.
Mar. How far off lies theſe Armies?
Meſ. Within this mile and half.
Mar. Then ſhall we hear their Larum, and they Ours.
Now, Mars, I prithee make us quick in work:
That we with ſmoaking Swords may march from hence
To help our fielded Friends. Come, blow thy blaſt.

They ſound a Parley. Enter two Senators with others on the Walls of Coriolus.

Tullus Auſidius, is he within your Walls?
1 Senat. No, nor a Man that fears you leſs than he,
That's leſſer than a little: [Drum afar off.
Hark, our Drums
Are bringing forth our Youth: We'll break our Walls
Rather than they ſhall pound us up; our Gates,
Which yet ſeem ſhut, we have but pinn'd with Ruſhes,
They'l open of themſelves. Hark you far off.
[Alarum far off.
There is Auſidius. Liſt, what work he makes
Amongſt your cloven Army.
Mar. Oh, they are at it.
Luc. Their noiſe be our inſtruction. Ladders, hoe.

Enter the Army of the Volſcies.

Mar. They fear us not, but iſſue forth their City.
Now put your Shields before your hearts, and fight
With hearts more proof than Shields.
Advance, brave Titus,
They do diſdain us much beyond our Thoughts,
Which makes me ſweat with wrath. Come on, my fellows

He

He that retires, I'le take him for a Volſcie,
And he ſhall feel mine edge.
Alarum, the Romans are beat back to their Trenches.
Enter Martius Curſing.
Mar. All the contagion of the South, light on you,
You ſhames of Rome: you Herd of Biles and Plagues
Plaiſter you o're, that you may be abhorr'd
Farther than ſeen, and one infect another
Againſt the Wind a mile: You Souls of Geeſe,
That bear the ſhapes of Men, how have you run
From Slaves, that Apes would beat? Pluto and Hell,
All hurt behind, backs red, and faces pale
With ſlight and agued fear? mend, and charge home,
Or by the Fires of Heaven, I'le leave the Foe,
And make my Wars on you: Look to't: Come on,
If you'l ſtand faſt, we'll beat them to their Wives,
As they us to our Trenches followed.
Another Alarum, and Martius follows them to the Gates, and is ſhut in.
So, now the Gates are ope: now prove good Seconds,
'Tis for the Followers, Fortune widens them,
Not for the Flyers: Mark me, and do the like.
Enter the Gates.
1 Sol. Fool-hardineſs, not I.
2 Sol. Nor I.
1 Sol. See they have ſhut him in. [Alarum continues.
All. To th' pot I warrant him.
Enter Titus Lucius.
Tit. What is become of Martius?
All. Slain (Sir) doubtleſs.
1 Sol. Following the Flyers at the very heels,
With them he enters; who upon the ſudden
Clapt to their Gates: he is himſelf alone,
To anſwer all the City.
Luc. Oh Noble Fellow!
Who ſenſibly out-dares his ſenceleſs Sword,
And when it Bows, ſtand'ſt up: Thou art left, Martius,
A Carbuncle intire, as big as thou art,
Were not ſo rich a Jewel. Thou waſt a Souldier
Even to Calves wiſh, not fierce and terrible
Only in ſtrokes, but with thy grim looks, and
The Thunder-like percuſſion of thy ſounds
Thou mad'ſt thine Enemies ſhake, as if the World
Were feavorous, and did tremble.

Enter Martius bleeding, aſſaulted by the Enemy.

1 Sol. Look Sir.
Luc. O, 'tis Martius.
Let's fetch him off, or make remain alike.
[They fight, and all enter the City.

Enter certain Romans with ſpoils.

1 Rom. This will I carry to Rome.
2 Rom. And I this.
3 Rom. A Murrain on't, I took this for Silver. [Exeunt.
[Alarum continues ſtill a far off.

Enter Martius, and Titus with a Trumpet.

Mar. See here, theſe Movers, that do prize their hours
At a crack'd Drachm, Cuſhions, Leaden Spoons,
Irons of a Doit, Doublets that Hangmen would
Bury with thoſe that wore them, theſe baſe Slaves,
Ere yet the fight be done, pack up, down with them.
And hark, what noiſe the General makes: To him,
There is the Man of my Souls hate, Anfidius,
Piercing our Romans: Then Valiant Titus take
Convenient Numbers to make good the City,
Whilſt I with thoſe that have the Spirit, will haſte
To help Cominius.
Luc. Worthy Sir, thou bleed'ſt,
Thy exerciſe hath been too violent,
For a ſecond courſe of Fight.
Mar. Sir, praiſe me not:
My work hath yet not warm'd me. Fare you well:
The Blood I drop, is rather Phyſical
Than Dangerous to me. To Anfidius, thus I will appear and fight.
Luc. Now the fair Goddeſs Fortune,
Fall deep in love with thee, and her great charms
Miſguide thy Oppoſers Swords, bold Gentleman;
Proſperity be thy Page.
Mar. Thy Friend no leſs,
Than thoſe ſhe placeth higheſt: So farewel.
Luc. Thou worthieſt Martius,
Go ſound thy Trumpet in the Market-place,
Call thither all the Officers o'th' Town,
Where they ſhall know our mind. Away. [Exeunt.

Enter Cominius as it were in retire, with Souldiers.

Com. Breathe you, my friends, well fought, we are come off
Like Romans, neither Fooliſh in our ſtands,
Nor Cowardly in retire: Believe me, Sirs,
We ſhall be charg'd again. Whiles we have ſtruck
By interims and conveying guſts, we have heard
The Charges of our Friends. The Roman Gods
Lead their ſucceſſes, as we wiſh our own,
That both our Powers, with ſmiling Fronts encountring,
May give you thankful Sacrifice. Thy news?
Enter a Meſſenger.
Meſ. The Citizens of Coriolus have iſſued,
And given to Lucius and to Martius Battel.
I ſaw our Party to their Trenches driven,
And then I came away.
Com. Though thou ſpeakeſt truth,
Methinks thou ſpeak'ſt not well. How long is't ſince?
Meſ. Above an hour, my Lord.
Com. 'Tis not a mile: briefly we heard their Drums.
How could'ſt thou in a mile confound an hour,
And bring thy News ſo late?
Meſ. Spies of the Volſcies
Held me in chace, that I was forc'd to wheel
Three or four Miles about, elſe had I, Sir,
Half an hour ſince, brought my report.
Enter Martius.
Com. Whoſe yonder,
That does appear as he were Flea'd? O Gods,
He has the ſtamp of Martius, and I have
Before time ſeen him thus.
Mar. Come I too late?
Com. The Shepherd knows not Thunder from a Taber,
More than I know the Sound of Martius's Tongue
From every meaner Man.
Mar. Come I too late?
Com. I, if you come not in the Blood of others,
But mantled in your own.
Mar. Oh! let me clip ye
In Arms as ſound, as when I woo'd in Heart;
As merry as when our Nuptial Day was done,
And Tapers burnt to Bedward.
Com. Flower of Warriors, how is't with Titus Lucius?
Mar. As with a Man buſied about Decrees:
Condemning ſome to Death, and ſome to Exile,
Ranſoming him, or pitying, threatning th' other;
Holding Coriolus in the name of Rome,
Even like a fawning Grey-hound in the Leaſh,
To let him ſlip at will.
Com. Where is that Slave
Which told me they had beat you to your Trenches?
Where is he? Call him hither.
Mar. Let him alone,
He did inform the truth: But for our Gentlemen,
The common file, (a Plague Tribunes for them)
The Mouſe ne're ſhunn'd the Cat, as they did budge
From Raſcals worſe than they.
Com. But how prevail'd you?

Mar.

Mar. Will the time ſerve to tell? I do not think:
Where is the Enemy? Are you Lords o'th' Field?
If not, why ceaſe you till you are ſo?
Com. Martius, we have at diſadvantage fought,
And did retire to win our purpoſe.
Mar. How lies their Battel? Know you on what ſide
they have plac'd their Men of truſt?
Com. As I gueſs, Martius,
Their Bands i'th' Vaward are the Ancients
Of their beſt truſt: O're them Auſidius,
Their very heart of Hope.
Mar. I do beſeech you,
By all the Battels wherein we have fought,
By th' Blood we have ſhed together,
By th' Vows we have made
To endure Friends, that you directly ſet me
Againſt Auſidius, and his Antiats,
And that you not delay the preſent (but Filling the Air with Swords advanc'd) and Darts,
We prove this very hour.
Com. Though I could wiſh
You were conducted to a gentle Bath,
And Balms applied to you, yet dare I never
Deny your asking, take your choice of thoſe
That beſt can aid your action.
Mar. Thoſe are they
That moſt are willing; if any ſuch be here?
(As it 'twere ſin to doubt) that love this painting
Wherein you ſee me ſmear'd, if any fear
Leſſer his perſon, than an ill report:
If any think, brave death out-weighs bad life,
And that his Country's dearer than himſelf,
Let him alone, (or, ſo many ſo minded)
Wave thus, to expreſs his diſpoſition,
And follow Martius.
They all ſhout, and wave their Swords, take him up in their Arms, and caſt up their Caps.
Oh me alone, make you a Sword of me:
If theſe ſhews be not outward, which of you
But is four Volſcies? None of you, but is Able to bear againſt the great Auſidius.
A Shield as hard as his. A certain number
(Though thanks to all) muſt I ſelect from all:
The reſt ſhall bear the buſineſs in ſome other fight
As cauſe will be obey'd: pleaſe you to march,
And four ſhall quickly draw out my Command,
Which Men are beſt inclin'd.
Com. March on, my fellows:
Make good this oſtentation, and you ſhall
Divide in all, with us. [Exeunt.

Titus Lucius, having ſet a Guard upon Coriolus, going with Drum and Trumpet toward Cominius, and Caius Martius, Enters with a Lieutenant, other Souldiers, and a Scout.

Luc. So, let the Ports be guarded; keep your Duties
As I have ſet them down. If I do ſend, diſpatch
Thoſe Centuries to our aid, the reſt will ſerve
For a ſhort holding; if we loſe the Field,
We cannot keep the Town.
Lieu. Fear not our care, Sir.
Luc. Hence; and ſhut your Gates upon's:
Our Guider come, to th' Roman Camp conduct us. [Exit.
[Alarum as in Battel.

Enter Martius and Auſidius at ſeveral Doors.

Mar. I'le fight with none but thee, for I do hate thee
Worſe than a Promiſe-breaker.
Auf. We hate alike:
Not Africk owns a Serpent I abhor
More than thy Fame and Envy: Fix thy Foot.
Mar. Let the firſt Budger die the others Slave,
And the Gods doom him after.
Auf. If I flie, Martius, hollow me like a Hare.
Mar. Within theſe three hours Tullus
Alone I fought in your Coriolus Walls,
And made what work I pleas'd: 'Tis not my Blood,
Wherein thou ſeeſt me maskt, for thy Revenge
Wrench up thy power to th' higheſt.
Auf. Wer't thou the Hector,
That was the whip of your bragg'd Progeny,
Thou ſhould'ſt not ſcape me here.
Here they fight, and certain Volſcies come to the aid of Auſid. Martius fights till they be driven in breathleſs.
Officious and not valiant, you have ſham'd me
In your condemned Seconds.

Flouriſh. Alarum. A Retreat is ſounded. Enter at one Door Cominius, with the Romans: At another Door Martius, with his Arm in a Scarf.

Com. If I ſhould tell thee o're this thy Days work,
Thou'lt not believe thy deeds: but I'le report it,
Where Senators ſhall mingle tears with ſmiles,
Where great Patricians ſhall attend, and ſhrug,
I'th' end admire: where Ladies ſhall be frighted,
And gladly quak'd, hear more: where the dull Tribunes,
That with the fuſty Plebeians, hate thine Honours,
Shall ſay againſt their hearts, we thank the Gods
Our Rome hath ſuch a Souldier.
Yet cam'ſt thou to a Morſel of this Feaſt,
Having fully din'd before.

Enter Titus with his Power, from the Purſuit.

Titus Lucius. Oh General:
Here is the Steed, we the Capariſon:
Hadſt thou beheld———
Mar. Pray now, no more:
My Mother, who has a Charter to extol her Blood,
When ſhe does praiſe me, grieves me:
I have done as you have done, that's what I can;
Induc'd as you have been, that's for my Country:
He that has but effected his good will,
Hath overta'ne mine Act.
Com. You ſhall not be the Grave of your deſerving,
Rome muſt know the value of her own:
'Twere a Concealment worſe than a Theft,
No leſs than a Traducement,
To hide your doings, and to ſilence that,
Which to the ſpire and top of praiſes vouch'd,
Would ſeem but modeſt: therefore, I beſeech you,
In ſign of what you are, not to reward
What you have done, before our Army hear me.
Mar. I have ſome wounds upon me, and they ſmart
To hear themſelves remembred.
Com. Should they not:
Well might they feſter 'gainſt ingratiude,
And tent themſelves with death: of all the Horſes,
Whereof we have ta'ne good, and good ſtore of all,
The Treaſure in this Field atchiev'd, and City,
We render you the tenth, to be ta'ne forth,
Before the common diſtribution,
At your only choice.
Mar. I thank you, General:
But cannot make my heart conſent to take
A Bribe, to pay my Sword: I do refuſe it,
And ſtand upon my common part with thoſe,
That have beheld the doing.

A long flouriſh. They all cry, Martius, Martius, caſt up their Caps and Launces: Cominius and Lucius ſtand bare.

Mar. May theſe ſame Inſtruments, which you prophane,
Never ſound more: when Drums and Trumpets ſhall
I'th'

I'th' Field prove flatterers, let Courts and Cities be
Made of all falſe-fac'd ſoothing:
When Steel grows ſoft, as the Paraſites Silk,
Let him be made an Overture for th' Wars:
No more, I ſay, for that I have not waſh'd
My Noſe that bled, or foil'd ſome debile wretch,
Which without note, here's many elſe have done,
You ſhout me forth in acclamations hyperbolical,
As if I lov'd my little ſhould be dieted
In praiſes, ſawc'd with Lies.
Com. Too modeſt are you:
More cruel to your good report, than grateful
To us, that give you truly: by your patience,
If againſt your ſelf you be incens'd, we'll put you
(Like one that means his proper harm) in Manacles,
Then reaſon ſafely with you: Therefore be it known,
As to us, to all the World, that Caius Martius
Wears this Wars Garland: in token of the which,
My noble Steed, known to the Camp, I give him,
With all his trim belonging, and from this time,
For what he did before Coriolus, call him,
With all th' applauſe and clamor of the Hoſt,
Martius Caius Coriolanus. Bear th' addition Nobly ever?
Flouriſh. Trumpets ſound, and Drums.
Omnes. Martius Caius Coriolanus.
Mar. I will go waſh:
And when my Face is fair, you ſhall perceive
Whether I bluſh, or no: Howbeit, I thank you.
I mean to ſtride your Steed, and at all times
To under-creſt your good Addition,
To th' fairneſs of my power.
Com. So, to our Tent:
Where, e're we do repoſe us, we will write
To Rome of our ſucceſs: you Titus Lucius
Muſt to Coriolus back, ſend us to Rome
The beſt, with whom we may articulate,
For their own good, and ours.
Luc. I ſhall, my Lord.
Mar. The Gods begin to mock me;
I that now refus'd moſt Princely gifts,
Am bound to beg of my Lord General.
Com. Take't, 'tis yours, what is't?
Mar. I ſometime lay here in Coriolus,
At a poor mans Houſe: He us'd me kindly.
He cry'd to me: I ſaw him Priſoner:
But then Aufidius was within my view,
And wrath o're-whelm'd my pity: I requeſt you
To give my poor Hoſt freedom.
Com. Oh well begg'd:
Were he the Butcher of my Son, he ſhould
Be free as is the Wind, deliver him, Titus.
Luc. Martius, his name.
Mar. By Jupiter, forgot:
I am weary, yea my Memory is tir'd:
Have we no Wine here?
Com. Go we to our Tent:
The Blood upon your Viſage dries, 'tis time
It ſhould be look'd too: come. [Exeunt.

A Flouriſh. Cornets. Enter Tullus Aufidius, bloody, with two or three Souldiers.

Auf. The Town is ta'ne.
Soul. 'Twill be deliver'd back on good Condition.
Auf. Condition?
I would I were a Roman, For I cannot,
Being a Volſcie, be, that I am. Condition?
What good Condition can a Treaty find
I'th' part that is at mercy? five times, Martius,
I have fought with thee; ſo often haſt thou beat me:
And would'ſt do ſo, I think, ſhould we encounter
As often as we eat. By the Elements,
If e're again I meet him beard to beard
He's mine, or I am his: Mine Emulation
Hath not that honour in't it had: For where
I thought to cruſh him in an equal Force,
True Sword to Sword: I'le potch at him ſome way,
Or Wrath, or Craft may get him.
Sol. He's the Devil.
Auf. Bolder, though not ſo ſubtle: my valor's poiſon'd,
With only ſuffering ſtain by him: for him
Shall flie out of it ſelf, nor ſleep, nor ſanctuary,
Being naked, ſick; nor Phane, nor Capitol,
The Prayers of Prieſts, nor time of Sacrifice:
Embarquements all of Fury ſhall lift up
Their rotten Priviledge, and Cuſtom 'gainſt
My hate to Martius. Where I find him, were it
At home, upon my Brothers Guard, even there
Againſt the Hoſpitable Cannon, would I
Waſh my fierce hand in's heart. Go you to the City,
Learn how 'tis held, and what they are that muſt
Be Hoſtages for Rome.
Sol. Will not you go?
Auf. I am attended at the Cyprus Grove. I pray you
('Tis South the City Mill) bring me word thither
How the World goes, that to the pace of it
I may ſpur on my Journey.
Sol. I ſhall, Sir.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Menenius with the two Tribunes of the People, Sicinius and Brutus.

Men. The Augurer tells me, we ſhall have News to Night.
Bru. Good or bad?
Men. Not according to the Prayer of the People, for they love not Martius.
Sicin. Nature teaches Beaſts to know their Friends.
Men. Pray you, who does the Wolf love?
Sicin. The Lamb.
Men. I, to devour him, as the hungry Plebeians would the Noble Martius.
Bru. He's a Lamb indeed, that baes like a Bear.
Men. He's a Bear indeed, that lives like a Lamb. You two are Old Men, tell me one thing that I ſhall ask you.
Both. Well, Sir.
Men. In what enormity is Martius poor in, that you two have not in abundance?
Bru. He's poor in no one fault, but ſtor'd with all.
Sicin. Eſpecially Pride.
Bru. And topping all others in boaſt.
Men. This is ſtrange now: Do you two know, how you are cenſured here in the City, I mean of us o'th' right hand File, do you?
Bru. Why? how are we cenſured?
Men. Becauſe you talk of Pride now, will you not be angry?
Both. Well, well Sir, well.
Men. Why 'tis no great matter; for a very little thief of Occaſion, will rob you of a great deal of Patience: Give your diſpoſitions the Reins, and be angry at your pleaſures (at the leaſt) if you take it as a pleaſure to you, in being ſo; you blame Martius for being proud.
Bru. We do it not alone, Sir.
Men. I know you can do very little alone, for your helps are many, or elſe your actions would grow wondrous ſingle: your abilities are too Infant-like, for doing much alone. You talk of Pride: Oh, that you could turn your Eyes toward the Napes of your Necks, and make but an interior ſurvey of your good ſelves. Oh that you could!
Men. What then, Sir?
Men. Why then you ſhould diſcover a brace of unmeriting, meriting, proud, violent, testy Magistrates (alias Fools) as any in Rome.

Sicin. Menenius, you are known well enough too.

Men. I am known to be a humorous Patrician, and one that loves a cup of hot Wine with not a drop of allaying Tiber in't: Said to be something imperfect in favouring the first complaint, hasty and Tinder-like upon, too trivial motion: One, that converses more with the Buttock of the Night, than with the Fore-head of the Morning. What I think I utter, and spend my Malice in my Breath. Meeting two such Weals-men as you are (I cannot call you Licurgusses) if the drink you give me, touch my Palat adversly, I make a crooked face at it. I can say, your Worships have deliver'd the matter well, when I find the Ass in compound with the Major part of your Syllables. And though I must be content to bear with those, that say you are Reverend Grave, yet they lye deadly, that tell you have good Faces; if you see this in the Map of my Microcosm, follows it that I am known well enough too? What harm can your Besom Conspectuities glean out of this Character, if I be known well enough too?

Bru. Come, Sir, come, we know you well enough.

Men. You know neither me, your selves, nor any thing: you are ambitious for poor Knaves Caps and Legs: You wear out a good wholesom Fore-noon, in hearing a Cause between an Orange-wife, and a Fauset-seller, and then rejourn the Controverse of three-pence to a second day of Audience. When you are Hearing a matter between a Party and Party, if you chance to be pinch'd with the Cholick, you make Faces like Mummers, set up the bloody Flag against all Patience, and in roaring for a Chamber-pot, dismiss the Controversie bleeding, the more intangled by your hearing: All the Peace you make in their Cause, is calling both the Parties Knaves. You are a Pair of strange ones.

Bru. Come, come, you are well understood to be a perfecter gyber for the Table, than a necessary Bencher in the Capitol.

Men. Our very Priests must become Mockers, if they shall encounter such ridiculous Subjects as you are; when you speak best unto the purpose, it is not worth the wagging of your Beards, and your Beards deserve not so honourable a Grave, as to stuff a Botchers Cushion, or to be intomb'd in an Asses Pack-saddle; yet you must be saying, Martius is proud: who in a cheap estimation, is worth all your Predecessors since Deucalion, though peradventure some of the best of 'em were hereditary Hangmen. Good-e'en to your Worships, more of your Conversation would infect my Brain, being the Heardsmen of the Beastly Plebeians. I will be bold to take my leave of you.

[Brutus and Sicinius. Aside.

Enter Volumnia and Valeria.

How now (my as Fair as Noble) Ladies, and the Moon were she Earthly, no Nobler; whither do you follow your Eyes so fast?

Volum. Honourable Menenius, my Boy, Martius, approaches: for the love of Juno let's go.

Men. Ha? Martius coming home?

Volum. I, worthy Menenius, and with most prosperous Approbation.

Men. Take my Cap, Jupiter, and I thank thee: hoo, Martius coming home?

2 Ladies. Nay, 'tis true.

Volum. Look, here's a Letter from him, the State hath another, his Wife another, and (I think) there's one at home for you.

Menen. I will make my very house reel to night: A Letter for me?

Virgil. Yes, certain, there's a Letter for you, I saw't.

Menen. A Letter for me? it gives me an Estate of seven years health; in which time, I will make a Lip at the Physician: The most Soveraign Prescription in Galen is but Empericktique, and to this Preservative, of no better report than a Horse-drench. Is he not wounded? he was wont to come home wounded?

Virgil. Oh no, no, no.

Volum. Oh, he is wounded, I thank the Gods for't.

Menen. So do I too, if he be not too much: brings a Victory in his Pocket? the wounds become him.

Volum. On's Brows: Menenius, he comes the third time home with the Oaken Garland.

Menen. Has he disciplin'd Aufidius soundly?

Volum. Titus Lucius writes, they fought together, but Aufidius got off.

Menen. And 'twas time for him too, I'le warrant him that: and he had stay'd by him, I would not have been so fiddious'd, for all the Chests in Coriolus, and the Gold that's in them. Is the Senate possest of this?

Volum. Good Ladies, let's go. Yes, yes, yes: The Senate has Letters from the General, wherein he gives my Son the whole Name of the War, he hath in this Action out-done his former Deeds doubly.

Valer. In troth there's wondrous things spoke of him.

Menen. Wondrous? I, I warrant you, and not without his true Purchasing.

Virgil. The Gods grant them true.

Volum. True? pow waw.

Mene. True? I'le be sworn they are true, where is he wounded, God save your good Worships? Martius is coming home: he has more cause to be proud: where is he wounded?

Volum. I'th' Shoulder, and i'th' left Arm, there will be large Cicatrices to shew the People, when he shall stand for his place: he receiv'd in the Repulse of Tarquin seven hurts i'th' Body.

Men. One i'th' Neck, and two i'th' Thigh, there's nine that I know.

Volum. He had, before his last Expedition, twenty five Wounds upon him.

Men. Now it's twenty seven, every gash was an Enemies Grave. Hark, the Trumpets.

[A Shout, and Flourish.

Volum. These are the Ushers of Martius:
Before him, he carries Noise;
And behind him, he leaves Tears:
Death, that dark Spirit, in's nervy Arm doth lye,
Which being advanc'd, declines, and then Men dye.

A Sonet. Trumpets sound. Enter Cominius the General, and Titus Lucius: between them Coriolanus, Crown'd with an Oaken Garland, with Captains and Souldiers, and a Herald.

Hera. Know, Rome, that all alone Martius did fight
Within Coriolus Gates: where he hath won,
With Fame, a Name to Martius Caius:
These in Honour follows, Martius Caius, Coriolanus.
Welcome to Rome, renowned Coriolanus.
Sound. Flourish.

All. Welcome to Rome, renowned Coriolanus.

Corio. No more of this, it does offend my heart; pray now no more.

Com. Look, Sir, your Mother.

Corio. Oh! you have, I know, petition'd all the Gods for my Prosperity. [Kneels.

Volum. Nay, my good Souldier, up:
My gentle Martius, worthy Caius,
And by deed-atchieving Honour newly nam'd,
What is it (Coriolanus) must I call thee?
But oh, thy Wife.

Corio. My gracious silence, hail:
Would'st thou have laugh'd, had I come Coffin'd home,
That weep'st to see me Triumph? Ah, my Dear,
Such Eyes the Widows in Coriolus wear,
And Mothers that lack Sons.

Men. Now the Gods Crown thee.

Com. And live you yet? Oh my ſweet Lady, Pardon.
Volum. I know not where to turn.
Oh welcome home: and welcome General,
And y'are welcome all.
Men. A hundred thouſand Welcomes:
I could weep, and I could laugh,
I am light, and heavy; welcome:
A Curſe begin at very root on's Heart,
That is not glad to ſee thee.
You are Three, that Rome ſhould dote on:
Yet by the Faith of Men, we have
Some old Crab-trees here at home,
That will not be grafted to your Reliſh.
Yet welcome Warriors:
We call a Nettle, but a Nettle;
And the faults of Fools but Folly.
Com. Ever right.
Cor. Menenius, ever, ever.
Hera. Give way there, and go on.
Cor. Your Hand, and yours?
E're in our own Houſe I do ſhade my head,
The good Patricians muſt be viſited,
From whom I have receiv'd not only Greetings,
But with them, change of Honours.
Volum. I have lived,
To ſee inherited my very Wiſhes,
And the Buildings of my Fancy:
Only there's one thing wanting,
Which (I doubt not) but our Rome
Will caſt upon thee.
Cor. Know, good Mother,
I had rather be their Servant in my way,
Than ſway with them in theirs.
Com. On, to the Capitol. [Flouriſh. Cornets.
[Exeunt in State, as before.

Enter Brutus and Sicinius.

Bru. All Tongues ſpeak of him, and the bleared ſights
Are ſpectacled to ſee him. Your pratling Nurſe
Into a rapture lets her Baby cry,
While ſhe chats him: the Kitchin Malkin pins
Her richeſt Lockram 'bout her reechy neck,
Clambring the Walls to eye him:
Stalls, Bulks, Windows, are ſmother'd up,
Leads fill'd, and Ridges hors'd
With variable Complexions; all agreeing
In earneſtneſs to ſee him: ſeld-ſhown Flamins
Do preſs 'mong the popular Throngs, and puff
To win a vulgar ſtation: our veil'd Dames
Commit the War of White and Damask
In their nicely gawded Cheeks, to th' wanton ſpoil
Of Phœbus burning Kiſſes: ſuch a poother,
As if that whatſoever God, who leads him,
Were ſlily crept into his humane powers,
And gave him graceful poſture.
Sicin. On the ſudden, I warrant him Conſul.
Bru. Then our Office may, during his Power, go ſleep.
Sicin. He cannot temp'rately tranſport his Honours,
From where he ſhould begin and end, but will
Loſe thoſe he hath won.
Bru. In that there's comfort.
Sici. Doubt not,
The Commoners, for whom we ſtand, but they
Upon their ancient malice, will forget
With the leaſt cauſe, theſe his new Honours,
Which that he will give them, make I as little queſtion,
As he is proud to do't.
Bru. I heard him ſwear
Were he to ſtand for Conſul, never would he Appear i'th' Market-place, nor on him put
The Naples Veſture of humility,
Nor ſhewing (as the manner is) his Wounds
To th' people, beg their ſtinking breaths.
Sicin. 'Tis right.
Bru. It was his word:
Oh he would miſs it, rather than carry it,
But by the ſuit of the Gentry to him,
And the deſire of the Nobles.
Sicin. I wiſh no better, than have him hold that purpoſe, and to put it in execution.
Bru. 'Tis moſt like, he will.
Sicin. It ſhall be to him then, as our good wills, a ſure deſtruction.
Bru. So it muſt fall out
To him, or our Authorities, for an end.
We muſt ſuggeſt the People, in what hatred
He ſtill hath held them: that to's power he would
Have made them Mules, ſilenc'd their Pleaders,
And diſproportioned their Freedoms; holding them,
In humane Action, and Capacity,
Of no more Soul, nor fitneſs for the World,
Than Camels in their War, who have their Provand
Only for bearing Burthens, and ſore blows
For ſinking under them.
Sicin. This (as you ſay) ſuggeſted,
At ſome time, when his ſoaring inſolence
Shall teach the People, which time ſhall not want,
If he be put upon't, and that's as eaſie,
As to ſet Dogs on Sheep, will be his fire
To kindle their dry Stubble: and their Blaze
Shall darken him for ever.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Bru. What's the matter?
Meſſ. You are ſent for to the Capitol:
'Tis thought, that Martius ſhall be Conſul:
I have ſeen the dumb men throng to ſee him,
And the blind to hear him ſpeak: Matrons flung Gloves,
Ladies and Maids their Scarfs, and Handkerchiefs,
Upon him, as he paſs'd: the Nobles bended
As to Joves Statue, and the Commons made
A Showre, and Thunder, with their Caps, and Shouts:
I never ſaw the like.
Bru. Let's to the Capitol,
And carry with us Ears and Eyes for th' time,
But Hearts for the event.
Sicin. Have with you. [Exeunt.

Enter two Officers, to lay Cuſhions, as it were, in the Capitol.

1 Off. Come, come, they are almoſt here: how many ſtand for Conſulſhips?
2 Off. Three, they ſay: but 'tis thought of every one, Coriolanus will carry it.
1 Off. That's a brave Fellow, but he's vengeance proud, and loves not the Common People.
2 Off. 'Faith, there have been many great men that have flatter'd the People, who ne're loved them, and there be many that they have loved, they know not wherefore: ſo that if they love they know not why, they hate upon no better a ground. Therefore, for Coriolanus neither to care whether they love, or hate him, manifeſts the true knowledge he has in their diſpoſition, and out of his Noble careleſneſs lets them plainly ſee't.
1 Off. If he did not care whether he had their love, or no, he waved indifferently, 'twixt doing them neither good, nor harm: but he ſeeks their hate with greater devotion, than they can render it him; and leaves nothing undone, that may fully diſcover him their Oppoſite. Now to ſeem to affect the Malice and Diſpleaſure of the People, is as bad, as that which he diſlikes, to flatter them for their love.
2 Off. He hath deſerved worthily of his Countrey, And his aſcent is not by ſuch eaſie degrees as thoſe, who having been ſupple and courteous to the People, Bonnetted, without any further deed, to have them at all into their eſtimation, and report: but he hath ſo planted his Honours in their Eyes, and his Actions in their Hearts, that for their Tongues to be ſilent, and not confeſs ſo much, were a kind of ingrateful injury: to report otherwiſe, were

were a Malice, that giving it ſelf the Lye, would pluck reproof and rebuke from every Ear that heard it.

1 Off. No more of him, he's a worthy man: make may, they are coming.

A Sonet. Enter the Patricians, and the Tribunes of the People, Lictors before them; Coriolanus, Menenius, Cominius the Conſul: Sicinius and Brutus take their places by themſelves: Coriolanus ſtands.

Men. Having determin'd of the Volſcies,
And to ſend for Titus Lucius: it remains,
As the main Point of this our after-meeting,
To gratifie his Noble ſervice, that hath
Thus ſtood for his Country. Therefore pleaſe you,
Moſt Reverend and Grave Elders, to deſire,
The preſent Conſul, and laſt General,
In our well-found Succeſſes, to report
A little of that worthy Work perform'd
By Martius Caius Coriolanus: whom
We met here, both to thank, and to remember
With honours like himſelf.

1 Sen. Speak, good Cominius:
Leave nothing out for length, and make us think
Rather our State's defective for requital,
Than we to ſtretch it out. Maſters o'th' People,
We do requeſt your kindeſt Ear, and after,
Your loving motion toward the common Body,
To yield what paſſes here.

Sicin. We are convented upon a pleaſing Treaty, and have Hearts inclinable to Honour, and advance the Theam of our Aſſembly.

Bru. Which the rather we ſhall be bleſt to do, if he remember a kinder value of the People, than he hath hereto priz'd them at.

Men. That's off, that's off: I would you rather had been ſilent: Pleaſe you to hear Cominius ſpeak?

Bru. Moſt willingly: but yet my Caution was more pertinent than the rebuke you give it.

Men. He loves your people, but tye him not to be their Bedfellow: Worthy Cominius, ſpeak.

Coriolanus riſes, and offers to go away.

Nay, keep your place.

Senat. Sir, Coriolanus, never ſhame to hear
What you have Nobly done.

Corio. Your Honours pardon:
I had rather have my Wounds to heal again,
Than hear ſay how I got them.

Bru. Sir, I hope my words diſ-bench'd you not?

Corio. No, Sir, yet oft,
When blows have made me ſtay, I fled from words.
You ſooth'd not, therefore hurt not: but your People,
I love them as they weigh——

Men. Pray now, ſit down.

Corio. I had rather have one ſcratch my Head i'th' Sun,
When the Alarum were ſtruck, than idly ſit
To hear my Nothings monſter'd. [Exit Coriolanus.

Men. Maſters of the People,
Your multiplying Spawn how can he flatter?
That's thouſand to one good one, when you now ſee
He had rather venture all his Limbs for Honour,
Than one o's Ears to hear it. Proceed Cominius.

Com. I ſhall lack Voice: the Deeds of Coriolanus
Should not be utter'd feebly: it is held,
That Valour is the chiefeſt Virtue, and
Moſt dignifies the Haver: if it be,
The man I ſpeak of cannot in the World
Be ſingly counter-poys'd. At ſixteen years,
When Tarquin made a Head for Rome, he fought
Beyond the mark of others: our then Dictator,
Whom with all praiſe I point at, ſaw him fight,
When with his Amazonian Chin he drove
The brizled Lips before him: he beſtrid
An o're-preſt Roman, and i'th' Conſul's view
Slew three oppoſers: Tarquins ſelf he met,
And ſtruck him on his Knee: in that days feats,
When he might act the woman in the Scene,
He prov'd beſt man i'th' Field, and for his meed
Was Brow-bound with Oak. His Pupil-age
Man-entred thus, he waited like a Sea,
And in the brunt of ſeventeen Battels ſince,
He lurcht all Swords o'th' Garland: for this laſt,
Before, and in Coriolus, let me ſay
I cannot ſpeak him home: he ſtopt the flyers,
And by his rare example made the Coward
Turn terror into ſport: as Waves before
A Veſſel under ſayl, ſo men obey'd,
And fell below his Stem: his Sword (Deaths ſtamp)
Where it did mark, it took from Face to Foot:
He was a thing of Blood, whoſe every motion
Was trimm'd with dying Cries: alone he entred
The mortal Gate o'th' City, which he painted
With ſhunleſs defamy: aidleſs came off,
And with a ſudden re-inforcement ſtruck
Coriolus, like a Planet: now all's this,
When by and by the din of War 'gan pierce
His ready ſence, then ſtre ight his doubled Spirit
Requickned what in flesh was fatigate,
And to the Battel came he, where he did
Run reeking o're the lives of Men, as if
'Twere a perpetual ſpoyl; and till we call'd
Both Field and City ours, he never ſtood
To eaſe his Breaſt with panting.

Men. Worthy man.

Senat. He cannot but with meaſure fit the Honours which we deviſe him.

Com. Our ſpoils he kickt at,
And look'd upon things Precious, as they were
The common Muck o'th' World: he covets leſs
Than Miſery it ſelf would give, rewards his deeds
With doing them, and is content
To ſpend the time, to end it.

Men. He's right Noble, let him be call'd for.

Senat. Call Coriolanus.

Off. He doth appear.

Enter Coriolanus.

Men. The Senate, Coriolanus, are well pleas'd to make thee Conſul.

Corio. I do owe them ſtill my Life, and Services.

Men. It then remains that you do ſpeak to the People.

Corio. I do beſeech you,
Let me o're-leap that Cuſtom: for I cannot
Put on the Gown, ſtand naked, and entreat them
For my Wounds ſake, to give their ſuffrage:
Pleaſe you that I may paſs this doing.

Sicin. Sir, the People muſt have their Voices,
Neither will they bate one jot of Ceremony.

Men. Put them not to't:
Pray you go fit you to the Cuſtom,
And take to you, as your Predeceſſors have,
Your Honour with your form.

Corio. It is a Part that I ſhall bluſh in Acting,
And might well be taken from the People.

Bru. Mark you that.

Corio. To brag unto them, thus I did, and thus,
Shew them th'unaking Skars, which I ſhould hide,
As if I had receiv'd them for the hire
Of their Breath only.

Men. Do not ſtand upon't:
We recommend to you, Tribunes of the People,
Our purpoſe to them, and to our Noble Conſul
Wiſh we all Joy, and Honour.

Senat. To Coriolanus come all Joy and Honour.

Flouriſh Cornets.

Then Exeunt. Manent Sicinius and Brutus.

Bru. You ſee how he intends to uſe the People.

Sici. May they perceive's intent: he will require them

As if he did contemn what he requeſted,
Should be in them to give.

Bru. Come, we'll inform them
Of our proceedings here on th' Market place,
I know they do attend us.

Enter ſeven or eight Citizens.

1 Cit. Once if he do require our Voices, we ought not to deny him.

2 Cit. We may, Sir, if we will.

3 Cit. We have power in our ſelves to do it, but it is a power that we have no power to do: For, if he ſhew us his wounds, and tell us his deeds, we are to put our Tongues into thoſe wounds, and ſpeak for them: So, if he tell us his noble deeds, we muſt alſo tell him our noble acceptance of them. Ingratitude is monſtrous, and for the multitude to be ingrateful, were to make a Monſter of the multitude; of the which, we being Members, ſhould bring our ſelves to be monſtrous Members.

1 Cit. And to make us no better thought of a little help will ſerve: for once we ſtood up about the Corn, he himſelf ſtuck not to call us the many-headed Multitude.

3 Cit. We have been call'd ſo of many, not that our heads are ſome brown, ſome black, ſome auburn, ſome bald; but that our wits are ſo diverſly Colour'd; and truly, I think, if all our wits were to iſſue out of one Scull, they would flye Eaſt, Weſt, North, South, and their conſent of one direct way, ſhould be at once to all the points o'th' Compaſs.

2 Cit. Think you ſo? Which way do you judge my wit would flye?

3 Cit. Nay your wit will not ſo ſoon out as another mans will, 'tis ſtrongly wedg'd up in a Block-head: but if it were at liberty, 'twould ſure Southward.

2 Cit. Why, that way?

3 Cit. To loſe it ſelf in a Fog, where being three parts melted away with rotten Dews, the fourth would return for Conſcience ſake, to help to get thee a Wife.

2 Cit. You are never without your tricks, you may, you may.

3 Cit. Are you all reſolved to give your Voices? But that's no matter, the greater part carries it, I ſay. If he would incline to the People, there was never a Worthier man.

Enter Coriolanus in a Gown of Humility, with Menenius.

Here he comes, and in the Gown of Humility, mark his behaviour: we are not to ſtay all together, but to come by him where he ſtands, by ones, by twos, and by threes. He's to make his requeſts by particulars, where every one of us has a ſingle Honour, in giving him our own Voices with our own Tongues, therefore follow me, and I'le direct you how you ſhall go by him.

All. Content, content.

Men. Oh, Sir, you are not right; have you not known
The worthieſt men have don't?

Corio. What muſt I ſay, I pray, Sir?
Plague upon't, I cannot bring
My Tongue to ſuch a pace. Look, Sir, my wounds,
I got them in my Countries Service, when
Some certain of your Brethren roar'd, and ran
From the noiſe of our own drums.

Men. Oh me the Gods, you muſt not ſpeak of that,
You muſt deſire them to think upon you.

Corio. Think upon me? Hang 'em,
I would they would forget me, like the Virtues
Which our Divines loſe by 'em.

Men. You'l mar all,
I'le leave you: Pray you ſpeak to 'em, I pray you
In wholeſome manner. [Exit.

Enter three of the Citizens.

Corio. Bid them waſh their Faces,
And keep their Teeth clean: So here comes a brace,
You know the cauſe (Sir) of my ſtanding here.

3 Cit. We do, Sir, tell us what hath brought you to't.

Corio. Mine own deſert.

2 Cit. Your own deſert?

Corio. I, not mine own deſire.

3 Cit. How, not your own deſire?

Corio. No, Sir, 'twas never my deſire yet to trouble the poor with begging.

3 Cit. You muſt think, if we give you any thing, we hope to gain by you.

Corio. Well then I pray, your price o'th' Conſulſhip?

1 Cit. The price is, to ask it kindly.

Corio. Kindly, Sir, I pray let me ha't: I have wounds to ſhew you, which ſhall be yours in private: your good Voice, Sir, what ſay you?

2 Cit. You ſhall ha't, worthy Sir.

Corio. A match, Sir, there's in all two worthy Voices begg'd: I have your Alms, Adieu.

3 Cit. But this is ſomething odd.

2 Cit. And 'twere to give again: but 'tis no matter.

Exeunt. Enter two other Citizens.

Corio. Pray you now, if it may ſtand with the tune of your Voices, that I may be Conſul, I have here the Cuſtomary Gown.

1. You have deſerved Nobly of your Country, and you have not deſerved Nobly.

Corio. Your Ænigma?

1. You have been a ſcourge to her Enemies, you have been a Rod to her Friends, you have not indeed loved the Common People.

Corio. You ſhould account me the more Virtuous, that I have not been common in my Love; I will, Sir, flatter my ſworn Brother, the People to earn a dearer eſtimation of them, 'tis a condition they account gentle: and ſince the wiſdom of their choice, is rather to have my Hat, than my Heart, I will practiſe the inſinuating nod, and be off to them moſt counterfeitly, that is, Sir, I will counterfeit the bewitchment of ſome popular man, and give it bountiful to the deſires: Therefore, beſeech you, I may be Conſul.

2. We hope to find you our Friend: and therefore give you our Voices heartily.

1. You have received many wounds for your Countrey.

Corio. I will not Seal your knowledge with ſhewing them. I will make much of your Voices, and ſo trouble you no farther.

Both. The Gods give you joy, Sir, heartily.

Corio. Moſt ſweet Voices:
Better it is to dye, better to ſtarve;
Than crave the hire, which firſt we do deſerve.
Why in this Woolviſh Gown ſhould I ſtand here,
To beg of Hob and Dick, that do appear,
Their needleſs Vouches? Cuſtom calls me to't:
What Cuſtom wills in all things, ſhould we do't?
The Duſt on antique Time would lie unſwept,
And mountainous Error be too highly heapt,
For truth to o're-peer. Rather than fool it ſo,
Let the high Office and the Honour go,
To one that would do thus. I am half through,
The one part ſuffer'd, the other will I do.

Enter three Citizens more.

Here come more Voices.
Your Voices? for your Voices I have fought,
Watch'd for your Voices: for your Voices, bear
Of Wounds, two dozen odd: Battels, thrice ſix
I have ſeen, and heard of: for your Voices,
Have done many things, ſome leſs, ſome more:
Your Voices? indeed I would be Conſul.

1 Cit. He has done Nobly, and cannot go without any honeſt Mans Voice.

2 Cit. Therefore let him be Conſul: the Gods give him joy, and make him good Friend to the People.

All. Amen, Amen. God ſave thee, Noble Conſul.

Corio.

Corio. VVorthy Voices.

Enter Menenius, with Brutus, and Sicinius.

Men. You have ſtood your Limitation:
And the Tribunes endue you with the Peoples Voice,
Remains, that in th' Official Marks inveſted,
You anon do meet the Senate.
Corio. Is this done?
Sici. The Cuſtom of Requeſt you have diſcharg'd:
The People do admit you, and are ſummon'd
To meet anon upon your Approbation.
Corio. Where? at the Senate-houſe?
Sici. There, Coriolanus.
Cori. May I change theſe Garments?
Sicin. You may, Sir.
Corio. That I'le ſtraight do: and knowing my ſelf again
Repair to th' Senate-houſe.
Men. I'le keep you company. Will you along?
Bru. We ſtay here for the People.
Sicin. Fare you well. [Exeunt Coriol. and Men.
He ha's it now: and by his Looks, methinks
'Tis warm at's heart.
Bru. With a proud heart he wore his humble Weeds:
Will you diſmiſs the People?

Enter the Plebeians.

Sici. How now, my Maſters, have you choſe this man?
1 Cit. He has our Voices, Sir.
Bru. We pray the Gods, he may deſerve your loves.
2 Cit. Amen, Sir: to my poor unworthy notice,
He mock'd us, when he begg'd our Voices.
3 Cit. Certainly he flowted us down-right.
1 Cit. No, 'tis his kind of ſpeech, he did not mock us.
2 Cit. Not one amongſt us, ſave your ſelf, but ſays
He us'd us ſcornfully: he ſhould have ſhew'd us
His Marks of Merit, Wounds receiv'd for's Country.
Sicin. Why ſo he did, I am ſure.
All. No, no; no man ſaw 'em.
3 Cit. He ſaid he had Wounds,
Which he could ſhew in private:
And with his Hat, thus waving it in ſcorn,
I would be Conſul, ſays he: aged Cuſtom,
But by your Voices, will not ſo permit me.
Your Voices therefore: when we granted that,
Here was, I thank you for your Voices, thank you
Your moſt ſweet Voices: now you have left your Voices
I have no further with you. Was not this Mockery?
Sicin. Why, either were you ignorant to ſee't?
Or ſeeing it, of ſuch Childiſh friendlineſs,
To yield your Voices?
Bru. Could you not have told him,
As you were leſſon'd; when he had no Power,
But was a petty Servant to the State,
He was your Enemy, ever ſpake againſt
Your Liberties, and the Charters that you bear
I'th' Body of the Weal: and now arriving
At place of Potency, and ſway o'th' State,
If he ſhould ſtill malignantly remain
Faſt Foe to th' Plebeii, your Voices might
Be Curſes to your ſelves. You ſhould have ſaid,
That as his worthy Deeds did claim no leſs
Than what he ſtood for: ſo his gracious Nature
Would think upon you, for your Voices, and Tranſlate his Malice towards you, into Love,
Standing your friendly Lord.
Sicin. Thus to have ſaid,
As you were fore-advis'd, had toucht his Spirit,
And try'd his Inclination: from him pluckt,
Either his gracious Promiſe, which you might
As cauſe had call'd you up, have held him to;
Or elſe it would have gall'd his ſurly Nature;
Which eaſily endures not Article,
Tying him to ought, ſo putting him to Rage,
You ſhould have ta'ne th' advantage of his Choler,
And paſs'd him unelected.
Bru. Did you perceive,
He did ſolicit you in free Contempt,
When he did need your Loves: and do you think,
That his Contempt ſhall not be bruiſing to you,
When he hath Power to cruſh? Why had your Bodies
No Heart among you? Or had you Tongues, to cry
Againſt the Rectorſhip of Judgment?
Sicin. Have you, e're now, deny'd the Asker:
And now again, of him that did not ask, but mock,
Beſtow your ſu'd-for Tongues?
3 Cit. He's not confirm'd, we may deny him yet.
2 Cit. And will deny him:
I'le have five hundred Voices of that ſound.
1 Cit. I, twice five hundred, and their Friends, to piece 'em.
Bru. Get you hence inſtantly, and tell thoſe Friends,
They have choſe a Conſul, that will from them take
Their Liberties, make them of no more Voice
Than Dogs, that are as often beat for Barking,
As therefore kept to do ſo.
Sicin. Let them aſſemble: and on a ſafer Judgment,
All revoke your ignorant Election: Enforce his Pride,
And his old Hate unto you: beſides, forget not,
With what Contempt he wore the humble Weed,
How in his Suit he ſcorn'd you: but your Loves,
Thinking upon his Services, took from you
Th'apprehenſion of his preſent portance,
Which moſt gibingly, ungravely, he did faſhion
After the inveterate Hate he bears you.
Bru. Lay a fault on us, your Tribunes,
That we labour'd (no impediment between)
But that you muſt caſt your Election on him.
Sici. Say, you choſe him, more after our Commandment,
Than as guided by your own true Affections, and that
Your minds, pre-occupi'd with what you rather muſt do
Than what you ſhould, made you againſt the grain
To Voice him Conſul. Lay the fault on us.
Bru. I, ſpare us not: Say, we read Lectures to you,
How youngly he began to ſerve his Country,
How long continued, and what ſtock he ſprings of,
The Noble Houſe o'th' Martians: from whence came
That Ancus Martius, Numa's Daughter's Son:
Who after great Hoſtilius here was King,
Of the ſame Houſe Publius and Quintus were,
That our beſt Water brought by Conduits hither,
And Nobly nam'd, ſo twice being Cenſor,
Was his great Anceſtor.
Sici. One thus deſcended,
That hath beſide well in his perſon wrought,
To be ſet high in Place, we did commend
To your remembrances: but you have found,
Scaling his preſent bearing with his paſt,
That he's your fixed Enemy; and revoke
Your ſudden Approbation.
Bru. Say, you ne're had don't,
(Harp on that ſtill) but by our putting on:
And preſently, when you have drawn your Number,
Repair to th' Capitol.
All. We will ſo: almoſt all repent in their Election.
[Exeunt Plebeians.
Bru. Let them go on:
This Mutiny were better put in hazard,
Than ſtay paſt doubt, for greater:
If, as his Nature is, he fall in rage
With their refuſal, both obſerve and anſwer
The vantage of his anger.
Sicin. To th' Capitol, come:
We will be there before the ſtream o'th' People:
And this ſhall ſeem, as partly 'tis, their own,
Which we have goaded onward. [Exeunt.

Actus Tertius.

Cornets. Enter Coriolanus, Menenius, all the Gentry, Cominius, Titus Lucius, and other Senators.

Corio. Tullus Aufidius then had made new head.
Lu. He had, my Lord, and that it was which caus'd
Our ſwifter Compoſition.
Corio. So then the Volſcies ſtand but as at firſt,
Ready when time ſhall prompt them, to make road
Upon's again.
Com. They are worn (Lord Conſul) ſo,
That we ſhall hardly in our ages ſee
Their Banners wave again.
Corio. Saw you Aufidius?
Lu. On ſafe-gard he came to me, and did curſe
Againſt the Volſcies, for they had ſo vilely
Yielded the Town: he is retired to Antium.
Corio. Spoke he of me?
Lu. He did, my Lord.
Corio. How? what?
Lu. How often he had met you Sword to Sword:
That of all things upon the Earth, he hated
Your Perſon moſt: That he would pawn his Fortunes
To hopeleſs Reſtitution, ſo he might
Be call'd your Vanquiſher.
Corio. At Antium lives he?
Lu. At Antium.
Corio. I wiſh I had a cauſe to ſeek him there,
To oppoſe his hatred fully. Welcome home.
Enter Sicinius, and Brutus.
Behold, theſe are the Tribunes of the People,
The Tongues o'th' Common Mouth, I do deſpiſe them:
For they do prank them in Authority,
Againſt all Noble ſufferance.
Sicin. Paſs no further.
Corio. Hah? what is that?
Bru. It will be dangerous to go on—No further.
Corio. What makes this change?
Men. The matter?
Com. Hath he not paſs'd the Noble, and the Commons?
Bru. Cominius, no.
Corio. Have I had Children's Voices?
Senat. Tribunes give way, he ſhall to th' Market place.
Bru. The People are incens'd againſt him.
Sicin. Stop, or all will fall in broyl.
Corio. Are theſe your Herd?
Muſt theſe have Voices, that can yield them now,
And ſtraight diſclaim their Tongues? what are your Offices?
You being their Mouths, why rule you not their Teeth?
Have you not ſet them on?
Men. Be calm, be calm.
Corio. It is a purpos'd thing, and grows by Plot,
To curb the will of the Nobility:
Suffer't, and live with ſuch as cannot rule,
Nor ever will be ruled.
Bru. Call't not a Plot:
The People cry you mock'd them: and of late,
When Corn was given them, gratis, you repin'd,
Scandal'd the Suppliants for the People, call'd them
Time-pleaſers, Flatterers, Foes to Nobleneſs.
Corio. Why this was known before.
Bru. Not to them all.
Corio. Have you inform'd them ſithence?
Bru. How? I inform them?
Com. You are like to do ſuch buſineſs.
Bru. Not unlike each way to better yours.
Corio. Why then ſhould I be Conſul? by yond Clouds
Let me deſerve ſo ill as you, and make me
Your fellow Tribune.
Sicin. You ſhew too much of that,
For which the People ſtir: if you will paſs
To where you are bound, you muſt enquire your way,
Which you are out of, with a gentler Spirit,
Or never be ſo Noble as a Conſul,
Nor yoak with him for Tribune.
Men. Let's be calm.
Com. The People are abus'd: ſet on, this paltring
Becomes not Rome: Nor has Coriolanus
Deſerv'd this ſo diſhonoured Rub, laid falſely
I'th' plain way of his Merit.
Corio. Tell me of Corn! this was my ſpeech,
And I will ſpeak't again.
Men. Not now, not now.
Senat. Not in this heat, Sir, now.
Corio. Now, as I live, I will.
My Nobler Friends, I crave their pardons:
For the mutable rank-ſcented Many,
Let them regard me, as I do not flatter,
And therein behold themſelves: I ſay again,
In ſoothing them, we nouriſh 'gainſt our Senate
The Cockle of Rebellion, Inſolence, Sedition,
Which we our ſelves have plowed for, ſow'd and ſcatter'd,
By mingling them with us, the honor'd Number,
Who lack not Virtue, no, nor Power, but that
Which they have given to Beggars.
Men. Well, no more.
Senat. No more words, we beſeech you.
Corio. How? no more?
As for my Country, I have ſhed my blood,
Not fearing outward force: So ſhall my Lungs
Coin words till their decay, againſt thoſe Meazels
Which we diſdain ſhould Tetter us, yet ſought
The very way to catch them.
Bru. You ſpeak o'th' People, as if you were a God
To puniſh, not a Man of their infirmity.
Sicin. 'Twere well, we let the People know't.
Men. What, what? his Choler?
Cor. Choler? Were I as Patient as the midnight-ſleep,
By Jove, 'twould be my mind.
Sicin. It is a mind that ſhall remain a Poiſon
Where it is, not poiſon any further.
Corio. Shall remain?
Hear you this, Triton of the Minnoes? Mark you
His abſolute Shall?
Com. 'Twas from the Cannon.
Corio. Shall? O God! but moſt unwiſe Patricians: why
You grave, but wreakleſs Senators, have you thus
Given Hydra here to chuſe an Officer,
That with his peremptory Shall, being but
The horn, and noiſe o'th' Monſters, wants not Spirit
To ſay, he'll turn your Current in a Ditch,
And make your Channel his? if he have power,
Then vail your Ignorance: if none, awake
Your dangerous Lenity: if you are Learn'd
Be not as common Fools; if you are not,
Let them have Cuſhions by you. You are Plebeians,
If they be Senators: and they are no leſs,
When both your voices blended, the great'ſt taſt
Moſt palats theirs. They chuſe their Magiſtrate,
And ſuch a one as he, who puts his Shall;
His popular Shall, againſt a graver Bench
Than ever frown'd in Greece. By Jove himſelf,
It makes the Conſuls baſe; and my Soul akes
To know, when two Authorities are up,
Neither Supream, how ſoon Confuſion
May enter 'twixt the gap of Both, and take
The one by th' other.
Com. Well, on to th' Market-place.
Corio. Who ever gave that Counſel, to give forth
The Corn o'th' Store-houſe, gratis, as 'twas us'd
Sometime in Greece———
Men. Well, well, no more of that.
Cor. Though there the People had more abſolute power;
I ſay, they nouriſh'd diſobedience, fed the ruin of the State.

Bru.

Bru. Why ſhall the People give
One that ſpeaks thus, their Voice?
Corio. I'le give my Reaſons,
More worthy than their Voices. They know the Corn
Was not our recompence, reſting well aſſur'd
They ne're did ſervice for't; being preſt to th' War,
Even when the Navel of the State was touch'd,
They would not thred the Gates: This kind of Service
Did not deſerve Corn Gratis. Being i'th' War,
Their Mutinies and Revolts, wherein they ſhew'd
Moſt Valour, ſpoke not for them. Th' Accuſation
Which they have often made againſt the Senate,
All cauſe unborn, could never be the Native
Of our ſo frank Donation. Well, what then?
How ſhall this Boſom-multiplied, digeſt
The Senates courteſie? Let deeds expreſs
What's like to be their words. We did requeſt it,
We are the greater Pole, and in true fear
They gave us our demands. Thus we debaſe
The Nature of our Seats, and make the Rabble
Call our Cares, Fears; which will in time
Break open the Locks o'th' Senate, and bring in
The Crows to peck the Eagles.
Men. Come, enough.
Bru. Enough, with over-meaſure.
Corio. No, take more.
What may be ſworn by, both Divine and Human,
Seal what I end withal. This double worſhip,
Whereon part does diſdain with cauſe, the other
Inſult without all ſeaſon; where Gentry, Title, Wiſdom,
Cannot conclude, but by the Yea and No
Of general ignorance, it muſt omit
Real Neceſſities, and give way the while
To unſtable Slightneſs: purpoſe ſo barr'd, it follows,
Nothing is done to purpoſe. Therefore, beſeech you,
You that will be leſs fearful, than diſcreet,
That love the Fundamental part of State
More than you doubt the change of't: that prefer
A Noble life, before a Long, and wiſh,
To jump a Body with a dangerous Phyſick,
That's ſure of death without it: at once pluck out
The Multitudinous Tongue, let them not lick
The ſweet which is their poiſon. Your diſhonour
Mangles true judgment, and bereaves the State
Of that Integrity which ſhould becom't:
Not having the power to do the good it would
For th' ill which doth controul't.
Bru. H'as ſaid enough.
Sicin. H'as ſpoken like a Traytor, and ſhall anſwer
As Traytors do.
Corio. Thou Wretch, deſpight o're-whelm thee:
What ſhould the People do with theſe bald Tribunes?
On whom depending, their obedience fails
To th' greater Bench, in a Rebellion:
When what's not meet, but what muſt be, was Law,
Then were they choſen: in a better hour,
Let what is meet, be ſaid it muſt be meet,
And throw their power i'th' duſt.
Bru. Manifeſt Treaſon.
Sicin. This a Conſul? No.

Enter an Ædile.

Bru. The Ædiles, ho; Let him be apprehended.
Sicin. Go call the People, in whoſe name my Self
Attach thee as a Traiterous Innovator:
A Foe to th' publick Weal. Obey, I charge thee,
And follow to thine anſwer.
Corio. Hence old Goat.
All. We'll Surety him.
Com. Ag'd Sir, hands off.
Corio. Hence rotten thing, or I ſhall ſhake thy bones
Out of thy Garments.
Sicin. Help me, Citizens.

Enter a Rabble of Plebeians with the Ædiles.

Men. On both ſides more reſpect.
Sicin. Here's he, that would take from you all your power.
Bru. Seize him, Ædiles.
All. Down with him, down with him.
2 Senat. Weapons, Weapons, VVeapons:
[They all buſtle about Coriolanus.
Tribunes, Patricians, Citizens: what hoe:
Sicinius, Brutus, Coriolanus, Citizens.
All. Peace, peace, peace, ſtay, hold, peace.
Men. VVhat is about to be? I am out of Breath,
Confuſion's near, I cannot ſpeak. You Tribunes
To th' People: Coriolanus, patience: ſpeak, good Sicinius.
Sicin. Hear me, People, peace.
All. Let's hear our Tribune: peace, ſpeak, ſpeak, ſpeak.
Sici. You are at point to loſe your Liberties:
Martius would have all from you; Martius,
VVhom late you have nam'd for Conſul.
Men. Fie, fie, fie, this is the way to kindle, not to quench.
Sena. To unbuild the City, and to lay all flat.
Sici. VVhat is the City, but the People?
All. True, the People are the City.
Bru. By the conſent of all, we were eſtabliſhed the Peoples Magiſtrates.
All. You ſo remain.
Men. And ſo are like to do.
Com. That is the way to lay the City flat,
To bring the Roof to the Foundation,
And bury all, which yet diſtinctly ranges,
In heaps, and piles of ruin.
Sici. This deſerves death.
Bru. Or let us ſtand to our Authority,
Or let us loſe it: we do here pronounce,
Upon the part o'th' People, in whoſe power
We were elected theirs, Martius is worthy
Of preſent Death.
Sicin. Therefore lay hold of him:
Bear him to th' Rock Tarpeian, and from thence
Into Deſtruction caſt him.
Bru. Ædiles ſeize him.
All Ple. Yield, Martius, yield.
Men. Hear me one word, 'beſeech you Tribunes, hear me but a word.
Ædiles. Peace, peace.
Men. Be that you ſeem, truly your Countries friend,
And temp'rately proceed to what you would
Thus violently redreſs.
Bru. Sir, thoſe cold ways,
That ſeem like prudent helps, are very poyſonous,
Where the diſeaſe is violent. Lay hands upon him,
And bear him to the Rock. [Corio. draws his Sword.
Corio. No, I'le dye here:
There's ſome among you have beheld me fighting,
Come try upon your ſelves, what you have ſeen me.
Men. Down with that Sword, Tribunes withdraw a while.
Bru. Lay hands upon him.
Men. Help Martius, help; you that be noble, help him young and old.
All. Down with him, down with him. [Exeunt.
[In this Mutiny, the Tribunes, the Ædiles, and the People are beat in.
Men. Go, get you to our Houſe: be gone, away,
All will be naught elſe.
2 Senat. Get you gone.
Com. Stand faſt, we have as many Friends as Enemies.
Men. Shall it be put to that?
Senat. The Gods forbid:
I prithee, noble Friend, home to thy houſe,

Leave

Leave us to cure this Cauſe.
Men. For 'tis a Sore upon us,
You cannot Tent your ſelf: begone, 'beſeech you.
Com. Come Sir, along with us.
Men. I would they were Barbarians, as they are,
Though in Rome litter'd: not Romans, as they are not,
Though calved i'th' Porch o'th' Capitol:
Be gone, put not your worthy Rage into your Tongue,
One time will owe another.
Com. On fair ground, I could beat forty of them.
Men. I could my ſelf take up a Brace o'th' beſt of them, yea, the two Tribunes.
Com. But now 'tis odds beyond Arithmetick,
And Manhood is call'd Fool'ry, when it ſtands
Againſt a falling Fabrick. Will you hence,
Before the Tag return, whoſe Rage doth rend
Like interrupted waters, and o're-bear
What they are us'd to bear.
Men. Pray you be gone:
I'le try whether my old Wit be in requeſt
With thoſe that have but little: this muſt be patcht
With Cloth of any Colour.
Com. Nay, come away.
[Exeunt Coriolanus and Cominius.
Patri. This man has marr'd his Fortune.
Men. His Nature is too noble for the World:
He would not flatter Neptune for his Trident,
Or Jove, for's power to thunder: his Heart's his Mouth:
What his breaſt forges, that his tongue muſt vent,
And being angry, does forget that ever
He heard the name of Death. [A noiſe within.
Here's goodly work.
Patri. I would they were a-bed.
Men. I would they were in Tyber.
What the vengeance, could he not ſpeak 'em fair?
Enter Brutus, and Sicinius with the Rabble again.
Sicin. Where is this Viper,
That would depopulate the City, and be every man himſelf?
Men. You worthy Tribunes.
Sicin. He ſhall be thrown down the Tarpeian Rock
With rigorous hands: he hath reſiſted Law,
And therefore Law ſhall ſcorn him further Tryal
Than the ſeverity of the Publick Power,
Which he ſo ſets at nought.
1 Cit. He ſhall well know the Noble Tribunes are
The Peoples mouths, and we their hands.
All. He ſhall ſure out.
Men. Sir, Sir.
Sicin. Peace.
Men. Do not cry havock, where you ſhould but hunt
With modeſt warrant.
Sicin. Sir, how com'ſt that you have holp
To make this reſcue?
Men. Hear me ſpeak; As I do know
The Conſuls worthineſs, ſo can I name his faults.
Sicin. Conſul? what Conſul?
Men. The Conſul Coriolanus.
Bru. He Conſul?
All. No, no, no, no, no.
Men. If by the Tribunes leave,
And yours, good People,
I may be heard, I would crave a word or two,
The which ſhall turn you to no further harm,
Than ſo much loſs of time.
Sicin. Speak briefly then,
For we are peremptory to diſpatch
This viperous Traitor: to eject him hence
Were but one danger, and to keep him here
Our certain death: therefore it is decreed,
He dies to night.
Men. Now the good Gods forbid,
That our Renowned Rome, whoſe gratitude
Towards her deſerved Children, is enroll'd
In Joves own Book, like an unnatural Dam
Should now eat up her own.
Sicin. He's a Diſeaſe that muſt be cut away.
Men. Oh, he's a Limb, that has but a Diſeaſe;
Mortal, to cut it off, to cure it, eaſie.
What has he done to Rome, that's worthy death?
Killing our Enemies, the Blood he hath loſt
(Which I dare vouch, is more than that he hath,
By many an Ounce) he dropt it for his Country:
And what is left, to loſe it by his Country,
Were to us all that do't, and ſuffer it
A brand to th' end o'th' World.
Sicin. This is clean kam.
Bru. Meerly awry:
When he did love his Country, it honour'd him.
Men. The ſervice of the Foot
Being once gangren'd, is not then reſpected
For what before it was.
Bru. We'll hear no more:
Purſue him to his Houſe, and pluck him thence,
Leſt his Infection being of a catching nature,
Spread further.
Men. One word more, one word:
This Tiger-footed-rage, when it ſhall find
The harm of unskann'd ſwiftneſs, will (too late)
Tye Leaden pounds to's heels. Proceed by Proceſs,
Leſt Parties (as he is belov'd) break out,
And ſack great Rome with Romans.
Bru. If it were ſo———
Sicin. What do ye talk?
Have we not had a taſt of his Obedience?
Our Ædiles ſmote, our ſelves reſiſted, come.
Men. Conſider this: He has been bred i'th' Wars
Since a could draw a Sword, and is ill-ſchool'd
In boulted Language, Meal and Bran together
He throws without diſtinction. Give me leave,
I'le go to him, and undertake to bring him in peace,
Where he ſhall anſwer by a lawful Form
(In peace) to his utmoſt peril.
1 Sen. Noble Tribunes,
It is the humane way: the other courſe
Will prove too bloody, and the end of it
Unknown to the beginning.
Sic. Noble Menenius, be you then as the Peoples Officer:
Maſters, lay down your Weapons.
Bru. Go not home.
Sic. Meet on the Market-place: we'll attend you there,
Where, if you bring not Martius, we'll proceed
In our firſt way.
Men. I'le bring him to you.
Let me deſire your company: he muſt come,
Or what is worſt will follow.
Sena. Pray you let's to him. [Exeunt omnes.
Enter Coriolanus with Nobles.
Corio. Let them pull all about mine Ears, preſent me
Death on the Wheel, or at wild Horſes heels,
Or pile ten Hills on the Tarpeian Rock,
That the Precipitation might down ſtretch
Below the beam of ſight, yet will I ſtill
Be thus to them.
Enter Volumnia.
Noble. You do the Nobler.
Corio. I muſe my Mother
Does not approve me further, who was wont
To call them Woollen Vaſſals, things created
To buy and ſell with Groats, to ſhew bare heads
In Congregations, to yawn, be ſtill, and wonder,
When one but of my Ordinance ſtood up
To ſpeak of Peace, or War, I talk of you,
Why did you wiſh me milder? Would you have me
Falſe to my Nature? Rather ſay, I play
The Man I am.
Volum. Oh, Sir, Sir, Sir.
I would have had you put your power well on,
Before you had worn it out.

Corio.

Corio. Let's go.
Vol. You might have been enough the man you are,
With ſtriving leſs to be ſo. Leſſer had been
The things of your diſpoſitions, if
You had not ſhew'd them how ye were diſpos'd
E're they lack'd power to croſs you.
Corio. Let them hang.
Volum. I, and burn too.
Enter Menenius with the Senators.
Men. Come, come, you have been too rough, ſomething too rough: you muſt return, and mend it.
Sen. There's no remedy,
Unleſs by not ſo doing, our good City
Cleave in the midſt and periſh.
Volum. Pray be counſell'd;
I have a Heart as little apt as yours,
But yet a Brain that leads my uſe of Anger
To better vantage.
Men. Well ſaid, Noble Woman:
Before he ſhould thus ſtoop to th' heart, but that
The violent fit o'th' time craves it as Phyſick
For the whole State; I would put mine Armour on,
Which I can ſcarcely bear.
Corio. What muſt I do?
Men. Return to th' Tribunes.
Corio. Well, what then? what then?
Men. Repent what you have ſpoke.
Corio. For them? I cannot do it to the Gods,
Muſt I then do't to them?
Volum. You are too abſolute,
Though therein you can never be too Noble,
But when extremities ſpeak. I have heard you ſay,
Honour and Policy, like unſever'd friends,
I'th' War do grow together: Grant that, and tell me
In Peace, what each of them by th'other loſe,
That they combine not there?
Corio. Tuſh, tuſh.
Men. A good demand.
Volum. If it be Honour in your Wars, to ſeem
The ſame you are not, which for your beſt ends
You adapt your Policy: How is it leſs or worſe
That it ſhall hold Companionſhip in Peace
With Honour, as in War; ſince that to both
It ſtands in like requeſt.
Corio. Why force you this?
Volum. Becauſe, that
Now it lies you on to ſpeak to th' People:
Not by your own inſtruction, nor by the matter
Which your Heart prompts you to, but with ſuch words
That are but roated in your Tongue:
Though but Baſtards, and Syllables
Of no allowance, to your boſoms truth.
Now, this no more diſhonours you at all,
Than to take in a Town with gentle words,
Which elſe would put you to your Fortune, and
The hazard of much Blood.
I would diſſemble with my Nature, where
My Fortunes and my Friends at ſtake, requir'd
I ſhould do ſo in Honour. I am in this
Your Wife, your Son: theſe Senators, the Nobles,
And you, will rather ſhew our general Lowts,
How you can frown, than ſpend a fawn upon 'em,
For the inheritance of their loves, and ſafegard
Of what that want might ruine.
Men. Noble Lady,
Come go with us, ſpeak fair: you may ſalve ſo,
Not what is dangerous preſent, but the loſs
Of what is paſt.
Volum. I prithee now, my Son,
Go to them, with this Bonnet in thy hand,
And thus far having ſtretcht it (here be with them)
Thy Knee buſſing the Stones: for in ſuch buſineſs
Action is eloquence, and the Eyes of th' ignorant
More learned than the ears, waving thy head,
Which often thus correcting thy ſtout heart,
Now humble as the ripeſt Mulberry,
That will not hold the handling: or ſay to them,
Thou art their Souldier, and being bred in broyls
Haſt not the ſoft way, which thou do'ſt confeſs
Were fit for thee to uſe, as they to claim,
In asking their good loves, but thou wilt frame
Thy ſelf (forſooth) hereafter theirs ſo far,
As thou haſt power and perſon.
Men. This but done,
Even as ſhe ſpeaks, why their hearts were yours:
For they have Pardons, being ask'd, as free,
As words to little purpoſe.
Volum. Prithee now,
Go and be rul'd: although I know thou hadſt rather Follow thine Enemy in a Fiery Gulf,
Than flatter him in a Bower.
Enter Cominius.
Here is Cominius.
Com. I have been i'th' Market place, and Sir, 'tis fit,
You make ſtrong party, or defend your ſelf
By calmneſs, or by abſence: all's in anger.
Men. Only fair ſpeech.
Com. I think 'twill ſerve, if he can thereto frame his Spirit.
Volum. He muſt and will:
Prithee now ſay you will, and go about it.
Corio. Muſt I go ſhew them my unbarb'd Sconce?
Muſt I with my baſe Tongue give to my Noble Heart
A Lye, that it muſt bear well? I will do't:
Yet were there but this ſingle plot, to loſe
This Mould of Martius, they to Duſt ſhould grind it,
And throw't againſt the Wind. To the Market place:
You have put me now to ſuch a part, which never
I ſhall diſcharge to th' Life.
Com. Come, come, we'll prompt you.
Volum. I prithee now, ſweet Son, as thou haſt ſaid
My praiſes made thee firſt a Souldier: ſo
To have my praiſe for this, perform a part
Thou haſt not done before.
Corio. Well, I muſt do't:
Away my diſpoſition, and poſſeſs me
Some Harlots Spirit: my Throat of War be turn'd,
Which quier'd with my Drum into a Pipe,
Small as an Eunuch, or the Virgin voice
That Babies lull a-ſleep: The ſmiles of Knaves
Tent in my Cheeks, and School-boys Tears take up
The Glaſſes of my ſight: A Beggars Tongue
Make motion through my Lips, and my Arm'd Knees
Who bow'd but in my Stirrop, bend like his
That hath receiv'd an Almes. I will not do't,
Leſt I ſurceaſe to honour mine own Truth,
And by my Bodies Action, teach my Mind
A moſt inherent baſeneſs.
Volum. At thy choice then:
To beg of thee, it is my more diſ-honour,
Than thou of them. Come all to ruine, let
Thy Mother rather feel thy Pride, than fear
Thy dangerous Stoutneſs: For I mock at Death
With as big heart as thou. Do as thou liſt,
Thy Valiantneſs was mine, thou ſuck'ſt it from me:
But own thy Pride thy ſelf.
Corio. Pray be content:
Mother, I am going to the Market place:
Chide me no more. I'le Mountebank their Loves,
Cog their hearts from them, and come home belov'd
Of all the Trades in Rome. Look, I am going:
Commend me to my Wife, I'le return Conſul,
Or never truſt to what my Tongue can do
I'th' way of Flattery further.
Volum. Do your Will. [Exit Volumnia.
Com. Away, the Tribunes do attend you: Arm your ſelf
To anſwer mildly: for they are prepar'd
With Accuſations, as I hear, more ſtrong

Than

Than are upon you yet.
Corio. The word is, Mildly. Pray you let us go,
Let them accuſe me by Invention: I
Will anſwer in mine Honour.
Men. I, but mildly.
Corio. Well, mildly be it then, Mildly. [Exeunt.

Enter Sicinius and Brutus.

Bru. In this Point charge him home, that he affects Tyrannical Power: if he evade us there,
Inforce him with his envy to the People,
And that the Spoil got on the Antiats
Was ne're diſtributed. What, will he come?

Enter an Ædile.

Ædile. He's coming.
Bru. How accompanied?
Ædil. With old Menenius, and thoſe Senators
That always favour'd him.
Sicin. Have you a Catalogue
Of all the Voices that we have procur'd, ſet down by th'
Ædile. I have: 'tis ready. (Pole:
Sicin. Have you collected them by Tribes?
Ædil. I have: 'tis ready.
Sicin. Aſſemble preſently the People hither:
And when they hear me ſay, it ſhall be ſo,
I'th' right and ſtrength o'th' Commons: be it either
For Death, for Fine, or for Baniſhment, then let them,
If I ſay Fine, cry Fine; if Death, cry Death,
Inſiſting on the old Prerogative
And power i'th' Truth o'th' Cauſe.
Ædil. I ſhall inform them.
Bru. And when ſuch time they have begun to cry,
Let them not ceaſe, but with a din confus'd,
Inforce the preſent Execution
Of what we chance to Sentence.
Ædil. Very well.
Sicin. Make them be ſtrong, and ready for this hint
When we ſhall hap to giv't them.
Bru. Go about it,
Put him to Choler ſtreight, he hath been us'd
Ever to conquer, and to have his worth
Of Contradiction. Being once chaft, he cannot
Be rein'd again to Temperance; then he ſpeaks
What's in his heart, and that is there which looks
With us to break his neck.

Enter Coriolanus, Meninius, and Cominius, with others.

Sicin. Well, here he comes.
Men. Calmly, I do beſeech you.
Corio. I, as an Hoſtler, that for the pooreſt piece
Will bear the Knave by th' Volume.
Th' honour'd Gods
Keep Rome in ſafety, and the Chairs of Juſtice
Supplied with worthy men, plant love amongſt you,
Through our large Temples, with the ſhews of Peace,
And not our ſtreets with War.
1 Sen. Amen, Amen.
Men. A Noble wiſh.

Enter the Ædile with the Plebeians.

Sicin. Draw near, ye People.
Ædile. Liſt to your Tribunes: Audience;
Peace, I ſay.
Corio. Firſt, hear me ſpeak.
Both Tri. Well, ſay: Peace: ho.
Corio. Shall I be charg'd no further than this preſent?
Muſt all determine here?
Sicin. I do demand,
If you ſubmit you to the Peoples Voices,
Allow their Officers, and are content
To ſuffer lawful Cenſure for ſuch faults
As ſhall be prov'd upon you?
Corio. I am content.
Mene. Lo, Citizens, he ſays he is Content:
The warlike Service he ha's done, conſider; Think
Upon the wounds his Body bears, which ſhew
Like Graves i'th' Holy Church-yard.
Corio. Scratches with Bryars, Scars to move
Laughter only.
Men. Conſider further:
That when he ſpeaks not like a Citizen,
You find him like a Souldier: do not take
His rougher Actions for malicious ſounds:
But as I ſay, ſuch as become a Souldier,
Rather than envy you.
Com. Well, well, no more.
Corio. What is the matter,
That being paſt for Conſul with full Voice:
I am ſo diſhonour'd, that the very hour
You take it off again?
Sici. Anſwer to us.
Corio. Say then: 'tis true, I ought ſo.
Sici. We charge you, that you have contriv'd to take
From Rome all ſeaſon'd Office, and to wind
Your ſelf unto a Power Tyrannical,
For which you are a Traytor to the People.
Corio. How? Traytor?
Mene. Nay, temperately: your promiſe.
Corio. The Fires i'th' loweſt Hell, Fould in the People:
Call me their Traytor, thou injurious Tribune.
Within thine Eyes ſate twenty thouſand Deaths,
In thy hands clutcht as many Millions, in
Thy lying Tongue, both numbers, I would ſay
Thou lyeſt unto thee, with a voice as free,
As I do pray the Gods.
Sicin. Mark you this, People?
All. To th' Rock with him.
Sicin. Peace:
We need not put new Matter to his Charge:
What you have ſeen him do, and heard him ſpeak,
Beating your Officers, curſing your ſelves,
Oppoſing Laws with ſtroaks, and here defying
Thoſe whoſe great power muſt try him,
Even this ſo Criminal, and in ſuch Capital kind,
Deſerves th' extreameſt death.
Bru. But ſince he hath ſerv'd well for Rome——
Corio. What do you prate of Service?
Bru. I talk of that, that know it.
Corio. You?
Men. Is this the promiſe that you made your Mother?
Com. Know, I pray you.
Corio. I'le know no farther:
Let them pronounce the ſteep Tarpeian death,
Vagabond exile, Fleaing, pent to linger
But with a grain a day, I would not buy
Their Mercy, at the price of one fair word,
Nor check my Courage for what they can give,
To hav't with ſaying, Good morrow.
Sicin. For that he ha's
(As much as in him lies) from time to time
Envy'd againſt the People; ſeeking means
To pluck away their Power; as now at laſt,
Given Hoſtile ſtroaks, and that not in the preſence
Of dreaded Juſtice, but on the Miniſters
That do diſtribute it. In the name o'th' People,
And in the power of us the Tribunes, we (Ev'n from this inſtant) baniſh him our City
In peril of Precipitation
From off the Rock Tarpeian, never more
To enter our Rome Gates. I'th' Peoples name,
I ſay it ſhall be ſo.
All. It ſhall be ſo, it ſhall be ſo: let him away:
He's baniſh'd, and it ſhall be ſo.
Com. Hear me, my Maſters, and my common Friends.
Sicin. He's ſentenc'd: No more hearing.

Com.

Com. Let me ſpeak:
I have been Conſul, and can ſhew from Rome,
Her Enemies marks upon me. I do love
My Countries good, with a reſpect more tender,
More holy, and profound, than mine own life,
My dear Wives eſtimate, her wombs encreaſe,
And treaſure of my Loyns: then if I would Speak that———
Sicin. We know your drift. Speak what?
Bru. There's no more to be ſaid, but he is baniſh'd
As Enemy to the People, and his Country.
It ſhall be ſo.
All. It ſhall be ſo, it ſhall be ſo.
Corio. You common cry of Curs, whoſe breath I hate,
As reek o'th' rotten Fenns: whoſe Loves I prize,
As the dead Carkaſſes of unburied Men,
That do corrupt my Air: I baniſh you,
And here remain with your uncertainty.
Let every feeble Rumour ſhake your Hearts:
Your Enemies, with nodding of their Plumes
Fan you into deſpair: Have the power ſtill
To baniſh your Defenders, till at length
Your ignorance (which finds not till it feels,
Making but reſervation of your ſelves,
Still your own Foes) deliver you
As moſt abated Captives, to ſome Nation
That won you without blows, deſpiſing
For you the City. Thus I turn my back;
There is a World elſewhere.
[Exeunt Coriolanus, Cominius, cum aliis.
They all Shout, and throw up their Caps.
Ædile. The Peoples Enemy is gone, is gone.
All. Our Enemy is baniſh'd, he is gone. Hoo, hoo.
Sicin. Go ſee him out at Gates, and follow him
As he hath follow'd you, with all deſpight,
Give him deſerv'd vexation. Let a Guard
Attend us through the City.
All. Come, come, lets ſee him out at the Gates, come.
The Gods preſerve our Noble Tribunes, come. [Exeunt.

Actus Quartus.

Enter Coriolanus, Volumnia, Virgilia, Menenius, Cominius, with the young Nobility of Rome.

Cor. Come, leave your Tears: a brief farewel: the Beaſt
With many heads butts me away. Nay, Mother,
Where is your ancient Courage? You were us'd
To ſay, Extremity was the trier of Spirits,
That common chances common men could bear,
That when the Sea was calm, all Boats alike
Shew'd Maſterſhip in floating. Fortunes blows,
When moſt ſtruck home, being gentle wounded, craves
A Noble cunning. You were us'd to load me
With precepts that would make invincible
The Heart that conn'd them.
Virg. Oh Heavens! O Heavens!
Corio. Nay, I prithee woman.
Vol. Now the Red Peſtilence ſtrike all Trades in Rome,
And Occupations periſh.
Corio. What, what, what:
I ſhall be lov'd, when I am lack'd. Nay, Mother,
Reſume that Spirit, when you were wont to ſay,
If you had been the Wife of Hercules,
Six of his Labours youl'd have done, and ſav'd
Your Husband ſo much Sweat. Cominius,
Droop not, Adieu: Farewel my Wife, my Mother,
I'le do well yet. Thou old and true Menenius,
Thy Tears are ſalter than a younger Mans,
And venomous to thine Eyes. My (ſometime) General,
I have ſeen thee ſtern, and thou haſt oft beheld
Heart-hardning ſpectacles. Tell theſe ſad women,
'Tis fond to wail inevitable ſtrokes,
As 'tis to laugh at 'em. My Mother, you wot well
My hazards ſtill have been your ſolace, and
Believ't not lightly, though I go alone,
Like to a lonely Dragon, that his Fen
Makes fear'd, and talk'd of more than ſeen: Your Son
Will or exceed the Common, or be caught
With cautelous baits and practice.
Volum. My firſt Son,
Whither will you go? Take good Cominius
With thee a while; determine on ſome Courſe
More than a wild expoſture, to each chance
That ſtarts i'th' way before thee.
Corio. O the Gods!
Com. I'le follow thee a Month, deviſe with thee
Where thou ſhalt reſt, that thou may'ſt hear of us,
And we of thee. So if the time thruſt forth
A cauſe for thy Repeal, we ſhall not ſend
O're the vaſt world, to ſeek a ſingle man,
And loſe advantage, which doth ever cool
I'th' abſence of the needer.
Corio. Fare ye well:
Thou haſt years upon thee, and thou art too full
Of the Wars ſurfeits, to go rove with one
That's yet unbruis'd: bring me but out at Gate.
Come my ſweet Wife, my deareſt Mother, and
My Friends of Noble touch: when I am forth,
Bid me Farewel, and ſmile. I pray you, come:
While I remain above the ground, you ſhall
Hear from me ſtill, and never of me ought
But what is like me formerly.
Men. That's worthily
As any ear can hear. Come, let's not weep,
If I could ſhake off but one ſeven years
From theſe old Arms and Legs, by the good Gods
I'ld with thee every foot.
Corio. Give me thy hand, come. [Exeunt.

Enter the two Tribunes Sicinius and Brutus, with the Ædile.

Sicin. Bid them all home, he's gone: and we'll no further,
The Nobility are vexed, whom we ſee have ſided
In his behalf.
Bru. Now we have ſhewn our Power,
Let us ſeem humbler after it is done,
Than when it was a doing.
Sicin. Bid them home, ſay their great Enemy is gone,
And they ſtand in their antient ſtrength.
Bru. Diſmiſs them home. Here comes his Mother.

Enter Volumnia, Virgilia, and Menenius.

Sicin. Let's not meet her.
Bru. Why?
Sicin. They ſay, ſhe's mad.
Bru. They have ta'ne note of us: keep on your way.
Volum. Oh y'are well met:
Th' hoorded plague o'th' Gods requite your love.
Men. Peace, peace, be not ſo loud.
Volum. If that I could for weeping, you ſhould hear,
Nay, and you ſhall hear ſome. Will you be gone?
Virg. You ſhall ſtay too: I would I had the power
To ſay ſo to my Husband.
Sicin. Are you Mankind?
Volum. I Fool, is that a ſhame? Note but this Fool,
Was not a man my Father? Had'ſt thou Foxſhip
To baniſh him that ſtruck more blows for Rome
Than thou haſt ſpoken words.
Sicin. Oh bleſſed Heavens!
Vol. More noble Blows, than ever thou wiſe Words.
And for Rome's good, I'le tell thee what; yet go;
Nay, but thou ſhalt ſtay too: I would my Son
Were in Arabia, and thy Tribe before him,
His good Sword in his hand.

Sicin.

Sicin. What then?
Vir. What then? He'ld make an end of thy posterity.
Volum. Bastards, and all.
Good man, the wounds that he does bear for Rome!
Menen. Come, come, peace.
Sicin. I would he had continued to his Country
As he began, and not unknit himself
The noble knot he made.
Bru. I would he had.
Vol. I would he had: 'Twas you incens'd the Rabble.
Cats, that can judge as fitly of his Worth,
As I can of those Mysteries which Heaven
Will not have Earth to know.
Bru. Pray let's go.
Volum. Now, pray Sir, get you gone.
You have done a brave deed: E're you go, hear this:
As far as doth the Capitol exceed
The meanest House in Rome; so far my Son
This Ladies Husband here; this (do you see)
Whom you have banish'd, does exceed you all.
Bru. Well, well, we'll leave you.
Sicin. Why stay you to be baited
With one that wants her Wits? [Exeunt Tribunes.
Volum. Take my Prayers with you.
I would the Gods had nothing else to do,
But to confirm my Curses. Could I meet 'em
But once a day, it would unclog my Heart
Of what lies heavy to't.
Men. You have told them home,
And by my troth you have cause: you'l sup with me?
Volum. Anger's my Meat: I sup upon my self,
And so shall starve with Feeding: Come, let's go,
Leave this faint-puling, and lament as I do,
In Anger, Juno-like: Come, come, come. [Exeunt.
Men. Fie, fie, fie. [Exit.

Enter a Roman, and a Volscie.

Rom. I know you well, Sir, and you know me: your Name, I think, is Adrian.
Volscie. It is so, Sir, truly I have forgot you.
Rom. I am a Roman, and my Services are as you are against 'em. Know you me yet?
Volscie. Nicanor? no.
Rom. The same, Sir.
Volscie. You had more Beard when I last saw you, but your Favour is well appear'd by your Tongue. What's the News in Rome? I have a Note from the Volscian State to find you out here. You have well saved me a days Journey.
Rom. There hath been in Rome strange Insurrections: the People, against the Senators, Patricians, and Nobles.
Vol. Hath been; is it ended then? Our State thinks not so, they are in a most warlike preparation, and hope to come upon them in the heat of their division.
Rom. The main blaze of it is past, but a small thing would make it flame again. For the Nobles receive so to heart the Banishment of that worthy Coriolanus, that they are in a ripe aptness, to take all Power from the People, and to pluck from them their Tribunes for ever. This lies glowing I can tell you, and is almost mature for the violent breaking out.
Vol. Coriolanus Banish'd?
Rom Banish'd, Sir.
Vol. You will be welcome with this Intelligence, Nicanor.
Rom. The day serves well for them now. I have heard it said, the fittest time to corrupt a Mans VVife, is when she's fall'n out with her Husband. Your Noble Tullus Aufidius will appear well in these VVars, his great Opposer Coriolanus being now in no request of his Country.
Vol. He cannot chuse: I am most fortunate, thus accidentally to encounter you. You have ended my Business, and I will merrily accompany you home.
Rom. I shall between this and Supper tell you most strange things from Rome: all tending to the good of their Adversaries. Have you an Army ready, say you?
Vol. A most Royal one. The Centurions, and their Charges distinctly billetted already in th' entertainment, and to be on foot at an hours warning.
Rom. I am joyful to hear of their readiness, and am the man I think, that shall set them in present Action. So, Sir, heart'ly well met, and most glad of your Company.
Vol. You take my part from me, Sir, I have the most cause to be glad of yours.
Rom. Well, let us go together. [Exeunt.

Enter Coriolanus in mean Apparel, disguis'd and muffled.

Corio. A goodly City is this Antium. City,
'Tis I that made thy Widows: Many an Heir
Of these fair Edifices for my Wars
Have I heard groan, and drop: Then know me not,
Lest that thy Wives with Spits, and Boys with Stones
In puny Battel slay me. Save you, Sir.

Enter a Citizen.

Cit. And you.
Corio. Direct me, if it be your will, where great Aufidius lies: Is he in Antium?
Cit. He is, and Feasts the Nobles of the State, at his House this Night.
Corio. Which is his House, beseech you?
Cit. This here before you.
Corio. Thank you, Sir, Farewel. [Exit Citizen.
Oh World, thy slippery turns! Friends now fast sworn,
Whose double bosoms seem to wear one Heart,
Whose Hours, whose Bed, whose Meal and Exercise
Are still together: who Twine (as 'twere) in Love,
Unseparable, shall within this hour,
On a dissention of a Doit, break out
To bitterest Enmity. So fellest Foes,
Whose Passions, and whose Plots have broke their sleep
To take the one the other, by some chance,
Some trick not worth an Egg, shall grow dear Friends,
And inter-joyn their issues. So with me,
My Birth-place have I, and my Lover left; upon
This Enemy's Town I'le enter, if he slay me,
He does fair Justice: if he give me way,
I'le do his Country Service. [Exit.

Musick plays. Enter a Servingman.

1 Ser. Wine, Wine, Wine: What Service is here? I think our Fellows are asleep.

Enter another Servingman.

2 Ser. Where's Cotus? my Master calls for him: Cotus.

Enter Coriolanus. [Exit.

Corio. A goodly House;
The Feast smells; but I appear not like a Guest.

Enter the first Serving-man.

1 Ser. What would you have, Friend? whence are you? Here's no place for you: Pray go to the Door. [Exit.
Corio. I have deserv'd no better entertainment, in being Coriolanus.

Enter second Servant.

2 Ser. Whence are you, Sir? Has the Porter his Eyes in his head, that he gives entrance to such Companions? Pray get you out.
Corio. Away.
2 Ser. Away? Get you away.
Corio. Now th' art troublesome.
2 Ser. Are you so brave: I'le have you talkt with anon.

Enter three Servingmen, the first meets him.

3. What Fellow's this?
1. A strange one as ever I look'd on: I cannot get him out o'th' House: Prithee call my Master to him.
3. What have you to do here, Fellow? Pray you avoid the House.
Corio. Let me but stand, I will not hurt your Hearth.
3. What are you?
Corio. A Gentleman.

3. A marv'llous poor one.
Corio. True, ſo I am.
3. Pray you, poor Gentleman, take up ſome other ſtation, here's no place for you, pray you avoid: Come.
Corio. Follow your Function, go and batten on cold bits. [Puſhes him away from him.
3. What, you will not? Prithee tell my Maſter, what a ſtrange Gueſt he has here.
2. And I ſhall. [Exit ſecond Servingman.
3. Where dwell'ſt thou?
Corio. Under the Canopy.
3. Under the Canopy?
Corio. I.
3. Where's that?
Corio. I'th' City of Kites and Crows.
3. I'th' City of Kites and Crows. What an Aſs it is, then thou dwell'ſt with Daws too?
Corio. No, I ſerve not thy Maſter.
3. How, Sir, do you meddle with my Maſter?
Corio. I, 'tis an honeſter Service, than to meddle with thy Miſtreſs: Thou prat'ſt, and prat'ſt, ſerve with thy trencher: Hence. [Beats him away.

Enter Aufidius with a Servingman.

Auf. Where is this Fellow?
2. Here, Sir, I'de have beaten him like a Dog, but for diſturbing the Lords within. (Name?
Auf. Whence com'ſt thou? What would'ſt thou? Thy Why ſpeak'ſt not? Speak man: what's thy Name?
Corio. If, Tullus, not yet thou know'ſt me, and ſeeing me, doſt not think me for the Man I am, neceſſity commands me name my Self.
Auf. What is thy Name?
Corio. A Name unmuſical to the Volſcians Ears,
And harſh in ſound to thine.
Auf. Say, what's thy Name?
Thou haſt a grim appearance, and thy Face
Bears a Command in't: Though thy Tackle's torn,
Thou ſhew'ſt a Noble Veſſel: What's thy Name?
Corio. Prepare thy brow to frown: know'ſt thou me yet?
Auf. I know thee not; thy Name?
Corio. My Name is Caius Martius, who hath done
To thee particularly, and to all the Volſcies,
Great hurt and miſchief: thereto witneſs may
My Sir-name, Coriolanus. The painful Service,
The extream Dangers, and the drops of Blood
Shed for thy thankleſs Country are requited:
But with that Sirname, a good memory
And witneſs of the Malice and Diſpleaſure
Which thou could'ſt bear me, only that Name remains.
The Cruelty and Envy of the People,
Permitted by our daſtard Nobles, who
Have all forſook me, hath devour'd the reſt:
And ſuffer'd me by th' voice of Slaves to be
Hoop'd out of Rome. Now this extremity,
Hath brought me to thy Hearth, not out of hope
(Miſtake me not) to ſave my Life: for if
I had fear'd death, of all the Men i'th' World
I would have voided thee. But in meer ſpight
To be full quit of thoſe my Baniſhers,
Stand I before thee here: Then if thou haſt
A heart of wreak in thee, that wilt revenge
Thine own particular wrongs, and ſtop thoſe maims
Of ſhame ſeen through thy Country, ſpeed thee ſtraight
And make my miſery ſerve thy turn: So uſe it,
That my revengeful Services may prove
As benefits to thee. For I will fight
Againſt my Cankred Country, with the ſpleen
Of all the under Fiends. But if ſo be,
Thou dar'ſt not this, and that to prove more Fortunes
Th'art tyr'd, then in a word, I alſo am
Longer to live moſt weary, and preſent
My Throat to thee, and to thy ancient Malice:
Which not to cut, would ſhew thee but a Fool,
Since I have ever follow'd thee with hate,
Drawn Tuns of Blood out of thy Countries Breaſt,
And cannot live but to thy ſhame, unleſs
It be to do thee Service.
Auf. Oh, Martius, Martius,
Each word thou haſt ſpoke, hath weeded from my Heart
A root of Antient Envy. If Jupiter
Should from yon Cloud ſpeak divine things,
And ſay, 'tis true: I'de not believe them more
Than thee, all-Noble Martius. Let me twine
Mine Arms about that Body, where againſt
My grained Aſh an hundred times hath broke,
And ſcarr'd the Moon with Splinters: here I cleep
The Anvile of my Sword, and do conteſt
As hotly and as nobly with thy Love,
As ever in Ambitious ſtrength, I did
Contend againſt thy Valour. Know thou firſt,
I lov'd the Maid I married: never Man
Sigh'd truer Breath. But that I ſee thee here,
Thou Noble thing, more dances my rapt Heart,
Than when I firſt my wedded Miſtreſs ſaw
Beſtrid my Threſhold. Why, thou Mars, I tell thee,
We have a Power on foot: and I had purpoſe
Once more to hew thy Target from thy Brawn,
Or loſe mine Arm for't: Thou haſt beat me out
Twelve ſeveral times, and I have nightly ſince
Dream't of Encounters 'twixt thy ſelf and me:
We have been down together in my Sleep,
Unbuckling Helms, fiſting each others Throat,
And wak'd half dead with nothing. Worthy Martius,
Had we no Quarrel elſe to Rome, but that,
Thou art thence baniſh'd, we would muſter all
From twelve to ſeventy: And pouring War
Into the Bowels of ungrateful Rome,
Like a bold Flood o're-beat. Oh come, go in,
And take our Friendly Senators by th' Hands,
Who now are here, taking their leaves of me,
Who am prepar'd againſt your Territories,
Though not for Rome it ſelf.
Corio. You bleſs me, Gods.
Auf. Therefore, moſt abſolute Sir, if thou wilt have
The leading of thine own Revenges, take
Th' one half of my Commiſſion, and ſet down
As beſt thou art experienc'd, ſince thou know'ſt
Thy Countries ſtrength and weakneſs, thine own waies
Whether to knock againſt the Gates of Rome,
Or rudely viſit them in parts remote,
To fright them, e're deſtroy. But come in,
Let me commend thee firſt to thoſe that ſhall
Say yea to thy deſires. A thouſand welcomes,
And more a Friend, than e're an Enemy,
Yet, Martius, that was much. Your hand: moſt welcome.
[Exeunt.

Enter two of the Servingmen.

1. Here's a ſtrange alteration.
2. By my hand, I had thought to have ſtrucken him with a Cudgel, and yet my mind gave me, his cloaths made a falſe report of him.
1. What an Arm he has, he turn'd me about with his Finger, and his Thumb, as one would ſet up a Top.
2. Nay, I knew by his Face, that there was ſomething in him. He had, Sir, a kind of Face methought. I cannot tell how to term it.
1. He had ſo, looking as it were, would I were hang'd but I thought there was more in him, than I could think.
2. So did I, I'le be ſworn: He is ſimply the rareſt man i'th' world.
1. I think he is: but a greater Souldier than he, You wot one.
2. Who, my Maſter?
1. Nay, it's no matter for that.
2. Worth ſix on him.
1. Nay, not ſo neither: but I take him to be the greater Souldier.

2. Faith, look you, one cannot tell how to ſay that: for the Defence of a Town, our General is excellent.

1. I, and for an Aſſault too.

Enter the third Servingman.

3. Oh Slaves, I can tell you News, News, you Raſcals:

Both. What, what, what? Let's partake.

3. I would not be a Roman of all Nations; I had as Lieve be a condemn'd Man.

Both. Wherefore? Wherefore?

3. Why here's he that was wont to thwack our General, Caius Martius.

1. Why do you ſay, thwack our General?

3. I do not ſay thwack our General, but he was always good enough for him.

2. Come, we are Fellows and Friends: he was ever too hard for him, I have heard him ſay ſo himſelf.

1. He was too hard for him directly, to ſay the Troth on't before Coriolus; he ſcotcht him, and notcht him like a Carbonado.

2. And he had been Cannibally given, he might have boyl'd and eaten him too.

1. But more of thy News.

3. Why he is ſo made on here within, as if he were Son and Heir to Mars, ſet at upper end o'th' Table: No Queſtion askt him by any of the Senators, but they ſtand bald before him. Our General himſelf makes a Miſtreſs of him, Sanctifies himſelf with's Hand, and turns up the white o'th' Eye to his diſcourſe. But the bottom of the News is, our General is cut i'th' middle, and but one half of what he was yeſterday. For the other has half by the intreaty and grant of the whole Table. He'll go, he ſays, and ſole the Porter of Rome Gates by th' Ears. He will mow all down before him, and leave his paſſage poul'd.

2. And he's as like to do't, as any Man I can imagine.

3. Do't? he will do't: for look you, Sir, he has as many Friends as Enemies: which Friends, Sir, as it were, durſt not (look you, Sir) ſhew themſelves (as we term it) his Friends, whil'ſt he's in Directitude.

1. Directitude? Whats that?

3. But when they ſhall ſee, Sir, his Creſt up again, and the man in Blood, they will out of their Burroughs (like Conies after Rain) and revel all with him.

1. But when goes this forward?

3. To morrow, to day, preſently, you ſhall have the Drum ſtruck up this afternoon: 'Tis as it were a parcel of their Feaſt, and to be executed e're they wipe their lips.

2. Why then we ſhall have a ſtirring World again: This Peace is worth nothing, but to ruſt Iron, encreaſe Taylors, and breed Ballad-makers.

1. Let me have War, ſay I, it exceeds Peace, as far as day does night, it's ſprightly walking, audible, and full of Vent. Peace is a very Apoplexy, Lethargie, mull'd, deaf, ſleepy, inſenſible, a getter of more Baſtard Children, than Wars a deſtroyer of Men.

2. 'Tis ſo, and as Wars in ſome ſort may be ſaid to be a Raviſher, ſo it cannot be denied, but Peace is a great maker of Cuckolds.

1. I, and it makes Men hate one another.

3. Reaſon, becauſe they then leſs need one another: The Wars for my Money. I hope to ſee Romans as cheap as Volſcians. They are riſing, they are riſing.

Both. In, in, in, in. [Exeunt.

Enter the two Tribunes, Sicinius and Brutus.

Sicin. We hear not of him, neither need we fear him,
His remedies are tame, the preſent Peace,
And Quietneſs of the People, which before
Were in wild hurry. Here do we make his Friends
Bluſh, that the World goes well: who rather had,
Though they themſelves did ſuffer by't, behold
Diſſentious numbers peſtring ſtreets, than ſee
Our Trades-men ſinging in their Shops, and going
About their Functions friendly.

Enter Menenius.

Bru. We ſtood to't in good time. Is this Menenius?

Sicin. 'Tis he, 'tis he: O he is grown moſt kind of late: Hail, Sir.

Men. Hail to you both.

Sicin. Your Coriolanus is not much miſt, but with his Friends: the Common-wealth doth ſtand, and ſo would do, were he more angry at it.

Men. All's well, and might have been much better, if he could have temporiz'd.

Sicin. Where is he, hear you?

Men. Nay, I hear nothing:
His Mother and his Wife hear nothing from him.

Enter three or four Citizens.

All. The Gods preſerve you both.

Sicin. Good-e'en, Neighbours.

Bru. Good-e'en to you all, good-e'en to you all.

1 Our Selves, our Wives, and Children, on our knees,
Are bound to pray for you both.

Sicin. Live, and thrive.

Bru. Farewel, kind Neighbours:
We wiſht Coriolanus had lov'd you, as we did.

All. Now the Gods keep you.

Both Tri. Farewel, farewel. [Ex. Citizens.

Sicin. This is a happier, and more comely time,
Than when theſe Fellows ran about the ſtreets,
Crying, Confuſion.

Bru. Caius Martius was
A worthy Officer i'th' War, but Inſolent,
O'recome with Pride, Ambitious paſt all thinking,
Self-loving.

Sici. And affecting one ſole Throne, without aſſiſtance.

Men. I think not ſo.

Sicin. We ſhould by this to all our Lamentation,
If he had gone forth Conſul, found it ſo.

Bru. The Gods have well prevented it, and Rome
Sits ſafe and ſtill without him.

Enter Ædile.

Ædile. Worthy Tribunes,
There is a Slave, whom we have put into Priſon,
Reports the Volſcies with two ſeveral Powers
Are entred in the Roman Territories,
And with the deepeſt malice of the War,
Deſtroy what lies before 'em.

Men. 'Tis Auſidius,
Who hearing of our Martius's Baniſhment,
Thruſts forth his Horns again into the World,
Which were In-ſhell'd, when Martius ſtood for Rome,
And durſt not once peep out.

Sicin. Come, what talk you of Martius?

Bru. Go ſee this Rumourer whipt, it cannot be,
The Volſcies dare break with us.

Men. Cannot be?
We have Record, that very well it can,
And three Examples of the like have been
Within my Age. But Reaſon with the Fellow
Before you puniſh him, where he heard this,
Leſt you ſhall chance to whip your Information,
And beat the Meſſenger, who bids beware
Of what is to be Dreaded.

Sicin. Tell not me: I know this cannot be.

Bru. Not poſſible.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. The Nobles in great earneſtneſs are going
All to the Senate-houſe: ſome News is coming
That turns their Countenances.

Sicin. 'Tis this Slave:
Go whip him 'fore the Peoples Eyes: His raiſing,
Nothing but his report.

Meſ. Yes, worthy Sir,
The Slaves report is ſeconded, and more,
More fearful is deliver'd.

Sicin. What more fearful?

Meſ. It is ſpoke freely out of many mouths,

How

How probable I do not know, that Martius
Joyn'd with Aufidius, leads a Power 'gainſt Rome,
And vows Revenge as ſpacious, as between
The young'ſt and oldeſt thing.
Sicin. This is moſt likely.
Bru. Rais'd only, that the weaker ſort may wiſh
Good Martius home again.
Sicin. The very trick on't.
Men. This is unlikely,
He and Aufidius can no more atone
Than violent'ſt Contrariety.
Enter Meſſenger.
Meſ. You are ſent for to the Senate:
A fearful Army, led by Caius Martius,
Aſſociated with Aufidius's Rages
Upon our Territories, and have already
O're-born their way, conſum'd with Fire, and took
What lay before them.
Enter Cominius.
Com. Oh, you have made good work.
Men. What news? What news?
Com. You have holp to raviſh your own Daughters, and
To melt the City Leads upon your pates,
To ſee your Wives diſhonour'd to your Noſes.
Men. What's the news? What's the news?
Com. Your Temples burned in their Cement, and
Your Franchiſes, whereon you ſtood, confin'd
Into an Augers bore.
Men. Pray now the news?
You have made fair work, I fear me: pray, your news?
If Martius ſhould be joyn'd with Volſcians.
Com. If? He is their God, he leads them like a thing
Made by ſome other Deity than Nature,
That ſhapes man better: and they follow him
Againſt us Brats, with no leſs Confidence,
Than Boyes purſuing Summer Butter-flies,
Or Butchers killing Flyes.
Men. You have made good work,
You and your Apron-men: you, that ſtood ſo much
Upon the voice of occupation, and
The Breath of Garlick-eaters.
Com. He'll ſhake your Rome about your Ears.
Men. As Hercules did ſhake down mellow Fruit:
You have made fair work.
Bru. But is this true, Sir?
Com. I, and you'll look pale
Before you find it other. All the Regions
Do ſmilingly revolt, and who reſiſts
Are mock'd for valiant Ignorance,
And periſh conſtant Fools: who is't can b'ame him?
Your Enemies and his find ſomething in him.
Men. We are all undone, unleſs
The Noble man have Mercy.
Com. Who ſhall ask it?
The Tribunes cannot do't for ſhame; the People
Deſerve ſuch pity of him, as the Wolf
Does of the Shepherds: For his beſt Friends, if they Should ſay, be good to Rome, they charg'd him even
As thoſe ſhould do that had deſerv'd his hate,
And therein ſhew'd like Enemies.
Men. 'Tis true, if he were putting to my Houſe, the brand
That ſhould conſume it, I have not the Face
To ſay, beſeech you ceaſe. You have made fair hands,
You and your Crafts, you have crafted fair.
Com. You have brought
A trembling upon Rome, ſuch as was never
S'incapable of help.
Tri. Say not, we brought it.
Men. How? Was't we? We lov'd him,
But like Beaſts, and Cowardly Nobles,
Gave way unto your Cluſters, who did hoot
Him out o'th' City.
Com. But I fear
They'l roar him in again. Tullus Aufidius,
The ſecond Name of Men, obeys his points
As if he were his Officer: Deſperation,
Is all the Policy, Strength, and Defence
That Rome can make againſt them.
Enter a Troop of Citizens.
Men. Here come the Cluſters.
And is Aufidius with him? You are they
That made the Ayr unwholſome, when you caſt
Your ſtinking, greaſie Caps, in hooting
At Coriolanus Exile. Now he's coming,
And not Hair upon a Souldiers Head
Which will not prove a whip: As many Coxcombes
As you threw Caps up, will he tumble down,
And pay you for your Voices. Tis no matter,
If he could burn us all into one Coal,
We have deſerv'd it.
Omnes. Faith, we hear fearful News.
1 Cit. For mine own part,
When I ſaid baniſh him, I ſaid 'twas pity.
2. And ſo did I.
3. And ſo did I; and to ſay the truth, ſo did very many of us, that we did, we did for the beſt: and though we willingly conſented to his Baniſhment, yet it was againſt our will.
Com. Y'are goodly things: you Voices!
Men. You have made you good work,
You and your cry. Shall's to the Capitol?
Com. Oh I, what elſe? [Exeunt both.
Sicin. Go, Maſters, get you home, be not diſmaid,
Theſe are a Side, that would be glad to have
This true, which they ſo ſeem to fear. Go home,
And ſhew no ſign of Fear.
1 Cit. The Gods be good to us: Come, Maſters, let's home, I ever ſaid we were i'th' wrong, when we baniſh'd him.
2 Cit. So did we all, but come, let's home. [Ex. Cit.
Bru. I do not like this News.
Sicin. Nor I.
Bru. Let's to the Capitol: would half my wealth
Would buy this for a Lye.
Sicin. Pray lets go. [Exeunt Tribunes.

Enter Aufidius with his Lieutenant.

Auf. Do they ſtill flie to th' Roman?
Lieu. I do not know what Witchcraft's in him: but
Your Souldiers uſe him as the grace 'fore Meat,
Their talk at Table, and their Thanks at end,
And you are darkned in this action, Sir,
Even by your own.
Auf. I cannot help it now,
Unleſs by uſing means I lame the Foot
Of our deſign. He bears himſelf more proudly,
Even to my Perſon, than I thought he would
When firſt I did embrace him. Yet his Nature
In that's no Changeling, and I muſt excuſe
What cannot be amended.
Lieu. Yet I wiſh, Sir,
(I mean for your particular) you had not
Joyn'd in Commiſſion with him: but either have born
The action of your ſelf, or elſe to him had left it ſolely.
Auf. I underſtand thee well, and be thou ſure,
When he ſhall come to his account, he knows not
What I can urge againſt him, although it ſeems
And ſo he thinks, and is no leſs apparent
To th' vulgar Eye, that he bears all things fairly,
And ſhews good Husbandry for the Volſcian State,
Fights Dragon-like, and does atchieve as ſoon
As draw his Sword: yet he hath left undone
That which ſhall break his Neck, or hazard mine,
When e're we come to our account.
Lieu. Sir, I beſeech you, think you he'll carry Rome?
Auf. All places yield to him e're he ſits down,
And the Nobility of Rome are his:

The Senators and Patricians love him too:
The Tribunes are no Souldiers: and their People
Will be as rash in the repeal, as hasty
To expel him thence. I think he'll be to Rome,
As is the Aspray to the Fish, who takes it
By Soveraignty of Nature. First, he was
A Noble Servant to them, but he could not Carry his Honours even: whether 'twas Pride
Which out of daily Fortune ever taints
The happy Man; whether defect of Judgment,
To fail in the disposing of those Chances
Which he was Lord of: or whether Nature,
Not to be other than one thing, not moving
From th' Cask to th' Cushion: but commanding Peace
Even with the same austerity and garb,
As he controll'd the War. But one of these,
(As he hath spices of them all) not all,
For I dare so far free him, made him fear'd,
So hated, and so banish'd: but he has a Merit
To choak it in the utt'rance: So our Virtues,
Lie in th'interpretation of the time,
And Power unto it self most commendable,
Hath not a Tomb so evident as a Chair
T'extol what it hath done.
One Fire drives out one Fire; one Nail, one Nail;
Rights by rights-fouler, strengths by strengths do fail.
Come let's away: when, Caius, Rome is thine,
Thou art poor'st of all, then shortly art thou mine. [Ex.

Actus Quintus.

Enter Menenius, Cominius, Sicinius, Brutus, the two Tribunes, with others.

Men. No, I'le not go: you hear what he hath said
Which was sometime his General: who loved him
In a most dear particular. He call'd me Father:
But what o'that? Go you that banish'd him
A mile before his Tent, fall down and kneel
The way into his mercy: Nay, if he coy'd
To hear Cominius speak, I'le keep at home.
Com. He would not seem to know me.
Men. Do you hear?
Com. Yet one time he did call me by my name:
I urg'd our old acquaintance, and the drops
That we have bled together. Coriolanus,
He would not answer to: Forbad all Names,
He was a kind of Nothing, Titleless,
Till he had forg'd himself a Name o'th' Fire
Of burning Rome.
Men. Why, so: you have made good work:
A pair of Tribunes, that have wrack'd for Rome,
To make Coals cheap: A Noble memory.
Com. I minded him, how Royal 'twas to pardon
When it was less expected. He reply'd,
It was a bare Petition of a State
To one whom they had punish'd.
Men. Very well, could he say less?
Com. I offered to awaken his regard
For's private Friends. His answer to me was
He could not stay to pick them, in a pile
Of noysome musty Chaff. He said, 'twas folly
For one poor grain or two, to leave unburnt
And still to nose th' offence.
Men. For one poor grain or two?
I am one of those: his Mother, Wife, his Child,
And this brave Fellow too: we are the Grains,
You are the Musty Chaff, and you are smelt
Above the Moon. We must be burnt for you.
Sicin. Nay, pray be patient: If you refuse your aid
In this so never-needed help, yet do not
Upbraid's with our distress. But sure if you
Would be your Countries Pleader, your good Tongue
More than the instant Army we can make
Might stop our Country-man.
Men. No: I'le not meddle.
Sicin. Pray you go to him.
Men. What should I do?
Bru. Only make tryal what your Love can do
For Rome, towards Martius.
Men. Well, and say that Martius return me,
As Cominius return'd, unheard: what then?
But as a discontented Friend, grief-shot
With his unkindness. Say't be so?
Sicin. Yet your good will
Must have that thanks from Rome, after the measure
As you intended well.
Men. I'le undertake't:
I think he'l hear me. Yet to bite his lip,
And hum at good Cominius, much unhearts me.
He was not taken well, he had not din'd,
The Veins unfill'd, our blood is cold, and then
We powt upon the Morning, are unapt
To give or to forgive; but when we have stuft
These Pipes, and these Conveyances of our blood
With Wine and feeding, we have suppler Souls
Than in our Priest-like Fasts: therefore I'le watch him
Till he be dieted to my request,
And then I'le set upon him.
Bru. You know the very Rode into his kindness,
And cannot lose your way.
Men. Good faith, I'le prove him,
Speed how it will. I shall e're long have knowledge
Of my success. [Exit.
Com. He'll never hear him.
Sicin. Not?
Com. I tell you, he does sit in Gold, his Eye
Red as 'twould burn Rome: and his Injury
The Goaler to his Pity. I kneel'd before him,
'Twas very faintly he said, Rise: dismist me
Thus with his speechless hand. What he would do
He sent in writing after me: what he would not,
Bound with an Oath to yield to his Conditions:
So that all hope is vain, unless his Noble Mother,
And his Wife (who as I hear) mean to solicite him
For Mercy to his Country: therefore let's hence,
And with our fair intreaties haste them on. [Exeunt.

Enter Menenius to the Watch or Guard.

1 Wat. Stay: whence are you?
2 Wat. Stand, and go back.
Men. You guard like men, 'tis well. But by your leave
I am an Officer of State, and come to speak with Coriolanus.
1. From whence? Men. From Rome.
1. You may not pass, you must return: our General will no more hear from thence.
2. You'll see your Rome embrac'd with Fire, before You'l speak with Coriolanus.
Men. Good my Friends,
If you have heard your General talk of Rome,
And of his Friends there, it is Lots to Blanks,
My Name hath toucht your Ears: it is Menenius.
1. Be it so, go back: the virtue of your Name
Is not here passable.
Men. I tell thee, Fellow,
Thy General is my Lover: I have been
The Book of his good Acts, whence Men have read
His Fame unparallel'd, happily amplified:
For I have ever verified my Friends,
(Of whom he's Chief) with all the size that verity
Would without lapsing suffer: Nay, sometimes,
Like to a Bowl upon a subtil ground
I have tumbled past the throw: and in his praise
Have (almost) stampt the Leasing. Therefore, Fellow,
I must have leave to pass.

1. Faith,

1. Faith, Sir, if you had told as many lies in his behalf, as you have uttered words in your own, you ſhould not paſs here: no, though it were as virtuous to lye, as to live chaſtly. Therefore go back.

Men. Prithee, Fellow, remember my name is Menenius, always Factionary on the party of your General.

2. Howſoever you have been his Lyar, as you ſay you have; I am one that telling true under him, muſt ſay you cannot paſs. Therefore go back.

Men. Has he din'd, can'ſt thou tell? For I would not ſpeak with him, till after Dinner.

1. You are a Roman, are you?

Men. I am, as thy General is.

1. Then you ſhould hate Rome, as he does. Can you, when you have puſht out your Gates the very Defender of them, and in a violent popular ignorance, given your Enemy your Shield, think to front his Revenges with the eaſie groans of Old Women, the Virginal palms of your Daughters, or with the palſied interceſſion of ſuch a decay'd Dotard, as you ſeem to be? Can you think to blow out the intended Fire, your City is ready to flame in, with ſuch weak breath as this? No, you are deceiv'd, therefore back to Rome, and prepare for your Execution: you are Condemn'd, our General has ſworn you out of Reprieve and Pardon.

Men. Sirrah, if the Captain knew I were here,
He would uſe me with Eſtimation.

1. Come, my Captain knows you not.

Men. I mean thy General.

1. My General cares not for you. Back, I ſay, go: leſt I let forth your half pint of Blood. Back, that's the utmoſt of your having, back.

Men. Nay, but Fellow, Fellow.

Enter Coriolanus with Aufidius.

Corio. What's the matter?

Men. Now you, Companion: I'le ſay an Errant for you: you ſhall know now that I am in Eſtimation: you ſhall perceive, that a Jack-gardant cannot Office me from my Son Coriolanus, gueſs but my entertainment with him: if thou ſtand'ſt not i'th' State of Hanging, or of ſome death more long in Spectatorſhip, and Crueller in ſuffering, behold now preſently, and ſwoon for what's to come upon thee. The glorious Gods ſit in hourly Synod about thy particular proſperity, and love thee no worſe than thy old Father Menenius does. O my Son, my Son! thou art preparing Fire for us: look thee, here's Water to quench it. I was hardly mov'd to come to thee: but being aſſured none but my ſelf could move thee, I have been blown out of our Gates with ſighs, and conjure thee to pardon Rome, and thy petitionary Countrymen. The good Gods aſſwage thy wrath, and turn the dregs of it upon this Varlet here: This, who like a Block hath denied my Acceſs to thee.

Corio. Away.

Men. How? Away?

Corio. Wife, Mother, Child, I know not. My affairs
Are ſervanted to others: Though I owe
My Revenge properly, my Remiſſion lies
In Volſcian Breaſts. That we have been familiar,
Ingrate forgetfulneſs ſhall poiſon rather
Than pity: Note how much, therefore be gone.
Mine Ears againſt your Suits are ſtronger than
Your Gates againſt my Force. Yet for I loved thee,
Take this along, I writ it for thy ſake,
And would have ſent it. Another word, Menenius,
I will not hear thee ſpeak. This Man, Aufidius,
Was my belov'd in Rome: yet thou behold'ſt——

Auf. You keep a conſtant temper. [Exeunt.

Manent the Guard and Menenius.

1. Now, Sir, is your name Menenius?

2. 'Tis a ſpell you ſee of much Power:
You know the way home again.

1. Do you hear how we are ſhent for keeping your greatneſs back?

2. What cauſe do you think I have to ſwoon?

Men. I neither care for th' World, nor your General: for ſuch things as you, I can ſcarce think there's any, y'are ſo ſlight. He that hath a will to dye by himſelf, fears it not from another: Let your General do his worſt. For you, be that you are, long; and your miſery increaſe with your Age. I ſay to you, as I was ſaid to, Away. [Exit.

1. A Noble Fellow, I warrant him.

2. The worthy Fellow is our General. He's the Rock, the Oak not to be wind-ſhaken. [Exit Watch.

Enter Coriolanus and Aufidius.

Corio. We will before the Walls of Rome to morrow
Set down our Hoſt. My Partner in this Action,
You muſt report to th' Volſcian Lords, how plainly
I have born this Buſineſs.

Auf. Only their Ends you have reſpected.
Stopt your Ears againſt the general Suit of Rome:
Never admitted a private whiſper, no not with ſuch Friends
That thought them ſure of you.

Corio. This laſt old man,
Whom with a crack'd Heart I have ſent to Rome,
Lov'd me, above the meaſure of a Father,
Nay, Godded me indeed. Their lateſt refuge,
Was to ſend him, for whoſe Love I have
(Though I ſhew'd ſow'rly to him) once more offer'd
The firſt Conditions which they did refuſe,
And cannot now accept, to grace him only,
That thought he could do more: A very little
I have yielded to. Freſh Embaſſies, and Suits,
Nor from the State, nor private Friends hereafter
Will I lend Ear to. Ha? what ſhout is this? [Shout within.
Shall I be tempted to infringe my Vow
In the ſame time 'tis made? I will not.

Enter Virgilia, Volumnia, Valeria, young Martius, with Attendants.

My Wife comes formoſt, then the honour'd Mould
Wherein this Trunk was fram'd, and in her hand
The Grand-child to her blood. But our Affection,
All bond and priviledge of Nature break;
Let it be Virtuous to be Obſtinate.
What is that Curt'ſie worth? Or thoſe Doves Eyes,
Which can make Gods forſworn? I melt, and am not
Of ſtronger Earth than others: my Mother bows,
As if Olympus to a Mole-hill ſhould
In ſupplication nod: and my young Boy
Hath an aſpect of interceſſion, which
Great Nature cries, Deny not. Let the Volſcies
Plough Rome, and harrow Italy, I'le never
Be ſuch a Goſling to obey Inſtinct: but ſtand
As if a man were Author of himſelf, and knew no other kin.

Virgil. My Lord and Husband.

Corio. Theſe Eyes are not the ſame I wore in Rome.

Virg. The ſorrow that delivers us thus chang'd,
Makes you think ſo.

Corio. Like a dull Actor now, I have forgot my part,
And I am out, even to a full diſgrace. Beſt of my Fleſh,
Forgive my Tyranny, but do not ſay,
For that forgive our Romans. O a kiſs
Long as my Exile, ſweet as my Revenge!
Now by the jealous Queen of Heaven, that kiſs
I carried from thee, Dear; and my true Lip
Hath Virgin'd it e're ſince. You Gods, I pray,
And the moſt Noble Mother of the World
Leave unſaluted: Sink my knee i'th' Earth; [Kneels.
Of thy deep duty, more impreſſion ſhew
Than that of common Sons.

Volum. O ſtand up bleſt!
Whil'ſt with no ſofter Cuſhion than the flint
I kneel before thee, and unproperly
Shew Duty as miſtaken, all this while,
Between the Child and Parent.

Corio. What's this? your knees to me?

To your Corrected Son?
Then let the Pebbles on the hungry Beach
Fillop the Stars: Then, let the mutinous Winds
Strike the proud Cedars 'gainſt the fiery Sun:
Murd'ring impoſſibility, to make
What cannot be, ſlight work.
Volum. Thou art my Warrior, I hope to frame thee,
Do you know this Lady?
Corio. The Noble Siſter of Publicola;
The Moon of Rome, Chaſt as the Iſicle
That's curdied by the Froſt from pureſt Snow,
And hangs on Dian's Temple: Dear Valeria.
Volum. This is a poor Epitome of yours,
Which by th'interpretation of full time,
May ſhew like all your ſelf.
Corio. The God of Souldiers,
With the conſent of ſupream Jove, inform
Thy thoughts with Nobleneſs, that thou maiſt prove
To ſhame unvulnerable, and ſtrike i'th' Wars
Like a great Sea-mark ſtanding every flaw,
And ſaving thoſe that eye thee.
Volum. Your knee, Sirrah.
Corio. That's my brave Boy.
Volum. Even he, your Wife, this Lady, and my ſelf,
Are Suiters to you.
Corio. I beſeech you, Peace:
Or if you'ld ask, remember this before;
The thing I have forſworn to grant, may never
Be held by you denial. Do not bid me
Diſmiſs my Souldiers, or Capitulate
Again with Romes Mechanicks. Tell me not
Wherein I ſeem unnatural: Deſire not t'allay
My Rages and Revenges, with your colder Reaſons.
Volum. Oh, no more: no more:
You have ſaid you will not grant us any thing:
For we have nothing elſe to ask, but that
Which you deny already: yet we will ask,
That if you fail in our requeſt, the blame
May hang upon your hardneſs, therefore hear us.
Corio. Aufidius, and you, Volſcies, mark, for we'll Hear nought from Rome in private. Your requeſt?
Volum. Should we be ſilent and not ſpeak, our Raiment
And ſtate of Bodies would bewray what Life
We have led ſince thy Exile. Think with thy ſelf,
How more unfortunate than living Women
Are we come hither; ſince that thy ſight, which ſhould
Make our Eyes flow with Joy, Hearts dance with Comforts,
Conſtrains them weep, and ſhake with Fear and Sorrow,
Making the Mother, Wife, and Child to ſee,
The Son, the Huſband, and the Father tearing
His Countries Bowels out: and to poor we,
Thine Enmity's moſt Capital: Thou barr'ſt us
Our Prayers to the Gods, which is a comfort
That all but we enjoy. For how can we?
Alas! how can we, for our Country pray,
Whereto we are bound? together with thy Victory,
Whereto we are bound? Alack, or we muſt loſe
The Country, our dear Nurſe, or elſe thy Perſon
Our comfort in the Country. We muſt find
An evident Calamity, though we had
Our wiſh, which ſide ſhould win. For either thou
Muſt as a Foreign Recreant be led
With Manacles through our Streets, or elſe
Triumphantly tread on thy Countries ruine,
And bear the Palm, for having bravely ſhed
Thy Wife and Childrens blood: For my ſelf, Son,
I purpoſe not to wait on Fortune, till
Theſe Wars determine: If I cannot perſuade thee
Rather to ſhew a Noble grace to both parts
Than ſeek the end of one; thou ſhalt no ſooner
March to aſſault thy Country, than to tread
(Truſt to't, thou ſhalt not) on thy Mothers Womb
That brought thee to this World.
Virg. I, and mine, brought you forth this Boy,
To keep your Name living to time.
Boy. A ſhall not tread on me: I'le run away
Till I am bigger, but then I'le fight.
Corio. Not of a Womans tenderneſs to be
Requires nor Child, nor Womans Face to ſee:
I have ſate too long.
Volum. Nay, go not from us thus:
If it were ſo, that our Requeſt did tend
To ſave the Romans, thereby to deſtroy
The Volſcies whom you ſerve, you might condemn us,
As poyſonous of your Honour. No, our Suit
Is that you reconcile them: While the Volſcies
May ſay, this Mercy we have ſhew'd; the Romans,
This we receiv'd, and each in either ſide
Give the All-hail to thee, and cry, be bleſt
For making up this Peace. Thou know'ſt (Great Son)
The end of War's uncertain; but this certain,
That if thou conquer Rome, the benefit
Which thou ſhalt thereby reap, is ſuch a Name,
Whoſe Repetition will be dogg'd with Curſes:
Whoſe Chronicle thus writ, The Man was Noble,
But with his laſt Attempt, he wip'd it out,
Deſtroy'd his Country, and his Name remains
To th'inſuing Age, abhorr'd. Speak to me, Son:
Thou haſt affected the five ſtrains of Honour,
To imitate the Graces of the Gods.
To tear with Thunder the wide Cheeks o'th' Air,
And yet to change thy Sulphur with a Boult,
That ſhould but rive an Oak. Why do'ſt not ſpeak?
Think'ſt thou it Honourable for a Noble man
Still to remember Wrongs? Daughter, ſpeak you:
He cares not for your weeping. Speak thou, Boy,
Perhaps thy Childiſhneſs will move him more
Than can our Reaſons. There is no Man in the World
More bound to's Mother, yet here he lets me prate
Like one i'th' Stocks. Thou haſt never in thy Life,
Shew'd thy dear Mother any curteſie,
When ſhe (poor Hen) fond of no ſecond Brood,
Has cluck'd thee to the Wars, and ſafely home
Loaden with Honour. Say my Requeſt's unjuſt,
And ſpurn me back: But if it be not ſo,
Thou art not Honeſt, and the Gods will plague thee
That thou reſtrain'ſt from me the Duty, which
To a Mothers part belongs. He turns away:
Down Ladies: let us ſhame him with our Knees.
To his Sir-name, Coriolanus, 'longs more Pride,
Than Pity to our Prayers. Down: and end,
This is the laſt. So, we will home to Rome,
And dye among our Neighbours: Nay, behold's
This Boy, that cannot tell what he would have,
But kneels, and holds up Hands for Fellowſhip,
Does reaſon our Petition with more ſtrength,
Than thou haſt to deny't. Come, let us go:
This Fellow had a Volſcian to his Mother:
His Wife is in Coriolus, and his Child
Like him by chance: yet give us our diſpatch:
I am huſht until our City be afire, and then I'le ſpeak a little.
[Holds her by the hand, ſilent.
Corio. O Mother, Mother!
What have you done? Behold, the Heavens do ope,
The Gods look down, and this unnatural Scene
They laugh at. Oh, my Mother, Mother: Oh!
You have won a happy Victory to Rome.
But for your Son, believe it, Oh believe it,
Moſt dangerouſly you have with him prevail'd,
If not moſt mortal to him. But let it come:
Aufidius, though I cannot make true Wars,
I'le frame convenient Peace. Now, good Aufidius,
Were you in my ſtead, would you have heard
A Mother leſs? Or granted leſs, Aufidius?
Auf. I was mov'd withal.
Corio. I dare be ſworn you were:
And, Sir, it is no little thing to make
Mine Eyes to ſweat Compaſſion. But (good Sir,)

What

What Peace you'l make, adviſe me: For my part,
I'le not to Rome, I'le back with you, and pray you
Stand to me in this Cauſe. O Mother! Wife!
Auf. I am glad thou haſt ſet thy Mercy, and thy Honour
A difference in thee: Out of that I'le work
My ſelf a former Fortune.
Corio. I, by and by; but we will drink together:
And you ſhall bear
A better witneſs back, than words, which we
On like Conditions, will have counter-ſeal'd.
Come enter with us: Ladies, you deſerve
To have a Temple built you: All the Swords
In Italy, and her Confederate Arms
Could not have made this Peace. [Exeunt.

Enter Menenius and Sicinius.

Me. See you yond'Coin o'th' Capitol, yond'Corner ſtone?
Sicin. Why, what of that?
Men. If it be poſſible for you to diſplace it with your little Finger, there is ſome hope the Ladies of Rome, eſpecially his Mother, may prevail with him. But I ſay, there is no hope in't, our Throats are ſentenc'd, and ſtay upon Execution.
Sicin. Is't poſſible, that ſo ſhort a time can alter the condition of a Man.
Men. There is difference between a Grub and a Butterfly, yet your Butterfly was a Grub: this Martius is grown from Man to Dragon: He has wings, he's more than a creeping thing.
Sicin. He lov'd his Mother dearly.
Men. So did he me: and he no more remembers his Mother now, than an eight years old Horſe. The tartneſs of his Face ſours ripe Grapes. When he walks, he moves like an Engine, and the ground ſhrinks before his Treading. He is able to pierce a Corſlet with his Eye: Talks like a Knell, and his hum is a Battery. He ſits in his State as a thing made for Alexander. What he bids be done is finiſh'd with his bidding. He wants nothing of a God, but Eternity, and a Heaven to Throne in.
Sicin. Yes, Mercy, if you report him truly.
Men. I paint him in the Character. Mark what Mercy his Mother ſhall bring from him: There is no more Mercy in him, than there is Milk in a Male-Tyger, that ſhall our poor City find: and all this is long of you.
Sicin. The Gods be good unto us.
Men. No, in ſuch a caſe the Gods will not be good unto us. When we baniſh'd him, we reſpected not them: and he returning to break our Necks, they reſpect not us.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Sir, if you'ld ſave your Life flye to your Houſe,
The Plebeians have got your Fellow Tribune,
And hale him up and down; all ſwearing, if
The Roman Ladies bring not Comfort home,
They'l give him death by Inches.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Sicin. What's the News?
Meſ. Good News, good News, the Ladies have prevail'd,
The Volſcians are diſlodg'd, and Martius gone:
A merrier day did never yet greet Rome,
No, not th' expulſion of the Tarquins.
Sicin. Friend, art thou certain this is true?
Is't moſt certain?
Meſ. As certain as I know the Sun is Fire:
Where have you lurk'd that you make doubt of it?
Ne're through an Arch ſo hurried the blown Tide,
As the recomforted through th' gates. Why, hark you.
[Trumpets, Hoboys, Drums beat, altogether.
The Trumpets, Sack-buts, Pſalteries, and Fifes,
Tabors, and Cymbals, and the ſhouting Romans
Make the Sun dance. Hark you. [A ſhout within.
Men. This is good News:
I will go meet the Ladies. This Volumnia
Is worth of Conſuls, Senators, Patricians,
A City full: Of Tribunes, ſuch as you,
A Sea and Land full: you have pray'd well to day:
This Morning, for ten thouſand of your Throats,
I'd not have given a doit. Hark, how they joy.
[Sound ſtill with the Shouts.
Sicin. Firſt, the Gods bleſs you for your Tidings:
Next, accept my thankfulneſs.
Meſ. Sir, we have all great cauſe to give great thanks.
Sicin. They are near the City?
Meſ. Almoſt at point to enter.
Sicin. We'll meet them, and help the joy. [Exeunt.

Enter two Senators, with Ladies paſſing over the Stage with other Lords.

Senat. Behold our Patroneſs, the life of Rome:
Call all your Tribes together, praiſe the Gods,
And make Triumphant Fires, ſtrew Flowers before them:
Unſhoot the noiſe that baniſh'd Martius;
Repeal him, with the welcome of his Mother:
Cry welcome, Ladies, welcome.
All. Welcome Ladies, welcome. [Exeunt.
[A Flouriſh with Drums and Trumpets.

Enter Tullus Aufidius, with Attendants.

Auf. Go tell the Lords o'th' City, I am here:
Deliver them this Paper: having read it,
Bid them repair to th' Market-place, where I
Even in theirs, and in the Commons Ears,
Will vouch the truth of it. Him I accuſe
The City Ports by this hath enter'd, and Intends t'appear before the People, hoping
To purge himſelf with words. Diſpatch.

Enter three or four Conſpirators of Aufidius's Faction.

Moſt welcome.
1 Con. How is it with our General?
Auf. Even ſo, as with a Man by his own Alms impoyſon'd, and with his Charity ſlain.
2 Con. Moſt Noble Sir, if you do hold the ſame intent,
Wherein you wiſh'd us Parties: We'll deliver you
Of your great danger.
Auf. Sir, I cannot tell,
We muſt proceed as we do find the People.
3 Con. The People will remain uncertain, whilſt
'Twixt you there's difference: but the fall of either
Makes the Survivor Heir of all.
Auf. I know it:
And my pretext to ſtrike at him admits
A good Conſtruction. I rais'd him, and I pawn'd
Mine Honour for his Truth: who being ſo heighten'd,
He watered his new Plants with dews of Flattery,
Seducing ſo my Friends: and to this end,
He bow'd his Nature, never known before,
But to be rough, unſwayable, and free.
3 Con. Sir, his ſtoutneſs
When he did ſtand for Conſul, which he loſt
By lack of ſtooping.
Auf. That I would have ſpoke of:
Being baniſh'd for't, he came unto my Hearth,
Preſented to my Knife his Throat: I took him,
Made him joynt-ſervant with me: Gave him way
In all his own deſires: Nay, let him chuſe
Out of my Files, his Projects to accompliſh,
My beſt and freſheſt Men, ſerv'd his Deſignments
In mine own Perſon: hop'd to reap the Fame
Which he did make all his; and took ſome Pride
To do my ſelf this wrong; till at the laſt,
I ſeem'd his Follower, not Partner; and
He wag'd me with his Countenance, as if
I had been Mercenary.
1 Con. So he did, my Lord:
The Army marvell'd at it, and in the laſt,
When he had carried Rome, and that we look'd

For

For no leſs Spoil, than Glory——
Auf. There was it:
For which my ſinews ſhall be ſtretcht upon him:
At a few drops of Womens Rheum, which are
As cheap as Lies, he ſold the Blood and Labour
Of our great Action; therefore ſhall he dye,
And I'le renew me in his fall. But hark.

[Drums and Trumpets ſound, with great ſhouts of the People.

1 Con. Your Native Town you enter'd like a Poſt,
And had no Welcomes home, but he returns
Splitting the Air with noyſe.
2 Con. And patient Fools,
Whoſe Children he hath ſlain, their baſe throats tear
With giving him Glory.
3 Con. Therefore at your vantage,
E're he expreſs himſelf, or move the People
With what he would ſay, let him feel your Sword:
Which we will ſecond, when he lies along,
After your way. His Tale pronounc'd ſhall bury
His Reaſons, with his Body.
Auf. Say no more, here come the Lords.

Enter the Lords of the City.

All Lords. You are moſt welcome home.
Auf. I have not deſerv'd it.
But, worthy Lords, have you with heed peruſed
What I have written to you?
All. We have.
1 Lord. And grieve to hear't
What faults he made before the laſt, I think
Might have found eaſie Fines: But there to end
Where he was to begin, and give away
The benefit of our Levies, anſwering us
With our own charge, making a Treaty, where
There was a yielding; this admits no excuſe.
Auf. He approaches, you ſhall hear him.

Enter Coriolanus marching with Drum and Colours, the Commons being with him.

Corio. Hail Lords, I am return'd, your Souldier:
No more infected with my Countries love,
Than when I parted hence, but ſtill ſubſiſting
Under your great Command. You are to know,
That proſperouſly I have attempted, and
With bloody paſſage led your Wars, even to
The Gates of Rome: Our ſpoils we have brought home
Doth more than Counterpoiſe a full third part
The charges of the Action. We have made peace
With no leſs Honour to the Antiates,
Than ſhame to th' Romans. And we here deliver
Subſcrib'd by th' Conſuls, and Patricians,
Together with the Seal o'th' Senate, what
We have Compounded on.
Auf. Read it not, Noble Lords,
But tell the Traytor in the higheſt degree
He hath abus'd your Powers.
Corio. Traytor? How now?
Auf. I, Traytor, Martius.
Corio. Martius?
Auf. I, Martius, Caius Martius: Do'ſt thou think
I'le grace thee with that Robbery, thy ſtoln name
Coriolanus in Coriolus?
You Lords and Head o'th' State, perfidiouſly
He has betray'd your buſineſs, and given up
For certain drops of Salt, your City Rome,
I ſay your City, to his Wife and Mother,
Breaking his Oath and Reſolution like
A twiſt of rotten Silk, never admitting
Counſel o'th' War: but at his Nurſes Tears
He whin'd and roar'd away your Victory,
That Pages bluſh'd at him, and Men of heart
Look'd wond'ring each at others.
Corio. Hear'ſt thou, Mars?
Auf. Name not the God, thou Boy of Tears.
Corio. Ha?
Auf. No more.
Corio. Meaſureleſs Lyar, thou haſt made my heart
Too great for what contains it. Boy? O Slave.
Pardon me, Lords, 'tis the firſt time that ever
I was forc'd to ſcould. Your Judgements, my grave Lords,
Muſt give this Cur the Lye: and his own Notion,
Who wears my ſtripes impreſt upon him, that
Muſt bear my beating to his Grave, ſhall joyn
To thruſt the Lye unto him.
1 Lord. Peace both, and hear me ſpeak.
Corio. Cut me to pieces, Volſcies, Men and Lads,
Stain all your edges on me. Boy, falſe Hound:
If you have writ your Annals true, 'tis there,
That like an Eagle in a Dove-coat, I
Flutter'd your Volſcians in Coriolus.
Alone I did it, Boy!
Auf. Why, Noble Lords,
Will you be put in mind of his blind Fortune,
Which was your ſhame, by this unholy Braggart?
'Fore your own Eyes and Ears?
All Con. Let him dye for't.
All People. Tear him to pieces, do it preſently:
He kill'd my Son, my Daughter, he kill'd my Couſin
Marcus, he kill'd my Father.
2 Lord. Peace, hoe: no out-rage, peace:
The Man is Noble, and his Fame folds in
This Orb o'th' Earth: His laſt Offences to us
Shall have Judicious hearing. Stand, Aufidius,
And trouble not the peace.
Corio. O that I had him, with ſix Aufidiuſſes, or more:
His Tribe to uſe my lawful Sword.
Auf. Inſolent Villain.
All Con. Kill, kill, kill, kill, kill him.

Draw both the Conſpirators, and kill Martius, who falls, and Aufidius ſtands on him.

Lords. Hold, hold, hold, hold.
Auf. My Noble Maſters, hear me ſpeak.
1 Lord. O, Tullus.
2 Lord. Thou haſt done a deed, whereat
Valour will weep.
3 Lord. Tread not upon him, Maſters, all be quiet,
Put up your Swords.
Auf. My Lords,
When you ſhall know, (as in this Rage
Provok'd by him, you cannot) the great danger
Which this mans Life did owe you, you'l rejoyce
That he is thus cut off. Pleaſe it your Honours
To call me to your Senate, I'le deliver
My ſelf your Loyal Servant, or endure
Your heavieſt Cenſure.
1 Lord. Bear from hence his Body,
And mourn you for him. Let him be regarded
As the moſt Noble Coarſe, that ever Herald
Did follow to his Urn.
2 Lord. His own impatience
Takes from Aufidius a great part of blame:
Let's make the beſt of it.
Auf. My Rage is gone,
And I am ſtruck with Sorrow: Take him up:
Help three o'th' chiefeſt Souldiers; I'le be one.
Beat thou the Drum that it ſpeak mournfully:
Trail your ſteel Pikes. Though in this City he Hath widowed and unchilded many a one,
Which to this hour bewail the Injury,
Yet he ſhall have a Noble memory. Aſſiſt.

[Exeunt bearing the Body of Martius. A dead March Sounded.

THE

The Lamentable TRAGEDY OF Titus Andronicus.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima.

Enter the Tribunes and Senators aloft. And then enter Saturninus and his Followers at one door, and Bassianus and his Followers at the other, with Drum and Colours.

Saturninus.

NOble Patricians, Patrons of my right,
Defend the Justice of my Cause with Arms.
And Country-men, my loving Followers,
Plead my Successive Title with your Swords.
I was the first-born Son of him that last
Wore the Imperial Diadem of Rome:
Then let my Fathers Honours live in me,
Nor wrong mine Age with this Indignity.

Bassian. Romans, Friends, Followers,
Favourers of my Right:
If ever Bassianus, Cæsar's Son,
VVere gracious in the Eyes of Royal Rome,
Keep then this passage to the Capitol;
And suffer not Dishonour to approach
Th' Imperial Seat to Virtue, Consecrate
To Justice, Continence, and Nobility:
But let Desert in pure Election shine;
And Romans, fight for Freedom in your Choice.

Enter Marcus Andronicus aloft with the Crown.

Princes that strive by Factions, and my Friends,
Ambitiously for Rule and Empery:
Know, that the People of Rome, for whom we stand
A special Party, have by Common Voice
In Election for the Roman Empery,
Chosen Andronicus, Sur-nam'd Pius,
For many good and great deserts to Rome.
A Nobler Man, a braver VVarior,
Lives not this day within the City VValls.
He by the Senate is accited home
From weary VVars against the barbarous Gothes,
That with his Sons (a terror to our Foes)
Hath yoak'd a Nation strong, train'd up in Arms.
Ten years are spent, since first he undertook
This Cause of Rome, and chastised with Arms
Our Enemies pride. Five times he hath return'd
Bleeding to Rome, bearing his valiant Sons
In Coffins from the Field.
And now at last, laden with Honours Spoyls,
Returns the good Andronicus to Rome,
Renowned Titus, flourishing in Arms.
Let us intreat, by Honour of his Name
VVhom (worthily) you would have now succeed,
And in the Capitol and Senates Right,
VVhom you pretend to Honour and Adore,
That you withdraw you, and abate your Strength,
Dismiss your Followers, and as Suiters should,
Plead your Deserts in Peace and Humbleness.

Saturnin. How fair the Tribune speaks,
To calm my thoughts.

Bassia. Marcus Andronicus, so I do affie
In thy Uprightness and Integrity:
And so I Love and Honour thee, and thine,
Thy Noble Brother Titus, and his Sons,
And her (to whom my thoughts are humbled all)
Gracious Lavinia, Rome's rich Ornament,
That I will here dismiss my loving Friends:
And to my Fortunes, and the Peoples Favour,
Commit my Cause in ballance to be weigh'd.

[Ex. Souldiers.

Saturnin. Friends that have been
Thus forward in my Right,
I thank you all, and here dismiss you all,
And to the Love and Favour of my Country,
Commit my Self, my Person, and the Cause:
Rome, be as just and gracious unto me,
As I am confident and kind to thee.
Open the Gates, and let me in.

Bassia. Tribunes, and me, a poor Competitor.

[They go up into the Senate-House.

Enter a Captain.

Cap. Romans, make way: the good Andronicus,
Patron of Virtue, Rome's best Champion,
Successful in the Battels that he fights,
VVith Honour and with Fortune is return'd,
From whence he circumscribed with his Sword,
And brought to yoke the Enemies of Rome.

Sound Drums and Trumpets. And then Enter two of Titus's Sons: After them, two Men bearing a Coffin covered with black, then two other Sons. After them, Titus Andronicus, and then Tamora, the Queen of Gothes, and her two Sons, Chiron and Demetrius, with Aaron the Moor, and others, as many as can be: They set down the Coffin, and Titus speaks.

Andronicus. Hail, Rome:

Victorious

Victorious in thy mourning Weeds:
Loe as the Bark that hath discharg'd her Fraught,
Returns with precious lading to the Bay,
From whence at first she weigh'd her Anchorage:
Cometh Andronicus bound with Laurel Boughs,
To re-salute his Country with his Tears,
Tears of true Joy for his return to Rome,
Thou great Defender of this Capitol,
Stand gracious to the Rites that we intend.
Romans, of five and twenty Valiant Sons,
Half of the number that King Priam had,
Behold the Poor remains alive and dead!
These that Survive, let Rome reward with Love:
These that I bring unto their latest home,
With burial amongst their Ancestors.
Here Gothes have given me leave to sheath my Sword:
Titus unkind, and careless of thine own,
Why suffer'st thou thy Sons unburied yet,
To hover on the dreadful shore of Styx?
Make way to lay them by their Brethren.
[They open the Tomb.
There greet in silence as the dead are wont,
And sleep in peace, slain in your Countries Wars:
O sacred receptacle of my Joys,
Sweet Cell of Virtue and Nobility,
How many Sons of mine hast thou in store,
That thou wilt never render to me more?
Luc. Give us the proudest Prisoner of the Gothes,
That we may hew his Limbs, and on a Pile,
Ad manes fratrum, Sacrifice his Flesh,
Before this Earthly prison of their Bones,
That so the shadows be not unappeas'd,
Nor we disturb'd with Prodigies on Earth.
Tit. I give him you, the Noblest that survives,
The Eldest Son of this distressed Queen.
Tam. Stay, Roman Brethren, gracious Conquerour,
Victorious Titus, pity the Tears I shed,
A Mothers Tears in passion for her Son:
And if thy Sons were ever dear to thee,
Oh think my Sons to be as dear to me.
Sufficeth not, that we are brought to Rome,
To beautifie thy Triumphs, and return
Captive to thee, and to thy Roman Yoak;
But must my Sons be slaughtred in the Streets,
For Valiant doings in their Countries Cause?
O! If to fight for King and Common-weal,
Were Piety in thine, it is in these:
Andronicus, stain not thy Tomb with blood.
Wilt thou draw near the Nature of the Gods?
Draw near them then in being merciful,
Sweet mercy is Nobilities true badge,
Thrice Noble Titus, spare my first born-son.
Tit. Patient your self, Madam, and pardon me.
These are the Brethren, whom you Gothes behold
Alive and dead, and for their Brethren slain,
Religiously they ask a Sacrifice;
To this your Son is markt, and die he must,
To appease their groaning shadows that are gone.
Luc. Away with him, and make a Fire streight.
And with our Swords upon a Pile of Wood,
Let's hew his Limbs till they be clean consum'd.
[Exeunt Sons with Alarbus.
Tam. O cruel irreligious Piety.
Chi. Was ever Scythia half so barbarous?
Dem. Oppose me, Scythia, to ambitious Rome,
Alarbus go to rest, and we survive,
To tremble under Titus's threatning looks,
Then, Madam, stand resolv'd, but hope withall,
The self-same Gods that arm'd the Queen of Troy,
With opportunity of sharp Revenge
Upon the Thracian Tyrant in his Tent,
May favour Tamora, the Queen of Gothes,
(When Gothes were Gothes, and Tamora was Queen)
To quit the bloody Wrongs upon her Foes.

Enter the Sons of Andronicus again.

Luc. See, Lord and Father, how we have perform'd
Our Roman Rites, Alarbus's Limbs are lopt,
And Intrals feed the sacrificing Fire,
Whose Smoke, like Incense doth perfume the Skye.
Remaineth nought but to inter our Brethren,
And with loud Larums welcome them to Rome.
Tit. Let it be so, and let Andronicus
Make this his latest farewel to their Souls.

Then Sound Trumpets, and lay the Coffins in the Tomb.

In Peace and Honour rest you here, my Sons,
Romes readiest Champions, repose you here in rest,
Secure from worldly Chances and Mishaps:
Here lurks no Treason, here no Envy swells,
Here grow no damned Grudges, here no storms,
No noise, but silence and Eternal sleep:
In Peace and Honour rest you here, my Sons.
Enter Lavinia.
Lav. In Peace and Honour, live Lord Titus long.
My Noble Lord and Father, live in Fame:
Loe at this Tomb, my tributary Tears
I render for my Brethrens Obsequies:
And at thy Feet I kneel with Tears of Joy
Shed on the Earth, for thy return to Rome.
O bless me here with thy victorious hand,
Whose Fortune Romes best Citizens applaud.
Tit. Kind Rome,
That hast thus lovingly reserv'd
The Cordial of mine Age, to glad mine Heart,
Lavinia, live, out-live thy Fathers days:
And Fames Eternal date for Virtues praise.
Mar. Long live Lord Titus, my beloved Brother,
Gracious Triumpher in the Eyes of Rome.
Tit. Thanks, gentle Tribune,
Noble Brother Marcus.
Mar. And welcome Nephews from successful Wars,
You that survive, and you that sleep in Fame:
Fair Lords, your Fortunes are all alike in all,
That in your Countreys Service drew your Swords.
But safer Triumph is his Funeral Pomp,
That hath aspir'd to Solons happiness,
And Triumphs over Chance in Honour's bed.
Titus Andronicus, the People of Rome,
Whose Friend in Justice thou hast ever been,
Send thee by me their Tribune, and their trust,
This Palliament of white and spotless Hue,
And name thee in Election for the Empire
With these our late deceased Emperours Sons:
Be Candidates then, and put it on,
And help to set a Head on headless Rome.
Tit. A better Head her Glorious body fits,
Than his that shakes for age and feebleness:
What should I d'on this Robe and trouble you?
Be chosen with Proclamations to day,
To morrow yield up Rule, resign my Life,
And set abroach new business for you all.
Rome, I have been thy Souldier forty years,
And led my Countries strength successfully,
And buried one and twenty Valiant Sons,
Knighted in Field, slain manfully in Arms,
In Right and Service of their Noble Country:
Give me a staff of Honour for mine Age,
But not a Scepter to controul the World,
Upright he held it, Lords, that held it last.
Mar. Titus, thou shalt obtain and ask the Empery.
Sat. Proud and ambitious Tribune, can'st thou tell?
Titus. Patience, Prince Saturninus.
Sat. Romans, do me right.
Patricians draw your Swords, and sheath them not,
Till Saturninus be Rome's Emperour:

Andronicus, would thou wert ſhipt to Hell,
Rather than rob me of the Peoples Hearts.
Luc. Proud Saturnine, interrupter of the good
That Noble-minded Titus means to thee.
Tit. Content thee Prince, I will reſtore to thee,
The Peoples Hearts, and wean them from themſelves.
Baſs. Andronicus, I do not flatter thee,
But Honour thee, and will do till I die:
My Faction, if thou ſtrengthen with thy Friends,
I will moſt thankful be, and Thanks to men
Of Noble minds is Honourable Meed.
Tit. People of Rome, and Noble Tribunes here,
I ask your Voices, and your Suffrages,
Will you beſtow them friendly on Andronicus?
Tri. To gratifie the good Andronicus,
And gratulate his ſafe return to Rome,
The People will accept whom he admits.
Tit. Tribunes, I thank you, and this ſuit I make,
That you create your Emperours Eldeſt Son,
Lord Saturnine, whoſe Virtues will, I hope,
Reflect on Rome, as Titans Rays on Earth,
And ripen Juſtice in this Common-weal:
Then if you will Elect by my adviſe,
Crown him, and ſay, Long live our Emperour.
Mar. An. With Voices and applauſe of every ſort,
Patricians and Plebeians, we Create
Lord Saturninus, Romes Great Emperour.
And ſay, Long live our Emperour, Saturnine.
[A long Flouriſh till they come down.
Sat. Titus Andronicus, for thy Favours done,
To us in our Election this day,
I give thee thanks in part of thy Deſerts,
And will with deeds requite thy gentleneſs:
And for an Onſet, Titus, to advance
Thy Name, and Honourable Family,
Lavinia will I make my Empereſs,
Romes Royal Miſtreſs, Miſtreſs of my Heart,
And in the Sacred Pantheon her Eſpouſe:
Tell me, Andronicus, doth this Motion pleaſe thee?
Tit. It doth, my worthy Lord, and in this Match,
I hold me highly Honour'd of your Grace,
And here in ſight of Rome, to Saturnine,
King and Commander of our Common-weal,
The wide Worlds Emperour, do I Conſecrate
My Sword, my Chariot, and my Priſoners,
Preſents well worthy Romes Imperial Lord.
Receive them then, the Tribute that I owe,
Mine Honours Enſignes humbled at my Feet.
Sat. Thanks Noble Titus, Father of my Life,
How proud I am of thee, and of thy Gifts,
Rome ſhall record, and when I do forget
The leaſt of theſe unſpeakable Deſerts,
Romans forget your Fealty to me.
Tit. Now, Madam, are you Priſoner to an Emperour,
To him that for your Honour and your State,
Will uſe you Nobly, and your Followers.
Sat. A goodly Lady, truſt me of the Hue
That I would chuſe, were I to chuſe a new:
Cleer up, Fair Queen, that cloudy countenance,
Though chance of War hath wrought this change of cheer,
Thou com'ſt not to be made a ſcorn in Rome:
Princely ſhall be thy uſage every way.
Reſt on my word, and let not diſcontent
Daunt all your hopes: Madam, he comforts you,
Can make your Greater than the Queen of Gothes?
Lavinia, you are not diſpleas'd with this?
Lav. Not I, my Lord, ſith true Nobility
Warrants theſe words in Princely Courteſie.
Sat. Thanks, ſweet Lavinia, Romans, let us go:
Ranſomleſs here we ſet our Priſoners free,
Proclaim our Honours, Lords, with Trumpet and Drum.
Baſs. Lord Titus by your leave this Maid is mine.
Tit. How, Sir? Are you in earneſt then, my Lord?
Baſs. I, Noble Titus, and reſolv'd withall,
To do my ſelf this reaſon, and this right.
Mar. Suum cuique, is our Roman Juſtice:
This Prince in Juſtice ſeiſeth but his own.
Luc. And that he will, and ſhall, if Lucius live.
Tit. Traytors, avant, where is the Emperours Guard?
Treaſon, my Lord, Lavinia is ſurpris'd.
Sat. Surpris'd, by whom?
Baſs. By him that juſtly may
Bear his Betroth'd from all the World away.
Mut. Brothers, help to convey her hence away.
And with my Sword I'le keep the door cloſe.
Tit. Follow, my Lord, and I'le ſoon bring her back.
Mut. My Lord, you paſs not here.
Tit. What Villain, Boy, barr'ſt me my way in Rome?
Mut. Help, Lucius, help. [He kills him.
Lu. My Lord, you are unjuſt, and more than ſo,
In wrongful Quarrel you have ſlain your Son.
Tit. Nor thou, nor he, are any Sons of mine.
My Sons would never ſo diſhonour me.
Traytor, reſtore Lavinia to the Emperour.
Luc. Dead, if you will, but not to be his VVife,
That is anothers lawful promis'd Love.

Enter aloft the Emperour with Tamora, and her two Sons, and Aaron the Moor.

Emp. No, Titus, no, the Emperour needs her not,
Nor her, nor thee, nor any of thy ſtock:
I'le truſt by leiſure him that mocks me once,
Thee never, nor thy Traiterous haughty Sons,
Confederates all, thus to diſhonour me.
Was there none elſe in Rome to make a ſtale of
But Saturnine? Full well, Andronicus
Agree theſe Deeds, with that proud Brag of thine,
That ſaid'ſt, I begg'd the Empire at thy hands.
Tit. O monſtrous, what reproachful words are theſe?
Sat. But go thy ways, go give that changing piece,
To him that flouriſh'd for her with his Sword:
A Valiant Son in Law thou ſhalt enjoy:
One, fit to bandy with thy lawleſs Sons,
To ruffle in the Common-wealth of Rome.
Tit. Theſe words are Razors to my wounded Heart.
Sat. And therefore, lovely Tamora, Queen of Gothes,
That like the ſtately Phœbe 'mongſt her Nymphs,
Doſt over-ſhine the Gallant'ſt Dames of Rome,
If thou be pleas'd with this my ſudden Choice,
Behold I chuſe thee, Tamora, for my Bride,
And will Create thee Empereſs of Rome.
Speak, Queen of Gothes, doſt thou applaud my Choice?
And here I ſwear by all the Roman Gods,
Sith Prieſt and Holy-water are ſo near,
And Tapers burn ſo bright, and every thing
In readineſs for Hymeneus ſtand,
I will not re-ſalute the Streets of Rome,
Or climb my Palace, till from forth this place
I lead eſpous'd my Bride along with me.
Tam. And here in ſight of Heaven to Rome I ſwear,
If Saturnine advance the Queen of Gothes,
She will a Hand-maid be to his deſires.
A loving Nurſe, a Mother to his Youth.
Sat. Aſcend, Fair Queen,
Pantheon Lords, accompany
Your Noble Emperour, and his lovely Bride,
Sent by the Heavens for Prince Saturnine,
Whoſe VViſdom hath her Fortune Conquered,
There ſhall we Conſummate our Sponſal Rites.
[Exeunt omnes.

Tit. I am not bid to wait upon this Bride.
Titus when wer't thou wont to walk alone,
Diſhonoured thus, and Challenged of wrongs?

Enter Marcus and Titus's Sons.

Mar. O Titus ſee, O ſee what thou haſt done!

In a bad quarrel ſlain a Vertuous Son.
Tit. No, fooliſh Tribune, no: No Son of mine,
Nor thou, nor theſe Confederates in the deed,
That hath diſhonoured all our Family,
Unworthy Brother, and unworthy Sons.
Luc. But let us give him Burial as becomes.
Give Mutius Burial with our Brethren.
Tit. Traitors away, he reſts not in this Tomb:
This Monument five hundred years hath ſtood,
Which I have ſumptuouſly re-edified:
Here none but Souldiers, and Romes Servitors,
Repoſe in Fame: None baſely ſlain in Brawls.
Bury him where you can, he comes not here.
Mar. My Lord, this is Impiety in you,
My Nephew Mutius's deeds do plead for him,
He muſt be buried with his Brethren.
[Titus's two Sons ſpeak.
2 Sons. And ſhall, or him we will accompany.
Tit. And ſhall! What Villain was it ſpake that word?
[Titus's Son ſpeaks.
1 Son. He that would vouch it in any place but here.
Tit. What would you bury him in my deſpight?
Mar. No, Noble Titus, but intreat of thee,
To pardon Mutius, and to bury him.
Tit. Marcus, even thou haſt ſtruck upon my Creſt,
And with theſe Boys mine Honour thou haſt wounded,
My Foes, I do repute you every one.
So trouble me no more, but get you gone.
1 Son. He is not himſelf, let us withdraw.
2 Son. Not I, till Mutius Bones be buried.
[The Brother and the Sons kneel.
Mar. Brother, for in that name doth Nature plead.
2 Son. Father, and in that Name doth Nature ſpeak.
Tit. Speak thou no more, if all the reſt will ſpeed.
Mar. Renowned Titus, more than half my Soul.
Luc. Dear Father, ſoul and ſubſtance of us all.
Mar. Suffer thy Brother Marcus to inter
His Noble Nephew here in Virtues neſt,
That died in Honour, and Lavinias Cauſe.
Thou art a Roman, be not barbarous:
The Greeks upon advice did bury Ajax
That ſlew himſelf: And Laertes Son
Did graciouſly plead for his Funerals:
Let not young Mutius then, that was thy joy,
Be barr'd his entrance here.
Tit. Riſe, Marcus, riſe,
The diſmall'ſt day is this that e're I ſaw,
To be diſhonoured by my Sons in Rome:
Well, bury him, and bury me the next.
[They put him in the Tomb.
Luc. There lie thy Bones, ſweet Mutius, with thy friends,
Till we with Trophies do adorn thy Tomb.
[They all kneel and ſay.
No Man ſhed tears for Noble Mutius.
He lives in Fame, that di'd in Virtues Cauſe. [Exit.
Mar. My Lord, to ſtep out of theſe ſudden dumps,
How comes it that the ſubtle Queen of Gothes
Is of a ſudden thus advanc'd in Rome?
Tit. I know not, Marcus: but I know it is,
(Whether by deviſe or no) the Heavens can tell,
Is ſhe not then beholding to the man,
That brought her for this high good turn ſo far?
Yes, and will Nobly him remunerate.

Flouriſh. Enter the Emperour, Tamora, and her two Sons, with the Moor at one Door. Enter at the other Door Baſſianus and Lavinia with others.

Sat. So, Baſſianus, you have plaid your prize,
God give you joy, Sir, of your Gallant Bride.
Baſ. And you of yours, my Lord: I ſay no more,
Nor wiſh no leſs, and ſo I take my leave.
Sat. Traitor, if Rome have Law, or we have Power,
Thou and thy Faction ſhall repent this Rape.
Baſ. Rape call you it, my Lord, to ſeiſe my own,
My true betrothed Love, and now my Wife?
But let the Laws of Rome determine all,
Mean while I am poſſeſt of that is mine.
Sat. 'Tis good, Sir: you are very ſhort with us,
But if we live, we'll be as ſharp with you.
Baſ. My Lord, what I have done, as I may,
Anſwer I muſt, and ſhall do with my Life,
Only thus much I give your Grace to know,
By all the duties that I owe to Rome,
This Noble Gentleman, Lord Titus here,
Is in opinion and in honour wrong'd,
That in the reſcue of Lavinia,
With his own hand did ſlay his youngeſt Son,
In zeal to you, and highly mov'd to wrath,
To be controll'd in that he frankly gave:
Receive him then to favour, Saturnine,
That hath expreſt himſelf in all his deeds,
A Father and a Friend to thee, and Rome.
Tit. Prince Baſſianus, leave to plead my Deeds,
'Tis thou, and thoſe, that have diſhonour'd me,
Rome and the Righteous Heavens be my Judge,
How I have lov'd and honour'd Saturnine.
Tam. My worthy Lord, if ever Tamora
Were gracious in thoſe Princely Eyes of thine,
Then hear me ſpeak indifferently for all:
And at my Suit (Sweet) pardon what is paſt.
Sat. What, Madam, be diſhonoured openly,
And baſely put it up without Revenge?
Tam. Not ſo, my Lord,
The Gods of Rome fore-fend,
I ſhould be Author to diſhonour you,
But on mine Honour dare I undertake
For good Lord Titus's innocence in all:
Whoſe Fury not diſſembled ſpeaks his griefs:
Then at my Suit look graciouſly on him,
Loſe not ſo Noble a Friend on vain ſuppoſe,
Nor with ſowre looks afflict his gentle Heart.
My Lord, be rul'd by me, be won at laſt,
Diſſemble all your Griefs and Diſcontents,
You are but newly planted in your Throne;
Leſt then the People, and Patricians too,
Upon a juſt ſurvey take Titus part,
And ſo ſupplant us for Ingratitude,
Which Rome reputes to be a hainous ſin.
Yield at intreats, and then let me alone:
I'le find a day to maſſacre them all,
And raze their Faction, and their Family,
The cruel Father, and his Traiterous Sons,
To whom I ſued for my dear Sons Life;
And make them know what 'tis to let a Queen
Kneel in the Streets, and beg for Grace in vain.
Come, come, ſweet Emperour, (come Andronicus)
Take up this good old Man, and chear the Heart,
That dies in tempeſt of thy angry frown.
Sat. Riſe, Titus, riſe,
My Empereſs hath prevail'd.
Tit. I thank your Majeſty,
And her, my Lord.
Theſe words, theſe looks,
Infuſe new Life in me.
Tam. Titus, I am incorporate in Rome,
A Roman now adopted happily:
And muſt adviſe the Emperour for his good,
This day all quarrels die, Andronicus,
And let it be my Honour, good my Lord,
That I have reconcil'd your Friends and you.
For you, Prince Baſſianus, I have paſt
My word and promiſe to the Emperour,
That you will be more mild and tractable.
And fear not, Lords:
And you, Lavinia,
By my adviſe all humbled on your Knees,
You ſhall ask Pardon of his Majeſty.

Son.

Son. We do,
And vow to Heaven, and to his Highneſs,
That what we did, was mildly, as we might,
Tendring our Siſters Honour and our own.
Mar. That on mine Honour here I do proteſt.
Sat. Away, and talk not, trouble us no more.
Tam. Nay, nay,
Sweet Emperour, we muſt all be friends,
The Tribune and his Nephews kneel for Grace,
I will not be denied, Sweet-heart, look back.
Sat. Marcus,
For thy ſake and thy Brothers here,
And at my lovely Tamora's intreats,
I do remit theſe young mens heinous faults.
Stand up, Lavinia, though you left me like a churle,
I found a Friend, and ſure as death I ſware,
I would not part a Batchelor from the Prieſt.
Come, if the Emperours Court can feaſt two Brides,
You are my Gueſt, Lavinia, and your Friends:
This day ſhall be a Love-day, Tamora.
Tit. To morrow, and it pleaſe your Majeſty,
To hunt the Panther and the Hart with me,
With Horn and Hound,
We'l give your Grace Bon jour.
Sat. Be it ſo, Titus, and Gramercy too. [Exeunt.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Aaron alone.

Aaron. Now climbeth Tamora Olympus top,
Safe out of Fortunes ſhot, and ſits aloft,
Secure of Thunders crack, or Lightning flaſh,
Advanc'd above pale Envies threatning reach:
As when the golden Sun ſalutes the morn,
And having gilt the Ocean with his Beams,
Gallops the Zodiack in his gliſtring Coach,
And over-looks the higheſt piring Hills:
So Tamora.
Upon her Wit doth early Honour wait,
And Virtue ſtoops and trembles at her frown.
Then Aaron arm thy Heart, and fit thy Thoughts,
To mount aloft with thy Emperial Miſtreſs,
And mount her pitch, whom thou in triumph long
Haſt Priſoner held, fettred in amorous Chains,
And faſter bound to Aarons charming Eyes,
Than is Prometheus ty'd to Caucaſus.
Away with ſlaviſh weeds, and idle thoughts,
I will be bright, and ſhine in Pearl and Gold,
To wait upon this new made Empereſs,
To wait, ſaid I? To wanton with this Queen,
This Goddeſs, this Semiramis, this Queen,
This Syren, that will charm Rome's Saturnine,
And ſee his ſhipwrack, and his Common-weals.
Holla, what ſtorm is this?

Enter Chiron and Demetrius braving.

Dem. Chiron, thy years want Wit, thy wit wants edge
And manners to intrude where I am grac'd,
And may for ought thou know'ſt affected be.
Chi. Demetrius, thou doſt over-ween in all,
And ſo in this, to bear me down with Braves,
'Tis not the difference of a year or two
Makes me leſs Gracious, or thee more Fortunate:
I am as able, and as fit as thou,
To ſerve, and to deſerve my Miſtreſs Grace,
And that my Sword upon thee ſhall approve,
And plead my paſſions for Lavinia's love.
Aar. Clubs, Clubs, theſe Lovers will not keep the Peace.
Dem. Why Boy, although our Mother (unadvis'd)
Gave you a dancing Rapier by your ſide,
Are you ſo deſperate grown to threat your Friends?
Go to: have your Lath glued within your Sheath,
Till you know better how to handle it.
Chi. Mean while, Sir, with the little skill I have,
Full well ſhalt thou perceive how much I dare.
Dem. I Boy, grow ye ſo brave? [They draw.
Aar. Why now, Lords?
So near the Emperours Palace dare you draw?
And maintain ſuch a Quarrel openly?
Full well I wot, the ground of all this grudg.
I would not for a million of Gold,
The cauſe were known to them it moſt concerns.
Nor would your Noble Mother for much more
Be ſo diſhonoured in the Court of Rome.
For ſhame put up.
Dem. Not I, till I have ſheath'd
My Rapier in his Boſom, and withal
Thruſt theſe reproachful ſpeeches down his Throat,
That he hath breath'd in my diſhonour here.
Chi. For that I am prepar'd, and full reſolv'd,
Foul ſpoken Coward,
That thundreſt with thy Tongue,
And with thy Weapon nothing dar'ſt perform.
Aar. Away, I ſay.
Now by the Gods that warlike Goths adore,
This petty brabble will undo us all:
Why Lords, and think you not how dangerous
It is to ſet upon a Princes right?
What is Lavinia then become ſo looſe,
Or Baſſianus ſo degenerate,
That for her love ſuch Quarrels may be broacht,
Without Controulment, Juſtice, or Revenge?
Young Lords, beware, and ſhould the Empreſs know
This diſcord's ground, the Muſick would not pleaſe.
Chi. I care not, I, knew ſhe and all the World,
I love Lavinia more than all the World.
Dem. Youngling,
Learn thou to make ſome better choice,
Lavinia is thine elder Brothers hope.
Aar. Why are ye mad? Or know ye not in Rome
How furious and impatient they be,
And cannot brook Competitors in love?
I tell you, Lords, you do but plot your Deaths
By this deviſe.
Chi. Aaron, a thouſand deaths would I propoſe,
To atchieve her whom I do love.
Aar. To atchieve her, how?
Dem. Why mak'ſt thou it ſo ſtrange?
She is a Woman, therefore may be woo'd,
She is a Woman, therefore may be won,
She is Lavinia, therefore muſt be lov'd.
What man, more Water glideth by the Mill
Than wots the Miller of, and eaſie it is:
Of a cut Loaf to ſteal a Shive we know:
Though Baſſianus be the Emperours Brother,
Better than he have yet worn Vulcans badge.
Aar. I, and as good as Saturninus may.
Dem. Then why ſhould he deſpair that knows to court it
With words, fair looks, and liberality?
What haſt thou not full often ſtruck a Doe,
And born her cleanly by the Keepers Noſe?
Aar. Why then it ſeems ſome certain ſnatch or ſo
Would ſerve your turns.
Chi. I, ſo the turn were ſerved.
Dem. Aaron, thou haſt hit it.
Aar. Would you had hit it too,
Then ſhould not we be tir'd with this ado:
Why, hark ye, hark ye, and are you ſuch Fools,
To ſquare for this? Would it offend you then?
Chi. Faith, not me.
Dem. Nor me, ſo I were one.
Aar. For ſhame be friends, and joyn for that you jar.
'Tis policy and ſtratagem muſt do
That you affect, and ſo muſt you reſolve,

That what you cannot as you would atchieve,
You muſt perforce accompliſh as you may:
Take this of me, Lucrece was not more chaſt
Than this Lavinia, Baſſianus's Love,
A ſpeedier courſe this lingring languiſhment
Muſt we purſue, and I have found the path:
My Lords, a ſolemn hunting is in hand,
There will the lovely Roman Ladies troop:
The Forreſt walks are wide and ſpacious,
And many unfrequented Plots there are,
Fitted by kind for Rape and Villany:
Single you thither then this dainty Doe,
And ſtrike her home by force, if not by words:
This way, or not at all, ſtand you in hope.
Come, come, our Empreſs with her Sacred Wit
To Villany and Vengeance conſecrate,
Will we acquaint with all that we intend,
And ſhe ſhall file our Engines with advice,
That will not ſuffer you to ſquare your ſelves,
But to your wiſhes height advance you both.
The Emperours Court is like the Houſe of Fame,
The Palace full of Tongues, of Eyes, of Ears:
The Woods are ruthleſs, dreadful, deaf, and dull:
There ſpeak, and ſtrike, brave Boys, and take your turns.
There ſerve your luſts, ſhadow'd from Heavens Eye,
And revel in Lavinia's Treaſury.

Chi. Thy Counſel, Lad, ſmells of no Cowardiſe.

Dem. Si fas aut nefas, till I find the ſtreams
To cool this heat: a Charm to calm their fits,
Per Styga, per Manes vehor. [Exeunt.

Enter Titus Andronicus and his three Sons, making a noiſe with Hounds and Horns, and Marcus.

Tit. The hunt is up, the Morn is bright and gray,
The Fields are fragrant, and the Woods are green,
Uncouple here, and let us make a Bay,
And wake the Emperour and his lovely Bride,
And rouze the Prince, and ring a Hunters peal,
That all the Court may Eccho with the noiſe.
Sons, let it be your charge, as it is ours,
To attend the Emperours perſon carefully:
I have been troubled in my ſleep this Night,
But dawning Day new comfort hath inſpir'd.

Wind Horns. Here a cry of Hounds, and wind Horns in a Peal, then enter Saturninus, Tamora, Baſſianus, Lavinia, Chiron, Demetrius, and their Attendants.

Tit. Many Good morrows to your Majeſty,
Madam, to you, as many and as good.
I promiſed your Grace a Hunters Peal.

Sat. And you have rung it luſtily, my Lords,
Somewhat too early for new married Ladies.

Baſ. Lavinia, How ſay you?

Lav. I ſay, no:
I have been awake two hours and more.

Sat. Come on then, Horſe and Chariots let us have,
And to our ſport: Madam, now ſhall ye ſee
Our Roman Hunting.

Mar. I have Dogs, my Lord,
Will rouze the proudeſt Panther in the Chaſe,
And climb the higheſt Promontory top.

Tit. And I have Horſe will follow, where the Game
Makes away, and run like Swallows o're the plain.

Dem. Chiron, we hunt not, we, with Horſe nor Hound,
But hope to pluck a dainty Doe to Ground. [Exeunt.

Enter Aaron alone.

Aar. He that had Wit, would think that I had none,
To bury ſo much Gold under a Tree,
And never after to inherit it.
Let him that thinks of me ſo abjectly,
Know that this Gold muſt coin a ſtratagem,
Which cunningly effected, will beget
A very excellent piece of Villany:
And ſo repoſe ſweet Gold for their unreſt,
That have their Alms out of the Empreſs Cheſt.

Enter Tamora to the Moor.

Tam. My lovely Aaron,
Wherefore look'ſt thou ſad,
When every thing doth make a Gleeful boaſt?
The Birds chaunt melody on every buſh,
The Snake lies rolled in the chearful Sun,
The green leaves quiver with the cooling wind,
And make a checquer'd ſhadow on the ground:
Under their ſweet ſhade, Aaron, let us ſit,
And whil'ſt the babling Eccho mocks the Hounds,
Replying ſhrilly to the well-tun'd Horns,
As if a double hunt were heard at once,
Let us ſit down and mark their yelping noiſe:
And after conflict ſuch as was ſuppos'd
The wandring Prince and Dido once enjoy'd,
When with a happy ſtorm they were ſurpriz'd,
And Curtain'd with a Counſel-keeping Cave,
We may each wreathed in the others arms,
(Our paſtimes done) poſſeſs a Golden ſlumber,
Whiles Hounds and Horns, and ſweet Melodious Birds
Be unto us, as is a Nurſes Song
Of Lullaby, to bring her Babe aſleep.

Aar. Madam,
Though Venus govern your deſires,
Saturn is Dominator over mine:
What ſignifies my deadly ſtanding Eye,
My ſilence, and my Cloudy Melancholy,
My Fleece of Woolly Hair, that now uncurls,
Even as an Adder when ſhe doth unrowl
To do ſome fatal Execution?
No, Madam, theſe are no Venereal ſigns,
Vengeance is in my Heart, death in my Hand,
Blood and revenge are hammering in my Head,
Hark, Tamora, the Empreſs of my Soul,
Which never hopes more Heaven, than reſts in thee,
This is the Day of Doom for Baſſianus;
His Philomel muſt loſe her Tongue to Day,
Thy Sons make Pillage of her Chaſtity,
And waſh their Hands in Baſſianus's Blood.
Seeſt thou this Letter, take it up I pray thee.
And give the King this fatal plotted Scrowl;
Now queſtion me no more, we are eſpied,
Here comes a parcel of our hopeful Booty,
Which dreads not yet their lives deſtruction.

Enter Baſſianus and Lavinia.

Tam. Ah my ſweet Moor,
Sweeter to me than Life.

Aar. No more, Great Empreſs, Baſſianus comes,
Be croſs with him, and I'le go fetch thy Sons
To back thy Quarrels whatſoe're they be.

Baſ. Whom have we here?
Romes Royal Empreſs,
Unfurniſh'd of our well-beſeeming troop?
Or is it Dian habited like her,
Who hath abandoned her holy Groves,
To ſee the general Hunting in this Foreſt?

Tam. Sawcy controller of our private ſteps:
Had I the Power that ſome ſay Dian had,
Thy Temples ſhould be planted preſently
With Horns as was Actæons, and the Hounds
Should drive upon his new transformed limbs,
Unmannerly Intruder as thou art.

Lav. Under your Patience, gentle Empreſs,
'Tis thought you have a goodly gift in Horning,
And to be doubted, that your Moor and you
Are ſingled forth to try Experiments:
Jove ſhield your Husband from his Hounds to Day,
'Tis pity they ſhould take him for a Stag.

Baſ. Believe me, Queeen, your ſwarth Cymmerian

Doth

Doth make your Honour of his bodies hue,
Spotted, deteſted, and abominable.
Why are you ſequeſtred from all your train?
Diſmounted from your Snow-white goodly Steed,
And wandred hither to an obſcure plot,
Accompanied with a barbarous Moor,
If ſoul deſire had not conducted you?
Lav. And being intercepted in your ſport,
Great reaſon that my Noble Lord be rated
For Saucineſs; I pray you let us hence,
And let her joy her Raven-coloured love,
This valley fits the purpoſe paſſing well.
Baſ. The King my Brother ſhall have notice of this.
Lav. I, for theſe ſlips have made him noted long,
Good King, to be ſo mightily abuſed.
Tam. Why have I patience to endure all this?

Enter Chiron and Demetrius.

Dem. How now, dear Soveraign
And our gracious Mother,
Why doth your Highneſs look ſo pale and wan?
Tam. Have I not reaſon, think you, to look pale?
Theſe two have tic'd me hither to this place,
A barren, deteſted vale you ſee it is.
The Trees (though Summer) yet forlorn and lean,
O're-come with Moſs, and baleful Miſſelto.
Here never ſhines the Sun, here nothing breeds,
Unleſs the nightly Owl, or fatal Raven.
And when they ſhew'd me this abhorred Pit,
They told me, here at dead time of the night,
A thouſand Fiends, a thouſand hiſſing Snakes,
Ten thouſand ſwelling Toads, as many Urchins,
Would make ſuch fearful and confuſed cries,
As any mortal body hearing it,
Should ſtreight fall mad, or elſe die ſuddenly.
No ſooner had they told this helliſh Tale,
But ſtreight they told me they would bind me here,
Unto the body of a diſmal Yew,
And leave me to this miſerable death.
And then they call'd me foul Adultereſs,
Laſcivious Goth, and all the bittereſt terms
That ever Ears did hear to ſuch effect.
And had you not by wondrous fortune come,
This vengeance on me had they executed:
Revenge it, as you love your Mothers life,
Or be ye not henceforth call'd my Children.
Dem. This is a witneſs that I am thy Son. [Stabs him.
Chi. And this for me,
Struck home to ſhew my ſtrength.
Lav. I come Semiramis, nay Barbarous Tamora,
For no Name fits thy Nature but thy own.
Tam. Give me thy Poygnard: you ſhall know, my Boys,
Your Mothers hand ſhall right your Mothers wrong.
Dem. Stay, Madam, here is more belongs to her,
Firſt thraſh the Corn, then after burn the Straw:
This Minion ſtood upon her Chaſtity,
Upon her Nuptial Vow, her Loyalty,
And with that painted hope ſhe braves your Mightineſs,
And ſhall ſhe carry this unto her Grave?
Chi. And if ſhe do,
I would I were an Eunuch.
Drag hence her Husband to ſome ſecret Hole,
And make his dead Trunk Pillow to our Luſt.
Tam. But when ye have the Honey ye deſire,
Let not this Waſp out-live us both to ſting.
Chi. I warrant you, Madam, we will make that ſure;
Come Miſtreſs, now perforce we will enjoy,
That nice-preſerved honeſty of yours.
Lav. O Tamora, thou bear'ſt a Womans Face.
Tam. I will not hear her ſpeak, away with her.
Lav. Sweet Lords, intreat her hear me but a word.
Dem. Liſten, fair Madam, let it be your glory
To ſee her tears, but be your heart to them,
As unrelenting flints to drops of rain.
Lav. When did the Tygers young-ones teach the Dam?
O do not learn her wrath, ſhe taught it thee,
The Milk thou ſuck'ſt from her did turn to Marble,
Even at thy Teat thou had'ſt thy Tyranny,
Yet every Mother breeds not Sons alike,
Do thou intreat her ſhew a Woman pity.
Chi. What,
Would'ſt thou have me prove my ſelf a Baſtard?
Lav. 'Tis true,
The Raven doth not hatch a Lark,
Yet have I heard, O could I find it now,
The Lion mov'd with pity, did indure
To have his Princely Paws par'd all away.
Some ſay, that Ravens foſter forlorn Children,
The whil'ſt their own Birds famiſh in their neſts:
Oh be to me though thy hard heart ſay no,
Nothing ſo kind but ſomething pitiful.
Tam. I know not what it means, away with her.
Lav. Oh let me teach thee for my Fathers ſake,
That gave thee life, when well he might have ſlain thee:
Be not obdurate, open thy deaf Ears.
Tam. Had'ſt thou in Perſon ne're offended me,
Even for his ſake am I now pitileſs:
Remember, Boys, I pour'd forth tears in vain,
To ſave your Brother from the Sacrifice,
But fierce Andronicus would not relent,
Therefore away with her, and uſe her as you will,
The worſe to her, the better lov'd of me.
Lav. O Tamora,
Be call'd a gentle Queen,
And with thine own Hands kill me in this place,
For 'tis not life that I have begg'd ſo long,
Poor I was ſlain when Baſſianus dy'd.
Tam. What begg'ſt thou then? fond Woman, let me go.
Lav. 'Tis preſent death I beg, and one thing more,
That Womanhood denies my Tongue to tell,
Oh keep me from their worſe than killing luſt,
And tumble me into ſome loathſome Pit,
Where never mans Eye may behold my Body:
Do this, and be a Charitable Murderer.
Tam. So ſhould I rob my ſweet Sons of their Fee,
No, let them ſatisfie their Luſt on thee.
Dem. Away.
For thou haſt ſtaid us here too long.
Lav. No Grace?
No Woman-hood? Ah beaſtly Creature,
The blot and Enemy to our general name,
Confuſion all———
Chi. Nay then I'le ſtop your Mouth,
Bring thou her Husband,
This is the Hole where Aaron bid us hide him. [Exeunt.
Tam. Farewel, my Sons, ſee that ye make her ſure,
Ne're let my heart know merry cheer indeed,
Till all the Andronici be made away:
Now will I hence to ſeek my lovely Moor,
And let my ſpleenful Sons this Trul deflour. [Exit.

Enter Aaron with two of Titus's Sons.

Aaron. Come on, my Lords, the better foot before,
Straight will I bring you to the loathſome Pit,
Where I eſpied the Panther faſt aſleep.
Quin. My ſight is very dull what e're it bodes.
Mar. And mine, I promiſe you, were it not for ſhame
Well could I leave our ſport to ſleep a while.
Quin. What, art thou fallen?
What ſubtle Hole is this,
Whoſe Mouth is covered with Rude growing Briers,
Upon whoſe leaves are drops of new-ſhed blood,
As freſh as morning Dew diſtill'd on flowers?
A very fatal place it ſeems to me:
Speak, Brother, haſt thou hurt thee with the fall?
Mar. Oh Brother,
With the diſmal'ſt object
That ever Eye with ſight made Heart lament.

Aar. Now will I fetch the King to find them here,
That he thereby may have a likely gueſs,
How theſe were they that made away his Brother.
[Exit Aaron.

Mar. Why doſt not comfort me and help me out,
From this unhallow'd and blood-ſtained Hole?

Quin. I am ſurpriz'd with an uncouth fear,
A chilling ſweat o're-runs my trembling joynts,
My heart ſuſpects more than mine eye can ſee.

Mar. To prove thou haſt a true divining heart,
Aaron and thou look down into this Den,
And ſee a fearful ſight of Blood and Death.

Quin. Aaron is gone,
And my compaſſionate heart
Will not permit mine Eyes once to behold
The thing whereat it trembles by ſurmiſe:
Oh tell me how it is, for ne're till now
Was I a Child, to fear I know not what.

Mar. Lord Baſſianus lies embrewed here,
All on a heap like to the ſlaughter'd Lamb,
In this deteſted, dark, blood-drinking pit.

Quin. If it be dark, how doſt thou know 'tis he?

Mar. Upon his bloody finger he doth wear
A precious Ring, that lightens all the Hole:
Which like a Taper in ſome Monument,
Doth ſhine upon the dead mans earthly Cheeks,
And ſhews the ragged intrails of the Pit:
So pale did ſhine the Moon on Pyramus,
When he by night lay bath'd in Maiden blood:
O Brother help me with thy fainting hand,
If fear hath made thee faint, as me it hath,
Out of this fell devouring receptacle,
As hateful as Cocytus miſtie mouth.

Quin. Reach me thy hand, that I may help thee out,
Or wanting ſtrength to do thee ſo much good,
I may be pluckt into the ſwallowing womb
Of this deep pit, poor Baſſianus Grave:
I have no ſtrength to pluck thee to the brink.

Mar. Nor I no ſtrength to climb without thy help.

Quin. Thy hand once more, I will not looſe again,
Till thou art here aloft, or I below:
Thou can'ſt not come to me, I come to thee. [Both fall in.

Enter the Emperour, Aaron the Moor.

Sat. Along with me, I'le ſee what hole is here,
And what he is that now is leapt into it.
Say, who art thou that lately did'ſt deſcend
Into this gaping Hollow of the Earth?

Mar. The unhappy Son of old Andronicus,
Brought hither in a moſt unlucky hour,
To find thy Brother Baſſianus dead.

Sat. My Brother dead? I know thou do'ſt but jeſt,
He and his Lady both are at the Lodg,
Upon the North-ſide of this pleaſant Chaſe,
'Tis not an hour ſince I left him there.

Mar. We know not where you left him all alive,
But out, alas, here have we found him dead.

Enter Tamora, Andronicus, and Lucius.

Tam. Where is my Lord, the King?

Sat. Here Tamora, though griev'd with killing grief.

Tam. Where is thy Brother Baſſianus?

Sat. Now to the bottom do'ſt thou ſearch my wound,
Poor Baſſianus here lies murthered.

Tam. Then all too late I bring this fatal writ,
The complot of this timeleſs Tragedy,
And wonder greatly that Man's Face can fold
In pleaſing ſmiles ſuch murderous Tyranny.
[She giveth Saturnine a Letter.

Saturninus reads the Letter.

And if we miſs to meet him handſomly,
Sweet Huntſman, Baſſianus, 'tis we mean,
Do thou ſo much as dig the Grave for him,
Thou know'ſt our meaning, look for thy reward
Among the Nettles at the Elder tree:
Which over-ſhades the mouth of that ſame Pit,
Where we decreed to bury Baſſianus;
Do this, and purchaſe us thy laſting friends.

Sat. Oh Tamora, was ever heard the like?
This is the Pit, and this the Elder-tree,
Look, Sirs, if you can find the Huntſman out,
That ſhould have murthered Baſſianus here.

Aar. My gracious Lord, here is the Bag of Gold.

Sat. Two of thy whelps, fell Curs, of bloody kind
Have here bereft my Brother of his life:
Sirs, drag them from the Pit unto the Priſon,
There let them bide until we have devis'd
Some never heard-of torturing pain for them.

Tam. What are they in this Pit?
Oh wondrous thing!
How eaſily Murder is diſcovered?

Tit. High Emperour, upon my feeble Knee,
I beg this boon, with tears not lightly ſhed,
That this fell fault of my accurſed Sons,
Accurſed, if the faults be prov'd in them——

Sat. If it be prov'd? you ſee it is apparent,
Who found this Letter, Tamora, was it you?

Tam. Andronicus himſelf did take it up.

Tit. I did, my Lord,
Yet let me be their bail.
For by my Fathers reverend Tomb I vow
They ſhall be ready at your Highneſs Will,
To anſwer their ſuſpition with their lives.

Sat. Thou ſhalt not bail them, ſee thou follow me:
Some bring the murthered Body, ſome the Murtherers,
Let them not ſpeak a word, the Guilt is plain,
For by my Soul, were there worſe end than death,
That end upon them ſhould be executed.

Tam. Andronicus, I will intreat the King,
Fear not thy Sons, they ſhall do well enough.

Tit. Come Lucius, come,
Stay not to talk with them. [Exeunt.

Enter the Empreſs's Sons, with Lavinia, her Hands cut off, and her Tongue cut out, and raviſht.

Dem. So now go tell, and if thy tongue can ſpeak,
Who 'twas that cut thy tongue and raviſht thee.

Chi. Write down thy mind, bewray thy meaning ſo,
And if thy ſtumps will let thee play the Scribe.

Dem. See how with ſigns and tokens ſhe can ſcowl.

Chi. Go home,
Call for ſweet water, waſh thy hands.

Dem. She hath no tongue to call, nor hands to waſh.
And ſo let's leave her to her ſilent walks.

Chi. And 'twere my cauſe, I ſhould go hang my ſelf.

Dem. If thou had'ſt hands to help thee knit the Cord.
[Exeunt.

Wind Horns. Enter Marcus from hunting to Lavinia.

Mar. Who is this, my Niece, that flies away ſo faſt?
Couſin, a word, where is your Husband?
If I do dream, would all my wealth would wake me,
If I do wake, ſome Planet ſtrike me down,
That I may ſlumber in eternal ſleep.
Speak, gentle Niece, what ſtern ungentle hands
Hath lop'd and hew'd, and made thy Body bare
Of her two branches, thoſe ſweet Ornaments,
Whoſe circling ſhadows, Kings have ſought to ſleep in,
And might not gain ſo great a happineſs
As half thy love? why do'ſt not ſpeak to me?
Alas, a Crimſon River of warm blood,
Like to a bubling Fountain ſtir'd with Wind,
Doth riſe and fall between thy roſed lips,
Coming and going with thy Honey breath.

But

But ſure ſome Tereus hath deflour'd thee,
And leſt thou ſhould'ſt detect them, cut thy Tongue,
Ah, now thou turn'ſt away thy Face for ſhame!
And notwithſtanding all this loſs of blood,
As from a Conduit with their iſſuing Spouts,
Yet do thy cheeks look red as Titans Face,
Bluſhing to be encountred with a Cloud,
Shall I ſpeak for thee? Shall I ſay, 'tis ſo?
Oh that I knew thy Heart, and knew the Beaſt,
That I might rail at him to eaſe my mind.
Sorrow concealed, like an Oven ſtopt,
Doth burn the heart to Cinders where it is.
Fair Philomela, ſhe but loſt her Tongue,
And in a tedious Sampler ſewed her mind.
But lovely Niece, that mean is cut from thee,
A craftier Tereus haſt thou met withall,
And he hath cut thoſe pretty Fingers off
That could have better ſewed than Philomel.
Oh had the Monſter ſeen thoſe Lilly hands
Tremble like Aſpen Leaves upon a Lute,
And make the ſilken ſtrings delight to kiſs them,
He would not then have toucht them for his Life.
Or had he heard the Heavenly Harmony,
Which that ſweet Tongue hath made;
He would have dropt his Knife and fell aſleep,
As Cerberus at the Thracian Poets feet.
Come, let us go, and make thy Father blind,
For ſuch a ſight will blind a Father's Eye.
One hours ſtorm will drown the fragrant Meads,
What will whole Months of Tears thy Father's Eyes?
Do not draw back, for we will mourn with thee:
Oh could our mourning eaſe thy miſery. [Exeunt.

Actus Tertius.

Enter the Judges and Senators, with Titus's two Sons bound, paſſing on the Stage to the place of Execution, and Titus going before, pleading.

Tit. Hear me, grave Fathers, Noble Tribunes ſtay,
For pity of mine Age, whoſe youth was ſpent
In dangerous Wars, whilſt you ſecurely ſlept:
For all my blood in Rome's great quarrel ſhed,
For all the froſty Nights that I have watcht,
And for theſe bitter Tears, which now you ſee
Filling the aged wrinkles in my Cheeks,
Be pitiful to my condemned Sons,
Whoſe Souls are not corrupted, as 'tis thought:
For two and twenty Sons I never wept,
Becauſe they died in Honours lofty Bed.
Andronicus lyeth down, and the Judges paſs by him.
For theſe, theſe, Tribunes, in the duſt I write
My hearts deep languor, and my Souls ſad Tears:
Let my Tears ſtench the Earths dry appetite,
My Sons ſweet blood will make it ſhame and bluſh:
O Earth! I will befriend thee more with rain, [Exeunt.
That ſhall diſtill from theſe two ancient ruins,
Than youthful April ſhall with all his Showers
In Summers drought: I'le drop upon thee ſtill,
In Winter with warm Tears I'le melt the Snow,
And keep Eternal Spring-time on thy Face,
So thou refuſe to drink my dear Son's Blood.

Enter Lucius with his weapon drawn.

Oh Reverend Tribunes, oh gentle aged men,
Unbind my Sons, reverſe the doom of Death,
And let me ſay (that never wept before)
My Tears are now prevailing Orators.
Lu. Oh Noble Father, you lament in vain,
The Tribunes hear you not, no man is by,
And you recount your ſorrows to a Stone.
Tit. Ah Lucius, for thy Brothers let me plead,
Grave Tribunes, once more I intreat of you——
Lu. My gracious Lord, no Tribune hears you ſpeak.
Tit. Why, 'tis no matter, Man, if they did hear,
They would not mark me: oh if they did hear,
They would not pity me.
Therefore I tell my ſorrows bootleſs to the ſtones,
Who though they cannot anſwer my diſtreſs,
Yet in ſome ſort they are better than the Tribunes,
For that they will not intercept my tale;
When I do weep, they humbly at my Feet
Receive my tears, and ſeem to weep with me,
And were they but attired in grave weeds,
Rome could afford no Tribune like to theſe.
A ſtone is as ſoft Wax,
Tribunes more hard than Stones:
A ſtone is ſilent, and offendeth not,
And Tribunes with their Tongues doom men to death.
But wherefore ſtand'ſt thou with thy weapon drawn?
Lu. To reſcue my two Brothers from their death,
For which attempt the Judges have pronounc'd
My everlaſting doom of Baniſhment.
Tit. O happy man, they have befriended thee:
Why fooliſh Lucius, do'ſt thou not perceive,
That Rome is but a Wilderneſs of Tigers?
Tigers muſt prey, and Rome affords no prey
But me and mine: how happy art thou then,
From theſe devourers to be baniſhed?
But who comes with our Brother Marcus, here?
Enter Marcus and Lavinia.
Mar. Titus, prepare thy Noble Eyes to weep,
Or if not ſo, thy Noble Heart to break:
I bring conſuming Sorrow to thine age.
Tit. Will it conſume me? Let me ſee it then.
Mar. This was thy Daughter.
Tit. Why, Marcus, ſo ſhe is.
Lu. Ay me, this Object kills me.
Tit. Fainted-Hearted Boy, ariſe, and look upon her,
Speak my Lavinia, what accurſed hand
Hath made thee handleſs in thy Fathers ſight?
What Fool hath added Water to the Sea?
Or brought a faggot to bright-burning Troy?
My grief was at the height before thou cam'ſt,
And now like Nilus it diſdaineth bounds:
Give me a Sword, I'le chop off my hands too,
For they have fought for Rome, and all in vain:
And they have nurs'd this woe,
In feeding Life:
In bootleſs Prayer have they been held up,
And they have ſerv'd me to effectleſs uſe.
Now all the Service I require of them,
Is, that the one will help to cut the other:
'Tis well, Lavinia, that thou haſt no Hands,
For Hands to do Rome ſervice, is but vain.
Lu. Speak, gentle Siſter, who hath martyr'd thee?
Mar. O that delightful Engine of her Thoughts,
That blab'd them with ſuch pleaſing Eloquence,
Is torn from forth that pretty hollow Cage,
Where like a ſweet melodious Bird it ſung
Sweet various notes inchanting every Ear.
Lu. Oh ſay thou for her,
Who hath done this deed?
Mar. Oh thus I found her ſtraying in the Park,
Seeking to hide her ſelf, as doth the Deer
That hath receiv'd ſome unſecuring Wound.
Tit. It was my Deer,
And he that wounded her
Hath hurt me more, than had he kill'd me dead:
For now I ſtand, as one upon a Rock,
Environ'd with a Wilderneſs of Sea,
Who makes the waxing Tide
Grow Wave by Wave,
Expecting ever when ſome envious Surge
Will in his briniſh Bowels ſwallow him.

This way to death my wretched Sons are gone:
Here ſtands my other Son, a baniſh'd man,
And here my Brother weeping at my woes.
But that which gives my Soul the greateſt ſpurn
Is dear Lavinia, dearer than my Soul.
Had I but ſeen thy Picture in this plight,
It would have madded me. What ſhall I do?
Now I behold thy lively body ſo?
Thou haſt no Hands to wipe away thy Tears,
Nor Tongue to tell me who hath martyr'd thee;
Thy Husband he is dead, and for his death
Thy Brothers are condemn'd, and dead by this.
Look Marcus, ah Son Lucius look on her:
When I did name her Brothers, then freſh tears
Stood on her cheeks, as doth the Honey dew,
Upon a gather'd Lillie almoſt withered.
Mar. Perchance ſhe weeps becauſe they kill'd her Huſband.
Perchance becauſe ſhe knows him innocent.
Tit. If they did kill thy Husband, then be joyful,
Becauſe the Law hath ta'ne revenge on them.
No, no, they would not do ſo foul a deed,
Witneſs the ſorrow that their Siſter makes.
Gentle Lavinia, let me kiſs thy lips,
Or make ſome ſigns how I may do thee eaſe:
Shall thy good Uncle, and thy Brother Lucius,
And thou and I ſit round about ſome Fountain,
Looking all downwards to behold our cheeks
How they are ſtain'd in Meadows yet not dry
With miery ſlime left on them by a flood:
And in the Fountain ſhall we gaze ſo long,
Till the freſh taſte be taken from that clearneſs,
And made a Brine-pit with our bitter tears?
Or ſhall we cut away our hands like thine?
Or ſhall we bite our tongues, and in dumb Shows
Paſs the remainder of our hateful days?
What ſhall we do? Let us that have our Tongues
Plot ſome deviſe of further miſeries
To make us wondred at in time to come.
Luc. Sweet Father, ceaſe your tears, for at your grief
See how my wretched Siſter ſobs and weeps.
Mar. Patience, dear Niece, good Titus drie thine Eyes.
Tit. Ah Marcus, Marcus, Brother, well I wot,
Thy Napkin cannot drink a tear of mine,
For thou, poor Man, haſt drown'd it with thine own.
Luc. Ah, my Lavinia, I will wipe thy Cheeks.
Tit. Mark, Marcus, mark, I underſtand her ſigns,
Had ſhe a Tongue to ſpeak, now would ſhe ſay
That to her Brother which I ſaid to thee.
His Napkin with his true tears all bewet,
Can do no ſervice on her ſorrowful cheeks.
Oh what a ſympathy of woe is this!
As far from help as Limbo is from Bliſs.

Enter Aaron the Moor alone.

Moor. Titus Andronicus, my Lord the Emperor,
Sends thee this word, that if thou love thy Sons,
Let Marcus, Lucius, or thy ſelf, old Titus,
Or any one of you chop off your Hand,
And ſend it to the King: he for the ſame,
Will ſend thee hither both thy Sons alive,
And that ſhall be the Ranſom for their fault.
Tit. Oh gracious Emperour, oh gentle Aaron.
Did ever Raven ſing ſo like a Lark,
That gives ſweet tydings of the Suns Upriſe?
With all my heart, I'le ſend the Emperour my hand,
Good Aaron wilt thou help to chop it off?
Luc. Stay, Father, for that noble hand of thine,
That hath thrown down ſo many Enemies,
Shall not be ſent: my hand will ſerve the turn.
My youth can better ſpare my Blood than you,
And therefore mine ſhall ſave my Brothers lives.
Mar. Which of your hands hath not defended Rome,
And rear'd aloft the bloody Battel-ax,
Writing deſtruction on the Enemies Caſtle?
Oh none of both but are of high deſert:
My hand hath been but idle, let it ſerve
To ranſome my two Nephews from their death,
Then have I kept it to a worthy end.
Moor. Nay, come agree, whoſe hand ſhall go along,
For fear they die before their Pardon come.
Mar. My hand ſhall go.
Luc. By Heaven it ſhall not go.
Ti. Sirs, ſtrive no more, ſuch wither'd herbs as theſe
Are meet for plucking up, and therefore mine.
Luc. Sweet Father, if I ſhall be thought thy Son,
Let me redeem my Brothers both from death.
Mar. And for our Fathers ſake, and Mothers care,
Now let me ſhew a Brothers love to thee.
Tit. Agree between you, I will ſpare my hand.
Luc. Then I'le go fetch an Ax.
Mar. But I will uſe the Ax. [Exeunt.
Tit. Come hither, Aaron, I'le deceive them both,
Lend me thy hand, and I will give thee mine.
Moor. If that be call'd deceit, I will be honeſt,
And never whil'ſt I live deceive men ſo:
But I'le deceive you in another ſort,
And that you'l ſay e're half an hour paſs.
[He cuts off Titus's hand.

Enter Lucius and Marcus again.

Tit. Now ſtay your ſtrife, what ſhall be, is diſpatcht:
Good Aaron, give his Majeſty my hand:
Tell him, it was a hand that warded him
From thouſand dangers, bid him bury it,
More hath it merited: That let it have.
As for my Sons, ſay, I account of them,
As Jewels purchas'd at an eaſie Price,
And yet dear too, becauſe I bought mine own.
Aaron. I go, Andronicus, and for thy hand
Look by and by to have thy Sons with thee:
Their Heads I mean: Oh, how this Villany
Doth fat me with the very thought of it.
Let fools do good, and fair men call for Grace,
Aaron will have his Soul black like his Face. [Exit.
Tit. O hear, I lift this one hand up to Heaven,
And bow this feeble ruine to the Earth,
If any Power pities wretched tears,
To that I call: what wilt thou kneel with me?
Do then, dear heart, for Heaven ſhall hear our Prayers,
Or with our ſighs we'l breathe the welkin dim,
And ſtain the Sun with Fogg, as ſometime Clouds,
When they do hug him in their melting boſoms.
Mar. Oh, Brother, ſpeak with Poſſibilities,
And do not break into theſe deep Extreams.
Tit. Is not my ſorrow deep, having no bottom?
Then be my paſſions bottomleſs with them.
Mar. But yet let Reaſon govern thy lament.
Tit. If there were Reaſon for theſe miſeries,
Then into limits could I bind my woes:
When Heaven doth weep, doth not the Earth o're-flow?
If the winds rage, doth not the Sea wax mad,
Threatning the welkin with his big-ſwoln Face?
And wilt thou have a reaſon for this coil?
I am the Sea. Heark how her ſighs do blow:
She is the weeping welkin, I the Earth:
Then muſt my Sea be moved with her ſighs,
Then muſt my Earth with her continual tears
Become a deluge, over-flow'd and drown'd:
For why, my Bowels cannot hide her Woes,
But like a Drunkard muſt I vomit them:
Then give me leave, for loſers will have leave,
To eaſe their Stomachs with their bitter Tongues.

Enter a Meſſenger with two Heads and a Hand.

Meſ. Worthy Andronicus, ill art thou repay'd,

For

For that good hand thou sent'st the Emperour:
Here are the heads of thy two Noble Sons.
And here's thy hand in scorn to thee sent back:
Thy griefs, their sports: Thy resolution mockt,
That woe is me to think upon thy woes,
More than remembrance of my Fathers death. [Exit.

Mar. Now let hot Ætna cool in Sicily,
And be my heart in ever-burning Hell:
These miseries are more than may be born.
To weep with them that weep, doth ease some deal,
But sorrow flouted at, is double death.

Luc. Ah that this sight should make so deep a wound,
And yet detested life not shrink thereat:
That ever death should let life bear his name,
Where life hath no more interest but to breathe.

Mar. Alas poor heart, that kiss is comfortless,
As frozen Water to a starved snake.

Tit. When will this fearful slumber have an end?

Mar. Now farewel flattery, die Andronicus,
Thou dost not slumber, see thy two Sons heads,
Thy warlike hand, thy mangled Daughter here:
Thy other banisht Son with this dear sight
Struck pale and bloodless, and thy Brother I,
Even like a stony Image, cold and num.
Ah now no more will I controul my griefs,
Rent off thy Silver hair, thy other hand
Gnawing with thy teeth, and be this dismal sight
The closing up of our most wretched eyes;
Now is a time to storm, why art thou still?

Tit. Ha, ha, ha.

Mar. Why dost thou laugh? it fits not with this hour.

Tit. Why I have not another tear to shed:
Besides, this sorrow is an Enemy,
And would usurp upon my watry eyes,
And make them blind with tributary tears,
Then which way shall I find Revenges Cave?
For these two Heads do seem to speak to me,
And threat me, I shall never come to bliss,
Till all these mischiefs be return'd again,
Even in their Throats that have committed them.
Come let me see what task I have to do;
You heavy people circle me about,
That I may turn me to each one of you,
And swear unto my Soul to right your wrongs.
The Vow is made, come Bro[illegible] take a head,
And in this hand the other will I bear,
Lavinia, thou shalt be employ'd in these things:
Bear thou my hand, sweet wench, between thy teeth:
As for thee, Boy, go get thee from my sight,
Thou art an Exile, and thou must not stay,
Hie to the Gothes, and raise an Army there,
And if you love me, as I think you do,
Let's kiss and part, for we have much to do. [Exeunt.

Manet Lucius.

Luc. Farewel Andronicus, my Noble Father:
The woful'st man that ever liv'd in Rome:
Farewel, proud Rome, till Lucius come again,
He loves his pledges dearer than his life:
Farewel Lavinia, my Noble Sister,
O would thou wert as thou to fore hast been,
But now, nor Lucius nor Lavinia lives
But in oblivion and hateful griefs:
If Lucius live, he will requite your wrongs,
And make proud Saturninus and his Empress
Beg at the Gates like Tarquin and his Queen,
Now will I to the Gothes and raise a Power,
To be reveng'd on Rome and Saturnine. [Exit Lucius.

A Banquet.

Enter Andronicus, Marcus, Lavinia, and the Boy.

An. So, so, now sit, and look you eat no more
Than will preserve just so much strength in us,
As will revenge these bitter woes of ours.
Marcus unknit that sorrow-wreathen knot:
Thy Niece and I (poor Creatures) want our hands
And cannot passionate our ten-fold grief,
With foulded Arms. This poor-right hand of mine
Is left to tyrannize upon my breast,
Who when my heart, all mad with misery,
Beats in this hollow prison of my flesh,
Then thus I thump it down.
Thou Map of Woe, that thus dost talk in signs,
When thy poor heart beats with outragious beating,
Thou canst not strike it thus to make it still:
Wound it with sighing, Girl, kill it with groans:
Or get some little knife between thy teeth,
And just against thy heart make thou a hole,
That all the tears that thy poor eyes let fall
May run into that sink, and soaking in,
Drown the lamenting fool in Sea-salt tears.

Mar. Fie, Brother, fie, teach her not thus to lay
Such violent hands upon her tender life.

An. How now! Has sorrow made thee doat already?
Why, Marcus, no man should be mad but I:
What violent hands can she lay on her life?
Ah, wherefore dost thou urge the name of hands;
To bid Æneas tell the tale twice o're,
How Troy was burnt, and he made miserable?
O handle not the Theam, to talk of hands,
Lest we remember still that we have none.
Fie, fie, how Frantiquely I square my talk
As if we should forget we had no hands,
If Marcus did not name the word of hands?
Come, let's fall too, and gentle Girl eat this,
Here is no drink: Hearke, Marcus, what she says,
I can interpret all her martyr'd signs,
She says, she drinks no other drink but tears
Brew'd with her sorrows, mesh'd upon her Cheeks.
Speechless complaint, O I will learn thy thought.
In thy dumb action will I be as perfect
As begging Hermits in their holy Prayers.
Thou shalt not sigh, nor hold thy stumps to Heaven,
Nor wink, nor nod, nor kneel, nor make a sign,
But I (of these) will wrest an Alphabet,
And by still Practice, learn to know thy meaning.

Boy. Good Grandsire leave these bitter deep Laments,
Make my Aunt merry, with some pleasing Tale.

Mar. Alas, the tender Boy, in passion mov'd,
Doth weep to see his Grandsires heavines.

An. Peace tender sapling, thou art made of tears,
And tears will quickly melt thy life away.

Marcus strikes the dish with a Knife.

What dost thou strike at Marcus with thy Knife?

Mar. At that that I have kill'd, my Lord, a Fly.

An. Out on thee, Murderer: thou kill'st my heart,
Mine eyes are cloy'd with view of Tyranny:
A deed of death done on the Innocent
Becomes not Titus Brother; get thee gone,
I see thou art not for my company.

Mar. Alas, (my Lord) I have but kill'd a Fly.

An. But, how if that Fly had a Father and Mother?
How would he hang his slender gilded wings,
And buz lamenting doings in the Air?
Poor harmless Fly,
That with his pretty buzzing melody,
Came here to make us merry,
And thou hast kill'd him.

Mar. Pardon me, Sir,
It was a black ill-favour'd Fly,
Like to the Empress Moor, therefore I kill'd him.

An. O, o, o,
Then pardon me for reprehending thee,
For thou hast done a Charitable deed:
Give me thy Knife, I will insult on him,
Flattering my self, as if it were the Moor,
Come hither purposely to poison me.
There's for thy self, and that's for Tamora; Ah sirra,

Yet

Yet I think we are not brought so low,
But that between us we can kill a Fly,
That comes in likeness of a Cole-black Moor.
Mar. Alas poor man, grief has so wrought in him,
He takes false shadows for true substances.
And, Come, take away; Lavinia, go with me,
I'le to thy Closet, and go read with thee
Sad Stories, chanced in the times of old.
Come, Boy, and go with me, thy sight is young,
And thou shalt read, when mine begin to dazle. [Exeunt.

Actus Quartus.

Enter young Lucius, and Lavinia running after him, and the Boy flies from her with his Books under his Arm. Enter Titus and Marcus.

Boy. Help, Grandsire, help, my Aunt Lavinia
Follows me every where, I know not why.
Good Uncle Marcus, see how swift she comes:
Alas, sweet Aunt, I know not what you mean.
Mar. Stand by me, Lucius, do not fear thy Aunt.
Tit. She loves thee, Boy, too well to do thee harm.
Boy. I, when my Father was in Rome she did.
Ma. What means my Neece Lavinia by these signs?
Tit. Fear not, Lucius, somewhat doth she mean:
See, Lucius, see, how much she makes of thee:
Some whither would she have thee go with her.
Ah, Boy, Cornelia never with more care
Read to her Sons, than she hath read to thee,
Sweet Poetry, and Tullies Orator:
Canst thou not guess, wherefore she plies thee thus?
Boy. My Lord, I know not, nor can I guess,
Unless some fit or frensie do possess her:
For I have heard my Grandsire say full oft,
Extremity of griefs would make men mad.
And I have read that Hecuba of Troy
Ran mad through sorrow, that made me to fear,
Although, my Lord, I know my Noble Aunt
Loves me as dear as e're my Mother did,
And would not but in fury fright my Youth,
Which made me down to throw my Books, and flye
Causless perhaps, but pardon me, sweet Aunt,
And, Madam, if my Uncle Marcus go,
I most willingly attend your Lady-ship.
Mar. Lucius, I will.
Tit. How now, Lavinia? Marcus, what means this?
Some book there is that she desires to see,
Which is it, Girl, of these? Open them, Boy,
But thou art deeper read, and better skill'd,
Come and take choice of all my Library,
And so beguile thy Sorrow, till the Heavens
Reveal the damn'd contriver of this deed:
What Book?
Why lifts she up her Arms in sequence thus?
Mar. I think she means that there was more than one
Confederate in the Fact. I, more there was:
Or else to Heaven she heaves them to revenge.
Tit. Lucius, what Book is that she tosseth so?
Boy. Grandsire, 'tis Ovids Metamorphosis,
My mother gave it me.
Mar. For love of her that's gone,
Perhaps she cull'd it from among the rest.
Tit. Soft, so busily she turns the leaves.
Help her, what would she find? Lavinia, shall I read?
This is the Tragick tale of Philomel,
And treats of Tereus Treason and his Rape,
And Rape I fear was root of thine annoy.
Mar. See, Brother, see, note how she quotes the leaves.
Tit. Lavinia, wert thou thus surpriz'd, sweet Girl,
Ravish'd and wrong'd, as Philomela was,
Forc'd in the ruthless, vast, and gloomy woods?
See, see, I such a place there is, where we did hunt,
(O had we never, never hunted there)
Pattern'd by that the Poet here describes,
By Nature made for Murders and for Rapes.
Mar. O, why should Nature build so foul a Den,
Unless the Gods delight in Tragedies?
Tit. Give signs, sweet Girl, for here are none but Friends,
What Roman Lord it was durst do the deed?
Or slunk not Saturnine, as Tarquin erst,
That left the Camp to sin in Lucrece bed?
Mar. Sit down, sweet Neece, Brother, sit down by me,
Apollo, Pallas, Jove, or Mercury,
Inspire me that I may this Treason find.
My Lord, look here, look here, Lavinia.

He writes his Name with his Staff, and guides it with his Feet and Mouth.

This sandy Plot is plain, guide if thou canst
This after me, when I have writ my Name,
Without the help of any hand at all.
Curst be that Heart that forc'd us to this shift:
Write thou, good Niece, and here display at last,
What God will have discover'd for Revenge,
Heaven guide thy pen to print thy Sorrows plain,
That we may know the Traytors and the Truth.

She takes the Staff in her Mouth, and guides it with her stumps, and writes.

Tit. Oh do you read, my Lord, what she hath writ?
Stuprum, Chiron, Demetrius.
Mar. What, what, the lustful Sons of Tamora,
Performers of this hainous bloody deed?
Tit. Magni Dominator Poli,
Tam lentus audis scelera! tam lentus vides!
Mar. Oh calm thee, gentle Lord: Although I know
There is enough written upon this Earth,
To stir a Mutiny in the mildest thoughts,
And arm the minds of Infants to exclaims.
My Lord, kneel down with me: Lavinia, kneel,
And kneel, sweet Boy, the Roman Hectors hope,
And swear with me, as with the woful Peer,
And Father of that chast dishonoured Dame,
Lord Junius Brutus sware for Lucrece Rape,
That we will prosecute (by good advice)
Mortal revenge upon these Trayterous Gothes,
And see their Blood, or die with this Reproach.
Tit. 'Tis sure enough, and you knew how.
But if you hunt these Bear-whelps, then beware
The Dam will wake, and if she wind you once,
She's with the Lion deeply still in league,
And lulls him whilst she playeth on her back,
And when he sleeps will she do what she list.
You are a young Huntsman, Marcus, let it alone:
And come, I will go get a leaf of Brass,
And with a Gad of Steel will write these words,
And lay it by: the angry Northern wind
Will blow these Sands like Sybils leaves abroad,
And where's your Lesson then? Boy, what say you?
Boy. I say, my Lord, that if I were a Man,
Their Mothers Bed-chamber should not be safe,
For these bad Bond-men to the yoak of Rome.
Mar. I, that's my Boy, thy Father hath full oft
For his ungrateful Country done the like.
Boy. And, Uncle, so will I, and if I live.
Tit. Come, go with me into mine Armory,
Lucius I'le fit thee, and withall, my Boy
Shall carry from me to the Empress Sons,
Presents that I intend to send them both,
Come, come, thou'lt do thy Message, wilt thou not?
Boy. I, with my Dagger in their Bosome, Grandsire.
Tit. No, Boy, not so, I'le teach thee another Course,
Lavinia, come; Marcus, look to my House,
Lucius and I'le go brave it at the Court,

I

I marry will we, Sir, and we'll be waited on. [Exeunt.
Mar. O Heavens, can you hear a good Man groan,
And not relent, or not compaſſion him?
Marcus attend him in his extaſie,
That hath more ſcars of Sorrow in his Heart,
Than Foe-mens marks upon his battered Shield,
But yet ſo juſt, that he will not revenge,
Revenge the Heavens for old Andronicus. [Exit.

Enter Aaron, Chiron, and Demetrius at one Door: and at another Door young Lucius and another, with a bundle of Weapons, and Verſes writ upon them.

Chi. Demetrius, here's the Son of Lucius,
He hath ſome meſſage to deliver us.
Aar. I, ſome mad Meſſage from his mad Grandfather.
Boy. My Lords, with all the humbleneſs I may,
I greet your Honours from Andronicus,
And pray the Roman Gods confound you both.
Dem. Gramercy lovely Lucius, what's the News?
Boy. For Villains mark'd with Rape. May it pleaſe you,
My Grandſire, well advis'd hath ſent by me,
The goodlieſt Weapons of his Armory,
To gratifie your Honourable Youth,
The hope of Rome, for ſo he bad me ſay:
And ſo I do, and with his gifts preſent
Your Lordſhips, when ever you have need,
You may be armed and appointed well,
And ſo I leave you both, like bloody Villains. [Exit.
Dem. What's here, a Scrole, and written round about?
Let's ſee.
Integer vitæ ſceleriſque purus, non eget Mauri jaculis nec arcu.
Chir. O'tis a Verſe in Horace, I know it well:
I read it in the Grammar long ago.
Moor. I juſt, a Verſe in Horace: right, you have it,
Now what a thing it is to be an Aſs?
Here's no ſound jeſt, th' old Man hath found their Guilt,
And ſends the Weapons, wrapt about with Lines.
That wound (beyond their feeling) to the quick:
But were our witty Empreſs well a foot,
She would applaud Andronicus conceit:
But let her reſt, in her unreſt a while.
And now, young Lords, was't not a happy Star
Led us to Rome ſtrangers, and more than ſo,
Captives, to be advanc'd to this height?
It did me good, before the Palace Gate
To brave the Tribune in his Brothers hearing.
Dem. But me more good, to ſee ſo great a Lord
Baſely inſinuate, and ſend us gifts.
Moor. Had he not reaſon, Lord Demetrius?
Did you not uſe his Daughter very friendly?
Dem. I would we had a thouſand Roman Dames
At ſuch a bay, by turn to ſerve our Luſt.
Chi. A charitable wiſh, and full of Love.
Moor. Here lacks but your Mother for to ſay, Amen.
Chi. And that would ſhe for twenty thouſand more.
Dem. Come, let us go, and pray to all the Gods
For our beloved Mother in her pains.
Moor. Pray to the Devils, the Gods have given us over.
[Flouriſh.
Dem. Why do the Emperours Trumpets flouriſh thus?
Chi. Belike for joy the Emperour hath a Son.
Dem. Soft, who comes here?

Enter Nurſe with a black-a-Moor Child.

Nurſe. Good morrow, Lords:
O tell me, did you ſee Aaron the Moor?
Aaron. Well, more or leſs, or ne're a whit at all,
Here Aaron is, and what with Aaron now?
Nurſe. O gentle Aaron, we are all undone.
Now help, or woe betide thee evermore.
Aaron. Why, what a Caterwalling doſt thou keep?
What doſt thou wrap and fumble in thine Arms?
Nurſe. O that which I would hide from Heavens Eye,
Our Empreſs's ſhame, and ſtately Romes diſgrace,
She is delivered, Lords, ſhe is delivered.
Aaron. To whom?
Nurſe. I mean, ſhe is brought to bed?
Aaron. Well, God give her good reſt.
What hath he ſent her?
Nurſe. A Devil.
Aar. Why then ſhe is the Devils Dam: a joyful iſſue.
Nurſe. A joyleſs, diſmal, black and ſorrowful iſſue,
Here is the Babe, as loathſome as a Toad,
Amongſt the faireſt breeders of our clime,
The Empreſs ſends it thee, thy ſtamp, thy Seal,
And bids thee Chriſten it with thy Daggers point.
Aaron. Out you Whore, is black ſo baſe a hue?
Sweet blowſe, you are a beauteous bloſſom ſure.
Dem. Villain, what haſt thou done?
Aaron. That which thou can'ſt not undo.
Chi. Thou haſt undone our Mother.
Dem. And therein, helliſh Dog, thou haſt undone——
Woe to her chance, and damn'd her loathed choice,
Accur'ſt the off-ſpring of ſo foul a Fiend.
Chi. It ſhall not live.
Aaron. It ſhall not dye.
Nurſe. Aaron, it muſt, the Mother wills it ſo.
Aaron. What, muſt it, Nurſe? Then let no man but I
Do Execution on my fleſh and blood.
Dem. I'le broach the Tadpole on my Rapiers point:
Nurſe, give it me, my Sword ſhall ſoon diſpatch it.
Aaron. Sooner this Sword ſhall plough thy Bowels up.
Stay murtherous Villains, will you kill your Brother?
Now by the burning Tapers of the Sky,
That ſhone ſo brightly when this Boy was got,
He dies upon my Semitars ſharp point,
That touches this my firſt-born Son and Heir.
I tell you, younglings, not Enceladus
With all his threatning band of Typhon's brood,
Nor Great Alcides, nor the God of War,
Shall ſeize this prey out of his Fathers Hands:
What, what, ye ſanguine ſhallow-hearted Boys,
Ye white-lim'd Walls, ye Ale-houſe painted Signs,
Cole-black is better than another hue:
In that it ſcorns to bear another hue,
For all the Water in the Ocean
Can never turn the Swans black legs to white,
Although ſhe lave them hourly in the Flood.
Tell the Empereſs from me, I am of age
To keep mine own, excuſe it how ſhe can.
Dem. Wilt thou betray thy Noble Miſtreſs thus?
Aaron. My Miſtreſs is my Miſtreſs: this, my ſelf,
The Vigour, and the Picture of my Youth:
This, before all the World do I prefer,
This, maugre all the World, will I keep ſafe,
Or ſome of you ſhall ſmoke for it in Rome.
Dem. By this our Mother is for ever ſham'd.
Chi. Rome will deſpiſe her for this foul eſcape.
Nur. The Emperour in his rage will doom her Death.
Chi. I bluſh to think upon this Ignominy.
Aaron. Why there's the priviledge your beauty bears:
Fie treacherous hue, that will betray with bluſhing
The cloſe enacts and counſels of the Heart:
Here's a young Lad fram'd of another leer,
Look how the black Slave ſmiles upon the Father;
As who ſhould ſay, old Lad I am thine own.
He is your Brother, Lords, ſenſibly fed
Of that ſelf-blood that firſt gave life to you,
And from that Womb where you impriſoned were,
He is infranchiſed and come to light:
Nay, he is your Brother by the ſurer ſide,
Although my Seal be ſtamped in his Face.
Nurſe. Aaron, what ſhall I ſay unto the Empreſs?
Dem. Adviſe thee, Aaron, what is to be done,
And we will all ſubſcribe to thy advice:

Save

Save thou the Child, ſo we may all be ſafe.
Aaron. Then ſit we down, and let us all conſult.
My Son and I will have the wind of you:
Keep there, now talk at pleaſure of your ſafety.
Dem. How many women ſaw this Child of his?
Aaron. Why ſo, brave Lords, when we all joyn in league,
I am a Lamb: but if you brave the Moor,
The chafed Boar, the Mountain Lioneſs,
The Ocean ſwells not ſo as Aaron ſtorms:
But ſay again, how many ſaw the Child?
Nurſe. Cornelia the Midwife, and my ſelf,
And none elſe but the delivered Empreſs.
Aaron. The Empreſs, the Midwife, and your ſelf,
Two may keep Counſel, when the third's away:
Go to the Empreſs, tell her, this I ſaid, [He kills her.
Week, week, ſo cries a Pig prepar'd to th' Spit.
Dem. What mean'ſt thou, Aaron?
Wherefore did'ſt thou this?
Aaron. O Lord, Sir, 'tis a deed of Policy:
Shall ſhe live to betray this Guilt of ours?
A long-tongu'd babling Goſſip? No, Lords, no:
And now be it known to you my full intent.
Not far, one Muliteus, my Country-man,
His Wife but yeſternight was brought to Bed,
His Child is like to her, fair as you are:
Go pack with him, and give the Mother Gold,
And tell them both the circumſtance of all,
And how by this their Child ſhall be advanc'd,
And be received for the Emperour's Heir,
And ſubſtituted in the place of mine,
To calm this tempeſt whirling in the Court,
And let the Emperour dandle him for his own.
Hark ye, Lords, ye ſee I have given her Phyſick,
And you muſt needs beſtow her Funeral,
The Fields are near, and you are gallant Grooms:
This done, ſee that you take no longer Days
But ſend the Midwife preſently to me.
The Midwife and the Nurſe well made away,
Then let the Ladies tattle what they pleaſe.
Chi. Aaron, I ſee thou wilt not truſt the Air with ſecrets.
Dem. For this care of Tamora,
Her ſelf, and hers are highly bound to thee. [Exeunt.
Aaron. Now to the Goths, as ſwift as Swallow flies,
There to diſpoſe this treaſure in mine Arms,
And ſecretly to greet the Empreſs Friends:
Come on you thick-lipt-ſlave, I'le bear you hence,
For it is you that puts us to our ſhifts:
I'le make you feed on Berries, and on Roots,
And feed on Curds, and Whay, and ſuck the Goat,
And Cabin in a Cave, and bring you up
To be a Warriour, and command a Camp. [Exit.

Enter Titus, old Marcus, young Lucius, and other Gentlemen with Bows, and Titus bears the Arrows with Letters on the end of them.

Tit. Come, Marcus, come Kinſmen, this is the way.
Sir Boy, now let me ſee your Archery,
Look ye draw home enough, and 'tis there ſtraight:
Terras Aſtræa reliquit, be you remembred, Marcus.
She's gone, ſhe's fled, Sirs, take you to your Tools,
You, Couſins, ſhall go ſound the Ocean:
And caſt your Nets, haply you may find her in the Sea,
Yet there's as little Juſtice as at Land:
No Publius and Sempronius, you muſt do it,
'Tis you muſt dig with Mattock and with Spade,
And pierce the inmoſt Center of the Earth:
Then when you come to Pluto's Region,
I pray you to deliver him this Petition,
Tell him it is for Juſtice, and for Aid,
And that it comes from old Andronicus,
Shaken with ſorrows in ungrateful Rome.
Ah, Rome! Well, well, I made thee miſerable,
What time I threw the Peoples Suffrages
On him that thus doth Tyrannize o're me.
Go get you gone, and pray be careful all,
And leave you not a man of War unſearch'd,
This wicked Emperour may have ſhipt her hence,
And Kinſmen then we may go pipe for Juſtice.
Mar. O, Publius, is not this a heavy caſe
To ſee thy Noble Uncle thus diſtract?
Pub. Therefore, my Lord, it highly us concerns,
By Day and Night t'attend him carefully:
And feed his humour kindly as we may,
Till time beget ſome careful remedy.
Mar. Kinſmen, his Sorrows are paſt remedy.
Joyn with the Goths, and with revengeful War,
Take wreak on Rome for this Ingratitude,
And Vengeance on the Traytor Saturnine.
Tit. Publius, how now? how now, my Maſters,
What have you met with her?
Pub. No, my good Lord, but Pluto ſends you word,
If you will have revenge from Hell, you ſhall;
Marry for Juſtice ſhe is ſo imploy'd,
He thinks with Jove in Heaven, or ſome where elſe:
So that perforce you muſt needs ſtay a time.
Tit. He doth me wrong to feed me with delays,
I'le dive into the burning Lake below,
And pull her out of Acheron by the heels.
Marcus, we are but Shrubs, no Cedars we,
No big-bon'd-men, fram'd of the Cyclops ſize,
But Metal, Marcus, Steel to the very back,
Yet wrung with wrongs more than our Backs can bear.
And ſith there's no Juſtice in Earth nor Hell,
We will ſolicit Heaven, and move the Gods
To ſend down Juſtice for to wreak our wrongs:
Come to this Gear, you are a good Archer, Marcus.
[He gives them the Arrows.
Ad Jovem, that's for you: here ad Apollonem,
Ad Martem, that's for my ſelf,
Here Boy, to Pallas, here to Mercury,
To Saturnine, to Cains, not to Saturnine,
You were as good to ſhoot againſt the Wind.
To it, Boy, Marcus, looſe when I bid:
Of my word, I have written to effect,
There's not a God left unſolicited.
Mar. Kinſmen, ſhoot all your ſhafts into the Court,
We will afflict the Emperour in his Pride.
Tit. Now Maſters, draw, Oh well ſaid, Lucius:
Good Boy in Virgo's lap, give it Pallas.
Mar. My Lord, I aim a Mile beyond the Moon.
Your Letter is with Jupiter by this.
Tit. Ha, ha, Publius, Publius, what haſt thou done?
See, ſee, thou haſt ſhot off one of Taurus's Horns.
Mar. This was the ſport, my Lord, when Publius ſhot,
The Bull being gall'd, gave Aries ſuch a knock,
That down fell both the Rams Horns in the Court,
And who ſhould find them but the Empreſs Villain:
She laugh'd, and told the Moor he ſhould not chuſe
But give them to his Maſter for a preſent.
Tit. Why there it goes, God give your Lordſhip joy.

Enter the Clown with a Basket and two Pidgeons.

Tit. News, News from Heaven.
Marcus, the Poſt is come.
Sirrah, what tydings, have you any Letters?
Shall I have Juſtice, what ſays Jupiter?
Clow. Ho the Gibbet-maker, he ſays that he hath taken them down again, for the Man muſt not be hang'd till the next Week.
Tit. Tut, what ſays Jupiter, I ask thee?
Clow. Alas, Sir, I know not Jupiter,
I never drank with him in all my Life.
Tit. Why Villain, art not thou the Carrier?
Clow. I, of my Pidgeons, Sir, nothing elſe.
Tit. Why, did'ſt thou not come from Heaven?
Clow. From Heaven? Alas, Sir, I never came there,

God

God forbid I ſhould be ſo bold to preſs to Heaven in my young days. Why I am going with my Pidgeons to the Tribunal Plebs, to take up a matter of brawl, betwixt my Uncle, and one of the Emperials Men.

Mar. Why, Sir, that is as fit as can be to ſerve for your Oration, and let him deliver the Pidgeons to the Emperour from you.

Tit. Tell me, can you deliver an Oration to the Emperour with a Grace?

Clow. Nay, truly, Sir, I could never ſay Grace in all my Life.

Tit. Sirrah, come hither, make no more ado,
But give your Pidgeons to the Emperour.
By me thou ſhalt have Juſtice at his Hands.
Hold, hold, mean while here's Money for thy Charges.
Give me a Pen and Ink.
Sirrah, can you with a Grace deliver a Supplication?

Clow. I, Sir.

Tit. Then here is a Supplication for you, and when you come to him, at the firſt approach you muſt kneel, then kiſs his Foot, then deliver up your Pidgeons, and then look for your reward. I'le be at hand, Sir, ſee you do it bravely.

Clow. I warrant you, Sir, let me alone.

Tit. Sirrah, haſt thou a Knife? Come let me ſee it.
Here, Marcus, fold it in the Oration,
For thou haſt made it like an humble Suppliant,
And when thou haſt given it the Emperour,
Knock at my Door, and tell me what he ſays.

Clow. God be with you, Sir, I will.

Tit. Come, Marcus, let us go, Publius follow me.

[Exeunt.

Enter Emperour and Empreſs, and her two Sons, the Emperour brings the Arrows in his hand, that Titus ſhot at him.

Sat. Why Lords,
What wrongs are theſe? was ever ſeen
An Emperour in Rome thus over-born,
Troubled, confronted thus, and for the extent
Of equal Juſtice, us'd in ſuch contempt?
My Lords, you know the might'ful Gods,
(However theſe diſturbers of our Peace
Buz in the Peoples Ears) there nought hath paſt,
But even with Law againſt the wilfull Sons
Of old Andronicus. And what and if
His Sorrows have ſo over-whelm'd his Wits,
Shall we be thus afflicted in his wreaks,
His fits, his frenzy, and his bitterneſs?
And now he writes to Heaven for his redreſs.
See, heres to Jove, and this to Mercury,
This to Apollo, this to the God of War:
Sweet ſcrowls to flie about the ſtreets of Rome:
What's this but Libelling againſt the Senate,
And blazoning our injuſtice every where?
A goodly humour, is it not, my Lords?
As who would ſay, in Rome no juſtice were.
But if I live, his feigned Extaſies
Shall be no ſhelter to theſe outrages:
But he and his ſhall know, that Juſtice lives
In Saturninus health, whom if he ſleep,
He'll ſo awake, as he in fury ſhall
Cut off the proud'ſt Conſpirator that lives.

Tam My gracious Lord, my lovely Saturnine,
Lord of my life, Commander of my thoughts,
Calm thee, and bear the faults of Titus age,
Th'effects of Sorrow for his valiant Sons,
Whoſe loſs hath pierc'd him deep, and ſcarr'd his Heart;
And rather comfort his diſtreſſed plight,
Than proſecute the meaneſt or the beſt
For theſe contempts. Why thus it ſhall become High witted Tamora to gloſe with all:
But Titus, I have touch'd thee to the quick,
Thy life-blood on't: if Aaron now be wiſe,
Then is all ſafe, the Anchor's in the Port.

Enter Clown.

How now, good Fellow, wouldſt thou ſpeak with us?

Clow. Yea forſooth, and your Miſterſhip be Emperial.

Tam. Empreſs I am, but yonder ſits the Emperour.

Clo. 'Tis he: God and Saint Stephen give you good-e'en,
I have brought you a Letter, and a couple of Pidgeons here.

[He reads the Letter.

Sat. Go, take him away, and hang him preſently.

Clow. How much Money muſt I have?

Tam. Come, Sirrah, thou muſt be hang'd.

Clow. Hang'd? by'r Lady, then I have brought up a Neck to a fair end. [Exit.

Sat. Deſpightful and intolerable wrongs,
Shall I endure this Monſtrous Villany?
I know from whence this ſame device proceeds:
May this be born? As if his Trayterous Sons,
That dy'd by Law for Murther of our Brother,
Have by my means been butcher'd wrongfully?
Go, drag the Villain hither by the Hair,
Nor Age, nor Honour, ſhall ſhape priviledge:
For this proud mock, I'le be thy Slaughter-man:
Sly frantick wretch, that holp'ſt to make me great,
In hope thy ſelf ſhould govern Rome and me.

Enter Nuntius Æmilius.

Sat. What News with thee, Æmilius?

Æmil. Arm my Lords, Rome never had more cauſe,
The Goths have gather'd head, and with a Power
Of High reſolved men, bent to the ſpoyl
They hither march amain, under the conduct
Of Lucius, Son to old Andronicus:
Who threats in courſe of this revenge to do
As much as ever Coriolanus did.

Sat. Is warlike Lucius General of the Goths?
Theſe tydings nip me, and I hang the head
As Flowers with Froſt, or Graſs beat down with Storms.
I, now begin our ſorrows to approach,
'Tis he the common people love ſo much,
My ſelf hath often heard them ſay,
(When I have walked like a private man)
That Lucius baniſhment was wrongfully,
And they have wiſh'd, that Lucius were their Emperour.

Tam. Why ſhould you fear? Is not our City ſtrong?

Sat. I, but the Citizens favour Lucius,
And will revolt from me, to ſuccour him.

Tam. King, be thy thoughts imperious like thy Name.
Is the Sun dim'd, that Gnats do flie in it?
The Eagle ſuffers little Birds to ſing,
And is not careful what they mean thereby,
Knowing that with the ſhadow of his Wings,
He can at pleaſure ſtint their melody.
Even ſo may'ſt thou, the giddy men of Rome;
Then cheer thy ſpirit, for know, thou Emperour,
I will enchant the old Andronicus,
With words more ſweet, and yet more dangerous
Than baits to fiſh, or honey ſtalks to ſheep,
When as the one is wounded with the bait,
The other rotted with delicious Food.

King. But he will not intreat his Son for us.

Tam. If Tamora intreat him, then he will,
For I can ſmooth and fill his aged Ear
With golden promiſes, that were his Heart
Almoſt impregnable, his old ears deaf,
Yet ſhould both Ear and Heart obey my Tongue.
Go thou before to our Embaſſadour,
Say, that the Emperour requeſts a parly
Of warlike Lucius, and appoint the meeting.

King. Æmilius, do this meſſage Honourably,
And if he ſtand on Hoſtage for his ſafety,
Bid him demand what pledge will pleaſe him beſt.

Æmil. Your bidding ſhall I do effectually. [Exit.

Tam. Now will I to that old Andronicus,
And temper him with all the Art I have,
To pluck proud Lucius from the warlike Goths.
And now, ſweet Emperour, be blith again,
And bury all thy Fear in my Devices.

Sat. Then go ſucceſſantly and plead for him. [Exit.

Actus Quintus.

Enter Lucius with an Army of Gothes, with Drum and Souldiers.

Lu. Approved Warriours, and my faithful Friends,
I have received Letters from Great Rome,
Which ſignifies what hate they bear their Emperour,
And how deſirous of our ſight they are.
Therefore, great Lords, be as your Titles witneſs,
Imperious and impatient of your wrongs,
And wherein Rome hath done you any ſcathe,
Let him make treble ſatisfaction.
Goth. Brave ſlip, ſprung from the Great Andronicus,
Whoſe Name was once our Terror, now our Comfort,
Whoſe high Exploits, and honourable Deeds,
Ingrateful Rome requites with foul contempt:
Be bold in us, we'll follow where thou lead'ſt,
Like ſtinging Bees in hotteſt Summers day,
Led by their Maſter to the flowred Fields,
And be aveng'd on curſed Tamora.
Omn. And as he ſaith, ſo ſay we all with him.
Lu. I humbly thank him, and I thank you all.
But who comes here led by a luſty Goth?

Enter a Goth leading Aaron with his Child in his arms.

Goth. Renowned Lucius, from our Troops I ſtraid
To gaze upon a ruinous Monaſtery,
And as I earneſtly did fix mine Eye
Upon the waſted building, ſuddenly
I heard a Child cry underneath a wall:
I made unto the noiſe, when ſoon I heard,
The crying Babe controll'd with this diſcourſe:
Peace, Tawny Slave, half me, and half thy Dam,
Did not thy Hue bewray whoſe Brat thou art,
Had Nature lent thee but thy Mothers look,
Villain, thou might'ſt have been an Emperour.
But where the Bull and Cow are both Milk-white,
They never do beget a Cole-black Calf.
Peace, Villain, peace, (even thus he rates the Babe)
For I muſt bear thee to a truſty Goth,
Who when he knows thou art the Empreſs Babe,
Will hold thee dearly for thy Mothers ſake.
With this, my Weapon drawn I ruſht upon him,
Surpriz'd him ſuddenly, and brought him hither,
To uſe, as you think needful of the Man.
Lu. Oh worthy Goth, this is the incarnate Devil,
That robb'd Andronicus of his good hand:
This is the Pearl that pleas'd your Empreſs's Eye,
And here's the baſe Fruit of his burning Luſt.
Say, wall-ey'd Slave, whither would'ſt thou convey
This growing Image of thy Fiend-like Face?
Why doſt not ſpeak? what deaf? no! Not a word?
A Halter, Souldiers, hang him on this Tree,
And by his ſide his Fruit of Baſtardy.
Aaron. Touch not the Boy, he is of Royal blood.
Lu. Too like the Syre for ever being good.
Firſt hang the Child, that he may ſee it ſprall,
A ſight to vex the Fathers Soul withal.
Aaron. Get me a Ladder, Lucius, ſave the Child,
And bear it from me to the Empreſs:
If thou do this, I'le ſhew thee wondrous things,
That highly may advantage thee to hear;
If thou wilt not, befall what may befall,
I'le ſpeak no more: but Vengeance rot you all.
Lu. Say on, and if it pleaſe me, which thou ſpeak'ſt
Thy Child ſhall live, and I will ſee it Nouriſh'd.
Aaron. And if it pleaſe thee? why aſſure thee, Lucius,
'Twill vex thy Soul to hear what I ſhall ſpeak:
For I muſt talk of Murthers, Rapes, and Maſſacres,
Acts of Black-night, abominable Deeds,
Complots of Michief, Treaſon, Villanies
Ruthful to hear, yet piteouſly perform'd,
And this ſhall all be buried by my death,
Unleſs thou ſwear to me my Child ſhall live.
Lu. Tell on thy mind,
I ſay thy Child ſhall live.
Aaron. Swear that he ſhall, and then I will begin.
Lu. Who ſhould I ſwear by?
Thou believeſt no God,
That granted, how can'ſt thou believe an Oath?
Aaron. What if I do not, as indeed I do not,
Yet for I know thou art Religious,
And haſt a thing within thee call'd Conſcience,
With twenty Popiſh tricks and Ceremonies,
Which I have ſeen thee careful to obſerve:
Therefore I urge thy Oath, for that I know
An Idiot holds his Bauble for a God,
And keeps the Oath, which by that God he ſwears,
To that I'le urge him: therefore thou ſhalt vow
By that ſame God, what God ſo e're it be
That thou adoreſt and haſt in reverence,
To ſave my Boy, nouriſh and bring him up,
Or elſe I will diſcover nought to thee.
Lu. Even by my God I ſwear to thee, I will.
Aaron. Firſt know thou,
I begot him on thy Empreſs.
Lu. Oh moſt inſatiate luxurious Woman!
Aaron. Tut, Lucius, this was but a deed of Charity,
To that which thou ſhalt hear of me anon,
'Twas her two Sons that murdered Baſſianus,
They cut thy Siſters Tongue, and Raviſht her,
And cut her Hands off, and trimm'd her as thou ſaw'ſt.
Lu. Oh deteſtable Villain!
Call'ſt thou that trimming?
Aaron. Why ſhe was waſht, and cut, and trimm'd,
And 'twas trim ſport for them that had the doing of it.
Lu. Oh barbarous beaſtly Villains like thy ſelf!
Aaron. Indeed, I was their Tutor to inſtruct them,
That Codding Spirit had they from their Mother,
As ſure a Card, as ever won the Set:
That bloody mind I think they learn'd of me,
As true a Dog as ever fought at Head.
Well, let my Deeds be witneſs of my worth:
I train'd thy Brethren to that guileful Hole,
Where the dead Corps of Baſſianus lay:
I wrote the Letter that thy Father found,
And hid the Gold within the Letter mention'd.
Confederate with the Queen, and her two Sons,
And what not done that thou haſt cauſe to rue,
Wherein I had no ſtroke of Miſchief in it.
I plaid the Cheater for thy Fathers hand,
And when I had it, drew my ſelf apart,
And almoſt broke my Heart with extream laughter.
I pried me through the Crevice of a Wall,
When for his Hand, he had his two Sons Heads,
Beheld his Tears, and laugh'd ſo heartily,
That both mine Eyes were rainy like to his:
And when I told the Empreſs of this ſport,
She ſwooned almoſt at my pleaſing Tale,
And for my tydings, gave me twenty kiſſes.
Goth. What canſt thou ſay all this, and never bluſh?
Aaron. I, like a black Dog, as the ſaying is.
Lu. Art thou not ſorry for theſe heinous deeds?
Aaron. I, that I had not done a thouſand more.
Even now I curſe the day, and yet I think
Few come within the compaſs of my Curſe,
Wherein I did not ſome Notorious ill,
As kill a Man, or elſe deviſe his death,
Raviſh a Maid, or plot the way to do it,
Accuſe ſome innocent, and forſwear my ſelf,
Set deadly Enmity between two Friends,
Make poor Mens Cattle break their Necks,
Set Fire on Barns and Hay-ſtacks in the night,

And

And bid the Owners quench them with their tears:
Oft have I digg'd up dead men from their Graves,
And set them upright at their dear Friends Doors,
Even when their sorrow almost was forgot,
And on their Skins, as on the Barque of Trees,
Have with my Knife carved in Roman Letters,
Let not your sorrow dye, though I am dead.
Tut, I have done a thousand dreadful things,
As willingly as one would kill a Fly,
And nothing grieves me heartily indeed,
But that I cannot do ten thousand more.
Luc. Bring down the Devil, for he must not dye
So sweet a death, as Hanging, presently.
Aaron. If there be Devils, would I were a Devil,
To live and burn in everlasting Fire,
So I might have your company in Hell,
But to torment you with my bitter Tongue.
Luc. Sirs, stop his Mouth, and let him speak no more.

Enter Æmilius.

Goth. My Lord, there is a Messenger from Rome
Desires to be admitted to your Presence.
Luc. Let him come near.
Welcome, Æmilius, what's the News from Rome?
Æmi. Lord Lucius, and you Princes of the Goths,
The Roman Emperour greets you all by me,
And for he understands you are in Arms,
He craves a Parly at your Fathers House,
Willing you to demand your Hostages,
And they shall be immediately delivered.
Goth. What says our General?
Luc. Æmilius, let the Emperour give his Pledges
Unto my Father, and my Uncle Marcus,
And we will come: March away. [Exeunt.

Enter Tamora, and her two Sons disguis'd.

Tam. Thus in this strange and sad Habiliments,
I will encounter with Andronicus,
And say, I am Revenge sent from below,
To joyn with him and right his heinous Wrongs:
Knock at his Study where they say he keeps,
To ruminate strange Plots of dire Revenge,
Tell him Revenge is come to joyn with him,
And work Confusion on his Enemies.
They knock, and Titus opens his Study Door.
Tit. Who doth molest my Contemplation?
Is it your trick to make me ope the Door,
That so my sad Decrees may fly away,
And all my Study be to no effect?
You are deceiv'd, for what I mean to do,
See here in bloody Lines I have set down:
And what is written shall be executed.
Tam. Titus, I am come to talk with thee.
Tit. No not a word: how can I grace my talk,
Wanting a Hand to give it Action?
Thou hast the odds of me, therefore no more.
Tam. If thou did'st know me,
Thou would'st talk with me.
Tit. I am not mad, I know thee well enough,
Witness this wretched stump,
Witness these Crimson lines,
Witness these Trenches made by grief and care,
Witness the tyring Day, and heavy Night,
Witness all Sorrow, that I know thee well
For our proud Empress, mighty Tamora:
Is not thy coming for my other Hand?
Tam. Know thou, sad man, I am not Tamora,
She is thy Enemy, and I thy Friend,
I am Revenge, sent from the infernal Kingdom,
To ease the gnawing Vulture of thy mind:
By working wreakful vengeance on thy Foes:
Come down and welcome me to this worlds light,
Confer with me of Murder and of Death,
There's not a hollow Cave or lurking place,
No vast Obscurity or Misty Vale,
Where bloody Murther or detested Rape,
Can couch for fear, but I will find them out,
And in their Ears tell them my dreadful Name,
Revenge, which makes the foul Offenders quake.
Tit. Art thou Revenge? and art thou sent to me,
To be a torment to mine Enemies?
Tam. I am, therefore come down and welcome me.
Tit. Do me some Service, e're I come to thee:
Lo by thy side where Rape and Murder stands,
Now give some surance that thou art Revenge,
Stab them, or tear them on thy Chariot Wheels,
And then I'le come and be thy Waggoner,
And whirl along with thee about the Globes.
Provide thee two proper Palfries, black as Jet,
To hale thy vengeful Waggon swift away,
And find out Murder in their guilty Caves.
And when thy Car is loaden with their Heads,
I will dismount, and by the Waggon wheel
Trot like a Servile Footman all day long,
Even from Hyperion's rising in the East,
Until his very downfall in the Sea.
And day by day I'le do this heavy task,
So thou destroy Rapine and Murder there.
Tam. These are my Ministers, and come with me.
Tit. Are they thy Ministers, what are they call'd?
Tam. Rapine and Murder, therefore called so,
Cause they take vengeance of such kind of men.
Tit. Good Lord, how like the Empress Sons they are,
And you the Empress: But we Worldly men,
Have miserable mad mistaking Eyes:
Oh, sweet Revenge, now do I come to thee,
And if one Arms imbracement will content thee,
I will imbrace thee in it by and by.
Tam. This closing with him fits his Lunacy,
What e're I forge to feed his brain-sick fits,
Do you uphold, and maintain in your Speeches,
For now he firmly takes me for Revenge,
And being credulous in this mad thought,
I'le make him send for Lucius his Son,
And whil'st I at a Banquet hold him sure,
I'le find some cunning Practice out of Hand
To scatter and disperse the giddy Goths,
Or at the least, make them his Enemies:
See here he comes, and I must play my Theam.
Tit. Long have I been forlorn, and all for thee,
Welcome, dread Fury, to my woful House,
Rapine and Murther, you are welcome too,
How like the Empress, and her Sons you are,
Well are you fitted, had you but a Moor,
Could not all Hell afford you such a Devil?
For well I wote the Empress never wags,
But in her Company there is a Moor;
And would you represent our Queen aright
It were convenient you had such a Devil:
But welcome as you are, what shall we do?
Tam. What would'st thou have us do, Andronicus?
Dem. Shew me a Murtherer, I'le deal with him.
Chir. Shew me a Villain, that hath done a Rape,
And I am sent to be reveng'd on him.
Tam. Shew me a Thousand that have done thee wrong,
And I will be revenged on them all.
Tit. Look round about the wicked streets of Rome,
And when thou find'st a Man that's like thy self,
Good Murder, stab him, he's a Murtherer.
Go thou with him, and when it is thy hap
To find another that is like to thee,
Good Rapine, stab him, he is a Ravisher.
Go thou with them, and in the Emperours Court
There is a Queen attended by a Moor,
Well may'st thou know her by thy own proportion,
For up and down she doth resemble thee,
I pray thee do on them some violent death,

They have been violent to me and mine.
Tam. Well haſt thou leſſon'd us, this ſhall we do.
But would it pleaſe thee, good Andronicus,
To ſend for Lucius thy thrice valiant Son,
Who leads towards Rome a Band of Warlike Goths,
And bid him come and Banquet at thy Houſe.
When he is here, even at thy ſolemn Feaſt,
I will bring in the Empreſs and her Sons,
The Emperour himſelf, and all thy Foes,
And at thy mercy ſhall they ſtoop and kneel,
And on them ſhalt thou eaſe thy angry heart:
What ſays Andronicus to this deviſe?

Enter Marcus.

Tit. Marcus, my Brother, 'tis ſad Titus calls,
Go, gentle Marcus, to thy Nephew Lucius,
Thou ſhalt enquire him out among the Goths,
Bid him repair to me, and bring with him
Some of the chiefeſt Princes of the Goths,
Bid him encamp his Souldiers where they are,
Tell him the Emperour and the Empreſs too,
Feaſts at my Houſe, and he ſhall Feaſt with them;
This do thou for my love, and ſo let him,
As he regards his aged Fathers life.
Mar. This will I do, and ſoon return again. [Exit.
Tam. Now will I hence about thy buſineſs,
And take my Miniſters along with me.
Tit. Nay, nay, let Rape and Murder ſtay with me,
Or elſe I'le call my Brother back again,
And cleave to no revenge but Lucius.
Tam. What ſay you, Boys, will you bide with him,
Whiles I go tell my Lord, the Emperour,
How I have govern'd our determined jeſt?
Yield to his humour, ſmooth and ſpeak him fair,
And tarry with him till I turn again.
Tit. I know them all, though they ſuppoſe me mad,
And will o're-reach them in their own deviſes,
A pair of curſed Hell-hounds, and their Dam.
Dem. Madam, depart at pleaſure, leave us here.
Tam. Farewel, Andronicus, Revenge now goes
To lay a Complot to betray thy Foes.
Tit. I know thou doſt, and ſweet Revenge, farewel.
Chi. Tell us, Old Man, how ſhall we be employ'd?
Tit. Tut, I have work enough for you to do,
Publius come hither, Caius, and Valentine.
Pub. What is your will?
Tit. Know you theſe two?
Pub. The Empreſs Sons
I take them, Chiron, Demetrius.
Tit. Fie, Publius, fie, thou art too much deceiv'd,
The one is Murder, Rape is the other's Name,
And therefore bind them, gentle Publius,
Caius, and Valentine, lay hands on them,
Oft have you heard me wiſh for ſuch an hour,
And now I find it, therefore bind them ſure.
Chi. Villains, forbear, we are the Empreſs Sons.
Pub. And therefore do we, what we are commanded.
Stop cloſe their Mouths, let them not ſpeak a word.
Is he ſure bound? look that ye bind them faſt. [Exeunt.

Enter Titus Andronicus with a Knife, and Lavinia with a Baſon.

Tit, Come, come, Lavinia, look, thy Foes are bound;
Sirs, ſtop their Mouths, let them not ſpeak to me,
But let them hear what fearful words I utter.
Oh Villains, Chiron, and Demetrius,
Here ſtands the Spring whom you have ſtain'd with Mud,
This goodly Summer with your Winter mixt,
You kill'd her Husband, and for that vile fault,
Two of her Brothers were condemn'd to death,
My Hand cut off, and made a merry jeſt,
Both her ſweet Hands, her Tongue, and that more dear
Than Hands or Tongue, her ſpotleſs Chaſtity,
Inhumane Traitors, you conſtrain'd and forc'd.
What would you ſay, if I ſhould let you ſpeak?
Villains, for ſhame you could not beg for Grace.
Heark Wretches, how I mean to Martyr you,
This one Hand yet is left to cut your Throats,
Whil'ſt that Lavinia 'tween her ſtumps doth hold,
The Baſon that receives your guilty Blood.
You know your Mother means to feaſt with me,
And calls her ſelf Revenge, and thinks me mad.
Heark Villains, I will grind your Bones to Duſt,
And with your Blood and it I'le make a Paſte,
And of the Paſte a Coffin will I rear,
And make two Paſties of your ſhameful heads,
And bid that Strumpet, your unhallowed Dam,
Like to the Earth ſwallow her own Increaſe.
This is the Feaſt that I have bid her to,
And this the Banquet ſhe ſhall ſurfeit on,
For worſe than Philomel you us'd my Daughter,
And worſe than Progne, I will be reveng'd,
And now prepare your Throats: Lavinia come,
Receive the Blood, and when that they are dead
Let me go grind their Bones to Powder ſmall,
And with this hateful Liquor temper it,
And in that Paſte let their wild heads be bak'd.
Come, come, be every one officious
To make this Banquet, which I wiſh might prove
More ſtern and bloody than the Centaurs Feaſt.
[He cuts their Throats.
So now bring them in, for I'le play the Cook,
And ſee them ready 'gainſt the Mother comes. [Exeunt.

Enter Lucius, Marcus, and the Goths.

Luc. Uncle Marcus, ſince 'tis my Fathers mind
That I repair to Rome, I am content.
Goth. And ours with thine, befal what Fortune will.
Luc. Good Uncle, take you in this barbarous Moor,
This Ravenous Tiger, this accurſed Devil,
Let him receive no ſuſtenance, fetter him,
Till he be brought unto the Emperours Face,
For teſtimony of his foul proceedings.
And ſee the Ambuſh of our Friends be ſtrong,
I fear the Emperour means no good to us.
Aaron. Some Devil whiſper Curſes in my Ear,
And prompt me, that my Tongue may utter forth
The Venemous Malice of my ſwelling Heart.
Luc. Away, Inhumane Dog, Unhallowed Slave,
Sirs, help our Uncle, to convey him in, [Flouriſh.
The Trumpets ſhew the Emperour is at hand.

Sound Trumpets. Enter Emperour and Empreſs, with Tribunes and others.

Sat. What hath the Firmament more Suns than one?
Luc. What boots it thee to call thy ſelf a Sun?
Mar. Romes Emperour and Nephew break the Parly,
Theſe Quarrels muſt be quietly debated,
The Feaſt is ready which the careful Titus
Hath ordained to an honourable end,
For Peace, for Love, for League, and good to Rome:
Pleaſe you therefore draw nigh and take your places.
Satur. Marcus, we will. [Hoboys.

A Table brought in. Enter Titus like a Cook, placing the meat on the Table, and Lavinia with a Veil over her Face.

Titus. Welcome, my gracious Lord,
Welcome, Dread Queen,
Welcome, ye Warlike Goths, welcome Lucius,
And welcome all: although the cheer be poor,
'Twill fill your Stomachs, pleaſe you eat of it.
Sat. Why art thou thus attir'd, Andronicus?
Tit. Becauſe I would be ſure to have all well,
To entertain your Highneſs, and your Empreſs.
Tam. We are beholding to you, good Andronicus.

Tit.

Tit. And if your Highneſs knew my Heart, you were:
My Lord, the Emperour, reſolve me this,
Was it well done of raſh Virginius,
To ſlay his Daughter with his own Right-hand,
Becauſe ſhe was enforc'd, ſtain'd, and deflour'd?
Satur. It was, Andronicus.
Tit. Your Reaſon, Mighty Lord?
Sat. Becauſe the Girl ſhould not ſurvive her ſhame,
And by her preſence ſtill renew his ſorrows.
Tit. A Reaſon mighty, ſtrong, and effectual,
A pattern, preſident, and lively warrant,
For me (moſt wretched) to perform the like:
Dye, dye, Lavinia, and thy ſhame with thee,
And with thy ſhame thy Fathers ſorrow dye.
[He kills her.
Sat. What haſt thou done, unnatural and unkind?
Tit. Kill'd her for whom my tears have made me blind.
I am as woful as Virginius was,
And have a thouſand times more cauſe than he.
Sat. What, was ſhe raviſht? tell, who did the deed?
Tit. Wil't pleaſe you eat,
Wil't pleaſe your Highneſs feed?
Tam. Why haſt thou ſlain thine onely Daughter thus?
Tit. Not I, 'twas Chiron and Demetrius.
They raviſht her, and cut away her Tongue,
And they, 'twas they, that did her all this wrong.
Sat. Go fetch them hither to us preſently.
Tit. Why there they are both, baked in that Pye,
Whereof their Mother daintily hath fed,
Eating the Fleſh that ſhe her ſelf hath bred.
'Tis true, 'tis true, witneſs my Knives ſharp point.
[He ſtabs the Empreſs.
Sat. Dye, frantick wretch, for this accurſed deed.
Luc. Can the Sons Eyes, behold his Father bleed?
There's meed for meed, death for a deadly deed.
Mar. You ſad-fac'd Men, People, and Sons of Rome,
By uprore ſever'd like a flight of Fowl,
Scatter'd by winds and high tempeſtuous guſts,
Oh let me teach you how, to knit again
This ſcattred Corn into one mutual Sheaf,
Thoſe broken limbs again into one Body.
Goth. Let Rome her ſelf be bane unto her ſelf,
And ſhe whom mighty Kingdoms curtſie to,
Like a forlorn and deſperate caſtaway,
Do ſhameful execution on her ſelf.
Mar. But if my froſty ſigns and chaps of age,
Grave Witneſſes of true experience,
Cannot induce you to attend my words,
Speak, Rome's dear friend, as'erſt our Anceſtor,
When with his Solemn Tongue he did diſcourſe
To Love-ſick Didoes ſad attending Ear,
The ſtory of that baleful burning Night,
When ſubtile Greeks ſurpriz'd King Priam's Troy:
Tell us what Sinon hath bewitch'd our Ears,
Or who hath brought the fatal Engine in,
That gives our Troy, our Rome the civil wound.
My Heart is not compact of Flint nor Steel,
Nor can I utter all our bitter grief,
But floods of Tears will drown my Oratory,
And break my very utterance, even in the time
When it ſhould move you to attend me moſt,
Lending your kind Hand, Commiſeration.
Here is a Captain, let him tell the Tale.
Your Hearts will throb and weep to hear him ſpeak.
Luc. This Noble Auditory, be it known to you,
That curſed Chiron and Demetrius
Were they that murdred our Emperours Brother,
And they it were that raviſhed our Siſter,
For their fell faults our Brothers were Beheaded,
Our Fathers tears deſpis'd, and baſely couzen'd
Of that true Hand, that fought Rome's Quarrel out,
And ſent her Enemies unto the Grave.
Laſtly, my ſelf unkindly baniſhed,
The Gates ſhut on me, and turn'd weeping out,
To beg relief among Rome's Enemies,
Who drown'd their enmity in my true Tears,
And op'd their Arms to imbrace me as a Friend:
And I am turn'd forth, be it known to you,
That have preſerv'd her welfare in my Blood,
And from her boſom took the Enemies point,
Sheathing the Steel in my adventrous Body.
Alas, you know, I am no Vaunter, I,
My ſcars can witneſs, dumb although they are,
That my report is juſt and full of truth:
But ſoft, methinks I do digreſs too much,
Citing my worthleſs praiſe: Oh pardon me,
For when no Friends are by, Men praiſe themſelves.
Mar. Now is my turn to ſpeak: Behold this Child,
Of this was Tamora delivered,
The iſſue of an Irreligious Moor,
Chief Architect and plotter of theſe woes,
The Villain is alive in Titus's Houſe,
And as he is, to witneſs this is true.
Now judge what cauſe had Titus to revenge
Theſe wrongs, unſpeakable, paſt Patience,
Or more than any living man could bear.
Now you have heard the truth, what ſay you, Romans?
Have we done ought amiſs? ſhew us, wherein,
And from the place where you behold us now,
The poor remainder of Andronicus,
Will Hand in Hand all headlong caſt us down,
And on the ragged Stones beat forth our Brains,
And make a mutual cloſure of our Houſe;
Speak, Romans, ſpeak, and if you ſay we ſhall,
Lo Hand in Hand Lucius and I will fall.
Æmili. Come, come, thou reveren'd Man of Rome,
And bring our Emperour gently in thy Hand,
Lucius our Emperour: For well I know,
The common voice do cry, it ſhall be ſo.
Mar. Lucius, all hail, Romes Royal Emperour,
Go, go into Old Titus's ſorrowful Houſe,
And hither hale that misbelieving Moor,
To be adjudg'd ſome direful ſlaughtering death,
As puniſhment for his moſt wicked life.
Lucius, all hail to Rome's gracious Governour.
Luc. Thanks, gentle Romans, may I govern ſo,
To heal Romes harms, and wipe away her woe.
But, gentle People, give me aim a-while,
For Nature puts me to a heavy task:
Stand all aloof, but, Uncle, draw you near
To ſhed obſequious Tears upon this Trunk:
Oh take this warm kiſs on thy pale cold Lips,
Theſe ſorrowful drops upon thy Blood-ſtain'd Face,
The laſt true Duties of thy Noble Son.
Mar. A tear for tear, and loving kiſs for kiſs,
Thy Brother Marcus tenders on thy Lips:
O were the ſum of theſe that I ſhould pay
Countleſs and infinite, yet would I pay them.
Luc. Come hither, Boy, come, come, and learn of us
To melt in ſhowers: thy Grandſire lov'd thee well,
Many a time he danc'd thee on his Knee:
Sung thee aſleep, his loving Breaſt, thy Pillow:
Many a matter hath he told to thee,
Meet and agreeing with thine Infancy:
In that reſpect then, like a loving Child,
Shed yet ſome ſmall drops from thy tender Spring,
Becauſe kind Nature doth require it ſo:
Friends ſhould aſſociate Friends, in Grief and Woe;
Bid him farewel, commit him to the Grave,
Do him that kindneſs, and take leave of him.
Boy. O Grandſire, Grandſire: even with all my Heart
Would I were Dead, ſo you did live again.
O Lord, I cannot ſpeak to him for weeping,
My tears will choke me, if I ope my mouth.
Romans. You ſad Andronici, have done with woes,
Give ſentence on this execrable Wretch,
That hath been breeder of theſe dire events.
Luc. Set him breaſt deep in Earth, and famiſh him:

There let him ſtand, and rave, and cry for Food:
If any one relieves, or pities him,
For the offence, he dies. This is our doom:
Some ſtay, to ſee him faſtned in the Earth.
Aaron. O why ſhould wrath be mute, and fury dumb?
I am no Baby, I, that with baſe Prayers
I ſhould repent the Evils I have done.
Ten thouſand worſe than ever yet I did,
Would I perform if I might have my Will:
If one good Deed in all my life I did,
I do repent it from my very Soul.
Luc. Some loving Friends convey the Emperour hence,
And give him burial in his Fathers Grave.
My Father, and Lavinia, ſhall forthwith
Be cloſed in our Houſholds Monument:
As for that heynous Tyger Tamora,
No funeral Rite, nor Man in mournful Weeds,
No mournful Bell ſhall ring her Burial:
But throw her forth to Beaſts and Birds of Prey:
Her Life was Beaſt-like, and devoid of pity,
And being ſo, ſhall have like want of pity.
See Juſtice done on Aaron that damn'd Moor,
From whom, our heavy haps had their beginning:
Then afterwards, to Order well the State.
That like events may ne're it ruinate.

[Exeunt omnes.

THE

THE TRAGEDY OF ROMEO and JULIET.

The Plot taken from an Italian Novel of Bandello.

Actus Primus. Scena Prima. The Street in Verona.

Enter Sampſon and Gregory, with Swords and Bucklers, of the Houſe of Capulet.

Samp. Gregory, o'r my word we'll not carry Coals.

Greg. No, for then we ſhould be Colliers.

~~Samp. I mean, if we be in choler, we'll draw.~~

~~Greg. I, while you live, draw your Neck out o'th' Collar.~~

Samp. I ſtrike quickly, being mov'd.

Greg. But thou art not quickly mov'd to ſtrike.

Samp. A Dog of the Houſe of Mountague moves me.

Greg. To move, is to ſtir; and to be valiant, is to ſtand: Therefore, if thou art mov'd, thou runn'ſt away.

Samp. A Dog of that Houſe ſhall move me to ſtand: I will take the Wall of any Man or Maid of Mountague's.

Greg. That ſhews thee a weak, Slave, for the weakeſt goes to the Wall.

Samp. True, and therefore Women, being the weakeſt Veſſels, are ever thruſt to the Wall: therefore I will puſh Mountague's Men from the Wall, and thruſt his Maids to the Wall.

Greg. The Quarrel is between our Maſters, and us their Men.

Samp. 'Tis all one, I will ſhew my ſelf a Tyrant: when I have fought with the Men, I will be cruel with the Maids, and cut off their Heads.

Greg. The Heads of the Maids?

Samp. Ay the Heads of the Maids, or their Maiden-heads, Take it in what ſenſe thou wilt.

Greg. They muſt take it in ſenſe that feel it.

Samp. Me they ſhall feel while I am able to ſtand: And 'tis known I am a pretty piece of Fleſh.

Greg. 'Tis well thou art not Fiſh: if thou had'ſt, thou had'ſt been Poor John. Draw thy Tool, here comes of the Houſe of the Mountagues.

Enter two other Servingmen.

Samp. My naked weapon is out; quarrel, I will back thee.

Gre. How? Turn thy back and run?

Samp. Fear me not.

Greg. No, marry: I fear thee!

Samp. Let us take the Law of our ſides: let them begin.

Gre. I will frown as I paſs by, & let them take it as they liſt.

Samp. Nay, as they dare. I will bite my Thumb at them, which is a diſgrace to them, if they bear it.

Abra. Do you bite your Thumb at us, Sir?

Sam. I do bite my thumb, Sir.

Abra. Do you bite your thumb at us, Sir?

Sam. Is the Law of our ſide, if I ſay Ay?

Greg. No.

Sam. No, Sir, I do not bite my thumb at you, Sir: but I bite my Thumb, Sir.

Greg. Do you quarrel, Sir?

Abra. Quarrel, Sir? no, Sir.

Sam. If you do, Sir, I am for you, I ſerve as good a Man as you.

Abra. No better?

Sam. Well, Sir.

Enter Benvolio.

Gr. Say better: here comes one of my Maſters kinſmen.

Sam. Yes, better, Sir.

Abra. You Lye.

Sam. Draw, if you be Men. Gregory, remember thy ſwaſhing blow. [They fight.

Ben. Part, Fools, put up your Swords, you know not what you do.

Enter Tybalt.

Tyb. What, art thou drawn among theſe heartleſs Hinds? Turn thee, Benvolio, look upon thy death.

Ben. I do but keep the Peace; put up thy Sword, Or manage it to part theſe men with me.

Tyb. What draw, and talk of Peace? I hate the word As I hate Hell, all Mountagues, and thee: Have at thee, Coward. [Fight.

Enter three or four Citizens with Clubs.

Offic. Clubs, Bills, and Partiſans, ſtrike, beat them down! Down with the Capulets, down with the Mountagues!

Enter Old Capulet in his Gown, and his Wife.

Cap. What noiſe is this? Give me my long Sword, ho?

Wife. A Crutch, a Crutch: why call you for a Sword?

Cap. A Sword, I ſay: Old Mountague is come,

And flourishes his Blade in spight of me.

Enter Old Mountague, and his Wife.

Moun. Thou Villain, Capulet, Hold me not, let me go.
2 Wife. Thou shalt not stir a foot to seek a Foe.

Enter Prince Eskales with his Train.

Prin. Rebellious Subjects, Enemies to Peace,
Prophaners of this Neighbour-stained Steel,
Will they not hear? What ho! you Men, you Beasts,
That quench the Fire of your pernicious Rage,
With purple Fountains issuing from your Veins:
On pain of Torture, from those bloody hands,
Throw your mistemper'd Weapons to the ground,
And hear the Sentence of your moved Prince.
Three civil Broils, bred of an Airy word,
By thee, old Capulet, and Mountague,
Have thrice disturb'd the quiet of our Streets,
And made Verona's ancient Citizens
Cast by their grave beseeming Ornaments,
To weild old Partizans, in hands as old,
Cankred with Peace, to part your Cankred hate,
If ever you disturb our Streets again,
Your lives shall pay the forfeit of the Peace.
For this time all the rest depart away;
You, Capulet, shall go along with me;
And, Mountague, come you this afternoon,
To know our Father's pleasure in this case,
To old Free-town, our common Judgment-place:
Once more, on pain of death, all men depart. [Exeunt.

Scene II.

Moun. Who set this ancient Quarrel new abroach?
Speak, Nephew, were you by when it began?
Ben. Here were the Servants of your adversary,
And yours, close fighting, e're I did approach;
I drew to part them; in the instant came
The fiery Tybalt, with his sword prepar'd,
Which, as he breath'd defiance to my Ears,
He swong about his Head, and cut the Winds,
Who nothing hurt withall, hiss'd him in scorn,
While we were interchanging thrusts and blows,
Came more and more, and fought on part and part,
Till the Prince came, who parted either part.
Wife. O, where is Romeo, saw you him to day?
Right glad am I, he was not at this Fray.
Ben. Madam, an hour before the worshipp'd Sun
Peer'd forth the golden window of the East,
A troubled mind drave me to walk abroad;
Where underneath the grove of Sycamour,
That West-ward rooteth from this City side,
So early walking did I see your Son;
Towards him I made, but he was ware of me,
And stole into the Covert of the Wood;
I measuring his Affections by my own,
Which then most sought, where most might not be found,
Being one too many by my weary self,
Pursued my Humour, not pursuing him;
And gladly shun'd, who gladly fled from me.
Mount. Many a morning hath he there been seen,
With tears augmenting the fresh morning Dew;
Adding to Clouds, more Clouds with his deep sighs,
But all so soon as the all-cheering Sun,
Should, in the farthest East begin to draw
The shady Curtains from Aurora's Bed,
Away from light steals home my heavy Son,
And private in his Chamber pens himself;
Shuts up his Windows, locks fair Day-light out,
And makes himself an artificial Night.
Black and portentous must this humour prove,
Unless good Counsel may the Cause remove.
Ben. My Noble Uncle, do you know the Cause?
Moun. I neither know it, nor can learn of him.
Ben. Have you importun'd him by any means?
Moun. Both by my self, and many other Friends;
But he, his own affections Counsellor,
Is to himself, (I will not say how true),
But to himself so secret and so close,
So far from sounding and discovery,
As is the bud bit with an envious worm,
E're he can spread his sweet Leaves to the Air,
Or dedicate his Beauty to the same.
Could we but learn from whence his Sorrows grow,
We would as willingly give cure, as know.

Enter Romeo.

Ben. See where he comes; so please you step aside,
I'll know his grievance, or be much deny'd.
Moun. I would thou wert so happy by thy stay,
To hear true Shrift. Come, Madam, let's away. [Exeunt.
Ben. Good morrow, Cousin.
Rom. Is the day so young?
Ben. But new struck nine.
Rom. Ay me, sad hours seem long!
Was that my Father that went hence so fast?
Ben. It was; what sadness lengthens Romeo's hours?
Ro. Not having that, which having, makes them short.
Ben. In love.
Rom. Out.
Ben. Of Love?
Rom. Out of her favour, where I am in Love.
Ben. Alas, that Love, so gentle in his view,
Should be so Tyrannous and rough in proof!
Rom. Alas, that Love, whose view is muffled still,
Should without Eyes, see path-ways to his will!
Where shall we dine? O me! what fray was here?
Yet tell me not, for I have heard it all.
Here's much to do with hate, but more with love:
Why then, O brawling Love! O loving Hate!
O any thing of nothing first create!
O heavy lightness! serious Vanity!
Mishapen Chaos of well-seeming forms!
Feather of Lead, bright Smoke, cold Fire, sick Health!
Still-waking Sleep, that is not what it is!
This Love feel I, that feel no Love in this.
Dost thou not laugh?
Ben. No, Coz, I rather weep.
Rom. Good Heart, at what?
Ben. At thy good Hearts oppression.
Rom. Why such is loves transgression.
Griefs of mine own lye heavy in my Breast;
Which thou wilt propagate to have it prest
With more of thine; this Love that thou hast shewn,
Doth add more grief to too much of mine own.
Love is a smoke made of the fume of sighs,
Being purg'd, a fire sparkling in Lovers Eyes,
Being vext, a Sea nourish'd with loving tears;
What is it else? a madness most discreet,
A choaking gall, and a preserving sweet:
Farewel my Coz*en*. (Going.)
Ben. Soft, I will go along.
And if you leave me so, you do me wrong.
Rom. But I have lost my self, I am not here,
This is not Romeo, he's some other where.
Ben. Tell me in sadness, who is that you love?
Rom. What shall I grone, and tell thee?
Ben. Grone? why, no; but sadly tell me, who.
Rom. A sick man in sadness makes his will:
O, word, ill urg'd to one that is so ill:
In sadness, Cousin, I do love a woman.
Ben. I aim'd so near, when I suppos'd you lov'd.
Rom. A right good Marks-man; and she's fair I love.
Ben. A right fair mark, fair Coz, is soonest hit.
Rom. Well in that hit you miss; she'll not be hit
With Cupids Arrow; she hath Diana's wit:
And in strong proof of Chastity well arm'd,
From Loves weak childish Bow, she lives unharm'd.

She

She will not ſtay the Siege of Loving terms,
Nor bide th' encounter of aſſailing Eyes,
Nor ope her Lap to Saint-ſeducing Gold:
O, ſhe is rich in Beauty; only poor,
That when ſhe dies, with Beauty dies her ſtore.
Ben. Then ſhe hath ſworn, that ſhe will ſtill live chaſte?
Rom. She hath, and in that ſparing makes huge waſte:
For Beauty ſtarv'd with her ſeverity,
Cuts Beauty off from all poſterity.
She is too fair, too wiſe; wiſely too fair,
To merit bliſs by making me deſpair;
She hath forſworn to love, and in that Vow
Do I live dead, that live to tell it now.
Ben. Be rul'd by me, forget to think of her.
Rom. O teach me how I ſhould forget to think.
Ben. By giving liberty unto thine Eyes;
Examine other Beauties.
Ro. 'Tis the way to call hers (exquiſite) in queſtion more:
Thoſe happy Masks that kiſs fair Ladies brows,
Being black, put us in mind they hide the fair;
He that is ſtrucken blind cannot forget
The precious Treaſure of his Eye-ſight loſt:
Shew me a Miſtreſs that is paſſing fair;
What doth her Beauty ſerve but as a Note,
Where I may read who paſt that paſſing fair?
Farewel, thou can'ſt not teach me to forget.
Ben. I'll pay that doctrine, or elſe die in debt. [Exeunt.

Scene III.

Enter Capulet, County Paris, and the Clown.

Cap. And Mountague is bound as well as I,
In penalty alike; and 'tis not hard ~~I think~~,
For Men ſo old as we to keep the Peace.
Par. Of honourable reckning are you both,
And pity 'tis you liv'd at odds ſo long:
But now, my Lord, what ſay you to my ſuit?
Cap. But ſaying o're what I have ſaid before;
My Child is yet a ſtranger in the World,
She hath not ſeen the change of fourteen years;
Let two more Summers wither in their pride,
E're we may think her ripe to be a Bride.
Par. Younger than ſhe, are happy Mothers made.
Cap. And too ſoon marr'd are thoſe ſo early made:
Earth ~~up~~ hath ſwallowed all my hopes but ~~ſhe~~, her.
~~She is the hopeful Lady of my Earth~~:
But woo her, gentle Paris, get her Heart,
My will to her conſent, is but a part;
~~And~~ ſhe agree, within her ſcope of choice,
Lies my conſent, and fair according voice:
This night, I hold an old accuſtom'd Feaſt,
Whereto I have invited many a Gueſt,
Such as I love, and you among the ſtore,
One more, ~~moſt~~ welcome makes my number more:
At my poor Houſe, look to behold this night,
Earth-treading Stars, that make dark Heaven light,
Such comfort as do luſty young Men feel,
When well apparell'd April on the heel
Of limping Winter treads, even ſuch delight
Among freſh Female buds ſhall you this night
Inherit at my Houſe; hear all, all ſee,
And like her moſt, whoſe merit moſt ſhall be:
Which on more view, of many, mine being one,
May ſtand in number, though in reck'ning none.
Come, go with me: go, ſirrah, trudge about,
Through fair Verona, find thoſe Perſons out,
Whoſe Names are written there, and to them ſay,
My Houſe and Welcome, on their pleaſure ſtay. [Exit.
Ser. Find them out whoſe Names are written. ~~Here~~ it is written, that the Shoe-maker ſhould meddle with his Yard, and the Taylor with his Laſt, the Fiſher with his Pencil, and the Painter with his Nets. But I am ſent to find thoſe perſons whoſe Names are writ, and can never find what Names the writing perſon hath here writ, (I muſt to the Learned) in good time.

Enter Benvolio, and Romeo.

Ben. Tut man, one Fire burns out anothers burning,
One pain is leſs'ned by anothers anguiſh;
Turn giddy, and be holp by backward turning;
One deſperate grief Cures with anothers languiſh:
Take thou ſome new infection to the Eye,
And the rank Poiſon of the old will die.
Rom. Your Plantan leaf is excellent for that.
Ben. For what, I pray thee?
Rom. For your broken ſhin.
Ben. Why, Romeo, art thou mad?
Rom. Not mad, but bound more than a Mad man is:
Shut up in Priſon, kept without my Food,
Whipt and tormented; and Good-e'en, good Fellow. (To the Serv.)
Ser. God gi' Good-e'en; I pray, Sir, can you read?
Rom. Ay, mine own Fortune in my miſery.
Ser. Perhaps you have learn'd it without Book:
But, I pray, can you read any thing you ſee?
Rom. Ay, if I know the Letters and the Language.
Ser. Ye ſay honeſtly; reſt you merry.
Rom. Stay, Fellow, I can read.

He reads the Letter.

Signior Martino, and his Wife and Daughters: County Anſelm and his Beauteous Siſters; the Lady Widow of Vitruvio, Signior Placentio, and his lovely Nieces: Mercutio, and his Brother Valentine; mine Uncle Capulet, his Wife and Daughters; my fair Niece Roſaline, Livia, Signior Valentio, and his Couſin Tybalt; Lucio, and the lively Helena.

A fair Aſſembly; whither ſhould they come?
Ser. Up.
Rom. Whither? to Supper?
Ser. To our Houſe.
Rom. Whoſe Houſe?
Ser. My Maſters.
Rom. Indeed I ſhould have askt you that before.
Ser. Now I'll tell you without asking. My Maſter is the great rich Capulet, and if you be not of the houſe of Mountagues, I pray come and crush a cup of Wine. Reſt you merry. [Exit.
Ben. At this ſame ancient Feaſt of Capulet's,
Sups the fair Roſaline, whom thou ſo lov'ſt;
With all the admired Beauties of Verona,
Go thither, and with unattainted Eye,
Compare her Face with ſome that I ſhall ſhow,
And I will make thee think thy Swan a Crow.
Rom. When the devout Religion of mine Eye
Maintains ſuch falſe-hood, then turn Tears to Fires;
And thoſe who often drown'd could never die,
Tranſparent Hereticks, be burnt for Liars.
One fairer than my Love! the all-ſeeing Sun
Ne're ſaw her Match, ſince firſt the World begun.
Ben. Tut, tut, you ſaw her fair, none elſe being by,
Her ſelf poiſ'd with her ſelf in either Eye:
But in that Cryſtal ſcales, let there be weigh'd,
Your Ladies love againſt ſome other Maid,
That I will ſhew you, ſhining at this Feaſt,
And ſhe'll ſhew ſcant well, that now ſhews beſt.
Rom. I'll go along, no ſuch ſight to be ſhewn,
But to rejoice in ſplendor of mine own.

Scene IV. Capulets House.

Enter Capulet's Wife, and Nurſe.

Wife. Nurſe, where's my Daughter? call her forth to me.
Nurſe. Now by my Maiden-head, (at twelve years old)
I bad her come; what, Lamb, what, Lady-bird, God forbid,
Where's this Girl? what, Juliet?

Enter Juliet.

Juliet. How now, who calls?
Nurſe. Your Mother.
Juliet. Madam, I am here, what is your will?

Wife.

Wife. This is the matter: Nurſe, give leave a while, we muſt talk in ſecret. Nurſe, come back again, I have remembred me, thou'ſt hear my Counſel: Thou knoweſt my Daughter's of a pretty age.

Nurſe. Faith, I can tell her age unto an hour.

Wife. She's not fourteen.

Nurſe. I'le lay fourteen of my teeth,
And yet to my teeth be it ſpoken,
I have but four, ſhe's not fourteen;
How long is it now to Lammas-tide?

Wife. A fortnight and odd days.

Nurſe. Even or odd, of all days in the year, come Lammas Eve at night ſhall ſhe be fourteen. Suſan and ſhe, (God reſt all Chriſtian Souls,) were of an age. Well, Suſan is with God, ſhe was too good for me. But as I ſaid, on Lammas Eve at night ſhall ſhe be fourteen, that ſhall ſhe, marry, I remember it well. 'Tis ſince the Earthquake now eleven years, and ſhe was wean'd, I never ſhall forget it, of all the days in the year, upon that day; for I had then laid Worm-wood to my Dug, ſitting in the Sun under the Dove-houſe wall, my Lord and you were then at Mantua, nay, I do bear a brain. But as I ſaid, when it did taſt the Worm-wood on the Nipple of my Dug, and felt it bitter, pretty fool, to ſee it teachy, and fall out with the Dug. Shake, quoth the Dove-houſe, 'twas no need I trow to bid me trudge; and ſince that time it is eleven years, for then ſhe could ſtand alone, nay, byth' Rood, ſhe could have run, and wadled all about; for even the day before ſhe broke her Brow, and then my Husband, (God be with his Soul, a was a merry man,) took up the Child; yea, quoth he, doſt thou fall upon thy Face? thou wilt fall backward when thou haſt more wit, wilt thou not, Juliet? And by my Holy-dam, the pretty wretch left crying, and ſaid, Ay; to ſee now how a Jeſt ſhall come about. I warrant, and I ſhould live a thouſand years, I never ſhould forget it: Wilt thou not, Juliet, quoth he? and pretty fool, it ſtinted, and ſaid, Ay.

Old La. Enough of this, I pray thee hold thy peace.

Nur. Yes, Madam, yet I cannot chuſe but laugh, to think it ſhould leave crying, and ſay, Ay, and yet I warrant it had upon its Brow a bump as big as a young Cockrels Stone: A perilous knock, and it cried bitterly. Yea, quoth my Husband, fall'ſt upon thy Face? thou wilt fall backward when thou comeſt to age: wilt thou not, Juliet? It ſtinted, and ſaid, Ay.

Juli. And ſtint thee too, I pray thee, Nurſe, ſay I.

Nur. Peace, I have done: God mark thee to his Grace, thou waſt the prettieſt Babe that e're I nurſt, and I might live to ſee thee married once, I have my wiſh.

Old La. Marry that marry is the very theame
I came to talk of, tell me, Daughter Juliet,
How ſtands your diſpoſition to be Married?

Juli. 'Tis an hour that I dream not of.

Nur. An hour, were not I thine onely Nurſe, I would ſay that thou hadſt ſuck'd wiſdom from thy teat.

Old La. Well, think of Marriage now, younger than you
Here in Verona, Ladies of eſteem,
Are made already Mothers. By my count,
I was your Mother, much upon theſe years,
That you are now a Maid, thus then in brief,
The valiant Paris ſeeks you for his Love.

Nurſe. A Man, young Lady, Lady, ſuch a Man as all the world—— Why, he's a Man of Wax.

Old La. Verona's Summer hath not ſuch a flower.

Nurſe. Nay he's a flower, in faith, a very flower.

Old La. What ſay you, can you love the Gentleman?
This night you ſhall behold him at our Feaſt,
Read o're the Volume of young Paris's Face,
And find delight writ there with Beauties Pen:
Examine every ſeveral lineament,
And ſee how one another lends content:
And what obſcur'd in this fair Volume lies,
Finde written in the Margent of his Eyes.
This precious Book of Love, this unbound Lover,
To beautifie him, only lacks a Cover.
The Fiſh lives in the Sea, and 'tis much pride
For fair without, the fair within to hide:
That Book in manies Eyes doth ſhare the glory,
That in Gold Claſps locks in the Golden ſtory:
So ſhall you ſhare all that he doth poſſeſs,
By having him, making your ſelf no leſs.

Nurſe. No leſs, nay bigger: Women grow by men.

Old La. Speak briefly, can you like of Paris love?

Juli. I'le look to like, if looking liking move.
But no more deep will I endart mine Eye,
Than your conſent gives ſtrength to make it fly.

Enter a Servingman.

Ser. Madam, the Gueſts are come, Supper ſerv'd up, you call'd, my young Lady ask'd for, the Nurſe curſt in the Pantry, and every thing in extremity; I muſt hence to wait, I beſeech you follow ~~ſtraight~~. [Exit.

Mo. ~~We follow thee. Juliet, the County ſtays.~~

Nurſe. ~~Go, Girl, ſeek happy nights to happy days.~~ [Exeunt.

Scene V. A Street before Capulets House.

Enter Romeo, Mercutio, Benvolio, with five or ſix other Maskers, Torch-bearers.

Rom. What ſhall this Speech be ſpoke to our excuſe?
Or ſhall we on without Apology?

Ben. The date is out of ſuch prolixity,
We'l have no Cupid hood-winkt with a Scarf,
Bearing a Tartars painted Bow of Lath,
Scaring the Ladies like a Crow-keeper. (A
But let them meaſure us by what they will,
We'l meaſure them a Meaſure, and be gone.

Rom. Give me a Torch, I am not for this ambling.
~~Being but heavy, I will bear the light.~~

Mer. Nay, gentle Romeo, we muſt have you dance.

Rom. Not I, believe me; you have dancing Shoes
With nimble Soles, I have a Sole of Lead,
So Stakes me to the ground, I cannot move.

Mer. You are a Lover, borrow Cupids Wings,
And ſoar with them above a common bound.

Rom. I am too ſore inpierced with his ſhaft,
To ſoar with his light feathers, and to bound:
I cannot bound a pitch above dull woe,
Under loves heavy burden do I ſink.

Hora. And to ſink in it, ſhould you burden love,
Too great oppreſſion for a tender thing.

Rom. Is Love a tender thing? it is too rough,
Too rude, too boyſterous, it pricks like Thorn.

Mer. If Love be rough with you, be rough with Love,
Prick Love for pricking, and you beat Love down,
Give me a Caſe to put my Viſage in,
A Viſor for a Viſor; what care I
What curious Eye doth quote deformities?
Here are the Beetle-brows ſhall bluſh for me.

Ben. ~~Come knock and enter, and no ſooner in,~~
~~But every man betake him to his Legs.~~

Rom. A Torch for me, let Wantons light of Heart,
Tickle the ſenſeleſs Ruſhes with their Heels;
For I am proverb'd with a Grandſire Phraſe;
I'le be a Candle-holder, and look on,
~~The Game was ne're ſo fair, and I am Dun.~~

Mer. Tut, Dun's the Mouſe, the Conſtables own word,
If thou art Dun, we'l draw thee from the mire.
Or, ſave your reverence, Love, wherein thou ſtickeſt
Up to the Ears: come, we burn day-light, ho.

Rom. Nay, that's not ſo.

Mer. I mean, Sir, in delay.
We waſte our Lights in vain, lights, lights, by day;
Take our good Meaning, for our Judgment ſits
Five times in that, e're once in our fine Wits.

Rom. And we mean well in going to this Maſk,
But 'tis no wit to go.

Mer. Why, may one ask?

Rom. I

A Nor a without Book Prologue faintly ſpoke
After the prompter, 'fore our enterance.

Rom. I dreamt a Dream to Night.
Mer. And so did I.
Rom. Well; what was yours?
Mer. That Dreamers often lie.
Rom. In Bed asleep while they do dream things true.
Mer. O then I see Queen Mab hath been with you: She is the Fairies Mid-wife, and she comes in shape no bigger than an Agat-stone on the fore-finger of an Alderman, drawn with a team of little Atomies, over Mens Noses as they lie asleep: her Waggon Spoke's made of long Spinners Legs; the Cover of the Wings of Grashoppers; her Traces of the smallest Spiders Web; her Collars, of the Moon-shines watry beams; her Whip of Crickets bone, the Lash of film, her Waggoner, a small gray coated Gnat, not half so big as a round little Worm, prickt from the Lazy finger of a Maid. Her Chariot is an empty Hasel-nut, made by the Joyner Squirrel or old Grub, time out of mind, the Fairies Coach-makers: and in this state she gallops Night by Night, through Lovers Brains; and then they dream of Love. On Courtiers Knees, that dream on Cursies strait: O're Lawyers Fingers, who strait dream on Fees: o're Ladies Lips, who strait on Kisses dream, which oft the angry Mab with Blisters plagues, because their Breaths with Sweet-meats tainted are. Sometimes she gallops o're a Courtiers, Lawyers Nose, and then dreams he of smelling out a Suit: and sometimes comes she with a Tith-pigs tale, tickling a Parsons Nose as he lies asleep, then he dreams of another Benefice. Sometime she driveth o're a Souldiers Neck, and then dreams he of cutting Foreign Throats, of Breaches, Ambuscadoes, Spanish Blades; Of Healths five Fathom deep; and then anon drums in his Ears, at which he starts and wakes, and being thus frighted, swears a Prayer or two, and sleeps again: this is that very Mab that plats the manes of Horses in the Night; and bakes the Elf-locks in foul sluttish Hairs, which once untangled, much misfortune bodes.
This is the Hag, when Maids lie on their backs,
That presses them, and learns them first to bear,
Making them women of good Carriage:
This is she——
Rom. Peace, peace, Mercutio, peace.
Thou talk'st of nothing.
Mer. True, I talk of Dreams;
Which are the Children of an idle Brain,
Begot of nothing, but vain phantasie,
Which is as thin of substance as the Air,
And more unconstant than the Wind, who wooes
Even now the frozen bosom of the North;
And being anger'd, puffs away from thence,
Turning his face to the dew-dropping South.
Ben. This wind you talk of blows us from our selves;
Supper is done, and we shall come too late.
Rom. I fear, too early, for my mind misgives,
Some consequence, yet hanging in the Stars,
Shall bitterly begin his fearful date
With this Nights Revels; and expire the term
Of a despised Life clos'd in my Breast,
By some vile forfeit of untimely death,
But he that hath the steerage of my course,
Direct my sail! On, lusty Gentlemen.
Ben. Strike, Drum.

Scene VI. A Hall

They march about the Stage, and Servingmen come forth with their Napkins.

Enter Servant.

Ser. Where's Potpan, that he helps not to take away? He shift a Trencher? He scrape a Trencher!
1. When good Manners shall lie in one or two Mens hands, and they unwash'd too, 'tis a foul thing.
Ser. Away with the Joyn-stools, remove the Court-cupboard, look to the Plate: good thou, save me a piece of March-pane; and as thou loves't me, let the Porter let in Susan Grindstone, and Nell, Anthony, and Potpan.
2. Ay, Boy, ready.
Ser. You are look'd for, call'd for, ask'd for, and sought for, in the great Chamber.
1. We cannot be here and there too; cheerly Boys, Be brisk a while, and the longer liver take all.

[Exeunt.

Scene VII.

Enter all the Guests and Gentlewomen to the Maskers.

1 Cap. Welcome, Gentlemen,
Ladies that have their Toes, your feet
Unplagu'd with Corns, will walk about with you:
Ah me, Mistresses, which of you all
Will now deny to Dance? She that makes dainty,
She, I'le swear, hath Corns; Am I come near ye now?
Welcome Gentlemen, I have seen the day
That I have worn a Visor, and could tell
A whispering Tale in a fair Ladies Ear,
Such as would please: 'tis gone; 'tis gone; tis gone,
You are welcome, Gentlemen, come, Musitians, play:
[Musick plays: and they dance.
A Hall, Hall, give room, and foot it, Girles,
More light, ye Knaves, and turn the Tables up;
And quench the Fire, the Room is grown too hot.
Ah, Sirrah, this unlook'd for sport comes well.
Nay, sit, nay sit, good Cousin Capulet,
For you and I, are past our dancing daies:
How long is't now since last your self and I
Were in a Mask?
2 Cap. By'r Lady, thirty years.
1 Cap. What, man! 'tis not so much, 'tis not so much;
'Tis since the Nuptial of Lucentio,
Come Pentecost, as quickly as it will,
Some five and twenty years, and then we Mask'd.
2 Cap. 'Tis more, 'tis more; his Son is Elder, Sir:
His Son is thirty.
3 Cap. Will you tell me that?
His Son was but a Ward two years ago.
Rom. What Lady is that which doth enrich the hand of yonder Knight?
Ser. I know not, Sir.
Rom. O, she doth teach the Torches to burn bright;
Her Beauty hangs upon the cheek of night,
Like a rich Jewel in an Æthiops Ear:
Beauty too rich for use, for Earth too dear!
So shows a Snowy Dove trooping with Crows,
As yonder Lady o're her Fellows shows.
The measure done, I'll watch her place of stand,
And touching hers, make blessed my rude hand.
Did my heart love till now? forswear it, sight;
For I never saw true Beauty till this Night.
Tib. This by his voice should be a Mountague.
Fetch me my Rapier, Boy; what dares the Slave
Come hither cover'd with an Antick Face,
To fleer and scorn at our Solemnity?
Now by the stock and honour of my kin,
To strike him dead I hold it not a sin.
Cap. Why, how now, Kinsman,
Wherefore storm you so?
Tib. Uncle, this is a Mountague, our Foe:
A Villain that is hither come in spight,
To scorn at our Solemnity this Night.
Cap. Young Romeo, is it?
Tib. 'Tis he, that Villain Romeo.
Cap. Content thee, gentle Coz, let him alone,
A bears him like a portly Gentleman:
And to say truth, Verona brags of him,
To be a vertuous and well-govern'd Youth:
I would not for the wealth of all the Town,
Here in my House do him disparagement.
Therefore be patient, take no note of him;
It is my will, the which if thou respect,

Shew

Shew a fair presence, and put off these frowns,
An ill beseeming semblance for a Feast.
Tib. It fits, when such a Villain is a Guest,
I'll not endure him.
Cap. He shall be endur'd.
What, goodman-boy. I say he shall, go to,
Am I the Master here, or you? go to,
You'll not endure him, God shall mend my Soul,
You'll make a mutiny among the Guests:
You will set cock a hoop, you'l be the Man?
Tib. Why, Uncle, 'tis a shame.
Cap. Go to, go to
You are a sawcy Boy, 'tis so indeed?
This trick may chance to scathe you, I know what,
You must contrary me, marry 'tis time.
Well said, my Hearts, you are a Princox, go,
Be quiet, or more light, for shame,
I'll make you quiet. What, cheerly my Hearts.
Tib. Patience perforce, with willful choler meeting,
Makes my flesh tremble in their different greeting.
I will withdraw, but this intrusion shall,
Now seeming sweet, convert to bitter gall.
Rom. If I prophane with my unworthiest hand, (To Juliet)
This holy shrine, the gentle fine is this, fine be
My lips two blushing Pilgrims ready stand,
To smooth that rough touch with a tender kiss.
Jul. Good Pilgrim,
You do wrong your Hand too much,
Which mannerly devotion shews in this;
For Saints have hands, the Pilgrims hands do touch,
And palm to palm, is holy Palmers kiss.
Rom. Have not Saints Lips, and holy Palmers too?
Jul. Ay, Pilgrim, lips that they must use in Prayer.
Rom. O then, dear Saint, let Lips do what Hands do,
They pray, (grant thou,) least Faith turn to Despair.
Jul. Saints do not move,
Though grant for Prayers sake.
Rom. Then move not while my Prayers effect do take:
Thus from my Lips, by thine my sin is purg'd.
Jul. Then have my Lips the sin that they have took.
Rom. Sin from my Lips? O trespass sweetly urg'd:
Give me my sin again. (Mer
Jul. You kiss by th' Book.
Nur. Madam, your Mother craves a word with you.
Rom. What is her Mother? (To the Nurse.)
Nur. Marry, Batchelor,
Her Mother is the Lady of the House,
And a good Lady, and a wise, and vertuous,
I Nurs'd her Daughter that you talk withall:
I tell you, he that can lay hold of her,
Shall have the Chinks.
Rom. Is she a Capulet?
O dear account! my Life is my Foes debt.
Ben. Away, be gone, the sport is at the best.
Rom. Ay, so I fear, the more is my unrest.
Cap. Nay, Gentlemen, prepare not to be gone,
We have a trifling foolish Banquet towards.
Is it e'en so? why then, I thank you all.
I thank you, honest Gentlemen, good Night:
More Torches here, come on, then lets to Bed,
Ah, Sirrah, by my Fay it waxes late.
I'll to my rest. (Exeunt.)

Jul. Come hither, Nurse,
What is yond' Gentleman?
Nur. The Son and Heir of old Tiberio.
Jul. What's he that now is going out of door?
Nur. Marry, that I think to be young Petruchio.
Jul. What's he that follows here, that would not dance?
Nur. I know not.
Jul. Go ask his Name, if he be Married,
My Grave is like to be my wedding Bed.
Nur. His Name is Romeo, and a Mountague,
The only Son of our great Enemy.
Jul. My only Love sprung from my only Hate!
Too early seen, unknown, and known, too late;
Prodigious birth of Love it is to me,
That I must love a loathed Enemy.
Nur. What's this? what's this?
Jul. A Rhime I learn'd even now
Of one I danc'd withall.
[One calls within, Juliet.
Nur. Anon, anon.
Come, let's away, the Strangers all are gone.
[Exeunt.

Enter Chorus.

Now old desire doth on his Death-bed lie,
And young Affection gapes to be his Heir;
That fair, for which Love groan'd for and would die,
With tender Juliet match'd, is now not fair.
Now Romeo is beloved, and loves again,
A like bewitched by the charm of looks:
But to his Foe suppos'd he must complain,
And she steal Loves sweet bait from fearful hooks.
Being held a Foe, he may not have access
To breathe such Vows, as Lovers use to swear;
And she as much in Love, her means much less,
To meet her new Beloved any where:
But passion lends them Power, time, means to meet,
Tempting extremities with extream sweet. (Exit.

Act II. Scene I. The Street.

Enter Romeo alone.

Rom. Can I go forward, when my Heart is here?
Turn back, Dull Earth, and find thy Center out. (Exit

Enter Benvolio with Mercutio.

Ben. Romeo, my Cousin Romeo, ~~Romeo.~~
Mer. He is wise,
And, on my life, hath stoln him home to bed.
Ben. He ran this way, and leap'd this Orchard wall.
Call, good Mercutio:
Nay, I'll conjure too. why
~~Mer. Romeo, Humours, Madam, Passion, Lover.~~
Appear thou in the likeness of a sigh,
Speak but one time, and I am satisfied.
Cry me but ay me, Couple but Love and Day, love,
Speak to my Gossip Venus one fair word,
One Nick-name for her pur-blind Son and her,
Young Abraham Cupid, he that shot so true,
When King Cophetua lov'd the Beggar-maid,
He heareth not, he stirreth not, he moveth not,
The Ape is dead, and I must conjure him.
I conjure thee by Rosaline's bright Eyes,
By her high Fore-head, and her Scarlet lip,
By her fine Foot, streight Leg, and quivering Thigh,
And the Demeans that there adjacent lie,
That in thy likeness thou appear to us.
Ben. And if he hear thee, thou wilt anger him.
Mer. This cannot anger him; 'twould anger him,
To raise a Spirit in his Mistress's Circle,
Of some strange Nature, letting it there stand
Till she had laid it, and conjur'd it down;
That were some spight.
My Invocation is fair and honest, and in his Mistress's name,
I conjure only but to raise up him.
Ben. Come, he hath hid himself among these Trees,
To be consorted with the humorous Night:
Blind is his Love, and best befits the dark.
Mer. If Love be blind, Love cannot hit the mark,
Now will he sit under a Medlar-tree,
And wish his Mistress were that kind of Fruit,
As Maids call Medlars when they laugh alone,
~~O, Romeo, that she were, O that she were~~
~~An Open, or thou a Poprin Pear,~~
Romeo

A. This probably was a name stupidly given to Cupid in the old Ballad here referred to of King Cophetua & the beggar Maid.

Romeo, good night; I'le to my Truckle-bed,
This Field-bed is too cold for me to ſleep:
Come, ſhall we go?
Ben. Go then, for 'tis in vain to ſeek him here
That means not to be found.

Scene II. Capulets Garden. [Exeunt.

Rom. He jeſts at Scars that never felt a wound,
But, ſoft! what light through yonder window breaks?
It is the Eaſt, and Juliet is the Sun! (Juliet appears at the window
Ariſe, fair Sun, and kill the envious Moon,
Who is already ſick and pale with grief,
That thou, her Maid, art far more fair than ſhe:
Be not her Maid ſince ſhe is envious;
Her veſtal Livery is but ſick and green,
And none but Fools do wear it; caſt it off.
It is my Lady, O it is my Love, O that ſhe knew ſhe were,
She ſpeaks, yet ſhe ſays nothing; what of that?
Her Eye diſcourſes, I will anſwer it:
I am too bold, 'tis not to me ſhe ſpeaks:
Two of the faireſt Stars in all the Heaven,
Having ſome buſineſs, do intreat her Eyes
To twinkle in their Spheres till they return.
What if her Eyes were there, they in her Head?
The brightneſs of her Cheek would ſhame thoſe Stars,
As Day-light doth a Lamp; her Eye in Heaven,
Would through the airy Region ſtream ſo bright,
That Birds would ſing, and think it were not Night:
See how ſhe leans her Cheek upon her Hand!
O that I were a Glove upon that hand,
That I might touch that Cheek!
Jul. Ay me!
Rom. She ſpeaks.
Oh, ſpeak again, bright Angel, for thou art
As glorious to this Night, being o're my Head,
As is a winged Meſſenger of Heaven,
Unto the white upturned wondring Eyes
Of Mortals, that fall back to gaze on him,
When he beſtrides the lazy puffing Clouds,
And ſails upon the boſom of the air.
Jul. O, Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?
Deny thy Father, and refuſe thy name:
Or if thou wilt not, be but ſworn my Love,
And I'le no longer be a Capulet.
Rom. Shall I hear more, or ſhall I ſpeak at this? (Aside
Juli. 'Tis but thy name that is my Enemy:
Thou art thy ſelf, though not a Mountague,
What's Mountague? it is not hand nor foot,
Nor arm, nor face, O be ſome other name
Belonging to a man.
What's in a name? that which we call a Roſe,
By any other word would ſmell as ſweet,
So Romeo would, were he not Romeo call'd,
Retain that dear perfection which he owes,
Without that Title; Romeo, doff thy Name,
And for thy Name, which is no part of thee,
Take all my ſelf.
Rom. I take thee at thy word:
Call me but Love, and I'le be new baptiz'd,
Henceforth I never will be Romeo.
Jul. What Man art thou, that thus beſcreen'd in Night,
So ſtumbleſt on my Counſel?
Rom. By a Name,
I know not how to tell thee who I am:
My Name, dear Saint, is hateful to my ſelf,
Becauſe it is an Enemy to thee,
Had I it written, I would tear the word.
Jul. My Ears have yet not drunk a hundred words
Of thy Tongues uttering, yet I know the ſound.
Art thou not Romeo, and a Mountague?
Rom. Neither, fair Maid, if either thee diſlike.
Jul. How cam'ſt thou hither,
Tell me, and wherefore?
The Orchard Walls are high, and hard to climb,
And the place Death, conſidering who thou art,
If any of my Kinſmen find thee here.
Rom. With Loves light wings
Did I o're-perch theſe Walls,
For ſtony Limits cannot hold Love out,
And what Love can do, that dares Love attempt:
Therefore thy Kinſmen are no ſtop to me.
Jul. If they do ſee thee, they will murder thee.
Rom. Alack there lies more peril in thine Eye,
Than twenty of their ſwords; look thou but ſweet,
And I am proof againſt their Enmity.
Jul. I would not for the World they ſaw thee here.
Rom. I have Nights cloak to hide me from their Eyes,
And but thou love me, let them find me here;
My Life were better ended by their Hate,
Than Death prorogued, wanting of thy Love.
Jul. By whoſe direction found'ſt thou out this place?
Rom. By Love, that firſt did prompt me to enquire;
He lent me Counſel, and I lent him Eyes:
I am no Pilot, yet wert thou as far
As that vaſt-ſhore, waſh'd with the fartheſt Sea,
I ſhould adventure for ſuch Merchandiſe.
Jul. Thou knoweſt the mask of Night is on my Face,
Elſe would a Maiden bluſh bepaint my Cheek,
For that which thou haſt heard me ſpeak to Night.
Fain would I dwell on form, fain, fain, deny
What I have ſpoke, but farewel, Complements;
Doſt thou Love? O, I know thou wilt ſay, Ay,
And I will take thy word, yet if thou ſwear'ſt,
Thou may'ſt prove falſe; at Lovers perjuries
They ſay Jove laughs, oh gentle Romeo,
If thou doſt love, pronounce it faithfully:
Or if thou think I am too quickly won,
I'le frown and be perverſe, and ſay thee nay,
So thou wilt wooe: But elſe not for the world.
In truth, fair Mountague, I am too fond,
And therefore thou may'ſt think my behaviour light;
But truſt me, Gentleman, I'le prove more true,
Than thoſe that have more cunning to be ſtrange.
I ſhould have been more ſtrange, I muſt confeſs,
But that thou over-heard'ſt, ere I was ware,
My true Loves paſſion; therefore pardon me,
And not impute this yielding to light Love,
Which the dark night hath ſo diſcovered.
Rom. Lady, by yonder bleſſed Moon, I vow;
That tips with Silver all theſe Fruit-tree tops.
Jul. O ſwear not by the Moon, th'unconſtant Moon,
That monthly changes in her circled Orb,
Leſt that thy Love prove likewiſe variable.
Rom. What ſhall I ſwear by?
Jul. Do not ſwear at all;
Or if thou wilt, ſwear by thy gracious ſelf,
Which is the God of my Idolatry,
And I'le believe thee.
Rom. If my Hearts dear love
Jul. Well, do not ſwear, although I joy in thee,
I have no joy of this contract to Night;
It is too raſh, too unadvis'd, too ſudden,
Too like the lightning which doth ceaſe to be,
E're one can ſay, it lightens. Sweet, good Night,
This bud of Love by Summers ripening breath,
May prove a beauteous Flower when next we meet:
Good night, good night, as ſweet repoſe and reſt,
Come to thy Heart, as that within my breaſt!
Rom. O, wilt thou leave me ſo unſatisfied?
Jul. What ſatisfaction canſt thou have to Night?
Rom. Th' exchange of thy Loves faithful Vow for mine.
Jul. I gave thee mine before thou didſt requeſt it:
And yet I would it were to give again.
Rom. Would'ſt thou withdraw it?
For what purpoſe, Love?
Jul. But to be frank, and give it thee again,
And yet I wiſh but for the thing I have;
My bounty is as boundleſs as the Sea,
My Love as deep, the more I give to thee,

The

The more I have, for both are infinite.
I hear some noise within; dear Love adieu.
[Calls within.
Anon, good Nurse, sweet Mountague, be true:
Stay but a little, I will come again.
Rom. O blessed, blessed Night! I am afear'd,
Being in night, all this is but a Dream,
Too flattering sweet to be substantial.
Re-Enter. Juliet above
Jul. Three words, dear Romeo,
And good night indeed.
If that thy bent of Love be Honourable,
Thy purpose Marriage, send me word to morrow,
By one that I'll procure to come to thee,
Where, and what time thou wilt perform the Rite,
And all my Fortunes at thy Foot I'll lay,
And follow thee, my Lord, throughout the World.
[Within: Madam.
I come, anon: but if thou meanest not well,
I do beseech thee,
[Within: Madam.
By and by, I come,
To cease thy strife, and leave me to my grief,
To morrow will I send.
Rom. So thrive my Soul.
Jul. A thousand times good Night!
[Exit.
Rom. A thousand times the worse to want thy light,
Love goes toward Love, as School-boys from their Books;
But Love from Love, towards School with heavy looks.

Enter Juliet again.

Jul. Hist! Romeo, hist! O for a Falkners Voice,
To lure this Tassel-gentle back again,
Bondage is hoarse, and may not speak aloud;
Else would I tear the Cave where Eccho lies,
And make her airy Tongue more hoarse, than with the repetition of my Romeo.
Rom. It is my Soul that calls upon my Name,
How silver-sweet sound Lovers Tongues by Night,
Like softest Musick to attending Ears.
Jul. Romeo.
Rom. My Sweet!
Jul. What a Clock to morrow
Shall I send to thee?
Rom. By the hour of Nine.
Jul. I will not fail, 'tis twenty years till then,
I have forgot why I did call thee back.
Rom. Let me stand here 'till thou remember it.
Jul. I shall forget, to have thee still stand there,
Remembring how I love thy Company.
Rom. And I'll still stay to have thee still forget,
Forgetting any other home but this.
Jul. 'Tis almost morning, I would have thee gone,
And yet no further then a wantons Bird,
That lets it hop a little from her hand,
Like a poor Prisoner in his twisted Gyves,
And with a silken thred plucks it again,
So loving jealous of his Liberty.
Rom. I would I were thy Bird.
Jul. Sweet, so would I;
Yet I should kill thee with much cherishing.
Good night, good night!
Rom. Parting is such sweet sorrow,
That I shall say, Good night, till it be morrow. (Exit.
Jul. Sleep dwell upon thine Eyes, peace in thy Breast!
[Exit.
Rom. Would I were Sleep and Peace so sweet to rest,
~~The gray-ey'd Morn smiles on the frowning Night,~~
~~Check'ring the Eastern Clouds with streaks of light,~~
~~And Darkness fleckel'd like a Drunkard reels,~~
~~From forth days path-way, made by Titan's Wheels.~~
Hence will I to my Ghostly Frier's close Cell,
His help to crave, and my dear hap to tell. [Exit.

Scene III. A Monastery.
Enter Frier alone with a Basket.

Fri. Now e're the Sun advance his burning Eye,
The day to chear, and Nights dank dew to dry,
I must up-fill this Osier Cage of ours,
With baleful Weeds, and precious juiced Flowers,
The Earth that's Natures Mother, is her Tomb,
What is her burying Grave, that is her Womb;
And from her Womb Children of divers kind
We sucking on her natural Bosom find:
Many for many Virtues Excellent;
None but for some, and yet all different.
O mickle is the powerful Grace, that lies
In Plants, Herbs, Stones, and their true Qualities,
For nought so vile, that on the Earth doth live,
But to the Earth some special good doth give:
Nor ought so good, but, strain'd from that fair use,
Revolts from true Birth, stumbling on abuse.
Vertue it self turns vice being misapplied,
And Vice sometime by action dignified.

~~Enter Romeo.~~

Within the infant Rind of this weak Flower,
Poison hath residence, and medicine Power:
For this, being smelt, with that part chears each part;
Being tasted, slays all Senses with the Heart.
Two such opposed ~~Kings~~ Foes encamp them still,
In Man as well as Herbs; Grace and rude Will:
And where the worser is predominant,
Full soon the Canker Death eats up that Plant.
Rom. Good morrow, Father. Enter Romeo.
Fri. Benedicite.
What early Tongue so sweet saluteth mine Ear
Young Son, it argues a distemper'd Head,
So soon to bid Good morrow to thy Bed:
Care keeps his watch in every old Mans Eye,
And where Care lodgeth, Sleep will never lie;
But where unbruised Youth with unstuft Brain
Doth couch his Limbs, there golden sleep doth raign,
Therefore thy earliness doth me assure,
Thou art up-rouz'd with some distemperature;
Or if not so, then here I hit it right,
Our Romeo hath not been in bed to Night.
Rom. That last is true, the sweeter rest was mine.
Fri. God pardon sin! wast thou with Rosaline?
Rom. With Rosaline, my Ghostly Father? No,
I have forgot that Name, and that Name's woe.
Fri. That's my good Son: but where hast thou been then?
Rom. I'll tell thee e're thou ask it me again;
I have been feasting with mine Enemy,
Where on a sudden one hath wounded me,
That's by me wounded; both our Remedies
Within thy help and holy Physick lies;
I bear no hatred, Blessed man, for lo
My intercession likewise steads my Foe.
Fri. Be plain, good Son, rest homely in thy drift,
Riddling confession finds but riddling shrift.
Rom. Then plainly know my heart's dear Love is set
On the fair Daughter of rich Capulet;
As mine on hers, so hers is set on mine,
And all combin'd, save what thou must combine
By holy Marriage: when, and where, and how,
We met, we woo'd, and made exchange of vow,
I'll tell thee as we pass, but this I pray,
That thou consent to marry us to day.
Fri. Holy Saint Francis, what a change is here!
Is Rosaline, that thou didst love so dear,
So soon forsaken? young mens Love then lies
Not truly in their Hearts, but in their Eyes.
Jesu Maria! what a deal of brine
Hath washt thy sallow Cheeks for Rosaline?
How much salt Water thrown away in waste,

To

To ſeaſon Love, that of it doth not taſte?
The Sun not yet thy ſighes from heaven clears,
Thy old groans yet ring in my ancient ears;
Lo here upon thy cheek the ſtain doth ſit,
Of an old tear that is not waſht off yet.
If ere thou waſt thy ſelf, and theſe woes thine,
Thou and theſe woes were all for Roſaline.
And art thou chang'd? Pronounce this ſentence then,
Women may fall, when there's no ſtrength in men.

Rom. Thou chidd'ſt me oft for loving Roſaline.

Fri. For doting, not for loving, Pupil mine.

Rom. And bad'ſt me bury Love.

Fri. Not in a grave,
To lay one in, another out to have.

Rom. I pray thee, chide ~~me~~ not, ~~her~~ whom I Love now
Doth grace for grace, and Love for Love allow:
The other did not ſo.

Fri. Oh, ſhe knew well,
Thy Love did read by rote, ~~that~~ could not ſpell.
But come young waverer, come go with me,
In one reſpect I'le thy aſſiſtant be:
For this alliance may ſo happy prove,
To turn your houſhold-rancour to pure Love.

Rom. O let us hence, I ſtand on ſudden haſte.

Fri. Wiſely and ſlow; they ſtumble that run faſt. [Exeunt.

Scene IV. The ſtreet.

Enter Benvolio and Mercutio.

Mer. Where the devil ſhould this Romeo be? came he not home to night?

Ben. Not to his Fathers, I ſpoke with his man.

Mer. Why that ſame pale hard-hearted wench, that Roſaline torments him ſo, that he will ſure run mad.

Ben. Tybalt, the kinſman to old Capulet, hath ſent a Letter to his Fathers houſe.

Mer. A Challenge on my life.

Ben. Romeo will anſwer it.

Mer. Any man that can write, may anſwer a Letter.

Ben. Nay he will anſwer the Letters Maſter, how he dares, being dared.

Mer. Alas poor Romeo, he is already dead! ſtabb'd with a white whenches black eye, run through the ear with a Love-ſong, the very pin of his heart cleft with the blind Bow-boyes-but-ſhaft; and is he a man to encounter Tybalt?

Ben. Why, what is Tybalt?

Mer. More then Prince of Cats. Oh, he's the Couragious Captain of Complements; he fights as you ſing prick-ſongs, keeps time, diſtance, and proportion; ~~he~~ reſts his minum, one, two, and the third in your Boſom; the very butcher of a ſilk button, a Duelliſt, a Duelliſt; a Gentleman of the very firſt houſe of the firſt and ſecond cauſe; ah the immortal Paſſado, the Punto reverſo, the Hay!

Ben. The what?

Mer. The Pox of ſuch antique liſping affecting phantaſies, theſe new tuners of accents: Jeſu, a very good blade! a very tall man! a very good Whore! Why is not this a lamentable thing Grandſire, that we ſhould be thus afflicted with theſe ſtrange flies, theſe faſhion-mongers, theſe pardon-me's, who ſtand ſo much on the new form, that they cannot ſit at eaſe on the old bench, O their bones, their bones!

Enter Romeo.

Ben. Here comes Romeo, ~~here comes Romeo.~~

Mer. Without his Roe, like a dried Herring. O fleſh, fleſh, how art thou fiſhified? Now is he for the numbers that Petrarch flowed in: Laura to his Lady was a Kitchen-wench, marry ſhe had a better love to be-rime her: Dido a Dowdy, Cleopatra, a Gipſie, Helen and Hero, hildings and harlots; Thisbe a gray eye or ſo, but not to the purpoſe. Signior Romeo, Bonjour! there's a French ſalutation to your French ſlop: you gave us the counterfeit fairly laſt night.

Romeo. Good morrow to you both, what counterfeit did I give you?

Mer. The ſlip Sir, the ſlip, can you not conceive?

Rom. Pardon Mercutio, my buſineſs was great, and in ſuch a caſe as mine, a man may ſtrain courteſie.

Mer. That's as much as to ſay, ſuch a caſe as yours conſtrains a man to bow in the hams.

Rom. Meaning to courteſie.

Mer. Thou haſt moſt kindly hit it.

Rom. A moſt courteous expoſition.

Mer. Nay, I am the very pinck of courteſie.

Rom. Pinke for flower.

Mer. Right.

Rom. Why then is my Pump well flowr'd.

Mer. Sure wit, follow me this jeſt now till thou haſt worn out thy Pump, that when the ſingle ſole of it is worn, the jeſt may remain after the wearing, ſole-ſingular.

Rom. O ſingle-ſol'd jeſt.
Solely ſingular, for the ſingleneſs.

Mer. Come between us good Benvolio, my wit faints.

Rom. Swits and Spurs,
Swits and Spurs, or I'le cry a match.

Mer. Nay, if our wits run the Wild-gooſe chaſe, I am done: For thou haſt more of the Wild-gooſe in one of thy wits, then I am ſure I have in my whole five. Was I with you there for the Gooſe?

Rom. Thou was never with me for any thing, when thou waſt not there for the Gooſe.

Mer. I will bite thee by the ear for that jeſt.

Rom. Nay, good Gooſe bite not.

Mer. Thy wit is a very bitter-ſweeting,
It is a moſt ſharp ſawce.

Rom. And is it not well ſerv'd in to a ſweet Gooſe?

Mer. Oh here's a wit of Cheverell, that ſtretches from an inch narrow, to an ell broad.

Rom. I ſtretch it out for that word, broad, which added to the Gooſe, proves the far and wide, a broad Gooſe.

Mer. Why is not this better now, then groaning for Love? now art thou ſociable, now art thou Romeo: now art thou what thou art, by Art as well as by Nature, for this driveling Love is like a great Natural, that runs lolling up and down to hide his bauble in a hole.

Ben. Stop there, ſtop there.

Mer. Thou deſireſt me to ſtop in my Tale againſt the chair.

Ben. Thou would'ſt elſe made thy tale large.

Mer. O thou art deceiv'd, I would have made it ſhort, for I was come to the whole depth of my Tale, and meant indeed to occupy the argument no longer.

Bo: Good morrow to you both!

Enter Nurſe and her Man,

Rom. Here's goodly gear:
A ſayle, a ſayle!

Mer. Two, two, a Shirt and a Smock,

Nur. Peter!

Peter. Anon.

Nur. My Fan, Peter.

Mer. Good Peter, to hide her face;
For her Fan's the fairer ~~face~~? of the two.

Nur. God ye good morrow, Gentlemen.

Mer. God ye gooden, fair Gentlewoman.

Nur. Is it gooden?

Mer. 'Tis no leſs I tell you; for the bawdy hand of the Dial is now upon the prick of Noon.

Nur. Out upon you! what a man are you?

Rom. One, Gentlewoman,
That God hath made himſelf to mar.

Nur. By my troth it is ſaid, for himſelf to mar, quotha? Gentlemen, can any of you tell me where I may find the young Romeo?

Romeo. I can tell you: but young Romeo will be older

(A) Tybalt was the name given to a Cat of whom some famous acts were related in Old Ballads as Grimalkin was another.

when you have found him, than he was when you ſought him: I am the youngeſt of that Name, for fault of a worſe.

Nur. You ſay well.

Mer. Yea, is the worſt well? Very well took, I faith, wiſely, wiſely.

Nur. If you be he, Sir, I deſire ſome Confidence with you.

Ben. She will invite him to ſome Supper.

Mer. A Baud, a Baud, a Baud. So ho.

Rom. What haſt thou found?

Mer. No Hare Sir, unleſs a Hare Sir in a Lenten Pie, that is ſomething Stale and Hoar e're it be ſpent. An old Hare hoar, and an old Hare hoar is very good meat in Lent. But a Hare that is hoar, is too much for a Score, when it hoars e're it be ſpent.

Romeo, will you come to your Fathers? Wee'l to Dinner thither.

Rom. I will follow you.

Mer. Farewel ancient Lady: Farewel Lady, Lady, Lady.

[Ex. Mercutio, Benvolio.

Nur. I pray you Sir, what ſawcy Merchant was this that was ſo full of his Roguery?

Rom. A Gentelman, Nurſe, that loves to hear himſelf talk, and will ſpeak more in a minute, than he will ſtand to in a Month.

Nur. And a ſpeak any thing againſt me, I'le take him down, and a were luſtier than he is, and twenty ſuch Jacks: And if I cannot, I'le find thoſe that ſhall. Scurvy Knave, I am none of his flirt-gils, I am none of his skains-Mates. And thou muſt ſtand by too, and ſuffer every Knave to uſe me at his Pleaſure. (To her Man.

Pet. I ſaw no Man uſe you at his Pleaſure: if I had, my Weapon ſhould quickly have been out, I warrant you, I dare draw as ſoon as another Man, if I ſee occaſion in a good Quarrel, and the Law on my ſide.

Nur. Now afore God, I am ſo vext, that every part about me quivers. Scurvy Knave! Pray you, Sir a Word: And as I told you, my young Lady bid me enquire you out; what ſhe bid me ſay, I will keep to my ſelf: But firſt let me tell ye, if ye ſhould lead her in a fools Paradiſe, as they ſay, it were a very groſs kind of behaviour, as they ſay; For the Gentlewoman is young; and therefore, if you ſhould deal double with her, truly it were an ill thing to be offered to any Gentlewoman, and very weak dealing.

Rom. Nurſe, commend me to thy Lady and Miſtreſs, I proteſt unto thee——

Nur. Good heart, and I 'faith I will tell her as much: Lord, Lord, ſhe will be a joyful Woman.

Rom. What wilt thou tell her, Nurſe? Thou doſt not mark me?

Nur. I will tell her, Sir, that you do proteſt, which, as I take it, is a Gentleman-like offer.

Rom. Bid her deviſe ſome means to come to ſhrift this afternoon; And there ſhe ſhall at Frier Lawrence Cell Be ſhriv'd and married: here is for thy pains.

Nur. No truly, Sir, not a penny.

Rom. Go to, I ſay you ſhall.

Nur. This afternoon, Sir? Well, ſhe ſhall be there.

Rom. And ſtay, thou, good Nurſe, behind the Abby-wall; Within this hour my Man ſhall be with thee, And bring thee Cords made like a tackled ſtair, Which to the high top-gallant of my joy Muſt be my Convoy in the ſecret Night. Farewel, be truſty, and I'le quite thy pains. Farewel, commend me to thy Miſtreſs.

Nur. Now God in Heaven bleſs thee! Hark you Sir.

Rom. What ſaiſt thou, my dear Nurſe?

Nur. Is your man ſecret? did you ne're hear ſay, Two may keep Counſel, putting one away?

Rom. I warrant thee my man's as true as Steel.

Nur. Well Sir, my Miſtreſs is the ſweeteſt Lady; Lord, Lord, when 'twas a little prating thing. O, there is a Noble man in Town, one Paris, that would fain lay Knife aboard; But ſhe, good Soul, had as lief ſee a Toad, a very Toad, as ſee him: I anger her ſometimes, and tell her that Paris is the properer man; but I'le warrant you, when I ſay ſo, ſhe looks as pale as any Clout in the verſal World. Doth not Roſemary and Romeo begin both with a letter?

Rom. Ay, Nurſe, what of that? Both with an R.

Nur. A mocker! that's the Dogs name. R. is for the no. I know it begins with ſome other Letter; and ſhe hath the prettieſt ſententious of it, of you and Roſemary, that it would do you good to hear it.

Rom. Commend me to thy Lady—— Exit.

Nur. Ay a thouſand times. Peter!

Pet. Anon. Take my fan and go

Nur. Before, and apace. [Ex. Nurſe and Peter.

Scene V. Capulet's House.

Enter Juliet.

Juli. The Clock ſtrook nine, when I did ſend the Nurſe: In half an hour ſhe promiſed to return. Perchance ſhe cannot meet him. That's not ſo. Oh, ſhe is Lame; Loves Heralds ſhould be thoughts, Which ten times faſter glide than the Sun-Beams, Driving back ſhadows over lowring Hills. Therefore do nimble Pinnion'd Doves draw Love, And therefore hath the wind-ſwift Cupid Wings. Now is the Sun upon the highmoſt Hill Of this days journey, and from nine till twelve, Three long hours, yet ſhe is not come; Had ſhe affections and warm youthful Blood, She'd be as ſwift in motion as a Ball, My words would bandy her to my ſweet Love, And his to me; but old Folks, Many fain as they were Dead, Unwieldy, ſlow, heavy, and pale as Lead.

Enter Nurſe.

O God, ſhe comes. O honey Nurſe, what News? Haſt thou met with him? Send thy Man away.

Nur. Peter, ſtay at the Gate. Exit Pet.

Juli. Now good ſweet Nurſe. — — —

O Lord why look'ſt thou ſad? Though News be ſad, yet tell them merrily. If good, thou ſham'ſt the Muſick of ſweet News, By playing it to me with ſo ſower a Face.

Nur. I am a weary, give me leave a while; Fie, how my Bones ake, what a Jaunt have I had?

Juli. I would thou hadſt my Bones, and I thy News: Nay come, I pray thee ſpeak, good Nurſe, ſpeak.

Nur. Jeſu, what haſte? can you not ſtay a while? Do you not ſee how I am out of breath?

Juli. How art thou out of breath, when thou haſt breath To ſay to me, that thou art out of breath? The Excuſe that thou doſt make in this delay, Is longer then the Tale thou doſt excuſe. Is thy News good or bad? Anſwer to that; Say either, and I'le ſtay the Circumſtance: Let me be ſatisfied, is't good or bad?

Nur. Well, you have made a ſimple choice; you know not how to chuſe a man: Romeo, no, not he; though his Face be better than any mans, yet his Legs excell all mens, and for a Hand and a Foot, and a Body, though they be not to be talk'd on, yet they are paſt compare: He is not the Flower of Courteſie, but I warrant him as gentle a Lamb. Go thy ways Wench, ſerve God. what have you din'd at home?

Juli. No, no. But all this did I know before: What ſaies he of our Marriage? What of that?

Nur. Lord how my Head akes, what a Head have I? It beats as it would fall in twenty Peices. My back a tother ſide. O my back, my back: Beſhrew your Heart, for ſending me about, To catch my Death with jaunting up and down.

Juli. I'faith I am ſorry that thou art ſo ill.

Sweet,

* Nur: Give me ſome Aqua Vitæ

Sweet, ſweet, ſweet Nurſe, tell me, what ſays my Love?
Nur. Your Love ſays like an honeſt Gentleman,
And a courteous, and a kind, and a handſome,
And I warrant a vertuous;—where is your Mother?
Juli. Where is my Mother?
Why ſhe is within, where ſhould ſhe be?
How odly thou reply'ſt!
Your Love ſays like an honeſt Gentleman:
Where is my Mother?———
Nur. O, Gods Lady dear,
Are you ſo hot? marry come up I trow,
Is this the Poultis for my aking bones?
Hence forward do your meſſages your ſelf.
Juli. Here's ſuch a coil; come, what ſays Romeo?
Nur. Have you got leave to go to ſhrift to day?
Juli. I have.
Nur. Then hie you hence to Frier Lawrence Cell,
There ſtaies a Husband to make you a Wife.
Now comes the wanton blood up in your Cheeks,
They'll be in Scarlet ſtraight at any news:
Hie you to Church, I muſt another way,
To fetch a Ladder, by the which your Love
Muſt climb a Birds neſt ſoon, when it is dark.
I am the drudge, and toil in your delight;
But you ſhall bear the Burthen ſoon at night.
Go, I'll to Dinner, hie you to the Cell.
Juli. Hie to high Fortune! honeſt Nurſe, farewell!
[Exeunt.

Scene VI. The Monastery.

Enter Frier and Romeo.

Fri. So ſmile the Heavens upon this holy act,
That after hours with ſorrow chide us not.
Rom. Amen, amen! but come what ſorrow can,
It cannot countervail the exchange of joy,
That one ſhort minute gives me in her ſight:
Do thou but cloſe our Hands with holy words,
Then Love-devouring Death do what he dare,
It is enough I may but call her mine.
Fri. Theſe violent delights have violent ends,
And in their triumph die like Fire and Powder,
Which as they kiſs, conſume. The ſweeteſt honey
Is loathſom in his own deliciouſneſs,
And in the taſte confounds the appetite:
Therefore love moderately, long Love doth ſo;
Too ſwift arrives as tardy as too ſlow.

Enter Juliet.

Here comes the Lady. O, ſo light a foot
Will ne'er wear out the everlaſting flint;
A Lover may beſtride the Goſſamour
That idles in the wanton Summer Air,
And yet not fall, ſo light is vanity.
Juli. Good-even to my ghoſtly Confeſſor.
Fri. Romeo ſhall thank thee, Daughter, for us both.
Juli. As much to him, elſe is his thanks too much.
Rom. Ah Juliet, if the meaſure of thy joy
Be heapt like mine, and that thy skill be more
To blaſon it; then ſweeten with thy breath
This neighbour Air, and let rich Muſicks Tongue
Unfold the imagin'd happineſs, that both
Receive in either, by this dear encounter.
Juli. Conceit more rich in matter then in words,
Brags of his Subſtance, not of Ornament:
They are but beggars that can count their worth,
But my true Love is grown to ſuch exceſs,
I cannot ſum up ſome of half my wealth.
Fri. Come, come with me, and we will make ſhort work,
For by your leaves, you ſhall not ſtay alone,
Till holy Church incorporate two in one.
[Exeunt.

Act III. Scene I. The Street.

Enter Mercutio, Benvolio, and Men.

Ben. I pray thee, good Mercutio, lets retire,
The day is hot, the Capulets abroad,
And if we meet, we ſhall not ſcape a brawl, for now theſe hot days is the mad blood ſtirring.
Mer. Thou art like one of thoſe Fellows, that when he enters the confines of a Tavern, claps me his ſword upon the table, and ſaies, God ſend me no need of thee! and by the operation of the ſecond Cup, draws him on the Drawer, when indeed there is no need.
Ben. Am I like ſuch a fellow?
Mer. Come, come, thou art as hot a Jack in thy mood, as any in Italy; and as ſoon moved to be moody, and as ſoon moody to be mov'd.
Ben. And what too?
Mer. Nay, and there were two ſuch, we ſhould have none ſhortly, for one would kill the other. Thou! why thou wilt quarrel with a man that hath a hair more, or a hair leſs in his Beard than thou haſt: thou wilt quarrel with a man for cracking Nuts, having no other reaſon, but becauſe thou haſt haſel Eyes; what eye, but ſuch an eye, would ſpy out ſuch a quarrel? thy head is as full of quarrels, as an Egg is full of meat, and yet thy head hath been beaten as addle as an Egg for quarrelling: thou haſt quarrell'd with a man for Coughing in the ſtreet, becauſe he hath wakened thy Dog that hath lain aſleep in the Sun. Did'ſt thou not fall out with a Taylor for wearing his new Doublet before Eaſter? with another, for tying his new Shoes with old Ribband? and yet thou wilt Tutor me from quarrelling!
Ben. And I were ſo apt to quarrel as thou art, any man ſhould buy the Fee-ſimple of my Life for an hour and a quarter.
Mer. The Fee-ſimple? O ſimple!

Enter Tybalt, Petruchio, and others.

Ben. By my head, here come the Capulets.
Mer. By my heel, I care not.
Tyb. Follow me cloſe, for I will ſpeak to them.
Gentlemen, Good-den, a word with one of you.
Mer. And but one word with one of us? couple it with ſomething, make it a word and a blow.
Tyb. You ſhall find me apt enough to that Sir, and you will give me occaſion.
Mercu. Could you not take ſome occaſion without giving?
Tyb. Mercutio, thou conſort'ſt with Romeo.
Mer. Conſort! what doſt thou make us Minſtrels? and thou make Minſtrels of us, look to hear nothing but Diſcords: here's my Fiddleſtick; here's that ſhall make you dance. Zounds, conſort! (Laying his hand on his Sword
Ben. We talk here in the publick haunt of men:
Either withdraw unto ſome private place,
Or reaſon coldly of your grievances,
Or elſe depart; here all Eyes gaze on us.
Mer. Mens Eyes were made to look, and let them gaze;
I will not budge for no mans pleaſure, I.

Enter Romeo.

Tyb. Well, peace be with you Sir, here comes my man.
Mer. But I'le be hang'd, Sir, if he wear your Livery:
Marry go before to field, he'l be your follower,
Your Worſhip in that ſenſe may call him man.
Tyb. Romeo, the love I bear thee, can afford
No better term than this; Thou art a Villain.
Rom. Tybalt, the reaſon that I have to love thee,
Doth much excuſe the appertaining rage
To ſuch a greeting: Villain I am none,
Therefore farewell; I ſee thou know'ſt me not.
Tyb. Boy, this ſhall not excuſe the injuries

That thou haſt done me, therefore turn and Draw.
Rom. I do proteſt I never injur'd thee,
But lov'd thee better than thou can'ſt deviſe,
Till thou ſhalt know the Reaſon of my Love.
And ſo, good Capulet, (which Name I tender
As dearly as my own,) be ſatisfied.
Mer. O calm, diſhonourable, vile ſubmiſſion!
~~Miſtuus~~ carries it away. He draws.
Tybalt, You Rat-catcher, will you walk?
Tib. What would'ſt thou have with me?
Mer. Good King of Cats, nothing but one of your nine Lives, that I mean to make bold withal; and as you ſhall uſe me hereafter, dry beat the reſt of the eight. Will you pluck your Sword out of his Pitcher by the Ears? Make haſte, leſt mine be about your Ears e're it be out.
Tib. I am for you. (Drawing.
Rom. Gentle Mercutio, put thy Rapier up.
Mer. Come Sir, your Paſſado. (Fighting.)
Rom. Draw, Benvolio, beat down their Weapons: ——
Gentlemen, for ſhame forbear this outrage, ——
Tybalt, Mercutio, the Prince expreſly hath Forbidden bandying in Verona Streets,
Hold Tybalt, good Mercutio.
[Exit Tybalt.
Mer. I am hurt. ——
A Plague of both the houſes! I am ſped:
Is he gone, and hath nothing?
Ben. What, art thou hurt?
Mer. Ay Ay a Scratch, a Scratch; marry 'tis enough.
Where is my Page? Go Villain, fetch a Surgeon.
Rom. Courage, man, the hurt cannot be much.
Mer. No, 'tis not ſo deep as a Well, nor ſo wide as a Church-door, but 'tis enough, 'twill ſerve: ask for me to morrow, and you ſhall find me a Grave Man. I am pepper'd, I warrant, for this World: a Plague of both your Houſes! What, a Dog, a Rat, a Mouſe, a Cat to ſcratch a Man to Death? a Braggart, a Rogue, a Villain, that fights by the book of Arithmetick. Why the Devil came you between us? I was hurt under your Arm.
Rom. I thought all for the beſt.
Mer. Help me into ſome Houſe, Benvolio,
Or I ſhall faint; a Plague o'both your Houſes!
They have made worms-meat of me,
I have it, and ſoundly too, your Houſes!
[Exit.

Scene II.

Rom. This Gentleman, the Princes near Allie,
My very Friend, hath got his mortal Hurt
In my behalf; my Reputation ſtain'd
With Tybalt's ſlander; Tybalt, that an Hour
Hath been my Cozen: O Sweet Juliet,
Thy Beauty hath made me Effeminate,
And in my Temper ſoftned Valour's Steel.

Enter Benvolio.

Ben. O Romeo, Romeo, brave Mercutio's dead;
That Gallant Spirit hath aſpir'd the Clouds,
Which too untimely here did ſcorn the Earth.
Rom. This days black Fate, on more days does depend;
This but begins the Woe, others muſt end.

Enter Tybalt.

Ben. Here comes the furious Tybalt back again.
Rom. He gone in Triumph, and Mercutio Slain?
Away to Heaven reſpective Lenity,
And Fire, and Fury be my Conduct now!
Now Tybalt take the Villain back again,
That late thou gav'ſt me, for Mercutio's Soul
Is but a little way above our Heads,
Staying for thine to keep him Company:
Either thou or I, or both, muſt go with him.
Tyb. Thou, wretched Boy that didſt conſort him here,
Shalt with him hence.
Rom. This ſhall determine that.
They fight. Tybalt falls.
Ben. Romeo, away, be gone:
The Citizens are up, and Tybalt ſlain, ——
Stand not amaz'd; the Prince will doom thee Death,
If thou art taken: Hence, be gone, away.
Rom. O! I am Fortunes Fool.
Ben. Why doſt thou ſtay?
[Exit Romeo.

Scene III.

Enter Citizens.

Citi. Which way ran he that kill'd Mercutio?
Tybalt that Murtherer, which way ran he?
Ben. There lies that Tybalt.
Citi. Up Sir, go with me:
I charge thee in the Princes Name obey.

Enter Prince, old Mountague, Capulet, their Wives and all.

Prin. Where are the vile beginners of this Fray?
Ben. O Noble Prince, I can diſcover all
The unlucky mannage of this fatal Brall:
There lies the man ſlain by young Romeo,
That ſlew thy Kinſman brave Mercutio.
Cap. Wi. Tybalt my Cozen? O my Brothers Child,
O Prince, O Cozen, Husband, O the Blood is ſpill'd,
Of my dear Kinſman. Prince, as thou art true,
For Blood of ours, ſhed Blood of Mountague.
O Cozen, Cozen.
Prin. Benvolio, Who began this Fray?
Ben. Tybalt here Slain, whom Romeo's hand did Slay,
Romeo that ſpoke him fair, bid him bethink
How nice the Quarrel was, and urg'd withal
Your High Diſpleaſure: All this uttered,
With gentle Breath, calm Look, Knees humbly bow'd,
Could not take Truce with the unruly Spleen
Of Tybalt, deaf to Peace, but that he Tilts
With Piercing Steel at bold Mercutio's Breaſt;
Who all as hot, turns deadly Point to Point,
And with a Martial ſcorn, with one hand beats
Cold Death aſide, and with the other ſends
It back to Tybalt, whoſe Dexterity
Retorts it: Romeo, he cries aloud,
Hold Friends! Friends, part! and ſwifter than his Tongue,
His agile Arm beats down their fatal Points,
And twixt them Ruſhes, underneath whoſe Arm,
An envious thruſt from Tybalt, hit the Life
Of ſtout Mercutio; and then Tybalt fled,
But by and by comes back to Romeo,
Who had but newly entertained Revenge,
And to't they go like Lightning, for e're I
Could draw to part them, was ſtout Tybalt Slain;
And as he fell, did Romeo turn and Fly:
This is the Truth, or let Benvolio Die.
Cap. Wi. He is a Kinſman to the Mountague,
Affection makes him falſe, he ſpeaks not true.
Some twenty of them fought in this black ſtrife,
And all thoſe twenty could but kill one Life.
I beg for Juſtice, which thou Prince muſt give;
Romeo ſlew Tybalt, Romeo muſt not Live.
Prin. Romeo ſlew him, he ſlew Mercutio;
Who now the Price of his dear Blood doth owe?
Cap. Not Romeo, Prince, he was Mercutio's Friend,
His Fault concludes but what the Law ſhould end,
The Life of Tybalt.
Prin. And for that Offence,
Immediately we do Exile him hence:
I have an Intereſt in your hearts Proceeding,
My Blood for your rude Brawls doth lye a Bleeding,
But I'le amerce you with ſo ſtrong a Fine,
That you ſhall all Repent the loſs of Mine.
I will be deaf to Pleading and Excuſes,

Nor

Nor Tears, nor Prayers ſhall purchaſe our abuſes,
Therefore uſe none, let Romeo hence in haſte,
Elſe when he is found, that hour is his laſt.
Bear hence this Body, and attend our Will:
Mercy but Murders, pardoning thoſe that Kill.
[Exeunt.

Scene IV.
An Apartment in Capulets House.

Enter Juliet alone.

Juli. Gallop apace, you fiery footed Steeds,
Toward Phœbus lodging, ſuch a Wagoner
As Phaeton would whip you to the Weſt,
And bring in cloudy night immediately.
Spread thy cloſe Curtain, Love-performing night,
That run-aways eyes may wink; and Romeo
Leap to theſe Arms, untalkt of and unſeen.
Lovers can ſee to do their Amorous Rites,
By their own Beauties: Or if Love be blind,
It beſt agrees with night. Come civil night,
Thou ſober-ſuted Matron, all in black,
And learn me how to loſe a winning Match,
Play'd for a pair of ſtainleſs Maidenheads,
Hood my unmann'd Blood baiting in my Cheeks,
With thy black Mantle; till ſtrange Love, grow bold,
Think true Love acted, ſimple Modeſty.
Come night, come Romeo, come thou day in night,
For thou wilt lie upon the Wings of night,
Whiter than new Snow on a Ravens back:
Come gentle night, come loving black-brow'd night,
Give me my Romeo, and when I ſhall die,
Take him and cut him out in little Stars,
And he will make the Face of Heaven ſo fine,
That all the World will be in Love with night,
And pay no Worſhip to the Gariſh Sun.
O, I have bought the Manſion of a Love,
But not poſſeſs'd it; and though I am ſold,
Not yet enjoy'd; ſo tedious is this Day,
As is the night before ſome Feſtival,
To an impatient Child that hath new Robes,
And may not wear them. O here comes my Nurſe!

Enter Nurſe with Cords.

And ſhe brings news, and every Tongne that ſpeaks
But Romeo's name, ſpeaks Heavenly Eloquence;
Now Nurſe, what News? What haſt thou there?
The Cords that Romeo bid thee fetch?
Nur. Ay, Ay, the Cords.
Juli. Ay me, what News?
Why doſt thou wring thy Hands?
Nur. Ah weladay he's dead, he's dead, he's dead!
We are undone, Lady, we are undone.
Alack the day, he's gone, he's kill'd, he's dead.
Juli. Can Heav'n be ſo envious?
Nur. Romeo can,
Though Heaven cannot. O Romeo, Romeo,
Who ever would have thought it, Romeo?
Juli. What Devil art thou,
That doſt torment me thus?
This Torture ſhould be roar'd in diſmal Hell,
Hath Romeo ſlain himſelf? Say thou but I:
And that bare Vowel I ſhall poyſon more
Than the Death-darting eye of Cockatrice,
~~I am not I, if there be ſuch an I.~~
~~Or thoſe Eyes ſhot that makes the anſwer I,~~
~~If he be ſlain ſay I, or if not, no.~~
~~Brief ſounds determine of my weal or woe.~~
Nur. I ſaw the Wound, I ſaw it with mine Eyes,
God ſave the Mark, here on his manly Breaſt.
A pitteous Coarſe, a bloody pitteous Coarſe;
Pale, pale as Aſhes, all bedawb'd in Blood,
All in gore Blood; I ſwooned at the ſight.
Juli. O break my heart,
Poor Bankrupt break at once,
To Priſon, Eyes, ne're look on Liberty;
Vile Earth to Earth reſign, end motion here,
And thou and Romeo preſs one heavy Bier.
Nur. O Tybalt, Tybalt, the beſt Friend I had:
O courteous Tybalt, honeſt Gentleman,
That ever I ſhould live to ſee thee Dead.
Juli. What ſtorm is this that blows ſo contrary?
Is Romeo ſlaughter'd? and is Tybalt dead?
My deareſt Cozen, and my dearer Lord?
Then dreadful Trumpet ſound the general Doom,
For who is living, if thoſe two are gone?
Nur. Tybalt is gone, and Romeo baniſhed,
Romeo that kill'd him, he is Baniſhed.
Juli. O God!
Did Romeo's hand ſhed Tybalt's Blood?
Nur. It did, it did, alas the day, it did.
Juli. O Serpent Heart, hid with a flowring face,
Did ever Dragon keep ſo fair a Cave?
Beautiful Tyrant, Fiend Angelical,
~~Ravenous~~ Dove, feather'd Raven,
Wolviſh-ravening Lamb,
~~Deſpiſed ſubſtance of Divineſt ſhow:~~
~~Juſt oppoſite to what thou juſtly ſeem'ſt,~~
~~A damned Saint, an Honourable Villain:~~
O Nature! What hadſt thou to do in Hell,
When thou didſt bower the Spirit of a Fiend
In mortal Paradiſe of ſuch ſweet fleſh?
Was ever Book containing ſuch vile matter
So fairly bound? O that deceit ſhould dwell
In ſuch a gorgeous Pallace!
Nur. There's no Truſt, no Faith, no honeſty in men,
All perjur'd, all forſworn, all nought, all diſſemblers,
Ah, where's my man? Give me ſome Aqua vitæ——
Theſe Griefs, theſe woes, theſe ſorrows make me old!
Shame come to Romeo!
Juli. Bliſter'd be thy Tongue
For ſuch a wiſh, he was not born to ſhame;
Upon his Brow ſhame is aſham'd to ſit:
For 'tis a Throne where Honour may be Crown'd
Sole Monarch of the Univerſal Earth.
O what a Beaſt was I to chide him ſo?
Nur. Will you ſpeak well of him
That kill'd your Cozen?
Juli. Shall I ſpeak ill of him that is my Husband?
Ah poor my Lord, what Tongue ſhall ſmooth thy name,
When I thy three hours Wife have mangled it!
But wherefore Villain didſt thou kill my Cozen?
That Villain Cozen would have kill'd my Husband:
Back fooliſh Tears, back to your native Spring;
Your Tributary drops belong to Woe,
Which your miſtaking offer up to Joy.
My Husband lives that Tybalt would have Slain,
And Tybalt dead that would have kill'd my Husband;
All this is Comfort; wherefore weep I then?
Some word there was worſer then Tybalt's Death,
That Murder'd me; I would forget it fain,
But oh it preſſes to my Memory,
Like damned guilty deeds to ſinners minds;
Tybalt is dead, and Romeo Baniſhed!
That Baniſhed, that one word Baniſhed,
Hath ſlain ten thouſand Tybalts: Tybalt's death
Was woe enough, if it had ended there:
Or if ſower woe delights in Fellowſhip,
And needly will be rank'd with other Griefs,
Why followed not, when ſhe ſaid Tybalt's dead,
Thy Father, or thy Mother, nay or both,
~~Which modern Lamentation might have mov'd.~~
But with a Rere-ward following Tybalt's death,
Romeo is baniſhed, to ſpeak that word,
Is Father, Mother, Tybalt, Romeo, Juliet,
All Slain, all Dead: Romeo is baniſhed,
There is no end, no limit, meaſure, bound,
In that words death; no words can that woe ſound.
Where is my Father and my Mother, Nurſe?

Nur. Weeping and wailing over Tybalts Coarse.
Will you go to them? I will bring you thither.
Juli. Wash they his wounds with tears? mine shall be spent,
When theirs are dry, for Romeo: Banishment.
~~Take up those Cords, poor Ropes you are beguil'd,~~
~~Both you and I, for Romeo is Exil'd:~~
~~He made you for an High-way to my bed,~~
~~But I a Maid, dye Maiden-widowed.~~
~~Come Cord, come Nurse, i'le to my Wedding-bed,~~
~~And Death, not Romeo, take my Maiden-head.~~
Nur. Hie to your Chamber, i'le find Romeo
To comfort you, I wot well where he is.
Hark ye, your Romeo will be here at Night;
I'le to him, he is hid at Lawrence'Cell.
Juli. O find him, give this Ring to my true Knight,
And bid him come, to take his last Farewel.
[Exit.

Scene v. The Monastery.

Enter Frier, and Romeo.

Fri. Romeo, come forth;
Come forth, thou fearful Man;
Affliction is enamour'd of thy Parts,
And thou art wedded to Calamity.
Rom. Father, what News?
What is the Princes Doom?
What Sorrow craves admittance at my hand,
That I yet know not?
Fri. Too familiar
Is my dear Son with such sowr Company.
I bring thee Tydings of the Princes Doom.
Rom. What less than Dooms-day,
Is the Princes Doom?
Fri. A gentler Judgment vanisht from his Lips,
Not Bodies Death, but Bodies Banishment.
Rom. Ha, Banishment? Be merciful, say Death;
~~For Exile hath more terror in his look,~~
~~Much more than Death, do not say Banishment.~~
Fri. Hence from Verona art thou banished:
Be patient, for the world is broad and wide.
Rom. There is no world without Verona's walls,
But Purgatory, Torture, Hell it self.
Hence banished, is banisht from the World;
And world's Exile is death. Then banishment
Is Death mis-term'd; calling Death Banishment
Thou cut'st my Head off with a Golden Ax,
And smil'st upon the stroak that Murders me.
Fri. O deadly sin, O rude unthankfulness!
Thy fault our Law calls Death, but the kind Prince
Taking thy part hath rush'd aside the Law,
And turn'd that black word Death, to Banishment.
This is dear Mercy, and thou seest it not.
Rom. 'Tis Torture, and not Mercy, heaven is here
Where Juliet lives, and every Cat and Dog,
And little Mouse, every unworthy thing
Live here in heaven, and may look on her,
But Romeo may not. More Validity,
More honourable state, more Courtship lives
In Carrion Flies, than Romeo: They may seize
On the white wonder of dear Juliets hand,
And steal immortal blessings from her lips;
~~Who even in pure and Vestal Modesty~~
~~Still blush, as thinking their own kisses sin.~~
~~This may Flies do, when I from this must fly,~~
~~And saist thou yet, that Exile is not Death?~~
But Romeo may not, he is banished.
Hadst thou no Poyson mixt, no sharp-ground knife,
No sudden mean of Death, though ~~never so mean~~,
But ~~banished to kill me? Banished?~~ O Frier, the Damned use that word in Hell;
Howlings attend it, how hast thou the heart,
Being a Divine, a Ghostly Confessor,
A Sin-Absolver, and my Friend profest,
To mangle me with that word Banished?

Fri. Fond Mad-man, hear me speak.
Rom. O thou wilt speak again of banishment.
Fri. I'le give thee Armour to keep off that word,
Adversities sweet milk, Philosophy,
To comfort thee, though thou art banished.
Rom. Yet, banished? Hang up Philosophy;
Unless Philosophy can make a Juliet,
Displant a Town, reverse a Princes Doom,
It helps not, it prevails not, talk no more.
Fri. O then I see, that mad-men have no ears.
Rom. How shou'd they,
When wise-men have no eyes?
Fri. Let me dispute with thee of thy Estate.
Rom. Thou canst not speak of that thou dost not feel,
Wert thou as young, as Juliet my Love:
An hour but married, Tybalt murdered,
Doting like me, and like me banished;
Then might'st thou speak,
Then migh'st thou tear thy hair,
And fall upon the ground as I do now,
Taking the measure of an unmade Grave.
(Throwing himself on the Ground.)

Enter Nurse and knocks.

Fri. Arise, one knocks;
Good Romeo, hide thy self.
~~Rom. Not I,~~
~~Unless the breath of Heart-sick groans~~
~~Mist-like infold me from the search of eyes.~~
[Knock.
~~Fri. Hark, how they knock,~~
~~(Who's there) Romeo, arise,~~
Thou wilt be taken, stay a while, stand up;
[Knock.
Run to my study. By and by, Gods will!
What ~~simplenes~~ wilfulness is this? I come, I come.
[Knock.
Who knocks so hard?
Whence come you? what's your Will?

Enter Nurse.

Nur. Let me come in,
And you shall know my Errand:
I come from Lady Juliet.
Fri. Welcom then.
Nur. O holy Frier, O tell me holy Frier,
Where's my Ladies Lord? where's Romeo?
Fri. There on the ground,
With his own tears made drunk.
Nur. O he is even in my Mistress case,
Just in her case, O woful Sympathy!
Piteous predicament, even so lies she,
Blubbring and weeping, weeping and blubbring,
Stand up, stand up, stand and you be a Man;
For Juliet's sake, for her sake rise and stand:
Why should you fall into so deep an O.
Rom. O Nurse!
Nur. Ah sir, ah sir, death's the end of all.
Rom. Speak'st thou of Juliet? How is't with her?
Doth not she think me an old Murtherer,
Now I have stain'd the Child-hood of our joy
With blood, removed but little from her own?
Where is she? and how does she? and what says
My conceal'd Lady to our conceal'd Love?
Nur. Oh she says nothing, Sir, but weeps and weeps,
And now falls on her bed, and then starts up,
And Tybalt calls, and then Romeo cries,
And then down falls again.
Ro. As if that Name shot from the deadly level of a Gun
Did murder her, as that Names cursed hand
Murdered her Kinsman. ~~Oh~~ tell me, Frier, tell me,
In what vile part of this Anatomy
Doth my Name lodge? Tell me, that I may sack

The

The hateful Mansion.
Fri. Hold thy desperate hand:
Art thou a man? Thy form cries out, thou art:
Thy tears are womanish, thy wild Acts do note
The unreasonable fury of a Beast.
~~Unseemly Woman, in a seeming Man,~~
~~And ill beseeming Beast in seeming both,~~
Thou hast amaz'd me. By my holy Order,
I thought thy disposition better temper'd.
Hast thou slain Tybalt? Wilt thou slay thy self?
And slay thy Lady, that in thee life lives,
~~By doing damned hate upon thy self?~~
~~Why rail'st thou on thy birth? the Heaven and Earth?~~
~~Since birth, and heaven, and earth, all three do meet~~
~~In thee at once which thou at once would'st lose.~~
~~Fie, fie, thou sham'st thy shape, thy Love, thy Wit:~~
~~Which like an Usurer abound'st in all:~~
~~And usest none in that true use indeed,~~
~~Which should bedeck thy shape, thy Love, thy Wit:~~
~~Thy Noble shape is but a Form of Wax,~~
~~Digressing from the Valour of a Man,~~
~~Thy dear Love sworn, but hollow Perjury,~~
~~Killing that Love which thou hast vow'd to Cherish,~~
~~Thy Wit, that Ornament to shape and Love,~~
~~Mis-shapen in the Conduct of them both:~~
~~Like Powder in a skilless Souldiers flask,~~
~~Is set a fire by thine own ignorance,~~
~~And thou dismembred with thine own Defence.~~
What, rouse thee, Man, thy Juliet is alive,
For whose dear sake thou wast but lately dead:
There art thou happy. Tybalt would kill thee,
But thou slew'st Tybalt; there ~~art~~ thou happy too,
The Law that threatned Death became thy friend,
And turn'd it to Exile; there art thou happy.
A pack of Blessings light upon thy back,
Happiness courts thee in her best Array,
But, like a mis-~~shaped~~ and ~~a~~ sullen Wench,
Thou puttest up thy Fortune and thy Love.
Take heed, take heed, for such die miserable.
Go get thee to thy Love, as was decreed,
Ascend her Chamber, hence and comfort her:
But look thou stay not till the Watch be set,
For then thou canst not pass to Mantua,
Where thou shalt live till we can find a time
To blaze your Marriage, reconcile your Friends,
Beg pardon of the Prince, and call thee back,
With twenty hundred thousand times more Joy,
Than thou went'st forth in Lamentation.
Go before, Nurse; commend me to thy Lady,
And bid her hasten all the House to Bed,
Which heavy Sorrow makes them apt unto.
Romeo is coming.
Nur. O Lord, I could have stayd here all night
To hear good Counsel: Oh what Learning is!
My Lord, I'le tell my Lady you will come.
Rom. Do so, and bid my Sweet prepare to chide.
Nur. Here, Sir, a Ring she bid me give you, Sir:
Hie you, make haste, for it grows very late.
Rom. How well my comfort is reviv'd by this!
Fri. Go hence.
~~Goodnight, and here stands all your state:~~
~~Either be gone before the Watch be set,~~
~~Or by the Break of day disguis'd from hence,~~
Sojourn in Mantua; I'le find out your man,
And he shall signifie from time to time,
Every good hap to you that chances here:
Give me thy hand, 'tis late, farewel, Good night.
Rom. But that a joy, past joy, calls out on me,
It were a grief, so brief to part with thee:
~~Farewel.~~ [Exeunt.

Scene VI. Capulets House.

Enter old Capulet, his Wife, and Paris.

Cap. Things have fain out, Sir, so unluckily,
That we have had no time to move our Daughter:
Look you, she lov'd her Kinsman Tybalt dearly,
And so did I. — Well, we were born to die.
'Tis very late, she'll not come down to Night:
~~I promise you, but for your Company,~~
~~I would have been a bed an hour ago.~~
Par. These times of woe afford no times to wooe:
Madam, Good night, commend me to your Daughter.
Lad. ~~I will, and know her mind early to morrow;~~
~~To night she is mewed up to her heaviness.~~
Cap. Sir Paris, I will make a desperate tender
Of my Childs Love: I think she will be rul'd
In all respects by me, nay ~~more,~~ I doubt it not.
~~Wife, go you to her ere you go to bed,~~
~~Acquaint her here of my Son Paris Love,~~
~~And bid her, mark you me, on Wednesday next,~~
But soft, what day is this?
Par. Monday, my Lord.
Cap. Monday? ha, ha, well, Wednesday is too soon,
A Thursday let it be: ~~A Thursday tell her~~
~~She~~ shall be married ~~to this Noble Earl:~~
~~Will you be ready? Do you like this haste?~~
We'l keep no great a-do, a friend or two,
For, hark you, Tybalt being slain so late,
It may be thought we held him carelesly,
Being our Kinsman, if we revel much:
Therefore we'll have some half a dozen Friends,
And there an end. But what say you to Thursday?
Par. My Lord,
I would that Thursday were to morrow.
Cap. Well, get you gone, a Thursday be it then:
Go you to Juliet e're you go to bed,
Prepare her Wife, against this wedding day.
Farewel, my Lord, light to my Chamber, hoa!
~~Afore me, it is so late, that we may call it early by and by.~~
Good night.

Scene VII. The Garden.

[Exeunt.

Enter Romeo and Juliet aloft. a Ladder of Ropes.

Juli. Wilt thou be gone? it is not yet near day:
It was the Nightingale, and not the Lark,
That pierc'd the fearful hollow of thine Ear,
Nightly she sings on yond Pomgranate Tree;
Believe me, Love, it was the Nightingale.
Rom. It was the Lark, the Herauld of Morn,
No Nightingale: Look, Love, what envious streaks
Do lace the severing Clouds in yonder East:
Nights Candles are burnt out, and jocund day
Stands tiptoe on the misty Mountain tops.
I must be gone and live, or stay and die.
Juli. Yon light is not Day-light, I know it, I:
It is some Meteor that the Sun exhales,
To be to thee this night a Torch-bearer,
And light thee on thy way to Mantua:
~~Therefore stay yet, thou need'st not to be gone.~~
Rom. Let me be ta'ne, let me be put to death,
I am content, so thou wilt have it so.
I'le say yon gray is not the Mornings eye,
'Tis but the pale reflex of Cynthia's brow;
~~Nor that is not the Lark whose Notes do beat~~
The vaulty Heavens so high above our Heads,
~~I have more care to stay, than will to go:~~
Come Death and welcome, Juliet wills it so.
~~How is't, my Soul,~~ let's talk, it is not day.
Juli. It is, it is, hie hence, be gone, away:
It is the Lark that sings so out of Tune,
Straining harsh Discords, and unpleasing Sharps.
Some say the Lark makes sweet Division;
This doth not so: for she divideth us.
Some say, the Lark and loathed Toad change Eyes,
O now I would they had chang'd voices too:
~~Since arm from arm that Voice doth us affray,~~
~~Hunting thee hence, with Hunt's-up to the day,~~

O now be gone, more light, and it light grows.
Ro. More light and light, more dark and dark our woes.
Farewel, my love: one kiss, & I'll descend.
Enter Madam and Nurse. No. Descends

Nur. Madam!
Juli. Nurse?
Nur. Your Lady Mother is coming to your Chamber,
The Day is broke, be wary, look about.
Juli. Then Window let Day in, and let Life out.
Rom. Farewel, farewel, one kiss, and I'le descend.
Juli. Art thou gone so? Love, Lord, ah Husband, Friend,
I must hear from thee every day in the hour,
For in a minute there are many days.
O by this count I shall be much in years,
E're I again behold my Romeo.
Rom. Farewel:
I will omit no opportunity,
That may convey my greetings, Love, to thee.
Juli. O thinkest thou we shall ever meet again?
Rom. I doubt it not, and all these woes shall serve
For sweet Discourses in our time to come.
Juli. O God! I have an ill Divining Soul;
Methinks I see thee now, thou art so low,
As one dead in the bottom of a Tomb;
Either my Eye-sight fails, or thou look'st pale.
Rom. And trust me, Love, in my Eye so do you:
Dry sorrow drinks our Blood. Adieu, adieu.
Scene VIII. Juliet's Chamber. [Exit.
Juli. O Fortune, Fortune, all men call thee fickle,
If thou art fickle, what dost thou with him
That is renown'd for Faith? be fickle Fortune:
For then I hope thou wilt not keep him long,
But send him back.

Enter Mother.

La. Ho Daughter, are you up?
Juli. Who is't that calls? is it my Lady Mother?
Is she not down so late, or up so early?
What unaccustom'd cause procures her hither?
La. Why how now, Juliet?
Juli. Madam, I am not well.
La. Evermore weeping for your Cousins death?
What wilt thou wash him from his Grave with tears?
And if thou could'st, thou could'st not make him live:
Therefore have done, some grief shews much of Love,
But much of grief shews still some want of wit.
Juli. Yet let me weep, for such a feeling loss.
La. So shall you feel the loss, but not the Friend
Which you weep for.
Juli. Feeling so the loss,
I cannot chuse but ever weep the Friend.
La. Well Girl, thou weep'st not so much for his death,
As that the Villain lives which slaughter'd him.
Juli. What Villain, Madam?
La. That same Villain, Romeo.
Juli. Villain and he be many miles asunder (Aside
God Pardon him, I do with all my heart,
And yet no man like he doth grieve my heart.
La. That is because the Traitor lives.
Juli. I, Madam, from the reach of these my hands:
Would none but I might venge my Cousin's death.
La. We will have vengeance for it, fear thou not.
Then weep no more. I'le send to one in Mantua,
Where that same banish'd Runnagate doth live,
Shall give him such an unaccustom'd dram,
That he shall soon keep Tybalt Company:
And then I hope thou wilt be satisfied.
Juli. Indeed I never shall be satisfied
With Romeo, till I behold him, Dead
Is my poor heart, so for a Kinsman vext:
Madam, if you could find out but a man
To bear a Poison, I would temper it;
That Romeo should upon receipt thereof,
Soon sleep in quiet. O how my heart abhors
To hear him nam'd, and cannot come to him,
To wreak the love I bore my Cousin Tybalt,
Upon his Body, that hath slaughter'd him.
La. Find thou the means, and I'll find such a man,
But now I'le tell thee joyful tidings, Girl.
Juli. And joy comes well, in such a needy time,
What are they, I beseech your Ladyship?
Mo. Well, well, thou hast a careful Father, Child;
One, who to put thee from thy heaviness,
Hath sorted out a sudden day of joy,
That thou expects not, nor I look'd not for.
Juli. Madam, in happy time, what day is this?
Mo. Marry, my Child, early next Thursday morn,
The gallant, Young, and Noble Gentleman,
The County Paris at St. Peter's Church,
Shall happily make thee a joyful Bride.
Juli. Now by Saint Peter's Church, and Peter too,
He shall not make me there a joyful Bride.
I wonder at this haste, that I must wed
E're he that should be Husband comes to wooe.
I pray you tell my Lord and Father, Madam,
I will not marry yet, and when I do, I swear
It shall be Romeo, whom you know I hate,
Rather than Paris. These are News indeed.
Mo. Here comes your Father, tell him so your self,
And see how he will take it at your hands.

Enter Capulet and Nurse.

Cap. When the Sun sets, the Earth doth drizzle Dew,
But for the Sunset of my Brother's Son,
It rains down right.
How now? a Conduit Girl, what still in tears?
Evermore showring in one little Body?
Thou Counterfeit's a Bark, a Sea, a Wind;
For still thy Eyes, which I may call the Sea,
Do ebb and flow with tears; the Bark thy Body
Sailing in this Salt flood; the Winds thy Sighs,
Who raging with thy Tears, and they with them,
Without a sudden calm, will over-set
Thy tempest-tossed Body. — How now, Wife?
Have you delivered to her our Decree?
La. Ay, Sir;
But she will none, she gives you thanks.
I would the Fool were married to her Grave.
Cap. Soft, take me with you, take me with you, Wife,
How, will she none? doth she not give us thanks?
Is she not proud? doth she not count her blest,
Unworthy as she is, that we have wrought
So worthy a Gentleman to be her Bridegroom?
Juli. Not proud, you have;
But thankful that you have.
Proud can I never be of what I hate,
But thankful even for Hate, that is meant Love.
Cap. How now?
How now? Chopt Logick? what is this?
Proud! and I thank you! and I thank you not!
Thank me no thankings, nor proud me no prouds,
But settle your fine joints 'gainst Thursday next,
To go with Paris to Saint Peter's Church:
Or I will drag thee on a Hurdle thither.
Out you Green sickness Carrion, out you baggage,
Out you Tallow-face.
Lad. Fie, fie, what are you mad?
Jul. Good Father, I beseech you on my Knees,
Hear me with patience, but to speak a word.
Fa. Hang thee, Young Baggage, disobedient wretch,
I tell thee what, get thee to Church a Thursday,
Or never after look me in the Face.
Speak not, reply not, do not answer me,
My Fingers itch, Wife; we scarce thought us blest,
That God had sent us but this only Child,

But

† Content thee Girl, if I could find a man I soon would send to Mantua where he is

× for while he lives my heart shall here be light Till I behold him — Dead — is my poor heart Thus for a Kinsman vext.

But now I see this one is one too much,
And that we have a Curse in having her:
Out on her, Hilding!
Nur. God in Heaven bless her!
You are to blame, my Lord, to rate her so.
Fa. And why, my Lady Wisdom? hold your tongue,
Good Prudence, smatter with your Gossips, go.
Nur. I speak no Treason,——
O God gi goode'en,——
May not one speak?
Fa. Peace, you mumbling Fool;
Utter your Gravity o're a Gossips bowl,
For here we need it not.
La. You are too hot.
Fa. Gods bread, it makes me mad:
Day, night, hour, tide, time, work, play,
Alone, in company, still my care hath been
To have her matcht'd, and having now provided
A Gentleman of Noble Parentage,
Of fair Demeans, Youthful, and Nobly Allied,
Stuft, as they say, with Honourable parts,
Proportion'd as ones thought would wish a Man:
And then to have a wretched puling Fool,
A whining Mammet, in her Fortunes tender,
To answer I'll not wed, I cannot Love,——
I am too young, I pray you pardon me.——
But, and you will not wed, I'll pardon you:
Graze where you will, you shall not House with me:
Look to't, think on't, I do not use to jest.
Thursday is near, lay Hand on Heart, advise;
And you be mine, I'll give you to my Friend:
And you be not Hang, Beg, Starve, die in the Streets,
For, by my Soul, I'll ne're acknowledge thee,
Nor what is mine, shall never do thee good:
Trust to't, bethink you, I'll not be forsworn.
[Exit.

Jul. Is there no pity sitting in the Clouds,
That sees into the bottom of my grief?
O sweet my Mother, cast me not away,
Delay this Marriage for a Month, a Week;
Or if you do not, make the Bridal Bed
In that dim Monument where Tybalt lies.
Mo. Talk not to me, for I'll not speak a word;
Do as thou wilt, for I have done with thee.
[Exit.

Jul. O God!
O Nurse, how shall this be prevented?
~~My Husband is on Earth, my Faith in Heaven,~~
~~How shall that Faith return again to Earth,~~
~~Unless that Husband send it me from Heaven,~~
~~By leaving Earth? Comfort me, counsel me,~~
~~Alack,~~ alack, that Heaven should practise Stratagems
Upon so soft a Subject, as my self!
~~What say'st thou? hast thou not a word of joy?~~
~~Some comfort, Nurse.~~
Nur. Faith, here it is;
Romeo is banished; ~~and~~ all the World to nothing,
That he dares ne're come back to challenge you:
Or if he do, it needs must be by stealth.
Then since the case so stands as now it doth,
I think it best you married with the Count,
O, he's a lovely Gentleman:
Romeo's a dish-clout to him; an Eagle, Madam,
Hath not so green, so quick, so fair an Eye
As Paris hath, beshrew my very Heart,
I think you ~~are~~ happy in this second match,
For it excels your first; or if it did not,
Your first is dead, or 'twere as good he were,
As living here, and you no use of him.
Jul. Speakest thou from thy Heart?
Nur. And from my Soul ~~too~~;
Or else beshrew them both.
Jul. Amen.
Nur. What?

Jul. Well, thou hast comforted me marv'lous much;
Go in, and tell my Lady I am gone,
Having displeas'd my Father, to Lawrence' Cell,
To make Confession, and to be Absolved.
Nur. Marry I will, and this is wisely done.
[Exit.

Jul. Ancient Damnation! O most wicked Fiend!
Is it more Sin to wish me thus forsworn,
Or to dispraise my Lord with that same Tongue
Which she hath prais'd him with above compare,
So many thousand times? Go, Counsellor,
Thou and my bosom henceforth shall be twain:
I'll to the Frier to know his remedy.
If all else fail, my self have power to die.
[Exit.

Act IV. Scene I. The Monastery.

Enter Frier and Count Paris.

Fri. On Thursday, Sir, the time is very short.
Par. My Father Capulet will have it so,
And I am nothing slow to slack his haste.
Fri. You say you do not know the Ladies mind:
Uneven is the course, I like it not.
Pa. Immoderately she weeps for Tybalt's death,
And therefore have I little talk of Love,
For Venus smiles not in a House of Tears.
Now, Sir, her Father counts it dangerous
That she should give her sorrow so much sway;
And in his Wisdom, hastes our Marriage,
To stop the inundation of her Tears;
Which too much minded by her self alone,
May be put from her by Society.
Now do you know the reason of this haste?
Fri. I would I knew not why it should be slow'd. [Aside.
Look, Sir, here comes the Lady towards my Cell.

Enter Juliet.

Par. Happily met, my Lady and my Wife.
Jul. That may be, Sir, when I may be a Wife.
Par. That may be, must be, Love, on Thursday next.
Jul. What must be, shall be.
Fri. That's a certain Text.
Par. Come you to make Confession to this Father?
Jul. To answer that, I should confess to you.
Par. Do not deny to him, that you love me.
Jul. I will confess to you that I Love him.
Par. So will ye, I am sure, that you Love me.
Jul. If I do so, it will be of more Price,
Being spoke behind your back, than to your Face.
Par. Poor Soul, thy Face is much abus'd with Tears.
Jul. The Tears have got small Victory by that:
For it was bad enough before their spight.
Pa. Thou wrong'st it, more than Tears with that report.
Jul. That is no slander, Sir, which is Truth,
And what I speak, I speak it to my Face.
Par. Thy Face is mine, and thou hast slandred it.
Jul. It may be so, for it is not mine own.
Are you at leisure, Holy Father, now,
Or shall I come to you at evening Mass?
Fri. My leisure serves me, pensive Daughter, now.
My Lord, I must intreat the time alone.
Par. God shield, I should disturb Devotion!
Juliet, ~~on Thursday early will I rouze ye,~~
~~Till then~~ adieu, and keep this holy kiss.
[Exit Paris.

Jul. GO shut the Door, and when thou hast done so,
Come weep with me, past hope, past care, past help.
Fri. O, Juliet, I already know thy grief;
~~It strains me past the compass of my wits:~~
I hear thou must, and nothing may prorogue it,
On Thursday next be married to this Count.
Jul. Tell me not, Frier, that thou hearest of this,
Unless thou tell me how I may prevent it.

If

If in thy wisdom, thou canst give no help,
Do thou but call my resolution Wise,
And with this Knife, I'll help it presently.
God join'd my heart and Romeo's, thou our hands;
And e're this hand, by thee to Romeo seal'd,
Shall be the Label to another Deed,
Or my true Heart with treacherous revolt,
Turn to another, this shall slay them both:
Therefore out of thy long experienc'd Time,
Give me some present Counsel, or behold
'Twixt my extreams and me, this bloody Knife
Shall play the umpire; arbitrating that,
Which the Commission of my years and Art,
Could to no Issue of true Honour bring.
~~Be not so long to speak, I long to die,~~
If what thou speak'st speak not of Remedy.

Fri. Hold, Daughter, I do spy a kind of hope,
Which craves as desperate an Execution,
As that is desperate which we would prevent.
If rather than to marry County Paris,
Thou hast the strength of Will to slay thy self,
Then it is likely thou wilt undertake
A thing like Death to chide away this shame,
That cop'st with Death himself, to scape from it:
And if thou dar'st, I'll give thee remedy.

Juli. O bid me leap, rather than marry Paris,
From off the Battlements of ~~any~~ yonder Tower;
~~Or walk in Thievish ways, or bid me lurk~~
~~Where Serpents are: Chain me with roaring Bears~~
Or ~~hide~~ me nightly in a Charnel House,
O're-covered quite with dead Mens ratling Bones,
With reeky shanks, and yellow chapless skulls:
Or bid me go into a new made Grave,
And hide me with a dead Man in his ~~Grave~~ shrowd;
Things that to hear them told, have made me tremble;
And I will do it without fear or doubt,
To live an unstain'd Wife to my sweet Love.

Fri. Hold ~~then~~: ~~Go home, be merry, give consent,~~
~~To marry Paris: Wednesday is to morrow,~~
~~To morrow Night look that thou lie alone,~~
Let not thy Nurse lie with thee in thy Chamber:
Take thou this Vial being then in Bed,
And this distilling Liquor drink thou off;
When presently through all thy Veins shall run
A cold and drowsie Humour; for no Pulse
Shall keep his Native Progress, but Surcease:
No warmth, no breath shall testify thou livest;
The Roses in thy Lips and Cheeks shall fade
To ~~wanny~~ ashes, the eyes windows fall
Like Death, when he shuts up the day of Life;
~~Each part deprived of supple Government,~~
~~Shall stiff and stark, and cold appear like Death,~~
And in this borrowed likeness of shrunk Death,
Thou shalt continue two and forty Hours,
And then awake, as from a pleasant Sleep,
Now when the Bridegroom in the morning comes
To rouse thee from thy Bed, there art thou Dead:
Then as the manner of our Country is,
In thy best Robes uncover'd on the Beer,
Be born to Burial in thy Kindreds Grave,
Thou shalt be born to that same Ancient Vault,
Where all the Kindred of the Capulets lie,
In the mean time, against thou shalt awake,
Shall Romeo by my Letters know our drift,
And hither shall he come, and that very Night
Shall Romeo bear thee hence to Mantua;
~~And this shall free thee from this present shame,~~
If no inconstant Toy nor Womanish fear,
Abate thy Valour in the acting it.

Juli. Give me, give me, O tell not me of fear.

Fri. Hold, get you gone, be strong and prosperous
In this resolve; I'll send a Frier with speed
To Mantua, with my Letters to thy Lord.

Jul. Love give me strength!
And strength shall help afford:
Farewel, dear Father.

Scene II. Capulets House

[Exit.

Enter Father Capulet, Mother, Nurse, and serving-men, two or three.

Cap. So many Guests invite as here are writ,
Sirrah, go hire me twenty cunning Cooks.

Ser. You shall have none ill, Sir, for I'll try if they can lick their fingers.

Cap. How canst thou try them so?

Ser. Marry, Sir, 'tis an ill Cook that cannot lick his own fingers: Therefore he that cannot lick his fingers, goes not with me.

Cap. ~~Go, be gone~~, we shall be much unfurnish'd for this time: What is my Daughter gone to Frier Lawrence?

Nur. Ay forsooth.

Cap. Well he may chance to do some good on her;
A peevish self-will'd Harlotry it is.

Enter Juliet.

Nur. See where she comes from shrift
With merry look.

Cap. How now, my Headstrong,
Where have you been gadding?

Juli. Where I have learnt me to repent the Sin
Of disobedient Opposition
To you and your behests; and am enjoyn'd
By holy Lawrence, to fall prostrate here,
To beg your Pardon: Pardon I beseech you,
Henceforward I am ever rul'd by you.

Cap. Send for the County, go tell him of this,
I'll have this Knot knit up to morrow morning.

Jul. I met the youthful Lord at Lawrence Cell,
And gave him what becomed Love I might,
Not stepping o're the bounds of Modesty.

Cap. Why, I am glad on't, this is well, stand up,
This is as't should be, let me see the County:
Ay marry, go I say, and fetch him hither.
Now afore God, this reverend Holy Frier,
All our whole City is much bound to him.

Juli. Nurse, will you go with me into my Closet,
To help me sort such needful Ornaments,
As you think fit to furnish me to morrow?

Mo. No, not till Thursday, there is time enough.

Fa. Go Nurse, go with her,
We'll to Church to morrow.

[Exeunt Juliet and Nurse.

Mo. We shall be short in our Provision;
'Tis now near Night.

Fa. Tush, I will stir about,
And all things shall be well, I warran tthee, wife:
Go thou to Juliet, help to deck up her,
I'll not to bed to night, let me alone:
I'll play the Huswife for this once — What, ho!
They are all forth; well I will walk my self
To County Paris, to prepare him up
Against to morrow, my heart is wondrous light,
Since this same way-ward Girl is so reclaim'd.

[Exeunt Father and Mother.

Scene III. Juliets Chamber.

Enter Juliet and Nurse.

Juli. Ay, those attires are best, but gentle Nurse,
I pray thee leave me to my self to Night:
For I have need of many Orisons,
To move the Heavens to smile upon my state,
Which well thou know'st is cross and full of sin.

Enter Mother.

Mo. What are you busie, ~~no~~? Need you my help?

Juli.

X or chain me to some steepy mountains top
Where roaring bears & savage lions roam.

Juli. No, Madam, we have cull'd such necessaries
As are behoveful for our state to morrow:
So please you, let me now be left alone;
And let the Nurse this night sit up with you;
For I am sure you have your hands full all,
In this so sudden business.
Mo. Goodnight,
Get thee to bed and rest, for thou hast need.
[Exeunt.

Juli. Farewel:——
God knows, when we shall meet again!
I have a faint cold fear thrills through my Veins,
That almost freezes up the heat of ~~fire~~ life.
I'll call them back again to comfort me.
Nurse!——what should she do here?
My dismal Scene, I needs must act alone:
Come Vial,——what if this mixture do not work at all?
Shall I be ~~married to morrow morning~~ forc'd to be marry'd to the County?
No, no, this shall forbid it. Lie thou there, (pointing to a dagger)
What if it be a Poison, which the Frier,
Subtilly hath Minister'd to have me Dead,
Lest in this Marriage he should be dishonour'd,
Because he Married me before to Romeo?
I fear it is; and yet methinks it should not,
For he hath still been tryed a Holy Man.——
How, if when I am laid into the Tomb,
I wake before the time that Romeo
Come to redeem me? There's a fearful Point!
Shall I not then be stifled in the Vault?
To whose foul mouth no healthsome Air breaths in,
~~And there die strangled e're my Romeo comes.~~
Or if I live, is it not very like,
The horrible conceit of Death and Night,
Together with the Terror of the Place,
(As in a Vault, an ancient Receptacle,
Where for these many hundred years the Bones
Of all my buried Ancestors are packt;
Where bloody Tybalt, yet but green in Earth,
Lies festring in his Shrow'd; where, as they say,
At some hours in the night, Spirits resort:——)
Alack, alack! is it not like that I
So early waking, what with loathsome smells,
And shrieks like Mandrakes torn out of the Earth,
That living Mortals, hearing them, run mad.——
Or if I wake, shall I not be distraught,
Invironed with all these Hideous fears,
And madly play with my fore-fathers joints?
And pluck the mangled Tybalt from his shrow'd?
And in this rage, with some great Kinsmans Bone,
As with a Club, dash out my desperate Brains?
O look! methinks I see my Cozens Ghost,
Seeking out Romeo ~~that did spit his Body~~
~~Upon his Rapiers point:~~ Stay, Tybalt stay!
Romeo, ~~Romeo, Romeo~~, here's drink: I drink to thee.
(Throws herself on a bed.

Scene IV.

Enter Lady of the house and Nurse.

Lady. Hold,
Take these Keys and fetch more Spices, Nurse.
Nur. They call for Dates and Quinces in the Pastry.

Enter old Capulet.

Cap. Come, stir, stir, stir,
The second Cock hath Crow'd,
The Curfew Bell hath rung, 'tis three a Clock:
Look to the Bak'd Meats, good Angelica.
Spare not for cost.
Nur. Go you Cot-quean, go,
Get you to Bed; faith you'l be sick to morrow
For this nights Watching.
Cap. No not a whit; I have watch'd e're now
All Night for a less Cause, and ne're been sick.
La. Ay you have been a Mouse-hunt in your time,
But I will watch you from such watching now.
[Exit Lady and Nurse.

Cap. A jealous-hood, a jealous-hood,
Now, Fellow, what's there?

Enter three or four with Spits, and Logs, and Baskets.

Fel. Things for the Cook, Sir, but I know not what.
Cap. Make haste, make haste, sirrah, fetch drier Logs
Call Peter, he will shew thee where they are.
Fel. I have a head, sir, that will find out Logs,
And never trouble Peter for the matter.
Cap. Mass and well said, a merry Horson, ha!
Thou shalt be Logger-head, good Faith, 'tis day.
[Play Musick.
The County will be here with Musick straight,
For so he said he would, I hear him near,
Nurse, Wife, what ho? What, Nurse, I say?

Enter Nurse.

Go waken Juliet, go and trim her up,
I'll go and chat with Paris: Hie, make haste,
Make haste, the Bridegroom, he is come already:
Make haste, I say. Scene V. Juliets Chamber.
Nur. Mistress, what Mistress? Juliet? Fast I warrant her;
Why Lamb,——why, Lady?——Fie you slug-a-bed,——
Why Love, I say?——Madam, Sweet-heart:——Why Bride?——
What, not a word? You take your Pennyworths now;
Sleep for a week; for the next night I warrant
The County Paris hath set up his rest,
That you shall rest but little.——God forgive me,——
Marry and Amen:——How found is she asleep?
I must needs wake her: Madam, Madam, Madam,
Ay, let the County take you in your Bed;——
Hee'l fright you up y'faith. Will it not be?
What dress't, and in your Cloths,——and down again?
I must needs wake you: Lady, Lady, Lady.——
Alas, alas, help, help, my Lady's dead.
Oh well-a-day, that ever I was born,
Some Aqua-vitæ ho, my Lord, my Lady?

Enter Mother.

Mo. What noise is here?
Nur. O lamentable day.
Mo. What is the matter?
Nur. ~~Look~~, look,——oh heavy day.
Mo. O me, O me, my Child, my only life!
Revive, look up, or I will die with thee:
Help, help, call help.

Enter Father.

Fa. For shame bring Juliet forth, her Lord is come.
Nur. She's dead: Deceast, she's dead! Alack the day!
~~Mo. Alack the day, she's dead, she's dead, she's dead.~~
Fa. Ha? Let me see her:——Out alas, she's cold,
Her blood is setled, and her joints are stiff;
Life and these Lips have long been separated:
Death lies on her like an untimely Frost
Upon the sweetest flower of all the Field. accursed hour! unfortunate
Nur. ~~O lamentable day!~~
Mo. O woful time.
~~Fa. Death that hath ta'ne her hence to make me waile,~~
~~Ties up my Tongue and will not let me speak.~~

Enter Frier and the County.

Fri. Come, is the Bride ready to go to Church?
Fa. Ready to go, but never to return.
O Son, the night before thy Wedding day,
Hath Death lain with thy Wife: See, there she lies,
Flower

Flower as she was, Deflowr'd now by him;
Death is my Son in Law, ~~Death is my Heir,~~
~~My Daughter he hath wedded. I will die,~~
~~And leave him all Life living, all is Death's.~~
Pa. Have I thought long to see this mornings face,
And doth it give me such a sight as this?
Mo. Accurst, unhappy, wretched, hateful day,
Most miserable Hour, that e're time saw
In lasting Labour of his Pilgrimage!
But one, poor one, one poor and loving Child,
But one thing to rejoyce and solace in,
And cruel Death hath catcht it from my sight.
Nur. O woe! O woful, woful, woful Day,
Most lamentable Day, most woful Day,
That ever, ever, I did yet behold!
O day! O day! O day! O hateful day,
Never was seen so black a day as this:
O woful day, O woful day!
Pa. Beguil'd, divorced, wronged, spighted, slain,
Most detestable death, by thee beguil'd,
By cruel, cruel thee quite overthrown:
O love, O life; not Life, but Love in Death.
Fa. Despis'd, distressed, hated, martyr'd, kill'd,
Uncomfortable time, why cam'st thou now
To murther, murther our Solemnity?
O Child, O Child; my Soul and not my Child,
Dead art thou, alack my Child is Dead,
And with my Child, my joys are Buried.
Fri. Peace be for shame, Confusions Care lives not
~~In these Confusions.~~ Heaven and your self
Had part in this fair Maid, now Heaven hath all,
And all the better is it for the Maid:
Your part in her, you could not keep from Death,
But Heaven keeps his part in Eternal Life:
The most you sought was her Promotion,
For 'twas your Heaven that she should be advanc'd;
And weep ye now, seeing she is advanc'd
Above the Clouds, as high as Heaven it self?
O in this love, you love your Child so ill,
That you run mad, seeing that she is well,
She's not well married, that lives married long,
But she's best married, that dies married young.
~~Dry up your tears, and~~ stick your Rosemary
On this fair Coarse, and as the Custom is,
And in her best Array, bear her to Church:
For though fond Nature bids us all lament,
Yet Natures tears are Reasons merriment.
Fa. All things that we ordained Festival,
Turn from their Office to black Funeral:
Our Instruments, to melancholy Bells;
Our wedding Chear, to a sad burial Feast;
Our solemn Hymns, to sullen Dyrges change;
~~Our~~ Bridal Flowers serve for a buried Coarse;
~~And all things change them to the contrary.~~
Fri. Sir go you in, and Madam, go with him,
And go Sir Paris, every one prepare
To follow this fair Coarse unto her Grave:
The Heavens do lowre upon you, for some ill:
Move them no more, by crossing their high Will.

[Exeunt.

Scene VI.

Mu. Faith we may put up our Pipes and be gone.
Nur. Honest good fellows: Ah put up, put up,
For well you know this is a pittiful Case. (Exit Nurse.
Mu. Ay by my Troth, the case may be amended.

Enter Peter.

Pet. Musicians, oh Musicians,
Hearts ease, hearts ease,
O, and you will have me live, play hearts ease.
Mu. Why hearts ease?
Pet. O Musicians,
Because my heart it self plays, my heart is full of woe.
Mu. Not a dump we, 'tis no time to play now.
Pet. You will not then?
Mu. No.
Pet. I will then give it you soundly.
Mu. What will you give us? ~~I'll no you I'll Fa you.~~
Pet. No Money on my Faith, ~~but a Gleek.~~ I will ~~give~~ you no Minstrel.
~~Mu. Then will I give you the Serving Creature.~~
~~Pet. Then will I lay the Serving Creatures Dagger on your Pate. I will carry no Crotchets, I'le Re you, I'le Fa you,~~ do you Note me?
Mu. And you Re us, and Fa us, you Note us.
2 Mu. Pray you put up your Dagger,
And put out your Wit.
Then have at you with my Wit.
~~Pet. I will dry-beat you with an Iron Wit,~~
~~And put up my Iron Dagger.~~
Answer me like Men:
When griping griefs the Heart doth wound, then Musick
With her silver sound——
Why Silver sound? VVhy Musick with her Silver sound?
What say you Simon Catling?
Mu. Marry Sir, because Silver hath a sweet sound.
Pet. Pratest! what say you Hugh Rebick?
2 Mu. I say Silver sound, because Musitians sound for Sil-
Pet. Pratest too! what say you James Sound-Post? (ver.
3 Mu. Faith I know not what to say.
Pet. O I cry you mercy, you are the Singer.
I will say for you, it is Musick with her Silver sound,
Because ~~Musicians~~ have no Gold for sounding.
~~Then Musick with her Silver sound, with speedy help doth lend redress.~~

[Exit.

Mu. What a pestilent Knave is this same?
2 Mu. Hang him Jack, come we'll in here, tarry for the Mourners, and stay dinner.

[Exit.

Act v. Scene 1. Mantua.

Enter Romeo.

Rom. If I may trust the flattering truth of sleep,
My Dreams presage some joyful news at hand:
My bosoms Lord sits lightly in his Throne:
And all this winged unaccustom'd Spirit,
Lifts me above the ground with chearful Thoughts.
I dreamt my Lady came and found me Dead,
(Strange Dream, that gives a dead man leave to think)
And breath'd such life with Kisses in my lips,
That I reviv'd, and was an Emperour.
Ah me! how sweet is Love it self possest,
When but Loves Shadows are so rich in Joy.

Enter Romeo's Man.

News from Verona, how now, Balthazar?
Dost thou not bring me Letters from the Frier?
How doth my Lady? Is my Father well?
How doth my ~~Lady~~ Juliet? That I ask again,
For nothing can be ill, if she be well.
Man. Then she is well, and nothing can be ill,
Her Body sleeps in Capulet's Monument,
And her immortal part with Angels lives;
I saw her laid low in her Kindreds Vault,
And presently took Post to tell it you:
O pardon me for bringing these ill News,
~~Since you did leave it for my Office, Sir.~~
Rom. Is it even so?
Then I defy you Stars!
Thou knowest my Lodging, get me Ink and Paper,
And hire Post-Horses, I will hence to Night.
Man. ~~I do beseech you, Sir, have Patience:~~
Your looks are pale and wild, and do import
Some misadventure.
Rom. Tush, thou art deceiv'd,

Leave

Leave me, and do the thing I bid thee do:
Hast thou no Letters to me from the Frier?
Man. No, my good Lord.
[Exit Man.
Rom. No matter: Get thee gone,
And hire those Horses, I'le be with thee streight.
Well, Juliet, I will lie with thee to Night;
Let's see for means:—O mischief thou art swift
To enter in the Thoughts of desperate Men!
I do remember an Apothecary,
And hereabouts he dwells, which late I noted
In tatter'd Weeds, with overwhelming Brows,
Culling of Simples; Meager were his Looks,
Sharp Misery had worn him to the Bones:
And in his needy Shop a Tortoise hung,
An Alligator stuft, and other Skins
Of ill-shap'd Fishes, and about his Shelves
A beggarly Account of empty Boxes;
Green earthen Pots, Bladders, and musty Seeds,
Remnants of Packthred, and old Cakes of Roses
Were thinly scattered, to make up a shew.
Noting this Penury, to my Self I said,
And if a Man did need a Poyson now,
Whose sale is present Death in Mantua,
Here lives a Caitiff Wretch would sell it him.
O this same Thought did but fore-run my need,
And this same needy Man must sell it me.
As I remember, this should be the House,
Being holy day, the Beggars Shop is shut.
What, ho! Apothecary!

Enter Apothecary.

Ap. Who call's so loud?
Rom. Come hither, Man, I see that thou art Poor;
Hold, there is forty Ducats, let me have
A Dram of Poyson, such soon-speeding Geer,
As will disperse it self through all the Veins,
That the Life-weary-taker may fall Dead;
And that the Trunk may be discharg'd of Breath,
As violently, as hasty Powder fir'd
Doth hurry from the fatal Cannons Womb.
Ap. Such Mortal Drugs I have, but Mantua's Law
Is Death to any he that utters them.
Rom. Art thou so bare and full of Wretchedness,
And fear'st to die? Famine is in thy Cheeks,
Need and Oppression starveth in thine Eyes,
Contempt and Beggary hang on thy Back!
The world is not thy Friend, nor the world's Law;
The world affords no Law to make thee Rich,
Then be not Poor, but break it, and take this.
Ap. My Poverty, but not my Will consents.
Rom. I pay thy Poverty, and not thy Will.
Ap. Put this in any Liquid thing you will,
And drink it off, and if you had the Strength
Of twenty men, it would dispatch you streight.
Rom. There's thy Gold,
Worse Poyson to Mens Souls,
Doing more Murder in this loathsome World,
Than these poor Compounds that thou may'st not sell:
I sell thee Poyson, thou hast sold me none.
Farewel, buy Food, and get thy self in Flesh.
Come, Cordial, and not Poyson, go with me
To Juliet's Grave, for there must I use thee.
[Exeunt.

Scene II. The Monastery at Verona.

Enter Frier John to Frier Lawrence.

John. Holy Franciscan Frier! Brother, ho!

Enter Frier Lawrence.

Law. This same should be the Voice of Frier John.—
Welcome from Mantua; what says Romeo?
Or if his mind be writ, give me his Letter.
Joh. Going to find a bare-foot Brother out,
One of our Order, to associate me,
Here in this City visiting the Sick,
And finding him, the Searchers of the Town
Suspecting that we both were in a House
Where the infectious Pestilence did reign,
Seal'd up the Doors, and would not let us forth,
So that my speed to Mantua there was staid.
Law. Who bare my Letter then to Romeo?
Joh. I could not send it; here it is again;
Nor get a Messenger to bring it thee,
So fearful were they of Infection.
Law. Unhappy Fortune! by my Brotherhood,
The Letter was not nice, but full of charge,
Of dear Import, and the neglecting it
May do much Danger: Frier John, go hence,
Get me an Iron Crow, and bring it streight
Unto my Cell.
John. Brother, I'le go and bring it thee.
[Exit.
Law. Now must I to the Monument alone;
Within this three Hours will fair Juliet wake;
She will beshrew me much, that Romeo
Hath had no notice of these Accidents:
But I will write again to Mantua,
And keep her at my Cell till Romeo come,
Poor living Coarse, clos'd in a dead Man's Tomb!
[Exit.

Scene III.

A Church Yard: In it a monument of the Capulets.

Enter Paris and his Page.

Par. Give me thy Torch, Boy; hence, and stand aloof:
Yet put it out, for I would not be seen:
Under yond yong Trees lay thee all along,
Laying thy Ear close to the hollow ground;
So shall no foot upon the Church-yard tread,
(Being loose, unfirm, with digging up of Graves,)
But thou shalt hear it: Whistle then to me,
As signal that thou hear'st something approach.
Give me those Flowers. Do as I bid thee, go.
Pag. I am almost afraid to stand alone
Here in the Church-yard, yet I will adventure.
[Exit.
Pa. Sweet Flower, with Flowers thy Bridal bed I strew:
~~O woe, thy Canopy is dust and stones,~~
~~Which with sweet Water nightly I will dew,~~
~~Or wanting that, with tears distill'd by Moans;~~
~~The Obsequies that I for thee will keep,~~
~~Nightly shall be, to strew thy Grave and weep.~~
[Whistle Boy.
The Boy gives warning, something doth approach.
What cursed Foot wanders this way to night,
To cross my Obsequies, and true Loves Rites?
What with a Torch? Muffle me, Night a while.

Scene IV.

Enter Romeo and Peter.

Rom. Give me that Mattock, and the wrenching Iron,
Hold, take this Letter, early in the Morning
See thou deliver it to my Lord and Father,
Give me the Light; upon thy Life I charge thee,
What-e're thou hear'st or seest, stand all aloof,
And do not interrupt me in my Course.
Why I descend into this Bed of Death,
Is partly to behold my Lady's Face:
But chiefly to take thence from her dead finger,
A precious Ring, A Ring that I must use
In dear Employment; therefore hence be gone:
But if thou, Jealous, dost return to Pry
In what I further shall intend to do,
By Heaven I will tear thee joint by joint,
And strew this hungry Church-yard with thy Limbs;
The time, and my intents are Savage, Wild,

† Fair Juliet that with Angels dost remain
Accept this latest favour at my hand
That living honourd thee & being dead
With funeral obsequies adorn thy tomb.

More fierce, and more inexorable far,
Than empty Tygers, or the Roaring Sea.
Pet. I will be gone Sir, and not trouble you.
Ro. So shalt thou ~~shew me Friendship~~ win my favour: Take thou that,
Live and be Prosperous, and farewel, good Fellow!
Pet. For all this same, I'le hide me here about,
His Looks I fear, and his Intents I doubt. [Exit.
Rom. Thou detestable Maw, thou Womb of Death,
Gorg'd with the dearest Morsel of the Earth,
Thus I enforce thy rotten Jaws to open, (Breaking open the tomb.
And in despight, I'le cram thee with more Food.
Par. This is that Banisht haughty Mountague
That murdered my Loves Cozin; (with which Grief,
It is supposed the Fair Creature died,)
And here is come to do some Villanous Shame
To the Dead Bodys: I will apprehend him.
Stop thy unhallowed Toyl, vile Mountague:
Can Vengeance be pursued further then Death?
Condemned Villain, I do apprehend thee;
Obey, and go with me, for thou must Die.
Rom. I must indeed, and therefore came I hither.
Good gentle Youth, tempt not a desperate Man,
Fly hence and leave me; think upon those gone,
Let them affright thee. I beseech thee Youth,
Put not another Sin upon my Head,
By urging me to Fury. O be gone,
By Heaven I Love thee better than my self,
For I come hither Arm'd against my self:
~~Stay not, be gone, Live, and hereafter say,~~
~~A mad Man's Mercy bid thee run away.~~
Par. I do defie thy Commiseration,
And apprehend thee for a Fellon here.
Rom. Wilt thou provoke me? Then have at thee Boy.
Pet. O Lord they fight, I will go call the Watch.
Pa. O I am Slain; if thou be Merciful, (Paris falls
Open the Tomb, lay me with Juliet. Dies
Rom. In Faith, I will: let me peruse this Face,
Mercutio's Kinsman, Noble County Paris!
What said my Man, when my betossed Soul
Did not attend him as we Rode? I think
He told me Paris should have Married Juliet.
Said he not so? Or did I Dream it so?
Or am I Mad, hearing him talk of Juliet,
To think it was so? O give me thy Hand,
One writ with me in sour Misfortunes Book,
I'le bury thee in a Triumphant Grave.
A Grave; O no a Lanthorn, slaughter'd Youth:
For here lies Juliet, ~~and her Beauty makes~~
~~This Vault a Feasting presence full of Light.~~
~~Death, be thou there by a Dead Man interr'd.~~
~~How oft when Men are at the Point of Death,~~
~~Have they been Merry? Which their Keepers call~~
~~A Lightning before Death? O how may I~~
~~Call this a Lightning?~~ O my Love, my Wife!
Death that hath suckt the Honey of thy Breath,
Hath had no Power yet upon thy Beauty:
Thou art not Conquer'd, Beauties Ensign yet
Is Crimson in thy Lips, and in thy Cheeks,
And Deaths pale Flag is not advanced there.
Tybalt, ly'st thou there in thy Bloody Sheet?
O what more Favour can I do to thee,
Then with that Hand that cut thy Youth in twain,
To sunder his that was thy Enemy?
Forgive me Cozen. Ah dear Juliet,
Why art thou yet so fair? ~~I will believe,~~
Shall I believe, that unsubstantial Death is Amorous?
And that the lean abhorred Monster keeps
Thee here in Dark, to be his Paramour?
For fear of that, I still will stay with thee,
And never from this Palace of dim Night
~~Depart again: Come lie thou in my Arms,~~
~~Here's to thy Health, where e're thou tumblest in.~~
~~O true Apothecary!~~
~~Thy Drugs are quick. Thus with a Kiss I Die.~~
Depart again; here, here will I remain,
With Worms that are thy Chamber-Maids; O here
Will I set up my Everlasting rest;
And shake the Yoak of inauspicious Stars
From this World-wearied Flesh. Eyes, look your last!
Arms, take your last Embrace! And Lips, O you
The Doors of Breath, seal with a Righteous Kiss
A dateless Bargain to engrossing Death!
Come bitter Conduct, come unsavoury Guide!
Thou desperate Pilot, now at once run on
The dashing Rocks thy Sea-sick weary Bark;
Here's to my Love! O true Apothecary! (Drinks the Poison
Thy Drugs are quick. Thus with a Kiss I Die. Dies

Enter Frier with Lanthorn, Crow, and Spade.

Fri. St. Francis be my speed, how oft to Night
Have my old Feet stumbled at Graves? Who's there?
Man. Here's one, a Friend, and one that knows you well.
Fri. Bliss be upon you! Tell me good my Friend,
What Torch is yond, that vainly lends his Light
To grubs and eyeless Sculls? As I discern,
It burneth in the Capulet's Monument.
Man. It doth so, Holy Sir. (Nearly
And there's my Master, one ~~that~~ you Love.
Fri. Who is it?
Man. Romeo.
Fri. How long hath he been there?
Man. Full half an hour.
Fri. Go with me to the Vault.
Man. I dare not, Sir.
My Master knows not but I am gone hence,
And fearfully did Menace me with Death,
If I did stay to look on his Intents.
Fri. Stay, then, I'le go alone, fears come upon me,
O much I fear some ill unlucky thing.
Man. As I did sleep under this ~~young~~ little Tree here,
I dreamt my Master and another fought,
And that my Master slew him.
Frier. Romeo!
Alack, alack, what Blood is this which stains
The stony entrance of this Sepulchre?
What mean these Masterless and Goary Swords
To lie discolour'd by this place of Peace?
Romeo! oh pale! Who else? What, Paris too?
And steep'd in Blood? Ah what an unkind Hour
Is guilty of this Lamentable chance?
The Lady stirs.
Juli. O comfortable Frier, where's my Lord? (waking
I do remember well where I should be;
And there I am; where is my Romeo?
Fri. I hear some noise Lady, come from that Nest
Of Death, contagion, and unnatural Sleep;
A greater Power than we can contradict,
Hath thwarted our intents; come, come away;
Thy Husband in thy Bosom there lies Dead,
And Paris too: Come, I'le dispose of thee,
Among a Sisterhood of Holy Nuns:
Stay not to question, for the Watch is coming.
~~Come, go good Juliet, I dare no longer stay.~~ [Exit.

Juli. Go, get thee hence, for I will not away.
What's here? A Cup clos'd in my true Loves hand?
Poyson I see hath been his timeless End.
O Churle, drink all, and left no Friendly drop,
To help me after? I will Kiss thy Lips,
Haply some Poyson yet doth Hang on them;
~~To make me Die with a Restorative.~~
Thy Lips are warm.

Enter Boy and Watch.

Watch. Lead Boy, which way?

Juli.

Juli. Yea, noise?
Then I'le be brief. O happy Dagger, [Finding a Dagger
This is thy sheath, there rust and let me die. [Kills her selfe.

Boy. This is the place,
There where the Torch doth burn.
Watch. The ground is bloody.
Search about the Churchyard.
Go some of you, who e're you find attach.
Pittyful sight, heres lies the County slain,
And Juliet bleeding, warm, and newly dead,
Who here hath lain these two dayes Buried.
Go tell the Prince, run to the Capulets,
Raise up the Mountagues, some others search,
We see the Ground whereon these Woes do lye.
But the true Ground of all these piteous Woes
We cannot without Circumstance descry.

Enter Romeo's Man.

Wat. Here's Romeo's Man,
We found him in the Churchyard.
Con. Hold him in safety, till the Prince comes hither.

Enter Friar and another Watchman.

3. Wat. Here is a Frier that trembles, sighs, and weeps:
We took this Mattock and this Spade from him,
As he was coming from this Church-yard side.
Con. A great Suspicion, stay the Frier too.

Scene V.

Enter the Prince.

Pri. What misadventure is so early up,
That calls our Person from our Mornings Rest?

Enter Capulet and his Wife.

Cap. What should it be that they so shriek abroad?
Wife. O the People in the Street cry Romeo,
Some Juliet, and some Paris; and all run
With open out-cry toward our Monument.
Pri. What Fear is this which startles in your Ears?
Wat. Sovereign, here lies the County Paris slain,
And Romeo dead, and Juliet (dead before,)
Warm and new kill'd.
Pri. Search,
Seek, and know how this foul Murther comes.
Wat. Here is a Frier, and slaughter'd Romeo's Man,
With Instruments upon them fit to open
These Dead mens Tombs.
Cap. O Heaven!
O Wife, look how our Daughter Bleeds!
This Dagger hath mistane, for lo, his House
Is empty on the back of Mountague,
And is mis-sheathed in my Daughters Bosom.
Wife. O me, this sight of Death is as a Bell,
That warns my old Age to a Sepulcher.

Enter Mountague.

Pri. Come Mountague, for thou art early up,
To see thy Son and Heir now early down. fallen
Moun. Alas, my Liege, my Wife is dead to Night,
Grief of my Sons Exile hath stopt her Breath:
What further Woe conspires against my Age?
Pri. Look, and thou shalt see.
Moun. O thou untaught, what Manners is in this,
To press before thy Father to a Grave?
Pri. Seal up the Mouth of out-rage for a while,
Till we can clear these Ambiguities,
And know their Spring, their Head, their true Descent,
And then will I be General of your Woes,
And lead you even to Death; mean time forbear,
And let Mischance be Slave to Patience.
Bring forth the Parties of Suspicion.
Fri. I am the greatest, able to do least
Yet most suspected, as the Time and Place
Doth make against me, of this direful Murther;
And here I stand both to Impeach and Purge
My self Condemned, and my self Excus'd.
Pri. Then say at once what thou dost know in this?
Fri. I will be brief, for my short date of Breath
Is not so long as is a tedious Tale.
Romeo there Dead, was Husband to that Juliet;
And she there Dead, that's Romeo's faithful Wife:
I Married them; and their stoln Marriage Day
Was Tybalt's Dooms-day, whose untimely Death
Banish'd the new-made Bridegroom from this City,
For whom, and not for Tybalt, Juliet pin'd.
You, to remove that Siege of Grief from her,
Betroth'd, and would have Married her perforce
To County Paris. Then comes she to me,
And, with wild Looks, bid me devise some means
To rid her from this second Marriage,
Or in my Cell there would she kill her self.
Then gave I her (so tutor'd by my Art)
A sleeping Potion, which so took Effect
As I intended, for it wrought on her
The Form of Death. Mean time I writ to Romeo,
That he should hither come, as this dire Night,
To help to take her from her borrowed Grave,
Being the time the Potions force should cease.
But he which bore my Letter, Frier John,
Was stay'd by accident, and yesternight
Return'd my Letter back; then all alone,
At the prefixed Hour of her waking,
Came I to take her from her Kindreds Vault;
Meaning to keep her closely at my Cell,
Till I conveniently could send to Romeo.
But when I came (some Minute e're the time
Of her awaking) here untimely lay
The Noble Paris, and true Romeo dead.
She wakes, and I intreat her to come forth,
And bear this Work of Heaven with Patience:
But then, a Noise did scare me from the Tomb,
And she (too desperate) would not go with me,
But, (as it seems,) did Violence on her self,
All this I know, and to the Marriage her Nurse is privy:
And if ought in this miscarried by my fault,
Let my old Life be sacrific'd some Hour before the time,
Unto the Rigor of severest Law.
Pri. We still have known thee for an Holy man.
Where's Romeo's Man? What can he say to this?
Boy. I brought my Master News of Juliets Death,
And then in Post he came from Mantua
To this same place, to this same Monument.
This Letter he early bid me give his Father,
And threatned me with Death, going in the Vault,
If I departed not, and left him there.
Prin. Give me the Letter, I will look on it.
Where is the Counties Page that rais'd the Watch?
Sirrah, what made your Master in this Place?
Pag. He came with Flowers to strew his Ladies Grave,
And bid me stand aloof, and so I did:
Anon comes one with light to ope the Tomb,
And by and by my Master drew on him,
And then I ran away to call the Watch.
Prin. This Letter doth make good the Friars words,
Their Course of Love, the tydings of her Death:
And here he Writes, that he did buy a Poyson
Of a poor Pothecary, and therewithal
Came to this Vault to die, and lie with Juliet.
Where be these Enemies? Capulet! Mountague!
See what a Scourge is laid upon your Hate,
That Heaven finds means to kill your Joyes with Love!
And I, for winking at your discords too,
Have lost a brace of Kinsmen: All are punish'd!

Cap.

Cap. O Brother Mountague, give me thy Hand,
This is my Daughters Jointure, for no more
Can I demand.

Moun. But I can give thee more,
For I will raise her Statue in pure Gold,
That while Verona by that Name is known,
There shall no Figure at that rate be set,
As that of true and faithful Juliet.

Cap. As rich shall Romeo by his Lady lie,
Poor Sacrifices of our Enmity.

Prin. A gloomy Peace this Morning with it brings,
The Sun for Sorrow will not shew his Head;
Go hence to have more talk of these sad things;
Some shall be pardon'd, and some punished.
For never was a Story of more woe,
Than this of Juliet, and her Romeo. [Exeunt omnes.

Poet. Good day, Sir.
Pain. I am glad ye are well.
Poet. I have not seen you long, how goes the World?
Pain. It wears, Sir, as it grows.
Poet. I, that's well known.
But what particular Rarity? What strange,
Which manifold record not matches: See
Magick of Bounty, all these spirits thy power
Hath conjur'd to attend.
I know the Merchant.
Pain. I know them both, th'other's a Jeweller
Mer. Oh 'tis a worthy Lord.
Jew. Nay, that's most fixt.
Mer. A most incomparable man, breath'd as it were,
To an untyrable and continuate goodness:
He passes.
Jew. I have a Jewel here.
Mer. O pray let's see't. For the Lord Timon, Sir?
Jew. If he will touch the estimate, but for that——
Poet. When we for recompence have prais'd the vild,
It staines the Glory in that happy Verse,
Which aptly sings the good.
Mer. 'Tis a good form.
Jew. And rich: here is a Water, look ye.
Pain. You are rapt, Sir, in some work, some Dedication to the Great Lord.
Poet. A thing slipt idly from me.
Our Poesie is as a Gown, which uses
From whence 'tis nourisht: The fire i'th' Flint
Shews not 'till it be struck: Our gentle Flame
Provokes it self, and like the current flies
Each bound it chases. What have you there?
Pain. A Picture, Sir: When comes your Book forth?
Poet. Upon the Heels of my presentment, Sir.
Let's see your piece.
Pain. 'Tis a good Piece.
Poet. So 'tis, this comes off well, and excellent.
Pain. Indifferent.
Poet. Admirable! How this Grace
Speaks his own standing: what a mental power
This eye shoots forth? How big imagination
Moves in this Lip; to th' dumbness of the gesture,
One might interpret.
Pain. It is a pretty mocking of the life:
Here is a touch: Is't good?
Poet. I will say of it,
It tutors Nature, Artificial strife
Lives in these touches livelier than life.

Enter certain Senators.

Pain. How this Lord is followed!
Poet The Senators of Athens, happy men.
Pain. Look moe.
Poet. You see this confluence, this great flood of Visitors,
I have in this rough work shap'd out a man,

Whom this beneath world doth embrace and hugg
With ampleſt entertainment: My free drift
Halts not particularly, but moves it ſelf
In a wide Sea of Wax, no levell'd malice
Infects one comma in the courſe I hold,
But flies an Eagle flight, bold, and forth on,
Leaving no Tract behind.

Pain. How ſhall I underſtand you?

Poet. I will unbolt to you.
You ſee how all Conditions, how all Minds,
As well of glib and ſlipp'ry Creatures, as
Of grave and auſtere quality, tender down
Their ſervices to Lord Timon: His large Fortune,
Upon his good and gracious Nature hanging,
Subdues and properties to his love and tendance
All ſorts of hearts; yea from the glaſs-fac'd Flatterer
To Apemantus, that few things loves better
Than to abhor himſelf, even he drops down
The knee before him, and returns in peace
Moſt rich in Timon's nod.

Pain. I ſaw them ſpeak together.

Poet. Sir, I have upon a high and pleaſant hill
Feign'd Fortune to be thron'd.
The Baſe o'th' Mount
Is rank'd with all deſerts, all kind of Natures
That labour on the boſom of this Sphere,
To propagate their ſtates; amongſt them all,
Whoſe eyes are on this Sovereign Lady fixt,
One do I perſonate of Lord Timon's frame,
Whom Fortune with her Ivory hand wafts to her,
Whoſe preſent grace, to preſent ſlaves and ſervants
Tranſlates his Rivals.

Pain. 'Tis conceiv'd, to ſcope
This Throne, this Fortune, and this Hill methinks
With one man beckn'd from the reſt below,
Bowing his head againſt the ſteepy Mount,
To climb his happineſs, would be well expreſt
In our Condition.

Poet. Nay, Sir, but hear me on:
All thoſe which were his Fellows but of late,
Some better than his value; on the moment
Follow his ſtrides, his Lobbies fill with tendance,
Rain Sacrificial whiſperings in his ear,
Make Sacred, even his Stirrop, and through him
Drink the free Air.

Pain. I marry, what of theſe?

Poet. When Fortune in her ſhift and change of mood
Spurns down her late beloved; all his Dependants
Which labour'd after him to the Mountains top,
Even on their knees and hands let him ſit down,
Not one accompanying his declining foot.

Pain. 'Tis common:
A thouſand moral Paintings I can ſhew,
That ſhall demonſtrate theſe quick blowes of Fortune,
More pregnantly than words. Yet you do well,
To ſhew Lord Timon, that mean eyes have ſeen
The foot above the head.

Trumpets ſound.
Enter Lord Timon, addreſſing himſelf courteouſly to every Suitor.

Tim. Impriſoned is he, ſay you?

Meſ. I my good Lord, five Talents is his debt,
His means moſt ſhort, his Creditors moſt ſtraight:
Your honourable Letter he deſires
To thoſe have ſhut him up, which failing to him,
Periods his comfort.

Tim. Noble Ventidius, well:
I am not of that Feather, to ſhake off
My friend when he moſt needs me. I do know him
A Gentleman, that well deſerves a help,
Which he ſhall have. I'll pay the debt, and free him.

Meſ. Your Lordſhip ever binds him.

Tim. Commend me to him, I will ſend his ranſom,
And being enfranchized, bid him come to me;
'Tis not enough to help the feebie up,
But to ſupport him after. Fare you well.

Meſ. All happineſs to your Honour. Exit.

Enter an Old Athenian.

O. Ath. Lord Timon, hear me ſpeak.

Tim. Freely, good Father.

O. Ath. Thou haſt a ſervant nam'd Lucilius.

Tim. I have ſo: What of him?

O. Ath. Moſt Noble Timon, call the man before thee.

Tim. Attends he here, or no? Lucilius.

Luc. Here, at your Lordſhips ſervice.

O. Ath. This fellow here, L. Timon, this thy Creature
By night frequents my houſe. I am a man
That from my firſt have been inclin'd to thrift,
And my eſtate deſerves an Heir more rais'd,
Than one which holds a Trencher.

Tim. Well: What further?

O. Ath. One only Daughter have I, no Kin elſe,
On whom I may confer what I have got:
The Maid is fair, a'th'youngeſt for a Bride,
And I have bred her at my deareſt coſt,
In Qualities of the beſt. This man of thine
Attempts her Love: I pray thee (Noble Lord)
Joyn with me to forbid him her reſort,
My ſelf have ſpoke in vain.

Tim. The man is honeſt.

O. Ath. Therefore he will be, Timon,
His Honeſty rewards him in it ſelf,
It muſt not bear my Daughter.

Tim. Does ſhe love him?

O. Ath. She is young and apt:
Our own precedent paſſions do inſtruct us
What levity's in Youth.

Tim. Love you the Maid?

Luci. I my good Lord, and ſhe accepts of it.

O. Ath. If in her Marriage my conſent be miſſing,
I call the Gods to witneſs, I will chuſe
Mine Heir from forth the Beggars of the World,
And diſpoſſeſs her all.

Tim. How ſhall ſhe be endowed,
If ſhe be mated with an equal Husband?

O. Ath. Three Talents on the preſent, in future, all.

Tim. This Gentleman of mine
Hath ſerv'd me long:
To build his Fortune I will ſtrain a little,
For 'tis a Bond in men. Give him thy Daughter,
What you beſtow, in him I'll counterpoize,
And make him weigh with her.

O. Ath. Moſt Noble Lord,
Pawn me to this your Honour, ſhe is his.

Tim. My Hand to thee,
Mine Honour on my Promiſe.

Luci. Humbly I thank your Lordſhip, never may
That State or Fortune fall into my keeping,
Which is not owed to you. [Exit.

Poet. Vouchſafe my Labour,
And long live your Lordſhip.

Tim. I thank you, you ſhall hear from me anon:
Go not away. What have you there, my Friend?

Pain. A piece of Painting, which I do beſeech
Your Lordſhip to accept.

Tim. Painting is welcome.
The Painting is almoſt the Natural Man:
For ſince Diſhonour trafficks with mans Nature,
He is but outſide: The Penſil'd Figures are
Even ſuch as they give out. I like your work,
And you ſhall find I like it: Wait Attendance
Till you hear further from me.

Pain. The Gods preſerve ye.

Tim. Well fare you Gentleman: Give me your hand.

We

We muſt needs dine together: Sir, your Jewel
Hath ſuffered under praiſe.
Jew. What my Lord, diſpraiſe?
Tim. A meer ſatiety of Commendations,
If I ſhould pay you for't as 'tis extoll'd,
It would unclew me quite.
Jew. My Lord, 'tis rated
As thoſe which ſell would give: But you well know,
Things of like value differing in the Owners,
Are priz'd by their Maſters. Believ't, dear Lord,
You mend the Jewel by the wearing it.
Tim. Well mock'd. [Enter Apemantus.
Mer. No, my good Lord, he ſpeaks the common tongue
Which all men ſpeak with him.
Tim. Look who comes here, will you be chid?
Jew. We'll bear with your Lordſhip.
Mer. He'll ſpare none.
Tim. Good morrow to thee,
Gentle Apemantus.
Apem. Till I be gentle, ſtay thou for thy good morrow.
When thou art Timon's dog, and theſe Knaves honeſt.
Tim. Why doſt thou call them Knaves, thou know'ſt them not?
Apem. Are they not Athenians?
Tim. Yes.
Apem. Then I repent not.
Jew. You know me, Apemantus?
Apem. Thou know'ſt I do, I call'd thee by thy name.
Tim. Thou art proud, Apemantus.
Apem. Of nothing ſo much, as that I am not like Timon.
Tim. Whither art going?
Apem. To knock out an honeſt Athenians brains.
Tim. That's a deed thou'lt die for.
Apem. Right, if doing nothing be death by th' Law.
Tim. How lik'ſt thou this Picture, Apemantus?
Apem. The beſt, for the Innocence.
Tim. Wrought he not well that painted it?
Apem. He wrought better that made the Painter, and yet he's but a filthy piece of work.
Pain. Y'are a Dog.
Apem. Thy Mother's of my generation: What's ſhe, If I be a Dog?
Tim. Wilt dine with me, Apemantus?
Apem. No, I eat not Lords.
Tim. And thou ſhould'ſt, thou'd'ſt anger Ladies.
Apem. O they eat Lords.
So they come by great bellies.
Tim. That's a laſcivious apprehenſion.
Apem. So thou apprehend'ſt it.
Take it for thy labour.
Tim. How doſt thou like this Jewel, Apemantus?
Apem. Not ſo well as plain-dealing, which will not coſt a man a Doit.
Tim. What doſt thou think 'tis worth?
Apem. Not worth my thinking.
How now, Poet?
Poet. How now, Philoſopher?
Apem. Thou lieſt.
Poet. Art not one?
Apem. Yes.
Poet. Then I lie not.
Apem. Art not a Poet?
Poet. Yes.
Apem. Then thou lieſt:
Look in thy laſt work, where thou haſt feign'd him a worthy Fellow.
Poet. That's not feign'd, he is ſo.
Apem. Yes, he is worthy of thee, and to pay thee for thy labour. He that loves to be flattered is worthy o'th' flatterer. Heavens, that I were a Lord.
Tim. What wouldſt do then, Apemantus?
Apem. E'en as Apemantus does now, hate a Lord with my heart.
Tim. What thy ſelf?
Apem. I.
Tim. Wherefore?
Apem. That I had no angry wit to be a Lord.
Art not thou a Merchant?
Mer. I, Apemantus.
Apem. Traffick confound thee, if the Gods will not.
Mer. If Traffick do it, the Gods do it.
Apem. Traffick's thy God, and thy God confound thee.

Trumpet ſounds. Enter a Meſſenger.

Tim. What Trumpet's that?
Meſ. 'Tis Alcibiades, and ſome twenty Horſe,
All of Companionſhip.
Tim. Pray entertain them, give them guide to us,
You muſt needs dine with me: Go not you hence
Till I have thankt you; and when dinner's done
Shew me this piece. I am joyful of your ſights.
Enter Alcibiades with the reſt.
Moſt welcome Sir.
Apem. So ſo, their Aches contract, and ſtarve your ſupple Joynts: That there ſhould be ſmall love amongſt theſe ſweet Knaves, and all this Courteſie. The ſtrain of man's bred out into Baboon and Monkey.
Alci. You have ſav'd my longing, and I feed
Moſt hungerly on your ſight.
Tim. Right welcome, Sir.
E're we depart, we'll ſhare a bounteous time
In different pleaſures.
Pray you let us in. [Exeunt.

Enter two Lords.

1. Lord. What time a day is't, Apemantus?
Apem. Time to be honeſt.
1. That time ſerves ſtill.
Apem. The moſt accurſed thou that ſtill omit t'ſtit.
2. Thou art going to Lord Timon's Feaſt.
Apem. I, to ſee Meat fill Knaves, and Wine heat Fools.
2. Fare thee well, fare thee well.
Apem. Thou art a Fool to bid me farewel twice.
2. Why, Apemantus?
Apem. Should'ſt have kept one to thy ſelf, for I mean to give thee none.
1. Hang thy ſelf.
Apem. No, I will do nothing at thy bidding:
Make thy requeſts to thy Friend.
2. Away unpeaceable Dog,
Or I'll ſpurn thee hence.
Apem. I will fly like a Dog, the heels a'th' Aſs.
1. He's oppoſite to humanity.
Come, ſhall we in,
And taſte Lord Timon's Bounty? He outgoes
The very heart of kindneſs.
2. He pours it out: Plutus, the God of gold,
Is but his Steward; no meed but he repaies
Seven-fold above it ſelf: No gift to him,
But breeds the giver a return: Exceeding
All uſe of quittance.
1. The Nobleſt mind he carries,
That ever govern'd man.
2. Long may he live in Fortunes: Shall we in?
I'll keep you company. [Exeunt.

Hoboyes playing, Loud Muſick.
A great Banquet ſerv'd in; and then enter Lord Timon, the States, the Athenian Lords, Ventidius which Timon redeemed from priſon. Then comes dropping after all, Apemantus diſcontentedly like himſelf.

Ventid. Moſt honoured Timon,
It hath pleas'd the Gods to remember my Father's age,
And call him to long peace:
He is gone happy, and has left me rich:

Then as in grateful virtue I am bound
To your free heart, I do return those Talents
Doubled with thanks and service, from whose help
I deriv'd liberty.

Tim. O by no means,
Honest Ventidius: You mistake my Love,
I gave it freely ever, and there's none
Can truly say he gives, if he receives:
If our betters play at that game, we must not dare
To imitate them. Faults that are rich are fair.

Ventid. A Noble Spirit.

Tim. Nay my Lords, Ceremony was but devis'd at first
To set a gloss on faint deeds, hollow welcomes,
Recanting goodness, sorry ere 'tis shown:
But where there is true friendship there needs none.
Pray, sit, more welcome are ye to my Fortunes,
Than my Fortunes to me.

1 Lord My Lord, we alwaies have confest it.

Apem. Ho, ho, confest it? Hang'd it? Have you not?

Tim. O Apemantus, you are welcome.

Apem. No: You shall not make me welcome.
I come to have thee thrust me out of doors.

Tim. Fye, th'art a Churle, ye have got a humour there
Does not become a man, 'tis much to blame:
They say, my Lords, Ira furor brevis est,
But yond man is very angry.
Go, let him have a Table by himself:
For he does neither affect company,
Nor is he fit for't indeed.

Apem. Let me stay at thine apperil, Timon,
I come to observe, I give thee warning on't.

Tim. I take no heed of thee; Th'art an Athenian, therefore welcome: I my self would have no power, prethee let my meat make thee silent.

Apem. I scorn thy meat, 'twould choak me: For I should ne'er flatter thee. Oh you Gods! What a number of men eats Timon, and he sees 'em not? It grieves me to see so many dip their meat in one mans blood, and all the madness is, he cheers them up too.
I wonder men dare trust themselves with men.
Methinks they should invite them without knives,
Good for their meat, and safer for their lives.
There's much example for't, the fellow that sits next him now, parts bread with him, pledges the breath of him in a divided draught: is the readiest man to kill him. 'T has been proved, if I were a huge man, I should fear to drink at meals, lest they should spy my wind-pipes dangerous notes, great men should drink with harness on their throats.

Tim. My Lord in heart: and let the health go round.

2 Lord. Let it flow this way, my good Lord.

Apem. Flow this way? A brave fellow; he keeps his tides well, those healths will make thee and thy state look ill, Timon.
Here's that which is too weak to be a sinner,
Honest water, which ne'er left man i'th'mire:
This and my food are equal, there's no ods,
Feasts are too proud to give thanks to the Gods.

Apemantus's Grace.

Immortal Gods, I crave no pelf,
I pray for no man but my self,
Grant I may never prove so fond,
To trust man on his Oath or Bond:
Or a Harlot for her weeping:
Or a Dog that seems a sleeping:
Or a Keeper with my Freedom:
Or my Friends if I should need 'em.
Amen. So fall too't:
Rich men sin, and I eat root.

Much good dich thy good heart, Apemantus.

Tim. Captain,
Alcibiades, your heart's in the field now.

Alci. My heart is ever at your service, my Lord.

Tim. You had rather be at a breakfast of Enemies, than a dinner of Friends.

Alci. So they were bleeding new my Lord, there's no meat like 'em, I could wish my friend at such a Feast.

Apem. Would all those flatterers were thine Enemies then, that then thou might'st kill 'em: And bid me to 'em.

1 Lord. Might we but have that happiness, my Lord, that you would once use our hearts, whereby we might express some part of our zeals, we should think our selves for ever perfect.

Tim. Oh no doubt, my good Friends, but the Gods themselves have provided that I shall have much help from you: How had you been my Friends else? Why have you that charitable title from thousands? Did not you chiefly belong to my heart? I have told more of you to my self, than you can with modesty speak in your own behalf. And Thus far I confirm you. Oh you Gods (think I) what need we have any Friends if we should never have need of 'em? They were the most needless Creatures living, should we ne'er have use for 'em. And would most resemble sweet Instruments hung up in Cases, that keep their sounds to themselves. Why I have often wisht my self poorer, that I might come nearer to you: We are born to do benefits. And what better or properer can we call our own, than the riches of our Friends? Oh what a precious comfort 'tis to have so many like Brothers commanding one anothers Fortunes! Oh Joys, e'en made away e're't can be born, mine eyes cannot hold out water, methinks, to forget their faults. I drink to you.

Apem. Thou weep'st to make them drink, Timon.

2. Lord Joy had the like conception in our eyes,
And at that instant like a Babe sprung up.

Apem. Ho, ho, I laugh to think that Babe a Bastard.

3 Lord I promise you my Lord you mov'd me much.

Apem. Much.

Sound Tucket. Enter the Maskers of Amazons with Lutes in their hands, dancing and playing.

Tim. What means that Trump? How now?

Enter Servant.

Ser. Please you, my Lord, there are certain Ladies Most desirous of admittance.

Tim. Ladies? What are their wills?

Ser. There comes with them a Fore-runner, my Lord, which bears that office to signifie their pleasures.

Tim. I pray let them be admitted.

Enter Cupid with the Mask of Ladies.

Cup. Hail to thee, worthy Timon, and to all that of his Bounties taste: The five best Senses acknowledge thee their Patron, and come freely to gratulate thy plenteous Bosom. There taste, touch all, pleas'd from thy Table rise:
They only now come but to feast thine eyes.

Tim. They're welcome all; let 'em have kind admittance. Musick make their welcome.

Luc. You see, my Lord, how ample you are belov'd.

Apem. Hoyday!
What a sweep of vanity comes this way.
They dance, they are mad Women.
Like Madness is the Glory of this life,
As this pomp shews to a little oyl and root.
We make our selves fools, to disport our selves,
And spend our flatteries to drink those men,
Upon whose Age we void it up agen.
With poysonous Spight and Envy.
Who lives, that's not depraved, or depraves?
Who dies, that bears not one spurn to their graves
Of their friends gift?
I should fear, those that dance before me now,
Would one day stamp upon me: 'T'as been done,

Men

Men ſhut their doors againſt a Setting Sun.

The Lords riſe from Table, with much adoring of Timon, and to ſhew their loves, each ſingle out an Amazon, and all dance, Men with Women, a lofty ſtrain or two to the Hoboyes, and ceaſe.

Tim. You have done your pleaſures,
Much Grace (Fair Ladies)
Sets a fair fashion on our entertainment,
Which was not half ſo beautiful, and kind:
You have added worth unto't, and lively luſtre,
And entertain'd me with mine own device.
I am to thank you for it.

1 Lord. My Lord, you take us even at the beſt.

Apem. Faith for the worſt is filthy, and would not hold taking, I doubt me.

Tim. Ladies, there is an idle Banquet attends you.
Pleaſe you to diſpoſe your ſelves.

All La. Moſt thankfully, my Lord. Exeunt.

Tim. Flavius.

Flav. My Lord.

Tim. The little Casket, bring me hither.

Fla. Yes, my Lord. More Jewels yet?
There is no croſſing him in 's humour,
Elſe I ſhould tell him well, i' faith I ſhould,
When all's ſpent, he'd be croſs'd then, and he could:
'Tis pity bounty has not eyes behind,
That man might ne'r be wretched for his mind.

1. Lord. Where be our men?

Serv. Here, my Lord, in readineſs.

2. Lord. Our Horſes.

Tim. O my Friends!
I have one word to ſay to you: Look you, my good Lord:
I muſt entreat you, honour me ſo much,
As to advance this Jewel, accept, and wear it,
Kind my Lord.

1. Lord. I am ſo far already in your Gifts.

All. So are we all.

Enter a Servant.

Serv. My Lord, there are certain Nobles of the Senate newly alighted, and come to viſit you.

Tim. They are fairly welcome.

Enter Flavius.

Fla. I beſeech your Honour, vouchſafe me a word, it does concern you near.

Tim. Near! Why then another time I'll hear thee.
I prethee let's be provided to ſhew them entertainment.

Fla. I ſcarce know how.

Enter another Servant.

Ser. May it pleaſe your Honour, Lord Lucius
(Out of his free Love) hath preſented to you
Four Milk-white Horſes trapt in Silver.

Tim. I ſhall accept them fairly: Let the Preſents
Be worthily entertain'd.

Enter a third Servant.

How now? What News?

3 Serv. Pleaſe you, my Lord, that honourable Gentleman, Lord Lucullus, entreats your company to morrow, to hunt with him, and h'as ſent your Honour two brace of Grey-Hounds.

Tim. I'll hunt with him.
And let them be received, not without fair Reward.

Fla. What will this come to?
He commands us to provide, and give great gifts, and all out of an empty Coffer:
Nor will he know his purſe, or yield me this,
To ſhew him what a Beggar his heart is,
Being of no Power to make his wiſhes good,
His promiſes fly ſo beyond his ſtate,
That what he ſpeaks is all in debt, owes for ev'ry word:
He is ſo kind, that he now payes intereſt for't;
His Land's put to their Books. Well, would I were Gently put out of Office, e'er I were forc'd:
Happier is he that has no friend to feed,
Than ſuch that do e'en Enemies exceed.
I bleed inwardly for my Lord. [Exit.

Tim. You do your ſelves much wrong,
You bate too much of your own merits.
Here, my Lord, a trifle of our love.

2 Lord With more than common thanks
I will receive it.

3 Lord. O ha's the very ſoul of Bounty.

Tim. And now I remember, my Lord, you gave good words the other day of a Bay Courſer I rode on. 'Tis yours becauſe you lik'd it.

1 L. Oh, I beſech you, pardon me, my Lord, in that.

Tim. You may take my word, my Lord: I know no man can juſtly praiſe, but what he does affect. I weigh my friends affection with my own? I'll tell you true, I'll call to you.

All Lords. O none ſo welcome.

Tim. I take all, and your ſeveral viſitations
So kind to heart, 'tis not enough to give:
Methinks I could deal Kingdoms to my Friends,
And ne'er be weary. Alcibiades,
Thou art a Souldier, therefore ſeldom rich,
It comes in charity to thee; for all thy living
Is 'mongſt the dead; and all the Lands thou haſt
Lie in a Pitcht Field.

Alci. I defie Land, my Lord.

1 Lord. We are ſo vertuouſly bound.

Tim. And ſo am I to you.

2 Lord. So infinitely endear'd.

Tim. All to yo you. Lights, more Lights, more Light.

1 Lord. The beſt of Happineſs, Honour and Fortunes,
Keep with you, Lord Timon.

Tim. Ready for his Friends. [Exeunt Lords.

Apem. What a coils here, ſerving of becks and jutting out of bumms, I doubt whether their Legs be worth the ſummes that are given for 'em.
Friendſhip's full of Dreggs:
Methinks falſe hearts ſhould never have ſound legs.
Thus honeſt fools lay out their wealth on Court'ſies.

Tim. Now, Apemantus (if thou wert not ſullen)
I would be good to thee.

Apem. No, I'll nothing; for if I ſhould be brib'd too, there would be none left to rail upon thee, and then thou wouldſt ſin the faſter. Thou giv'ſt ſo long, Timon (I fear me) thou wilt give away thy ſelf in paper ſhortly. What need theſe Feaſts, Pomps, and Vain-glories?

Tim. Nay, and you begin to rail on Society once, I am ſworn not to give regard to you. Farewell, and come with better Muſick. [Exit.

Apem. So: Thou wilt not hear me now, thou ſhalt not then. I'll lock thy Heaven from thee:
Oh that mens ears ſhould be
To Counſel deaf, but not to flattery. [Exit.

Enter a Senator.

Sen. And late five thouſand: to Varro and to Iſidore
He owes nine thouſand, beſides my former ſumme,
Which make it five and twenty. Still in motion
Of raging waſte? It cannot hold, it will not.
If I want Gold, ſteal but a Beggar's Dog,
And give it Timon, why the Dog coins Gold.
If I would ſell my Horſe, and buy twenty more
Better than he; why give my horſe to Timon.
Ask nothing, give it him, it foals me ſtraight
An able Horſe: No Porter at his gate,
But rather one that ſmiles and ſtill invites
All that paſs by. It cannot hold, no reaſon

Can ſound his ſtate in ſafety. Caphis, hoa.
Caphis I ſay.

Enter Caphis.

Caph. Here, Sir, what is your pleaſure?
Sen. Get on your Cloak, and haſte you to Lord Timon;
Importune him for my monies, be not ceaſt
With ſlight denial; nor then ſilenc'd, then
Commend me to your Maſter, and the Cap
Plaies in the right hand, thus: But tell him, ſirrah,
My uſes cry to me; I muſt ſerve my turn
Out of mine own, his dayes and times are paſt,
And my reliances on his fracted dates
Have ſmit my credit. I love and honour him,
But muſt not break my back, to heal his finger.
Immediate are my needs, and my relief
Muſt not be toſt and turn'd to me in words,
But find ſupply immediate. Get you gone,
Put on a moſt importunate aſpect,
A viſage of demand: For I do fear
When every Feather ſticks in his own wing,
Lord Timon will be left a naked gull,
Which flaſhes now a Phœnix, get you gone.
Caph. I go, Sir.
Sen. I go, Sir?
Take the Bonds along with you,
And have the dates in. Come.
Caph. I will, Sir.
Sen. Go. [Exeunt.

Enter Steward, with many Bills in his hand.

Stew. No care, no ſtop, ſo ſenſeleſs of expence,
That he will know neither how to maintain it,
Nor ceaſe his flow of Riot. Takes no account
How things go from him, nor reſume no care
Of what is to continue: Never mind
Was to be ſo unwiſe, to be ſo kind.
What ſhall be done, he will not hear, till feel:
I muſt be round with him, now he comes from hunting.
Fie, fie, fie, fie.

Enter Caphis, Iſidore, and Varro.

Caph. Good even, Varro, what, you come for money?
Var. Is't not your buſineſs too?
Caph. It is, and yours too, Iſidore?
Iſid. It is ſo.
Caph. Would we were all diſcharg'd.
Var. I fear it.
Caph. Here comes the Lord.

Enter Timon, and his Train.

Tim. So ſoon as dinner's done, we'll forth again,
My Alcibiades. With me, what is your will?
Caph. My Lord, here is a note of certain dues.
Tim. Dues? Whence are you?
Caph. Of Athens here: My Lord.
Tim. Go to my Steward.
Caph. Pleaſe it your Lordſhip, he hath put me off
To the ſucceſſion of new dayes this month:
My Maſter is awak'd by great occaſion,
To call upon his own, and humbly prays you,
That with your other Noble parts, you'll ſuit,
In giving him his right.
Tim. Mine honeſt Friend,
I prethee but repair to me next morning.
Caph. Nay, good my Lord.
Tim. Contain thy ſelf, good Friend.
Var. One Varro's ſervant, my good Lord.
Iſid. From Iſidore, he humbly prays your ſpeedy payment.
Caph. If you did know, my Lord, my Maſter's wants.
Var. 'Twas due on forfeiture, my Lord, ſix weeks, and paſt.
Iſid. Your Steward puts me off, my Lord, and I
Am ſent expreſly to your Lordſhip.
Tim. Give me breath:
I do beſeech you, good my Lords, keep on,
I'll wait upon you inſtantly. Come hither, pray you
How goes the world that I am thus encountred
With clamorous demands of debt, broken Bonds,
And the detention, long ſince due debts
Againſt my Honour?
Stew. Pleaſe you, Gentlemen,
The time is unagreeable to this buſineſs:
Your importunacy ceaſe, till after dinner,
That I may make his Lordſhip underſtand
Wherefore you are not paid.
Tim. Do ſo, my Friends, ſee them well entertain'd.
Stew. Pray draw near. [Exit.

Enter Apemantus and Fool.

Caph. Stay, ſtay, here comes the Fool with Apemantus, let's have ſome ſport with 'em.
Var. Hang him, he'll abuſe us
Iſid. A plague upon him dog.
Var. How doſt, Fool?
Apem. Doſt dialogue with thy ſhadow?
Var. I ſpeak not to thee.
Apem. No, 'tis to thy ſelf. Come away.
Iſid. There's the Fool hangs on your back already.
Apem. No, thou ſtandſt ſingle, thou art not on him yet.
Caph. Where's the Fool now?
Apem. He laſt ask'd the Queſtion. Poor Rogues and Uſurers men, Bawds between Gold and want.
All. What are we, Apemantus?
Apem. Aſſes.
All. Why?
Apem. That you ask me what you are, and do not know your ſelves. Speak to 'em Fool.
Fool. How do you, Gentlemen?
All. Gramercies, good Fool:
How does your Miſtreſs?
Fool. She's e'en ſetting on water to ſcald ſuch Chickens as you are. Would we could ſee you at Corinth.
Apem. Good, Gramercy.

Enter Page.

Fool. Look you, here comes my Maſter's Page.
Page. Why how now, Captain? What do you in this wiſe company?
How doſt thou, Apemantus?
Apem. Would I had a Rod in my mouth, that I might anſwer thee profitably.
Page. Prethee, Apemantus, read me the ſuperſcription of theſe Letters, I know not which is which.
Apem. Canſt not read?
Page. No.
Apem. There will little learning die then that day thou art hang'd. This is to Lord Timon, this to Alcibiades. Go thou waſt born a Baſtard and thou'lt die a Bawd.
Page. Thou waſt whelpt a Dog, and thou ſhalt famiſh a Dogs death.
Anſwer not, I am gone. [Exit.
Apem. E'en ſo thou out-runſt Grace,
Fool, I will go with you to Lord Timons.
Fool. Will you leave me there?
Apem. If Timon ſtay at home.
You three ſerve three Uſurers?
All. I wou'd they ſerv'd us.
Apem. So would I:
As good a trick as ever Hangman ſerv'd Thief.
Fool. Are you three Uſurers men?

All.

All I; Fool.

Fool. I think no Uſurer but has a fool to his Servant. My Miſtreſs is one, and I am her fool: when men come to borrow of your Maſters, they approach ſadly, and go away merrily: but they enter my maſters houſe merrily, and go away ſadly. The reaſon of this?

Var. I could render one.

Apem. Do it then, that we may account thee a Whore-maſter, and a Knave, which notwithſtanding thou ſhalt be no leſs eſteemed.

Var. What is a Whore-maſter, Fool?

Fool. A Fool in good cloaths, and ſomething like thee. 'Tis a ſpirit, ſomtime 't appears like a Lord, ſometimes like a Lawyer, ſometime like a Philoſopher, with two ſtones more than's artificial one. He is very often like a Knight; and generally, in all ſhapes that man goes up and down in, from fourſcore to thirteen, this Spirit walks in.

Var. Thou art not altogether a fool.

Fool. Nor thou altogether a wiſe man,
As much foolery as I have, ſo much wit thou lack'ſt.

Apem. That anſwer might have become Apemantus.

All. Aſide, aſide, here comes Lord Timon.

Enter Timon and Steward.

Apem. Come with me (fool) come.

Fool. I do not always follow Lover, elder Brother, and Woman, ſometime the Philoſopher.

Stew. Pray you walk near,
I'll ſpeak with you anon. [Exeunt.

Tim. You make me marvel wherefore e'er this time
Had you not fully laid my ſtate before me,
That I might ſo have rated my expence,
As I had leave of means.

Stew. You would not hear me:
At many leiſures I propos'd.

Tim. Go to:
Perchance ſome ſingle vantages you took,
When my indiſpoſition put you back,
And that unaptneſs made you miniſter
Thus to excuſe your ſelf.

Stew. O my good Lord,
At many times I brought in my accompts,
Laid them before you, you would throw them off,
And ſay you found them in mine honeſty,
When for ſome trifling Preſent you have bid me
Return ſo much, I have ſhook my head, and wept;
Yea againſt th' Authority of manners, pray'd you
To hold your hand more cloſe: I did endure
Not ſeldom, nor no ſlight checks, when I have Prompted you in the Ebbe of your Eſtate,
And your great flow of Debts; my dear lov'd Lord,
Though you here now (too late) yet now's a time
The greateſt of your having, lacks a half,
To pay your preſent debts.

Tim. Let all my Land be ſold.

Stew. 'Tis all engag'd, ſome forfeited and gone,
And what remains will hardly ſtop the mouth
Of preſent dues; the future comes apace:
What ſhall defend the interim, and at length
How goes our reck'ning?

Tim. To Lacedemon did my Land extend.

Stew. O my good Lord, the world is but a world,
Were it all yours, to give it in a breath,
How quickly were it gone?

Tim. You tell me true?

Stew. If you ſuſpect my Husbandry or Falſhood,
Call me before the exacteſt Auditors,
And ſet me on the proof. So the Gods bleſs me,
When all our Offices have been oppreſt
With riotous Feeders, when our Vaults have wept
With drunken Spilth of wine; when every Room
Hath blaz'd with Lights, and braid with Minſtrelſie,
I have retir'd me to a waſteful cock,
And ſet mine eyes at flow.

Tim. Preethee no more.

Stew. Heavens have I ſaid, the bounty of this Lord!
How many prodigal bits have Slaves and Peazants
This night englutted! who is not Timon's?
What heart, head, ſword, force, means, but is L. Timon's?
Great Timon, Noble, Worthy, Royal Timon's:
Ah, when the means are gone, that buy this praiſe,
The breath is gone whereof this praiſe is made:
Feaſt won, Faſt loſt, one cloud of winter ſhowres,
Theſe flies are coucht.

Tim. Come ſermon me no further.
No villanous bounty yet hath paſt my heart;
Unwiſely not ignobly have I given.
Why doſt thou weep, canſt thou the conſcience lack,
To think I ſhall lack Friends? Secure thy heart,
If I would broach the Veſſels of my Love,
And try the argument of hearts, by borrowing,
Men and mens Fortunes could I frankly uſe,
As I can bid thee ſpeak.

Stew. Aſſurance bleſs your thoughts.

Tim. And in ſome ſort theſe wants of mine are crown'd,
That I account them Bleſſings. For by theſe
Shall I try Friends. You ſhall perceive
How you miſtake my fortunes:
I am wealthy in my friends.
Within there, Flavius, Servilius?

Enter three Servants.

Ser. My Lord, my Lord.

Tim. I will diſpatch you ſeverally.
You to Lord Lucius, to Lord Lucullus you, I hunted with his Honour to day; you to Sempronius; commend me to their loves, and I am proud, ſay, that my occaſions have found time to uſe 'em toward a ſupply of money: let the requeſt be fifty Talents.

Flam. As you have ſaid, my Lord.

Stew. Lord Lucius and Lucullus? Humb.

Tim. Go you, Sir, to the Senators;
Of whom, even to the States beſt health, I have
Deſerv'd this hearing; bid 'em ſend o'th' inſtant
A thouſand Talents to me.

Stew. I have been bold
(For that I knew it the moſt general way)
To them to uſe your Signet and your Name,
But they do ſhake their heads, and I am here
No richer in return.

Tim. Is't true? Can't be?

Stew. They anſwer in a joint and corporate voice,
That now they are at fall, want Treaſure, cannot
Do what they would, are ſorry: You are Honourable,
But yet they could have wiſht, they know not,
Something hath been amiſs; a Noble Nature
May catch a wrench; would all were well; 'tis pity,
And ſo intending other ſerious matters,
After diſtaſtful looks, and theſe hard Fractions,
With certain half-caps, and cold moving nods,
They froze me into ſilence.

Tim. You Gods reward them:
Prethee man, look cheerly. Theſe old Fellows
Have their Ingratitude in them Hereditary:
Their blood is cak'd, 'tis cold, it ſeldom flowes,
'Tis lack of kindly warmth, they are not kind;
And Nature, as it grows again toward earth,
Is faſhion'd for the journey, dull and heavy.
Go to Ventidius (prethee be not ſad,
Thou art true, and honeſt; ingenuouſly I ſpeak,
No blame belongs to thee:) Ventidius lately
Buri'd his Father, by whoſe death he's ſtepp'd
Into a great eſtate: when he was poor,
Impriſon'd, and in ſcarcity of friends,
I clear'd him with five Talents. Greet him from me,

Bid

Bid him ſuppoſe, ſome good neceſſity
Touches his Friend, which craves to be remembred
With thoſe five Talents; that had, giv't theſe Fellows
To whom 'tis inſtant due. Nev'r ſpeak, or think,
That Timon's fortunes 'mong his Friends can ſink.
Stew. I would I could not think it:
That thought is bounties Foe:
Being free it ſelf it thinks all others ſo. [Exeunt.

Flaminius waiting to ſpeak with a Lord from his Maſter: enters a Servant to him.

Ser. I have told my Lord of you, he is coming down to you.
Flam. I thank you, Sir.

Enter Lucullus.

Ser. Here's my Lord.
Luc. One of Lord Timon's men? A Gift I warrant. Why, this hits right: I dreamt of a Silver Baſon and Ewre to night. Flaminius, honeſt Flaminius, you are very reſpectively welcome, Sir, Fill me ſome Wine. And how does that Honourable, Compleat, Free-hearted Gentleman of Athens, thy very bountiful good Lord and Maſter.
Flam. His health is well, Sir.
Luc. I am right glad that his health is well, Sir; and what haſt thou there under thy Cloak, pretty Flaminius?
Flam. Faith, nothing but an empty box, Sir, which in my Lords behalf, I come to intreat your honour to ſupply, who having great and inſtant occaſion to uſe fifty Talents, hath ſent to your Lordſhip to furniſh him, nothing doubting your preſent aſſiſtance therein.
Luc. La, la, la, la: Nothing doubting, ſays he? Alas, good Lord, a Noble Gentleman 'tis, if he would not keep ſo good a houſe. Many a time and often I ha' din'd with him, and told him on't, and come again to ſupper to him on purpoſe to have him ſpend leſs, and yet he would embrace no counſel, take no warning by my coming, every man hath his fault, and honeſty is his. I ha' told him on't, but I could never get him from't.

Enter Servant, with Wine.

Ser. Pleaſe your Lordſhip, here is the Wine.
Luc. Flaminius, I have noted thee always wiſe. Here's to thee.
Flam. Your Lordſhip ſpeaks your pleaſure.
Luc. I have obſerved thee alwaies for a towardly prompt ſpirit, give thee thy due, and one that knowes what belongs to reaſon; and canſt uſe the time well, if the time uſe thee well. Good parts in thee; get you gone, Sirrah. Draw nearer, honeſt Flaminius. Thy Lord's a bountiful Gentleman, but thou art wiſe, and thou knoweſt well enough (although thou comeſt to me) that this is no time to lend money, eſpecially upon bare Friendſhip without ſecurity. Here's three Solidares for thee, Good Boy, wink at me, and ſay thou ſaw'ſt me not. Fare thee well.
Flam. Is't poſſible the world ſhould ſo much differ,
And we alive that liv'd? Fly damned baſeneſs
To him that worſhips thee.
Luc. Ha? Now I ſee thou art a Fool, and fit for thy Maſter. [Exit Lucullus.
Flam. May theſe add to the number that may ſcald thee:
Let molten Coyn be thy damnation,
Thou diſeaſe of a Friend, and not himſelf:
Has Friendſhip ſuch a faint and milky heart,
It turns in leſs than two nights? O you Gods!
I feel my Maſters paſſion. This Slave unto his honour
Has my Lords meat in him:
Why ſhould it thrive and come to Nutriment,
When he is turn'd to poyſon?
O may diſeaſes only work upon't:
And when he's ſick to death, let not that part of Nature,
Which my Lord paid for, be of any power,
To expel ſickneſs, but prolong his hour. [Exit.

Enter Lucius, with three Strangers.

Luci. Who, the Lord Timon? He is my very good Friend, and an honourable Gentleman.
1. We know him for no leſs, though we are but ſtrangers to him. But I can tell you one thing, my Lord, and which I hear from common rumours, now Lord Timon's happy hours are done and paſt, and his eſtate ſhrinks from him.
Luci. Fye, no, do not believe it: He cannot want for Money.
2. But believe you this, my Lord, that not long ago, one of his men was with the Lord Lucullus, to borrow ſo many Talents, nay, urg'd extreamly for't, and ſhewed what neceſſity belong'd to't, and yet was deny'd.
Luci. How?
2. I tell you, deny'd, my Lord.
Luci. What a ſtrange caſe was that? Now before the Gods I am aſham'd on't. Deny'd that honourable man? There was very little honour ſhew'd in that. For my own part, I muſt needs confeſs, I have received ſome ſmall kindneſſes from him, as money, Plate, Jewels, and ſuch like Trifles; nothing comparing to his: Yet had he miſtook him, and ſent him to me, I ſhould ne'er have denyed his occaſion ſo many Talents.

Enter Servilius.

Servil. See, by good hap yonder's my Lord, I have ſwet to ſee his honour. My honour'd Lord.
Luci. Servilius? You are kindly met, Sir. Fare thee well, commend me to thy honourable vertuous Lord, my very exquiſite Friend.
Servil. May it pleaſe your honour, my Lord hath ſent

Luci. Ha! What hath he ſent? I am ſo much endeared to that Lord; he's ever ſending: How ſhall I thank him, think'ſt thou? And what has he ſent now?
Servil. H'as only ſent his preſent occaſion now, my Lord; requeſting your Lordſhip to ſupply his inſtant uſe, with ſo many Talents.
Luci. I know his Lordſhip is but merry with me,
He cannot want fifty five hundred Talents.
Servil. But in the mean time he wants leſs, my Lord.
If his occaſion were not vertuous,
I ſhould not urge it half ſo faithfully.
Luci. Doſt thou ſpeak ſeriouſly, Servilius?
Servil. Upon my Soul 'tis true, Sir.
Luci. What a wicked Beaſt was I, to diſfurniſh my ſelf againſt ſuch a good time, when I might ha' ſhewn my ſelf honourable? How unluckily it hapned, that I ſhould purchaſe the day before for a little part, and undoe a great deal of honour! Servilius, now before the Gods I am not able to do (the more beaſt I ſay) I was ſending to uſe Lord Timon my ſelf, theſe Gentlemen can witneſs; but I would not for the wealth of Athens I had don't now. Commend me bountifully to his good Lordſhip, and I hope his honour will conceive the faireſt of me, becauſe I have no power to be kind. And tell him this from me, I count it one of my greateſt afflictions, ſay, that I cannot pleaſure ſuch an honourable Gentleman. Good Servilius, will you befriend me ſo far, as to uſe my own words to him?
Servil. Yes, Sir, I ſhall. [Exit Servilius.
Luci. I'll look you out a good turn, Servilius.
True as you ſaid, Timon is ſhrunk indeed,
And he that's once deny'd will hardly ſpeed. [Exit.
1. Do you obſerve this, Hoſtilius?
2. I, too well.

1. Why

1. Why, this is the worlds ſoul,
And juſt of the ſame piece
Is every flatterers ſport: Who can call him his Friend
That dips in the ſame diſh? For in my knowing,
Timon has been this Lords Father,
And kept his credit with his purſe:
Supported his eſtate, nay, Timon's money
Has paid his men their wages. He ne'er drinks,
But Timon's Silver treads upon his lip;
And yet Oh ſee the monſtrouſneſs of Man,
When he looks out in an ungrateful ſhape:
He does deny him (in reſpect of his)
What Charitable Men afford to Beggars.
3. Religion groans at it.
1. For mine own part I never taſted Timon in my life,
Nor came any of his bounties over me,
To mark me for his Friend. Yet I proteſt,
For his right Noble Mind, Illuſtrious vertue,
And Honourable Carriage,
Had his neceſſity made uſe of me,
I would have put my wealth into Donation,
And the beſt half ſhould have return'd to him,
So much I love his heart: But I perceive,
Men muſt learn now with pity to diſpence.
For policy ſits above Conſcience. [Exeunt.

Enter a third Servant with Sempronius, another of Timon's Friends.

Semp. Muſt he needs trouble me in't? Humb.
'Bove all others?
He might have tried Lord Lucius, or Lucullus,
And now Ventidius is wealthy too.
Whom he redeem'd from priſon. All theſe
Owe their Eſtates unto him.
Ser. My Lord,
They have all been touch'd, and all are found baſe Mettal,
For they have all deny'd him.
Semp. How? Have they deny'd him?
Has Ventidius and Lucullus deny'd him?
And does he ſend to me? Three? Humb.
It ſhews but little love or judgment in him.
Muſt I be his laſt Refuge? His Friends (like Phyſicians)
That thriv'd, give him over. Muſt I take th'Cure upon me?
Has much diſgrac'd me in't, I'm angry at him,
That might have known my place, I ſee no ſenſe for't
But his occaſions might have wooed me firſt:
For in my conſcience I was the firſt man
That e'er received gift from him.
And does he think ſo backwardly of me now,
That I'll requite it laſt? No:
So it may prove an argument of laughter
To th'reſt, and 'mongſt Lords I be thought a fool:
I'd rather than the worth of thrice the ſum,
H'ad ſent to me firſt, but for my minds ſake:
I'd ſuch a courage to do him good. But now return,
And with their faint reply this anſwer joyn;
Who bates mine honour, ſhall not know my Coyn. [Exit.
Ser. Excellent: Your Lordſhip's a goodly Villain, the Devil knew not what he did, when he made man Politick; he croſſed himſelf by't: And I cannot think, but in the end the villanies of man will ſet him clear. How fairly this Lord ſtrives to appear foul? Takes vertuous Copies to be wicked: Like thoſe that under hot, ardent zeal, would ſet whole Realms on fire, of ſuch a nature is his politick love.
This was my Lord's beſt hope, now all are fled,
Save only the Gods, now his Friends are dead,
Doors that were ne'er acquainted with their Wards,
Many a bounteous year, muſt be imploy'd
Now to guard ſure their Maſter.
And this is all a liberal courſe allows;
Who cannot keep his wealth, muſt keep his houſe.
[Exit.

Enter Varro's man, meeting others. All Timon's Creditors to wait for his coming out. Then enter Lucius and Hortenſius.

Var. man. Well met, good morrow, Titus and Hortenſius.
Tit. The like to you, kind Varro.
Hort. Lucius, what do we meet together?
Luc. I, and I think one buſineſs do's command us all. For mine is money.
Tit. So is theirs, and ours.

Enter Philotus.

Luci. And Sir Philotus too.
Phi. Good day at once.
Luci. Welcome, good Brother.
What do you think the Hour?
Phi. Labouring for nine.
Luci. So much?
Phil. Is not my Lord ſeen yet?
Luci. Not yet.
Phil. I wonder on't, he was wont to ſhine at ſeven.
Luci. I, but the days are wax'd ſhorter with him:
You muſt conſider that a prodigal courſe
Is like the Suns, but not like his recoverable, I fear:
'Tis deepeſt Winter in Lord Timon's purſe, that is: One may reach deep enough, and yet find little.
Phil. I am of your fear for that.
Tit. I'll ſhew you t'obſerve a ſtrange event;
Your Lord ſends now for money?
Hort. Moſt true, he does.
Tit. And he wears Jewels now of Timon's gift,
For which I wait for money.
Hort. It is againſt my heart.
Luci. Mark how ſtrange it ſhows,
Timon in this ſhould pay more than he owes:
And e'en as if your Lord ſhould wear rich Jewels,
And ſend for money for 'em.
Hort. I'm weary of this Charge,
The Gods can witneſs:
I know my Lord hath ſpent of Timon's wealth,
And now ingratitude makes it worſe than ſtealth.
Var. Yes, mine's three thouſand Crowns:
What's yours?
Luci. Five thouſand mine.
Var. 'Tis much deep, and it ſhould ſeem by th' ſum,
Your Maſter's confidence was above mine,
Elſe ſurely his had equall'd.

Enter Flaminius.

Tit. One of Lord Timon's men.
Luc. Flaminius? Sir, a word: Pray is my Lord ready to come forth?
Flam. No, indeed he is not.
Tit. We attend his Lordſhip: Pray ſignifie ſo much.
Flam. I need not tell him that, he knows you are too diligent.

Enter Steward in a Cloak muffled.

Luci. Ha! Is not that his Steward muffled ſo?
He goes away in a Cloud: Call him, call him.
Tit. Do you hear, Sir?
2. Varro. By your lieve, Sir.
Stew. What do you ask of me, my Friend?
Tit. We wait for certain money here, Sir.
Stew. If money were as certain as your waiting,
'Twere ſure enough.
Why then preferr'd you not your Sums and Bills,
When your falſe Maſters eat of my Lords meat?
Then they would ſmile and fawn upon his debts,
And take down th'intereſt into their glutt'nous Maws.

You

You do your ſelves but wrong to ſtir me up,
Let me paſs quietly:
Believ't, my Lord, and I have made an end,
I have no more to reckon, he to ſpend.
Luci. I, but this anſwer will not ſerve.
Stew. If 'twill not ſerve, 'tis not ſo baſe as you,
For you ſerve Knaves.
1. Varro. How? What does his caſhier'd worſhip mutter?
2. Varro. No matter what, he's poor, and that's revenge enough. Who can ſpeak broader, than he that has no houſe to put his head in? Such may rail againſt great buildings.

Enter Servilius.

Tit. Oh, here's Servilius, now we ſhall know ſome anſwer.
Servil. If I might beſeech you, Gentlemen, to repair ſome other hour, I ſhould derive much from't. For tak't of my Soul, my Lord leans wondrouſly to diſcontent: His comfortable temper has forſook him, he's much out of health, and keeps his Chamber.
Luci. Many do keep their Chambers, are not ſick:
And if it be ſo far beyond his health,
Methinks he ſhould the ſooner pay his debts,
And make a clear way to the Gods.
Servil. Good Gods!
Tit. We cannot take this for anſwer, Sir.
Flaminius within. Servilius, help, my Lord, my Lord.

Enter Timon in a rage.

Tim. What, are my doors oppos'd againſt my paſſage?
Have I been ever free, and muſt my houſe
Be my retentive Enemy? My Gaol?
The place which I have feaſted, does it now
(Like all Mankind) ſhew me an Iron heart?
Luci. Put in now, Titus.
Tit. My Lord, here's my Bill.
Luci. Here's mine.
1. Varro. And mine, my Lord.
2. Varro. And ours, my Lord.
Philo. All our Bills.
Tim. Knock me down with 'em, cleave me to the Girdle.
Luci. Alas, my Lord.
Tim. Cut out my heart in ſums:
Tit. Mine, fifty Talents.
Tim. Tell out my Blood.
Luci. Five thouſand Crowns, my Lord.
Tim. Five thouſand drops pays that,
What yours? And yours?
1. Varro. My Lord.
2. Varro. My Lord.
Tim. Tear me, take me, and the gods fall upon you.
Exit Timon.
Hort. Faith, I perceive our Maſters may throw their caps at their money, theſe debts may well be call'd deſperate ones, for a mad man owes 'em. [Exeunt.

Enter Timon.

Tim. They have e'ne put my breath from me, the ſlaves.
Creditors? Devils
Stew. My dear Lord.
Tim. What if it ſhould be ſo?
Stew. My Lord.
Tim. I'll have it ſo. My Steward?
Stew. Here, my Lord.
Tim. So fitly? Goe, bid all my Friends again,
Lucius, Lucullus, and Sempronius: All,
I'll once more Feaſt the Raſcals.
Stew. O my Lord, you only ſpeak from your diſtracted ſoul; there's not ſo much left to furniſh out a moderate Table.
Tim. Be it not in thy care:
Go I charge thee, invite them all, let in the tide
Of Knaves once more: My Cook and I'll provide. Exeunt.

Enter three Senators at one door, Alcibiades meeting them, with Attendants.

1. Sen. My Lord, you have my voice to't,
The fault's bloody;
'Tis neceſſary he ſhould die:
Nothing emboldens ſin ſo much as Mercy.
2. Moſt true; the Law ſhall bruiſe 'em.
Alci. Honour, health and compaſſion to the Senate.
1. Now, Captain.
Alci. I am an humble Suitor to your Vertues;
For pity is the Vertue of the Law,
And none but Tyrants uſe it cruelly.
It pleaſes Time and Fortune to lie heavy
Upon a Friend of mine, who in hot bloud
Hath ſtept into the Law: which is paſt depth
To thoſe that (without heed) do plunge into't.
He's a man (ſetting his Fate aſide) of comely Vertues,
Nor did he ſoyl the fact with Cowardiſe.
And honour in him, which buyes out his fault)
But with a Noble Fury and Fair Spirit,
Seeing his reputation touch'd to death,
He did oppoſe his Foe;
And with ſuch ſober and unnoted paſſion
He did behoove his anger e're 'twas ſpent,
As if he had but prov'd an Argument.
1. Sen. You undergo too ſtrict a Paradox,
Striving to make an ugly deed look fair:
Your words have took ſuch pains, as they labour'd
To bring Man-ſlaughter into form, and ſet Quarrelling
Upon the head of Valour; which indeed
Is Valour mis-begot, and came into the world,
When Sects and Factions were newly born.
He's truly valiant, that can wiſely ſuffer
The worſt that man can breath,
And make his wrongs his Out-ſides,
To wear them like his Rayment, carelefly,
And ne'er prefer his injuries to his heart,
To bring it into danger.
If wrongs be evils, and enforce us kill,
What Folly 'tis to hazzard life for ill.
Alci. My Lord.
1. Sen. You cannot make groſs ſins look clear,
To revenge is no Valour, but to bear.
Alci. My Lords, then under favour, pardon me;
If I ſpeak like a Captain.
Why do fond men expoſe themſelves to Battel,
And not endure all threats? Sleep upon't,
And let the Foes quietly cut their throats
Without repugnancy? If there be Such Valour in the bearing, what make we Abroad? Why then, Women are more valiant
That ſtay at home, if bearing carry it:
And the Aſs, more Captain than the Lion? The Fellow
Loaden with Irons, wiſer than the Judge?
If Wiſdom be in ſuffering. Oh my Lords,
As you are great, be pitifully good,
Who cannot condemn raſhneſs in cold blood?
To kill, I grant, is ſins extreameſt Guſt,
But in defence, by Mercy 'tis moſt juſt.
To be in Anger, is impiety:
But who is man, that is not Angry?
Weigh but the Crime with this.
2. Sen. You breath in vain.
Alci. In vain?
His ſervice done at Lacedemon, and Bizantium,
Were a ſufficient Briber for his life.
1. What's that?

Alci.

Alcib. Why, I ſay my Lords h' as done fair ſervice,
And ſlain in Fight many of your Enemies:
How full of Valour did he bear himſelf
In the laſt Conflict, and made plenteous Wounds?

2. He has made too much plenty with 'em,
He's a ſworn Rioter, he has a ſin
That often drowns him, and takes his valour Priſoner.
If there were no Foes, that were enough
To overcome him. In that beaſtly fury,
He has been known to commit outrages,
And cheriſh Factions. 'Tis inferr'd to us,
His days are foul, and his drink dangerous.

1. He dyes.

Alcib. Hard Fate! He might have dy'd in War.
My Lords, if not for any Parts in him,
Though his right arm might purchaſe his own time,
And be in debt to none: yet more to move you,
Take my deſerts to his, and joyn 'em both.
And for I know, your Reverend Ages love Security,
J'll pawn my Victories, all my Honours to you,
Upon his good returns.
If by this Crime, he owes the Law his life,
Why let the War receive 't in valiant Gore,
For Law is ſtrict, and War is nothing more.

1. We are for Law, he dyes, urge it no more
On heighth of our diſpleaſure: Friend, or Brother,
He loſes his own bloud, that ſpills another.

Alcib. Muſt it be ſo? It muſt not be:
My Lords, I do beſeech you know me.

2. How?

Alcib. Call me to your remembrances.

3. What!

Alcib. I cannot think but your Age hath forgot me,
It could not elſe be, I ſhould prove ſo baſe,
To ſue, and be deny'd ſuch common Grace.
My Wounds ake at you.

1. Do you dare our anger?
'Tis few words, but ſpacious in effect.
We baniſh thee for ever.

Alcib. Baniſh me, baniſh your dotage, baniſh Uſury,
That makes the Senate ugly.

1. If after two days ſhine, Athens contain thee,
Attend our weightier Judgment.
And, not to ſwell our Spirit,
He ſhall be executed preſently. Exeunt.

Alcib. Now the Gods keep you old enough,
That you may live
Only in Bone, that none may look on you.
I'm worſe than mad: I have kept back their Foes
While they have told their Money, and let out
Their Coin upon large Intereſt. I my ſelf
Rich only in large hurts; All thoſe, for this?
Is this the Balſom that the uſuring Senate
Pours into Captains wounds? Ha! Baniſhment!
It comes not ill: I hate not to be baniſht,
It is a Cauſe worthy my Spleen and Fury,
That I may ſtrike at Athens. I'll cheer up my diſcontented Troops, and lay for hearts:
'Tis honour with moſt Lands to be at odds,
Souldiers ſhould brook as little wrongs as gods. Exit.

Enter divers Friends at ſeveral Doors.

1. The good time of day to you, Sir.

2. I alſo wiſh it to you: I think this honourable Lord did but try us this other day.

1. Upon that were my thoughts tiring when we encountred. I hope it is not ſo low with him as he made it ſeem in the tryal of his ſeveral Friends.

2. It ſhould not be, by the perſwaſion of his new Feaſting.

1. I ſhould think ſo: He hath ſent me an earneſt inviting, which many my near occaſions did urge me to put off: but he hath conjur'd me beyond them, and I muſt needs appear.

2. In like manner was I in debt to my importunate buſineſs; but he would not hear my excuſe. I am ſorry, when he ſent to borrow of me, that my Proviſion was out.

1. I am ſick of that grief too, as I underſtand how all things go.

2. Every man here's ſo: What would he have borrowed of you?

1. A thouſand Pieces.

2. A thouſand Pieces!

1. What of you?

2. He ſent to me, Sir—— Here he comes.

Enter Timon and Attendants.

Tim. With all my heart, Gentlemen both; and how fare you?

1. Ever at the beſt, hearing well of your Lordſhip.

2. The Swallow follows not Summer more willingly, Than we your Lordſhip.

Tim. Nor more willingly leaves Winter, ſuch Summer-Birds are men. Gentlemen, our Dinner will not recompence this long ſtay: Feaſt your ears with the Muſick a while: if they will fare ſo harſhly o' th' Trumpets ſound: we ſhall to't preſently.

1. I hope it remains not unkindly with your Lordſhip, that I return'd you an empty Meſſenger.

Tim. O Sir, let it not trouble you.

2. My Noble Lord.

Tim. Ah my good Friend, what Cheer?

The Banquet brought in.

2. My moſt honourable Lord, I am e'en ſick of ſhame, that when your Lordſhip the other day ſent to me, I was ſo unfortunate a Beggar.

Tim. Think not on't, Sir.

2. If you had ſent but two hours before——

Tim. Let it not cumber your better remembrance. Come, bring in all together.

2. All cover'd Diſhes!

1. Royal Chear, I warrant you.

3. Doubt not that, if Money and the Seaſon can yield it.

1. How do you? What's the News?

3. Alcibiades is baniſht: Hear you of it?

Both. Alcibiades baniſh'd!

3. 'Tis ſo, be ſure of it.

1. How? How?

2. I pray you upon what?

Tim. My worthy Friends will you draw near?

3. I'll tell you more anon. Here's a Noble Feaſt toward.

2. This is the Old man ſtill.

3. Will 't hold? Will 't hold?

2. It does, but time will, and ſo—

3. I do conceive.

Tim. Each man to his Stool, with that Spur as he would to the Lip of his Miſtris: Your Diet ſhall be in all places alike. Make not a City-Feaſt of it, to let the Meat cool, e're we can agree upon the firſt place. Sir, Sir.

The Gods require our thanks.

You great Benefactors, ſprinkle our Society with Thankfulneſs. For your own gifts, make your ſelves prais'd: But reſerve ſtill to give, leſt your Deities be deſpiſed. Lend to each man enough, that one need not lend to another. For were your godheads to borrow of men, men would forſake the gods. Make the meat be beloved, more than the man that gives it. Let no Aſſembly of Twenty, be without a Score of Villains. If there ſit twelve Women at the Table, let a Dozen of them be as they are—— The reſt of your Fees, O gods, the Senators of Athens, together with the common leg of People, what is amiſs in them, you gods, make ſutable for deſtruction. For theſe my preſent Friends, as they are to me nothing, ſo in nothing bleſs them, and to nothing are they welcome.

Uncover.

Uncover Dogs, and lap.
Some speak. What does his Lordſhip mean?
Some other. I know not.
Tim. May you a better Feaſt never behold,
You Knot of Mouth Friends: Smoke, and lukewarm Water
Is your perfection. This is Timon's laſt,
Who ſtuck and ſpangled you with flatteries,
Waſhes it off, and ſprinkles in your faces
Your reeking villany. Live loath'd, and long
Moſt ſmiling, ſmooth, deteſted Paraſites,
Courteous Deſtroyers, affable Wolves, meek Bears:
You Fools of Fortune, Trencher-friends, Time-flies,
Cap and Knee Slaves, Vapours and Minute Jacks
Of Man and Beaſt, the infinite Malady
Cruſt you quite o'r. What doſt thou go?
Soft, take thy Phyſick firſt; thou too, and thou;
Stay, I will lend thee Money, borrow none.
What! all in motion? Henceforth be no Feaſt,
Whereat a Villain's not a welcome Gueſt.
Burn houſe, ſink Athens, henceforth hated be
Of Timon, Man, and all humanity. Exit.

Enter the Senators, with other Lords.

1. How now, my Lords?
2. Know you the quality of Lord Timon's fury?
3. Puſh, did you ſee my Cap?
4. I have loſt my Gown.
1. He's but a mad Lord, and nought but humour ſways him. He gave me a Jewel th' other day, and now he has beat it out of my Hat.
Did you ſee my Jewel?
2. Did you ſee my Cap?
3. Here 'tis.
4. Here lyes my Gown.
1. Let's make no ſtay.
2. Lord Timon's mad.
3. I feel't upon my Bones.
4. One day he gives us Diamonds, next day Stones.
Exeunt the Senators.

Enter Timon.

Tim. Let me look back upon thee. O thou Wall,
That girdles in thoſe Wolves, dive in the Earth,
And fence not Athens. Matrons, turn incontinent:
Obedience fail in Children: Slaves and Fools
Pluck the grave wrinkled Senate from the Bench,
And miniſter in their ſteads to general Filths.
Convert o' th' inſtant green Virginity,
Do't in your Parents eyes. Bankrupts, hold faſt,
Rather than render back; out with your Knives,
And cut your Truſters throats. Bound Servants, ſteal,
Large-handed Robbers your grave Maſters are,
And Pill by Law. Maid, to thy Maſters Bed,
Thy Miſtreſs is o' th' Brothel. Son of ſixteen,
Pluck the lin'd Crutch from thy old limping Sire,
With it, beat out his Brains Piety, and fear,
Religion to the gods, Peace, Juſtice, Truth,
Domeſtick awe, Night-reſt, and Neighbourhood,
Inſtruction, Manners, Myſteries, and Trades,
Degrees, Obſervances, Cuſtoms, and Laws,
Decline to your confounding contraries.
And yet confuſion live: Plagues incident to men,
Your potent and infectious Feavers, heap
On Athens ripe for ſtroke. Thou cold Sciatica,
Cripple our Senators, that their Limbs may halt
As lamely as their Manners. Luſt and liberty
Creep in the Minds and Marrows of our Youth,
That 'gainſt the Stream of Vertue they may ſtrive,
And drown themſelves in Riot. Itches, Blains,
Sow all the Athenian boſoms, and their Crop
Be general Leproſie: Breath infect breath,
That their Society (as their friendſhip) may
Be meerly Poyſon. Nothing I'll bear from thee,
But Nakedneſs, thou deteſtable Town.
Take thou that too, with multiplying Banns:
Timon will to the Woods, where he ſhall find
Th' unkindeſt Beaſt much kinder than Mankind.
The gods confound (hear me you good gods all)
Th' Athenians both within and out that Wall;
And grant as Timon grows, his hate may grow
To the whole Race of Mankind, high and low.
Amen. Exit.

Enter Steward with two or three Servants.

1. Here you, Maſter Steward, where's our Maſter?
Are we undone, caſt off, nothing remaining?
Stew. Alack, my Fellows, what ſhould I ſay to you?
Let me be recorded by the righteous gods,
I am as poor as you.
1. Such a Houſe broke?
So Noble a Maſter faln, all gone, and not
One Friend to take his Fortune by the Arm,
And go along with him.
2. As we do turn our Backs
From our Companion, thrown into his Grave,
So his Familiars to his buried Fortunes
Slink all away, leave their falſe Vows with him
Like empty Purſes pickt. And his poor ſelf
A dedicated Beggar to the Air,
With his Diſeaſe, of all ſhun'd poverty,
Walks like contempt alone. More of our Fellows.

Enter other Servants.

Stew. All broken Implements of a ruin'd Houſe.
3. Yet do our hearts wear Timon's Livery,
That ſee I by our faces: we are Fellows ſtill,
Serving alike in ſorrow: Leak'd is our Bark,
And we poor Mates ſtand on the dying Deck,
Hearing the Surges threat: we muſt all part
Into this Sea of Air.
Stew. Good Fellows all,
The lateſt of my wealth I'll ſhare amongſt you.
Whereever we ſhall meet, for Timon's ſake,
Let's yet be Fellows. Let's ſhake our heads, and ſay,
As 'twere a Knell unto our Maſters Fortunes,
We have ſeen better days Let each take ſome:
Nay put out all your hands: Not one word more,
Thus part we rich in ſorrow, parting poor.
Embrace, and part ſeveral ways.
Oh the fierce wretchedneſs that Glory brings us!
Who would not wiſh to be from wealth exempt,
Since Riches point to Miſery and Contempt?
Who would be ſo mock'd with Glory, or to live
But in a Dream of Friendſhip,
To have his Pomp, and all what ſtate compounds,
But only painted like his varniſht friends:
Poor honeſt Lord, brought low by his own heart,
Undone by goodneſs: ſtrange unuſual blood,
When man's worſt ſin is, he does too much good.
Who then dares to be half ſo kind agen?
For Bounty that makes gods, does ſtill mar men,
My deareſt Lord, bleſt to be moſt accurſt,
Rich only to be wretched; thy great Fortunes
Are made thy chief afflictions. Alas (kind Lord)
He's flung in Rage from this ungrateful Seat
Of monſtrous Friends:
Nor has he with him to ſupply his life,
Or that which can command it:
I'll follow and enquire him out.
I'll ever ſerve his mind, with my beſt will,
Whilſt I have Gold, I'll be his Steward ſtill. Exit.

Enter Timon in the Woods.

Tim. O bleſſed breeding Sun, draw from the Earth
Rotten humidity: below thy Siſters Orb

Infect

Infect the air. Twin'd Brothers of one womb,
Whoſe procreation, reſidence, and birth,
Scarce is dividant; touch them with ſeveral fortunes,
The greater ſcorns the leſſer. Not Nature
(To whom all ſores lay Siege) can bear great Fortune
But by contempt of Nature.
Raiſe me this Beggar, and deny't that Lord,
The Senators ſhall bear contempt Hereditary,
The Beggar Native honour.
It is the Paſtor Lords, the Brothers ſides,
The want that makes him lean: who dares? who dares
In purity of Manhood, ſtand upright
And ſay, this man's a Flatterer? If one be,
So are they all, for every grize of fortune
Is ſmooth'd by that below. The Learned pate
Ducks to the Golden Fool. All's obliquy:
There's nothing level in our curſed Natures
But direct Villany. Therefore be abhorr'd,
All Feaſts, Societies, and Throngs of men.
His ſemblable, yea himſelf Timon diſdains,
Deſtruction phang mankind, Earth yield me Roots,
Who ſeeks for better of thee, ſawce his pallate
With thy moſt operant poiſon. What is here?
Gold? Yellow, glittering, precious Gold?
No gods, I am no idle Votariſt,
Roots you clear Heavens. Thus much of this will make
Black, white; fowl, fair; wrong, right;
Baſe, Noble; Old, Young; Coward, Valiant.
Ha you gods! why this? what this you gods? why, this
Will lug your Prieſts and Servants from your ſides:
Pluck ſtout mens Pillows from below the Heads.
This yellow Slave
Will knit and break Religions, bleſs th'accurſt,
Make the hoar Leproſie ador'd, place Thieves.
And give them title, knee, and approbation
With Senators on the Bench? This is it
That makes the wapen'd Widdow wed again;
She, whom the Spittle-Houſe, and ulcerous Sores,
Would caſt the gorge at. This Embalms and Spices
To th' April day again. Come damn'd Earth,
Thou common Whore of Mankind, that puts odds
Among the rout of Nations, I will make thee
Do thy right Nature. March afar off.
Ha! a Drum? Th'art quick,
But yet I'll bury thee: Thou'lt go (ſtrong Thief)
When Gouty Keepers of thee cannot ſtand:
Nay ſtay thou out for earneſt.

Enter Alcibiades with Drum and Fife in warlike manner, and Phrinia, and Timandra.

Alci. What art thou there? ſpeak.
Tim. A Beaſt as thou art. The Canker gnaw thy heart
For ſhewing me again the Eyes of man.
Alci. What is thy name? is man ſo hateful to thee,
That art thy ſelf a man?
Tim. I am Miſanthropos, and hate Mankind.
For thy part, I do wiſh thou wert a Dog,
That I might love thee ſomething.
Alci. I know thee well:
But in thy fortunes am unlearn'd, and ſtrange.
Tim. I know thee too, and more than that I know thee
I not deſire to know. Follow thy Drum,
With mans blood paint the ground Gules, Gules:
Religious Cannons, civil Laws are cruel,
Then what ſhould War be? This fell Whore of thine,
Hath in her more deſtruction than thy Sword,
For all her Cherubin look.
Phrin. Thy Lips rot off.
Tim. I will not kiſs thee, then the rot returns
To thine own Lips again.
Alci. How came the Noble Timon to this change?
Tim. As the Moon do's, by wanting light to give:
But then renew I could not, like the Moon,
There were no Suns to borrow of.
Alci. Noble Timon, what Friendſhip may I do thee?
Tim. None, but to maintain my opinion.
Alci. What is it Timon?
Tim. Promiſe me Friendſhip, but perform none.
If thou wilt not promiſe, the Gods plague thee, for thou art a man: if thou doſt perform, confound thee, for thou art a man.
Alci. I have heard in ſome ſort of thy Miſeries.
Tim. Thou ſaw'ſt them when I had proſperity.
Alci. I ſee them now, then was a bleſſed time.
Tim. As thine is now, held with a brace of Harlots.
Timan. Is this th' Athenian Minion, whom the World,
Voic'd ſo regardfully?
Tim. Art thou Timandra? Timandra. Yes.
Tim. Be a Whore ſtill, they love thee not that uſe thee, give them Diſeaſes, leaving with thee their Luſt. Make uſe of thy ſalt hours, ſeaſon the Slaves for Tubs and Baths, bring down Roſe-cheek'd Youth to the Fubfaſt, and the Diet.
Timan. Hang thee Monſter.
Alci. Pardon him, ſweet Timandra, for his Wits
Are drown'd and loſt in his Calamities.
I have but little Gold of late, brave Timon,
The want whereof, doth daily make revolt
In my penurious Band. I have heard and griev'd,
How Curſed Athens, mindleſs of thy worth,
Forgetting thy great deeds, when Neighbour ſtates
But for thy Sword and Fortune trod upon them.
Tim. I prethee beat thy Drum, and get thee gone.
Alci. I am thy Friend, and pity thee, dear Timon.
Tim. How doſt thou pity him, whom thou doſt trouble,
I had rather be alone.
Alci. Why fare thee well:
Here is ſome Gold for thee.
Tim. Keep it, I cannot eat it.
Alci. When I have laid proud Athens on a heap.
Tim. War'ſt thou 'gainſt Athens?
Alci. I, Timon, and have cauſe.
Tim. The gods confound them all in thy Conqueſt,
And thee after, when thou haſt conquer'd.
Alci. Why me, Timon?
Tim. That by killing of Villains
Thou was't born to conquer my Country.
Put up thy Gold. Go on, here's Gold, go on;
Be as a Planetary plague, whom Jove
Will o're ſome high-vic'd City hang his poiſon
In the ſick air: let not thy Sword skip one.
Pity not honour'd Age for his white Beard,
He is an Uſurer. Strike me the counterfeit Matron,
It is her habit only, that is honeſt,
Her ſelf's a Bawd. Let not the Virgins cheek
Make ſoft thy trenchant Sword: for thoſe Milk-Paps
That through the Window Barn bore at mens Eyes,
Are not within the Leaf of pity writ,
But ſet them down horrible Traitors. Spare not the Babe
Whoſe dimpled ſmiles from Fools exhauſt their mercy;
Think it a Baſtard, whom the Oracle
Hath doubtfully pronounced, the throat ſhall cut,
And mince it ſans remorſe. Swear againſt Objects,
Put Armour on thine Ears, and on thine Eyes,
Whoſe proof, nor yels of Mothers, Maids, nor Babes,
Nor ſight of Prieſts in holy Veſtments bleeding,
Shall pierce a jot. There's Gold to pay thy Souldiers.
Make large confuſion: and thy fury ſpent,
Confounded be thy ſelf. Speak not, be gone.
Alci. Haſt thou gold yet? I'll take the gold thou giveſt me, not all thy Counſel.
Tim. Doſt thou, or doſt thou not, Heavens Curſe upon thee.
Both. Give us ſome gold, good Timon, haſt thou more?
Tim. Enough to make a Whore forſwear her Trade,
And to make Whores a Bawd. Hold up, you Sluts,
Your Aprons Mountant, you are not Othable,

Although I know you'l ſwear, terribly ſwear
Into ſtrong ſhudders, and to Heavenly Agues
Th' immortal gods that hear you. Spare your Oaths:
Ile truſt to your conditions, be VVhores ſtill.
And he whoſe pious breath ſeeks to convert you,
Be ſtrong in VVhore, allure him, burn him up.
Let your cloſe fire predominate his ſmoak,
And be no Turn-Coats: yet may your pains ſix months
Be quite contrary. And Thatch
Your poor thin Roofs, with burthens of the dead,
(Some that were hang'd) no matter:
VVear them, betray with them; VVhore ſtill.
Paint till a Horſe may mire upon your face:
A Pox of wrinkles.

Both. VVell, more Gold, what then?
Believ't that we'l do any thing for Gold.

Tim. Conſumptions ſow
In hollow bones of man, ſtrike their ſharp ſhins,
And mar mens ſpurring. Crack the Lawyers Voice,
That he may never more falſe Title plead,
Nor ſound his Quillets ſhrilly. Hoar the Flamen,
That ſcold'ſt againſt the quality of fleſh,
And not believes himſelf, Down with Noſe,
Down with it flat, take the Bridge quite away
Of him, that his particular to foreſee (bald
Smells from the general weal. Make curl'd pate Ruffians
And let the unſcarr'd Braggarts of the War
Derive ſome pain from you. Plague all,
That you activity may defeat and quell
The ſource of all Erection. There's more Gold.
Do you damn others, and let this damn you,
And Ditches grave you all.

Both. More counſel with more Money, bounteous Timon.

Tim. More Whore, more miſchief firſt, I have given you earneſt.

Alci. Strike up the Drum towards Athens, farewel Timon: if I thrive well, I'll viſit thee again.

Tim. If I hope well, I'll never ſee thee more.

Alci. I never did thee harm.

Tim. Yes, thou ſpok'ſt well of me.

Alci. Call'ſt thou that harm?

Tim. Men daily find it. Get thee away,
And take thy Beagles with thee.

Alci. We but offend him, ſtrike. [Exeunt.

Tim. That Nature being ſick of mans unkindneſs
Should yet be hungry: Common Mother, thou
Whoſe Womb unmeaſurable, and infinite breaſt
Teems and feeds all: whoſe ſelf ſame mettle
Whereof thy proud Child (arrogant man) is puſt,
Engenders the black Toad, and Adder blew,
The gilded Newt, and Eyeleſs venom'd Worm,
With all th' abhorred Births below Criſp Heaven,
Whereon Hyperions quickning fire doth ſhine:
Yield him, who all the humane Sons do hate,
From forth thy plenteous boſom, one poor root
Enſear thy Fertile, and Conceptions Womb,
Let it no more bring out ingrateful man.
Go great with Tygers, Dragons, Wolves, and Bears,
Teem with new Monſters, whom thy upward face
Hath to the Marbled Manſion all above
Never preſented. O, a Root, dear thanks:
Dry up thy Marrows, Vines, and Plough-torn Leas,
Whereof ingrateful man with Liquoriſh draughts
And Morſels Unctious, greaſes his pure mind,
That from it all conſideration ſlips ——

Enter Apemantus.

More man? Plague, Plague.

Ape. I was directed hither. Men report,
Thou doſt affect my Manners, and doſt uſe them.

Tim. 'Tis then, becauſe thou doſt not keep a Dog
VVhom I would imitate, Conſumption catch thee.

Ape. This is in thee a Nature but infected,
A poor unmanly Melancholly ſprung
From change of future. VVhy this Spade? this place?
This Slave-like Habit, and theſe looks of Care?
Thy Flatterers yet wear Silk, drink VVine, lye ſoft,
Hug their diſeaſed Perfumes, and have forgot
That ever Timon was. Shame not theſe VVoods,
By putting on the cunning of a Carper.
Be thou a Flatterer now, and ſeek to thrive
By that which has undone thee; hindge thy Knee,
And let his very breath whom thou'lt obſerve
Blow off thy Cap: praiſe his moſt vicious ſtrain,
And call it excellent: thou waſt told thus:
Thou gav'ſt thine Ears (like Tapſters, that bid welcome)
To Knaves, and all approachers: 'Tis moſt juſt
That thou turn Raſcal, hadſt thou wealth again,
Raſcals ſhould hav't. Do not aſſume my likeneſs.

Tim. VVere I like thee, I'de throw away my ſelf.

Ape. Thou haſt caſt away thy ſelf, being like thy ſelf
A Madman ſo long, now a Fool: what think'ſt
That the bleak Air, thy boiſterous Chamberlain
VVill put thy Shirt on warm? VVill theſe moiſt Trees,
That have out-liv'd the Eagle, page thy heels,
And skip when thou point'ſt out? VVill the cold Brook
Candied with Ice, Cawdle thy Morning taſte
To cure thy o're-nights ſurfeit? Call the Creatures,
VVhoſe naked Natures live in all the ſpight
Of wreekful Heaven, whoſe bare unhouſed Trunks,
To the conflicting Elements expos'd
Anſwer meer Nature: bid them flatter thee.
O thou ſhalt find.

Tim. A Fool of thee: depart.

Ape. I love thee better now than ere I did.

Tim. I hate thee worſe.

Ape. VVhy?

Tim. Thou flatter'ſt miſery.

Ape. I flatter not, but ſay thou art a Caytiff.

Tim. VVhy doſt thou ſeek me out?

Ape. To vex thee.

Tim. Always a Villains Office, or a Fools.
Doſt pleaſe thy ſelf in't?

Ape. I.

Tim. VVhat, a Knave too?

Ape. If thou didſt put this ſowre cold habit on
To caſtigate thy pride, 'twere well: but thou
Doſt it enforcedly: Thou'dſt Courtier be again
VVert thou not Beggar: willing miſery
Out-lives: in certain pomp, is crown'd before:
The one is filling ſtill, never compleat:
The other, at high wiſh: beſt ſtate Contentleſs,
Hath a diſtracted and moſt wretched being,
VVorſe than the worſt, content.
Thou ſhouldſt deſire to die, being miſerable.

Tim. Not by his breath, that is more miſerable.
Thou art a Slave, whom Fortunes tender arm
VVith favour never claſpt: but bred a Dog.
Hadſt thou like us from our firſt ſwath proceeded,
The ſweet degrees that this brief VVorld affords,
To ſuch as may the paſſive drugs of it
Freely command'ſt: thou wouldſt have plung'd thy ſelf
In general Riot, melted down thy youth
In different beds of Luſt, and never learn'd
The Icy precepts of reſpect, but followed
The Sugared Game before thee. But my ſelf
VVho had the world as my Confectionary,
The mouths, the tongues, the eyes, the hearts of men,
At duty more than I could frame employments:
That numberleſs upon thee ſtuck, as leaves
Do on the Oak, have with one Winters bruſh
Fell from their boughs, and left me open bare,
For every ſtorm that blows. I to bear this,
That never knew but better, is ſome burthen
Thy Nature did commence in ſufferance, Time
Hath made thee hard in't. Why ſhouldſt thou hate men?

They

They never flatter'd thee. What haſt thou given?
If thou wilt Curſe: thy Father (that poor rag)
Muſt be thy Subject; who in ſpight put ſtuff
To ſome She-Begger, and compounded thee
Poor Rogue, hereditary. Hence be gone,
If thou hadſt not been born the worſt of men,
Thou hadſt been a Knave and Flatterer.

Ape. Art thou proud yet?

Tim. I, that I am not thee.

Ape. I, that I was no Prodigal.

Tim. I, that I am one now.
Were all the wealth I have ſhut up in thee,
I'ld give thee leave to hang it. Get thee gone:
That the whole life of Athens were in this,
Thus would I eat it.

Ape. Here, I will mend thy Feaſt.

Tim. Firſt mend thy Company, take away thy ſelf.

Ape. So I ſhall mend mine own, by th'lack of thine.

Tim. 'Tis not well mended ſo, it is but botcht;
If not, I would it were.

Ape. What wouldſt thou have to Athens?

Tim. Thee thither in a Whirlwind: if thou wilt,
Tell them there I have Gold, look, ſo I have.

Ape. Here is no uſe for Gold.

Tim. The beſt, and trueſt:
For here it ſleeps, and do's no hired harm.

Ape. Where ly'ſt a nights, Timon?

Tim. Under that's above me.
Where feed'ſt thou a daies, Apemantus?

Ape. Where my ſtomach finds meat, or rather where I eat it.

Tim. Would poiſon were obedient, and knew my mind.

Ape. Where wouldſt thou ſend it?

Tim. To ſawce thy Diſhes.

Ape. The middle of humanity thou never kneweſt, but the extremity of both ends. When thou waſt in thy Gilt, and thy Perfume, they mockt thee, for too much curioſity: in thy Rags thou knoweſt none, but art deſpis'd for the contrary. There's a Medler for thee, eat it.

Tim. On what I hate, I feed not.

Ape. Doſt hate a Medler?

Tim. I, though it look like thee.

Ape. And th'hadſt hated Medlers ſooner, thou ſhould'ſt have loved thy ſelf better now. What man did'ſt thou ever know unthrift, that was beloved after his means?

Tim. Who without thoſe means thou talk'ſt of, didſt thou ever know belov'd?

Ape. My ſelf.

Tim. I underſtand thee, thou hadſt ſome means to keep a Dog.

Ape. What things in the World canſt thou neareſt compare to thy Flatterers?

Tim. Women neareſt, but men: men are the things themſelves. What wouldſt thou do with the World Apemantus, if it lay in thy power?

Ape. Give it the Beaſts, to be rid of the men.

Tim. Wouldſt thou have thy ſelf fall in the confuſion of men, and remain a Beaſt with the Beaſts.

Ape. I Timon.

Tim. A beaſtly ambition, which the Gods grant thee t'attain to. If thou wert the Lyon, the Fox would beguile thee: if thou wert the Lamb, the Fox would eat thee: if thou wert the Fox, the Lyon would ſuſpect thee, when peradventure thou wert accus'd by the Aſſe: If thou wert the Aſſe, thy dulneſs would torment thee: and ſtill thou liv'dſt but as a Breakfaſt to the Wolf. If thou wert the Wolf, thy greedineſs would afflict thee, and oft thou ſhouldſt hazard thy life for thy Dinner. Wert thou the Unicorn, pride and wrath would confound thee, and make thine own ſelf the conqueſt of thy fury. Wert thou a Bear, thou wouldſt be kill'd by the Horſe: wert thou a Horſe, thou wouldſt be ſeiz'd by the Leopard: wert thou a Leopard, thou wert German to the Lion, and the ſpots of thy Kindred, were Jurors on thy life. All thy ſafety were remotion, and thy defence abſence. What Beaſt couldſt thou be, that were not ſubject to a Beaſt: and what a Beaſt art thou already, that ſeeſt not thy loſs in transformation.

Ape. If thou couldſt pleaſe me
With ſpeaking to me thou might'ſt
Have hit upon it here.
The Commonwealth of Athens is become
A Foreſt of Beaſts.

Tim. How has the Aſs broke the Wall, that thou art out of the City.

Ape. Yonder comes a Poet and a Painter:
The Plague of Company light upon thee:
I will fear to catch it, and give way.
When I know not what elſe to do,
Ile ſee thee again.

Tim. When there is nothing living but thee,
Thou ſhalt be welcome.
I had rather be a Beggars Dog
Than Apemantus.

Ape. Thou art the Cap
Of all the Fools alive.

Tim. Would thou wert clean enough
To ſpit upon.

Ape. A Plague on thee,
Thou art too bad to Curſe.

Tim. All Villains
That do ſtand by thee, are pure.

Ape. There is no Leproſie,
But what thou ſpeak'ſt.

Tim. If I name thee, Ill beat thee;
But I ſhould infect my hands.

Ape. I would my tongue
Could rot them off.

Tim. Away thou iſſue of a mangy Dog.
Choler does kill me,
That thou art alive, I ſwound to ſee thee.

Ape. Would thou would'ſt burſt.

Tim. Away thou tedious Rogue, I am ſorry I ſhall loſe a ſtone by thee.

Ape. Beaſt.

Tim. Slave.

Ape. Toad.

Tim. Rogue, Rogue, Rogue.
I am ſick of this falſe World, and will love nought
But even the meer neceſſities upon't:
Then Timon preſently prepare thy Grave:
Lye where the light Foam of the Sea may beat
Thy Grave-ſtone daily, make thine Epitaph,
That Death in me, at others lives may laugh.
O thou ſweet King-Killer, and dear divorce
Twixt natural Son and Fire: thou bright defiler
Of Hymens pureſt Bed, thou valiant Mars,
Thou ever, young, freſh, loved, and delicate wooer,
Whoſe bluſh doth thawe the conſecrated Snow
That lies on Dians Lap.
Thou viſible God,
That ſouldreſt cloſe Impoſſibilities.
And mak'ſt them kiſs; that ſpeak'ſt with every Tongue
To every purpoſe; O thou touch of hearts,
Think thy ſlave-man Rebels, and by thy vertue
Set them into confounding odds, that Beaſts
May have the World in Empire.

Ape. Would 'twere ſo,
But not till I am dead. Ile ſay th'haſt Gold:
Thou wilt be throng'd too ſhortly.

Tim. Throng'd too?

Ape. I.

Tim. Thy back I prythee.

Ape. Live, and love thy miſery.

Tim. Long live ſo, and ſo die. I am quit.

Ape. Mo things like men;
Eat, Timon, and abhor them. [Exit. Apeman.

Enter the Banditti.

1. Where ſhould he have this Gold? It is ſome poor Fragment, ſome ſlender Ort of his remainder: the meer want of Gold, and the falling from of his Friends, drove him into this Melancholy.

2. It is nois'd
He hath a Maſs of Treaſure.

3. Let us make the aſſay upon him, if he care not for't, he will ſupply us eaſily: if he covetouſly reſerve it, how ſhall's get it?

2. True: for he bears it not about him:
'Tis hid.

1. Is not this he?

All. Where?

2. 'Tis his deſcription.

3. He? I know him.

All. Save thee, Timon.

Tim. Now Thieves.

All. Souldiers, not Thieves.

Tim. Both too, and Womens Sons.

All. We are not Thieves, but men
That much do want.

Tim. Your greateſt want is, you want much of meat:
Why ſhould you want? Behold, the Earth hath Roots:
Within this Mile break forth an hundred Springs:
The Oaks bear Maſt, the Briers Scarlet Hips,
The bounteous Huſwife Nature, on each Buſh,
Lays her full Meſs before you. Want? why want?

1. We cannot live on Graſs, on Berries, Water,
As Beaſts, and Birds, and Fiſhes.

Tim. Nor on the Beaſts themſelves, the Birds and Fiſhes,
You muſt eat men. Yet thanks I muſt you con,
That you are Thieves profeſt: that you work not
In holier ſhapes: for there is boundleſs theft
In limited profeſſions. Raſcal Thieves,
Here's Gold. Go, ſuck the ſubtle blood o'th Grape,
Till the high Feaver ſeeth your Bloud to Froth,
And ſo ſcape hanging. Truſt not the Phyſician,
His Antidotes are poyſon, and he ſlayes
More than you Rob: Take wealth, and live together,
Do Villain do, ſince you proteſt to do't.
Like Workmen, Ile Example you with Thievery:
The Sun's a Thief, and with his great attraction
Robs the vaſt Sea. The Moon's an Arrant Thief,
And her pale fire ſhe ſnatches from the Sun.
The Sea's a Thief, whoſe liquid Surge reſolves
The Moon into Salt tears. The Earth's a Thief,
That feeds and breeds by a compoſture ſtoln
From gen'ral Excrement: Each thing's a Thief.
The Laws, your curb and whip, in their rough power
Ha's uncheck'd theft. Love not your ſelves, away,
Rob one another, there's more Gold, Cut-Throats;
All that you meet are Thieves: to Athens go,
Break open Shops, nothing can you ſteal
But Thieves do loſe it: ſteal leſs, for this I give you,
And Gold confound you howſoere: Amen.

3. H'as almoſt charm'd me from my Profeſſion, by perſwading me to it.

1. 'Tis in the malice of mankind, that he thus adviſes us not to have us thrive in our myſtery.

2. Ile believe him as an Enemy,
And give over my Trade.

1. Let us firſt ſee peace in Athens, there is no time ſo miſerable but a man may be true. [Exeunt Thieves.

Enter the Steward to Timon.

Stew. Oh you Gods!
Is yond deſpis'd and ruinous man my Lord?
Full of decay and failing? Oh Monument
And wonder of good deeds, evilly beſtow'd!
What an alteration of honour has deſp'rate want made?
What vilder thing upon the Earth, than Friends,
Who can bring Nobleſt minds to baſeſt ends,
How rarely does it meet with this times guiſe,
When man was wiſht to love his Enemies:
Grant I may ever love, and rather woo
Thoſe that would miſchief me, than thoſe that do.
H'as caught me in his Eye, I will preſent my honeſt grief
Unto him; and as my Lord, ſtill ſerve him with my life.
My deareſt Maſter.

Tim. Away: what art thou?

Stew. Have you forgot me, Sir?

Tim. Why doſt ask that? I have forgot all men.
Then if thou grunt'ſt th' art a man,
I have forgot thee.

Stew. An honeſt poor Servant of yours.

Tim. Then I know thee not:
I nev'r had honeſt man about me, I, all
I kept were Knaves, to ſerve in meat to Villains.

Stew. The Gods are witneſs,
Never did poor Steward wear a truer grief
For his undone Lord, than mine Eyes for you.

Tim. What doſt thou weep?
Come nearer, then I love thee
Becauſe thou art a Woman, and diſclaim'ſt
Flinty Mankind: whoſe Eyes do never give,
But through Luſt and Laughter: pitie's ſleeping:
Strange times that weep with laughing, not with weeping.

Stew. I beg of you to know me, good my Lord,
T' accept my grief, and whilſt this poor wealth laſts,
To entertain me as your Steward ſtill.

Tim. Had I a Steward
So true, ſo juſt, and now ſo comfortable?
It almoſt turns my dangerous Nature wild.
Let me behold thy face: Surely, this man
Was born of Woman.
Forgive my general, and exceptleſs rafhneſs
You perpetual ſober Gods. I do proclaim
One honeſt man: Miſtake me not, but one:
No more I pray, and he's a Steward.
How fain would I have hated all mankind,
And thou redeem'ſt thy ſelf: But all ſave thee,
I fell with Curſes.
Me thinks thou art more honeſt now than wiſe:
For, by oppreſſing and betraying me,
Thou might'ſt have ſooner got another Service:
For many ſo arrive at ſecond Maſters,
Upon their firſt Lords neck. But tell me true,
(For I muſt ever doubt, though ne're ſo ſure)
Is not thy kindneſs ſubtle, covetous,
If not a Uſuring kindneſs, and as rich men deal Gifts,
Expecting in return twenty for one?

Stew. No, my moſt worthy Maſter, in whoſe breſt
Doubt and ſuſpect (alas) are plac'd too late:
You ſhould have fear'd falſe times, when you did Feaſt.
Suſpect ſtill comes where an eſtate is leaſt.
That which I ſhew, Heaven knows, is meerly Love,
Duty, and Zeal, to your unmatched mind,
Care of your Food and Living, and believe it,
My moſt honour'd Lord,
For any benefit that points to me,
Either in hope, or preſent, I'de exchange
For this one wiſh, that you had power and wealth
To requite me, by making rich your ſelf.

Tim. Look thee 'tis ſo: thou ſingly honeſt man,
Here take: the Gods out of my miſery,
Ha's ſent thee treaſure. Go, live rich and happy.
But thus condition'd: Thou ſhalt build from men:
Hate all, Curſe all, ſhew Charity to none,
But let the famiſht fleſh ſlide from the bone,
Ere thou relieve the Beggar. Give to Dogs
What thou denyeſt to men. Let Priſons ſwallow 'em,
Debts wither 'm to nothing, be men like blaſted Woods
And may Diſeaſes lick up their falſe blouds,
And ſo farewel, and thrive.

Stew. O let me ſtay and comfort you my Maſter:
Tim. If thou hat'ſt Curſes,
Stay not: flee, whil'ſt thou art bleſt and free:
Ne're ſee thou man, and let me ne're ſee thee. [Exit.

Enter Poet and Painter.

Pain. As I took note of the place, it cannot be far
Where he abides.
Poet. What's to be thought of him?
Does the Rumour hold for true,
That he's ſo full of Gold?
Pain. Certain.
Alcibiades reports it: Phrinia and Timandra
Had Gold of him, he likewiſe enrich'd
Poor ſtragling Souldiers, with great quantity.
'Tis ſaid, he gave unto his Steward
A mighty Summ.
Poet. Then this breaking of his,
Has been but a try for his Friends.
Pain. Nothing elſe:
You ſhall ſee him a Palm in Athens again,
And flouriſh with the higheſt:
Therefore, 'tis not amiſs, we tender our loves
To him, in this ſuppos'd diſtreſs of his:
It will ſhew honeſtly in us,
And is very likely to load our purpoſes
With what they travail for,
If it be a juſt and true report, that goes
Of his having.
Poet. What have you now
To preſent unto him?
Painter. Nothing at this time
But my Viſitation: only I will promiſe him
An excellent Piece.
Poet. I muſt ſerve him ſo too;
Tell him of an intent that's coming toward him.
Painter. Good as the beſt,
Promiſing is the very Air o'th' Time;
It opens the Eyes of Expectation.
Performance is ever the duller for his act,
And but in the plainer and ſimpler kind of people,
The deed of Saying is quite out of uſe.
To promiſe, is moſt Courtly and faſhionable;
Performance is a kind of Will or Teſtament,
Which argues a great ſickneſs in his judgment
That makes it.

Enter Timon from his Cave.

Timon. Excellent Workman,
Thou canſt not paint a man ſo bad
As is thy ſelf.
Poet. I am thinking
What I ſhall ſay I have provided for him:
It muſt be a perſonating of himſelf:
A Satyre againſt the ſoftneſs of Proſperity,
With a Diſcovery of the infinite Flatteries
That follow youth and opulency.
Timon. Muſt thou needs
Stand for a Villain in thine own Work?
Wilt thou whip thine own faults in other men?
Do ſo, I have Gold for thee.
Poet. Nay let's ſeek him.
Then do we ſin againſt our own eſtate,
When we may profit meet, and come too late.
Painter. True:
When the day ſerves before black corner'd night;
Find what thou want'ſt, by free and offer'd light.
Come.
Tim. Ile meet you at the turn:
What a God 's Gold, that he is worſhipt
In a baſer Temple, than where Swine feed?
'Tis thou that rigg'ſt the Bark, and plow'ſt the Fome,
Setleſt admired reverence in a Slave,
To thee be worſhip't, and thy Saints for aye:
Be crown'd with Plagues, that thee alone obey.
Fit I meet them.
Poet. Hail, worthy Timon.
Pain. Our late Noble Maſter.
Timon. Have I once liv'd
To ſee two honeſt men?
Poet. Sir:
Having often of your open Bounty taſted,
Hearing you were retir'd, your Friends faln off,
Whoſe thankleſs Natures (O abhorred Spirits)
Not all the Whips of Heaven are large enough,
What, to you,
Whoſe Star-like Nobleneſs gave life and influence
To their whole being? I am rapt, and cannot cover
The monſtrous bulk of this Ingratitude
With any ſize of words.
Timon. Let it go,
Naked men may ſee't the better:
You that are honeſt, by being what you are,
Make them beſt ſeen, and known.
Pain. He, and my ſelf
Have travel'd in the great ſhowre of your gifts,
And ſweetly felt it.
Timon. I, you are honeſt men.
Paint. We are hither come
To offer you our ſervice.
Timon. Moſt honeſt men:
Why how ſhall I requite you?
Can you eat Roots, and drink cold Water, no?
Both. What we can do,
Wee'l do, to do you ſervice.
Tim. Y'are honeſt men,
Y'have heard that I have Gold,
I am ſure you have, ſpeak truth; y'are honeſt men.
Pain. So it is ſaid, my Noble Lord, but therefore Came not my Friend, nor I.
Tim. Good honeſt man: thou draw'ſt a counterfeit
Beſt in all Athens, tha'rt indeed the beſt,
Thou counterfeit'ſt moſt lively.
Pain. So, ſo, my Lord.
Tim. E'ne ſo, Sir, as I ſay. And for thy fiction,
Why thy Verſe ſwells with ſtuff ſo fine and ſmooth,
That thou art even Natural in thine Art.
But for all this (my honeſt Natur'd Friends)
I muſt needs ſay you have a little fault,
Marry 'tis not monſtrous in you, neither wiſh I
You take much pains to mend.
Both. Beſeech your Honour
To make it known to us.
Tim. You'l take it ill.
Both. Moſt thankfully, my Lord.
Tim. Will you indeed?
Both. Doubt it not, worthy Lord.
Tim. There's never a one of you but truſts a Knave,
That mightily deceives you.
Both. Do we, my Lord?
Tim. I, and you hear him cogge,
See him diſſemble,
Know his groſs patchery, love him, feed him,
Keep in your boſom, yet remain aſſur'd
That he's a made-up Villain.
Pain. I know none ſuch, my Lord.
Poet. Nor I.
Tim. Look you,
I love you well, ile give you Gold,
Rid me theſe Villains from your Companies;
Hang them, or ſtab them, drown them in draught,
Confound them by ſome courſe, and come to me,
Ile give you Gold enough
Both. Name them, my Lord, let's know them.
Tim. You that way, and you this:
But two in Company:

Each man apart, all ſingle and alone,
Yet an arch Villain keeps him company:
If where thou art, two villains ſhall not be,
Come not near him. If thou would'ſt not recide
But where one villain is, then him abandon.
Hence, pack, there's Gold, ye came for Gold ye Slaves:
You have work for me; there's payment, thence,
You are an Alchymiſt, make Gold of that:
Out Raſcal Dogs. [Exeunt.

Enter Steward, and two Senators.

Stew. It is in vain that you would ſpeak with Timon:
For he is ſet ſo onely to himſelf,
That nothing but himſelf, which looks like man,
Is friendly with him.
1 Sen. Bring us to his Cave.
It is our part and promiſe to th' Athenians
To ſpeak with Timon.
2 Sen. At all times alike
Men are not ſtill the ſame: 'twas Time and Griefs
That fram'd him thus. Time with his fairer hand,
Offering the Fortunes of his former days,
The former man may make him: bring us to him
And chance it as it may.
Stew. Here is his Cave:
Peace and content be here, Timon, Timon,
Look out, and ſpeak to Friends: Th' Athenians
By two of their moſt reverend Senate greet thee:
Speak to them, Noble Timon.

Enter Timon out of his Cave.

Tim. Thou Sun that comfort burn,
Speak and be hang'd:
For each true word, a bliſter, and each falſe
Be as a Catherizing to the root o'th tongue.
Conſuming it with ſpeaking.
1 Worthy Timon.
Tim. Of none but ſuch as you,
And you of Timon.
1. The Senators of Athens greet thee, Timon.
Tim. I thank them.
And would ſend them back the plague,
Could I but catch it for them:
1. O forget
What we are ſorry for our ſelves in thee:
The Senators, with one conſent of love,
Intreat thee back to Athens, who have thought
On ſpecial Dignities, which vacant lie
For thy beſt uſe and wearing.
2. They confeſs
Toward thee, forgetfulneſs too general groſs;
Which now the publick Body, which doth ſeldom,
Play the Re-canter, feeling in it ſelf
A lack of Timons aid, hath ſince withal
Of it own fall, reſtraining aid to Timon,
And ſend forth us to make their ſorrowed render,
Together, with a recompence more fruitful
Than their offence can weigh down by the Dram,
I even ſuch heaps and ſums of Love and Wealth,
As ſhall to thee blot out, what wrongs were theirs,
And write in thee, the Figures of their Love,
Ever to read them thine.
Tim. You witch me in it?
Surprize me to the very brink of tears;
Lend me a Fools heart, and a Womans Eyes,
And ile beweep theſe comforts, worthy Senators.
1. Therefore ſo pleaſe thee to return with us,
And of our Athens, thine and ours to take
The Captainſhip, thou ſhalt be met with thanks,
Allowed with abſolute power, and thy good name
Live with authority: ſo ſoon we ſhall drive back
Of Alcibiades h'approaches wild
Who like a Boar too ſavage, doth root up
His Countreys Peace.
2. And ſhakes his threatning Sword
Againſt the Walls of Athens.
1. Therefore, Timon.
Tim. Well Sir, I will: therefore I will Sir thus:
If Alcibiades kill my Countreymen,
Let Alcibiades know this of Timon,
That Timon cares not. But if he ſack fair Athens,
And take our goodly aged men by th'Beards,
Giving our holy Virgins to the ſtain
Of contumelious, beaſtly, mad-brain'd War:
Then let him know, and tell him Timon ſpeaks it.
In pitty of our aged, and our youth,
I cannot chuſe but tell him that I care not,
And let him tak't at worſt: For their Knives care not,
While you have throats to anſwer. For my ſelf,
There's not a whittle in th'unruly Camp,
But I do prize it at my love, before
The reverendſt Throat in Athens. So I leave you
To the protection of the proſperous Gods,
As Thieves to Keepers.
Stew. Stay not, all's in vain.
Tim. Why I was writing of my Epitaph,
It will be ſeen to Morrow. My long ſickneſs
Of Health, and Living, now begins to mend,
And nothing brings me all things. Go, live ſtill,
Be Alcibiades your plague; you his,
And laſt ſo long enough.
1. We ſpeak in vain.
Tim. But yet I love my Countrey, and am not
One that rejoices in the common wrack,
As common bruit doth put it.
1. That's well ſpoke.
Tim. Commend me to my loving Countrey-men.
1. Theſe words become your Lips as they paſs thorow them.
2. And enter into our Ears, like great Triumphers
In their applauding Gates.
Tim. Commend me to them,
And tell them, that to eaſe them of their griefs,
Their fears of Hoſtile ſtrokes, their Aches, loſſes,
Their pangs of Love, with other incident throes
That Natures fragile Veſſel doth ſuſtain
In lifes uncertain Voyage, I will ſome kindneſs do them,
Ile teach them to prevent wild Alcibiades wrath.
1. I like this well, he will return again.
Tim. I have a Tree which grows here in my Cloſe,
That mine own uſe invites me to cut down,
And ſhortly muſt I fell it. Tell my Friends,
Tell Athens, in the frequence of degree,
From high to low throughout, that who ſo pleaſe
To ſtop Affliction, let him take his haſte;
Come hither ere my Tree hath felt the Axe,
And hang himſelf. I pray you do my greeting.
Stew. Trouble him no further, thus you ſtill ſhall
Find him.
Tim. Come not to me again, but ſay to Athens,
Timon hath made his Everlaſting Manſion
Upon the Beached Verge of the ſalt Flood,
Which once a day with his emboſſed Froth
The turbulent Surge ſhall cover; thither come,
And let my Grave-ſtone be your Oracle:
Lips, let four words go by, and Language end:
What is amiſs, Plague and Infection mend.
Graves onely be mens works, and Death their gain;
Sun, hide thy beams, Timon hath done his Reign.
[Exit Timon.
1. His diſcontents are unremoveably coupled to Nature.
2. Our hope in him is dead: let us return,
And ſtrain what other means is left unto us
In our dear peril.
1. It requires ſwift foot. [Exeunt.

Enter

Enter two other Senators, with a Meſſenger.

1. Thou haſt painfully diſcover'd: are his Files
As full as thy report?
Meſ. I have ſpoke the leaſt.
Beſides, his expedition promiſes preſent approach.
2. We ſtand much hazard, if they bring not Timon.
Meſ. I met a Currier, one mine ancient Friend,
Whom though in general part we were oppos'd,
Yet our old love made a particular force,
And made us ſpeak like Friends. This man was riding
From Alcibiades to Timons Cave,
With Letters of intreaty, which imported
His Fellowſhip i'th'cauſe againſt your City,
In part for his ſake mov'd.

Enter the other Senators.

1. Here come our Brothers.
3. No talk of Timon, nothing of him expect,
The Enemies Drum is heard and fearful ſcouring
Doth choak the air with Duſt: In, and prepare,
Ours is the fall I fear, our Foes the Snare. [Exeunt.

Enter a Souldier in the Woods ſeeking Timon.

Sol. By all deſcription this ſhould be the place.
Who's here? Speak ho. No anſwer? What is this?
Timon is dead, who hath out-ſtretcht his ſpan,
Some Beaſt read this; There do's not live a Man.
Dead ſure, and this his Grave, what's on this Tomb?
I cannot read: the Character ile take with Wax,
Our Captain hath in every figure skill,
An ag'd interpreter, though young in days:
Before proud Athens he's ſet down by this,
Whoſe fall the mark of his ambition is. [Exit.

Trumpets ſound. Enter Alcibiades with his Powers before Athens.

Alc. Sound to this Coward and laſcivious Town,
Our terrible approach.
Sounds a parley.
The Senators appear upon the Walls.
Till now you have gone on, and fill'd the time
With all Licentious meaſure, making your wills
The ſcope of Juſtice. Till now my ſelf and ſuch
As ſlept within the ſhadow of your power
Have wander'd with our traverſt Arms, and breath'd
Our ſufferance vainly. Now the time is flush,
When crouching Marrow in the bearer ſtrong
Cries (of it ſelf) no more: Now breathleſs wrong,
Shall ſit and pant in your great Chairs of eaſe,
And purſy Inſolence ſhall break his wind
With fear and horrid flight.
1. Sen. Noble and young;
When thy firſt griefs were but a meer conceit,
Ere thou hadſt power, or we had cauſe to fear,
We ſent to thee, to give thy rages Balm,
To wipe out our ingratitude, with Loves
Above their quantity.
2. So did we wooe
Transformed Timon to our Cities love
By humble Meſſage, and by promis'd means:
We were not all unkind, nor all deſerve
The common ſtroke of War.
1. Theſe Walls of ours
Were not erected by their hands, from whom
You have receiv'd your grief: Nor are they ſuch,
That theſe great Towres, Trophees, and Schools ſhould fall
For private faults in them.
2. Nor are they living
Who were the motives that you firſt went out,
Shame (that they wanted cunning in exceſs)
Hath broke their hearts, March, Noble Lord,
Into our City with thy Banners ſpred,
By decimation and a tythed death;
If thy Revenges hunger for that Food
Which Nature loaths, take thou the deſtin'd tenth,
And by the hazard of the ſpotted die,
Let die the ſpotted.
1. All have not offended:
For thoſe that were, it is not ſquare to take,
On thoſe that are, Revenge: Crimes, like Lands
Are not inherited, then dear Countryman,
Bring in thy ranks, but leave without thy rage,
Spare thy Athenian Cradle, and thoſe Kin
Which in the bluſter of thy wrath muſt fall
With thoſe that have offended, like a Shepherd,
Approach the Fold, and cull th' infected forth,
But kill not all together.
2. What thou wilt,
Thou rather ſhalt enforce it with thy ſmile,
Than hew to't with thy Sword.
1. Set but thy foot
Againſt our rampyr'd Gates, and they ſhall ope:
So thou wilt ſend thy gentle heart before,
To ſay thoul't enter Friendly.
2. Throw thy Glove,
Or any token of thine honour elſe,
That thou wilt uſe the Wars as thy redreſs,
And not as our Confuſion: All thy Powers
Shall make their harbour in our Town till we
Have ſeal'd thy full deſire.
Alc. Then there's my Glove,
Deſcend and open your uncharged Ports,
Thoſe Enemies of Timons, and mine own
Whom you your ſelves ſhall ſet out for reproof,
Fall and no more; and to atone your fears
With my more Noble meaning, not a man
Shall paſs his quarter, or offend the ſtream
Of Regular Juſtice in your Cities bounds,
But ſhall be remedied by your publick Laws
At heavieſt anſwer.
Both. 'Tis moſt Nobly ſpoken.
Alc. Deſcend, and keep your words.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. My Noble General, Timon is dead,
Entomb'd upon the very hem o'th' Sea,
And on his Graveſtone, this Inſculpture which
With Wax I brought away: whoſe ſoft Impreſſion
Interprets for my poor Ignorance.

Alcibiades reads the Epitaph.

Here lies a wretched Coarſe, of wretched Soul bereſt,
Seek not my name: A Plague conſume you Catiffs leſt:
Here lie I Timon, who all living men did hate,
Paſs by, and curſe thy fill, but ſtay not here thy gate.

Theſe well expreſs in thee thy latter ſpirits:
Though thou abhorrd'ſt in us our humane griefs,
Scornd'ſt our Brains flow, and thoſe our droplets, which
From niggard Nature fall; yet Rich Conceit
Taught thee to make vaſt Neptune weep for aye
On thy low Grave: on faults forgiven. Dead
Is Noble Timon, of whoſe Memory
Hereafter more? Bring me into your City,
And I will uſe the Olive with my Sword:
Make War breed Peace; make peace ſtint War, make each
Preſcribe to other, as each others Leach;
Let our Drums ſtrike. [Exeunt.

THE

THE TRAGEDY OF JULIUS CÆSAR.

Actus Primus. Scæna Prima.

Enter Flavius, Murellus, and certain Commoners over the Stage.

Flav. HEnce: home you idle Creatures, get you home:
Is this a Holy-day? What, know you not (Being Mechanical) you ought not walk
Upon a labouring day, without the ſign
Of your Profeſſion? Speak, what Trade art thou?
Car. Why Sir, a Carpenter.
Mur. Where is thy Leather Apron, and thy Rule?
What doſt thou with thy beſt apparel on?
You ſir, what Trade are you?
Cob. Truly Sir, in reſpect of a fine workman, I am but as you would ſay, a Cobler.
Mur. But what Trade art thou? anſwer me directly.
Cob. A Trade, Sir, that I hope I may uſe with a ſafe Conſcience, which is indeed, Sir, a mender of bad ſoals.
Fla. What Trade thou Knave? Thou naughty Knave, what Trade?
Cob. Nay I beſeech you Sir, be not out with me: yet if you be out Sir, I can mend you.
Mur. What mean'ſt thou by that: Mend me, thou ſawcy fellow?
Cob. Why Sir, Cobble you.
Fla. Thou art a Cobler, art thou?
Cob. Truly Sir, all that I live by is with the Awl: I meddle with no Tradeſmans matters, nor Womans matters; but withal, I am indeed, Sir a Surgeon to old Shooes, when they are in great danger, I recover them. As proper men as ever trod upon Neats-Leather, have gone upon my handy work.
Fla. But wherefore art not in thy Shop to day?
Why doſt thou lead theſe men about the ſtreets?
Cob. Truly Sir, to wear out their Shooes, to get my ſelf into more work. But indeed Sir, we make Holy-day to ſee Cæſar, and to rejoyce in his Triumph.
Mur. Wherefore rejoyce?
What Conqueſt brings he home?
What Tributaries follow him to Rome,
To grace in Captive Bonds his Chariot Wheels?
You blocks, you ſtones, you worſe than ſenſeleſs things:
O you hard hearts, you cruel men of Rome,
Knew you not Pompey many a time and oft?
Have you climb'd up to Walls and Battlements,
To Towers and Windows? Yea to Chimney tops,
Your Infants in your Arms, and there have ſate
The live-long day with patient expectation,
To ſee great Pompey paſs the ſtreets of Rome:
And when you ſaw his Chariot but appear,
Have you not made an Univerſal ſhout,
That Tyber trembled underneath her banks
To hear the replication of your ſounds,
Made in her Concave Shores?
And do you now put on your beſt attire?
And do you now cull out an Holy-day?
And do you now ſtrew Flowers in his way,
That comes in Triumph over Pompey's blood?
Be gone,
Run to your Houſes, fall upon your knees,
Pray to the Gods to intermit the Plague
That needs muſt light on this ingratitude.
Fla. Go, go, good Countrymen, and for this fault
Aſſemble all the poor men of your ſort;
Draw them to Tyber banks, and weep your tears
Into the Channel, till the loweſt ſtream
Do kiſs the moſt exalted Shores of all.
[Exeunt all the Commoners.
See where their baſeſt mettle be not mov'd,
They vaniſh tongue-ty'd in their guiltineſs:
Go you down that way towards the Capitol,
This way will I: Diſrobe the Images,
If you do find them deck'd with Ceremonies.
Mur. May we do ſo?
You know it is the Feaſt of Lupercal.
Fla. It is no matter, let no Images
Be hung with the Cæſar's Trophies: I'll about,
And drive away the Vulgar from the ſtreets;
So do you too, where you perceive them thick.
Theſe growing Feathers, pluck'd from Cæſar's wing,
Will make him fly an ordinary pitch,
Who elſe would ſore above the view of men.
And keep us all in ſervile fearfulneſs. [Exeunt.

Enter Cæſar, Antony for the Courſe, Calphurnia, Portia, Decius, Cicero, Brutus, Caſſius, Caska, a Sooth-ſayer: after them Murellus and Flavius.

Cæſ. Calphurnia.
Cask. Peace ho, Cæſar ſpeaks.
Cæſ. Calphurnia.
Calp. Here my Lord.
Cæſ. Stand you directly in Antonio's way,
When he doth run his courſe. Antonio.
Ant. Cæſar, my Lord.
Cæſ. Forget not in your ſpeed, Antonio,
To touch Calphurnia: for our Elders ſay,
The barren touched in this holy chaſe,
Shake off their ſteril curſe.
Ant. I ſhall remember
When Cæſar ſays, Do this; it is perform'd.
Cæſ. Set on, and leave no Ceremony out.
Sooth. Cæſar.

Cæſ.

Cæs. Ha! Who calls?
Ca k. Bid every noiſe be ſtill: peace yet again.
Cæs. Who is it in the preſs, that calls on me?
I hear a tongue ſhriller than all the Muſick
Cry, Cæsar: Speak, Cæsar is turn'd to hear.
Sooth. Beware the Ides of March.
Cæs. What man is that?
Br. A Sooth-ſayer bids you beware the Ides of March.
Cæs. Set him before me, let me ſee his face,
Caſſi. Fellow, come from the throng, look upon Cæsar.
Cæs. What ſay'ſt thou to me now? Speak once again.
Sooth. Beware the Ides of March.
Cæs. He is a Dreamer, let us leave him: Paſs.
Senate. Exeunt. Manent Brut. & Caſſi.
Caſſi. Will you go ſee the order of the courſe?
Brut. Not I.
Caſſi. I pray you do.
Brut. I am not Gameſom: I do lack ſome part
Of that quick Spirit that is in Antony:
Let me not hinder Caſſius, your deſires;
I'll leave you.
Caſſi. Brutus, I do obſerve you now of late:
I have not from your eyes that gentleneſs
And ſhew of Love, as I was wont to have:
You bear too ſtubborn, and too ſtrange a hand
Over your Friends, that love you.
Bru. Caſſius.
Be not deceiv'd: if I have veil'd my look,
I turn the trouble of my Countenance
Meerly upon my ſelf. Vexed I am
Of late, with paſſions of ſome difference,
Conceptions only proper to my ſelf,
Which give ſome ſoil (perhaps) to my Behaviours:
But let not therefore my good friends be griev'd
(Among which number Caſſius be you one)
Nor conſtrue any further my neglect,
Than that poor Brutus with himſelf at War,
Forgets the ſhews of Love to other men.
Caſſi. Then Brutus, I have much miſtook your paſſion,
By means whereof, this Breaſt of mine hath buried
Thoughts of great value, worthy Cogitations.
Tell me good Brutus, can you ſee your face?
Bru. No Caſſius:
For the eye ſees not himſelf: but by reflection,
By ſome other things.
Caſſi. 'Tis juſt,
And it is very much lamented, Brutus,
That you have no ſuch mirrors, as will turn
Your hidden worthineſs into your eye,
That you might ſee your ſhadow:
I have heard,
Where many of the beſt reſpect in Rome,
(Except Immortal Cæsar) ſpeaking of Brutus,
And groaning underneath this ages yoak,
Have wiſh'd that Noble Brutus had his eyes.
Bru. Into what dangers would you
Lead me, Caſſius?
That you would have me ſeek into my ſelf,
For that which is not in me?
Caſſi. Therefore good Brutus be prepar'd to hear;
And ſince you know you cannot ſee your ſelf
So well as by reflection; I your Glaſs,
Will modeſtly diſcover to your ſelf
That of your ſelf, which yet you know not of,
And be not jealous on me, gentle Brutus,
Were I a common Laughter, or did uſe
To ſtale with ordinary Oaths my Love
To every new Proteſtor: if you know,
That I do fawn on men, and hug them hard,
And after ſcandal them: or if you know,
That I profeſs in Banqueting
To all the Rout, then hold me dangerous.
Flouriſh and Shout.
Bru. What means this Shouting?
I do fear the people chooſe Cæsar
For their King.
Caſſi. I, do you fear it?
Then muſt I think you would not have it ſo.
Bru. I would not, Caſſius, yet I love him well:
But wherefore do you hold me here ſo long?
What is it, that you would impart to me?
If it be ought toward the general good,
Set Honour in one eye, and Death i'th'other,
And I will look on both indifferently:
For let the Gods ſo ſpeed me, as I love
The name of Honour, more than I fear Death.
Caſſi. I know that vertue to be in you, Brutus,
As well as I do know your outward favour,
Well, Honour is the Subject of my Story:
I cannot tell, what you and other men
Think of this life: But my ſingle ſelf,
I had as lief not be, as live to be
In awe of ſuch a thing, as I my ſelf.
I was born free as Cæsar, ſo were you,
We both have fed as well, and we can both
Endure the Winters cold, as well as he.
For once upon a Raw and Guſty Day,
The troubled Tyber chafing with her Shores,
Cæsar ſays to me, dar'ſt thou Caſſius now
Leap in with me into this angry Flood,
And ſwim to yonder Point? Upon the word,
Accounted as I was, I plunged in,
And bad him follow: ſo indeed he did.
The Torrent roar'd, and we did buffet it
With luſty Sinews, throwing it aſide,
And ſtemming it with hearts of Controverſie.
But e're we could arrive the Point propos'd,
Cæsar cry'd, Help me Caſſius, or I ſink.
I (as Æneas, our great Anceſtor,
Did from the Flames of Troy, upon his ſhoulder
The old Anchiſes bear) ſo, from the Waves of Tyber
Did I the tired Cæsar: And this Man
Is now become a God, and Caſſius is
A wretched Creature, and muſt bend his body,
If Cæsar careleſly but nod on him.
He had a Feaver when he was in Spain
And when the Fit was on him, I did mark
How he did ſhake: 'Tis true, this God did ſhake,
His Coward lips did from their colour flye,
And that ſame eye, whoſe bend doth awe the World,
Did loſe his Luſtre: I did hear him groan:
I, and that tongue of his that bad the Romans
Mark him, and writ his Speeches in their Books,
Alas! it cryed, Give me ſome drink, Titinius,
As a ſick Girl: Ye Gods, it doth amaze me,
A man of ſuch a feeble temper ſhould
So get the ſtart of the Majeſtick World,
And bear the Palm alone.
Shout. Flouriſh.
Bru. Another general ſhout?
I do believe, that theſe applauſes are
For ſome new Honours that are heap'd on Cæsar.
Caſſi. Why man, he doth beſtride the narrow VVorld
Like a Coloſſus, and we petty men
VValk under his huge Legs, and peep about
To find our ſelves diſhonourable Graves.
Men at ſome time, are Maſters of their Fates.
The fault (dear Brutus) is not in our Stars,
But in our ſelves, that we are Underlings.
Brutus and Cæsar: VVhat ſhould be in that Cæsar?
Why ſhould that name be ſounded more than yours?
Write them together: yours is as fair a Name:
Sound them, it doth become the mouth as well,
VVeigh them, it is as heavy: Conjure with 'em man,
Brutus will ſtart a Spirit as ſoon as Cæsar.
Now in the names of all the Gods at once,
Upon what meat doth this our Cæsar feed,
That he is grown ſo great? Age, thou art ſham'd.
Rome,

Rome, thou haſt loſt the breed of noble Bloods.
When went there by an Age, ſince the great Flood,
But it was fam'd with more than with one man?
When could they ſay (till now) that talk'd of Rome,
That her wide walks incompaſt but one man?
Now is it Rome indeed, and Room enough
When there is in it but one only man.
O! you and I, have heard our Fathers ſay,
There was a Brutus once, that would have brook'd
Th' eternal Devil to keep his State in Rome,
As eaſily as a King.

Bru. That you do love me, I am nothing jealous:
What you would work me to, I have ſome aim:
How I have thought of this, and of theſe times
I ſhall recount hereafter: For this preſent,
I would not ſo (with love I might entreat you)
Be any further mov'd: What you have ſaid,
I will conſider: what you have to ſay
I will with patience hear, and find a time
Both meet to hear, and anſwer ſuch high things.
Till then, my noble Friend, chew upon this:
Brutus had rather be a Villager,
Than to repute himſelf a Son of Rome
Under theſe hard Conditions, as this time
Is like to lay upon us.

Caſſi. I am glad that my weak words
Have ſtruck but thus much ſhew of fire from Brutus.

Enter Cæſar and his Train.

Bru. The Games are done,
And Cæſar is returning.

Caſſi. As they paſs by,
Pluck Caska by the Sleeve,
And he will (after his ſowre faſhion) tell you
What hath proceeded worthy note to day.

Bru. I will do ſo: but look you, Caſſius,
The angry ſpot doth blow on Cæſars brow,
And all the reſt look like a chidden train;
Calphurnia's Cheek is pale, and Cicero
Looks with ſuch Ferret, and ſuch fiery Eyes
As we have ſeen him in the Capitol
Being croſt in Conference, by ſome Senators.

Caſſi. Caska will tell us what the matter is.

Cæſ. Antonio.

Ant. Cæſar.

Cæſ. Let me have men about me that are fat,
Sleek-headed men, and ſuch as ſleep a nights:
Yond Caſſius has a lean and hungry look,
He thinks too much: ſuch men are dangerous.

Ant. Fear him not, Cæſar, he's not dangerous,
He is a Noble Roman, and well given.

Cæſ. Would he were fatter; But I fear him not:
Yet if my name were liable to fear,
I do not know the man I ſhould avoid,
So ſoon as that ſpare Caſſius. He reads much,
He is a great Obſerver, and he looks
Quite through the Deeds of men. He loves no Playes,
As thou doſt Antony: he hears no Muſick:
Seldom he ſmiles, and ſmiles in ſuch a ſort
As if he mock'd himſelf, and ſcorn'd his ſpirit
That could be mov'd to ſmile at any thing,
Such men as he, be never at hearts eaſe
Whiles they behold a greater than themſelves,
And therefore are they very dangerous.
I rather tell thee what is to be fear'd,
Than what I fear: for always I am Cæſar,
Come on my right hand, for this Ear is deaf,
And tell me truly, what thou think'ſt of him.

Sennit.

[Exeunt Cæſar and his Train.

Cask. You pull'd me by the Cloak, would you ſpeak with me?

Bru. I Caska, tell us what hath chanc'd to day
That Cæſar looks ſo ſad.

Cask. Why you were with him, were you not?

Bru. I ſhould not then ask Caska what had chanc'd.

Cask. Why there was a Crown offer'd him; and being offer'd him, he put it by with the back of his hand thus, and then the people fell a ſhouting.

Bru. What was the ſecond noiſe for?

Cask. Why for that too.

Caſſi. They ſhouted thrice: what was the laſt cry for?

Cask. Why for that too.

Bru. Was the Crown offer'd him thrice?

Cask. I marry was't, and he put it by thrice, every time gentler than other; and at every putting by, mine honeſt Neighbours ſhouted.

Caſſi. Who offer'd him the Crown?

Cask. Why, Antony.

Bru. Tell us the manner of it, gentle Caska.

Cask. I can as well be hang'd as tell the manner of it: It were meer Foolery, I did not mark it. I ſaw Mark Antony offer him a Crown, yet 'twas not a Crown neither, 'twas one of theſe Coronets: and as I told you, he put it by once: but for all that, to my thinking, he would fain have had it. Then he offered it to him again: then he put it by again: but to my thinking, he was very loth to lay his Fingers off it. And then he offered it the third time: he put it the third time by, and ſtill as he refus'd it, the rabblement houted, and clapp'd their chopt hands, and threw up their ſweaty Night-Caps, and uttered ſuch a deal of ſtinking breath, becauſe Cæſar refus'd the Crown, that it had (almoſt) choaked Cæſar: for he ſwounded, and fell down at it: And for mine own part. I durſt not laugh, for fear of opening my Lips, and receiving the bad Air.

Caſſi. But ſoft I pray you: what did Cæſar ſwound?

Cask. He fell down in the Market-place, and foam'd at mouth, and was ſpeechleſs.

Brut. 'Tis very like he hath the falling-ſickneſs.

Caſſi. No, Cæſar hath it not: but you, and I.
And honeſt Caska, we have the falling ſickneſs.

Cask. I know not what you mean by that, but I am ſure Cæſar fell down, if the tag rag people did not clap him, and hiſs him, according as he pleas'd, and diſpleas'd them, as they uſe to do the Players in the Theatre, I am no true man.

Brut. What ſaid he, when he came unto himſelf?

Cask. Marry, before he fell down, when he perceiv'd the common Herd was glad he refus'd the Crown, he pluckt me ope his Doublet, and offer'd them his Throat to cut: and I had been a man of any Occupation, if I would not have taken him at a word, I would I might go to Hell among the Rogues, and ſo he fell. When he came to himſelf again, he ſaid, If he had done, or ſaid any thing amiſs, he deſir'd their worſhips to think it was his infirmity. Three or four Wenches where I ſtood, cryed, Alas good Soul, and forgave him with all their hearts: But there's no heed to be taken of them; if Cæſar had ſtabb'd their Mothers, they would have done no leſs.

Brut. And after that, he came thus ſad away.

Cask. I.

Caſſi. Did Cicero ſay any thing?

Cask. I, he ſpoke Greek.

Caſſi. To what effect?

Cask. Nay, and I tell you that, I'le ne're look you i' th' face again. But thoſe that underſtood him, ſmil'd at one another, and ſhook their heads: but for mine own part it was Greek to me. I could tell you more news too: Murellus and Flavius, for pulling Scarffs off Cæſars Images, are put to ſilence. Fare you well. There was more Foolery yet, if I could remember it.

Caſſi. Will you ſup with me to night, Caska?

Cask. No, I am promis'd forth.

Caſſi. Will you dine with me to morrow?

Cask.

Cask. I, if I be alive, and your mind hold, and your Dinner worth the eating.
Cassi. Good, I will expect you.
Cask. Do so: farewel both. [Exit.
Bru. What a blunt fellow is this grown to be?
He was quick Mettle, when he went to School.
Cassi. So is he now, in Execution
Of any bold or noble Enterprize,
How-ever he puts on this tardy form:
This Rudeness is a Sawce to his good wit,
Which gives men stomach to digest his words
With better Appetites.
Brut. And so it is:
For this time I will leave you:
To morrow if you please to speak with me,
I will come home to you; or if you will,
Come home to me, and I will wait for you.
Cassi. I will do so: till then, think of the World.
[Exit Brutus.
Well Brutus, thou art Noble: Yet I see
Thy honourable Metal may be wrought
From that it is dispos'd, therefore 'tis meet,
That Noble minds keep ever with their likes:
For who so firm, that cannot be seduc'd?
Cæsar doth bear me hard, but he loves Brutus.
If I were Brutus now, and he were Cassius,
He should not humor me. I will this night,
In several hands, in at his Windows throw,
As if they came from several Citizens,
Writings, all tending to the great opinion
That Rome holds of his Name: wherein obscurely
Cæsars ambition shall be glanced at.
And after this, let Cæsar seat him sure,
For we will shake him, or worse days endure. [Exit.

Thunder and Lightning. Enter Caska, and Cicero.

Cic. Good even, Caska: brought you Cæsar home?
Why are you breathless, and why stare you so?
Cask. Are not you mov'd, when all the sway of Earth
Shakes, like a thing unfirm? O Cicero,
I have seen Tempests, when the scolding Winds
Have riv'd the knotty Oaks, and I have seen
Th' ambitious Ocean swell, and rage, and foam,
To be exalted with the threatning Clouds:
But never till to night, never till now,
Did I go through a Tempest-dropping-fire.
Either there is a Civil strife in Heaven,
Or else the World, too sawcy with the Gods,
Incenses them to send destruction.
Cic. Why, saw you any thing more wonderful?
Cask. A common slave, you know him well by sight,
Held up his left hand, which did flame and burn
Like twenty Torches join'd; and yet his hand,
Not sensible of fire, remain'd unscorch'd.
Besides, I ha' not since put up my Sword,
Against the Capitol I met a Lion,
Who glaz'd upon me, and went surly by,
Without annoying me. And there were drawn
Upon a heap, a hundred gastly Women,
Transformed with their fear, who swore, they saw
Men, all in fire, walk up and down the streets.
And yesterday, the Bird of Night did sit,
Even at Noon day, upon the Market place,
Houting, and shreeking. When these Prodigies
Do so conjointly meet, let not men say,
These are their Reasons, they are Natural:
For I believe, they are portentous things
Unto the Climate, that they point upon.
Cic. Indeed, it is a strange disposed time:
But men may construe things after their fashion,
Clean from the purpose of the things themselves.
Comes Cæsar up the Capitol to morrow?
Cask. He doth: for he did bid Antonio
Send word to you, he would be there to morrow.
Cic. Good night then, Caska:
This disturbed Sky is not to walk in.
Cask. Farewel, Cicero. [Exit Cicero.

Enter Cassius.

Cassi. Who's there?
Cask. A Romane.
Cassi. Caska, by your Voice.
Cask. Your Ear is good.
Cassius, What night is this?
Cassi. A very pleasing night to honest men.
Cask. Who ever knew the Heavens menace so?
Cassi. Those that have known the Earth so full of faults.
For my part I have walk'd about the streets,
Submitting me unto the perillous Night:
And thus unbraced, Caska, as you see,
Have bar'd my Bosom to the Thunder-stone:
And when the cross blue Lightning seem'd to open
The Breast of Heaven, I did present my self
Even in the aim, and very flash of it. (vens?
Cask. But wherefore did you so much tempt the Hea-
It is the part of men, to fear and tremble,
When the most Mighty Gods by tokens send
Such dreadful Heralds, to astonish us.
Cassi. You are dull, Caska:
And those sparks of Life that should be in a Roman,
You do want, or else you use not,
You look pale, and gaze, and put on fear,
And cast your self in wonder,
To see the strange impatience of the Heavens:
But if you would consider the true cause,
Why all these fires, why all these gliding Ghosts,
Why Birds and Beasts, from quality and kind,
Why Old men, Fools, and Children calculate,
Why all these things change from their Ordinance,
Their Natures, and pre-formed Faculties,
To monstrous quality; why you shall find,
That Heaven hath infus'd them with these Spirits,
To make them instruments of fear, and warning,
Unto some monstrous State.
Now could I (Caska) name to thee a man,
Most like this dreadful Night,
That Thunders, Lightens, opens Graves, and tears,
As doth the Lyon in the Capitol;
A man no mightier than thy self, or me,
In personal action; yet prodigious grown,
And fearful as these strange eruptions are.
Cask. 'Tis Cæsar that you mean,
Is it not, Cassius?
Cassi. Let it be who it is: for Romans now
Have Sinews and Limbs like to their Ancestors;
But woe the while, our Fathers minds are dead,
And we are govern'd with our Mothers spirits,
Our yoke, and sufferance, shew us Womanish.
Cask. Indeed, they say, the Senators to morrow
Mean to establish Cæsar as a King:
And he shall wear his Crown by Sea, and Land,
In every place, save here in Italy.
Cassi. I know where I will wear this Dagger then;
Cassius from bondage will deliver Cassius:
Therein, ye Gods, you make the weak most strong;
Therein, ye Gods, you Tyrants do defeat.
Nor stony Tower, nor Walls of beaten Brass,
Nor air-less Dungeon, nor strong Links of Iron,
Can be retentive to the strength of Spirit:
But Life being weary of these Worldly Bars,
Never lacks power to dismiss it self.
If I know this, know all the World besides,
That part of Tyranny that I do bear,
I can shake off at pleasure. [Thunder still.

Cask.

Cask. So can I:
So every Bondman in his own hand bears
The power to Cancel his Captivity.
Cassi. And why should Cæsar be a Tyrant then?
Poor man, I know he would not be a Wolf,
But that he sees the Romans are but Sheep;
He were no Lyon, were not Romans Hinds.
Those that with haste will make a mighty fire,
Begin it with weak Straws. What trash is Rome?
What Rubbish, and what Offal? when it serves
For the base matter, to illuminate
So vile a thing as Cæsar. But oh grief!
Where hast thou led me? I (perhaps) speak this
Before a willing Bondman: then I know
My answer must be made. But I am arm'd,
And dangers are to me indifferent.
Cask. You speak to Casca, and to such a man,
That is no fleering Tell-tale. Hold, my hand:
Be factious for redress of all these Griefs,
And I will set this foot of mine as far,
As who goes fartheſt.
Cassi. There's a Bargain made.
Now know you, Casca, I have mov'd already
Some certain of the Noblest minded Romans
To under-go, with me, an enterprize,
Of Honourable dangerous consequence;
And I do know by this, they stay for me
In Pompey's Porch; for now this fearful night,
There is no stir, or walking in the streets,
And the Complexion of the Element
Is Favours, like the work we have in hand,
Most bloody, fiery, and most terrible.

Enter Cinna.

Cask. Stand close a while, for here comes one in haste.
Cassi. 'Tis Cinna, I do know him by his Gate,
He is a Friend. Cinna, where haste you so?
Cinna. To find out you: Who's that, Metellus Cymber?
Cassi. No, it is Casca, one incorporate
To our Attempts. Am I not staid for, Cinna?
Cin. I am glad on't.
What a fearful Night?
There's two or three of us have seen strange sights.
Cassi. Am I not staid for? tell me.
Cin. Yes, you are, O Cassius,
If you could but win the Noble Brutus
To our party ——
Cassi. Be you content. Good Cinna take this paper,
And look you lay it in the Prætors Chair,
Where Brutus may but find it: and throw this
In at his Window; set this up with Wax
Upon old Brutus Statue: all this done,
Repair to Pompey's Porch, where you shall find us.
Is Decius Brutus and Trebonius there?
Cin. All, but Metellus Cymber, and he's gone
To seek you at your House. Well, I will hie,
And so bestow these papers as you bad me.
Cassi. That done, repair to Pompey's Theater.
[Exit. Cinna.
Come Casca, you and I will yet, ere day,
See Brutus at his House: three parts of him
Is ours already, and the man entire
Upon the next encounter, yields him ours.
Cask. O, he sits high in all the peoples hearts:
And that which would appear offence in us,
His Countenance, like richest Alchymy,
Will change to Vertue, and to Worthiness.
Cassi. Him, and his worth, and our great need of him,
You have right well conceited: let us go,
For it is after Mid-night, and ere day,
We will awake him, and be sure of him. [Exeunt.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Brutus in his Orchard.

Bru. WHat Lucius, hoe?
I cannot, by the progress of the Stars,
Give guess how near to day — Lucius, I say?
I would it were my fault to sleep so soundly.
When Lucius, when? awake, I say: what Lucius?

Enter Lucius.

Luc. Call'd you, my Lord?
Bru. Get me a Taper in my Study, Lucius:
When it is lighted, come and call me here.
Luc. I will, my Lord. [Exit.
Bru. It must be by his death: and for my part,
I know no personal cause, to spurn at him,
But for the general. He would be crown'd:
How that might change his Nature, there's the question?
It is the bright day, that brings forth the Adder,
And that craves wary walking: Crown him that,
And then I grant we put a sting in him,
That at his will he may do danger with.
Th' abuse of Greatness, is, when it disjoins
Remorse from power: And to speak truth of Cæsar,
I have not known, when his affections sway'd
More than his Reason. But 'tis a common proof,
That Lowliness is young Ambitions Ladder,
Whereto the Climber upward turns his face:
But when he once attains the upmost Round,
He then unto the Ladder turns his back.
Looks in the Clouds, scorning the base degrees
By which he did ascend: so Cæsar may;
Then lest he may, prevent. And since the quarrel
Will bear no colour, for the thing he is,
Fashion it thus; that what he is augmented,
Would run to these, and these extremities:
And therefore think him as a Serpents Egge,
Which hatch'd, would as his kind grow mischievous;
And kill him in the shell.

Enter Lucius.

Luc. The Taper burneth in your Closet, Sir:
Searching the Window for a Flint, I found
This Paper, thus seal'd up, and I am sure
It did not lye there when I went to Bed.
Gives him the Letter.
Bru. Get you to Bed again, it is not day:
Is not to Morrow (Boy) the first of March?
Luc. I know not, Sir.
Bru. Look in the Kalendar, and bring me word.
Luc. I will, Sir. [Exit.
Bru. The exhalations, whizzing in the air,
Give so much light: that I may read by them.
Opens the Letter and reads.
Brutus, thou sleep'st; awake, and see thy self:
Shall Rome, &c. Speak, strike, redress.
Brutus, thou sleep'st: awake.
Such instigations have been often dropt.
Where I have took them up:
Shall Rome, &c. Thus must I piece it out:
Shall Rome stand under one mans awe? What Rome?
My Ancestors did from the streets of Rome
The Tarquin drive, when he was call'd a King.
Speak, strike, redress, Am I entreated
To speak, and strike? O Rome, I make thee promise,
If the redress will follow, thou receivest
Thy full Petition at the hand of Brutus.

Enter

Enter Lucius.

Luc. Sir, March is wasted fifteen days.
[Knock within.
Bru. 'Tis good. Go to the Gate, some body knocks:
Since Cassius first did whet me against Cæsar,
I have not slept.
Between the acting of a dreadful thing,
And the first motion, all the Interim is
Like a Phantasma, or a hideous Dream:
The Genius, and the mortal instruments
Are then in counsel; and the state of man,
Like to a little Kingdom, suffers then
The nature of an insurrection.

Enter Lucius.

Luc. Sir, 'tis your Brother Cassius at the door,
Who doth desire to see you.
Bru. Is he alone?
Luc. No, Sir, there are moe with him.
Bru. Do you know them?
Luc. No, Sir, their Hats are pluck'd about their Ears,
And half their Faces buried in their Cloaths,
That by no means I may discover them,
By any mark of favour.
Bru. Let them enter:
They are the Faction. O Conspiracy,
Sham'st thou to shew thy dang'rous Brow by Night,
When evils are most free? O then, by day
Where wilt thou find a Cavern dark enough,
To mask thy monstrous Visage? Seek none, Conspiracy,
Hide it in Smiles, and Affability:
For if thou path thy native semblance on,
Not Erebus it self were dim enough,
To hide thee from prevention.

Enter the Conspirators, Cassius, Caska, Decius, Cinna, Metellus, and Trebonius.

Cassi. I think we are too bold upon your Rest:
Good morrow, Brutus, do we trouble you?
Bru. I have been up this hour, awake all Night:
Know I these men, that come along with you?
Cassi. Yes, every man of them; and no man here
But honours you: and every one doth wish,
You had but that opinion of your self,
Which every Noble Roman bears of you.
This is Trebonius.
Bru. He is welcome hither.
Cassi. This, Decius Brutus.
Bru. He is welcome too.
Cassi. This, Caska; this, Cinna; and this Metellus Cimber.
Bru. They are all welcome.
What watchful cares do interpose themselves
Betwixt your Eyes and Night?
Cassi. Shall I intreat a word? [They whisper.
Dec. Here lies the East: doth not the Day break here?
Cask. No.
Cin. O pardon, Sir, it doth, and yon grey Lines,
That fret the Clouds, are Messengers of Day.
Cask. You shall confess that you are both deceiv'd:
Here as I point my Sword, the Sun arises,
Which is a great way growing on the South,
Weighing the youthful Season of the year.
Some two months hence, up higher toward the North
He first presents his fire, and the high East
Stands as the Capitol, directly here.
Bru. Give me your hands all over, one by one.
Cassi. And let us swear our resolution.
Bru. No, not an Oath: if not the face of men,
The sufferance of our souls, the times abuse;
If these be motives weak, break off betimes,
And every man hence, to his idle bed:
So let high-sighted-Tyranny range on,
Till each man drop by Lottery. But if these
(As I am sure they do) bear fire enough
To kindle Cowards, and to steel with valour
The melting Spirits of women; Then, Countrymen,
What need we any spur, but our own cause
To prick us to redress? What other Bond,
Then secret Romans, that have spoke the word,
And will not palter? And what other Oath,
Than Honesty to Honesty engag'd,
That this shall be, or we will fall for it.
Swear Priests and Cowards, and men cautelous,
Old feeble Carrions, and such suffering souls
That welcome wrongs: Unto bad causes, swear
Such Creatures as men doubt; but do not stain
The even vertue of our Enterprize,
Nor th'insuppressive Mettle of our Spirits,
To think, that or our Cause, or our Performance
Did need an Oath. When every drop of blood
That every Roman bears, and nobly bears,
Is guilty of a several Bastardy,
If he doth break the smallest Particle
Of any promise that hath past from him.
Cassi. But what of Cicero? Shall we sound him?
I think he will stand very strong with us.
Cask. Let us not leave him out,
Cin. No, by no means.
Met. O let us have him, for his silver hairs
Will purchase us a good opinion.
And buy mens voices, to commend our deeds:
It shall be said, his judgment rul'd our hands,
Our youths, and wildness, shall no whit appear,
But all be buried in his gravity.
Bru. O name him not; let us not break with him.
For he will never follow any thing
That other men begin.
Cassi. Then leave him out.
Cask. Indeed, he is not fit.
Dec. Shall no man else be touch'd, but only Cæsar?
Cassi. Decius, Well urg'd: I think it is not meet,
Mark Antony, so well belov'd of Cæsar,
Should out-live Cæsar, we shall find of him
A shrewd Contriver. And you know, his means,
If he improve them, may well stretch so far
As to annoy us all: which to prevent,
Let Antony and Cæsar fall together.
Bru. Our course will seem too bloody, Caius Cassius,
To cut the Head off, and then hack the Limbs:
Like wrath in death, and Envy afterwards:
For Antony is but a Limb of Cæsar.
Let's be Sacrificers, but not Butchers, Caius:
We all stand up against the Spirit of Cæsar,
And in the Spirit of men, there is no blood:
O that we then could come by Cæsar's Spirits,
And not dismember Cæsar! But (alas)
Cæsar must bleed for it. And gentle Friends,
Let's kill him boldly, but not wrathfully:
Let's carve him, as a Dish fit for the Gods,
Not hew him as a Carkass fit for Hounds;
And let our hearts, as subtle Masters do,
Stir up their Servants to an act of rage,
And after seem to chide them. This shall make
Our purpose necessary, and not envious.
Which so appearing to the common eyes,
We shall be call'd Purgers, not Murderers.
And for Mark Antony, think not of him:
For he can do no more than Cæsar's Arm,
When Cæsar's head is off.
Cassi. Yet I fear him,
For in the ingrafted Love he bears to Cæsar.
Bru. Alas, good Cassius, do not think of him:
If he love Cæsar, all that he can do

Is to himself, take thought, and dye for Cæsar.
And that were much he should: for he is given
To sports, to wildness, and much company.
Treb. There is no fear in him; let him not die,
For he will live, and laugh at this hereafter.
[Clock strikes.
Bru. Peace, count the Clock.
Cassi. The Clock hath stricken three.
Treb. 'Tis time to part.
Cassi. But it is doubtful yet,
Whether Cæsar will come forth to day, or no:
For he is superstitious grown of late,
Quite from the main opinion he held once,
Of Fantasie, of Dreams, and Ceremonies:
It may be, these apparent Prodigies,
The unaccustom'd terrour of this Night,
And the perswasion of his Augurers,
May hold him from the Capitol to day,
Dec. Never fear that: if he be so resolv'd,
I can o're-sway him: for he loves to hear,
That Unicorns may be betray'd with Trees,
And Bears with Glasses, Elephants with Holes,
Lyons with Toils, and Men with Flatterers.
But, when I tell him, he hates Flatterers,
He says, he does; being then most flattered.
Let me work:
For I can give his humour the true bent;
And I will bring him to the Capitol.
Cassi. Nay, we will all of us be there to fetch him.
Bru. By the eighth hour, is that the uttermost?
Cin. Be that the uttermost, and fail not then.
Met. Caius Ligarius doth bear Cæsar hatred,
Who rated him for speaking well of Pompey;
I wonder none of you have thought of him.
Bru. Now good Metellus go along by him:
He loves me well, and I have given him Reasons,
Send him but hither, and I'll fashion him.
Cassi. The Morning comes upon's:
Wee'l leave you, Brutus,
And Friends disperse your selves: but all remember
What you have said, and shew your selves true Romans.
Bru. Good Gentlemen, look fresh and merrily,
Let not our looks put on our purposes,
But bear it as our Roman Actors do,
With untir'd spirits, and formal Constancy,
And so good morrow to you every one. [Exeunt.

Manet Brutus.

Boy: Lucius: fast asleep? It is no matter,
Enjoy the hony-heavy-dew of Slumber:
Thou hast no Figures, nor no Fantasies,
Which busie care draws in the Brains of men;
Therefore thou sleep'st so sound.

Enter Portia.

Por. Brutus, my Lord.
Bru. Portia, What mean you? wherefore rise you now?
It is not for your health, thus to commit
Your weak condition to the raw cold Morning.
Por. Nor for yours neither. Y'have ungently, Brutus,
Stole from my Bed: and yesternight at Supper
You suddenly arose, and walk'd about,
Musing, and sighing, with your arms a-cross:
And when I ask'd you what the matter was,
You star'd upon me with ungentle looks.
I urg'd you further, then you scratch'd your head,
And too impatiently stamp'd with your foot:
Yet I insisted, yet you answer'd not,
But with an angry wafter of your hand
Gave sign for me to leave you: So I did,
Fearing to strengthen that impatience
Which seem'd too much inkindled, and withal,
Hoping it was but an effect of Humour,
Which sometime hath his hour with every man.
It will not let you eat, nor talk, nor sleep;
And could it work so much upon your shape,
As it hath much prevail'd on your Condition,
I should not know you, Brutus. Dear, My Lord,
Make me acquainted with your cause of grief.
Bru. I am not well in health, and that is all.
Por. Brutus is wise, and were he not in health,
He would embrace the means to come by it.
Bru. Why so I do: good Portia, go to Bed.
Por. Is Brutus sick? and is it Physical
To walk unbraced, and suck up the humors
Of the dark Morning? What, is Brutus sick?
And will he steal out of his wholsom Bed,
To dare the vile contagion of the Night?
And tempt the Rheumy, and unpurged Air
To add unto his sickness? No, my Brutus,
You have some sick offence within your mind,
Which by the Right and Vertue of my place
I ought to know of: And upon my knees,
I charm you, by my once commended Beauty,
By all your vows of Love, and that great Vow
Which did incorporate and make us one,
That you unfold to me, your self, your half;
Why you are heavy, and what men to night
Have had resort to you: for here have been
Some six or seven, who did hide their faces
Even from darkness.
Bru. Kneel not, gentle Portia.
Por. I should not need, if you were gentle Brutus.
Within the bond of Marriage, tell me, Brutus,
Is it excepted, I should know no secrets
That appertain to you? Am I your self,
But as it were in sort, or limitation?
To keep with you at meals, comfort your Bed,
And talk to you sometimes? Dwell I but in the Suburbs
Of your good pleasure? If it be no more,
Portia is Brutus Harlot, not his Wife.
Bru. You are my true and honourable Wife,
As dear to me, as are the ruddy drops
That visit my sad heart.
Por. If this were true, then should I know this secret.
I grant I am a woman; but withal,
A woman that Lord Brutus took to Wife:
I grant I am a woman; but withal,
A woman well reputed: Cato's Daughter.
Think you, I am no stronger than my Sex,
Being so Father'd, and so Husbanded?
Tell me your Counsels, I will not disclose them:
I have made strong proof of my Constancy,
Giving my self a voluntary wound
Here, in the Thigh: Can I bear that with patience,
And not my Husband's Secrets?
Bru. O ye Gods!
Render me worthy of this Noble Wife. [Knock.
Hark, hark, one knocks: Portia, go in a while,
And by and by thy bosome shall partake
The secrets of my heart.
All my engagements, I will construe to thee,
All the Charactery of my sad brows:
Leave me with haste [Exit Portia.

Enter Lucius and Ligarius.

Lucius, who's that knocks?
Luc. Here is a sick man that would speak with you.
Bru. Caius Ligarius, that Metellus spake of.
Boy, stand aside. Caius Ligarius, how?
Cai. Vouchsafe good morrow from a feeble tongue.
Bru. O what a time have you chose out, brave Caius,
To wear a Kerchief? Would you were not sick.
Cai. I am not sick, if Brutus have in hand
Any exploit worthy the name of Honour.
Bru. Such an exploit have I in hand, Ligarius,
Had you an healthful Ear to hear of it.

Cai.

Cai. By all the Gods that Romans bow before,
I here discard my sickness. Soul of Rome,
Brave Son, deriv'd from honourable Loins,
Thou like an Exorcist, hast conjur'd up
My mortified Spirit. Now bid me run,
And I will strive with things impossible,
Yea get the better of them. What's to do?
Bru. A piece of work,
That will make sick men whole.
Cai. But are not some whole that we must make sick?
Bru. That must we also. What it is, my Caius,
I shall unfold to thee, as we are going,
To whom it must be done.
Cai. Set on your foot,
And with a heart new fir'd, I follow you,
To do I know not what: But it sufficeth
That Brutus leads me on. [Thunder.
Bru. Follow me then. [Exeunt.

Thunder and Lightning.

Enter Julius Cæsar in his Night-Gown

Cæs. Nor Heaven, nor Earth,
Have been at peace to night:
Thrice hath Calphurnia in her sleep cryed out;
Help, ho: They murder Cæsar. Who's within?

Enter a Servant.

Ser. My Lord.
Cæs. Go, bid the Priests do present Sacrifice,
And bring me their opinions of Success.
Ser. I will, my Lord. [Exit.

Enter Calphurnia.

Cal. What mean you, Cæsar? Think you to walk forth?
You shall not stir out of your house to day.
Cæs. Cæsar shall forth; the things that threatn'd me,
Ne'r lookt but on my back: When they shall see
The face of Cæsar, they are vanished.
Calph. Cæsar, I never stood on Ceremonies,
Yet now they fright me: There is one within,
Besides the things that we have heard and seen,
Recounts most horrid sights seen by the Watch.
A Lioness hath whelped in the streets,
And Graves have yawn'd and yielded up their dead;
Fierce fiery warriours fight upon the Clouds
In Ranks and Squadrons and right form of war
Which drizzel'd blood upon the Capitol:
The noise of Battel hurried in the Air:
Horses did neigh, and dying men did groan,
And Ghost did shriek and squeal about the streets.
O Cæsar, these things are beyond all use,
And I do fear them.
Cæs. What can be avoided
Whose end is purpos'd by the mighty Gods?
Yet Cæsar shall go forth: For these Predictions
Are to the world in general, as to Cæsar.
Calph. When Beggars die there are no Comets seen,
The Heavens themselves blaze forth the death of Princes.
Cæs. Cowards die many times before their deaths,
The valiant never taste of death but once:
Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
It seems to me most strange that men should fear,
Seeing that death, a necessary end
Will come, when it will come.

Enter a Servant.

What say the Augurers?
Ser. They would not have you stir forth to day.
Plucking the Entrails of an Offering forth,
They could not find a heart within the beast.
Cæs. The Gods do this in shame of Cowardise:
Cæsar should be a beast without a heart
If he should stay at home to day for fear:
No, Cæsar shall not; Danger knows full well
That Cæsar is more dangerous than he.
We hear two Lions litter'd in one day,
And I the elder and more terrible,
And Cæsar shall go forth.
Cal. Alas, my Lord,
Your wisdom is consum'd in confidence:
Do not go forth to day: Call it my fear,
That keeps you in the house, and not your own.
We'll send Mark Antony to the Senate house,
And he shall say your are not well to day:
Let me upon my knee prevail in this.
Cæs. Mark Antony shall say I am not well,
And for thy humour, I will stay at home.

Enter Decius.

Here's Decius Brutus, he shall tell them so.
Dec. Cæsar, all hail: Good morrow, worthy Cæsar,
I come to fetch you to the Senate house.
Cæs. And you are come in very happy time,
To bear my greeting to the Senators,
And tell them that I will not come to day:
Cannot is false: and that I dare not, falser:
I will not come to day, tell them so, Decius.
Cal. Say he's sick.
Cæs. Shall Cæsar send a Lie?
Have I in Conquest stretcht mine arm so far,
To be afraid to tell Grey-beards the truth:
Decius, go tell them Cæsar will not come.
Dec. Most mighty Cæsar, let me know some cause,
Lest I be laught at when I tell them so.
Cæs. The cause is in my will, I will not come,
That is enough to satisfie the Senate.
But for your private satisfaction,
Because I love you, I will let you know.
Calphurnia here my wife, stays me at home:
She dreamt to night she saw my Statue,
Which like a Fountain, with an hundred spouts,
Did run pure blood: and many lusty Romans
Came smiling, and did bathe their hands in it:
And these does she apply, for warnings and portents,
And evils imminent; and on her knee
Hath begg'd that I will stay at home to day.
Dec. This dream is all amiss interpreted,
It was a vision fair and fortunate:
Your Statue spouting blood in many Pipes,
In which so many smiling Romans bath'd,
Signifies that from you great Rome shall suck
Reviving blood, and that great Men shall press
For Tinctures, Stains, Reliques, and Cognisance.
This, by Calphurnia's dream is signified.
Cæs. And this way have you well expounded it.
Dec. I have, when you have heard what I can say,
And know it now, the Senate have concluded
To give this day a Crown to mighty Cæsar.
If you shall send them word you will not come,
Their minds may change. Besides it were a mock
Apt to be render'd for some one to say,
Break up the Senate till another time,
When Cæsar's wife shall meet with better Dreams:
If Cæsar hide himself, shall they not whisper,
Lo, Cæsar is afraid?
Pardon me, Cæsar, for my dear dear love,
To your Proceeding, bids me tell you this:
And reason to my love is liable.
Cæs. How foolish do your fears seem now, Calphurnia?
I am ashamed I did yield to them.
Give me my Robe, for I will go.

Enter Brutus, Ligarius, Metellus, Caska, Trebonius, Cinna, and Publius.

And look where Publius is come to fetch me.
Pub. Good morrow, Cæsar.
Cæs. Welcom, Publius.
What, Brutus, are you stirr'd so early too?
Good morrow, Caska, Caius Ligarius,
Cæsar was ne're so much your Enemy,
As that same Ague which hath made you lean.
What is't a Clock?
Bru. Cæsar, 'tis strucken eight.
Cæs. I thank you for your pains and curtesie.

Enter Antony.

See Antony, that revels long a-nights,
Is notwithstanding up. Good morrow, Antony.
Ant. So to most noble Cæsar.
Cæs. Bid them prepare within:
I am to blame to be thus waited for.
Now Cinna, now Metellus: what, Trebonius,
I have an hours talk in store for you:
Remember that you call on me to day:
Be near me, that I may remember you.
Treb. Cæsar, I will; and so near will I be,
That your best Friends shall wish I had been further.
Cæs. Good Friends go in, and taste some Wine with me,
And we (like Friends) will straightway go together.
Bru. That every like is not the same, O Cæsar,
The heart of Brutus earns to think upon. [Exeunt.

Enter Artemidorus.

Cæsar, beware of Brutus, take heed of Cassius, come not near Caska, have an eye to Cinna, trust not Trebonius, mark well Metellus Cymber, Decius Brutus loves thee not: Thou hast wrong'd Caius Ligarius. There is but one mind in all these men, and it is bent against Cæsar: If thou beest not Immortal, look about you: Security gives way to Conspiracy. The mighty Gods defend thee.

Thy Lover Artemidorus.

Here will I stand, till Cæsar pass along,
And as a Sutor will I give him this:
My heart laments, that Vertue cannot live
Out of the teeth of Emulation.
If thou read this, O Cæsar, thou mayest live;
If not, the Fates with Traytors do contrive.

Enter Portia and Lucius.

Por. I prythee, Boy, run to the Senate-house,
Stay not to answer me, but get thee gone,
Why dost thou stay?
Luc. To know my Errand, Madam.
Por. I would have had thee there and here again
E're I can tell thee what thou should'st do there:
O Constancy, be strong upon my side,
Set a huge Mountain 'tween my Heart and Tongue:
I have a mans mind, but a womans might:
How hard it is for women to keep counsel.
Art thou here yet?
Luc. Madam, what should I do?
Run to the Capitol, and nothing else?
And so return to you, and nothing else?
Por. Yes, bring me word if thy Lord look well,
For he went sickly forth: and take good note
What Cæsar doth, what Suitors press to him.
Hark Boy, what noise is that?
Luc. I hear none, Madam.
Por. Prythee listen well:
I heard a bussling Rumour like a Fray,
And the wind brings it from the Capitol.
Luc. Sooth, Madam, I hear nothing.

Enter the Soothsayer.

Por. Come hither fellow, which way hast thou been?
Sooth. At mine own house, good Lady.
Por. What is't a Clock?
Sooth. About the ninth hour, Lady.
Por. Is Cæsar yet gone to the Capitol?
Sooth. Madam, not yet, I go to take my stand,
To see him pass on to the Capitol.
Por. Thou hast some sute to Cæsar, hast thou not?
Sooth. That I have, Lady, if it will please Cæsar
To be so good to Cæsar, as to hear me:
I shall beseech him to befriend himself.
Por. Why know'st thou any harm's intended towards him?
Sooth. None that I know will be,
Much that I fear may chance:
Good morrow to you: here the street is narrow:
The throng that follows Cæsar at the heels
Of Senators, of Prætors, common Suitors,
Will crowd a feeble man (almost to death:
I'll get me to a place more void, and there
Speak to great Cæsar as he comes along. [Exit.
Por. I must go in:
Aye me! How weak a thing
The heart of Woman is? O Brutus,
The Heavens speed thee in thine enterprize.
Sure the Boy heard me: Brutus hath a suit
That Cæsar will not grant. O, I grow faint:
Run, Lucius, and commend me to my Lord,
Say I am merry; Come to me again,
And bring me word what he doth say to thee.

Actus Tertius.

Flourish.

Enter Cæsar, Brutus, Cassius, Caska, Decius, Metellus, Trebonius, Cinna, Antony, Lepidus, Artemidorus, Popilius, and the Soothsayer.

Cæs. The Ides of March are come.
Sooth. I, Cæsar, but not gone.
Art. Hail, Cæsar: read this Schedule.
Dec. Trebonius doth desire you to o're-read
(At your best leisure) this his humble suit.
Art. O Cæsar, read mine first: for mine's a suit
That touches Cæsar nearer. Read it, great Cæsar.
Cæs. What touches us our self, shall be last serv'd.
Art. Delay not, Cæsar, read it instantly.
Cæs. What, is the fellow mad?
Pub. Sirrah, give place.
Cassi. What urge you your Petitions in the street?
Come to the Capitol.
Pop. I wish your Enterprize to day may thrive.
Cassi. What Enterprize, Popilius?
Pop. Fare you well.
Bru. What said Popilius Lena?
Cassi. He wish'd to day our Enterprize might thrive:
I fear our purpose is discovered.
Bru. Look how he makes to Cæsar: mark him.
Cassi. Caska, be sudden, for we fear prevention.
Brutus, what shall be done? If this be known,
Cassius or Cæsar never shall turn back,
For I will slay my self.
Bru. Cassius be constant:
Popilius Lena speaks not of our purposes.
For look he smiles, and Cæsar doth not change.
Cassi. Trebonius knows his time: for look you, Brutus,

He

He draws Mark Antony out of the way.
Dec. Where is Metellus Cimber? let him go,
And preſently prefer his ſuit to Cæſar.
Bru. He is addreſt: preſs near, and ſecond him.
Cin. Caska, you are the firſt that rears your hand.
Cæſ. Are we all ready? What is now amiſs,
That Cæſar and his Senate muſt redreſs?
Met. Moſt high, moſt mighty, and moſt puiſſant Cæſar,
Metellus Cimber throws before thy Seat,
An humble heart.
Cæſ. I muſt prevent thee, Cimber:
Theſe couchings, and theſe lowly curtſies
Might fire the blood of ordinary men,
And turn pre-Ordinance, and firſt Decree,
Into the lane of Children. Be not fond,
To think that Cæſar bears ſuch Rebel Blood
That will be thaw'd from the true quality
With that which melteth Fools, I mean, ſweet words,
Low-crooked-curtſies, and baſe Spaniel fawning:
Thy Brother by Decree is baniſhed:
If thou doſt bend, and pray, and fawn for him,
I ſpurn thee like a Cur out of my way:
Know, Cæſar doth not wrong, nor without cauſe
Will he be ſatisfied.
Met. Is there no voice more worthy than my own,
To ſound more ſweetly in great Cæſar's Ear,
For the repealing of my baniſh'd Brother?
Bru. I kiſs thy hand, but not in flattery, Cæſar:
Deſiring thee that Publius Cimber may
Have an immediate freedom of repeal.
Cæſ. What Brutus?
Caſſi Pardon, Cæſar: Cæſar, pardon:
As low as to thy Foot doth Caſſius fall,
To beg infranchiſement for Publius Cimber.
Cæſ. I could be well mov'd, if I were as you,
If I could pray to move, Prayers would move me:
But I am conſtant as the Northern Star,
Of whoſe true fixt, and reſting quality
There is no fellow in the Firmament,
The Skies are painted with unnumbred ſparks,
They are all fire, and every one doth ſhine:
But there's but one in all doth hold his place.
So, in the World, 'tis furniſh'd well with men,
And men are fleſh and blood, and apprehenſive;
Yet in the number, I do know but one
That unaſſailable holds on his rank,
Unſhak'd of motion: and that I am he,
Let me a little ſhew it, even in this:
That I was conſtant Cimber ſhould be baniſh'd,
And conſtant do remain to keep him ſo.
Cin. O Cæſar.
Cæſ. Hence: wilt thou lift up Olympus?
Dec. Great Cæſar.
Cæſ. Do not Brutus bootleſs kneel?
Cask. Speak hands for me.
They ſtab Cæſar.
Cæſ. Et tu Brute—— Then fall Cæſar.
Cin. Liberty, Freedom; Tyranny is dead,
Run hence, proclaim, cry it about the ſtreets.
Caſſi. Some to the common Pulpits, and cry out,
Liberty, Freedom, and Enfranchiſement.
Bru. People and Senators, be not affrighted:
Fly not, ſtand ſtill, ambitions debt is paid.
Cask. Go to the Pulpit, Brutus.
Dec. And Caſſius too.
Bru. Where's Publius?
Cin. Here quite confounded with this mutiny.
Met. Stand faſt together, leſt ſome friend of Cæſar's
Should chance——
Bru. Talk not of ſtanding. Publius, good cheer,
There is no harm intended to your Perſon,
Nor ot no Roman elſe: ſo tell them, Publius.
Caſſi. And leave us, Publius, leſt that the People
Ruſhing on us, ſhould do your age ſome miſchief.
Bru. Do ſo, and let no man abide this deed,
But we the Doers.

Enter Trebonius.

Caſſi. Where is Antony?
Treb. Fled to his houſe amaz'd,
Men, Wives, and Children, ſtare, cry out, and run,
As it were Doomeſday.
Bru. Fates, we will know your pleaſures:
That we ſhall dye we know, 'tis but the time
And drawing days our, that men ſtand upon.
Cask. Why he that cuts off twenty years of life,
Cuts of ſo many years of fearing death.
Bru. Grant that, and then is death a benefit:
So are we Cæſar's friends, that have abridg'd
His time of fearing death, ſtoop Romans, ſtoop,
And let us bath our hands in Cæſar's blood
Up to the Elbows, and beſmear our Swords:
Then walk we forth even to the Market Place,
And waving our red Weapons o're our heads,
Let's all cry Peace, Freedom, and Liberty.
Caſſi. Stoop then, and waſh. How many ages hence
Shall this our lofty Scene be acted over,
In States unborn, and Accents yet unknown?
Bru. How many times ſhall Cæſar bleed in ſport,
That now on Pompey's Baſis lies along,
No worthier than the duſt?
Caſſi. So oft as that ſhall be,
So often ſhall the knot of us be call'd,
The men that gave their Country Liberty.
Dec. What, ſhall we forth?
Caſſi. I, every man away.
Brutus ſhall lead, and we will grace his heels
With the moſt boldeſt, and beſt hearts of Rome.

Enter a Servant.

Bru. Soft, who comes here? a friend of Antony's.
Ser. Thus, Brutus, did my Maſter bid me kneel;
Thus did Mark Antony bid me fall down,
And being proſtrate, thus he bad me ſay,
Brutus is noble, Wiſe, Valiant, and Honeſt;
Cæſar was Mighty, Bold, Royal, and Loving:
Say, I love Brutus, and I honour him;
Say, I fear'd Cæſar, honour'd him, and lov'd him.
If Brutus will vouchſafe, that Antony
May ſafely come to him, and be reſolv'd
How Cæſar hath deſerv'd to lye in death,
Mark Antony ſhall not love Cæſar dead
So well as Brutus living; but will follow
The Fortunes and Affairs of Noble Brutus,
Thorough the hazards of this untrod State,
With all true Faith. So ſays my Maſter Antony,
Bru. Thy Maſter is a Wiſe and Valiant Roman,
I never thought him worſe:
Tell him, ſo pleaſe him come unto this place
He ſhall be ſatisfied, and by my honour
Depart untouch'd.
Ser. I'll fetch him preſently. [Exit Servant.
Bru. I know that we ſhall have him well to Friend.
Caſſi. I wiſh we may: But yet have I a mind
That fears him much: and my miſgiving ſtill
Falls ſhrewdly to the purpoſe.

Enter Antony.

Bru. But here comes Antony:
Welcome, Mark Antony.
Ant. O mighty Cæſar! doſt thou lye ſo low?
Are all thy Conqueſts, Glories, Triumphs, Spoils,
Shrunk to this little Meaſure? Fare thee well.
I know not, Gentlemen, what you intend,
Who elſe muſt be let blood, who elſe is rank:

If I my ſelf, there is no hour ſo fit
As Cæſar's deaths hour; nor no inſtrument
Of half that worth, as thoſe your Swords; made rich
With the moſt Noble Blood of all this World.
I do beſeech ye, if you bear me hard,
Now, whil'ſt your purpled hands do reek and ſmoak
Fulfil your pleaſure. Live a thouſand years,
I ſhall not find my ſelf ſo apt to dye.
No place will pleaſe me ſo, no mean of death,
As here by Cæſar, and by you cut off,
The Choice and Maſter Spirits of this age.
Bru. O Antony! Beg not your death of us:
Though now we muſt appear bloody and cruel,
As by our hands, and this our preſent Act
You ſee we do: yet ſee you but our hands,
And this, the bleeding buſineſs they have done:
Our hearts you ſee not, they are pitiful:
And pity to the general wrong of Rome,
As fire drives out fire, ſo pity, pity,
Hath done this deed on Cæſar. For your part,
To you, our Swords have leaden points, Mark Antony;
Our Arms in ſtrength of malice, and our Hearts
Of Brothers temper, do receive you in,
With all kind love, good thoughts, and reverence.
Caſſi. Your voice ſhall be as ſtrong as any mans,
In the diſpoſing of new Dignities.
Bru. Only be patient till we have appeas'd
The multitude, beſide themſelves with fear,
And then we will deliver you the cauſe,
Why I, that did love Cæſar when I ſtrook him,
Have thus proceeded.
Ant. I doubt not of your wiſdom:
Let each man render me his bloody hand.
Firſt, Marcus Brutus, will I ſhake with you;
Next, Caius Caſſius, do I take your hand,
Now, Decius Brutus, yours, now yours, Metellus;
Yours, Cinna; and my valiant Caſka, yours;
Though laſt, not leaſt in love, yours, good Trebonius:
Gentlemen all, alas, what ſhall I ſay,
My credit now ſtands on ſuch ſlippery ground,
That one of two bad ways you muſt conceit me,
Either a Coward, or a Flatterer.
That I did love thee, Cæſar, O 'tis true:
If then thy Spirit look upon us now,
Shall it not grieve thee dearer than thy death,
To ſee thy Antony making his peace,
Shaking the bloody fingers of thy foes?
Moſt Noble in the preſence of thy Coarſe,
Had I as many eyes, as thou haſt wounds,
Weeping as faſt as they ſtream forth thy blood,
It would become me better, than to cloſe
In terms of friendſhip with thine Enemies.
Pardon me, Julius, here was't thou bay'd brave heart.
Here didſt thou fall, and here thy Hunters ſtand
Sign'd in thy ſpoil, and Crimſon'd in thy Lethe.
O World! thou waſt the Foreſt to this Hart,
And this indeed, O World, the Hart of thee.
How like a Deer, ſtricken by many Princes,
Doſt thou here lye?
Caſſi. Mark Antony.
Ant. Pardon me, Caius Caſſius:
The Enemies of Cæſar ſhall ſay this:
Then, in a friend, it is cold Modeſty.
Caſſi. I blame you not for praiſing Cæſar ſo,
But what compact mean you to have with us?
Will you be prick'd in number of our friends,
Or ſhall we on; and not depend on you?
Ant. Therefore I took your hands, but was indeed
Sway'd from the point, by looking down on Cæſar.
Friends am I with you all, and love you all,
Upon this hope, that you ſhall give me Reaſons,
Why, and wherein Cæſar was dangerous.
Bru. Or elſe were this a ſavage ſpectacle:
Our reaſons are ſo full of good regard,
That were you Antony the Son of Cæſar.
You ſhould be ſatisfied.
Ant. That's all I ſeek,
And am moreover ſuitor that I may
Produce his Body to the Market-place,
And in the Pulpit as becomes a friend,
Speak in the order of his Funeral.
Bru. You ſhall, Mark Antony.
Caſſi. Brutus, a word with you:
You know not what you do; do not conſent
That Antony ſpeak in his Funeral:
Know you how much the people may be mov'd
By that which he will utter,
Bru. By your pardon:
I will my ſelf into the Pulpit firſt,
And ſhew the reaſon of our Cæſar's death,
What Antony ſhall ſpeak, I will proteſt
He ſpeaks by leave, and by permiſſion:
And that we are contented Cæſar ſhall
Have all true Rites, and lawful Ceremonies,
It ſhall advantage more, than do us wrong.
Caſſi. I know not what may fall, I like it not.
Bru. Mark Antony, here take you Cæſar's Body:
You ſhall not in your Funeral ſpeech blame us,
But ſpeak all good you can deviſe of Cæſar,
And ſay you do't by our permiſſion:
Elſe ſhall you not have any hand at all
About his Funeral. And you ſhall ſpeak
In the ſame Pulpit whereto I am going,
After my ſpeech is ended.
Ant. Be it ſo:
I do deſire no more.
Bru. Prepare the Body then, and follow us. [Exeunt.

Manet Antony.

O pardon me, thou bleeding piece of Earth:
That I am meek and gentle with theſe Butchers.
Thou art the Ruines of the Nobleſt man
That ever lived in the Tide of Times.
Woe to the hand that ſhed this coſtly Blood.
Over thy wounds, now do I propheſie,
(Which like dumb mouths do ope their ruby lips,
To beg the voice and utterance of my tongue)
A Curſe ſhall light upon the limbs of men;
Domeſtick fury, and fierce civil ſtrife,
Shall cumber all the parts of Italy:
Blood and deſtruction ſhall be ſo in uſe,
And dreadful objects ſo familiar,
That Mothers ſhall but ſmile, when they behold
Their Infants quartered with the hands of War:
All pity choak'd with cuſtom of fell deeds,
And Cæſar's Spirit ranging for revenge,
With Ate by his ſide, come hot from Hell,
Shall in theſe Confines, with a Monarch's voice,
Cry havock, and let ſlip the Dogs of War,
That this foul deed ſhall ſmell above the earth
With Carrion men, groaning for burial.

Enter Octavio's Servant.

You ſerve Octavius Cæſar, do you not?
Ser. I do, Mark Antony.
Ant. Cæſar did write for him to come to Rome.
Ser. He did receive his Letters, and is coming,
And bid me ſay to you by word of mouth——
O Cæſar!
Ant. Thy heart is big, get thee a-part and weep:
Paſſion I ſee is catching, for mine eyes,
Seeing thoſe Beads of ſorrow ſtand in thine,
Began to water. Is thy Maſter coming?
Ser. He lies to night within ſeven Leagues of Rome.
Ant. Poſt back with ſpeed,
And tell him what hath chanc'd:
Here is a mourning Rome, a dangerous Rome,
No Rome of ſafety for Octavius yet,

Hie

Hie hence, and tell him ſo. Yet ſtay a while,
Thou ſhalt not back, till I have born this Coarſe
Into the Market-place: There ſhall I try
In my Oration, how the people take
The cruel iſſue of theſe bloody men,
According to the which, thou ſhalt diſcourſe
To young Octavius of the ſtate of things.
Lend me your hand. [Exeunt.

Enter Brutus, and goes into the Pulpit; and Caſſius, with the Plebeians.

Pleb. We will be ſatisfied: let us be ſatisfied.
Brut. Then follow me, and give me audience, Friends.
Caſſius, go you into the other Street,
And part the Numbers:
Thoſe that will hear me ſpeak, let 'em ſtay here;
Thoſe that will follow Caſſius, go with him,
And publick Reaſons ſhall be rendred
Of Cæſar's death.
1. Pleb. I will hear Brutus ſpeak.
2. I will hear Caſſius, and compare their Reaſons,
When ſeverally we hear them rendred.
3. The noble Brutus is aſcended: Silence.
Brut. Be patient till the laſt.
Romans, Country-men, and Lovers, hear me for my Cauſe, and be ſilent, that you may hear. Believe me for mine Honour, and have reſpect to mine Honour, that you may believe. Cenſure me in your wiſdom, and awake your Senſes, that you may the better judge. If there be any in this Aſſembly, any dear Friend of Cæſar's, to them I ſay, That Brutus love to Cæſar was no leſs than his. If then, that Friend demand, why Brutus roſe againſt Cæſar, this is my Anſwer: Not that I lov'd Cæſar leſs, but that I lov'd Rome more. Had you rather Cæſar were living, and dye all Slaves; than that Cæſar were dead, to live all Free-men? As Cæſar lov'd me, I weep for him; as he was fortunate, I rejoyce at it; as he was valiant, I honour him: But, as he was ambitious, I ſlew him. There is Tears for his Love, Joy for his Fortune, Honour for his Valour, and Death for his Ambition. Who is here ſo baſe that would be a Bond-man? If any, ſpeak; for him have I offended. Who is here ſo rude, that would not be a Roman? If any, ſpeak; for him have I offended. Who is here ſo vile, that will not love his Countrey? If any, ſpeak; for him have I offended. I pauſe for a reply.
All. None, Brutus, none.
Brut. Then none have I offended. I have done no more to Cæſar than you ſhall do to Brutus. The Queſtion of his Death is inroll'd in the Capitol; his Glory not extenuated, wherein he was worthy; not his offences enforc'd, for which he ſuffered death.
Enter Mark Antony, with Cæſar's Body.
Here comes his Body, mourn'd by Mark Antony, who though he had no hand in his death, ſhall receive the benefit of his dying, a Place in the Commonwealth; as which of you ſhall not? With this I depart, That as I ſlew my beſt Lover for the good of Rome, I have the ſame Dagger for my ſelf, when it ſhall pleaſe my Countrey to need my Death.
All. Live, Brutus, live, live.
1. Bring him with Triumph home unto his houſe.
2. Give him a Statue with his Anceſtors.
3. Let him be Cæſar.
4. Cæſar's better Parts
Shall be crown'd in Brutus.
1. We'll bring him to his houſe
With Shouts and Clamors.
Brut. My Country-men—
2. Peace, ſilence, Brutus ſpeaks.
1. Peace, Ho.
Brut. Good Country-men, let me depart alone,
And (for my ſake) ſtay here with Antony:
Do grace to Cæſar's Corps, and grace his Speech
Tending to Cæſar's Glories, which Mark Antony
(By our permiſſion) is allow'd to make.
I do entreat you, not a man depart,
Save I alone, till Antony have ſpoke. [Exit.
1. Stay, Hoe, and let us hear Mark Antony.
3. Let him go up into the Publick Chair,
We'll hear him: Noble Antony, go up
Ant. For Brutus's ſake I am beholden to you.
4. What does he ſay of Brutus?
3. He ſays for Brutus's ſake
He finds himſelf beholden to us all.
4. 'Twere beſt ſpeak no harm of Brutus here.
1. This Cæſar was a Tyrant.
3. Nay, that's certain:
We are glad that Rome is rid of him.
2. Peace, let us hear what Antony can ſay.
Ant. You gentle Romans—
All. Peace, Hoe, let us hear him.
Ant. Friends, Romans, Country-men, lend me your ears:
I come to bury Cæſar, not to praiſe him:
The evil that men do, lives after them,
The Good is oft interred with the Bones;
So let it be with Cæſar. The Noble Brutus
Hath told you, Cæſar was ambitious:
If it were ſo, it was a grievous fault,
And grievouſly hath Cæſar anſwer'd it
Here, under leave of Brutus, and the reſt,
(For Brutus is an honourable man,
So are they all, all honourable men)
Come I to ſpeak in Cæſar's Funeral.
He was my Friend, faithful and juſt to me;
But Brutus ſays, He was ambitious,
And Brutus is an Honourable man.
He hath brought many Captives home to Rome,
Whoſe Ranſomes did the general Coffers fill;
Did this in Cæſar ſeem ambitious?
When that the poor have cry'd, Cæſar hath wept:
Ambition ſhould be made of ſterner Stuff:
Yet Brutus ſays, He was ambitious,
And Brutus is an Honourable man.
You all did ſee, That on the Lupercal,
I thrice preſented him a Kingly Crown,
Which he did thrice refuſe. Was this Ambition?
Yet Brutus ſays, He was ambitious,
And ſure he is an Honourable man.
I ſpeak not to diſprove what Brutus ſpoke,
But here I am to ſpeak what I do know;
You all did love him once, not without cauſe,
What cauſe with-holds you then to mourn for him?
O Judgment! thou art fled to Brutiſh Beaſts,
And Men have loſt their Reaſon. Bear with me,
My heart is in the Coffin there with Cæſar,
And I muſt pauſe till it come back to me.
1. Methinks there is much reaſon in his Sayings.
If thou conſider rightly of the matter,
Cæſar has had great wrong.
3. Has he, Maſters? I fear there will a worſe come in his (place.
4. Mark'd ye his words? He would not take the Crown,
Therefore 'tis certain, he was not ambitious.
1. If it be found ſo, ſome will dear abide it.
2. Poor Soul! his eyes are red as fire with weeping.
3. There's not a nobler man in Rome than Antony.
4. Now mark him, he begins again to ſpeak.
Ant. But yeſterday the word of Cæſar might
Have ſtood againſt the World; Now lyes he there,
And none ſo poor to do him reverence.
O Maſters! If I were diſpos'd to ſtir
Your hearts and minds to mutiny and rage,
I ſhould do Brutus wrong, and Caſſius wrong;
Who (you all know) are Honourable men.
I will not do them wrong: I rather chuſe
To wrong the dead, to wrong my ſelf and you,
Than I will wrong ſuch Honourable men.
But here's a Parchment, with the Seal of Cæſar,

I found

I found it in his Closet, 'tis his Will:
Let but the Commons hear this Testament:
(Which pardon me) I do not mean to read,
And they would go and kiss dead Cæsar's Wounds,
And dip their Napkins in his Sacred blood:
Yea, beg a hair of him for Memory,
And dying, mention it within their Wills,
Bequeathing it as a rich Legacy
Unto their issue.

4. Wee'll hear the Will, read it, Mark Antony.

All. The Will, the Will; we will hear Cæsar's Will.

Ant. Have patience, gentle Friends, I must not read it.
It is not meet you know how Cæsar lov'd you:
You are not Wood, you are not Stones, but men:
And being men, hearing the Will of Cæsar,
It will inflame you, it will make you mad;
'Tis good you know not that you are his Heirs,
For if you should, O what would come of it?

4. Read the Will, wee'll hear it, Antony:
You shall read us the Will, Cæsar's Will.

Ant. Will you be Patient? will you stay a while?
I have o're shot my self to tell you of it,
I fear I wrong the Honourable men,
Whose Daggers have stabb'd Cæsar: I do fear it.

4. They were Traytors, Honourable men?

All. The Will, the Testament.

2. They were Villains, Murderers: the Will, read the Will.

Ant. You will compel me then to read the Will;
Then make a Ring about the Corps of Cæsar,
And let me shew you him that made the Will:
Shall I descend? and will you give me leave?

All. Come down.

2. Descend.

3. You shall have leave.

4. A Ring, stand round.

1. Stand from the Hearse, stand from the Body.

2. Room for Antony, most Noble Antony.

Ant. Nay press not so upon me, stand far off.

All. Stand back, room, bear back.

Ant. If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
You all do know this Mantle, I remember
The first time ever Cæsar put it on,
'Twas on a Summers Evening in his Tent,
That day he overcame the Nervii
Look, in this place ran Cassius's Dagger through:
See what a Rent the envious Casca made:
Through this, the well beloved Brutus stab'd,
And as he pluck'd his cursed Steell away,
Mark how the blood of Cæsar followed it.
As rushing out of Doors, to be resolv'd,
If Brutus so unkindly knock'd, or no:
For Brutus as you know, was Cæsar's Angel.
Judge, O you Gods, how dearly Cæsar lov'd him:
This was the most unkindest cut of all.
For when the Noble Cæsar saw him stab,
Ingratitude, more strong than Traitors arms,
Quite vanquish'd him: then burst his Mighty heart,
And in his Mantle, muffling up his face,
Even at the Base of Pompey's Statue
(Which all the while ran blood) great Cæsar fell.
O what a fall was there, my Country-men?
Then I, and you, and all of us fell down,
Whil'st bloody Treason flourish'd over us.
O now you weep, and I perceive you feel
The dint of pity: These are gracious drops.
Kind Souls, what weep you, when you but behold
Our Cæsar's Vesture wounded? Look you here,
Here is Himself, marr'd as you see with Traytors.

1. O piteous Spectacle!

2. O Noble Cæsar!

3. O woful day!

4. O Traytors, Villains!

1. O most bloody sight!

2. We will be reveng'd: Revenge
About, seek, burn, fire, kill, slay,
Let not a Traytor live.

Ant. Stay, Country-men.

1. Peace there, hear the Noble Antony,

2. Wee'll hear him, wee'll follow him, wee'll dye with him.

Ant. GoodFriends, sweet Friends, let me not stir you up
To such a sudden Flood of Mutiny:
They that have done this Deed, are Honourable,
What private griefs they have, alas I know not,
That made them do it: They are wise and honourable,
And will no doubt with reasons answer you.
I come not (Friends,) to steal away your hearts;
I am no Orator, as Brutus is;
But (as you know me all) a plain blunt man
That love my Friend, and that they know full well,
That give me publick leave to speak of him:
For I have neither Wit, nor words, nor worth,
Action nor utterance, nor the power of speech,
To stir mens Blood. I only speak right on:
I tell you that, which you your selves do know,
Shew you sweet Cæsar's Wounds, poor, poor dumb mouths,
And bid them speak for me: But were I Brutus,
And Brutus Antony, there were an Antony
Would ruffle up your Spirits, and put a Tongue
In every Wound of Cæsar, that should move
The stones of Rome to rise and mutiny.

All. Wee'll Mutiny.

1. Wee'll burn the House of Brutus.

3. Away then, come seek the Conspirators.

Ant. Yet hear me, Country-men, yet hear me speak.

All. Peace ho, hear Antony, most Noble Antony.

Ant. Why, Friends, you go to do you know not what.
Wherein hath Cæsar thus deserv'd your loves?
Alas you know not, I must tell you then:
You have forgot the Will I told you of.

All. Most true, the Will, let's stay and hear the Will.

Ant. Here is the Will, and under Cæsar's Seal:
To every Roman Citizen he gives,
To every several man, seventy five Drachmaes.

2. Ple. Most noble Cæsar, wee'll revenge his Death.

3. Ple. O Royal Cæsar.

Ant. Hear me with patience.

All. Peace ho.

Ant. Moreover he hath left you all his Walks,
His private Arbours, and new-planted Orchards:
On this side Tyber, he hath left them you,
And to your Heirs for ever: common pleasures
To walk abroad, and recreate your selves.
Here was a Cæsar: when comes such another?

1. Ple. Never, never: come, away, away:
Wee'll burn his body in the holy place,
And with the Brands fire all the Traytors Houses.
Take up the Body.

2. Ple. Go fetch fire.

3. Ple. Pluck down Benches.

4. Ple. Pluck down Forms, Windows, any thing.
[Exeunt Plebeians

Ant. Now let it work: Mischief thou art a foot,
Take thou what course thou wilt.
How now, Fellow?

Enter Servant.

Ser. Sir, Octavius is already come to Rome.

Ant. Where is he?

Ser. He and Lepidus are at Cæsar's House.

Ant. And thither will I straight, to visit him:
He comes upon a wish. Fortune is merry,
And in this mood will give us any thing.

Ser. I heard him say, Brutus and Cassius
Are rid like Madmen through the Gates of Rome.

Ant. Belike they had some notice of the people,
How I had moved them. Bring me to Octavius. [Exeunt.
Enter

Enter Cinna the Poet, and after him the Plebeians.

Cin. I dreamt to Night, that I did Feaſt with Cæſar,
And things unluckily charge my Fantaſie:
I have no will to wander forth of Doors,
Yet ſomething leads me forth.
1. What is your Name?
2. Whither are you going?
3. Where do you dwell?
4. Are you a Married Man, or a Batchellor?
2. Anſwer every man directly.
1. I, and briefly.
4. I, and wiſely.
3. I, and truly, you were beſt.
Cin. What is my Name? Whither am I going? Where do I dwell? Am I a Married Man, or a Batchellor? Then to Anſwer every Man directly and briefly, wiſely and truly: wiſely, I ſay, I am a Batchellor.
2. That's as much as to ſay, they are Fools that Marry: you'll bear me a bang for that I fear: Proceed directly.
Cin. Directly, I am going to Ceſar's Funeral.
1. As a Friend, or an Enemy?
Cin. As a Friend.
2. That matter is anſwered directly.
4. For your Dwelling: briefly.
Cin. Briefly, I dwell by the Capitol.
3. Your Name, Sir, truly.
Cin. Truly my Name is Cinna.
1. Tear him to pieces, he's a Conſpirator.
Cin. I am Cinna the Poet, I am Cinna the Poet.
4. Tear him for his bad Verſes, tear him for his bad Verſes.
Cin. I am not Cinna the Conſpirator.
4. It is no matter, his Name's Cinna, pluck but his name out of his heart, and turn him going.
3. Tear him, tear him; Come Brands ho, Firebrands: to Brutus, to Caſſius, burn all. Some to Decius's Houſes, and ſome to Caska's, ſome to Ligarius: Away, go.
[Exeunt all the Plebeians.

Actus Quartus.

Enter Antony, Octavius, and Lepidus.

Ant. THeſe many then ſhall die, their Names are prickt.
Oct. Your Brother too muſt die: conſent you, Lepidus?
Lep. I do conſent.
Oct. Prick him down, Antony.
Lep. Upon condition Publius ſhall not live,
Who is your Siſters Son, Mark Antony.
Ant. He ſhall not live; look, with a ſpot, I damn him.
But Lepidus, go you to Ceſar's Houſe:
Fetch the Will hither, and we ſhall determine
How to cut off ſome charge in Legacies.
Lep. What? ſhall I find you here?
Oct. Or here, or at the Capitol. [Exit Lepidus.
Ant. This is a ſlight unmeritable man,
Meet to be ſent on Errands: is it fit
The three-fold World divided, he ſhould ſtand
One of the three to ſhare it?
Oct. So you thought him,
And took his Voice who ſhould be prickt to die
In our black Sentence and Proſcription.
Ant. Octavius, I have ſeen more days than you;
And though we lay theſe honours on this man,
To eaſe our ſelves of divers ſland'rous loads,
He ſhall but bear them, as the Aſs bears Gold,
To groan and ſweat under the Buſineſs,
Either led or driven, as we print the way:
And having brought our treaſure, where we will,
Then take we down his load, and turn him off
(Like to the empty Aſs) to ſhake his Ears,
And graze in Commons.
Oct. You may do your will:
But he's a tri'd and valiant Souldier.
Ant. So is my Horſe, Octavius, and for that,
I do appoint him ſtore of Provender.
It is a Creature that I teach to fight,
To wind, to ſtop, to run directly on:
His corporal Motion, govern'd by my Spirit,
And in ſome taſt, is Lepidus but ſo:
He muſt be taught, and train'd, and bid go forth:
A barren ſpirited Fellow, one that feeds
On Objects, Arts, and Imitations.
Which out of uſe, and ſtal'd by other men
Begin his faſhion. Do not talk of him,
But as a property: and now, Octavius,
Liſten great things. Brutus and Caſſius
Are levying Powers; We muſt ſtraight make head:
Therefore let our Alliance be combin'd,
Our beſt Friends made, and our beſt means ſtretcht out,
And let us preſently go ſit in Council,
How covert matters may be beſt diſclos'd,
And open Perils ſureſt anſwered.
Oct. Let us do ſo: for we are at the ſtake,
And bayed about with many Enemies,
And ſome that ſmile have in their hearts, I fear,
Millions of Miſchiefs. [Exeunt.

Drum. Enter Brutus, Lucilius, and the Army. Titinius and Pindarus meet them.

Bru. Stand, ho.
Luc. Give the word, ho, and Stand.
Bru. What now, Lucilius, is Caſſius near?
Luc. He is at hand, and Pindarus is come
To do you ſalutation from his Maſter.
Bru. He greets me well. Your Maſter Pindarus,
In his own change, or by ill Officers,
Hath given me ſome worthy cauſe to wiſh
Things done, undone: But if he be at hand,
I ſhall be ſatisfied.
Pin. I do not doubt
But that my Noble Maſter will appear
Such as he is, full of regard, and Honour.
Bru. He is not doubted. A word, Lucilius,
How he receiv'd you: let me be reſolv'd.
Luc. With curteſie, and with reſpect enough,
But not with ſuch familiar inſtances,
Nor with ſuch free and friendly Conference,
As he hath us'd of old.
Bru. Thou haſt deſcrib'd
A hot Friend, cooling: Ever note, Lucilius,
When Love begins to ſicken and decay,
It uſeth an enforced Ceremony.
There are no tricks in plain and ſimple Faith:
But hollow men, like Horſes hot at hand,
Make gallant ſhew, and promiſe of their Mettle:
Low March within.
But when they ſhould endure the bloody Spur,
They fall their Creſt, and like deceitful Jades,
Sink in the Trial. Comes his Army on?
Luc. They mean this Night in Sardis to be quarter'd:
The greater part, the Horſe in general
Are come with Caſſius.

Enter Caſſius and his Powers.

Bru. Hark, he is arriv'd:
March gently on to meet him.

Caſſi.

Caſſi. Stand, ho.
Bru. Stand, ho, ſpeak the word along.
Stand.
Stand.
Stand.
Caſſi. Moſt Noble Brother: you have done me wrong.
Bru. Judge me, you Gods; wrong I mine Enemies?
And if not ſo, how ſhould I wrong a Brother?
Caſſi. Brutus, this ſober form of yours, hides wrongs,
And when you do them ——
Bru. Caſſius, be content,
Speak your griefs ſoftly, I do know you well.
Before the Eyes of both our Armies here
(Which ſhould perceive nothing but Love from us)
Let us not wrangle. Bid them move away:
Then in my Tent Caſſius enlarge your Griefs,
And I will give you Audience.
Caſſi. Pindarus,
Bid our Commanders lead their Charges off
A little from this ground.
Bru. Lucilius, do you the like, and let no man
Come to our Tent, till we have done our Conference.
Let Lucius and Titinius guard our Door. [Exeunt.
Manent Brutus and Caſſius.
Caſſi. That you have wrong'd me, doth appear in this
You have condemn'd, and noted Lucius Pella
For taking Bribes here of the Sardians;
Wherein my Letter, praying on his ſide,
Becauſe I knew the man, was ſlighted off.
Bru. You wrong'd your ſelf to write in ſuch a caſe.
Caſſi. In ſuch a time as this, it is not meet,
That every nice offence ſhould bear his Comment.
Bru. Let me tell you, Caſſius, you your ſelf,
Are much condemn'd to have an itching Palm,
To ſell, and Mart your Offices for Gold
To Undeſervers.
Caſſi. I, an itching Palm?
You know that you are Brutus that ſpeaks this,
Or by the Gods, this ſpeech were elſe your laſt.
Bru. The name of Caſſius honours this Corruption,
And Chaſtiſement doth therefore hide his head.
Caſſi. Chaſtiſement?
Bru. Remember March, the Ides of March remember:
Did not great Julius bleed for Juſtice ſake?
What Villain touch'd his Body, that did ſtab,
And not for Juſtice? What, ſhall one of Us,
That ſtruck the Formoſt man of all this World,
But for ſupporting Robbers: ſhall we now
Contaminate our Fingers with baſe Bribes?
And ſell the mighty ſpace of our large Honours
For ſo much traſh, as may be graſped thus?
I had rather be a Dog, and bait the Moon,
Than ſuch a Roman.
Caſſi. Brutus, bait not me,
I'll not endure it: you forget your ſelf,
To hedge me in, I am a Souldier, I,
Older in practice, abler than your ſelf
To make Conditions.
Bru. Go to: you are not Caſſius.
Caſſi. I am.
Bru. I ſay, you are not.
Caſſi. Urge me no more, I ſhall forget my ſelf:
Have mind upon your health: Tempt me no farther.
Bru. Away, ſlight man.
Caſſi. Is't poſſible?
Bru. Hear me, for I will ſpeak.
Muſt I give way, and room to your raſh Choler?
Shall I be frighted, when a mad man ſtares?
Caſſi. O ye Gods, ye Gods, muſt I endure all this?
Bru. All this? I more. Fret till your proud heart break,
Go ſhew your Slaves how Cholerick you are,
And make your Bondmen tremble. Muſt I budge?
Muſt I obſerve you? Muſt I ſtand and crouch
Under your teſty humour? By the Gods
You ſhall digeſt the Venom of your ſpleen
Though it do ſplit you. For from this day forth,
I'll uſe you for my Mirth, yea for my Laughter,
When you are waſpiſh.
Caſſi. Is it come to this?
Bru. You ſay, you are a better Souldier:
Let it appear ſo; make your vaunting true,
And it ſhall pleaſe me well. For mine own part,
I ſhall be glad to learn of Noble men.
Caſſi. You wrong me every way:
You wrong me, Brutus:
I ſaid, an Elder Souldier, not a Better.
Did I ſay Better?
Bru If you did, I care not.
Caſſi. When Cæſar liv'd, he durſt not thus have mov'd me.
Bru. Peace, peace, you durſt not ſo have tempted him.
Caſſi. I durſt not.
Bru. No.
Caſſi. What? durſt not tempt him?
Bru. For your life you durſt not?
Caſſi. Do not preſume too much upon my love,
I may do that I ſhall be ſorry for.
Bru. You have done that you ſhould be ſorry for.
There is no terror, Caſſius, in your threats.
For I am arm'd ſo ſtrong in honeſty,
That they paſs by me, as the idle wind,
Which I reſpect not. I did ſend to you
For certain ſums of Gold, which you deny'd me,
For I can raiſe no money by vile means:
By Heaven, I had rather coin my heart,
And drop my blood for Drachmaes, than to wring
From the hard hands of Peazants, their vile traſh
By any indirection. I did ſend
To you for Gold to pay my Legions,
Which you deny'd me: was that done like Caſſius?
Should I have anſwer'd Caius Caſſius ſo?
When Marcus Brutus grows ſo covetous,
To lock ſuch Raſcal Counters from his Friends,
Be ready gods with all your Thunder-bolts,
Daſh him to pieces.
Caſſi. I deny'd you not.
Bru. You did.
Caſſi. I did not. He was but a Fool
That brought my anſwer back. Brutus hath riv'd my heart,
A Friend ſhould bear his Friends infirmities,
But Brutus makes mine greater than they are.
Bru. I do not till you practiſe them on me.
Caſſi. You love me not.
Bru. I do not like your faults.
Caſſi. A Friendly Eye could never ſee ſuch faults.
Bru. A Flatterers would not, though they do appear
As huge as high Olympus.
Caſſi. Come, Antony, and young Octavius come,
Revenge your ſelves alone on Caſſius,
For Caſſius is a weary of the World:
Hated by one he loves, brav'd by his Brother,
Check'd like a Bondman, all his faults obſerv'd,
Set in a Note-Book, learn'd, and con'd by roat
To caſt into my Teeth. O I could weep
My Spirit from mine Eyes: There is my Dagger,
And here my naked Breaſt: Within a heart
Dearer than Pluto's Mine: Richer than Gold:
If that thou beeſt a Roman, take it forth.
I that deny'd thee Gold, will give my Heart:
Strike as thou didſt at Cæſar, for I know,
When thou didſt hate him worſt, thou lovedſt him better
Than ever thou lovedſt Caſſius.
Bru. Sheath your Dagger:
Be angry when you will, it ſhall have ſcope,
Do what you will, diſhonour ſhall be humour.
O, Caſſius, you are yoaked with a Lamb
That carries anger, as the Flint bears fire,
Who much inforced, ſhews a haſty ſpark,

And

And ſtraight is cold again.
Caſſi. Hath Caſſius liv'd
To be but Mirth and Laughter to his Brutus,
When grief and blood ill temper'd, vexeth him?
Bru. When I ſpoke that, I was ill-temper'd too.
Caſſi. Do you confeſs ſo much? Give me your hand.
Bru. And my heart too.
Caſſi. O Brutus!
Bru. What's the matter?
Caſſi. Have not you love enough to bear with me,
When that raſh humour which my Mother gave me
Makes me forgetful?
Bru. Yes, Caſſius, and from henceforth
When you are over-earneſt with your Brutus,
Hee'll think your Mother chides, and leave you ſo.

Enter a Poet.

Po. Let me go in to ſee the Generals,
There is ſome grudge between 'em, 'tis not meet
They be alone.
Luci. You ſhall not come to them.
Poet. Nothing but Death ſhall ſtay me.
Caſſi. How now? What's the matter?
Poet. For ſhame you Generals? what do you mean?
Love, and be Friends, as two ſuch men ſhould be,
For I have ſeen more years I'm ſure than ye.
Caſſi. Ha, ha, how vilely doth this Cynick rhime:
Bru. Get you hence, Sirrah: Sawcy fellow, hence.
Caſſi. Bear with him, Brutus, 'tis his faſhion.
Bru. I'll know his humour, when he knows his time:
What ſhould the Wars do with theſe jigging Fools?
Companion, hence.
Caſſi. Away, away, be gone. [Exit Poet.
Brut. Lucilius and Titinius, bid the Commanders
Prepare to lodge their Companies to Night.
Caſſi. And come your ſelves, and bring Meſſala with you
Immediately to us.
Bru. Lucius, a Bowl of Wine.
Caſſi. I did not think you could have been ſo angry.
Bru. O Caſſius, I am ſick of many griefs.
Caſſi. Of your Philoſophy you make no uſe,
If you give place to accidental evils.
Brut. No man bears ſorrow better. Portia is dead.
Caſſi. Ha! Portia?
Bru. She is dead.
Caſſi. How ſcap'd I killing, when I croſt you ſo?
O inſupportable, and touching loſs!
Upon what ſickneſs?
Bru. Impatient of my abſence:
And grief, that young Octavius with Mark Antony,
Have made themſelves ſo ſtrong: For with her Death
That tydings came. With this ſhe fell diſtract,
And (her Attendants abſent) ſwallow'd fire.
Caſſi. And dy'd ſo?
Bru. Even ſo.
Caſſi. O ye immortal Gods!

Enter Boy with Wine and Tapers.

Bru. Speak no more of her: Give me a Bowl of Wine.
In this I bury all unkindneſs, Caſſius [Drinks.
Caſſi. My heart is thirſty for that Noble pledge,
Fill, Lucius, till the Wine o're ſwell the Cup:
I cannot drink too much of Brutus's love.

Enter Titinius, and Meſſala.

Bru. Come in, Titinius:
Welcome, good Meſſala:
Now ſit we cloſe about this Taper here,
And call in queſtion our neceſſities.
Caſſi. Portia, art thou gone?
Bru. No more, I pray you.
Meſſala, I have here received Letters,
That young Octavius, and Mark Antony,
Come down upon us with a mighty power,
Bending their expedition toward Philippi.
Meſſ. My ſelf have Letters of the ſelf ſame tenure.
Bru. With what Addition.
Meſſ. That by proſcription, and Bills of Outlawry,
Octavius, Antony, and Lepidus,
Have put to Death an hundred Senators.
Bru. Therein our Letters do not well agree:
Mine ſpeak of ſeventy Senators, that dy'd
By their proſcriptions, Cicero being one.
Caſſi. Cicero one?
Meſſ. Cicero is dead, and by that order of proſcription.
Had you your Letters from your Wife, my Lord?
Brut. No, Meſſala.
Meſſ. Nor nothing in your Letters writ of her?
Bru. Nothing, Meſſala.
Meſſ. That methinks is ſtrange.
Bru. Why ask you?
Hear you ought of her, in yours?
Meſſ. No, my Lord.
Bru. Now, as you are a Roman, tell me true.
Meſſ. Then like a Roman, bear the truth I tell,
For certain ſhe is dead, and by ſtrange manner.
Bru. Why, farewel, Portia: we muſt die, Meſſala,
With meditating that ſhe muſt die once,
I have the patience to endure it now.
Meſſ. Even ſo great men, great loſſes ſhould endure.
Caſſi. I have as much of this in Art as you,
But yet my Nature could not bear it ſo.
Bru. Well, to our work alive. What do you think
Of marching to Philippi preſently.
Caſſi. I do not think it good.
Bru. Your reaſon?
Caſſi. This it is:
'Tis better that the Enemy ſeek us,
So ſhall he waſte his means, weary his Souldiers,
Doing himſelf offence, whilſt we lying ſtill,
Are full of reſt, defence, and nimbleneſs.
Bru. Good reaſons muſt of force give place to better:
The people 'twixt Philippi, and this ground
Do ſtand but in a forc'd affection:
For they have grudg'd us Contribution.
The Enemy, marching along by them,
By them ſhall make a fuller number up,
Come on refreſht, new added, and encourag'd;
From which advantage ſhall we cut him off.
If at Philippi we do face him there,
These [illegible] our back.
Caſſi. [illegible]me, good Brother.
Bru. Under your Pardon. You muſt note beſide,
That we have try'd the utmoſt of our Friends:
Our Legions are brim full, our cauſe is ripe,
The Enemy encreaſeth every day,
We at the height, are ready to decline,
There is a Tide in the affairs of men,
Which taken at the Flood, leads on to Fortune:
Omitted, all the Voyage of their Life,
Is bound in Shallows, and in Miſeries.
On ſuch a full Sea, are we now a-float,
And we muſt take the current when it ſerves,
Or looſe our ventures.
Caſſi. Then with your will go on: we'll along
Our ſelves, and meet them at Philippi.
Bru. The deep of night is crept upon our talk,
And Nature muſt obey Neceſſity,
Which we will niggard with a little reſt:
There is no more to ſay.
Caſſi. No more, good night,
Early to Morrow will we riſe, and hence.

Enter

Enter Lucius.

Bru. Lucius, my Gown: farewel, good Messala,
Good Night, Titinius: Noble, Noble Cassius,
Good Night, and good repose.
Cassi. O my dear Brother:
This was an ill beginning of the night:
Never come such division 'tween our Souls:
Let it not, Brutus.

Enter Lucius with the Gown.

Bru. Every thing is well.
Cassi. Good Night, my Lord.
Bru. Good Night, good Brother.
Tit. Messa. Good Night, Lord Brutus.
Bru. Farewel, every one. [Exeunt.
Give me the Gown. Where is thy Instrument?
Luc. Here in the Tent.
Bru. What, thou speakest drowsily?
Poor Knave, I blame thee, thou art o're-watch'd.
Call Claudio, and some other of my men,
I'll have them sleep on Cushions in my Tent.
Luc. Varrus and Claudio.

Enter Varrus and Claudio.

Var. Calls my Lord?
Bru. I pray you, Sirs, lie in my Tent, and sleep,
It may be I shall raise you by and by
On business to my Brother Cassius.
Var. So please you, we will stand,
And watch your pleasure.
Bru. I will not have it so: lie down, good Sirs,
It may be I shall otherwise bethink me.
Look Lucius, here's the Book I sought for so:
I put it in the Pocket of my Gown.
Luc. I was sure your Lordship did not give it me.
Bru. Bear with me, good Boy, I am much forgetful.
Canst thou hold up thy instrument a strain or two.
And touch thy heavy Eyes a while.
Luc. I, my Lord, an't please you.
Bru. It does, my Boy;
I trouble thee too much, but thou art willing.
Luc. It is my duty, Sir.
Bru. I should not urge thy duty past thy might,
I know young bloods look for a time of rest.
Luc. I have slept, my Lord, already.
Bru. It was well done, and thou shalt sleep again:
I will not hold thee long. If I do live,
I will be good to thee.

Musick and a Song.

This is a sleepy Tune: O murderous slumber!
Layest thou thy Leaden Mace upon my Boy,
That plays thee Musick? Gentle Knave, good night:
I will not do thee so much wrong to wake thee:
If thou dost nod, thou break'st thy Instrument,
I'll take it from thee, and (good Boy) good night.
Let me see, let me see? is not the Leaf turn'd down
Where I left reading? Here it is, I think.

Enter the Ghost of Cæsar.

How ill this Taper burns. Ha! Who comes here?
I think it is the weakness of mine Eyes
That shapes this monstrous Apparition.
It comes upon me: Art thou any thing?
Art thou some God, some Angel, or some Devil,
That mak'st my blood cold, and my hair to stare?
Speak to me, what thou art.
Ghost. Thy evil Spirit, Brutus.
Bru. Why com'st thou?
Ghost. To tell thee thou shalt see me at Philippi.
Brut. Well: then I shall see thee again?
Ghost. I, at Philippi.
Bru. Why, I will see thee at Philippi then:
Now I have taken heart, thou vanishest.
Ill Spirit, I would hold more talk with thee.
Boy, Lucius, Varrus, Claudio, Sirs: awake:
Claudio.
Luci. The strings, my Lord, are false.
Bru. He thinks he is still at his Instrument.
Lucius, awake.
Luci. My Lord.
Bru. Didst thou dream, Lucius, that thou so cryedst out?
Luc. My Lord, I do not know that I did cry.
Bru. Yes, that thou didst; Didst thou see any thing?
Luc. Nothing, my Lord.
Bru. Sleep again, Lucius: Sirrah, Claudio, Fellow,
Thou, awake.
Var. My Lord.
Clau. My Lord.
Bru. Why did you so cry out, Sirs, in your Sleep?
Both. Did we, my Lord?
Bru. I: saw you any thing?
Var. No, my Lord, I saw nothing.
Clau. Nor I, my Lord.
Bru. Go, and commend me to my Brother Cassius:
Bid him set on his powers betimes before,
And we will follow.
Both. It shall be done, my Lord. [Exeunt.

Actus Quintus.

Enter Octavius, Antony, and their Army.

Octa. NOW, Antony, our hopes are answered,
You said the Enemy would not come down,
But keep the Hills and upper Regions:
It proves not so: their Battels are at hand,
They mean to warn us at Philippi here:
Answering before we do demand of them.
Ant. Tut I am in their bosoms, and I know
Wherefore they do it: They could be content
To visit other places, and come down
With fearful bravery: thinking by this face
To fasten in our thoughts that they have Courage:
But 'tis not so.

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. Prepare you Generals,
The Enemy comes on in gallant shew:
Their bloudy sign of Battel is hung out,
And something to be done immediately.
Ant. Octavius, lead your Battel softly on
Upon the left hand of the evil Field.
Octa. Upon the right hand I, keep thou the left.
Ant. Why do you cross me in this exigent?
Octa. I do not cross you: but I will do so. [March.

Drum. Enter Brutus, Cassius, and their Army.

Bru. They stand, and would have parley.
Cassi. Stand fast, Titinius, we must out and talk.
Octa. Mark Antony, shall we give sign of Battel?
Ant. No, Cæsar, we will answer on their Charge.
Make forth, the Generals would have some words.
Octa. Stir not until the Signal.
Bru. Words before blows: is it so, Country-men?

Octa.

Octa. Not that we love words better, as you do.
Bru. Good words are better than bad ſtrokes, Octavius.
Ant. In your bad ſtrokes, Brutus, you give good words,
Witneſs the hole you made in Cæſars heart,
Crying, long live, hail Cæſar.
Caſſi. Antony,
The poſture of your blows are yet unknown;
But for your words, they rob the Hibla Bees,
And leave them Honey-leſs.
Ant. Not ſtingleſs too.
Bru. O yes, and ſoundleſs too:
For you have ſtoln their buzzing, Antony,
And very wiſely threat before you ſting.
Ant. Villains: you did not ſo, when your vile Daggers
Hack one another in the ſides of Cæſar:
You ſhew'd your teeth like Apes,
And fawn'd like Hounds,
And bow'd like Bondmen, kiſſing Cæſar's feet:
Whilſt damned Caska, like a Cur, behind
Struck Cæſar on the neck. O you flatterers!
Caſſi. Flatterers? Now Brutus thank your ſelf:
This tongue had not offended ſo to day,
If Caſſius might have rul'd.
Octa. Come, come, the cauſe. If arguing make us ſwet,
The proof of it will turn to redder drops:
Look, I draw a Sword againſt Conſpirators,
When think you that the Sword goes up again?
Never till Cæſar's three and thirty wounds
Be well aveng'd; or till another Cæſar
Have added Slaughter to the Sword of Traytors.
Bru. Cæſar, Thou canſt not die by Traytors hands,
Unleſs thou bringſt them with thee.
Octa. So I hope:
I was not born to die on Brutus Sword.
Bru. O if thou wert the Nobleſt of thy Strain,
Young-man, thou couldſt not die more honourable.
Caſſi. A peeviſh School-Boy, worthies of ſuch honour
Join'd with a Maſker and a Reveller.
Ant. Old Caſſius ſtill.
Octa. Come, Antony: away:
Defiance, Traytors, hurle we in your teeth.
If you dare fight to day, come to the field:
If not, when you have ſtomachs.
[Exit Octavius, Antony, and Army.
Caſſi. Why now blow wind, ſwell billow,
And ſwim Bark:
The Storm is up, and all is on the hazard.
Bru. Ho, Lucilius, hark, a word with you.
Lucillius, and Meſſala ſtand forth.
Luc. My Lord.
Caſ. Meſſala.
Meſſa. What ſayes my General?
Caſ Meſſala, this is my Birth-Day: as this very day
Was Caſſius born. Give me thy hand, Meſſala:
Be thou my witneſs, that againſt my will,
(As Pompey was) am I compell'd to ſet
Upon one Battel all our Liberties.
You know that I held Epicurus ſtrong,
And his opinion: Now I change my mind,
And partly credit things that do preſage.
Coming from Sardis, on our former Enſign,
Two mighty Eagles fell, and there they pearch'd,
Gorging and feeding from our Souldiers hands,
Who to Philippi here conſorted us:
This Morning are they fled away, and gone,
And in their ſteads, do Ravens, Crows and Kites,
Fly o're our heads, and downward look on us
As we were ſickly prey; their ſhadows ſeem
A Canopy moſt fatal, under which
Our Army lies, ready to give up the Ghoſt.
Meſſa. Believe not ſo.
Caſſi. I but believe it partly,
For I am freſh of ſpirit, and reſolv'd
To meet all peril, very conſtantly.
Bru. Even ſo, Lucilius.
Caſſi. Now moſt Noble Brutus,
The gods to day ſtand friendly, that we may
Lovers in peace, lead on our days to age.
But ſince the affairs of men reſts ſtill incertain,
Lets reaſon with the worſt that may befal.
If we do loſe this Battel, then is this
The very laſt time we ſhall ſpeak together:
What are you then determined to do?
Bru. Even by the rule of that Philoſophy,
By which I did blame Cato, for the death
Which he did give himſelf, I know not how:
But I do find it Cowardly, and vile,
For fear of what might fall, ſo to prevent
The time of life, arming my ſelf with patience,
To ſtay the providence of ſome high Powers,
That govern us below.
Caſſi. Then if we loſe this Battel,
You are contented to be led in triumph
Through the ſtreets of Rome.
Bru. No, Caſſius, no:
Think not thou, Noble Roman,
That ever Brutus will go bound to Rome,
He bears too great a mind, But this ſame day
Muſt end that work, that Ides of March begun.
And whether we ſhall meet again, I know not:
Therefore our everlaſting farewel take:
For ever, and for ever, farewel, Caſſius,
If we do meet again, why, we ſhall ſmile:
If not, why then this parting was well made.
Caſſi. For ever, and for ever, farewel, Brutus:
If we do meet again, wee'l ſmile indeed;
If not, 'tis true, this parting was well made.
Bru. Why then lead on. O that a man might know
The end of this days buſineſs, ere it come:
But it ſufficeth, that the day will end,
And then the end is known. Come ho, away. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter Brutus and Meſſala.

Bru. Ride, ride, Meſſala, ride and give theſe Bills
Unto the Legions, on the other ſide.
[Loud Alarum.
Let them ſet on at once: for I perceive
But cold demeanour in Octavio's Wing:
And ſudden puſh gives them the overthrow:
Ride, ride, Meſſala, let them all come down. [Exeunt.

Alarums. Enter Caſſius and Titinius.

Caſſi. O look, Titinius, look, the Villains fly:
My ſelf have to mine own turn'd Enemy:
This Enſign here of mine was turning back,
I ſlew the Coward, and did take it from him.
Titin. O Caſſius, Brutus gave the word too early,
Who having ſome advantage on Octavius
Took it too eagerly: his Souldiers fell to ſpoil,
Whilſt we by Antony are all incloſ'd.

Enter Pindarus.

Pind. Fly further off my Lord: fly further off,
Mark Antony is in your Tents, my Lord:
Fly therefore, Noble Caſſius, fly far off.
Caſſi. This Hill is far enough. Look, look, Titinius,
Are thoſe my Tents where I perceive the fire?
Tit. They are, my Lord.
Caſſi. Titinius, if thou loveſt me,
Mount thou my Horſe, and hide thy Spurs in him,
Till he have brought thee up to yonder Troops,
And here again, that I may reſt aſſur'd
Whether yond Troops are Friend or Enemy.
Tit. I will be here again, even with a thought. [Exit.
Caſſi. Go, Pindarus, get thither on that Hill,

My ſight was ever thick: regard, Titinius,
And tell me what thou not'ſt about the field.
This day I breath'd firſt, time is come round,
And where I did begin, there ſhall I end,
My life is run his compaſs. Sirrah, What news?
Pind. Above. O, my Lord.
Caſſi. What news?
Pind. Titinius is encloſed round about
With Horſemen, that make to him on the Spur,
Yet he ſpurs on. Now they are almoſt on him:
Now Titinius, Now ſome light: O he lights too.
He's tane. [Shout.
And hark, they ſhout for joy.
Caſſi. Come down, behold no more:
O Coward, that I am, to live ſo long,
To ſee my beſt Friend tane before my Face!

Enter Pindarus.

Come hither Sirrah; In Parthia did I take thee Priſoner,
And then I ſwore thee, ſaving of thy life,
That whatſoever I did bid thee do,
Thou ſhouldſt attempt it. Come now, keep thine Oath,
Now be a Freeman, and with this good Sword
That ran through Cæſars Bowels, ſearch this Boſom.
Stand not to Anſwer: Here, take thou the Hilts,
And when my face is cover'd, as 'tis now,
Guide thou the Sword — Cæſar thou art reveng'd,
Even with the Sword that kill'd thee. [Kills him.
Pin. So, I am free,
Yet would not ſo have been,
Durſt I have done my will. O Caſſius,
Far from this Country Pindarus ſhall run,
Where never Roman ſhall take note of him.

Enter Titinius, and Meſſala.

Meſſa. It is but change, Titinius: for Octavius
Is overthrown by Noble Brutus power,
As Caſſius Legions are by Antony.
Titin. Theſe tidings will well comfort Caſſius.
Meſſa. Where did you leave him?
Titin. All diſconſolate,
With Pindarus his Bondman, on this Hill.
Meſſa. Is not that he that lies upon the ground?
Titi. He lies not like the Living. O my heart!
Meſſa. Is not that he?
Titin. No, this was he, Meſſala,
But Caſſius is no more. O ſetting Sun:
As in thy red Rayes thou doſt ſink to night;
So in his red blood Caſſius day it ſet.
The Son of Rome is ſet. Our day is gone,
Clouds, Dews, and Dangers come; our deeds are done:
Miſtruſt of my ſucceſs hath done this deed.
Meſſa. Miſtruſt of good ſucceſs hath done this deed.
O hateful Error, Melancholies Child:
Why doſt thou ſhew to the apt thoughts of men,
The things that are not? O Error ſoon conceiv'd,
Thou never com'ſt unto a happy Birth,
But kill'ſt the Mother that engendred thee.
Tit. What Pindarus? Where art thou, Pindarus?
Meſſa. Seek him, Titinius: whilſt I go to meet
The Noble Brutus, thruſting this report
Into his Ears; I may ſay, thruſting it:
For piercing Steel, and Darts invenomed
Shall be as welcome to the Ears of Brutus,
As tydings of this ſight.
Tit. Hye you, Meſſala,
And I will ſeek for Pindarus the while:
Why didſt thou ſend me forth, brave Caſſius?
Did I not meet thy Friends, and did not they
Put on my brows this wreath of Victory,
And bid me give it thee? Didſt thou not hear their ſhouts?
Alas, thou haſt miſconſtrued every thing.
But hold thee, take this Garland on thy Brow,
Thy Brutus bid me give it thee, and I
Will do his bidding. Brutus, come apace,
And ſee how I regarded Caius Caſſius:
By your leave, gods: This is a Romans part,
Come Caſſius Sword, and find Titinius heart. [Dies.

Alarum. Enter Brutus, Meſſala, young Cato,
Strato, Volumnius, and Lucillius.

Bru. Where, where, Meſſala, doth his Body lie?
Meſſa. Lo yonder, and Titinius mourning it.
Bru. Titinius face is upward.
Cato. He is ſlain.
Bru. O Julius Cæſar, thou art mighty yet,
Thy Spirit walks abroad, and turns our Swords
In our own proper Entrails. [Low Alarums.
Cato. Brave Titinius,
Look where he have not Crown'd dead Caſſius.
Bru. Are yet two Romans living ſuch as theſe?
The laſt of all the Romans, fare thee well:
It is impoſſible that ever Rome
Should breed thy Fellow: Friends I owe moe tears
To this dead man, than you ſhall ſee me pay.
I ſhall find time, Caſſius: I ſhall find time.
Come therefore, and to Tharſus ſend his body,
His Funerals ſhall not be in our Camp,
Leſt it diſcomfort us. Lucillius come,
And come, young Cato, let us to the Field,
Labio and Flavius, ſet our Battels on:
'Tis three a Clock, and Romans yet ere night,
We ſhall try Fortune in a ſecond fight. [Exeunt.

Alarum. Enter Brutus, Meſſala, Cato, Lucillius, and Flavius.

Bru. Yet Countrymen: O yet, hold up your heads.
Cato. What Baſtard doth not? who will go with me?
I will proclaim my name about the field.
I am the Son of Marcus Cato, ho.
A Foe to Tyrants, and my Countreys Friend.
I am the Son of Marcus Cato, ho.
Enter Souldiers and fight.
And I am Brutus, Marcus Brutus, I.
Brutus my Countries Friend: know me for Brutus.
Luc. O young and Noble Cato, art thou down?
Why now thou dyeſt, as bravely as Titinius,
And may'ſt be honour'd being Cato's Son.
Sould Yield, or thou dyeſt.
Luc. Only I yield to die:
There is ſo much, that thou wilt kill me ſtraight:
Kill Brutus, and be honour'd in his Death.
Sould. We muſt not: a Noble Priſoner.

Enter Antony.

2. Sould. Room ho: tell Antony, Brutus is tane.
1. Sould. I'll tell thee news, here comes the General,
Brutus is tane, Brutus is tane, my Lord.
Ant. Where is he?
Luc. Safe Antony, Brutus is ſafe enough:
I dare aſſure thee, that no Enemy
Shall ever take alive the Noble Brutus:
The gods defend him from ſo great a ſhame,
When you do find him or alive, or dead,
He will be found like Brutus, like himſelf.
Ant. This is not Brutus, Friend, but I aſſure you,
A prize no leſs in worth: keep this man ſafe,
Give him all kindneſs. I had rather have Such men my Friends, than Enemies. Go on,
And ſee where Brutus be alive or dead,
And bring us unto Octavius Tent,
How every thing is chanc'd. [Exeunt.

Enter

Enter Brutus, Dardanius, Clitus, Strato, and Volumnius.

Bru. Come, poor remains of Friends, rest on this Rock.
Cit. Statillius shew'd the Torch-light, but, my Lord,
He came not back, he is, or tane, or slain.
Bru. Sit thee down, Clitus: slaying is the word,
It is a deed in fashion. Hark thee, Clitus.
Clit. What I, my Lord? No, not for all the World.
Bru. Peace then, no words.
Clit. I'll rather kill my self.
Bru. Hark thee, Dardanius.
Dard. Shall I do such a Deed?
Clit. O Dardanius.
Dar. O Clitus.
Clit. What ill request did Brutus make to thee?
Dar. To kill him, Clitus: look he meditates.
Clit. Now is that Noble Vessel full of grief,
That it runs over even at his Eyes.
Bru. Come hither, good Volumnius, list a word.
Volum. What says, my Lord?
Bru. Why this, Volumnius:
The Ghost of Cæsar hath appear'd to me
Two several times by night: at Sardis, once;
And this last night, here in Philippi-fields:
I know my hour is come.
Volum. Not so, my Lord.
Bru. Nay, I am sure it is, Volumnius.
Thou seest the World, Volumnius, how it goes,
Our Enemies have beat us to the Pit: [Low Alarum.
It is more worthy, to leap in our selves,
Than tarry till they push us. Good Volumnius,
Thou knowest that we two went to School together:
Even for that our love of old, I prethee
Hold thou my Swords Hilt, while I run on it.
Vol. That's not an office for a Friend, my Lord.
[Alarum still.
Clit. Fly, fly, my Lord, there is no tarrying here.
Bru. Farewel to you, and you, and you, Volumnius.
Strato, thou hast been all this while asleep:
Farewel to thee, to Strato, Countrymen:
My heart doth joy, that yet all my life,
I found no man, but he was true to me.
I shall have glory by this loosing day,
More than Octavius and Mark Antony,
By this vile Conquest shall attain unto.
So fare you well at once, for Brutus tongue
Hath almost ended his lives History:
Night hangs upon mine Eyes, my Bones would rest,
That have but labour'd, to attain this hour.
Alarum. Cry within. Flie, flie, flie.
Cli. Flie, my Lord, flie.
Bru. Hence: I will follow:
I prethee, Strato, stay thou by thy Lord,
Thou art a Fellow of a good respect:
Thy life hath had some smatch of honour in it.
Hold then my Sword, and turn away thy face,
While I do run upon it. Wilt thou, Strato?
Strat. Give me your hand first. Fare you well, my Lord.
Bru. Farewel, good Strato. — Cæsar, now be still,
I kill'd not thee with half so good a will. [Dies.

Alarum. Retreat. Enter Antony, Octavius, Messala, Lucillius, and the Army.

Octa. What man is that?
Messa. My Masters man. Strato, where is thy Master?
Stra. Free from the Bondage you are in, Messala; —
The Conquerours can but make a fire of him:
For Brutus only overcame himself,
And no man else hath honour by his Death.
Luci. So Brutus should be found. I thank thee, Brutus,
That thou hast prov'd Lucillius saying true.
Octa. All that serv'd Brutus I will entertain them,
Fellow, wilt thou bestow thy time with me?
Stra. I, if Messala will prefer me to you.
Octa. Do so, good Messala.
Messa. How died my Lord, Strato?
Stra. I held the Sword, and he did run on it.
Messa. Octavius, then take him to follow thee,
That did the latest service to my Master.
Ant. This was the Noblest Roman of them all:
All the Conspirators save only he,
Did that they did, in envy of great Cæsar:
He, only in a general honest thought,
And common good to all, made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the Elements
So mixt in him, that Nature might stand up,
And say to all the World; This was a man.
Octa. According to his Vertue, let us use him
With all respect, and rites of Burial.
Within my Tent his Bones to night shall lie,
Most like a Souldier, ordered honourably:
So call the field to rest, and let's away,
To part the glories of this happy day. [Exeunt omnes.

THE TRAGEDY OF MACBETH.

Actus Primus. Scæna Prima.

Thunder and Lightning. Enter three Witches.

1. WHEN ſhall we three meet again?
In Thunder, Lightning, or in Rain?
2. When the Hurly-burly's done,
When the Battel's loſt and won.
3. That will be e're the ſet of Sun.
1. Where the place?
2. Upon the Heath.
3. There to meet with Macbeth.
1. I come, Gray-Malkin.
All. Padocke calls anon: Fair is foul, and foul is fair.
Hover through the fog and filthy air. [Exeunt.

Scæna Secunda.

Alarum within. Enter King, Malcolme, Donalbaine, Lenox, with Attendants, meeting a bleeding Captain.

King. What bloody man is that? He can report,
As ſeemeth by his plight, of the revolt
The neweſt ſtate.
Mal. This is the Serjeant,
Who like a good and hardy Souldier fought
'Gainſt my Captivity: Hail, hail, brave Friend;
Say to the King, the knowledge of the broyl,
As thou didſt leave it.
Cap. Doubtful it ſtood,
As two ſpent Swimmers, that do cling together,
And choak their Art: The mercileſs Macdonnel
(Worthy to be a Rebel, for to that
The multiplying villanies of Nature
Do ſwarm upon him) from the weſtern Iſles
Of Kernes and Gallow glaſſes is ſupply'd,
And Fortune on his damned Quarry ſmiling,
Shew'd like a Rebels whore: But all's too weak:
For brave Macbeth (well he deſerves that name)
Diſdaining Fortune with his brandiſht Steel,
Which ſmoak'd with bloody execution
Like Valours Minion) carv'd out his paſſage,
Till he fac'd the Slave:
Which never ſhook hands, nor bid farewel to him,
Till he unſeam'd him from the Nave to th' Chops,
And fix'd his head upon our Battlements.
King. O valiant Couſin, worthy Gentleman.
Cap. As whence the Sun gins his reflection,
Shipwracking ſtorms and direful Thunders breaking
So from that ſpring, whence comfort ſeem'd to come,
Diſcomfort ſwells: Mark, King of Scotland, mark,
No ſooner Juſtice had with Valour arm'd,
Compell'd theſe skipping Kernes to truſt their heels,
But the Norweyan Lord ſurveying vantage,
With furbuſht arms and new ſupplies of men,
Began a freſh aſſault.
King. Diſmaid not this our Captains, Macbeth and Banquo?
Cap. Yes, as Sparrows Eagles;
Or the Hare the Lion.
If I ſay ſooth, I muſt report they were
As Cannons overcharg'd with double Cracks,
So they doubly redoubled ſtroaks on the Foe:
Except they meant to bathe in reeking Wounds,
Or memorize another Golgotha,
I cannot tell: But I am faint,
My Gaſhes cry for help.
King. So well thy words become thee, as thy wounds,
They ſmack of Honour both: Go, get him Surgeons.

Enter Roſſe and Angus.

Who comes here?
Mal. The worthy Thane of Roſſe.
Len. What haſt looks through his eyes?
So ſhould he look, that ſeems to ſpeak things ſtrange.
Roſſe. God ſave the King,
King. Whence cam'ſt thou, worthy Thane?
Roſſe. From Fife, great King,
Where the Norweyan Banners flout the Sky,
And fan our people cold.
Norway himſelf, with terrible numbers,
Aſſiſted by that moſt diſloyal Traytor,
The Thane of Cawdor, began a diſmal Conflict,
Till that Bellona's Bridegroom, lapt in proof,
Confronted him with ſelf-compariſons,
Point againſt Point, rebellious Arm 'gainſt Arm,
Curbing his laviſh ſpirit: And to conclude,
The victory fell on us.
King. Great happineſs.
Roſſe. That now Sweno, the Norwayes King,
Craves compoſition:
Nor would we deign him burial of his men,
'Till he diſburſed, at Saint Colmes-hill,
Ten thouſand Dollars, to our general uſe.
King. No more that Thane of Cawdor ſhall deceive
Our boſom intereſt: Go, pronounce his preſent death,

And

And with his former Title, great Macbeth.
Roſſe. I'll ſee it done.
King. What he hath loſt, noble Macbeth hath won.
[Exeunt.

Scæna Tertia.

Thunder. Enter the three Witches.

1. Where haſt thou been, Siſter?
2. Killing Swine.
3. Siſter, where thou?
1. A Saylors wife had Cheſtnuts in her Lap,
And mouncht, and mouncht, and mouncht:
Give me, quoth I.
Anoynt thee, Witch, the Rump-fed Ronyon cries.
Her husband's to Aleppo gone, Maſter o'th' Tiger:
But in a ſieve I'll thither ſail,
And like a Rat without a Tail,
I'll do, I'll do, and I'll do.
2. I'll give thee a wind.
1. Th'art kind.
3. And I another.
1. I my ſelf have all the other,
And the very Ports they blow,
All the Quarters that they know.
I'th' Shipman's Card.
I'll drain him dry as Hay:
Sleep ſhall neither night nor day,
Hang upon his Pent-houſe Lid:
He ſhall live a man forbid:
Weary Sev'nights, nine times nine,
Shall he dwindle, peak and pine:
Though his Bark cannot be loſt,
Yet it ſhall be Tempeſt-toſt.
Look what I have.
2. Shew me, ſhew me.
1. Here, I have a Pilot's Thumb,
Wrackt as homeward he did come. [Drum within.
3. A Drum, a Drum:
Macbeth doth come.
All. The weyward Siſters, hand in hand,
Poſters of the Sea and Land.
Thus do go, about, about,
Thrice to thine, and thrice to mine,
And thrice again to make up nine.
Peace, the Charm's wound up.

Enter Macbeth and Banquo.

Macb. So foul and fair a day I have not ſeen.
Banq. How far is't call'd to Soris? what are theſe?
So wither'd, and ſo wild in their attire,
That look not like th' inhabitans o'th' Earth,
And yet are on't? Live you, or are you ought
That man may queſtion? You ſeem to underſtand me,
By each at once her choppy finger laying
Upon her skinny Lips: You ſhould be Women,
And yet your Beards forbid me to interpret
That you are ſo.
Macb. Speak if you can: What are you?
1. All hail, Macbeth, hail to thee, Thane of Glamis.
2. All hail, Macbeth, hail to thee, Thane of Cawdor.
3. All hail, Macbeth, that ſhalt be King hereafter.
Ban. Good Sir, why do you ſtart and ſeem to fear
Things that do ſound ſo fair? I'th' name of Truth,
Are ye fantaſtical, or that indeed
Which outwardly ye ſhew? My noble Partner,
You greet with preſent Grace, and great Prediction
Of Noble having, and of Royal hope,
That he ſeems wrapt withal; to me you ſpeak not.
If you can look into the Seeds of Time,
And ſay, which Grain will grow, and which will not,
Speak then to me, who neither beg, nor fear
Your favours, nor your hate.
1. Hail.
2. Hail.
3. Hail.
1. Leſſer than Macbeth, and greater.
2. Not ſo happy, yet much happier.
3. Thou ſhalt get Kings, though thou be none:
So all hail, Macbeth and Banquo.
1. Banquo and Macbeth, all hail.
Macb. Stay, you imperfect Speakers, tell me more:
By Sinel's death I know I am Thane of Glamis,
But how of Cawdor? The Thane of Cawdor lives,
A proſperous Gentleman: And to be King,
Stands not within the proſpect of belief,
No more than to be Cawdor. Say from whence
You owe this ſtrange intelligence, or why,
Upon this blaſted heath you ſtop our way
With ſuch Prophetique greeting?
Speak, I charge you. [Witches vaniſh.
Banq. The Earth hath bubbles, as the water has.
And theſe are of them: Whither are they vaniſh'd?
Macb. Into the Air: and what ſeem'd corporal,
Melted, as breath into the wind.
Would they had ſtaid.
Banq. Were ſuch things here, as we do ſpeak about?
Or have we eaten of the inſane Root,
That takes the Reaſon Priſoner?
Macb. Your Children ſhall be Kings.
Banq. You ſhall be King.
Macb. And Thane of Cawdor too: Went it not ſo?
Banq. To th' ſelf-ſame tune, and words: Who's here?

Enter Roſſe and Angus.

Roſſe. The King hath happily receiv'd, Macbeth,
The news of thy Succeſs: and when he reads
Thy perſonal Venture in the Rebels fight,
His wonders and his Praiſes do contend,
Which ſhould be thine or his: Silenc'd with that,
In viewing o're the reſt o'th' ſelf-ſame day,
He finds thee in the ſtout Norweyan Ranks,
Nothing afraid of what thy ſelf didſt make
Strange Images of death, as thick as tale
Can poſt with Poſt, and every one did bear
Thy praiſes in his Kingdoms great defence,
And pour'd them down before him.
Ang. We are ſent,
To give thee, from our Royal Maſter, thanks,
Only to herald thee into his ſight,
Not pay thee.
Roſſe. And for an earneſt of a greater honour,
He bad me, from him, call thee Thane of Cawdor:
In which addition, hail, moſt worthy Thane,
For it is thine.
Banq. What, can the Devil ſpeak true?
Macb. The Thane of Cawdor lives:
Why do you dreſs me in his borrowed Robes?
Ang. Who was the Thane, lives yet,
But under heavy judgment bears that life,
Which he deſerves to loſe.
Whether he was combin'd with thoſe of Norway,
Or elſe did line the Rebel with hidden help,
And vantage; or that with both he labour'd
In his Countreys wrack, I know not:
But Treaſons Capital, confeſs'd, and prov'd,
Have overthrown him.
Macb. Glamis, and Thane of Cawdor:
The greateſt is behind. Thanks for your pains.
Do you not hope your Children ſhall be Kings,
When thoſe that gave the Thane of Cawdor to me,
Promis'd no leſs to them?
Banq. That truſted home,
Might yet enkindle you into the Crown,
Beſides the Thane of Cawdor. But 'tis ſtrange:

And oftentimes, to win us to our harm,
The inſtruments of Darkneſs tell us Truths,
Win us with honeſt trifles, to betray's
In deepeſt conſequence.
Couſins, a word, I pray you.
Macb. Two truths are told,
As happy Prologues to the ſwelling Act
Of the imperial Theam. I thank you, Gentlemen:
This ſupernatural ſolliciting
Cannot be ill; cannot be good.
If ill? Why hath it given me earneſt of ſucceſs,
Commencing in a Truth? I am Thane of Cawdor.
If good? Why do I yield to that ſuggeſtion,
Whoſe horrid Image doth unfix my heir,
And make my ſeated heart knock at my Ribs,
Againſt the uſe of nature? Preſent fears
Are leſs than horrible imaginings:
My thought, whoſe murther yet is but fantaſtical,
Shakes ſo my ſingle ſtate of man.
That function is ſmother'd in ſurmiſe,
And nothing is, but what is not.
Ban. Look how our Partner's rapt.
Macb. If Chance will have me King,
Why Chance may crown me
Without my ſtirr.
Ban. New honours come upon him,
Like our ſtrange Garments, cleave not to their mould,
But with the aid of uſe.
Macb. Come what come may,
Time and the hour runs through the rougheſt day.
Ban. Worthy Macbeth, we ſtay upon your leiſure.
Macb. Give me your favour:
My dull brain was wrought with things forgotten.
Kind Gentlemen, your pains are regiſtred,
Where every day I turn the Leaf,
To read them.
Let us toward the King; think upon
What hath chanc'd: and at more time,
The interim having weigh'd it, let us ſpeak
Our free hearts each to other.
Ban. Very gladly.
Macb. Till then enough:
Come, friends. [Exeunt.

Scæna Quarta.

Flouriſh. Enter King, Lenox, Malcolme, Donalbain, and Attendants.

King. Is execution done on Cawdor?
Are not thoſe in commiſſion yet return'd?
Mal. My Liege, they are not yet come back.
But I have ſpoke with one that ſaw him die:
Who did report, that very frankly he
Confeſs'd his Treaſons, implor'd your Highneſs pardon,
And ſet forth a deep Repentance:
Nothing in his life became him,
Like the leaving it. He dy'd,
As one that had been ſtudied in his death,
To throw away the deareſt thing he ow'd,
As 'twere a careleſs trifle.
King. There's no Art,
To find the minds conſtruction in the face:
He was a Gentleman on whom I built
An abſolute truſt.

Enter Macbeth, Banquo, Roſſe, and Angus.

O worthieſt Couſin,
The ſin of my Ingratitude even now
Was heavy on me. Thou art ſo far before,
That ſwifteſt Wine of Recompence is ſlow:
To overtake thee. Would thou hadſt leſs deſerv'd,
That the Proportion both of thanks and payment,
Might have been mine: Only I have left to ſay,
More is thy due, than more than all can pay.
Macb. The ſervice and the loyalty I owe,
In doing it, paies it ſelf.
Your Highneſs part is to receive our Duties:
And our Duties are to your Throne and State.
Children and Servants; which do but what they ſhould
By doing every thing ſafe toward your love
And honour.
King. Welcome hither:
I have begun to plant thee, and will labour
To make thee full of growing. Noble Banquo,
That haſt no leſs deſerv'd, nor muſt be known,
Nor leſs to have done ſo: Let me enfold thee,
And hold thee to my heart.
Ban. There if I grow,
The Harveſt is your own.
King. My plenteous joys,
Wanton in fulneſs, ſeek to hide themſelves
In drops of Sorrow. Sons, Kinſman, Thanes,
And you, whoſe places are the neareſt, know,
We will eſtabliſh our Eſtate upon
Our eldeſt, Malcolm, whom we name hereafter,
The Prince of Cumberland: Which honour muſt
Not unaccompanied, inveſt him only.
But ſigns of Nobleneſs, like Stars ſhall ſhine
On all Deſervers. From hence to Envernes,
And bind us further to you.
Mal. The reſt is labour, which is not us'd for you:
I'll be my ſelf the Harbenger, and make joyful
The hearing of my wife with your approach:
So humbly take my leave.
King. My worthy Cawdor.
Macb. The Prince of Cumberland: That is a ſtep,
On which I muſt fall down, or elſe o'r leap,
For in my way it lies. Stars hide your fires,
Let not light ſee my black and deep deſires:
The eye wink at the hand: Yet let that be,
Which the eye fears, when it is done to ſee. [Exit.
King. True, worthy Banquo: He is full ſo valiant,
And in his commendations, I am fed:
It is a Banquet to me, let's after him,
Whoſe care is gone before, to bid us welcome:
It is a peerleſs kinſman. [Exeunt.

Scæna Quinta.

Enter Macbeth's wife alone with a Letter.

Lady. They met me in the day of ſucceſs: and I have learn'd by the perfect'ſt report, they have more in them, than mortal knowledge. When I burnt in deſire to queſtion them further, they made themſelves Air. Into which they vaniſh'd. Whiles I ſtood rapt in the wonder of it, came Miſſives from the King, who all hail'd me Thane of Cawdor, by which Title before, theſe weyward Siſters ſaluted me, and referr'd me to the coming on of time, with hail King that ſhalt be. This have I thought good to deliver thee (my deareſt partner of Greatneſs) that thou might'ſt not loſe the dues of rejoycing by being ignorant of what Greatneſs is promis'd thee. Lay it to thy heart, and farewel.
Glamis thou art, and Cawdor, and ſhalt be
What thou art promis'd: Yet I do fear thy Nature,
It is too full o'th' milk of humane kindneſs,
To catch the neareſt way. Thou wouldſt be great,
Art not without ambition: But without
The Illneſs ſhould attend it. What thou would'ſt highly,
That wouldſt thou holily: Would'ſt not play falſe,
And yet would'ſt wrongly win.
Thou'd'ſt have, great Glamis, that which cries,
Thus thou muſt do if thou have it;
And that which rather thou doſt fear to do,

Than

Than wiſheſt ſhould be undone. Hie thee hither,
That I may pour my Spirits in thine ear,
And chaſtiſe with the valour of my tongue
All that thee hinders from the Golden Round,
Which Fate and Metaphyſical aid doth ſeem
To have thee crown'd withal.

Enter Meſſenger.

What is your tidings?
Meſſ. The King comes here to night,
Lady. Thou'rt mad to ſay it,
Is not thy Maſter with him? who, wer't ſo,
Would have inform'd for preparation.
Meſſ. So pleaſe you, it is true: our Thane is coming,
One of my fellows had the ſpeed of him;
Who almoſt dead for breath, had ſcarcely more
Than would make up his Meſſage.
Lady. Give him tending,
He brings great News, [Exit Meſſenger.
The Raven himſelf is hoarſe,
That croaks the fatal entrance of Duncane
Under my Battlements. Come you Spirits.
That tend on mortal thoughts, unſex me here,
And fill me from the Crown to the Toe, top-full
Of direſt Cruelty: make thick my blood,
Stop up the acceſs and paſſage to Remorſe,
That no compunctious viſitings of Nature
Shake my fell purpoſe, nor keep peace between Th'effect, and it. Come to my Womans Breaſts,
And take my Milk for Gall, you murth'ring Miniſters,
Where-ever in your ſightleſs ſubſtances,
You wait on Natures Miſchief. Come, thick Night,
And pall thee in the dunneſt ſmoak of Hell,
That my keen knife ſee not the wound it makes,
Nor Heaven peep through the blanket of the dark,
To cry, hold, hold.

Enter Macbeth.

Great Glamis, worthy Cawdor,
Greater than both, by the all-hail hereafter,
Thy Letters have tranſported me beyond
This ignorant preſent, and I feel now
The future in the inſtant.
Macb. My deareſt Love,
Duncane comes here to Night.
Lady. And when goes hence?
Macb. To morrow, as he purpoſes.
Lady. O never,
Shall Sun that morrow ſee.
Your Face, my Thane, is as a book, where men
May read ſtrange matters to beguile the time.
Look like the time, bear welcome in your eye,
Your hand, your tongue; look like the innocent flower,
But be the Serpent under't. He that's coming,
Muſt be provided for: and you ſhall put
This Nights great buſineſs into my diſpatch,
Which ſhall to all our Nights and Days to come,
Give ſolely Soveraign Sway and Maſterdom.
Macb. We will ſpeak further.
Lady. Only look up clear:
To alter favour ever is to fear:
Leave all the reſt to me. [Exeunt.

Scæna Sexta.

Hoboys, and Torches. Enter King, Malcolm, Donalbain. Banquo, Lenox, Macduffe, Roſſe, Angus, and Attendants.

King. This Caſtle hath a pleaſant ſeat,
The air nimbly and ſweetly recommends it ſelf
Unto our gentle ſenſes.
Banq. This Gueſt of Summer,
The Temple-haunting Barlet does approve,
By his loved Manſonry, that the Heavens breath,
Smells wooingly here: No Jutty frieze,
Buttrice, nor Coigne of Vantage, But this Bird
Hath made this pendant Bed, and procreant Cradle,
Where they muſt breed, and haunt: I have obſerv'd
The air is delicate,

Enter Lady.

King. See, ſee, our honour'd Hoſteſs:
The love that follows us, ſometime is our trouble,
Which ſtill we thank as Love. Herein I teach you,
How you ſhall bid god-eyld us for your pains,
And thank us for your trouble.
Lady. All our ſervice,
In every point twice done, and then done double,
Were poor, and ſingle Buſineſs, to contend
Againſt thoſe honours deep, and broad,
Wherewith your Majeſty loads our houſe:
For thoſe of old, and the late Dignities,
Heap'd up to them, we reſt your Hermits?
King. Where's the Thane of Cawdor?
We courſt him at the heels, and had a purpoſe
To be his Purveyor: But he rides well,
And his great Love (ſharp as his Spur) hath holp him
To his home before us: Fair and Noble Hoſteſs,
We are your gueſt to Night.
Lady. Your Servants ever,
Have theirs, themſelves, and what is theirs in compt,
To make their Audit at your highneſs pleaſure,
Still to return your own.
King. Give me your hand:
Conduct me to mine Hoſt, we love him highly,
And ſhall continue, our Graces towards him.
By your leave, Hoſteſs. [Exeunt.

Scæna Septima.

Hoboys. Torches.
Enter a Sewer, and divers Servants with Diſhes and Service over the Stage. Then enter Macbeth.

Macb. If it were done, when 'tis done, then 'twere well,
It were done quickly: if th'Aſſaſſination
Could trammel up the Conſequence, and catch
With his ſurceaſe, Succeſs: that but this blow
Might be the be all, and the end all. Here,
But here, upon this Bank and School of time.
We'ld jump the life to come. But in theſe Caſes,
We'ſtill have judgment here, that we but teach
Bloody inſtructions, which being taught, return
To plague th'ingredience of our poyſon'd Chalice
To our own lips. He's here in double truſt;
Firſt, as I am his Kinſman, and his Subject,
Strong both againſt the Deed: then, as his Hoſt,
Who ſhould againſt his Murderer ſhut the door,
Not bear the knife my ſelf. Beſides this Duncane
Hath born this Faculty ſo meek: hath been
So clear in his great Office, that his Vertues
Will plead like Angels, Trumpet-tongu'd againſt
The deep damnation of his taking off:
And Pity, like a naked new-born-babe,
Striding the blaſt, or Heavens Cherubin, hors'd
Upon the ſightleſs Curriors of the Air,
Shall blow the horrid deed in every eye,
That tears ſhall drown the Wind. I have no Spur
To prick the ſides of my intent, but only
Vaulting Ambition, which o're-leaps it ſelf,

Enter

Enter Lady.

And falls on th'other.
How now? What News?
La. He has almoſt ſup'd: why have you left the chamber?
Mac. Hath he ask'd for me?
Lady. Know you not, he has?
Mac. We will proceed no further in this Buſineſs:
He hath honour'd me of late, and I have bought
Golden Opinions from all ſorts of People,
Which would be worn now in their neweſt gloſs,
Not caſt aſide ſo ſoon.
Lady. Was the hope drunk,
Wherein you dreſt your ſelf? Hath it ſlept ſince?
And wakes it now to look ſo green and pale?
At what it did ſo freely? From this time,
Such I account thy love. Art thou afraid
To be the ſame in thine own Act, and Valour,
As thou art in deſire? Would'ſt thou have that
Which thou eſteem'ſt the Ornament of Life,
And live a Coward in thine own eſteem?
Letting I dare not, wait upon I would,
Like the poor Cat i'th' Adage.
Macb. Prethee, peace:
I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares no more is none.
Lady. What beaſt was't then,
That made you break this enterprize to me?
When you durſt do it, then you were a man:
And to be more than what you were, you would
Be ſo much more the man. Nor time, nor place
Did then adhere, and yet you would make both:
They have made themſelves, and that their fitneſs now
Do's unmake you. I have given Suck, and know
How tender 'tis to love the Babe that milks me,
I would, while it was ſmiling in my face,
Have pluckt my Nipple from his boneleſs Gumms,
And daſht the Brains out, had I but ſo ſworn
As you have done to this.
Macb. If we ſhould fail?
Lady. We fail?
But ſcrew your courage to the ſticking place,
And we'll not fail: When Ducan is aſleep,
(Whereto the rather ſhall his days hard Journey ſoundly invite him) his two Chamberlains
Will I with Wine and Waſſel, ſo convince,
That memory, the warder of the Brain,
Shall be a Fume, and the Receipt of Reaſon
A Limbeck only, when in ſwiniſh ſleep,
Their drenched Natures lie as in a Death,
What cannot you and I perform upon
Th' unguarded Duncan? What, not put upon
His ſpungy Officers? Who ſhall bear the guilt
Of our great Quell?
Macb. Bring forth Men-Children only:
For thy undaunted Metal ſhould compoſe
Nothing but Males. Will it not be receiv'd,
When we have mark'd with blood thoſe ſleepy two
Of his own Chamber, and us'd their very Daggers,
That they have don't?
Lady. Who dares receive it other,
As we ſhall make our Griefs and Clamour roar,
Upon his Death?
Macb. I am ſetled, and bend up
Each corporal Agent to this terrible Feat,
Away, and mock the time with faireſt ſhow,
Falſe Face muſt hide what the falſe heart doth know.
Exeunt.

Actus Secundus. Scæna Prima.

Enter Banquo, and Fleance, with a Torch before him.

Banq. HOW goes the Night, Boy?
Fleance. The Moon is down: I have not heard the Clock.
Banq. And ſhe goes down at Twelve.
Fleance. I tak't 'tis later, Sir.
Banq. Hold, Take my Sword:
There's Husbandry in Heaven,
Their Candles are all out: Take thee that too.
A heavy Summons lies like lead upon me,
And yet I would not ſleep:
Merciful Powers, reſtrain in me the curſed thoughts
That Nature gives way to in repoſe.

Enter Macbeth, and a Servant with a Torch.

Give me my Sword: Who's there?
Macb. A Friend.
Banq. What, Sir, not yet at reſt? The King's a bed
He hath been in unuſual pleaſure.
And ſent forth a great Largeſs to your Offices.
This Diamond he greets your Wife withal,
By the name of moſt kind Hoſteſs,
And ſhut it up in meaſureleſs content.
Macb. Being unprepar'd,
Our will became the ſervant to defect,
Which elſe ſhould free have wrought.
Banq. All's well.
I dreamt laſt night of the three weyward Siſters:
To you they have ſhew'd ſome truth.
Macb. I think not of them:
Yet when we can intreat an hour to ſerve,
We would ſpend it in ſome words upon that Buſineſs,
If you would grant the time.
Banq. At your kind leiſure.
Macb. If you ſhall cleave to my conſent,
When 'tis, it ſhall make honour for you.
Banq. So I loſe none,
In ſeeking to augment it, but ſtill keep
My boſom franchis'd, and allegiance clear,
I ſhall be counſell'd.
Macb. Good repoſe the while.
Banq. Thanks, Sir: The like to you. [Exit Banquo.
Macb. Go, bid thy Miſtreſs, when my drink is ready,
She ſtrike upon the Bell. Get thee to bed. [Exit.
Is this a dagger which I ſee before me,
The handle toward my hand? Come let me clutch thee:
I have thee not, and yet I ſee thee ſtill;
Art thou not fatal Viſion, ſenſible
To feeling, as to ſight? Or art thou but
A Dagger of the Mind, a falſe Creation,
Proceeding from the heat oppreſſed brain?
I ſee thee yet, in form, as palpable
As this which now I draw.
Thou marſhal'ſt me the way that I was going,
And ſuch an Inſtrument I was to uſe.
Mine eyes are made the fools o'th' other Senſes,
Or elſe worth all the reſt: I ſee thee ſtill,
And on thy blade, and Dudgeon, Gouts of blood,
Which was not ſo before. There's no ſuch thing:
It is the bloody Buſineſs, which informs
Thus to mine eyes. Now o're the one half world
Nature ſeems dead, and wicked Dreams abuſe
The Curtain'd ſleep: Witchcraft celebrates
Pale Hecates Offerings: and wither'd Murther,
Alarum'd by his Sentinel, the Woolf,

Whoſe

Whoſe howl's his watch, thus with his ſtealthy pace,
With Tarquin's raviſhing ſides, towards his deſign
Moves like a Ghoſt. Thou ſour and firm-ſet Earth,
Hear not my ſteps, which they may walk, for fear
Thy very ſtones prate of my where-about,
And take the preſent horrour from the time,
Which now ſuits with it. Whiles I threat, he lives:
Words to the heat of deeds too cold breath gives.

A Bell rings.

I go, and it is done: the Bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncane, for it is a Knell,
That ſummons thee to Heaven, or to Hell. [Exit.

Scæna Secunda.

Enter Lady.

La. That which hath made them drunk, hath made me (bold:
What hath quench'd them, hath given me fire.
Heark, peace: It was the Owl that ſhriek'd,
The fatal Bell-man, which gives the ſtern'ſt good night,
He is about it, the doors are open:
And the ſurfeited Grooms do mock their charge
With Snores. I have drugg'd theire Poſſets,
That Death and Nature do contend about them,
Whether they live or die.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. Who's there? What ho?
Lady. Alack, I am afraid they have awak'd,
And 'tis not done: The attempt, and not the deed,
Confounds us: Hark: I laid their Daggers ready,
He could not miſs 'em. Had he not reſembled
My Father as he ſlept, I had done't.
My Husband?
Macb. I have done the deed:
Didſt not thou hear a noiſe?
Lady. I heard the Owl ſcream, and the Crickets cry.
Did not you ſpeak?
Macb. When?
Lady. Now.
Macb. As I deſcended?
Lady. I.
Macb. Hark, who lies i'th' ſecond Chamber?
Lady. Donalbaine.
Macb. This is a ſorry ſight.
Lady. A fooliſh thought, to ſay a ſorry ſight.
Macb. There's one did laugh in's ſleep,
And one cry'd Murder, that they did wake each other:
I ſtood, and heard them: But they did ſay their Prayers,
And addreſt them again to ſleep.
Lady. There are two lodg'd together.
Macb. One cry'd, God bleſs us, and Amen the other,
As they had ſeen me with theſe Hangmans hands:
Liſtning their fear, I could not ſay Amen,
When they did ſay, God bleſs us.
Lady. Conſider it not ſo deeply.
Macb. But wherefore could not I pronounce Amen?
I had moſt need of bleſſing, and Amen ſtuck in my throat.
Lady. Theſe deeds muſt not be thought
After theſe ways: ſo, it will make us mad.
Macb. Methought I heard a voice cry, ſleep no more:
Macbeth does murder ſleep, the innocent ſleep,
Sleep that knits up the ravell'd Sleeve of Care,
The death of each daies Life, ſore Labours Bath,
Balm of hurt minds, great Natures ſecond Courſe,
Chief Nouriſher in Lifes Feaſt.
Lady. What do you mean?
Macb. Still it cry'd, ſleep no more to all the houſe:
Glamis hath murther'd ſleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall ſleep no more: Macbeth ſhall ſleep no more.
La. Who was it that thus cry'd? Why, worthy Thane,
You do unbend your noble ſtrength, to think
So brain-ſickly of things: Go, get ſome water,
And waſh this filthy witneſs from your Hand,
Why did you bring theſe Daggers from the place?
They muſt lie there: Go, carry them, and ſmear
The ſleepy Grooms with bloud.
Macb. I'll go no more:
I am afraid, to think what I have done:
Look on't again, I dare not.
Lady. Infirm of purpoſe:
Give me the Daggers: The ſleeping and the dead,
Are but as Pictures: 'Tis the Eye of Child-hood,
That fears a painted Devil. If he do bleed,
I'll gild the Faces of the Grooms withal,
For it muſt ſeem their Guilt. [Exit.

Knock within.

Macb. Whence is that Knocking?
How is't with me, when every noiſe appalls me?
What Hands are here? Hah: they pluck out mine eyes.
Will all great Neptune's Ocean waſh this bloud
Clean from my Hand? No: This my Hand will rather
The multitudinous Sear incarnardine,
Making the Green one Red.

Enter Lady.

Lady. My hands are of your colour: But I ſhame
To wear a heart ſo white. [Knock.
I hear a Knocking at the South Entry:
Retire we to our Chamber:
A little Water clears us of this deed,
How eaſie is it then? Your Conſtancy
Hath left you unattended, [Knock.
Heark, more Knocking.
Get on your Night-Gown, leſt occaſion call us,
And ſhew us to be Watchers: Be not loſt
So poorly in your thoughts.
Macb. To know my deed, [Knock.
'Twere beſt not know my ſelf.
Wake Duncane with thy Knocking:
I would thou could'ſt. [Exeunt.

Scæna Tertia.

Enter a Porter.

[Knocking within.

Porter. Here's a knocking indeed: If a man were Porter of Hell Gate, he ſhould have old turning the Key. Knock. Knock, knock, knock. Who's there, i'th' name of Belzebub? Here's a Farmer, that hang'd himſelf on th'expectation of Plenty: Come in time, have Napkins enough about you, here you'll ſweat for't. Knock. Knock, knock, Who's there, in th'other Devils Name? Faith, here's an Equivocator, that could ſwear in both the Scales, againſt either Scale, who committed Treaſon enough for God's ſake, yet could not equivocate to Heaven: Oh come in, Equivocator. Knock. Knock, knock, knock. Who's there? Faith, here's an Engliſh Taylor come hither for ſtealing out of a French Hoſe: Come in, Taylor, here you may roaſt your Gooſe. Knock. Knock, knock, never at quiet! What are you? But this place is too cold for Hell. I'll Devil-Porter it no further: I had thought to have let in ſome of all profeſſions, that go the Primroſe way to th' everlaſting Bonfire. Knock. Anon, anon, I pray you remember the Porter.

Enter Macduff, and Lenox.

Macd. Was it ſo late, Friend, e're you went to bed,
That you do lie ſo late?
Port. Faith, Sir, we were carouſing till the ſecond Cock:
And Drink, Sir, is a great Provoker of three things.

Macd.

Macd. What three things does Drink eſpecially provoke?

Port. Marry, Sir, Noſe-painting, Sleep, and Urine. Letchery, Sir, it provokes, and unprovokes: it Provokes the deſire, but it takes away the performance. Therefore much Drink may be ſaid to be an Equivocator with Lechery: it makes him and it mars him; it ſets him on, and it takes him off; it perſwades him, and diſheartens him; makes him ſtand to, and not ſtand to: in concluſion, equivocates him in a ſleep, and giving him the Lye, leaves him.

Macd. I believe, Drink gave thee the Lye laſt Night.

Port. That it did, Sir, i' the very Throat on me: but I requited him for his Lye, and (I think) being too ſtrong for him, though he took up my Legs ſometime, yet I made a Shift to caſt him.

Enter Macbeth.

Macd. Is thy Maſter ſtirring?
Our knocking has awak'd him: here he comes.

Lenox. Good Morrow, Noble Sir.

Macb. Good Morrow both.

Macd. Is the King ſtirring, worthy Thane?

Macb. Not yet.

Macd. He did command me to call timely on him,
I have almoſt ſlipt the hour.

Macb. I'll bring you to him.

Macd. I know this is a joyful trouble to you:
But yet 'tis one.

Macb. The labour we delight in, Phyſick's pain:
This is the Door.

Macd. I'll make ſo bold to call, for 'tis my limited ſervice. [Exit Macduffe.

Lenox. Goes the King hence to day.

Macb. He does: he did appoint ſo.

Lenox. The Night has been unruly:
Where we lay, our Chimneys were blown down.
And (as they ſay) lamentings heard i' th' Air;
Strange Screems of Death,
And Propheſying, with Accents terrible,
Of dire combuſtions, and confus'd Events,
New hatch'd to th' woful time.
The obſcure Bird clamor'd the live-long Night,
Some ſay, the Earth was feaverous,
And did ſhake.

Macb. 'Twas a rough Night.

Lenox. My young remembrance cannot parallel
A fellow to it.

Enter Macduff.

Macd. O horrour, horrour, horrour!
Tongue nor Heart cannot conceive, nor name thee.

Macb. and Lenox. What's the matter?

Macd. Confuſion now hath made his Maſter-piece:
Moſt ſacrilegious Murther hath broke ope
The Lord's annointed Temple, and ſtole thence
The Life o' th' Building.

Macb. What is't you ſay? the Life?

Lenox. Mean you his Majeſty?

Macb. Approach the Chamber, and deſtroy your ſight
With a new Gorgon. Do not bid me ſpeak:
See, and then ſpeak your ſelves: awake, awake.
[Exeunt Macbeth and Lenox.
Ring the Alarum-Bell: Murther, and Treaſon,
Banquo, and Donalbaine: Malcolme awake,
Shake off this Downy ſleep, Death's counterfeit,
And look on Death it ſelf: up, up, and ſee
The great Doom's Image: Malcolme, Banquo,
As from your Graves riſe up, and walk like Sprights,
To countenance this horror. Ring the Bell.

Bell rings. Enter Lady.

Lady. What's the buſineſs?
That ſuch a hideous Trumpet calls to parley
The ſleepers of the Houſe? ſpeak, ſpeak.

Macd. O gentle Lady,
'Tis not for you to hear what I can ſpeak:
The repetition in a Woman's Ear,
Would murther as it fell.

Enter Banquo.

O Banquo, Banquo, Our Royal Maſter's murther'd.

Lady. Woe, alas:
What, in our Houſe?

Ban. Too cruel, any where.
Dear Duff, I prythee contract thy ſelf,
And ſay, it is not ſo.

Enter Macbeth, Lenox, and Roſſe.

Macb. Had I but dy'd an hour before this chance,
I had liv'd a bleſſed time: for from this inſtant,
There's nothing ſerious in Mortality:
All is but toyes: Renown and Grace is dead,
The Wine of Life is drawn, and the mere Lees
Is left this Vault to brag of.

Enter Malcolme, and Donalbaine.

Donal. What is amiſs?

Macb. You are, and do not know't:
The Spring, the Head, the Fountain of your Bloud
Is ſtopt; the very Source of it is ſtopt.

Macd. Your Royal Father's murther'd.

Mal. Oh, by whom?

Lenox. Thoſe of his Chamber, as it ſeem'd, had don't:
Their Hands and Faces were all badg'd with bloud,
So were their Daggers, which unwip'd, we found
Upon their Pillows: they ſtar'd, and were diſtracted,
No man's life was to be truſted with them.

Macb. O, yet I do repent me of my fury,
That I did kill them.

Macd. Wherefore did you ſo?

Macb. Who can be wiſe, amaz'd, temp'rate, and furious,
Loyal, and Neutral, in a moment? No man:
Th' expedition of my violent Love
Out-run the pauſer, Reaſon. Here lay Duncan,
His ſilver skin, lac'd with his Golden Bloud,
And his gaſh'd Stabs, look'd like a Breach in Nature,
For Ruins waſtful entrance: there the Murtherers,
Steep'd in the Colours of their Trade; their Daggers
Unmannerly breech'd with gore: who could refrain,
That had a heart to love, and in that heart,
Courage, to make's love known?

Lady. Help me hence, ho.

Macd. Look to the Lady.

Mal. Why do we hold our tongues,
That moſt may claim this argument for ours?

Donal. What ſhould be ſpoken here,
Where our Fate hid within an awger-hole,
May ruſh, and ſeize us? Let's away,
Our tears are not yet brew'd.

Mal. Nor our ſtrong Sorrow
Upon the foot of Motion,

Banq. Look to the Lady:
And when we have our naked Frailties hid,
That ſuffer in expoſure; let us meet,
And queſtion this moſt bloudy piece of work,
To know it further. Fears and ſcruples ſhake us:
In the great Hand of God I ſtand, and thence,
Againſt the un-divulg'd pretence I fight
Of treaſonous Malice.

Macd.

Macd. And ſo do I.
All. So all.
Macb. Let's briefly put on manly readineſs,
And meet i' th' Hall together.
All. Wellconten ted. [Exeunt
Malc. What will you do?
Let's not conſort with them:
To ſhew an unfelt Sorrow, is an Office
Which the falſe man do's eaſie.
I'll to England.
Don. To Ireland, I:
Our ſeparated fortune ſhall keep us both the ſafer:
Where we are, ther's Daggers in mens Smiles;
The near in bloud, the nearer bloudy.
Malc. This murtherous ſhaft that's ſhot,
Hath not yet lighted: and our ſafeſt way,
Is to avoid the aim. Therefore to Houſe,
And let us not be dainty of leave-taking,
But ſhift away: there's warrant in that Theft
Which ſteals it ſelf, when there's no mercy left.
[Exeunt.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Roſſe, with an Old man.

Old man. Threeſcore and ten I can remember well,
Within the Volume of which time, I have ſeen
Hours dreadful, and things ſtrange: but this ſore Night
Hath trifled former knowings.
Roſſe. Ha, good Father,
Thou ſeeſt the Heavens, as troubled with man's Act,
Threatens his bloudy Stage: by th' Clock 'tis Day,
And yet dark Night ſtrangles the travelling Lamp:
Is't Night's predominance, or the Day's ſhame,
That Darkneſs do's the face of Earth intomb,
When living Light ſhould kiſs it?
Old man. 'Tis unnatural,
Even like the deed that's done: on Tueſday laſt,
A Faulcon towring in her pride of place,
Was by a Mouſing Owl hawkt at, and kill'd.
Roſſe. And Duncan's Horſes,
(A thing moſt ſtrange, and certain)
Beauteous, and ſwift, the Minions of their Race,
Turn'd wild in nature, broke their ſtalls, flung out,
Contending 'gainſt Obedience, as they would Make War with Mankind.
Old man. 'Tis ſaid, they eat each other.
Roſſe. They did ſo:
To th' amazement of mine Eyes that look'd upon't.

Enter Macduff.

Here comes the good Macduff.
How goes the World, Sir, now?
Macd. Why ſee you not?
Roſſe. Is't known who did this more than bloody deed?
Macd. Thoſe that Macbeth hath ſlain.
Roſſe. Alas the day,
What good could they pretend?
Macd. They were ſuborned,
Malcolm, and Donalbain the King's two Sons
Are ſtoln away and fled, which puts upon them
Suſpicion of the deed.
Roſſe. 'Gainſt Nature ſtill,
Thriftleſs Ambition, that will raven upon
Thine own lives means: then 'tis moſt like,
The Soveraignty will fall upon Macbeth.
Macd. He is already nam'd, and gone to Scone
To be inveſted.
Roſſe. Where is Duncan's Body?
Macd. Carried to Colmekill,
The Sacred Store-houſe of his Predeceſſors,
And Guardian of their Bones.
Roſſe. Will you to Scone?
Macd. No Couſin, I'll to Fife.
Roſſe. Well, I will thither.
Macd. Well may you ſee things well done there: Adieu.
Leſt our old Robes ſit eaſier than our new.
Roſſe. Farewel, Father.
Old.M. God's beniſon go with you, Sir, and with thoſe
That would make good of bad, and Friends of Foes.
[Exeunt omnes.

Actus Tertius. Scæna Prima.

Enter Banquo.

Banq. THou haſt it now, King, Cawdor, Glamis, all,
As the weyward Woman promis'd, and I fear
Thou playd'ſt moſt foully for't: yet it was ſaid
It ſhould not ſtand in thy Poſterity,
But that my ſelf ſhould be the Root, and Father
Of many Kings. If there come truth from them,
As upon thee, Macbeth, their Speeches ſhine,
Why by the verities on thee made good,
May they not be my Oracles as well,
And ſet me up in hope? But huſh, no more.

Senit ſounded. Enter Macbeth as King, Lady Lenox, Roſſe, Lords, and Attendants.

Macb. Here's our chief Gueſt.
La. If he had been forgotten,
It had been as a gap in our great Feaſt,
And all things unbecoming.
Macb. To night we hold a ſolemn Supper, Sir,
And I'll requeſt your preſence.
Banq. Let your Highneſs
Command upon me, to the which my duties
Are with a moſt indiſſoluble tye
For ever knit.
Macb. Ride you this Afternoon?
Banq. I, my good Lord.
Macb. We ſhould have elſe deſir'd your good advice,
(Which ſtill hath been both grave, and proſperous)
In this dayes Councel: but we'll take to Morrow.
Is't far you ride?
Banq. As far, my Lord, as will fill up the time
'Twixt this and Supper. Go not my Horſe the better,
I muſt become a borrower of the Night,
For a dark hour or twain.
Macb. Fail not our Feaſt.
Ban. My Lord, I will not.
Macb. We hear our bloudy Couſins are beſtow'd
In England, and in Ireland, not confeſſing
Their cruel Parricide, filling their hearers
With ſtrange invention. But of that to morrow,
When therewithal we ſhall have cauſe of State,
Craving us jointly. Hye you to Horſe:
Adieu, till you return at Night.
Goes Fleance with you?
Ban. I, my good Lord: our time does call upon's.
Macb. I wiſh your Horſes ſwift, and ſure of foot:
And ſo do I commend you to their backs.
Farewel. [Exit Banquo.
Let every man be maſter of his time,
'Till ſeven at Night, to make Society
The ſweeter welcome:
We will keep our ſelf till Supper time alone:
While then, God be with you. [Exeunt Lords.
Sirrah, a word with you: Attend thoſe men
Our pleaſure?
Servant. They are, my Lord, without the Pallace
Gate.

Macb.

Macb. Bring them before us. [Exit Servant.
To be thus, is nothing, but to be ſafely thus:
Our fears in Banquo ſtick deep,
And in his Royalty of Nature reigns that
Which would be fear'd. 'Tis much he dares,
And to that dauntleſs temper of his Mind,
He hath a Wiſdom, that doth guide his Valour,
To act in ſafety. There is none but he,
Whoſe being I do fear: and under him,
My Genius is rebuk'd, as it is ſaid
Mark Anthony's was by Ceſar, He chid the Siſters,
When firſt they put the Name of King upon me,
And bad them ſpeak to him. Then Prophet like,
They hayl'd him Father to a line of Kings.
Upon my Head, they plac'd a fruitleſs Crown,
And put a barren Scepter in my Gripe,
Thence to be wrench'd with an unlineal Hand,
No Son of mine ſucceeding: if't be ſo,
For Banquo's Iſſue have I fill'd my Mind,
For them, the gracious Duncan have I murther'd,
Put Rancours in the Veſſel of my Peace
Only for them, and mine Eternal Jewel
Given to the common Enemy of Man,
To make them Kings, the Seeds of Banquo Kings:
Rather than ſo, come Fate into the Liſt,
And Champion me to th' utterance.
Who's there?

Enter Servant, and two Murtherers.

Now go to the Door, and ſtay there 'till we call.
[Exit Servant.
Was it not yeſterday we ſpoke together?
Murth. It was, ſo pleaſe your Highneſs.
Macb. Well then,
Now you have conſider'd of my ſpeeches?
Know, that it was he, in the times paſt;
Which held you ſo under fortune;
Which you thought had been our innocent ſelf,
This I made good to you, in our laſt Conference,
Paſt in probation with you:
How you were born in hand, how croſt:
The Inſtruments: who wrought with them;
And all things elſe, that might
To half a Soul, and to a Notion craz'd,
Say, thus did Banquo.
1. Murth. You made it known to us.
Macb. I did ſo:
And went further, which is now
Our point of ſecond meeting.
Do you find your patience ſo predominant
In your nature, that you can let this go?
Are you ſo Goſpell'd to pray for this good man,
And for his Iſſue, whoſe heavy hand
Hath bow'd you to the Grave, and begger'd
Yours for ever?
1. Murth. We are men, my Liege.
Macb. I, in the Catalogue ye go for men,
As Hounds, and Greyhounds, Mungrels, Spaniels, Curs,
Showghes, Water-Rugs, and Demy-Wolves are clipt
All by the Name of Dogs: the valued file
Diſtinguiſhes the ſwift, the ſlow, the ſubtle,
The Houſe Keeper, the Hunter, every one
According to the gift, which bounteous Nature
Hath in him clos'd: whereby he does receive
Particular addition, from the Bill,
That writes them all alike: and ſo of men.
Now, if you have a ſtation in the file,
Not i' th' worſt rank of Manhood, ſay't,
And I will put the buſineſs in your Boſoms,
Whoſe Execution takes your Enemy off,
Grapples you to the heart; and love of us,
Who wear our Health but ſickly in his Life,
Which in his Death were perfect.
2. Murth. I am one, my Liege,
Whom the vile Blows and Buffets of the World
Hath ſo incens'd that I am reckleſs what I do,
To ſpight the World.
1. Murth. And I another,
So weary with Diſaſters, tugg'd with Fortune,
That I would ſet my Life on any Chance,
To mend it, or be rid on't.
Macb. Both of you know Banquo was your Enemy.
Murth. True, my Lord.
Macb. So is he mine: and in ſuch bloody diſtance,
That every minute of his being, thruſts
Againſt my near'ſt of Life: and though I could
With bare-fac'd power ſweep him from my ſight,
And bid my will avouch it; yet I muſt not,
For certain Friends that are both his, and mine,
Whoſe loves I may not drop, but wail his fall,
Who I my ſelf ſtruck down: and thence it is,
That I to your aſſiſtance do make love,
Masking the buſineſs from the common Eye,
For ſundry weighty Reaſons.
2. Murth. We ſhall, my Lord,
Perform what you command us.
1. Murth. Though our Lives ——
Macb. Your Spirits ſhine through you.
Within this hour, at moſt,
I will adviſe you where to plant your ſelves,
Acquaint you with the perfect Spy o'th'time,
The moment on't, for't muſt be done to Night,
And ſomething from the Palace: always thought,
That I require a clearneſs; and with him,
To leave no Rubs nor Botches in the Work:
Fleance, his Son, that keeps him company,
Whoſe abſence is no leſs material to me,
Than is his Fathers, muſt embrace the fate
Of that dark hour: reſolve your ſelves a-part,
I'll come to you anon.
Murth. We are reſolv'd, my Lord.
Macb. I'll call upon you ſtraight: abide within,
It is concluded: Banquo, thy Soul's flight,
If it find Heaven, muſt find it out to Night. [Exeunt.

Scæna Secunda.

Enter Macbeth's Lady, and a Servant.

Lady. Is Banquo gone from Court?
Servant. I, Madam, but returns again to Night.
Lady. Say to the King, I would attend his leiſure,
For a few words.
Servant. Madam, I will. [Exit.
Lady. Nought's had, all's ſpent,
Where our deſire is got without content:
'Tis ſafer, to be that which we deſtroy,
Than by deſtruction dwell in doubtful joy.

Enter Macbeth.

How now, my Lord, why do you keep alone?
Of ſorrieſt Fancies your Companions making,
Uſing thoſe Thoughts, which ſhould indeed have dy'd
With them they think on: things without all remedy
Should be without regard: what's done, is done.
Macb. We have ſcorch'd the Snake, not kill'd it:
She'll cloſe, and be her ſelf, whileſt our poor Malice
Remains in danger of her former Tooth.
But let the frame of things disjoint,
Both the Worlds ſuffer,
E're we will eat our Meal in fear, and ſleep
In the affliction of theſe terrible Dreams,
That ſhake us Nightly: Better be with the dead,
Whom we, to gain our place, have ſent to peace:
Than on the torture of the Mind to lie

In

In reſtleſs ecſtaſie :
Duncan is in his Grave :
After Life's fitful Fever, he ſleeps well,
Treaſon has done his worſt : nor Steel nor Poiſon,
Malice domeſtick, Foreign Levy, nothing
Can touch him further.
Lady. Come on :
Gentle, my Lord, ſleek o're your rugged Looks,
Be bright and Jovial 'mong your Gueſts to Night.
Macb. So ſhall I, Love, and ſo I pray be you :
Let your remembrance ſtill apply to Banquo,
Preſent him Eminence, both with Eye and Tongue :
Unſafe the while, that we muſt lave
Our Honours in theſe flattering ſtreams,
And make our Faces Vizards to our Hearts,
Diſguiſing what they are.
Lady. You muſt leave this.
Macb. O, full of Scorpions is my Mind, dear Wife :
Thou know'ſt, that Banquo and his Fleans lives.
Lady. But in them, Nature's Copie's not eterne.
Macb. There's comfort yet, they are aſſailable,
Then be thou jocund : e're the Bat hath flown
His Cloyſter'd flight, e're to black Hecat's Summons
The ſhard-born Beetle, with his drowſie hums,
Hath rung Night's yawning Peal,
There ſhall be done a deed of dreadful note.
Lady. What's to be done?
Macb. Be innocent of the knowledge, deareſt Chuck,
'Till thou applaud the deed : Come, ſeeling Night,
Skarf up the tender Eye of pitiful Day,
And with thy bloudy and inviſible Hand
Cancel and tear to pieces that great Bond,
Which keeps me pale. Light thickens,
And the Crow makes Wing to th' Rooky Wood :
Good things of Day begin to droop, and drowze,
Whiles Night's black Agents to their Preys do rowze.
Thou marvell'ſt at my words : but hold thee ſtill :
Things bad begun, make ſtrong themſelves by ill :
So prythee go with me. [Exeunt.

Scena Tertia.

Enter three Murtherers.

1. But who did bid thee join with us?
3. Macbeth.
2. He needs not our miſtruſt, ſince he delivers
Our Offices, and what we have to do,
To the direction juſt.
1. Then ſtand with us.
The Weſt yet glimmers with ſome ſtreaks of Day.
Now ſpurs the lateſt Traveller apace,
To gain the timely Inn, and near approaches
The ſubject of our Watch.
3. Hark, I hear Horſes.
Banquo within. Give us a Light there, ho.
2. Then 'tis he :
The reſt, that are within the note of expectation,
Already are i' th' Court.
1. His Horſes go about.
3. Almoſt a mile : but he does uſually,
So all men do, from hence to th' Palace Gate
Make it their walk.

Enter Banquo and Fleans, with a Torch.

2. A Light, a Light.
3. 'Tis he.
1. Stand to't.
Ban. It will be Rain to Night.
1. Let it come down.
Ban. O, Treachery!
Fly, good Fleans, flie, flie, flie,
Thou may'ſt revenge. O Slave!
3. Who did ſtrike out the light?
1. Was't not the way?
3. There's but one down : the Son is fled.
2. We have loſt
Beſt half of our Affair.
1. Well, let's away, and ſay how much is done.
[Exeunt.

Scena Quarta.

Banquet prepar'd. Enter Macbeth, Lady, Roſſe, Lenox, Lords, and Attendants.

Macb. You know your own degrees, ſit down :
At firſt and laſt, the hearty welcome.
Lords. Thanks to your Majeſty.
Macb. Our ſelf will mingle with Society,
And play the humble Hoſt :
Our Hoſteſs keeps her State, but in the beſt time
We will require her welcome.
Lady. Pronounce it for me, Sir, to all our Friends,
For my heart ſpeaks, they are welcome.

Enter firſt Murtherer.

Macb. See they encounter thee with their hearts thanks,
Both ſides are even : here I'll ſit i' th' mid'ſt,
Be large in Mirth, anon we'll drink a Meaſure
The Table round. There's bloud upon thy Face.
Mur. 'Tis Banquo's then.
Macb. 'Tis better thee without, than he within.
Is he diſpatch'd?
Mur. My Lord, his Throat is cut, that I did for him.
Macb. Thou art the beſt o' th' Cut-Throats,
Yet he's good that did the like for Fleans :
If thou did'ſt it, thou art the Non-pareil.
Mur. Moſt Royal Sir,
Fleans is ſcap'd.
Macb. Then comes my Fit again :
I had elſe been perfect ;
Whole as the Marble, founded as the Rock,
As broad, and general, as the caſing Air :
But now I am cabin'd, crib'd, confin'd, bound in
To ſawcy doubts, and fears. But Banquo's ſafe?
Mur. I, my good Lord : ſafe in a Ditch he bides,
With twenty trenched gaſhes on his head ;
The leaſt a Death to Nature.
Macb. Thanks for that,
There the grown Serpent lies, the Worm that's fled
Hath Nature, that in time will Venom breed,
No teeth for th' preſent. Get thee gone, to morrow
Well hear our ſelves again. [Exit Murtherer.
Lady. My Royal Lord,
You do not give the Cheer, the Feaſt is ſold
That is not often vouch'd, while 'tis making :
'Tis given with welcome : to feed were beſt at home :
From thence, the ſawce to meat is Ceremony,
Meeting were bare without it.

Enter the Ghoſt of Banquo, and ſits in Macbeth's place.

Macb. Sweet Remembrancer :
Now good digeſtion wait on Appetite,
And health on both.
Lenox. May't pleaſe your Highneſs ſit.
Macb. Here had we now our Countrie's Honour, roof'd,
Were the grac'd perſon of our Banquo preſent :
Who may I rather challenge for unkindneſs,
Than pity for Miſchance.
Roſſe. His abſence (Sir)
Layes blame upon his promiſe. Pleas't your Highneſs
To grace us with your Royal Company?

Macb. The Table's full.
Lenox. Here is a place reſerv'd, Sir.
Macb. Where?
Lenox. Here, my good Lord.
What is't that moves your Highneſs?
Macb. Which of you have done this?
Lords. What, my good Lord?
Macb. Thou canſt not ſay I did it; never ſhake
Thy goary Locks at me.
Roſſe. Gentlemen riſe, his Highneſs is not well.
Lady. Sit, worthy Friends: my Lord is often thus,
And hath been from his youth. Pray you keep ſeat,
The fit is momentany, upon a thought
He will again be well. If much you note him
You ſhall offend him, and extend his Paſſion,
Feed, and regard him not. Are you a man?
Macb. I, and a bold one, that dare look on that
Which might appall the Devil.
Lady. O, proper ſtuff!
This is the very painting of your fear:
This is the Air-drawn-Dagger which you ſaid
Led you to Duncan. O, theſe flaws and ſtarts
(Impoſtors to true fear) would well become
A Woman's ſtory at a Winter's fire
Authoriz'd by her Grandam: ſhame it ſelf,
Why do you make ſuch faces? When all's done
You look but on a ſtool.
Macb. Prythee ſee there:
Behold, look, loe, how ſay you:
Why what care I, if thou canſt nod, ſpeak too.
If Charnel-Houſes, and our Graves muſt ſend
Thoſe that we bury, back; our Monuments
Shall be the Mawes of Kites. [Exit Ghoſt.
Lady. What? quite unmann'd in folly.
Macb. If I ſtand here, I ſaw him.
Lady. Fie for ſhame.
Macb. Bloud hath been ſhed e're now, i' th' olden time
E're humane Statue purg'd the gentle Weal:
I, and ſince too, Murthers have been perform'd
Too terrible for the Ear: the times have been,
That when the Brains were out, the man would die,
And there an end; But now they riſe again
With twenty mortal murthers on their Crowns,
And puſh us from our ſtools: this is more ſtrange
Than ſuch a Murther is.
Lady. My worthy Lord,
Your Noble Friends do lack you.
Macb. I do forget:
Do not muſe at me, my moſt worthy Friends,
I have a ſtrange infirmity, which is nothing
To thoſe that know me. Come, love and health to all,
Then I'll ſit down: Give me ſome Wine, fill full:

Enter Ghoſt.

I drink to th' general joy o' th' whole Table,
And to our dear Friend Banquo, whom we miſs:
Would he were here: to all; and him we thirſt,
And all to all.
Lords. Our duties, and the pledge.
Macb. Avant, and quit my ſight, let the Earth hide thee:
Thy bones are marrowleſs: thy bloud is cold:
Thou haſt no ſpeculation in thoſe Eyes
Which thou doſt glare with.
Lady. Think of this good Peers
But as a thing of Cuſtom: 'tis no other,
Only it ſpoils the pleaſure of the time.
Macb. What man dare, I dare:
Approach thou like the rugged Ruſſian Bear,
The arm'd Rhinoceros, or th' Hyrcan Tyger,
Take any ſhape but that, and my firm Nerves
Shall never tremble. Or be alive again,
And dare me to the Deſart with thy Sword:
If trembling I inhabit, then proteſt me
The Baby of a Girl. Hence horrible ſhadow, [Exit.
Unreal mock'ry hence. Why ſo, be gone
I am a man again: pray you ſit ſtill.
Lady. You have diſplac'd the mirth,
Broke the good meeting, with moſt admir'd diſorder.
Macb. Can ſuch things be,
And overcome us like a Summer's Cloud
Without our ſpecial wonder? You make me ſtrange
Even to the diſpoſition that I owe,
When now I think you can behold ſuch ſights,
And keep the natural Ruby of your Cheeks,
When mine is blanch'd with fear.
Roſſe. What ſigns, my Lord?
Lady. I pray you ſpeak not: he grows worſe and worſe,
Queſtion enrages him: at once, goodnight.
Stand not upon the order of your going,
But go at once.
Lenox. Good night, and better health
Attend his Majeſty.
Lady. A kind goodnight to all. [Exeunt Lords.
Macb. It will have bloud they ſay:
Bloud will have Bloud:
Stones have been known to move, and trees to ſpeak:
Augures, and underſtood Relations, have
By Maggot Pyes, and Choughs, and Rooks brought forth
The ſecret'ſt man of bloud. What is the night?
La. Almoſt at odds with Morning, which is which.
Macb. How ſay'ſt thou that Macduff denies his perſon
At our great bidding?
La. Did you ſend to him, Sir?
Macb. I hear it by the way: But I will ſend:
There's not a one of them but in his Houſe
I keep a Servant Fee'd. I will to morrow
(And betimes I will) to the wizard Siſters.
More ſhall they ſpeak: for now I am bent to know
By the worſt means, the worſt, for mine own good,
All cauſes ſhall give way, I am in bloud
Spent in ſo far, that ſhould I wade no more,
Returning were as tedious as go o're:
Strange things I have in head, that will to hand,
Which muſt be acted, e're they may be ſcann'd.
Lady. You lack the ſeaſon of all Natures, ſleep.
Macb. Come, we'll to ſleep; My ſtrange and ſelf-abuſe
Is the initiate fear, that wants hard uſe:
We are yet but young indeed. [Exeunt.

Scæna Quinta.

Thunder. Enter the three Witches, meeting Hecate.

1. Why how now, Hecate, you look angerly?
Hec. Have I not reaſon (Beldams) as you are?
Sawcy, and over-bold, how did you dare
To trade, and traffick with Macbeth,
In Riddles, and Affairs of death;
And I the Miſtreſs of your Charms.
The cloſe contriver of all harms,
Was never call'd to bear my part,
Or ſhew the glory of our Art?
And which is worſe, all you have done
Hath been but for a wayward Son,
Spightful, and wrathful, who (as others do)
Loves for his own ends, not for you.
But make amends now: Get you gon,
And at the Pit of Acheron
Meet me i' th' Morning: thither he
Will come, to know his Deſtiny,
Your Veſſels, and your Spells provide,
Your Charms, and every thing beſide;
I am for th' Air: this night I'll ſpend
Unto a diſmal, and a fatal end.
Great buſineſs muſt be wrought e're Noon.
Upon the Corner of the Moon

There

There hangs a vap'rous drop, profound,
I'll catch it e're it come to ground;
And that diſtill'd by Magick ſlights,
Shall raiſe ſuch Artificial Sprights,
As by the ſtrength of their illuſion,
Shall draw him on to his Confuſion.
He ſhall ſpurn Fate, ſcorn Death, and bear
His hopes 'bove Wiſdom, Grace, and Fear:
And you all know, Security
Is mortals chiefeſt Enemy.

[Muſick, and a Song.

Hark, I am call'd: my little Spirit ſee
Sits in a foggy Cloud, and ſtays for me.

Sing within. Come away, come away, &c.

1. Come, let's make haſt, ſhee'l ſoon be Back again. [Exeunt.

Scena Sexta.

Enter Lenox, and another Lord:

Lenox. My former Speeches
Have but hit your Thoughts,
Which can interpret farther: Only I ſay
Things have been ſtrangely born. The gracious Duncan
Was pitied of Macbeth: marry he was dead:
And the right valiant Banquo walk'd too late.
Whom you may ſay, (if't pleaſe you) Fleans kill'd,
For Fleans fled: Men muſt not walk too late.
Who cannot want the thought, how monſtrous
It was for Malcolm, and for Donalbane
To kill their gracious Father? Damned Fact,
How it did grieve Macbeth? Did he not ſtraight
In pious rage, the two delinquents tear,
That were the ſlaves of Drink, and thralls of Sleep?
Was that not nobly done? I, and wiſely too:
For 'twould have anger'd any heart alive
To hear the men deny't. So that I ſay,
He has born all things well, and I do think,
That had he Duncan's Sons under the Key,
(As, and't pleaſe Heaven he ſhall not) they ſhall find
What 'twere to kill a Father: So ſhould Fleans.
But peace; for from broad words, and cauſe he fail'd
His preſence at the Tyrant's Feaſt; I hear
Macduffe lives in diſgrace. Sir, can you tell
VVhere he beſtows himſelf?

Lord. The Sons of Duncan
(From whom this Tyrant holds the due of Birth)
Live in the Engliſh Court, and is receiv'd
Of the moſt Pious Edward, with ſuch grace,
That the malevolence of Fortune, nothing
Takes from his high reſpect. Thither Macduffe
Is gone, to pray the holy King, upon his aid
To wake Northumberland, and warlike Seyward,
That by the help of theſe (with him above
To ratifie the VVork) we may again
Give to our Tables Meat, Sleep to our Nights:
Free from our Feaſts, and Banquets bloody Knives;
Do faithful Homage, and receive free Honours,
All which we pine for now. And this report
Hath ſo exaſperate their King, that he Prepares for ſome attempt of VVar.

Lenox. Sent he to Macduffe?

Lord. He did: and with an abſolute, Sir, not I,
The cloudy Meſſenger turns me his back,
And hums; as who ſhould ſay, you'll rue the time
That clogs me with this Anſwer.

Lenox. And that well might,
Adviſe him to a caution, t'hold what diſtance
His wiſdom can provide. Some Holy Angel
Fly to the Court of England, and unfold
His meſſage e're he come, that a ſwift bleſſing
May ſoon return to this our ſuffering Country,
Under a hand accurs'd.

Lord. I'll ſend my Prayers with him. [Exeunt.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Thunder. Enter the three VVitches.

1 THrice the brinded Cat hath mew'd.
2. Thrice, and once the Hedges Pig whin'd.
3. Harpier crys, 'tis time, 'tis time.
1. Round about the Cauldron go:
In the poiſon'd Entrails throw
Toad, that under cold ſtone,
Days and Nights, has thirty one:
Sweltred Venom ſleeping got,
Boil thou firſt i'th' charmed Pot.
All. Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and Cauldron bubble.
2. Fillet of a Fenny Snake,
In the Cauldron Boil and Bake:
Eye of Newt, and Toe of Frog:
Wool of Bat, and Tongue of Dog:
Adders Fork, and Blind-worms Sting,
Lizards Leg, and Howlet's Wing:
For a Charm of powerful trouble,
Like a Hell-broth, boil and bubble.
All. Double, double, toil and trouble,
Fire burn, and Cauldron bubble.
3. Scale of Dragon, Tooth of Wolf,
Witches Mummy, Maw, and Gulf
Of the ravin'd ſalt Sea Shark:
Root of Hemlock, digg'd i'th' dark:
Liver of Blaſpheming Jew:
Gall of Goat, and Slips of Yew,
Sliver'd in the Moon's Eclipſe:
Noſe of Turk, and Tartar's lips,
Finger of Birth-ſtrangled Babe,
Ditch-deliver'd by a Drab,
Make the Gruel thick, and ſlab.
Add thereto a Tyger's Chawdron,
For th'Ingredience of our Cauldron.
All. Double, double, toil and trouble,
Fire burn, and Cauldron bubble.
2. Cool it with a Baboon's blood,
Then the Charm is firm and good.

Enter Hecate, and the other three Witches.

Hec. O well done: I commend your pains,
And every one ſhall ſhare i'th' gains:
And now about the Cauldron ſing
Like Elves and Fairies in a Ring,
Inchanting all that you put in.

Muſick and a Song. Black Spirits, &c.

2. By the pricking of my thumbs,
Something wicked this way comes:
Open Locks, whoever knocks.

Enter Macbeth.

Mac. How now you ſecret, black, and midnight Hags?
What is't you do?

All. A deed without a name.

Mac. I conjure you, by that which you profeſs,
(How e're you come to know it) anſwer me:
Though you untie the Winds, and let them fight
Againſt the Churches: Though the yeſty Waves
Confound and ſwallow Navigation up:
Though bladed Corn be lodg'd, and Trees blown down,
Though Caſtles topple on their Warders heads:

Though Palaces, and Pyramids do ſlope
Their heads to their Foundations: though the treaſure
Of Natures Germain, tumble altogether,
Even till deſtruction ſicken: Anſwer me
To what I ask you.
1. Speak.
2. Demand.
3. We'll anſwer.
1. Say, if th' had'ſt rather hear it from our mouths,
Or from our Maſters.
Macb. Call 'em: let me ſee 'em.
1. Pour in Sowes bloud, that hath eaten
Her nine Farrow: Greace that's ſweaten
From the Murtherers Gibbet, throw
Into the Flame.
All. Come high or low:
Thy Self and Office deftly ſhow. [Thunder.
1. Apparition, an Armed Head.
Macb. Tell me thou unknown power.
1. He knows thy thought:
Hear his Speech, but ſay thou nought.
1 Appar. Macbeth, Macbeth, Macbeth:
Beware Macduff,
Beware the Thane of Fife: diſmiſs me. Enough
[He Deſcends.
Macb. What-e're thou art, for thy good caution, thanks.
Thou haſt harp'd my fear aright. But one word more.
1. He will not be commanded: here's another
More potent than the firſt. [Thunder.
2. Apparition, a Bloudy Child.
2. Appar. Macbeth, Macbeth, Macbeth.
Macb. Had I three Ears, I'd hear thee.
2. Appar. Be bloudy, bold, and reſolute:
Laugh to ſcorn
The power of man: For none of Woman born
Shall harm Macbeth. [Deſcends.
Macb. Then live Macduff: what need I fear of thee?
But yet I'll make aſſurance, double ſure,
And take a Bond of Fate: thou ſhalt not live,
That I may tell pale-hearted Fear, it lies;
And ſleep in ſpight of Thunder. [Thunder.
3. Apparition, a Child crowned, with a Tree in his hand.
What is this, that riſes like the iſſue of a King,
And wears upon his Baby-brow, the round
And top of Soveraignty?
All. Liſten, but ſpeak not to't.
3. Appar. Be Lyon metled, proud, and take no care:
Who chafes, who frets, or where Conſpirers are:
Macbeth ſhall never vanquiſh'd be, until
Great Birnam Wood to high Dunſinane Hill
Shall come againſt him. [Deſcend.
Macb. That will never be:
Who can impreſs the Foreſt, bid the Tree
Unfix his Earth-bound Root? Sweet Boadments, good:
Rebellious dead, riſe never 'till the Wood
Of Birnam riſe, and our high-plac'd Macbeth
Shall live the Leaſe of Nature, pay his breath
To time, and mortal Cuſtom. Yet my heart
Throbs to know one thing: tell me, if your Art
Can tell ſo much: Shall Banquo's iſſue ever
Reign in this Kingdom?
All. Seek to know no more.
Macb. I will be ſatisfied. Deny me this,
And an eternal Curſe fall on you: Let me know.
Why ſinks that Cauldron? and what noiſe is this? [Hoboys.
1. Shew.
2. Shew.
3. Shew.
All. Shew his Eyes, and grieve his Heart,
Come like ſhadows, ſo depart.
A ſhew of eight Kings, and Banquo laſt, with a glaſs in his hand.
Macb. Thou art too like the Spirit of Banquo: Down:
Thy Crown do's ſear mine Eye-Balls. And thy hair
Thou other Gold-bound-brow, is like the firſt:
A third, is like the former. Filthy Haggs,
Why do you ſhew me this? — A fourth? Start Eye!
What will the Line ſtretch out to th' crack of Doom?
Another yet? A ſeventh? I'll ſee no more:
And yet the eighth appears, who bears a Glaſs,
Which ſhews me many more: and ſome I ſee,
That twofold Balls, and treble Scepters carry.
Horrible ſight: Now I ſee 'tis true,
For the Bloud-bolter'd Banquo ſmiles upon me,
And points at them for his. What is this ſo?
1. I Sir, all this is ſo. But why
Stands Macbeth thus amazedly?
Come Siſters, cheer we up his ſprights,
And ſhew the beſt of our delights.
I'll Charm the Air to give a ſound,
While you perform your Antique round:
That this great King may kindly ſay,
Our duties did his welcome pay. [Muſick.
The Witches Dance, and vaniſh.
Macb. Where are they? Gone?
Let this pernicious hour,
Stand aye accurſed in the Kalender.
Come in, without there. Enter Lenox.
Lenox. What's your Graces will?
Macb. Saw you the Wizards Siſters?
Lenox. No, my Lord.
Macb. Came they not by you?
Lenox. No indeed, my Lord.
Macb. Infected be the Air whereon they ride,
And damn'd all thoſe that truſt them. I did hear
The galloping of Horſe. Who was't came by?
Lenox. 'Tis two or three, my Lord, that bring you word:
Macb. Fled to England?
Len. I, my good Lord.
Macb. Time, thou anticipat'ſt my dread exploits:
The flighty purpoſe never is o're-took
Unleſs the deed go with it. From this moment,
The very firſtling of my heart ſhall be
The firſtlings of my hand. And even now
To Crown my thoughts with Acts: be it thought and done:
The Caſtle of Macduff I will ſurprize.
Seize upon Fife; give to th' edge o' th' Sword
His Wife, his Babes, and all unfortunate Souls,
That trace him in his Line. No boaſting like a Fool,
This deed I'll do, before this purpoſe cool,
But no more ſights. Where are theſe Gentlemen?
Come, bring me where they are. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Macduff's Wife, her Son, and Roſſe.

Wife. What had he done, to make him fly the Land?
Roſſe. You muſt have patience, Madam.
Wife. He had none:
His flight was madneſs: when our Actions do not,
Our fears do make us Traytors.
Roſſe. You know not
Whether it was his wiſdom, or his fear.
Wife. Wiſdom? to leave his Wife, to leave his Babes,
His Manſion, and his Titles, in a place
From whence himſelf does flie? He loves us not.
He wants the natural touch: for the poor Wren
(The moſt diminutive of Birds) will fight,
Her young ones in her Neſt, againſt the Owle:
All is the Fear, and nothing is the Love;
As little is the Wiſdom, where the flight
So runs againſt all reaſon.
Roſſe. My deareſt Couz,
I pray you School your ſelf; But for your Husband,
He is Noble, Wiſe, Judicious, and beſt knows

The

The fits o'th' Seaſon. I dare not ſpeak much further,
But cruel are the times, when we are Traytors,
And do not know our ſelves: VVhen we hold Rumour
From what we fear, yet know not what we fear,
But float upon a wild and violent Sea
Each way, and move. I take my leave of you:
Shall not be long but I'll be here again:
Things at the worſt will ceaſe, or elſe climb upward
To what they were before, my pretty Couſin,
Bleſſing upon you.
Wife. Father'd he is,
And yet he's Fatherleſs.
Roſſe. I am ſo much a Fool, ſhould I ſtay longer,
It would be my diſgrace, and your diſcomfort.
I take my leave at once. [Exit Roſſe.
Wife. Sirrah, your Father's dead,
And what will you do now? How will you live?
Son. As Birds do, Mother.
Wife. VVhat with worms and flies?
Son. VVith what I get, and ſo do they.
Wife. Poor Bird,
Thoud'ſt never fear the Net, nor Line,
The Pit-fall, nor the Gin.
Son. VVhy ſhould I, Mother?
Poor Birds they are not ſet for:
My Father is not dead for all your ſaying.
Wife. Yes, he is dead:
How wilt thou do for a Father?
Son. Nay, how will you do for a Husband?
Wife. VVhy, I can buy me twenty at any Market.
Son. Then you'll buy 'em to ſell again.
Wife. Thou ſpeak'ſt with all thy wit,
And yet i' faith with wit enough for thee.
Son. VVas my Father a Traytor, Mother?
Wife. I, that he was.
Son. VVhat is a Traytor?
Wife. Why, one that ſwears and lies.
Son. And be all Traytors that do ſo?
Wife. Every one that does ſo is a Traytor,
And muſt be hang'd.
Son. And muſt they all be hang'd that ſwear and lie?
Wife. Every one.
Son. Who muſt hang them?
Wife. VVhy, honeſt men.
Son. Then the Liars and Swearers are Fools: for there are Liars and Swearers enow, to beat the honeſt men, and hang up them.
Wife. God help thee, poor Monkey:
But how wilt thou do for a Father?
Son. If he were dead, you'd weep for him: If you would not it were a good ſign, that I ſhould quickly have a new Father.
Wife. Poor Pratler, how thou talk'ſt!

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſſ. Bleſs you, fair Dame, I am not to you known,
Though in your ſtate of honour I am perfect;
I doubt ſome danger does approach you nearly.
If you will take a homely man's advice,
Be not found here: Hence with your little ones:
To fright you thus, methinks I am too ſavage:
To do worſe to you, were fell Cruelty,
Which is too nigh your perſon. Heaven preſerve you,
I dare abide no longer. [Exit Meſſenger.
Wife. Whither ſhould I fly?
I have done no harm. But I remember now
I am in this earthly world: where to do harm
Is often laudable, to do good ſometime
Accounted dangerous Folly. VVhy then (alas)
Do I put up that womanly defence,
To ſay I had done no harm?
VVhat are theſe faces?

Enter Murtherers.

Mur. VVhere is your Husband?
Wife. I hope in no place ſo unſanctified,
VVhere ſuch as thou may'ſt find him.
Mur. He's a Traytor.
Son. Thou ly'ſt thou ſhag-eard Villain.
Mur. VVhat you Egg?
Young fry of Treachery?
Son. He has kill'd me, Mother,
Run away, I pray you. [Exit, crying murther.

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Malcolm and Macduffe.

Mal. Let us ſeek out ſome deſolate ſhade, and there
VVeep our ſad boſomes empty.
Macd. Let us rather
Hold faſt the mortal Sword: and like good men,
Beſtride our downfal Birth-dome: Each new Morn,
New widows howl, new Orphans cry, new ſorrows
Strike Heaven on the face, that it reſounds
As if it felt with Scotland, and yell'd out
Like Syllable of Dolour.
Mal. VVhat I believe, I'll wail;
VVhat know, believe; and what I can redreſs,
As I ſhall find the time to friend, I will.
What you have ſpoke, it may be ſo perchance.
This Tyrant, whoſe ſole Name blifters our Tongues,
Was once thought honeſt: You have lov'd him well,
He hath not touch'd you yet. I am young, but ſomething
You may diſcern of him through me, and wiſdom
To offer up a weak, poor innocent Lamb,
T'appeaſe an angry God.
Macd. I am not treacherous.
Mal. But Macbeth is.
A good and virtuous Nature may recoil
In an imperial charge. But I ſhall crave your pardon;
That which you are, my thoughts cannot tranſpoſe;
Angels are bright ſtill, though the brighteſt fell.
Though all things foul would bear the brows of Grace,
Yet Grace muſt ſtill look ſo.
Macd. I have loſt my hopes.
Malc. Perchance, even there
Where I did find my doubts,
Why in that rawneſs left you wife and Children?
Thoſe precious Motives, thoſe ſtrong knots of Love,
Without leave taking. I pray you,
Let not my Jealouſies, be your Diſhonours,
But mine own ſafeties: you may be rightly juſt,
Whatever I ſhall think.
Macd. Bleed, bleed, poor Country,
Great Tyranny, lay thou thy Baſis ſure,
For goodneſs dares not check thee: wear thou thy wrongs,
The Title is afeard. Fare thee well, Lord,
I would not be the Villain that thou think'ſt,
For the whole ſpace that's in the Tyrants Graſp,
And the rich Eaſt to boot.
Mal. Be not offended:
I ſpeak not as in abſolute fear of you:
I think our Country ſinks beneath the yoke,
It weeps, it bleeds, and each new day a gaſh
Is added to her wounds. I think withal,
There would be hands up-lifted in my right:
And here from gracious England have I offer
Of goodly thouſands. But for all this,
When I ſhall tread upon the Tyrant's head,
Or wear it on my Sword; yet my poor Country
Shall have more vices than it had before,
More ſuffer, and more ſundry ways than ever,
By him that ſhall ſucceed.

Macd. What ſhould he be?
Mal. It is my ſelf I mean, in whom I know
All the particulars of Vice ſo grafted,
That when they ſhall be open'd black Macbeth
Will ſeem as pure as Snow, and the poor State
Eſteem him as a Lamb, being compar'd
With my confineleſs harms.
Macd. Not in the Legions
Of horrid Hell, can come a Devil more damn'd
In evils, to top Macbeth.
Macb. I grant him Bloudy,
Luxurious, Avaricious, Falſe, Deceitful,
Sudden, Malicious, ſmoaking of every ſin
That has a name. But there's no bottom, none
In my Voluptuouſneſs: Your Wives, your Daughters,
Your Matrons, and your Maids, could not fill up
The Ciſtern of my Luſt, and my Deſire
All continent Impediments would o're-bear
That did oppoſe my will. Better Macbeth,
Than ſuch an one to reign.
Macd. Boundleſs intemperance
In Nature is a Tyranny: It hath been
Th' untimely emptying of the happy Throne,
And fall of many Kings. But fear not yet
To take upon you what is yours: you may
Convey your pleaſures in a ſpacious plenty,
And yet ſeem cold. The time you may ſo Hoodwink:
We have willing Dames enough: there cannot be
That Vulture in you, to devour ſo many
As will to Greatneſs dedicate themſelves,
Finding it ſo inclin'd.
Mal. With this, there grows
In my moſt ill-compos'd Affection, ſuch
A ſtanchleſs Avarice, that were I King,
I ſhould cut off the Nobles for their Lands,
Deſire his Jewels, and this others Houſe,
And my more-having would be as a Sawce
To make me hunger more, that I ſhould forge
Quarrels unjuſt againſt the Good and Loyal,
Deſtroying them for wealth.
Macd. This Avarice
Sticks deeper: grows with more pernicious root
Than Summer-ſeeming Luſt: and it hath been
The Sword of our ſlain Kings: yet do not fear,
Scotland hath Poiſons to fill up your will
Of your mere Own. All theſe are portable,
With other Graces weigh'd.
Mal. But I have none, The King-becoming Graces,
As Juſtice, Verity, Temp'rance, Stableneſs,
Bounty, Perſeverance, Mercy, Lowlineſs,
Devotion, Patience, Courage, Fortitude;
I have no reliſh of them, but abound
In the diviſion of each ſeveral Crime,
Acting it many ways. Nay had I power I ſhould
Pour the ſweet Milk of Concord, into Hell,
Uproar the univerſal peace, confound
All unity on earth.
Macd. O Scotland, Scotland!
Mal. If ſuch a one be fit to govern, ſpeak:
I am as I have ſpoken.
Macd. Fit to govern? No not to live. O Nation miſerable!
With an untitled Tyrant, bloudy Sceptred,
When ſhalt thou ſee thy wholeſome days again?
Since that the trueſt Iſſue of thy Throne
By his own Interdiction ſtands accurſt,
And do's blaſpheme his breed? thy Royal Father
Was a moſt Sainted King: the Queen that bore thee,
Oftner upon her Knees, than on her feet,
Dy'd every day ſhe liv'd. Fare thee well,
Theſe Evils thou repeat'ſt upon thy ſelf,
Hath baniſht me from Scotland. O my Breaſt,
Thy hope ends here.
Mal. Macduff, this Noble paſſion
Child of Integrity, hath from my Soul
Wip'd the black Scruples, reconcil'd my thoughts
To thy good truth, and honour. Devilliſh Macbeth,
By many of theſe trains, hath ſought to win me
Into his power: and modeſt Wiſdom plucks me
From over-credulous haſte: but God above
Deal between thee and me; For even now
I put my ſelf to thy direction, and Unſpeak mine own detraction. Here abjure
The taints, and blames I laid upon my ſelf,
For ſtrangers to my Nature, I am yet
Unknown to Women, never was forſwore,
Scarcely have coveted what was mine own,
At no time broke my Faith, would not betray
The Devil to his Fellow, and delight
No leſs in truth than life. My firſt falſe ſpeaking
Was this upon my ſelf, what I am truly
Is thine, and my poor Countries to command:
Whether indeed, before thy here approach,
Old Seyward with ten thouſand warlike men
Already at a point, was ſetting forth?
Now we'll together, and the chance of goodneſs
Be like our warranted Quarrel. Why are you ſilent?
Macd. Such welcome, and unwelcome things at once
'Tis hard to reconcile.

Enter a Doctor.

Mal. Well, more anon. Comes the King forth
I pray you?
Doct. I Sir: there are a crew of wretched Souls
That ſtay his Cure: their malady convinces
The great aſſay of Art. But at his touch,
Such ſanctity hath Heaven given his hand,
They preſently amend. [Exit.
Mal. I thank you, Doctor.
Macd. What's the Diſeaſe he means?
Mal. 'Tis call'd the Evil,
A moſt miraculous work in this good King,
Which often ſince my here remain in England,
I have ſeen him do: How he ſolicits Heaven,
Himſelf beſt knows: but ſtrangely viſited people,
All ſwoln and Ulcerous, pitiful to the Eye,
The mere deſpair of Surgery, he cures,
Hanging a golden ſtamp about their Necks,
Put on with holy Prayers, and 'tis ſpoken
To the ſucceeding Royalty he leaves
The healing Benediction: with this ſtrange virtue,
He hath a Heavenly Gift of Prophecy,
And ſundry Bleſſings hang about his Throne,
That ſpeak him full of Grace.

Enter Roſſe.

Macd. See, who comes here.
Malc. My Countreyman: but yet I know him not.
Macd. My ever gentle Couſin, welcome hither.
Malc. I know him now. Good God betimes remove
The means, the means that makes us ſtrangers.
Roſſe. Sir, Amen.
Macd. Stands Scotland where it did?
Roſſe. Alas poor Countrey,
Almoſt afraid to know it ſelf. It cannot
Be call'd our Mother, but our Grave; where nothing
But who knows nothing is once ſeen to ſmile:
Where ſighs and groans, and ſhrieks that rent the air
Are made, not mark'd: Where violent ſorrow ſeems
A Modern ecſtaſie: the Dead-man's Knell,
Is there ſcarce ask'd for who, and good men's lives
Expire before the Flowers in their Caps,
Dying, or e're they ſicken.
Macd. Oh relation, too nice, and yet too true.
Malc. What's the neweſt grief?
Roſſe. That of an hours age, doth hiſs the ſpeaker,
Each minute teems a new one.

Macd.

Macd. How does my Wife?
Roſſe. Why, well.
Macd. And all my Children?
Roſſe. Well too.
Macd. The Tyrant has not batter'd at their peace?
Roſſe. No, they were well at peace when I did leave 'em.
Macd. Be not a niggard of your ſpeech: how go's it?
Roſſe. When I came hither to tranſport the Tidings
Which I have heavily born, there ran a Rumour
Of many worthy Fellows, that were out,
Which was to my belief witneſt the rather,
For that I ſaw the Tyrant's Power a-foot,
Now is the time of help: your Eye in Scotland
Would create Souldiers, make our Women fight,
To doff their dire diſtreſſes.
Malc. Be't their comfort
We are coming thither: Gracious England hath
Lent us good Seyward, and ten thouſand men,
An older, and a better Souldier, none
That Chriſtendom gives out.
Roſſe. Would I could anſwer
This comfort with the like. But I have words
That would be howl'd out in the deſert air,
Where hearing ſhould not latch them.
Macd. What concern they,
The general cauſe, or is it a Fee grief
Due to ſome ſingle Breaſt?
Roſſe. No mind that's honeſt
But in it ſhares ſome woe, though the main part
Pertains to you alone.
Macd. If it be mine
Keep it not from me, quickly let me have it.
Roſſe. Let not your Ears deſpiſe my tongue for ever,
Which ſhall poſſeſs them with the heavieſt ſound
That ever yet they heard.
Macd. Humh: I gueſs at it.
Roſſe. Your Caſtle is ſurpriz'd: your Wife, and Babes
Savagely ſlaughter'd: to relate the manner
Were on the Quarry of theſe murther'd Deer
To add the Death of you.
Malc. Merciful Heaven:
What man, ne're pull your Hat upon your brows:
Give ſorrow words; the grief that do's not ſpeak,
Whiſpers the o're-fraught heart, and bids it break.
Macd. My Children too?
Roſſe. Wife, Children, Servants, all that could be found.
Macd. And I muſt be from thence? My Wife kill'd too?
Roſſe. I have ſaid.
Malc. Be comforted.
Let's make us Med'cines of our great Revenge,
To cure this deadly grief.
Macd. He has no Children. All my pretty ones?
Did you ſay All? O Hell Kite! All?
What, All my pretty Chickens, and their Damm
At one fell ſwoop?
Malc. Diſpute it like a man.
Macd. I ſhall do ſo.
But I muſt alſo feel it as a man;
I cannot but remember ſuch things were
That were moſt precious to me: Did Heaven look on,
And would not take their part? Sinful Macduff,
They were all ſtrook for thee: Naught that I am,
Not for their own demerits, but for mine
Fell ſlaughter on their Souls: Heaven reſt them now.
Mal. Be this the Whetſtone of your Sword, let grief
Convert to anger: blunt not the heart, enrage it.
Macd. O I could play the Woman with mine Eyes,
And Braggart with my tongue. But gentle Heavens,
Cut ſhort all intermiſſion: Front to Front,
Bring thou this Fiend of Scotland, and my ſelf
Within my Swords length ſet him, if he ſcape,
Heaven forgive him too.
Mal. This time goes manly:
Come go we to the King, our Power is ready,
Our lack is nothing but our leave. Macbeth
Is ripe for ſhaking, and the Powers above
Put on their Inſtruments: Receive what cheer you may,
The Night is long that never finds the Day. [Exeunt.

Actus Quintus. Scæna Prima.

Enter a Doctor of Phyſick, and a waiting Gentlewoman.

Doct. I Have two Nights watch'd with you, but can perceive no truth in your report. When was it ſhe laſt walk'd?
Gent. Since his Majeſty went into the Field, I have ſeen her riſe from her Bed, throw her Night-Gown upon her, unlock her Cloſet, take forth Paper, fold it, write upon't, read it, afterwards Seal it, and again return to Bed; yet all this while in a moſt faſt ſleep.
Doct. A great perturbation in Nature, to receive at once the benefit of ſleep and do the effects of watching. In this ſlumbry agitation, beſides her walking, and other actual performances, what (at any time) have you heard her ſay?
Gent. That Sir, which I will not report after her.
Doct. You may to me, and 'tis moſt meet you ſhould.
Gent. Neither to you, nor any one, having no witneſs to confirm my ſpeech. Enter Lady with a Taper. Lo you, here ſhe comes: This is her very guiſe, and upon my life faſt aſleep; obſerve her, ſtand cloſe.
Doct. How came ſhe by that light?
Gent. Why, it ſtood by her: ſhe has light by her continually, 'tis her command.
Doct. You ſee her Eyes are open.
Gent. I but their ſenſe are ſhut.
Doct. What is it ſhe do's now?
Look how ſhe rubs her hands.
Gent. It is an accuſtom'd action with her, to ſeem thus waſhing her hands: I have known her continue in this a quarter of an hour.
Lad. Yet here's a ſpot.
Doct. Hark, ſhe ſpeaks, I will ſet down what comes from her, to ſatisfie my remembrance the more ſtrongly.
La. Out damned ſpot: out I ſay. One: Two: Why then 'tis time to do't: Hell is murky. Fie, my Lord, Fie, a Souldier, and afear'd? what need we fear? who knows it, when none can call our power to account: yet who would have thought the old man to have had ſo much bloud in him.
Doct. Do you mark that?
Lad. The Thane of Fife, had a Wife: where is ſhe now? What will theſe hands ne're be clean? No more o' that, my Lord, no more o' that: you marr all with ſtarting.
Doct. Go to, go to:
You have known what you ſhould not.
Gent. She has ſpoke what ſhe ſhould not, I am ſure of that: Heaven knows what ſhe has known.
La. Here's the ſmell of bloud ſtill: all the perfumes of Arabia will not ſweeten this little hand.
Oh, oh, oh.
Doct. What a ſigh is there? The heart is ſorely charg'd.
Gent. I would not have ſuch a heart in my boſome, for dignity of the whole body.
Doct. Well, well, well.
Gent. Pray God it be, Sir.
Doct. This Diſeaſe is beyond my practice: yet I have known thoſe which have walkt in their ſleep, who have died holily in their Beds.
Lad. Waſh your hands, put on your Night-Gown, look not ſo pale: I tell you yet again, Banquo's buried; he cannot come out on's Grave.
Doct. Even ſo?
Lady. To Bed, to Bed: there's knocking at the Gate:
Come,

Come, come, come, come, give me your hand: What's done, cannot be undone. To bed, to bed, to bed.

[Exit Lady.

Doct. Will ſhe go now to bed?

Gent. Directly.

Doct. Foul whiſperings are abroad: unnatural deeds
Do breed unnatural troubles: Infected minds
To their deaf pillows will diſcharge their ſecrets:
More needs ſhe the Divine than the Phyſician:
God, God forgive us all. Look after her,
Remove from her the means of all annoyance,
And ſtill keep eyes upon her: So good night:
My mind ſhe has mated, and amaz'd my ſight.
I think, but dare not ſpeak.

Gent. Good night, good Doctor. [Exeunt.

Scæna Secunda.

Drum and Colours. Enter Menteth, Cathnes, Angus, Lenox, Souldiers.

Ment. The Engliſh power is near, led on by Malcolm,
His Uncle Seyward, and the good Macduff.
Revenges burn in them: For their dear cauſes
Excite the mortified man.

Ang. Near Birnam wood
Shall we meet them, that way are they coming.

Cath. Who knows if Donalbaine be with his Brother?

Lenox. For certain, Sir, he is not: I have a File
Of all the Gentry; there is Seyward's Son,
And many unruff Youths, that even now
Proteſt their firſt of Manhood.

Ment. What do's the Tyrant?

Cath. Great Dunſinane he ſtrongly fortifies,
Some ſay he's mad: Others, that leſſer hates him,
Do call it valiant Fury, but, for certain,
He cannot buckle his diſtemper'd cauſe
Within the belt of Rule.

Ang. Now do's he feel
His ſecret Murthers ſticking on his hands,
Now minutely Revolts upraid his faith-breach:
Thoſe he commands move only in command,
Nothing in love: Now does he feel his Title
Hang looſe about him, like a Giants Robe
Upon a Dwarfiſh Thief.

Ment. Who then ſhall blame
His peſter'd Senſes to recoyl, and ſtart,
When all that is within him do's condemn.
It ſelf for being there.

Cath. Well, march we on,
To give obedience where 'tis truly ow'd:
Meet we the Med'cine of the ſickly Weal,
And with him pour we in our Countries purge,
Each drop of us.

Lenox. Or ſo much as it needs,
To dew the Sovereign Flower, and drown the Weeds.
Make we our March towards Birnam.

[Exeunt Marching.

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Macbeth, Doctour, and Attendants.

Mac. Bring me no more Reports, let them fly all:
Till Birnam Wood remove to Dunſinane,
I cannot taint with fear. What's the Boy, Malcolme?
Was he not born of Woman? The Spirits that know
All mortal Conſequences, have pronounc'd me thus:
Fear not, Macbeth, no man that's born of woman
Shall e're have power upon thee. Then fly falſe Thanes,
And mingle with the Engliſh Epicures,
The mind I ſway by, and the heart I bear,
Shall never ſag with doubt, nor ſhake with fear.

Enter a Servant.

The Devil damn thee black, thou cream-fac'd Lown:
Where got'ſt thou that Gooſe-Look?

Ser. There is ten thouſand.

Macb. Geeſe, Villain?

Ser. Souldiers, Sir.

Macd. Go, prick thy face, and over-red thy fear,
Thou Lilly-liver'd Boy. What Souldiers, Patch?
Death of thy Soul, thoſe linnen cheeks of thine
Are Counſellours to fear. What, Souldiers, Whay-face?

Ser. The Engliſh Force, ſo pleaſe you.

Macb. Take thy face hence, Seyton, I am ſick at heart,
When I behold: Seyton, I ſay, this puſh
Will cheer me ever, or diſeaſe me now.
I have liv'd long enough: My way of life
Is faln into the Sear, the yellow leaf,
And that which ſhould acompany Old Age,
As Honour, Love, Obedience, troops of Friends,
I muſt not look to have: But in their ſtead,
Curſes, not loud but deep, Mouth-honour breath,
Which the poor heart would fain deny, and dare not.
Seyton?

Enter Seyton.

Sey. What's your Gracious pleaſure?

Macb. What news more?

Sey. All is confirm'd, my Lord, which was reported.

Macb. I'll fight, till from my bones my fleſh is hackt.
Give me my Armour.

Sey. 'Tis not needed yet.

Macb. I'll put it on:
Send out more horſes, skir the Country round,
Hang thoſe that ſtand in fear. Give me mine Armour:
How do's your Patient, Doctor?

Doct. Not ſo ſick, my Lord,
As ſhe is troubled with thick-coming Fancies,
That keep her from her reſt.

Macb. Cure her from that:
Canſt thou not miniſter to a mind diſeas'd,
Pluck from the memory a rooted Sorrow,
Raſe out the written troubles of the Brain,
And with ſome ſweet oblivious Antidote,
Cleanſe the ſtuft boſome of that perillous ſtuff,
Which weighs upon the heart?

Doct. Therein the Patient
Muſt miniſter unto himſelf.

Macb. Throw Phyſick to the Dogs, I'll none of it.
Come, put my Armour on, give me my Staffe:
Seyton, Send out: Doctor, the Thanes fly from me:
Come, Sir, diſpatch. If thou could'ſt, Doctor, caſt
The water of my Land, find her diſeaſe,
And purge it to a ſound and priſtine Health,
I would applaud thee to the very Echo,
That ſhould applaud again. Pull't of, I ſay,
What Rubarb, Senna, or what Purgative Drug,
Would ſcour theſe Engliſh hence: Hear'ſt thou of them?

Doct. I, my good Lord: Your Royal preparation
Makes us hear ſomething.

Macb. Bring it after me:
I will not be afraid of Death and Bane,
Till Birnam Foreſt come to Dunſinane.

Doct. Were I from Dunſinane away, and clear,
Profit again ſhould hardly draw me here. [Exeunt.

Scæna Quarta.

Drum and Colours. Enter Malcolme, Seyward, Macduffe, Seyward's Son, Menteth, Cathnes, Angus, and Souldiers Marching.

Mal. Couſin, I hope the days are near at hand,
That Chambers will be ſafe.

Ment.

Ment. We doubt it nothing.
Seyw. What Wood is this before us?
Ment. The Wood of Birnam.
Malc. Let every Souldier hew him down a Bough,
And bear't before him, thereby ſhall we ſhadow
The numbers of our Hoaſt, and make diſcovery
Erre in report of us.
Sould. It ſhall be done.
Seyw. We learn no other, but the confident Tyrant,
Keeps ſtill in Dunſinane, and will endure
Our ſetting down befor't.
Malc. 'Tis his main hope:
For where there is advantage to be given,
Both more and leſs have given him the Revolt,
And none ſerve with him, but conſtrained things,
Whoſe hearts are abſent too.
Macd. Let our beſt Cenſures
Before the true event, and put we on Induſtrious Souldierſhip.
Sey. The time approaches,
That will with due deciſion make us know
What we ſhall ſay we have, and what we owe:
Thoughts ſpeculative, their unſure hopes relate,
But certain iſſue, ſtrokes muſt arbitrate,
Towards which, advance the War. [Exeunt marching.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Macbeth, Seyton, and Souldiers, with Drums and Colours.

Macb. Hang out our Banners on the outward Walls,
The Cry is ſtill, they come: Our Caſtles ſtrength
Will laugh a Siege to ſcorn: Here let them lie,
Till Famine and the Ague eat them up:
Were they not forc'd with thoſe that ſhould be ours,
We might have met them dareful, beard to beard,
And beat them backward home. What is that noiſe?
[A cry within of Women.
Sey. It is the cry of Women, my good Lord.
Macb. I have almoſt forgot the taſte of Fears:
The time has been, my ſenſes would have cool'd
To hear a Night-ſhriek, and my Fell of hair
Would at a diſmal Treatiſe rouze, and ſtir
As life were in't. I have ſupt full with horrors,
Direneſs familiar to my ſlaughterous thoughts
Cannot once ſtart me. Wherefore was that cry?
Sey. The Queen (my Lord) is dead.
Macb. She ſhould have dy'd hereafter;
There would have been a time for ſuch a word:
To morrow, and to morrow, and to morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the laſt Syllable of Recorded time:
And all our yeſterdays have lighted Fools
The way to ſtudy death. Out, out, brief Candle,
Life's but a walking Shadow, a poor Player,
That ſtruts and frets his hour upon the Stage,
And then is heard no more. It is a tale
Told by an Ideot, full of ſound and fury
Signifying nothing.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Thou com'ſt to uſe thy tongue: thy ſtory quickly.
Meſ. My Gracious Lord,
I ſhould report that which I ſay I ſaw,
But know not how to do't.
Macb. Well, ſay, Sir.
Meſ. As I did ſtand my Watch upon the Hill,
I look'd toward Birnam, and anon me thought
The Wood began to move.
Macb. Lyar, and Slave.
Meſ. Let me endure your wrath, if't be not ſo:
Within this three mile you may ſee it coming.
I ſay, a moving Grove.
Macb. If thou ſpeak'ſt falſe,
Upon the next Tree ſhalt thou hang alive
Till Famine cling thee: If thy ſpeech be ſooth,
I care not if thou do'ſt for me as much.
I pull in Reſolution, and begin
To doubt the Equivocation of the Fiend,
That lies like truth. Fear not, till Birnam Wood
Do come to Dunſinane, and now a Wood
Comes toward Dunſinane. Arm, arm, and out,
If this which he avouches do's appear,
There is no flying hence, nor tarrying here,
I'gin to be a weary of the Sun,
And wiſh th' eſtate o' th' World were now undone.
Ring the alarum Bell, blow Wind, come wrack,
At leaſt we'll die with Harneſs on our back. [Exeunt.

Scena Sexta.

Drums and Colours.
Enter Malcolme, Seyward, Macduffe, and their Army, with Boughs.

Mal. Now near enough:
Your Leavy Screens throw down,
And ſhew like thoſe you are: You (worthy Uncle)
Shall with my Couſin, your right Noble Son,
Lead our firſt Battel. Worthy Macduffe, and we Shall take upon's what elſe remains to do
According to our order.
Seyw. Fare you well:
Do we but find the Tyrants power to night,
Let us be beaten, if we cannot fight. (breath,
Macd. Make all our Trumpets ſpeak, give them all
Thoſe clamorous Harbingers of bloud and death. [Exeunt.
[Alarums continued.

Scena Septima.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. They have ty'd me to a ſtake, I cannot fly,
But Bear-like I muſt fight the courſe. What's he
That was not born of Woman? Such a one
Am I to fear, or none.

Enter Young Seyward.

Y. Sey. What is thy name?
Macb. Thou'lt be afraid to hear it.
Y. Sey. No: though thou call'ſt thy ſelf a hotter name
Than any is in Hell.
Macb. My name's Macbeth.
Y. Sey. The Devil himſelf could not pronounce a Title
More hateful to mine Ear.
Macb. No: nor more fearful.
Y. Sey. Thou lieſt thou abhorred Tyrant, with my Sword
I'll prove the lye thou ſpeak'ſt.
Fight, and young Seyward's ſlain.
Macb. Thou waſt born of Woman;
But Swords I ſmile at, Weapons laugh to ſcorn,
Brandiſh'd by man that's of a Woman born. [Exit.

Alarums. Enter Macduffe.

Macd. That way the noiſe is: Tyrant, ſhew thy face,
If thou beeſt ſlain, and with no ſtroke of mine,
My Wife and Childrens Ghoſts will haunt me ſtill:
I cannot ſtrike at wretched Kernes, whoſe arms
Are hir'd to bear their Staves; either thou, Macbeth,
Or elſe my Sword with an unbattered edge

I ſheath

I ſheath again undeeded. There thou ſhould'ſt be
By this great clatter, one of greateſt note
Seems bruited. Let me find him Fortune,
And more I beg not. [Exit. Alarums.

Enter Malcolme and Seyward.

Seyw. This way, my Lord, the Caſtles gently rendred:
The Tyrants people, on both ſides do fight,
The Noble Thanes do bravely in the War,
The day almoſt it ſelf profeſſes yours,
And little is to do.
Malc. We have met with Foes
That ſtrike beſide us.
Seyw. Enter, Sir, the Caſtle. [Exeunt. Alarum.

Enter Macbeth.

Mac. Why ſhould I play the Roman Fool, and die
On mine own Sword? whiles I ſee lives, the gaſhes
Do better upon them.

Enter Macduffe.

Macd. Turn Hell-hound, turn.
Macb. Of all men elſe I have avoided thee:
But get the back, my Soul is too much charg'd
With bloud of thine already.
Macd. I have no words,
My Voice is in my Sword, thou bloudier Villain
Than terms can give thee out. [Fight. Alarum.
Macb. Thou loſeſt labour,
As eaſie may'ſt thou the intrenchant Air
With thy keen Sword impreſs, as make me bleed:
Let fall thy blade on vulnerable Creſts,
I bear a charmed life, which muſt not yield
To one of Woman born.
Macd. Deſpair thy Charm,
And let the Angel whom thou ſtill haſt ſerv'd
Tell thee, Macduffe was from his Mothers Womb
Untimely ript.
Macb. Accurſed be that tongue that tells me ſo;
For it hath Cow'd my better part of man:
And be theſe Jugling Fiends no more believ'd,
That palter with us in a double ſenſe,
That keep the word of promiſe to our Ear,
And break it to our hope. I'll not fight with thee.
Macd. Then yield thee Coward,
And live to be the ſhew, and gaze o' th' time.
We'll have thee, as our Rarer Monſters are Painted upon a Pole, and under-writ,
Here may you ſee the Tyrant.
Macb. I will not yield
To kiſs the ground before young Malcolms feet,
And to be baited with the Rabbles Curſe,
Though Birnam Wood be come to Dunſinane,
And thou oppos'd, being of no Woman born,
Yet I will try the laſt. Before my Body,
I throw my Warlike Shield: Lay on Macduffe,
And damn'd be him, that firſt cries hold, enough.
[Exeunt fighting. Alarums.

Enter fighting, and Macbeth ſlain.
Retreat and Flouriſh. Enter with Drum and Colours.
Malcolme, Seyward, Roſſe, Thanes, and Souldiers.

Mal. I would the Friends we miſs, were ſafe arriv'd.
Sey. Some muſt go off: and yet by theſe I ſee,
So great a day as this is cheaply bought.
Mal. Macduffe is miſſing, and your noble Son.
Roſſ. Your Son, my Lord, ha's paid a Souldiers Debt,
He only liv'd but till he was a man,
The which no ſooner had his proweſs confirm'd
In the unſhrinking ſtation where he fought,
But like a man he dy'd.
Sey. Then he is dead?
Roſſe. I, and brought off the Field: your cauſe of ſorrow
Muſt not be meaſur'd by his worth, for then
It hath no end.
Sey. Had he his hurts before.
Roſſ. I, on the Front.
Sey. Why then, Gods Souldier be he:
Had I as many Sons as I have hairs,
I would not wiſh them to a fairer death:
And ſo his Knell is knoll'd.
Mal. He's worth more ſorrow,
And that I'll ſpend for him.
Sey. He's worth no more,
They ſay he parted well, and paid his ſcore,
And ſo God be with him. Here comes newer comfort.

Enter Macduffe, with Macbeths Head.

Macd. Hail, King, for ſo thou art.
Behold where ſtands
Th' Uſurpers Curſed Head; the time is free:
I ſee thee compaſt with thy Kingdoms Pearl,
That ſpeak my ſalutation in their minds:
Whoſe Voices I deſire aloud with mine.
Hail King of Scotland.
All. Hail, King of Scotland. [Flouriſh.
Mal. We ſhall not ſpend a large expence of time,
Before you reckon with your ſeveral loves,
And make us even with you. My Thanes and Kinſmen
Henceforth be Earls, the firſt that ever Scotland
In ſuch an honour nam'd: What's more to do
Which would be planted newly with the time,
As calling home our exil'd Friends abroad,
That fled the Snares of watchful Tyranny,
Producing forth the cruel Miniſters
Of this dead Butcher, and his Fiend-like Queen;
Who (as 'tis thought) by ſelf and violent hands,
Took off her life. This, and what needful elſe
That calls upon us, by the Grace of Grace,
We will perform in meaſure, time and place:
So thanks to all at once, and to each one,
Whom we invite, to ſee us Crown'd at Scone.
[Flouriſh. Exeunt omnes.

THE

THE TRAGEDY OF HAMLET RPINCE of DENMARK.

Actus Primus. Scæna Prima.

Enter Barnardo and Franciſco, two Centinels.

Bar. WHo's there?

Fran. Nay anſwer me: Stand and unfold your ſelf.

Bar. Long live the King.

Fran. Barnardo.

Bar. He.

Fran. You come moſt carefully upon your hour.

Bar. 'Tis now ſtruck twelve, get thee to Bed, Franciſco.

Fran. For this relief much thanks: 'tis bitter cold, And I am ſick at heart.

Bar. Have you had quiet Guard.

Fran. Not a Mouſe ſtirring.

Bar. Well, good Night. If you do meet Horatio and Marcellus, the Rivals of my Watch, bid them make haſt.

Enter Horatio and Marcellus.

Fran. I think I hear them. Stand, who's there?

Hor. Friends to this ground.

Mar. And Liege-men to the Dane.

Fran. Give you good Night.

Mar. O farewel, honeſt Souldier, who hath reliev'd you?

Fran. Barnardo has my place: give you good Night. [Exit Franciſco.

Mar. Holla, Barnardo.

Bar. Say, what is Horatio there?

Hor. A piece of him.

Bar. Welcome, Horatio, welcome, good Marcellus.

Mar. What, has this thing appear'd again to Night.

Bar. I have ſeen nothing.

Mar. Horatio ſays, 'tis but our phantaſie, And will not let belief take hold of him Touching this dreaded ſight, twice ſeen of us, Therefore I have intreated him along With us, to watch the minutes of this Night, That if again this Apparition come, He may approve our Eyes, and ſpeak to it.

Hor. Tuſh, tuſh, 'twill not appear.

Bar. Sit down a while, And let us once again aſſail your Ears, That are ſo fortified againſt our ſtory, What we two Nights have ſeen.

Hor. Well, ſit we down, And let us hear Barnardo ſpeak of this.

Bar. Laſt night of all, When yon ſame Star, that's weſtward from the Pole Had made his courſe t'illume that part of Heaven. Where now it burns, Marcellus and my ſelf, The Bell then beating one.

Mar. Peace, break thee off:

Enter the Ghoſt.

Look where it comes again.

Bar. In the ſame figure like the King that's dead.

Mar. Thou art a Scholar, ſpeak to it, Horatio.

Bar. Looks it not like the King? Mark it, Horatio.

Hor. Moſt like: It harrows me with fear and wonder.

Bar. It would be ſpoke to.

Mar. Queſtion it, Horatio.

Hor. What art thou that uſurp'ſt this time of Night, Together with that fair and warlike form In which the Majeſty of buried Denmark Did ſometimes march: By Heaven I charge thee ſpeak.

Mar. It is offended.

Bar. See, it ſtalks away.

Hor. Stay: ſpeak; ſpeak: I charge thee, ſpeak. [Exit Ghoſt.

Mar. 'Tis gone, and will not anſwer.

Bar. How now, Horatio? You tremble and look pale: Is not this ſomething more than fantaſie? What think you on't?

Hor. Before my God I might not this believe Without the ſenſible and true avouch Of mine own Eyes.

Mar. Is it not like the King?

Hor. As thou art to thy ſelf, Such was the Armour he had on, When th'ambitious Norway combated: So frown'd he once, when in an angry parle He ſmote the ſledded Poleaxe on the Ice. 'Tis ſtrange.

Mar. Thus 'twice before, and juſt at this ſame hour, With Martial ſtalk, hath he gone by our Watch.

Hor. In what particular thought to work, I know not: But in the groſs and ſcope of my opinion,

This

This bodes some strange eruption to our State.
Mar. Good now sit down, and tell me he that knows
Why this same strict and most observant watch,
So nightly toils the subject of the Land,
And why such daily cast of Brazen Cannon
And foreign Mart for Implements of War:
Why such impresse of Shipwrights, whose sore Task
Dos't not divide the Sunday from the week,
What might be toward, that this sweaty haste
Doth make the night joynt-labourer with the day:
Who is't that can informe me?
Hor. That can I,
At least the whisper goes so, Our last King,
Whose Image even but now appear'd to us,
Was (as you know) by Fortinbras of Norway,
(Thereto prick'd on by a most emulate pride)
Dar'd to the combate. In which, our valiant Hamlet,
(For so this side of our known world esteem'd him)
Did slay this Fortinbras: who by a seal'd Compact,
Well ratified by Law, and Heraldry,
Did forfeit (with his life) all those his Lands
Which he stood seiz'd on, to the Conqueror:
Against the which, a Moity competent
Was gaged by our King: which had return'd
To the Inheritance of Fortinbras,
Had he bin Vanquisher, as by the same Cov'nant
And carriage of the Article design'd,
His sell to Hamlet. Now sir, young Fortinbras,
Of unimproved mettle, hot and full,
Hath in the skirts of Norway, here and there,
Shark'd up a List of Landless Resolutes,
For food and Dyet, to some enterprize
That hath a stomach in't: which is no other
(And it doth well appear unto our State)
But to recover of us by strong hand
And terms compulsative, those foresaid Lands
So by his father lost: and this (I take it)
Is the main motive of our Preparations,
The source of this our watch, and the chief head
Of this post-haste, and Romage in the Land.

Enter Ghost again.

But soft, behold: Lo, where it comes again:
I'le cross it, though it blast me. Stay, Illusion:
If thou hast any sound, or use of voice,
Speak to me. If there be any good thing to be done,
That may to thee do ease, and grace to me; speak to me.
If thou art privy to thy Countries Fate
(Which happily foreknowing may avoid) Oh speak.
Or, if thou hast uphorded in thy life
Extorted Treasure in the womb of Earth,
(For which, they say, you spirits oft walk in death)
Speak of it. Stay, and speak. Stop it, Marcellus.
Mar. Shall I strike at it with my Partizan?
Hor. Do if it will not stand.
Barn. 'Tis here.
Hor. 'Tis here.
Mar. 'Tis gone. [Exit Ghost.
We do it wrong, being so Majestical
To offer it the shew of Violence,
For it is as the air, invulnerable,
And our vain blows, malicious mockery.
Barn. It was about to speak, when the Cock crew.
Hor. And then it started, like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful Summons. I have heard,
The Cock that is the Trumpet to the day,
Doth with his lofty and shrill-sounding throat
Awake the God of Day: and at his warning,
Whether in Sea, or Fire, in Earth, or Air,
Th'extravagant and erring spirit hyes
To his Confine. And of the truth herein,
This present Object made probation.
Mar. It faded on the crowing of the Cock.
Some say es, that ever 'gainst that season comes
Wherein our Saviours Birth is celebrated,
The Bird of Dawning singeth all night long:
And (they say) no spirit can walk abroad,
The nights are wholsome, then no Planets strike,
No Fairy talks, no Witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd, and so gracious is the time.
Hor. So have I heard, and do in part believe it,
But look, the Morn in Russet Mantle clad,
Walks o're the Dew of yon high Eastern hill,
Break we our Watch up, and by my advice
Let us impart what we have seen to night
Unto young Hamlet. For upon my life,
This spirit dumb to us, will speak to him:
Do you consent we shall acquaint him with it,
As needful in our Loves, fitting our duty?
Mar. Let's do't, I pray, and I this morning know
Where we shall find him most conveniently. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Clandius, King of Denmark, Gertrude the Queen, Hamlet, Polonius, Laertes, *and his Si*ster Ophelia, Lords, Attendants.

King. Though yet of Hamlet our dear Brothers death,
The Memory be green: and that it us befitted
To bear our hearts in grief, and our whole Kingdom
To be contracted in one brow of woe:
Yet so far hath Discretion fought with Nature,
That we with wisest sorrow think on him,
Together with remembrance of our selves.
Therefore our sometimes Sister, now our Queen,
Th' Imperial Joyntresse of this warlike State,
Have we, as 'twere, with a defeated joy,
With one Auspicious, and one Dropping eye,
With mirth in Funeral, and with Dirge in Marriage,
In equal Scale weighing delight and Dole
Taken to wife; nor have we herein barr'd
Your better wisdoms, which have freely gone
With this affair along, for all our thanks.
Now follows, that you know young Fortinbras,
Holding a weak supposal of our worth;
Or thinking by our late dear Brothers death,
Our State to be disjoynt, and out of Frame,
Colleagued with the dream of his Advantage;
He hath not fail'd to pester us with Message,
Importing the surrender of those lands
Lost by his Father, with all Bonds of Law
To our most valiant Brother. So much for him.

Enter Voltimand and Cornelius.

Now for our self, and for this time of meeting:
Thus much the business is. We have here writ
To Norway, Uncle of young Fortinbras,
Who impotent and bedrid, scarcely hears
Of this his Nephews purpose, to suppress
His further gate herein. In that he levies,
The Lists, and full proportions are all made
Out of his subject: and we here dispatch
You, good Cornelius, and you Voltimand,
For bearing of this greeting to old Norway,
Giving to you no further personal power
To business with the King, more than the scope
Of these dilated Articles allow:
Farewell, and let your haste commend your duty.
Volt. In that, and all things, will we shew our duty.
King. We doubt in nothing, heartily farewell.
[Exeunt Voltimand and Cornelius.
And now Laertes, what's the news with you?
You told us of some suit. What is't, Laertes,
You cannot speak of Reason to the Dane,

And

And loſe your voice. What wouldſt thou beg, Laertes,
That ſhall not be my Offer, not thy Asking?
The head is not more native to the heart,
The hand more inſtrumental to the mouth,
Than is the Throne of Denmark to thy father.
What wouldſt thou have, Laertes?
Laer. Dread my Lord,
Your leave and favour to return to France:
From whence, though willingly I came to Denmark,
To ſhew my duty in your Coronation,
Yet now I muſt confeſs, that duty done,
My thoughts and wiſhes bend again towards France,
And bow them to your gracious leave and pardon.
King. Have you your Fathers leave?
What ſays Polonius?
Pol. He hath, my Lord:
I do beſeech you give him leave to go.
King. Take thy fair hour, Laertes, time be thine,
And thy beſt graces ſpend it at thy will:
But now, my Couſin Hamlet, and my Son?
Ham. A little more than kin, and leſs then kind.
King. How is it that the Clouds ſtill hang on you?
Ham. Not ſo, my Lord, I am too much i'th' Sun,
Queen. Good Hamlet caſt thy nightly colour off,
And let thine eye look like a Friend on Denmark.
Do not for ever with thy veiled lids
Seek for thy Noble Father in the duſt;
Thou know'ſt 'tis common, all that live muſt dye,
Paſſing through Nature to Eternity.
Ham. I, Madam, it is common.
Queen If it be;
Why ſeems it ſo particular with thee?
Ham. Seems, Madam? Nay, it is: I know not Seems:
'Tis not alone my Inky Cloak (good Mother)
Nor Cuſtomary ſuits of ſolemn Black,
Nor windy ſuſpiration of forc'd breath,
No, nor the fruitful River in the Eye,
Nor the dejected haviour of the Viſage,
Together with all Forms, Moods, ſhews of Grief,
That can denote me truly. Theſe indeed Seem,
For they are actions that a man might play:
But I have that within, which paſſeth ſhow:
Theſe, but the Trappings, and the Suits of woe.
King. 'Tis ſweet and commendable
In your Nature, Hamlet,
To give theſe mourning duties to your Father:
But you muſt know, your Father loſt a Father,
The Father loſt, loſt his, and the ſurviver bound
In filial Obligation, for ſome term
To do obſequious Sorrow. But to perſevere
In obſtinate condolement, is a courſe
Of impious ſtubbornneſs. 'Tis unmanly grief,
It ſhews a will moſt incorrect to Heaven,
A heart unfortified, a mind impatient,
An Underſtanding ſimple, and unſchool'd:
For what we know muſt be, and is as common
As any the moſt vulgar thing to ſence,
Why ſhould we in our peeviſh Oppoſition
Take it to heart? Fie, 'tis a fault to Heaven,
A fault againſt the Dead, a fault to Nature,
To Reaſon moſt abſurd, whoſe common theam
Is death of Fathers, and who ſtill hath cry'd,
From the firſt Coarſe, till he that dyed to day,
This muſt be ſo. We pray you throw to earth
This unprevailing woe, and think of us,
As of a Father: For let the world take note,
You are the moſt immediate to our Throne,
And with no leſs Nobility of Love,
Than that which deareſt Father bears his Son,
Do I impart towards you. For your intent
In going back to School in Wittenberg,
It is moſt retrograde to our deſire:
And we beſeech you, bend you to remain
Here in the cheer and comfort of our Eye,
Our chiefeſt Courtier, Couſin, and our Son.
Queen. Let not thy Brother loſe her Prayers, Hamlet:
I prithee ſtay with us, go not to Wittenberg,
Ham. I ſhall in all my beſt
Obey you, Madam.
King. Why 'tis a loving, and a fair Reply,
Be as our ſelf in Denmark. Madam, come,
This gentle and unforc'd accord of Hamlet
Sits ſmiling to my heart, in grace whereof,
No jocund Health that Denmark drinks to day,
But the great Cannon to the Clouds ſhall tell,
And the Kings Rouce, the Heaven ſhall bruit again,
Re-ſpeaking earthly Thunder. Come away. [Exeunt.

Manet Hamlet.

Ham. O that this too too ſolid Fleſh would melt,
Thaw, and reſolve it ſelf into a Dew:
Or that the Everlaſting had not fixt
His Cannon 'gainſt ſelf ſlaughter. O God, O God!
How weary, ſtale, flat, and unprofitable
Seems to me all the uſes of this World?
Fie on't! O fie! 'tis an unweeded Garden
That grows to Seed: things rank, and groſs in Nature
Poſſeſs it merely. That it ſhould come to this:
But two Months dead: Nay, not ſo much; not two,
So excellent a King, that was to this
Hyperion to a Satyr: ſo loving to my Mother,
That he might not betweene the winds of Heaven
Viſit her face too roughly. Heaven and Earth
Muſt I remember: why ſhe would hang on him,
As if increaſe of Appetite had grown
By what it fed on; and yet within a Month?
Let me not think on't: Frailty, thy name is woman:
A little Month, or e're thoſe ſhooes were old,
With which ſhe followed my poor Fathers Body,
Like Niobe, all tears. Why ſhe, even ſhe,
(O Heaven! A Beaſt that wants diſcourſe of Reaſon
Would have mourn'd longer) married with mine Uncle,
My Fathers Brother: but no more like my Father,
Than I to Hercules. Within a Month?
E're yet the ſalt of moſt unrighteous tears
Had left the fluſhing of her gauled eyes,
She married. O moſt wicked ſpeed, to poſt
With ſuch dexterity to inceſtuous ſheets:
It is not, nor it cannot come to good.
But break, my heart, for I muſt hold my tongue.

Enter Horatio, Barnard, and Marcellus.

Hor. Hail to your Lordſhip.
Ham. I am glad to ſee you well,
Horatio, or I do forget my ſelf.
Hor. The ſame, my Lord,
And your poor ſervant ever.
Ham. Sir, my good friend,
I'll change that name with you:
And what make you from Wittenberg, Horatio?
Marcellus.
Mar. My good Lord.
Ham. I am very glad to ſee you: good even, ſir.
But, in faith, make you from Wittenberg.
Hor. A Truant diſpoſition, good my Lord.
Ham. I would have your Enemy ſay ſo;
Nor ſhall you do mine ear that violence,
To take it truſter of your own report
Againſt your ſelf. I know you are no Truant:
But what is your affair in Elſenoore?
We'll teach you to drink deep e're you depart.
Hor. My Lord, I came to ſee your Father's Funeral.
Ham. I prithee do not mock me (fellow Student)
I think it was to ſee my Mothers Wedding.
Hor. Indeed, my Lord, it followeth hard upon.
Ham. Thriſt, thrift, Horatio: the Funeral bak'd Meats

Did coldly furniſh forth the Marriage Tables;
Would I had met my deareſt Foe in Heaven,
E're I had ever ſeen that day, Horatio.
My Father, methinks I ſee my Father.
Hor. O where, my Lord?
Ham. In my minds eye (Horatio)
Hor. I ſaw him once, he was a goodly King.
Ham. He was a man, take him for all in all:
I ſhould not look upon his like again.
Hor. My Lord, I think I ſaw him yeſternight.
Ham. Saw? Who?
Hor. My Lord, the King your Father.
Ham. The King my Father!
Hor. Seaſon your admiration for a while
With an attentive Ear; till I may deliver
Upon the witneſs of theſe Gentlemen,
This marvel to you.
Ham. For Heavens love, let me hear.
Hor. Two nights together, had theſe Gentlemen
(Marcellus and Barnardo) on their Watch
In the dead waſte and middle of the night
Been thus encountred. A figure like your Father,
Arm'd at all points exactly, Cap a Pe,
Appears before them, and with ſolemn March
Goes ſlow and ſtately: By them thrice he walk'd,
By their oppreſt and fear-ſurprized Eyes,
Within his Truncheons length; whilſt they be ſtill'd
Almoſt to Jelly with the Act of fear,
Stand dumb and ſpeak not to him. This to me
In dreadful ſecrecy impart they did,
And I with them the third night kept the Watch,
Whereas they had deliver'd both in time,
Form of the thing; each word made true and good,
The Apparition comes. I knew your Father:
Theſe hands are not more like.
Ham. But where was this?
Mar. My Lord, upon the platform where we watcht.
Ham. Did you not ſpeak to it?
Hor. My Lord, I did;
But anſwer made it none: yet once methought
It lifted up its head, and did addreſs
It ſelf to motion, like as it would ſpeak:
But even then, the Morning Cock crew loud;
And at the ſound it ſhrunk in haſte away,
And vaniſht from our ſight.
Ham. 'Tis very ſtrange.
Hor. As I do live, my honourable Lord, 'tis true;
And we did think it writ down in our duty
To let you know of it.
Ham. Indeed, indeed, Sirs, but this troubles me.
Hold you the Watch to night?
Both. We do, my Lord?
Ham. Arm'd, ſay you?
Both. Arm'd, my Lord.
Ham. From top to toe?
Both. My Lord, from head to foot.
Ham. Then ſaw you not his face?
Hor. O yes, my Lord, he wore his Beaver up.
Ham. What, lookt he frowningly?
Hor. A countenance more in ſorrow than in anger.
Ham. Pale, or red?
Hor. Nay, very pale.
Ham. And fixt his Eyes upon you?
Hor. Moſt conſtantly.
Ham. I would I had been there.
Hor. It would have much amaz'd you.
Ham. Very like, very like: ſtaid it long? (dred.
Hor. While one with moderate haſte might tell a hun-
All. Longer, longer.
Hor. Not when I ſaw't.
Ham. His Beard was griſly?
Hor. It was, I have ſeen it in his life,
A Sable Silver'd.
Ham. I'll watch to night; perchance 'twill walk again.
Hor. I warrant you it will.
Ham. If it aſſume my noble Fathers perſon,
I'll ſpeak to it, though Hell it ſelf ſhould gape
And bid me hold my peace. I pray you all,
If you have hitherto concealed this ſight;
Let it be treble in your ſilence ſtill:
And whatſoever elſe ſhall hap to night,
Give it an underſtanding but no tongue;
I will require your loves; ſo, fare ye well:
Upon the Platform 'twixt eleven and twelve,
I'll viſit you.
All. Our duty to your Honour. [Exeunt.
Ham. Your love, as mine to you: farewel.
My Fathers ſpirit in Arms! All is not well:
I doubt ſome foul play: would the night were come;
Till then ſit ſtill, my Soul; foul deeds will riſe,
Though all the Earth o'rewhelm them to mens Eyes. [Exit.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Laertes and Ophelia.

Laer. My neceſſaries are imbark'd, farewel:
And Siſter, as the Winds give benefit,
And Convoy is aſſiſtant; do not ſleep,
But let me hear from you.
Ophe. Do you doubt that?
Laer. For Hamlet, and the trifling of his favours,
Hold it a faſhion and a toy in Bloud;
A Violet in the youth of Primy Nature;
Forward, not permanent; ſweet, not laſting
The ſuppliance of a minute; No more.
Ophe. No more but ſo.
Laer. Think it no more:
For nature creſcent does not grow alone,
In thews and Bulk: but as his Temple waxes,
The inward ſervice of the mind and ſoul
Grows wide withal. Perhaps he loves you now,
And now no foil nor cautel doth beſmerch
The vertue of his fear: but you muſt fear
His greatneſs weigh'd, his will is not his own:
For he himſelf is ſubject to his Birth:
He may not, as unvalued perſons do,
Carve for himſelf; for, on his choice depends
The ſanctity and health of the whole State.
And therefore muſt his choice be circumſcrib'd
Unto the voice and yielding of that body,
Whereof he is the head. Then if he ſays he loves you,
It fits your wiſdom ſo far to believe it;
As he in his peculiar Sect and force
May give his ſaying deed: which is no further,
Than the main Voice of Denmark goes withal.
Then weigh that loſs your honour may ſuſtain,
If with too credent Ear you liſt his Songs;
Or looſe your heart; or your chaſte treaſure open
To his unmaſtered importunity.
Fear it, Ophelia, fear it, my dear Siſter,
And keep within the rear of your affection;
Out of the ſhot and danger of deſire.
The chaſteſt maid is prodigal enough,
If ſhe unmask her beauty to the Moon:
Vertue it ſelf ſcapes not calumnious ſtrokes,
The Canker galls the infant of the ſpring
Too oft before the Buttons be diſclos'd,
And in the morn and liquid dew of Youth,
Contagious blaſtments are moſt imminent.
Be wary then, beſt ſafety lies in fear;
Youth to it ſelf rebels, though none elſe near.
Ophe. I ſhall th' effect of this good Leſſon keep,
As Watchmen to my heart: but good my Brother,
Do not as ſome ungracious Paſtors do,
Shew me the ſteep and thorny way to Heaven;
Whilſt like a puft and reckleſs Libertine

Himſelf,

Himſelf, the Primroſe path of dalliance treads,
And reaks not his own read.
Laer. Oh, fear me not.

Enter Polonius.

I ſtay too long; but here my Father comes:
A double bleſſing is a double grace;
Occaſion ſmiles upon a ſecond leave.
Polon. Yet here, Laertes? Aboard, aboard for ſhame,
The wind ſits in the ſhoulder of your ſail,
And you are ſtaid for there: my bleſſing with you:
And theſe few Precepts in thy memory,
See thou Character. Give thy thoughts no tongue,
Nor any unproportion'd thought his Act:
Be thou familiar; but by no means vulgar:
The friends thou haſt, and their adoption try'd,
Grapple them to thy Soul, with hoops of ſteel:
But do not dull thy palm, with entertainment
Of each unhatch'd, unfledg'd Comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel: but being in
Bear't that th'oppoſed may beware of thee.
Give every man thine ear; but few thy voice:
Take each mans cenſure: but reſerve thy judgment:
Coſtly thy habit as thy purſe can buy;
But not expreſt in fancy; rich, not gaudy:
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
And they in France of the beſt rank and ſtation,
Are of a moſt ſelect and generous cheff in that.
Neither a borrower, nor a lender be:
For Loan oft loſes both it ſelf and friend:
A borrowing dulls the edge of Husbandry.
This above all; to thine own ſelf be true:
And it muſt follow, as the night the Day,
Thou canſt not then be falſe to any man.
Farewel: my bleſſing ſeaſon this in thee.
Laer. Moſt humbly do I take my leave, my Lord.
Polon. The time invites you, go, your ſervants tend.
Laer. Farewel, Ophelia, and remember well
What I have ſaid to you.
Ophe. 'Tis in my memory lockt,
And you your ſelf ſhall keep the key of it.
Laer. Farewel. [Exit Laer.
Polon. What is't, Ophelia, he ſaid to you?
Ophe. So pleaſe you, ſomething touching the Lord Hamlet.
Polon. Marry, well bethought:
'Tis told me he hath very oft of late
Given private time to you; and you your ſelf
Have of your audience been moſt free and bounteous,
If it be ſo, as ſo it is, put on me;
And that in way of caution: I muſt tell you,
You do not underſtand your ſelf ſo clearly,
As it behooves my Daughter, and your honour.
What is between you, give me up the truth?
Ophe. He hath my Lord of late, made many tenders
Of his affection to me.
Polon. Affection, puh. You ſpeak like a green Girle,
Unſifted in ſuch perillous circumſtance.
Do you believe his tenders as you call them?
Ophe. I do not know, my Lord, what I ſhould think.
Pol. Marry I'le teach you; think your ſelf a Baby,
That you have tane his tenders for true pay,
Which are not ſtarling. Tender your ſelf more dearly;
Or not to crack the wind of the poor phraſe,
Roaming it thus, you'll render me a fool.
Ophe. My Lord, he hath importun'd me with love,
In honourable faſhion.
Polon. I, faſhion you may call it, go to, go to.
Ophe. And hath given countenance to his ſpeech,
My Lord, with all the vows of heaven.
Polon. I, Springs to catch VVoodcocks. I do know
When the bloud burns, how prodigal the Soul
Gives the tongue vows: theſe blazes, daughter,
Giving more light than heat; extinct in both,
Even in their promiſe, as it is a making;
You muſt not take for fire. For this time, Daughter,
Be ſomewhat ſcanter of your Maiden preſence,
Set your entreatments at a higher rate,
Than a command to parley. For Lord Hamlet,
Believe ſo much in him, that he is young,
And with a larger tether may he walk,
Than may be given you. In few, Ophelia,
Do not believe his Vows; for they are Brokers,
Not of the eye, which their inveſtments ſhew:
But meer implorators of unholy Suits,
Breathing like ſanctified and pious bonds,
The better to beguile. This is for all:
I would not, in plain terms, from this time forth,
Have you ſo ſlander any moment leiſure,
As to give words or talk with the Lord Hamlet:
Look to't, I charge you; come your way.
Ophe. I ſhall obey my Lord. [Exeunt.

Enter Hamlet, Horatio, Marcellus.

Ham. The air bites ſhrew'dly: it is very cold?
Hor. It is a nipping and eager air.
Ham. What hour now?
Hor. I think it lacks of twelve.
Mar. No, it ha's ſtruck.
Hor. Indeed I heard it not: then it draws near the ſeaſon,
Wherein the Spirit held his wont to walk.
What do's this mean, my Lord?
Ham. The King doth wake to night, and takes his rouſe,
Keeps waſſels, and the ſwaggering upſpring reels,
And as he drains his draughts of Rheniſh down,
The Kettle Drum and Trumpet thus bray out
The triumph of his pledge.
Hor. Is it a cuſtom?
Ham. I marry is't:
And to my mind, though I am native here,
And to the manner born: It is a cuſtom
More honour'd in the breach, than the obſervance.

Enter Ghoſt.

Hor. Look, my Lord, it comes.
Ham. Angels and Miniſters of grace defend us:
Be thou a Spirit of health, or Goblin damn'd,
Bring with thee airs from heaven, or blaſts from hell,
Be thy events wicked or charitable,
Thou com'ſt in ſuch a queſtionable ſhape,
That I will ſpeak to thee. I'le call thee Hamlet,
King, Father, Royal Dane: Oh, oh, anſwer me,
Let me not burſt in ignorance: but tell
Why thy Canoniz'd bones hearſed in death,
Have burſt their Cearments, why the Sepulcher
Wherein we ſaw thee quietly Inurn'd,
Hath op'd his ponderous and Marble jaws,
To caſt thee up again? What may this mean?
That thou dead Coarſe again in compleat ſteel,
Reviſit'ſt thus the glimpſes of the Moon,
Making night hideous? and we fools of Nature,
So horridly to ſhake our diſpoſition,
With thoughts beyond thee; reaches of our Souls,
Say, why is this, wherefore? what ſhould we do?
[Ghoſt beckens Hamlet.
Hor. It beckens you to go away with it,
As if it ſome impartment did deſire
To you alone.
Mar. Look with what courteous action
It wafts you to a more removed ground:
But do not go with it.
Hor. No, by no means,
Ham. It will not ſpeak: then will I follow it.
Hor. Do not, my Lord.
Ham. Why, what ſhould be the fear?
I do not ſet my life at a Pins fee?

And for my Soul what can it do to that?
Being a thing immortal as it ſelf:
It waves me forth again; I'le follow it.
Hor. What if it tempt you toward the Floud, my Lord?
Or to the dreadful Sonnet of the Cliff,
That beetles o're his baſe into the Sea,
And there aſſumes ſome other horrible form,
Which might deprive your Soveraignty of Reaſon,
And draw you into madneſs? think of it.
Ham. It wafts me ſtill: go on, I'le follow thee.
Mar. You ſhall not go, my Lord.
Ham. Hold off your hand.
Hor. Be rul'd, you ſhall not go.
Ham. My fate cries out,
And makes each petty Attire in his body,
As hardy as the Nemean Lions Nerve:
Still am I call'd? Unhand me, Gentlemen:
By heav'n, I'le make a Ghoſt of him that letts me:
I ſay away, go on, I'le follow thee.
[Exeunt. Ghoſt, and Hamlet.
Hor. He waxes deſperate with imagination.
Mar. Let's follow; 'tis not fit thus to obey him.
Hor. Have after, to what iſſue will this come?
Mar. Something is rotten in the State of Denmark.
Hor. Heaven will direct it.
Mar. Nay, let's follow him. [Exeunt.

Enter Ghoſt and Hamlet.

Ham. Where wilt thou lead me? ſpeak; I'le go no (further.
Ghoſt. Mark me. Ham. I will.
Ghoſt. My hour is almoſt come,
When I to ſulphurous and tormenting Flames
Muſt render up my ſelf.
Ham. Alas poor Ghoſt.
Ghoſt. Pitty me not, but lend thy ſerious hearing
To what I ſhall unfold.
Ham. Speak, I am bound to hear.
Ghoſt. So art thou to revenge, when thou ſhalt hear.
Ham. What?
Ghoſt. I am thy fathers ſpirit,
Doom'd for a certain term to walk the night;
And for the day confin'd to faſt in fires,
Till the foul crimes done in my dayes of Nature,
Are burnt and purg'd away: But that I am forbid
To tell the ſecrets of my Priſon-houſe;
I could a Tale unfold, whoſe light'ſt word
Would harrow up thy ſoul, freez thy young bloud,
Make thy two eyes like Stars, ſtart from their Spheres,
Thy knotty and combined locks to parr,
And each particular hair to ſtand an end
Like Quills upon the fretful Porpentine:
But this eternal blazon muſt not be
To ears of fleſh and bloud; liſt Hamlet, oh liſt,
If thou didſt ever thy dear father love.
Ham. Oh heaven!
Ghoſt. Revenge his foul and moſt unnatural Murther.
Ham. Murther?
Ghoſt. Murther moſt foul, as in the beſt it is;
But this moſt foul, ſtrange, and unnatural.
Ham. Haſte, haſte me to know it,
That I with wings as ſwift
As Meditation, or the thoughts of Love
May ſweep to my Revenge.
Ghoſt. I find thee apt,
And duller ſhould'ſt thou be than the fat weed
That rots it ſelf in eaſe on Lethe Wharf,
Would'ſt thou not ſtir in this. Now, Hamlet, hear:
It's given out, that ſleeping in mine Orchard,
A Serpent ſtung me: ſo the whole ear of Denmark,
Is by a forged proceſs of my death
Rankly abus'd: But know, thou noble youth,
The Serpent that did ſting thy fathers life,
Now wears his Crown.
Ham. O my Prophetick Soul: mine Uncle?
Ghoſt. I, that inceſtuous, that adulterate Beaſt
With witchcraft of his wits, and traiterous gifts
(Oh wicked wit, and gifts, that have the power
So to ſeduce)! won to his ſhameful luſt
The will of my moſt ſeeming vertuous Queen:
Oh Hamlet, what a falling off was there,
From me, whoſe love was of that dignity,
That it went hand in hand, even with the Vow
I made to her in Marriage; and to decline
Upon a Wretch, whoſe natural gifts were poor
To thoſe of mine. But vertue, as it never will be moved,
Though Lewdneſs court it in a ſhape of heaven:
So luſt, though to a radiant Angel link'd,
Will ſeat it ſelf in a Celeſtial bed, and prey in Garbage.
But ſoft, methinks I ſcent the mornings Air:
Brief let me be: ſleeping within mine Orchard,
My cuſtom always in the afternoon;
Upon my ſecure hour thy Uncle ſtole
With juyce of curſed Hebenon in a Viol,
And in the Porches of mine ears did pour
The leprous Diſtilment; whoſe effect
Holds ſuch an enmity with bloud of man,
That ſwift as Quick-ſilver it courſes through
The natural Gates and Allies of the body;
And with a ſudden vigour it doth poſſet
And curd, like Aygre droppings into Milk,
The thin and wholſom bloud: ſo did it mine
And a moſt inſtant Tetter bak'd about,
Moſt Lazar-like, with vile and loathſome cruſt,
All my ſmooth body.
Thus was I, ſleeping, by a Brothers hand,
Of Life, of Crown, and Queen at once diſpatcht:
Cut off even in the bloſſoms of my Sin,
Unhouzzled, diſappointed, unnaneld,
No reckoning made, but ſent to my account
With all my imperfections on my head,
Oh horrible, Oh horrible, moſt horrible!
If thou haſt nature in thee, bear it not;
Let not the Royal Bed of Denmark be
A Couch for Luxury and damned Inceſt,
But howſoever thou purſueſt this Act,
Taint not thy mind; nor let thy Soul contrive
Againſt thy Mother ought; leave her to heaven,
And to thoſe thorns that in her boſom lodge,
To prick and ſting her. Fare thee well at once,
The Glow-worm ſhews the Matine to be near,
And 'gins to pale his uneffectual Fire:
Adieu, adieu, Hamlet: remember me. [Exit.
Ham. Oh all you hoſt of heaven! Oh Earth; what elſe?
And ſhall I couple hell? Oh fie: hold my heart;
And you my ſinews, grow not inſtant Old;
But bear me ſtiffly up: remember thee?
I, thou poor Ghoſt, while memory holds a ſeat
In this diſtracted Globe: Remember thee?
Yea, from the table of my memory,
I'le wipe away all trivial fond Records,
All ſaws of books, all forms, all preſſures paſt,
That youth and obſervation copied there:
And thy Commandment all alone ſhall live
Within the book and Volume of my brain,
Unmixt with baſer matter; yes, yes, by heaven:
Oh moſt pernicious woman!
Oh Villain, Villain ſmiling damned Villain!
My Tables, my Tables: meet it is I ſet it down,
That one may ſmile, and ſmile, and be a Villain;
At leaſt I'm ſure it may be ſo in Denmark;
So Uncle, there you are: now to my word;
It is; adieu, adieu, Remember me: I have ſworn't.
Hor. & Mar. within. My Lord, my Lord.

Enter Horatio and Marcellus.

Mar. Lord Hamlet. Hor. Heaven ſecure him.

Mar.

Mar. So be it.
Hor. Illo, ho, ho, my Lord.
Ham. Hillo, ho, ho, boy; come bird, come.
Mar. How is't, my Noble Lord?
Hor. What news, my Lord?
Ham. Oh wonderful!
Hor. Good my Lord, tell it.
Ham. No, you'll reveal it.
Hor. Not I, my Lord, by heaven.
Mar. Nor I, my Lord.
Ham. How say you then, would heart of man once think it?
But you'll be secret?
Both. I, by heav'n, my Lord.
Ham. There's ne're a villain dwelling in all Denmark,
But he's an arrant Knave.
Hor. There needs no Ghost, my Lord, come from the Grave to tell us this.
Ham. Why, right, you are i'th'right;
And so without more circumstance at all,
I hold it fit that we shake hands, and part:
You as your business and desires shall point you:
For every man has business and desire,
Such as it is: and for mine own poor part,
Look you, I'le go pray.
Hor. These are but wild and hurling words, my Lord.
Ham. I'm sorry they offended you, heartily:
Yes faith, heartily:
Hor. There's no offence, my Lord.
Ham. Yes, by Saint Patrick, but there is my Lord,
And much offence too, touching this Vision here:
It is an honest Ghost, that let me tell you:
For your desire to know what is between us,
O're-master't as you may. And now, good friends,
As you are Friends, Scholars, and Souldiers,
Give me one poor request.
Hor. What is't, my Lord? we will.
Ham. Never make known what you have seen to night.
Both. My Lord, we will not.
Ham. Nay, but swear't.
Hor. In faith, my Lord, not I.
Mar. Nor I, my Lord, in faith.
Ham. Upon my Sword.
Mar. We have sworn, my Lord, already.
Ham. Indeed, upon my sword, indeed.
Gho. Swear. [Ghost cries under the Stage.
Ham. Ah, ha boy, say'st thou so? Art thou there true-penny? Come on, you hear this fellow in the Celleridge.
Consent to swear.
Hor. Propose my oath, my Lord.
Ham. Never to speak of this that you have seen.
Swear by my Sword.
Gho. Swear.
Ham. Hic & ubique? Then we'll shift for ground,
Come hither Gentlemen.
And lay your hands again upon my sword.
Never to speak of this that you have heard:
Swear by my Sword.
Gho. Swear. (fast?
Ham. Well said, old Mole, can'st work i'th' ground so
A worthy Pioneer, once more remove, good friend.
Hor. Oh day and night, but this is wondrous strange.
Ham. And therefore as a stranger bid it welcom.
There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dream't of in our Philosophy. But come,
Here as before, never so help you mercy,
How strange or odde so ere I bear my self;
(As I perchance hereafter shall think meet
To put an antick disposition on:)
That you at such time seeing me, never shall
With armes encumbred thus, or thus, head shake;
Or by pronouncing of some doubtful phrase;
As well, we know, or we could, and if we would,
Or if we list to speak; or there be and if there might,
Or such ambiguous giving out to note,
That you know ought of me; this not to do:
So grace and mercy at your most need help you:
Swear.
Ghost. Swear.
Ham. Rest, rest perturbed Spirit: so, Gentlemen,
With all my love commend me to you;
And what so poor a man as Hamlet is,
May do t'express his love and friending to you,
God willing shall not lack: let us go in together,
And still your fingers on your lips I pray,
The time is out of joynt: Oh curs'd spight,
That ever I was born to see it right.
Nay, come, let's go together. [Exeunt.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Polonius, and Reynoldo.

Pol. Give him his mony, and those notes, Reynoldo.
Reynol. I will my Lord.
Pol. You shall do marvels wisely, good Reynoldo.
Before you visit him, you make inquiry
Of his behaviour.
Reyn. My Lord, I did intend it.
Polon. Marry, well said:
Very well said. Look you, sir,
Enquire me first what Danskers are in Paris;
And how, and who; what means; and where they keep:
What company, what expence: and finding
By this encompassement and drift of question,
That they do know my son: Come you more near,
Then your particular demands will touch it,
Take you as 'twere some distant knowledge of him,
And thus, I know his father and his friends,
And in part him. Do you mark this, Reynoldo?
Reynol. I, very well, my Lord,
Polon. And in part him, but you may say not well;
But if't be he I mean, he's very wild;
Addicted so and so; and there put on him
What forgeries you please: marry, none so rank,
As may dishonour him: take heed of that:
But, sir, such wanton, wild, and usual slips,
As are companions noted and most known
To youth and liberty.
Reyno. As gaming, my Lord.
Polon. I, or drinking, fencing, swearing,
Quarrelling, Drabbing. You may go so far.
Rey. My Lord, that would dishonour him.
Polon. Faith no, as you may season it in the charge;
You must not put another scandal on him,
That he is open to Incontinency,
That's not my meaning; but breath his faults so quaintly,
That they may seem the taints of liberty;
The flash and out-break of a fiery mind,
A savageness in unreclaim'd bloud of general assault.
Reynol. But, my good Lord.
Polon. Wherefore should you do this?
Reynol. I, my Lord, I would know that
Polon. Marry, sir, here's my drift,
And I believe it is a fetch of warrant:
You laying these slight sullies on my Son,
As 'twere a thing a little soil'd i'th'working:
Mark you your party in converse; him you would sound,
Having ever seen. In the prenominate crimes,
The youth you breath of guilty, be assur'd
He closes with you in this consequence:
Good sir, or so, or friend, or Gentleman.
According to the Phrase and the addition,
Of man and Country.
Reynol. Very good, my Lord.
Polon. And then, sir, do's he this?
He do's: what was I about to say?
I was about to say nothing: where did I leave?

Reynol. At cloſes in the conſequence:
At friend, or ſo, and Gentleman.
Polon. At cloſes in the conſequence, I marry,
He cloſes with you thus. I know the Gentleman,
I ſaw him yeſterday, or 'tother day;
Or then, or then, with ſuch and ſuch, and as you ſay,
There was he gaming, there o'retook in's Rouſe,
There falling out at Tennis; or perchance,
I ſaw him enter ſuch a houſe of ſail,
Videlicet, a Brothel, or ſo forth. See you now;
Your bait of falſhood, takes this Cape of truth;
And thus do we of wiſdom and of reach
With windlaces, and with aſſayes of Byas,
By indirections find directions out:
So by my former Lecture and advice
Shall you my ſon; you have me, have you not?
Reynol. My Lord, I have.
Polon. God b'w' you; fare you well.
Reynol. Good my Lord.
Polon. Obſerve his inclination in your ſelf.
Reynol. I ſhall, my Lord.
Polon. And let him ply his Muſick.
Reynol. Well, my Lord. [Exit.

Enter Ophelia.

Polon. Farewell:
How now, Ophelia, what's the matter?
Ophe. Alas, my Lord, I have been ſo affrighted.
Polon. With what, in the Name of Heaven?
Ophe. My Lord, as I was ſowing in my Chamber,
Lord Hamlet with his doublet all unbrac'd,
No Hat upon his head, his ſtockings foul'd,
Ungarter'd, and down-gyved to his Ancle,
Pale as his ſhirt, his knees knocking each other,
And with a look ſo pitious in purport,
As if he had been looſed out of Hell,
To ſpeak of horrors: he comes before me.
Polon. Mad for thy love?
Ophe. My Lord, I do not know: but truly I do fear it.
Polon. What ſaid he?
Ophe. He took me by the wriſt.
Then goes he to the length of all his Arme;
And with his other hand, thus o're his brow,
He falls to ſuch peruſal of my face,
As he would draw it. Long ſtaid he ſo,
At laſt, a little ſhaking of my arme,
And thrice his head thus waving up and down,
He rais'd a ſigh, ſo hideous and profound,
That it did ſeem to ſhatter all his bulk,
And end his being. That done, he lets go,
And with his head over his ſhoulders turn'd,
He ſeem'd to find his way without his eyes,
For out adoors he went without their help;
And to the laſt, bended their light on me.
Polon. Go with me, I will go ſeek the King,
This is the very ecſtaſie of Love,
Whoſe violent property foredoes it ſelf,
And leads the will to deſperate Undertakings,
As oft as any paſſion under heaven,
That do's afflict our Natures. I am ſorry,
What have you given him any hard words of late?
Ophe. No, my good Lord: but as you did command,
I did repell his Letters, and deny'd
His acceſs to me.
Polon. That hath made him mad.
I am ſorry that with better ſpeed and judgment
I had not quoted him. I fear he did but triſle,
And meant to wrack thee: but beſhrew my jealouſie:
It ſeems it is as proper to our Age,
To caſt beyond our ſelves in our opinions,
As it is common for the younger ſort
To lack diſcretion. Come, go we to the King.
This muſt be known, which being kept cloſe might move
More grief to hide, than hate to utter love. [Exeunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter King, Queen, Roſincroſs, and Guildenſtare cum aliis.

King. Welcome dear Roſincroſs and Guildenſtare,
Moreover, that we much did long to ſee you,
The need we have to uſe you, did provoke
Our haſty ſending. Something have you heard
Of Hamlet's transformation: ſo I call it,
Since not th'exterior, nor the inward man
Reſembles that it was. What it ſhould be
More than his fathers death, that thus hath put him
So much from th'underſtanding of himſelf,
I cannot deem of. I intreat you both,
That being of ſo young dayes brought up with him:
And ſince ſo Neighbour'd to his youth, and humour,
That you vouchſafe your reſt here in our Court
Some little time, ſo by your Companies
To draw him on to pleaſures, and to gather
So much as from Occaſions you may glean,
That open'd lies within our remedy,
Qu. Good Gentlemen, he hath much talk'd of you,
And ſure I am, two men there are not living,
To whom he more adheres. If it will pleaſe you
To ſhew us ſo much gentry and good will,
As to expend your time with us a while,
For the ſupply and profit of our hope,
Your Viſitation ſhall receive ſuch thanks,
As fits a Kings remembrance.
Roſin. Both your Majeſties
Might by the Soveragin power you have of us,
Put your dread pleaſures, more into command
Than to Entreaty.
Guil. We both obey,
And here give up our ſelves, in the full bent,
To lay our ſervices freely at your feet,
To be commanded.
King. Thanks, Roſincroſs, and gentle Guildenſtare,
Que. Thanks, Guildenſtare, and gentle Roſincroſs,
And I beſeech you inſtantly to viſit
My too much changed ſon.
Go ſome of ye,
And bring the Gentlemen where Hamlet is.
Guil. Heavens make our preſence and our practices
Pleaſant and helpful to him. [Exeunt.
Queen. Amen.

Enter Polonius.

Pol. The Ambaſſadors from Norway, my good Lord,
Are joyfully return'd.
King. Thou ſtill haſt been the father of good news.
Pol. Have I, my Lord? Aſſure you, my good Liege,
I hold my duty, as I hold my Soul,
Both to my God, one to my gracious King:
And I do think, or elſe this brain of mine
Hunts not the trail of Policy, ſo be ſure
As I have us'd to do, that I have found
The very cauſe of Hamlet's Lunacy.
King. O ſpeak of that, that I do long to hear.
Pol. Give firſt admittance to th'Ambaſſadors,
My News ſhall be the News to that great Feaſt.
King. Thy ſelf do grace to them, and bring them in.
He tells me, my ſweet Queen, that he hath found
The head and ſource of all your ſons diſtemper.
Queen. I doubt it is no other, but the main,
His fathers death, and our o're-haſty Marriage.

Enter

Enter Polonius, Voltimand, and Cornelius.

King. Well, we ſhall ſift him. VVelcom, good Friends:
Say Voltimand, what from our Brother Norway?
Volt. Moſt fair return of Greetings, and deſires.
Upon our firſt, he ſent out to ſuppreſs
His Nephews Levies, which to him appear'd
To be a preparation 'gainſt the Polak:
But better look'd into, he truly found
It was againſt your Highneſs, whereat grieved,
That ſo his Sickneſs, Age, and Impotence
VVas falſely born in hand, ſends out Arreſts
On Fortinbras, which he (in brief) obeys,
Receives rebuke from Norway: and in fine,
Makes Vow before his Uncle, never more
To give th'aſſay of armes againſt your Majeſty.
VVhereon old Norway, overcome with joy,
Gives him three thouſand Crowns in annual Fee,
And his commiſſion to imploy thoſe Souldiers
So levied as before, againſt the Polak:
VVith an intreaty herein further ſhewn,
That it might pleaſe you to give quiet paſs
Through your Dominions for his enterprize.
On ſuch regards of ſafety and allowance,
As therein are ſet down.
King. It likes us well:
And at our more conſider'd time we'll read,
Anſwer, and think upon this buſineſs.
Mean time we thank you, for your well-look't labor.
Go to your reſt, at night we'll Feaſt together.
Moſt welcom home. [Exit Ambaſ.
Pol. This buſineſs is very well ended.
My Liege and Madam, to expoſtulate
What Majeſty ſhould be, what duty is,
Why day is day; night, night; and time is time,
Were nothing but to waſte Night, day, and time.
Therefore, ſince Brevity is the Soul of wit,
And tedioufneſs, the limbs and outward flouriſhes,
I will be brief. Your noble Son is mad:
Mad call I it; for to define true Madneſs,
What is't, but to be nothing elſe but mad.
But let that go.
Queen. More matter, with leſs Art.
Pol. Madam, I ſwear I uſe no Art at all:
That he is mad 'tis true: 'Tis true, 'tis pity,
And pity it is true: A fooliſh figure,
But farewell it: for I will uſe no art.
Mad let us grant him then: and now remains
That we find out the cauſe of this effect,
Or rather ſay, the cauſe of this defect;
For this effect defective, comes by cauſe,
Thus it remains, and the remainder thus. Perpend.
I have a Daughter: have, whil'ſt ſhe is mine,
Who in her duty and Obedience, mark,
Hath given me this: now gather, and ſurmiſe.

The Letter.

To the Celeſtiall, and my Souls Idol, the moſt beautified Ophelia.
That's an ill Phraſe, a vile Phraſe, beautified is a vile Phraſe: but you ſhall heat theſe in her excellent white boſome, theſe.
Queen. Came this from Hamlet to her.
Pol. Good Madam ſtay a while, I will be faithfull.

Doubt thou, the Stars are fire,
Doubt, that the Sun doth move:
Doubt Truth to be a Lyar,
But never Doubt, I love.

O dear Ophelia, I am ill at theſe Numbers: I have not Art to reckon my groans; but that I love thee beſt, oh moſt Beſt, believe it. Adieu.
Thine evermore, moſt dear Lady, whilſt this Machine is to him, Hamlet.

This in Obedience hath my Daughter ſhew'd me:
And more above hath his ſoliciting,
As they fell out by time, by means, and place,
All given to mine ear.
King. But how hath ſhe receiv'd his Love?
Pol. What do you think of me?
King. As of a man, faithfull and honourable.
Pol. I would fain prove ſo. But what might you think?
When I had ſeen his hot love on the wing,
As I perceived it, I muſt tell you that
Before my Daughter told me, what might you
Or my dear Majeſty your Queen here, think,
If I had play'd the Desk or Table-book,
Or given my heart a winking, mute and dumb,
Or look'd upon this love, with idle ſight,
What might you think? No, I went round to work,
And my young Miſtris thus I did beſpeak;
Lord Hamlet is a Prince out of thy Sphere,
This muſt not be: and then, I precepts gave her,
That ſhe ſhould lock her ſelf from his Reſort,
Admit no Meſſengers, receive no Tokens:
Which done, ſhe took the fruits of my advice,
And he repulſed, a ſhort Tale to make,
Fell into a Sadneſs, then into a Faſt,
Thence to a Watch, thence into a weakneſs,
Thence to a Lightneſs, and by this declenſion
Into the Madneſs whereon now he raves,
And all we wail for.
King. Do you think 'tis this?
Queen. It may be very likely.
Pol. Hath there been ſuch a time, I'de fain know that,
That I have poſitively ſaid, 'tis ſo,
When it prov'd otherwiſe?
King. Not that I know.
Pol. Take this from this, if this be otherwiſe,
If Circumſtances lead me, I will find
Where truth is hid, though it were hid indeed
Within the Center.
King. How may we try it further?
Pol. You know ſometimes
He walks four hours together, here
In the Lobby.
Queen. So he has indeed.
Pol. At ſuch a time I'le looſe my Daughter to him,
Be you and I behind an Arras then,
Mark the encounter: If he love her not,
And be not from his reaſon falu thereon;
Let me be no Aſſiſtant for a State,
And keep a Farm and Carters,
King. We will try it.

Enter Hamlet reading on a Book.

Queen. But look where ſadly the poor wretch
Comes reading.
Pol. Away, I do beſeech you, both away,
I'le board him preſently. [Exit King and Queen.
Oh give me leave. How does, my good Lord Hamlet?
Ham. Well, god-a-mercy.
Pol. Do you know me, my Lord?
Ham. Excellent, excellent well: y'are a Fiſhmonger?
Pol. Not I, my Lord?
Ham. Then I would you were ſo honeſt a man.
Pol. Honeſt, my Lord?
Ham. I, Sir, to be honeſt as this world goes, is to be one pick'd out of two thouſand.
Pol. That's very true, my Lord.
Ham. For if the Sun breed Maggots in a dead Dog, being a good kiſſing Carrion——
Have you a Daughter?
Pol. I have, my Lord.
Ham. Let her not walk ith' Sun: Conception is a bleſſing, but not as your Daughter may conceive. Friend look to't.

Pol.

Pol. How say you by that? Still harping on my Daughter: yet he knew me not at first; he said I was a Fishmonger: he is far gone, far gone: and truly in my youth, I suffered much extremity for love: very near this. I'le speak to him again. What do you read, my Lord?

Ham. Words, words, words.

Pol. What is the matter, my Lord?

Ham. Between whom?

Pol. I mean the matter you mean, my Lord.

Ham. Slanders, Sir: for the Satyrical slave sayes here, that old men have gray Beards; that their faces are wrinkled; their eyes purging thick Amber, or Plum Tree-Gum: and that they have a plentifull lock of Wit, together with weak Hams. All which, Sir, though I most powerfully, and potently believe, yet I hold it not Honesty to have it thus set down: For you your self, Sir, should be old as I am, if like a Crab you could go backward.

Pol. Though this be madness,
Yet there is Method in't. will you walk
Out of the air, my Lord?

Ham. Into my Grave?

Pol. Indeed that is out oth' air:
How pregnant (sometimes) his replies are?
A happiness,
That often Madness hits on,
Which Reason and Sanity could not
So prosperously be deliver'd of.
I will leave him,
And suddenly contrive the means of meeting
Between him and my Daughter.
My honourable Lord, I will most humbly
Take my leave of you.

Ham. You cannot, Sir, take from me any thing, that I will more willingly part withall, except my life, my life.

Po'on. Fare you well, my Lord.

Ham. These tedious old fools.

Polon. You go to seek my Lord Hamlet; there he is.

Enter Rosincros and Guildenstare.

Rosin. God save you, Sir.

Guild. Mine honour'd Lord?

Rosin. My most dear Lord?

Ham. My excellent good friends? How dost thou Guildenstare? Oh, Rosincros, good Lads: How do ye both?

Rosin. As the indifferent Children of the earth.

Guild. Happy, in that we are not over-happy: on Fortunes Cap, we are not the very Button.

Ham. Nor the Soals of her Shooe?

Rosin. Neither, my Lord.

Ham. Then you live about her waste, or in the middle of her favour?

Guild. Faith, her privates we.

Ham. In the secret parts of Fortune? Oh, most true: she is a Strumpet. Whats the news.

Rosin. None, my Lord, but that the World's grown honest.

Ham. Then is Dooms day near: but your News is not true. Let me question more in particular: what have you, my good friends, deserved at the hands of fortune, that she sends you to prison hither?

Guild. Prison, my Lord?

Ham. Denmark's a Prison.

Rosin. Then is the World one.

Ham. A goodly one, in which there are many Confines, Wards, and Dungeons; Denmark being one o' th' worst.

Rosin. We think not so, my Lord.

Ham. Why then, 'tis none to you; for there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so: to me it is a prison.

Rosin. Why then your Ambition makes it one: 'tis too narrow for your mind.

Ham. O God, I could be bounded in a Nut-shell, and count my self a King of infinite space; were it not that I have bad dreams.

Guild. Which dreams indeed are Ambition: for the very substance of the Ambitious, is meerly the shadow of a Dream.

Ham. A dream it self is but a shadow.

Rosin. Truly, and I hold Ambition of so airy and light a quality, that it is but a shadows shadow.

Ham. Then are our Beggars bodies; and our Monarchs, and out-stretcht Heroes, the Beggars shadows: shall we to th' Court: for, by my fey I cannot reason?

Both. We'll wait upon you.

Ham. No such matter. I will not sort you with the rest of my servants: for to speak to you like an honest man: I am most dreadfully attended; but in the beaten way of friendship. What make you at Elsinoore?

Rosin. To visit you, my Lord, no other occasion.

Ham. Beggar that I am, I am even poor in thanks; but I thank you: and sure, dear friends, my thanks are too dear a half-penny; were you not sent for? Is it your own inclining? Is it a free visitation? Come, deal justly with me: come, come; nay, speak.

Guild. What should we say, my Lord?

Ham. Why, any thing. But to the purpose; you were sent for; and there is a kind of confession in your looks: which your modesties have not craft enough to colour, I know the good King and Queen have sent for you.

Rosin. To what end, my Lord?

Ham. That you must teach me: but let me conjure you by the rights of your fellowship, by the consonancy of our youth, by the obligation of our ever-preserved love, and by what more dear, a better proposer could charge you withall; be even and direct with me, whether you were sent for or no.

Rosin. What say you?

Ham. Nay then I have an eye of you: if you love me, hold not off.

Guild. My Lord, we were sent for.

Ham. I will tell you why; so shall my anticipation prevent your discovery of your secrecy to the King and Queen: moult no feather, I have of late, but wherefore I know not, lost all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercise; and indeed, it goes so heavenly with my disposition; that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a steril Promontory; this most excellent Canopy the air, look you this brave o're-hanging, this Majestical Roof, fretted with golden fire: why, it appeared no other thing to me, than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. What a piece of work is a man! How Noble in Reason? how infinite in faculty? in form and moving how express and admirable? in action, how like an Angel? in apprehension how like a god? the beauty of the world, the Parragon of Animals; and yet to me, what is this quintessence of Dust? Man delights not me; no, nor Woman neither, though by your smiling you seem to say so.

Rosin. My Lord, there was no such stuff in my thoughts.

Ham. Why did you laugh, when I said, Man delights not me?

Rosin. To think, my Lord, if you delight not in Man, what Lenton entertainment the Players shall receive from you: we coated them on the way, and hither are they coming to offer you Service.

Ham. He that playes the King shall be welcome; his Majesty shall have Tribute of me: the adventurous Knight shall use his Foyle and Target: The Lover shall not sigh gratis, the humorous man shall end his part in peace: the Clown shall make those laugh, whose lungs are tickl'd ath' sere: and the Lady shall say her mind freely; or the blank Verse shall halt for't, what Players are they?

Rosin. Even those you were wont to take delight in, the Tragedians of the City.

Ham.

Ham. How chances it they travell? their reſidence both in reputation and profit was better both wayes.

Roſin. I think their Inhibition comes by the means of the late innovation?

Ham. Do they hold the ſame eſtimation they did when I was in the City? Are they ſo follow'd?

Roſin. No indeed, they are not.

Ham. How comes it? do they grow ruſty?

Roſin. Nay, their endeavour keeps in the wonted pace; But there is, Sir, an Airy of Children, little Yaſes, that cry out on the top of queſtion; and are moſt tyrannically clapt for't: theſe are now the faſhion, and ſo be-ratle the common Stages (ſo they call them) that many wearing Rapiers, are afraid of Gooſe Quills, and dare ſcarce come thither.

Ham. What are they Children? Who maintains 'em? How are they eſcoted? Will they purſue the Quality no longer than they can ſing? Will they not ſay afterwards if they ſhould grow themſelves to common Players (as it is like moſt if their means are no better) their Writers do them wrong to make them exclaim againſt their own Succeſſion.

Roſin. Faith there has been much to do on both ſides: and the Nation holds it no ſin, to tarre them to controverſie. There was for a while, no money bid for argument, unleſs the Poet and the Player went to Cuffs in the Queſtion.

Ham. Is't poſſible?

Guild. Oh there has been much throwing about of brains.

Ham. Do the Boyes carry it away?

Roſin. I that they do, my Lord, Hercules and his load too.

Ham. It is not ſtrange, for mine Unkle is King of Denmark, and thoſe that would make mowes at him while my Father lived, give twenty, forty, an hundred Ducates a piece, for his picture in little. There is ſomething in this more than Natural, if Philoſophy could find it out.

[Flouriſh for the Players.

Guild. There are the Players.

Ham. Gentlemen, you are welcome to Elſinoore: your hands, come: The appurtenance of Welcome, is Faſhion and Ceremony. Let me comply with you in the Garbe, leſt my extent to the Players (which I tell you muſt ſhew fairly outward) ſhould more appear like entertainment than yours. You are welcome: but my Unkle Father, and Aunt Mother are deceiv'd.

Guild. In what, my dear Lord?

Ham. I am but mad North, North-Weſt: when the Wind is Southerly, I know a Hawk from a Handſaw.

Enter Polonius.

Polo. Well be with you, Gentlemen.

Ham. Hark you, Guildenſtare, and you too, at each ear a hearer: that great Baby you ſee there, is not yet out of his ſwathing clouts.

Roſin. Haply he's the ſecond time come to them: for they ſay, an old man is twice a Child.

Ham. I will Propheſie, He comes to tell me of the Players. Mark it, you ſay right, for on Munday morning 'twas ſo indeed.

Pol. My Lord, I have news to tell you.

Ham. My Lord, I have news to tell you,
When Roſcius an Actor in Rome——

Pol. The Actors are come hither, my Lord.

Ham. Buzze, buzze.

Pol. Upon mine honour.

Ham. Then can each Actor on his Aſs——

Pol. The beſt Actors in the world, either for Tragedy, Comedy, Hiſtory, Paſtoral: Paſtorical-Comical-Hiſtorical-Paſtoral: Tragical-Hiſtorical; Tragical-Comical-Hiſtorical-Paſtoral: Scene indivible, or Poem unlimited. Seneca cannot be too heavy, nor Plautus too light, for the law of Writ, and the liberty. Theſe are the onlymen.

Ham. O Jephta, Judge of Iſrael, what a Treaſure hadſt thou?

Pol. What a Treaſure had he, my Lord?

Ham. Why one fair Daughter, and no more,
The which he loved paſſing well.

Pol. Still on my Daughter.

Ham. Am I not ith' right, old Jephta?

Pol. If you call me Jephta, my Lord, I have a Daughter that I love paſſing well.

Ham. Nay that follows not.

Pol. What follows then, my Lord?

Ham. Why, as by lot, God wot? and then you know, it came to paſs, as moſt like it was: the firſt row of the Pans Chanſon will ſhew you more. For look where my Abridgements come.

Enter four or five Players.

Y'are welcome Maſters, welcome all. I am glad to ſee thee well; welcome good friends. Oh my old friend! Thy face is valiant ſince I ſaw thee laſt: Com'ſt thou to beard me in Denmark? what my young Lady and Miſtris? Berlady your Lordſhip is nearer heaven, than when I ſaw you laſt, by the altitude of a Choppine. Pray God your voyce, like a piece of uncurrant gold, be not crack'd within the Ring. Maſters, you are all welcome: we'll e'ne to't like French Faulconers, flye at any thing we ſee: we'll have a ſpeech ſtraight. Come, give us a taſte of your quality: come, a paſſionate ſpeech.

1. Play. What ſpeech, my Lord?

Ham. I heard thee ſpeak me a ſpeech once, but it was never Acted: or if it was, not above once, for the Play I remember pleas'd not the Million, 'twas Caviary to the General: but it was (as I received it, and others, whoſe judgment in ſuch matters, cryed in the top of mine) an excellent Play; well digeſted in the Scenes, ſet down with as much modeſty, as cunning. I remember one ſaid, there was no Sallets in the lines, to make the matter ſavoury; nor no matter in the phraſe, that might indite the Author of affectation, but call'd it an honeſt method. One chief ſpeech in it, I chiefly lov'd, 'twas Æneas Tale to Dido, and thereabout of it eſpecially, where he ſpeaks of Priams ſlaughter. If it live in your memory, begin at this Line, let me ſee, let me ſee: The rugged Pyrrhus, like the Hyrcanian Beaſt. It's not ſo: it begins with Pyrrhus.
The rugged Pyrrhus, he whoſe Sable Armes
Black as his purpoſe, did the night reſemble
When he lay couched in the Ominous Horſe,
Hath now this dread and black Complexion ſmear'd
With Heraldry more diſmal: head to foot
Now is he to take Geules; horridly Trickt
With blood of Fathers, Mothers, Daughters, Sons,
Ba'k and impaſted, with the parching ſtreets,
That lend a tyrannous, and damned light
To their vile Murthers, roaſted in wrath and fire,
And thus o'reſized with coagulate gore,
With eyes like Carbuncles, the helliſh Pyrrhus
Old Grandſire Priam ſeeks.

Pol. 'Fore God, my Lord, well ſpoken, with good accent, and good diſcretion.

1. Play. Anon he finds him,
Striking too ſhort at Greeks. His antick Sword,
Rebellious to his Arm, lies where it falls
Repugnant to command: unequal match,
Pyrrhus at Priam drives, in rage ſtrikes wide:
But with the whiff and wind of his fell Sword,
Th'unnerved father falls. Then ſenſeleſs Ilium,
Seeming to feel his blow, with flaming top
Stoops to his Base, and with a hideous craſh
Takes Priſoner Pyrrhus ear. For lo, his Sword
Which was declining on the Milky head
Of Reverend Priam, ſeem'd ith' Air to ſtick:
So as a Tyrant Pyrrhus ſtood,
And like a Neutral to his will and matter, did nothing.

But

But as we often ſee againſt ſome ſtorm,
A ſilence in the heavens, the Rack ſtand ſtill,
The bold winds ſpeechleſs, and the Orbe below
As huſh as death: Anon the dreadful Thunder
Doth rend the Region. So after Pyrrhus pawſe,
A rowſed Vengeance ſets him new a work,
And never did the Cyclops hammers fall
On Mars his Armours, forg'd for proof Eterne,
With leſs remorſe than Pyrrhus bleeding Sword
Now falls on Priam;
Out, out, thou Strumpet-Fortune, all you gods,
In general Synod take away her power:
Break all the Spokes and Fellies from her wheel,
And bowl the round Nave down the hill of heaven,
As low as to the fiends.

Pol. This is too long.

Ham. It ſhall to th' Barbers with your Beard. Prethee ſay on: He's for a Jigge, or a tale of Bawdry, or he ſleeps. Say on; come to Hecuba.

1. Play. But who, O who, had ſeen the Mobled Queen?

Ham. The Mobled Queen?

Pol. That's good: Mobled Queen is good.

1. Play. Run bare foot up and down,
Threatning the flame
With Biſſon Rheum: a clout about that head,
Where late the Diadem ſtood, and for a Robe
About her lank and all o're teamed Loyns,
A Blanket in th'alarum of fear caught up.
Who this had ſeen, with tongue in Venome ſteep'd,
Gainſt fortunes State, would treaſon have pronounc'd?
But if the gods themſelves did ſee her then,
When ſhe ſaw Pyrrhus make malicious ſport
In mincing with his Sword her Husbands limbs.
The inſtant Burſt of Clamour that ſhe made
(Unleſs things mortal meant them not all)
Would have made milch the burning eyes of heaven,
And paſſion in the Gods.

Pol. Look where he has not turn'd his colour, and has tears in's Eyes. Pray you no more.

Ham. 'Tis well, I'le have thee ſpeak out the reſt ſoon. Good my Lord, will you ſee the Players well beſtow'd. Do ye hear, let them be well us'd: for they are the abſtracts, and brief Chronicles of the time. After your death, you were better have a bad Epitaph, than their ill report while you lived.

Pol. My Lord, I will uſe them according to their deſert.

Ham. Gods bodikins man, better. Uſe every man after his deſert, and who ſhould ſcape whipping: uſe them after your own Honour and Dignity. The leſs they deſerve, the more merit is in your bounty. Take them in.

Pol. Come, Sirs. [Exit Polonius.

Ham. Follow him, Friends: We'll hear a Play to morrow. Doſt thou hear me, old Friend, can you Play the murther of Gonzago?

Play. I, my Lord.

Ham. We'll ha't to morrow night. You could for a need ſtudy a ſpeech of ſome dozen or ſixteen lines, which I would ſet down, and inſert in't? Could ye not?

Play. I, my Lord.

Ham. Very well. Follow that Lord, and look you mock him not. My good friends, I'le leave you till night, you are welcom to Elſinoore.

Roſin. Good my Lord. [Exeunt.

Manet Hamlet.

Ham. I ſo, god b'w'ye: Now I am alone.
O what a Rogue and Pezant ſlave am I?
Is it not monſtrous that this Player here,
But in a Fiction, in a dream of Paſſion,
Could force his Soul ſo to his whole conceit,
That from her working, all his viſage warm'd;
Tears in his eyes, diſtraction in's aſpect,
A broken voyce, and his whole Function ſuiting
With forms, to his conceit? and all for nothing?
For Hecuba?
What's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
That he ſhould weep for her? what would he do,
Had he the motive and the Cue for paſſion
That I have, he would drown the Stage with tears,
And cleave the general ear with horrid ſpeech:
Make mad the guilty, and apale the free:
Confound the ignorant, and amaze indeed,
The very faculty of Eyes and Ears. Yet I,
A dull and muddy-metled Raſcal, peak
Like John-a-deames, unpregnant of my cauſe,
And can ſay nothing: No, not for a King,
Upon whoſe property, and moſt dear life,
A damn'd defeat was made. Am I a Coward?
Who calls me Villain? breaks my pate a-croſs,
Plucks off my Beard, and blows it in my face?
Tweaks me by th'Noſe, gives me the Lye ith' Throat,
As deep as to the Lungs. Who does me this?
Ha? Why ſhould I take it? for it cannot be,
But I am Pigeon-Liver'd, and lack Gall
To make Oppreſſion bitter, or ere this,
I ſhould have fatted all the Region Kites
With this Slaves Offall, bloody: a Bawdy villain,
Remorſeleſs, Treacherous, Lecherous, kindleſs villain!
Oh Vengeance!
Who? what an Aſs am I? I ſure, this is moſt brave,
That I, the Son of the dear murthered,
Prompted to my revenge by heaven, and hell,
Muſt (like a Whore) unpack my heart with words,
And fall a curſing like a very Drab,
A Scullion? Fye upon't. Foh. About my Brain.
I have heard, that guilty Creatures ſitting at a Play,
Have by the very cunning of the Scene,
Been ſtruck ſo to the Soul, that preſently
They have proclaim'd their Malefactions.
For Murther, though it have no tongue, will ſpeak
With moſt miraculous Organ. I'le have theſe Players,
Play ſomething like the murder of my Father,
Before mine Unkle. I'le obſerve his looks,
I'le rent him to the quick: if he but blench,
I know my courſe. The Spirit that I have ſeen,
May be the Devil, and the Devil hath power
T'aſſume a pleaſing ſhape, yea, and perhaps
Out of my weakneſs, and my melancholy,
As he is very potent with ſuch Spirits,
Abuſes me to damn me. I'le have grounds
More relative than this: The Play's the thing,
Wherein I'le catch the Conſcience of the King. [Exit.

Enter King, Queen, Polonius, Ophelia, Roſincros, Guildenſtare, and Lords.

King. And can you by no drift of circumſtance
Get from him why he puts on this Confuſion,
Grating ſo harſhly all his dayes of quiet
With turbulent and dangerous Lunacy.

Roſin. He does confeſs he feels himſelf diſtracted,
But from what cauſe he will by no means ſpeak.

Guil. Nor do we find him forward to be ſounded,
But with a crafty Madneſs keeps aloof:
When we would bring him on to ſome Confeſſion
Of his true ſtate,

Queen. Did he receive you well?

Roſin. Moſt like a Gentleman.

Guild. But with much forcing of his diſpoſition.

Roſin. Niggard of queſtion, but of our demands
Moſt free in his reply.

Queen. Did you aſſay him to any paſtime?

Roſin. Madam, it ſo fell out, that certain Players
We o're-took on the way: of theſe we told him,
And there did ſeem in him a kind of Joy
To hear of it: They are about the Court,
And (as I think) they have already order
This night to play before him.

Pol.

Pol. 'Tis moſt true:
And he beſeech'd me to intreat your Majeſties
To hear and ſee the matter.
King. With all my heart, and it doth much content me
To hear him ſo inclin'd. Good Gentlemen,
Give him a further edge, and drive his purpoſe on
To theſe delights.
Roſin. We ſhall, my Lord. [Exeunt.
King. Sweet Gertrude, leave us too,
For we have cloſely ſent for Hamlet hither,
That he, as 'twere by accident, may there
Affront Ophelia. Her Father, and my ſelf (lawful eſpials)
Will ſo beſtow our ſelves, that ſeeing unſeen
We may of their encounter frankly judge,
And gather by him, as he is behaved,
If 't be th'affliction of his love, or no,
That thus he ſuffers for.
Queen. I ſhall obey you:
And for your part, Ophelia, I do wiſh
That your good beauties be the happy cauſe
Of Hamlet's wildneſs: ſo ſhall I hope your Virtues
Will bring him to his wonted way again,
To both your Honours.
Ophe. Madam, I wiſh it may.
Pol. Ophelia, walk you here. Gracious, ſo pleaſe ye,
We will beſtow our ſelves: Read on this Book,
That ſhew of ſuch an exerciſe may colour
Your lonelineſs. We are oft to blame in this,
'Tis too much prov'd, that with Devotions viſage,
And pious Action, we do ſurge o're
The Devil himſelf.
King. Oh 'tis true:
How ſmart a laſh that ſpeech doth give my Conſcience?
The Harlots Cheek beautied with plaſtiring Art
Is not more ugly to the thing that helps it,
Than is my deed to my moſt painted word.
Oh heavy burthen!
Pol. I hear him coming, let's withdraw, my Lord.
[Exeunt.

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. To be, or not to be, that is the Queſtion:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to ſuffer
The Slings and Arrows of outragious Fortune,
Or to take Arms againſt a Sea of troubles,
And by oppoſing end them: to dye, to ſleep
No more: and by a ſleep, to ſay we end
The heart-ache, and the thouſand natural ſhocks
That fleſh is heir to. 'Tis a conſummation
Devoutly to be wiſh'd. To die to ſleep,
To ſleep, perchance to dream; I, there's the rub,
For in that ſleep of death, what dreams may come,
When he hath ſhuffled off this mortal coyle,
Muſt give us pawſe. There's the reſpect
That makes Calamity of ſo long life:
For who would bear the whips and ſcorns of time,
The oppreſſors wrong, the poor mans Contumely,
The pangs of diſpriz'd Love, the Laws delay,
The inſolence of office, and the ſpurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himſelf might his Quietus make
With a bare Bodkin? VVho would theſe Fardles bear
To grunt and ſweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of ſomething after death,
The undiſcovered Country, from whoſe Born
No Traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear thoſe ills we have,
Than fly to others that we know not of.
Thus Conſcience does make Cowards of us all,
And thus the Native hue of Reſolution
Is ſicklied o're, with the pale caſt of thought,
And enterprizes of great pith and moment,
VVith this regard their Currents turn away,
And loſe the name of action. Soft you now,
The fair Ophelia? Nymph, in thy Horizons
Be all my ſins remembred.
Ophe. Good my Lord,
How does your honour for this many a day?
Ham. I humbly thank you: well, well, well.
Ophe. My Lord, I have remembrances of yours,
That I have longed long to re-deliver.
I pray you now receive them.
Ham. No, no, I never gave you ought.
Ophe. My honour'd Lord, I know right well you did,
And with them words of ſo ſweet breath compos'd,
As made the things more rich, than perfume left:
Take theſe again, for to the noble mind
Rich gifts wax poor, when givers prove unkind.
There, my Lord.
Ham. Ha, ha: are you honeſt?
Ophe. My Lord.
Ham. Are you fair?
Ophe. What means your Lordſhip?
Ham. That if you be honeſt and fair, your honeſty ſhould admit no diſcourſe to your beauty.
Ophe. Could beauty, my Lord, have better Commerce than your honeſty?
Ham. I truly: for the power of beauty, will ſooner transform honeſty from what it is, to a bawd, than the force of honeſty can tranſlate beauty into his likeneſs. This was ſometimes a Paradox, but now the time gives it proof. I did love you once.
Ophe. Indeed, my Lord, you made me believe ſo.
Ham. You ſhould not have believed me. For virtue cannot ſo inocualte our old ſtock, but we ſhall relliſh of it. I loved you not.
Oph. I was the more deceived.
Ham. Get thee to a Nunnery. Why would'ſt thou be a breeder of Sinners? I am my ſelf indifferent honeſt, but yet I could accuſe me of ſuch things, that it were better, my Mother had not born me. I am very proud, revengeful, Ambitious, with more offences at my beck, than I have thoughts to put them in imagination, to give them ſhape, or time to act them in. VVhat ſhould ſuch Fellows as I do crawling between Heaven and Earth. We are arrant Knaves all, believe none of us. Go thy ways to a Nunnery. Where's your Father?
Ophe. At home, my Lord.
Ham. Let the doors be ſhut upon him, that he may play the Fool no way, but in's own houſe. Farewel.
Ophe. O help him, you ſweet heavens.
Ham. If thou do'ſt Marry, I'le give thee this Plague for thy Dowry. Be thou as chaſte as Ice, as pure as Snow, thou ſhalt not eſcape Calumny. Get thee to a Nunnery. Go, farewel. Or if thou wilt needs marry, marry a fool: for wiſe men know well enough, what monſters you make of them. To a Nunnery go, and quickly too. Farewel.
Ophe. O heavenly Powers, reſtore him.
Ham. I have heard of your pratling too, well enough. God has given you one pace, and you make your ſelf another: you gidge, you amble, and you liſp, and nick-name Gods Creatures, and make your wantonneſs, your ignorance. Go I'le no more on't, it hath made me mad. I ſay, we will have no more Marriages. Thoſe that are married already, all but one ſhall, the reſt ſhall keep as they are. To a Nunnery, go. [Exit Hamlet.
Ophe. O what a Noble mind is here o're-thrown?
The Courtiers, Souldiers, Scholars! Eye, tongue, Sword,
Th'expectancy and Roſe of the fair State,
The glaſs of faſhion, and the mould of form,
Th'obſerv'd of all obſervers, quite, quite down.
I am of Ladies moſt deject and wretched,
That ſuck'd the Hony of his Muſick Vows:
Now ſee that Noble, and moſt Soveraign Reaſon,
Like ſweet Bells jangled out of tune, and harſh,
That unmatch'd fortune and feature of blown youth,

Blaſted

Blaſted with ecſtaſie. Oh woe is me,
T'have ſeen what I have ſeen: ſee what I ſee.

Enter King and Polonius.

King. Love? his affections do not that way tend,
Nor what he ſpake, though it lack'd form a little,
Was not like Madneſs. There's ſomething in his Soul,
O're which his Melancholy ſits on brood,
And I do doubt the hatch, and the diſcloſe
Will be ſome danger, which how to prevent,
I have in quick determination.
Thus ſet it down. He ſhall with ſpeed to England
For the demand of our neglected tribute:
Haply the Seas and Countreys different
With variable objects, ſhall expel
This ſomething ſetled matter in his heart:
Whereon his brains ſtill beating, puts him thus
From faſhion of himſelf. What think you on't?
Pol. It ſhall do well. But yet do I believe
The Origin and Commencement of this grief
Sprung from neglected love. How now, Ophelia?
You need not tell us, what Lord Hamlet ſaid,
We heard it all. My Lord, do as you pleaſe,
But if you hold it fit after the Play,
Let his Queen Mother all alone intreat him
To ſhew his griefs: let her be round with him:
And I'le be plac'd, ſo pleaſe you, in the ear
Of all their conference. If ſhe find him not,
To England ſend him: or confine him where
Your wiſdom beſt ſhall think.
King. It ſhall be ſo:
Madneſs in great Ones muſt not unwatch'd go.
[Exeunt.

Enter Hamlet, and two or three of the Players.

Ham. Speak the Speech I pray you, as I pronounc'd it to you trippingly on the Tongue. But if you mouth it, as many of your Players do, I had as lieve the Town-Cryer had ſpoke my Lines: Nor do not ſaw the air too much with your hand thus, but uſe all gently; for in the very torrent, tempeſt, and (as I may ſay) the whirl-wind of paſſion, you muſt acquire and beget a temperance that may give it ſmoothneſs. O it offends me to the Soul, to ſee a robuſtous Perriwig-parted fellow, tear a Paſſion to tatters, to very rags, to ſplit the ears of the Groundlings: who (for the moſt part) are capable of nothing, but inexplicable dumb ſhews, and noiſe: I could have ſuch a fellow whipt for o're-doing Termagant: it out-Herods Herod. Pray you avoid it.
Player. I warrant your Honour.
Ham. Be not too tame neither: but let your own Diſcretion be your Tutor. Sute the Action to the word, the word to the action with this ſpecial obſervance: that you o're-ſtop not the modeſty of nature; for any thing ſo overdone, is from the purpoſe of Playing, whoſe end both at the firſt and now, was and is, to hold as 'twere the Mirrour up to nature; to ſhew Virtue her own Feature, ſcorn her own Image, and the very Age and Body of the time, his form and preſſure. Now, this over-done, or come tardy off, though it make the unskilful laugh, cannot but make the judicious grieve: the cenſure of the which one, muſt in your allowance o're-ſway a whole Theatre of others. Oh, there be Players that I have ſeen Play, and heard others praiſe, and that highly (not to ſpeak it prophanely) that neither having the accent of Chriſtians, nor the gate of Chriſtian, Pagan, or Norman, have ſo ſtrutted and bellowed, that I have thought ſome of natures Journey-men had made men, and not made them well, they imitated Humanity ſo abominably.
Play. I hope we have reform'd that indifferently with us, Sir.
Ham. O reform it altogether. And let thoſe that play your Clowns, ſpeak no more than is ſet down for them. For there be of them, that will of themſelves laugh, to ſet on ſome quantity of barren Spectators to laugh too, though in the mean time, ſome neceſſary queſtion of the Play be then to be conſidered: that's Villanous, and ſhews a moſt pitiful Ambition in the Fool that uſes it. Go make you ready.
[Exeunt Players.

Enter Polonius, Roſincros, and Guildenſtare.

How now, my Lord?
Will the King hear this piece of work?
Pol. And the Queen too, and that preſently.
Ham. Bid the Players make haſte.
[Exit Polonius.
Will you two help to haſten them?
Both. We will, my Lord.
[Exeunt.

Enter Horatio.

Ham. What ho, Horatio?
Hora. Here, ſweet Lord, at your ſervice.
Ham. Horatio, thou art e'ne as juſt a man
As e're my Converſation coap'd withal.
Hora. O my dear Lord.
Ham. Nay, do not think I flatter:
for what advancement may I hope from thee,
That no Revenue haſt, but thy good Spirits
To feed and cloathe thee. Why ſhould the poor be flatter'd?
No, let the Candied tongue, like abſurd pomp,
And crook the pregnant Hindges of the knee,
Where thrift may follow feigning? Doſt thou hear,
Since my dear Soul was Miſtris of my choice,
And could of men diſtinguiſh, her election
Hath ſeal'd thee for her ſelf. For thou haſt been
As one in ſuffering all, that ſuffers nothing.
A man that fortune buffets, and rewards
Hath tane with equal thanks. And bleſt are thoſe,
Whoſe blood and Judgement are ſo well co-mingled,
That they are not a Pipe for fortunes finger,
To ſound what ſtop ſhe pleaſe. Give me that man,
That is not Paſſions Slave, and I will wear him
In my hearts Core: I, in my heart of heart,
As I do thee. Something too much of this.
There is a Play to night before the King,
One Scene of it comes near the Circumſtance
Which I have told thee, of my Fathers death.
I prethee, when thou ſeeſt that Act a foot,
Even with the Comment of my Soul
Obſerve mine Unkle: if his occulted guilt
Do not it ſelf unkennel in one ſpeech,
It is a damned Ghoſt that we have ſeen:
And my imaginations are as foul
As Vulcan's Styth. Give him heedful note,
For I mine eyes will rivet to his face,
And after we will both our judgements joyn,
To cenſure of his ſeeming.
Hora. Well, my Lord.
If he ſteal ought the whil'ſt this Play is playing,
And ſcape detecting, I will pay the Theft.

Enter King, Queen, Polonius, Ophelia, Roſincros, Guildenſtare, and other Lords Attendant, with his Guard carrying Torches. Daniſh March. Sound a Flouriſh.

Ham. They are coming to the Play: I muſt be idle.
Get you a place.
King. How fares my Couſin Hamlet?
Ham. Excellent ifaith, of the Chamelion's diſh: I eat the Air promiſe-cramm'd, you cannot feed Capons ſo.
King. I have nothing with this anſwer, Hamlet, theſe words are not mine.
Ham. No, nor mine. Now my Lord, you plaid once ith' Univerſity, you ſay?
Polon. That I did, my Lord, and was accounted a good Actor.
Ham.

Ham. And what did you enact?

Polon. I did enact Julius Cæsar, I was kill'd ith' Capitol: Brutus kill'd me.

Ham. It was a bruit part of him, to kill so Captial a Calf there. Be the Players ready?

Rosin. I my Lord, they stay upon your patience.

Queen. Come hither, my good Hamlet, sit by me.

Ham. No, good Mother, here's mettle more attractive.

Polo. Oh ho, do you mark that?

Ham. Lady, shall I lye in your Lap?

Ophe. No, my Lord.

Ham. I mean, my head upon your Lap?

Ophe. I, my Lord.

Ham. Do you think I meant Country matters?

Ophe. I think nothing, my Lord.

Ham. That's a fair thought to lie between Maids Legs.

Ophe. What is my Lord? Ham. Nothing.

Ophe. You are merry, my Lord?

Ham. Who I? Ophe. I, my Lord.

Ham. Oh God, your only Jigge-maker: what should a man do, but be merry. For look you how cheerfully my Mother looks, and my Father di'd within's two hours.

Ophe. Nay, 'tis twice two months, My Lord.

Ham. So long? Nay then let the Devil wear black, for I'le have a Suit of Sables. Oh heavens! dye two months ago, and not forgotten yet? then there's hope, a great mans Memory may out-live his life half a year: But by'r-lady he must build Churches then: or else shall he suffer not thinking on, with the Hobby-horse, whose Epitaph is, for o, for o, the Hobby-horse is forgot.

Hoboyes Play. The dumb shew enters.

Enter a King and Queen, very lovingly; the Queen embracing him. She kneels; and makes shew of Protestation unto him. He takes her up, and declines his head upon her neck. Layes him down upon a Bank of Flowers. She seeing him a-sleep, leaves him. Anon comes in a Fellow, takes off his Crown, kisses it, and pours poyson in the Kings ears, and Exits. The Queen returns, finds the King dead, and makes passionate Action. The poysoner, with some two or three Mutes come in again, seeming to lament with her. The dead Body is carried away: The Poysoner wooes the Queen with Gifts, she seems loth and unwilling a while, but in the end accepts his love. [Exeunt.

Ophe. What means this, my Lord?

Ham. Marry this is Miching Malicho, that means mischief.

Oph. Belike this shew imports the Argument of the Play?

Ham. We shall know by these fellows: the Players cannot keep counsel, they'll tell all.

Ophe. Will they tell us what this shew meant?

Ham. I, or any shew that you'll shew him. Be not you asham'd to shew, he'll not shame to tell you what it means.

Ophe. You are naught, you are naught, I'le make the Play.

Enter Prologue.

For us, and for our Tragedy,
Here stooping to your Clemency;
We beg your hearing patiently.

Ham. Is this a Prologue, or the Posie of a Ring?

Ophe. 'Tis brief, my Lord.

Ham. As Womans love.

Enter King, and Queen.

King. Full thirty times hath Phœbus Cart gon round,
Neptunes salt Wash, and Tellus Orbed ground:
And thirty dozen Moons with borrowed sheen,
About the world have time, twelve thirties been,
Since Love our hearts, and Hymen did our hands
Unite co-mutual, in most sacred Bands

Queen. So many Journeys may the Sun and Moon
Make us again count o're, ere love be done.
But woe is me, you are so sick of late,
So far from cheer, and from your former state,
That I distrust you: yet though I distrust,
Discomfort you (my Lord) it nothing must:
For womens Fear and Love, holds quantity,
In neither ought, or in extremity:
Now what my love is, proof hath made you know,
And as my love is fixt, my fear is so.

King. Faith I must leave thee, Love, and shortly too:
My operant Powers my functions leave to do,
And thou shalt live in this fair world behind,
Honour'd, belov'd, and haply, one as kind.
For Husband shalt thou——

Queen. Oh counfound the rest:
Such Love must needs be Treason in my brest:
In second Husband let me be accurst,
None wed the second, but who kill'd the first.

Ham. Wormwood, Wormwood.

Queen. The instances that second Marriage move,
Are base respects of Thrift, but none of Love.
A second time, I kill my Husband dead,
When second Husband kisses me in Bed.

King. I do believe you. Think what now you speak:
But what we do determine, oft we break:
Purpose is but the slave to Memory,
Of violent Birth, but poor validity:
Which now like fruit unripe sticks on the Tree,
But fall unshaken, when they mellow be.
Most necessary 'tis that we forget
To pay our selves, what to our selves is debt:
What to our selves in passion we propose,
The passion ending, doth the purpose lose.
The violence of other Grief or Joy,
Their own enactors with themselves destroy:
Where Joy most revels, Grief doth most lament:
Grief joys, Joy grieves on slender accident.
This world is not for aye, nor 'tis not strange
That even our Loves should with our Fortunes change.
For 'tis a question left us yet to prove,
Whether Love lead Fortune, or else Fortune Love.
The great man down, you mark his favourite flyes,
The poor advanc'd makes friends of Enemies:
And hitherto doth Love on Fortune tend,
For who not needs, shall never lack a friend?
And who in want a hollow friend doth try,
Directly seasons him his Enemy.
But orderly to end where I begun,
Our Wills and Fates do so contrary run,
That our Devices still are overthrown,
Our thoughts are ours, their ends none of our own.
So think thou wilt no second husband wed,
But dye thy thoughts, when thy first Lord is dead.

Queen. Nor Earth to give me food, nor heaven light,
Sport and repose lock from me day and night:
Each opposite that blanks the face of joy,
Meet what I would have well, and it destroy:
Both here, and hence, pursue me lasting strife,
If once a Widow, ever I be Wife.

Ham. If she should break it now.

King. 'Tis deeply sworn:
Sweet, leave me here a while,
My Spirits grow dull, and fain I would beguile
The tedious day with sleep.

Queen. Sleep rock thy brain, [Sleeps.
And never come mischance between us twain. [Exit.

Ham. Madam, how like you the Play?

Queen. The Lady protests too much methinks.

Ham. Oh but she'll keep her word.

King. Have you heard the Argument, is there no Offence in't?

Ham. No, no, they do but jest, poyson in jest; no Offence ith' world.

King. What do you call the Play?

Ham. The Mouſe trap: Marry how? Tropically: This Play is the image of a murder done in Vienna: Gonzago is the Dukes name, his Wife Baptiſta: you ſhall ſee anon: 'tis a knaviſh piece of work; but what o' that? Your Majeſty, and we that have free ſouls, it touches us not: let the gall'd jade winch: our withers are unwrung,

Enter Lucianus.

This is one Lucianus, nephew to the King.

Ophe. You are a good Chorus, my Lord.

Ham. I could interpret between you and your love: if I could ſee the Puppets dallying.

Ophe. You are keen, my Lord, you are keen.

Ham. It would coſt you a groaning, to take off my edge.

Ophe. Still better and worſe.

Ham. So you miſtake Husbands.
Begin Murther. Pox, leave thy damnable Faces, and begin. Come, the croaking Raven doth bellow for Revenge.

Lucian. Thoughts black, hands apt,
Drugs fit, and Time agreeing:
Confederate ſeaſon, elſe no Creature ſeeing:
Thou mixture rank, of Midnight-Weeds collected,
With Hecates Bane, thrice blaſted, thrice infected,
The natural Magick, and dire property,
On wholſome life, uſurp immediately.

[Pours the poyſon in his ears.

Ham. He poyſons him ith' Garden for's eſtate: His names Gonzago: the Story is extant, and writ in choice Italian. You ſhall ſee anon how the Murtherer gets the love of Gonzago's Wife.

Ophe. The King riſes.

Ham. What, frighted with falſe fire.

Queen. How fares my Lord?

Pol. Give o're the Play.

King. Give me ſome Light. Away,

All. Lights, Lights, Lights. [Exeunt.

Manent Hamlet and Horatio.

Ham. Why let the ſtrucken Deer go weep,
The Hart ungalled play:
For ſome muſt watch, while ſome muſt ſleep?
So runs the world away.
Would not this, Sir, and a Foreſt of Fathers, if the reſt of my fortunes turn Turk with me: with two Provinical Roſes on my rac'd Shooes, get me a Fellowſhip in a cry of Players, Sir. Hor. Half a ſhare.

Ham. A whole one I.
For thou doſt know: Oh Damon dear,
This Realm diſmantled was of Jove himſelf,
And now reigns here,
A very very Pajock.

Hora. You might have Rim'd.

Ham. Oh good Horatio, I'le take the Ghoſts word for a thouſand pounds. Didſt perceive?

Hora. Very well, my Lord.

Ham. Upon the talk of the poyſoning?

Hora. I did very well note him.

Enter Roſincros and Guildenſtare.

Ham. Oh, ha! come ſome Muſick. Come the Recorders,
For if the King like not the Comedy:
Why then belike he likes it not perdy.
Come, ſome Muſick.

Guild. Good my Lord, vouchſafe me a word with you.

Ham. Sir, a whole Hiſtory.

Guild. The King, Sir.

Ham. I, Sir, what of him.

Guild. Is in his retirement, marvellous diſtemper'd.

Ham. With drink, Sir?

Guild. No, my Lord, rather with choler.

Ham. Your wiſdom ſhould ſhew it ſelf more rich to ſignifie this to this Doctor; for me to put him to his Purgation, would perhaps plunge him into far more Choler.

Guild. Good my Lord, put your diſcourſe into ſome frame, and ſtart not ſo wildly from my affair.

Ham. I am tame, Sir, pronounce.

Guild. The Queen your Mother, in moſt great affliction of Spirit, hath ſent me to you.

Ham. You are welcom.

Guild. Nay, good my Lord, this courteſie is not of the right breed. If it ſhall pleaſe you to make me a wholſom anſwer, I will do your Mothers commandment: if not, your pardon, and my return ſhall be the end of my buſineſs. Ham. Sir, I cannot.

Guild. What my Lord?

Ham. Make you a wholſom anſwer: my wit's diſeas'd. But Sir, ſuch anſwers as I can make, you ſhall command: or rather you ſay, my mother: therefore no more but to the matter. My mother you ſay.

Roſin. Then thus ſhe ſays: your behaviour hath ſtruck her into amazement, and admiration.

Ham. Oh wonderful Son, that can ſo aſtoniſh a Mother. But is there no ſequel at the heels of this Mother-admiration?

Roſin. She deſires to ſpeak with you in her Cloſet ere you go to bed.

Ham. We ſhall obey, were ſhe ten times our Mother. Have you any further Trade with us?

Roſin. My Lord, you once did love me.

Ham. So I do ſtill, by theſe pickers and ſtealers.

Roſin. Good my Lord, what is your cauſe of diſtemper? You do freely bar the door of your own liberty, if you deny your griefs to your friend.

Ham. Sir, I lack advancement.

Roſin. How can that be, when you have the voice of the King himſelf, for your ſucceſſion in Denmark?

Ham. I, but while the graſs grows, the Proverb is ſomething muſty.

Enter one with a Recorder.

O the Recorder. Let me ſee to withdraw with you, why do you go about to recover the wind of me, as if you would drive me into a toil?

Guild. O my Lord, if my Duty be too bold, my love is too unmannerly.

Ham. I do not well underſtand that. Will you play upon this Pipe?

Guild. My Lord, I cannot.

Ham. I pray you.

Guild. Believe me, I cannot.

Ham. I do beſeech you.

Guild. I know no touch of it, my Lord.

Ham. 'Tis as eaſie as lying: govern theſe Ventiges with your finger and thumb, give it breath with your mouth, and it will diſcourſe moſt excellent Muſick.
Look you, theſe are the ſtops.

Guild. But theſe cannot I command to any utterance of harmony, I have not the skill.

Ham. Why look you now, how unworthy a thing you make of me: you would play upon me: you would ſeem to know my ſtops: you would pluck out the heart of my Myſtery: you would ſound me from my loweſt note, to the top of my compaſs: and there is much Muſick, excellent Voice, in this little Organ, yet cannot you make it. Why do you think, that I am eaſier to be plaid on than a Pipe? Call me what Inſtrument you will, though you can fret me, you cannot play upon me. God bleſs you, Sir.

Enter Polonius.

Polon. My Lord, the Queen would ſpeak with you, and preſently.

Ham.

Ham. Do you ſee that Cloud, thats almoſt in ſhape like a Camel?
Polon. By th' Maſs, and it's like a Camel indeed.
Ham. Methinks it is like a Weazel.
Polon. It is back'd like a Weazel.
Ham. Or like a Whale?
Polon. Very like a Whale.
Ham. Then will I come to my Mother by and by:
They fool me to the top of my bent.
I will come by and by.
Polon. I will ſay ſo. [Exit.
Ham. By and by is eaſily ſaid. Leave me, friends:
'Tis now the very witching time of night,
When Church-yards yawn, and Hell it ſelf breathes out
Contagion to this world. Now could I drink hot blood,
And do ſuch bitter buſineſs as the day
Would quake to look on. Soft now, to my Mother:
Oh heart, looſe not thy nature; let not ever
The Soul of Nero enter this firm boſom:
Let me be cruel, not unnatural,
I will ſpeak Daggers to her, but uſe none:
My tongue and Soul in this be Hypocrites.
How in my words ſomever ſhe be ſhent,
To give them ſeals, never my Soul conſent.

Enter King, Roſincros, and Guildenſtare.

King. I like him not, nor ſtands it ſafe with us,
To let his madneſs range. Therefore prepare you,
I your Commiſſion will forthwith diſpatch,
And he to England ſhall along with you,
The terms of our eſtate may not endure
Hazard ſo dangerous as doth hourly grow
Out of his Lunacies.
Guild. We will our ſelves provide:
Moſt holy and Religious fear it is
To keep thoſe many bodies ſafe
That live and feed upon your Majeſty.
Roſin. The ſingle
And peculiar life is bound
With all the ſtrength and Armour of the mind,
To keep it ſelf from noyance: but much more;
That Spirit, upon whoſe Spirit depends and reſts
The lives of many, the ceaſe of Majeſty
Dies not alone: but like a Gulf doth draw
What's near it, with it, It is a maſſie wheel
Fixt on the Somnet of the higheſt Mount,
To whoſe huge Spoaks, ten thouſand leſſer things
Are mortiz'd and adjoin'd: which when it falls,
Each ſmall annexment, petty conſequence
Attends the boyſtrous Ruine. Never alone
Did the King ſigh, but with a general groan.
King. Arme you, I pray you to this ſpeedy Voyage;
For we will Fetters put upon this fear,
Which now goes too free-footed.
Both. We will haſt us. [Exeunt Gent.

Enter Polonius.

Pol. My Lord, he's going to his mothers Cloſet:
Behind the Arras I'le convey my ſelf
To hear the Proceſs. I'le warrant ſhe'll tax him home,
And as you ſaid, and wiſely was it ſaid,
'Tis meet that ſome more audience than a Mother,
Since Nature makes them partial, ſhould o're-hear
The ſpeech of vantage. Fare you well my Liege,
I'le call upon you e're you go to bed,
And tell you what I know. [Exit.
King. Thanks, dear my Lord.
Oh my offence is rank, it ſmells to heaven,
It hath the primal eldeſt curſe upon 't.
A Brothers murther. Pray can I not,
Though inclination be as ſharp as will:
My ſtronger guilt defeats my ſtrong intent,
And like a man to double buſineſs bound,
I ſtand in pawſe where I ſhall firſt begin,
And both neglect; what if this curſed hand
Were thicker than it ſelf with Brothers blood,
Is there not Rain enough in the ſweet heavens
To waſh it white as Snow? whereto ſerves mercy,
But to confront the viſage of Offence?
And whats in Prayer, but this two-fold force,
To be fore-ſtalled ere we come to fall,
Or pardon'd being down? Then I'le look up,
My fault is paſt. But oh, what form of Prayer
Can ſerve my turn? Forgive me my foul Mother:
That cannot be, ſince I am ſtill poſſeſt
Of thoſe effects for which I did the Murther,
My Crown, mine own Ambition, and my Queen.
May one be pardon'd, and retain th'offence?
In the corrupted currants of this world,
Offences gilded hand may ſhove by Juſtice,
And oft 'tis ſeen, the wicked prize it ſelf
Buys out the Law; but 'tis not ſo above,
There is no ſhuffling, there the Action lies
In his true Nature, and we our ſelves compell'd
Even to the teeth and fore-head of our faults,
To give in evidence. What then? what reſts?
Try what Repentance can. What can it not?
Yet what can it, when one cannot repent?
Oh wretched ſtate? oh boſom, black as death!
Oh limed Soul, that ſtrugling to be free,
Art more ingag'd: Help Angels, make aſſay:
Bow ſtubborn kees, and heart with ſtrings of Steel,
Be ſoft as ſinews of the new-born Babe,
All may be well.

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. Now might I do it pat, now he is praying,
And now I'le do't, and ſo he goes to heaven,
And ſo am I revenged: that would be ſcann'd,
A Villain kills my Father, and for that
I his foul Son, do this ſame Villain ſend
To heaven. O this is hire and Sallery, not Revenge.
He took my Father groſſely, full of bread,
With all his Crimes broad blown, as freſh as May,
And how his Audit ſtands, who knows, ſave heaven:
But in our circumſtance and courſe of thought,
'Tis heavy with him: and am I then reveng'd,
To take him in the purging of his Soul,
When he is fit and ſeaſon'd for his paſſage? No.
Up Sword, and know thou a more horrid bent
When he is drunk aſleep: or in his Rage,
Or in th'inceſtuous pleaſure of his bed,
At gaming, ſwearing, or about ſome act
That has no relliſh of Salvation in 't,
Then trip him, that his heels may kick at heaven,
And that his Soul may be as damn'd and black
As hell, whereto it goes. My Mother ſtays,
This Phyſick but prolongs thy ſickly dayes. [Exit.
King. My words fly up, my thoughts remain below,
Words without thoughts never to heaven go. [Exit.

Enter Queen and Polonius.

Polo. He will come ſtraight:
Look you lay home to him,
Tell him his pranks have been too broad to bear with,
And that your Grace hath ſcreen'd, and ſtood between
Much heat and him. I'le ſilence me e'ne here:
Pray you be round with him.
Ham. within. Mother, mother, mother.
Queen. I'le warrant you, fear me not.
Withdraw, I hear him coming.

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. Now, Mother, what's the matter?
Que. Hamlet, thou haſt thy Father much offended.
Ham. Mother, you have my Father much offended.
Que. Come, come, you anſwer with an idle tongue.
Ham. Come, go, you queſtion with an idle tongue.
Que. Why how now, Hamlet?
Ham. What's the matter now?
Que. Have you forgot me?
Ham. No, by the Rood, not ſo:
You are the Queen, your Husbands Brothers Wife,
But would you were not ſo. You are my Mother.
Que. Nay, then I'll ſet thoſe to you that can ſpeak.
Ham. Come, come, and ſit you down, you ſhall not budge:
You go not till I ſet up a Glaſs.
Where you may ſee the inmoſt part of you?
Que. What wilt thou do? thou wilt not murther me?
Help, help, ho.
Pol. What ho, help, help, help.
Ham. How now, a Rat? dead for a Ducate, dead.
Pol. Oh I am ſlain. [Kills Polonius.
Que. Oh me, what haſt thou done?
Ham. Nay I know not, is it the King?
Que. Oh what a raſh and bloody deed is this?
Ham. A bloody deed, almoſt as bad, good Mother,
As kill a King, and marry with his Brother.
Que. As kill'd a King?
Ham. I, Lady, 'twas my word.
Thou wretched, raſh, intruding Fool, farewel,
I took thee for thy Betters, take thy fortune,
Thou find'ſt to be too buſie, is ſome danger.
Leave wringing of your hands, peace, ſit you down,
And let me wring your heart, for ſo I ſhall
If it be made of penetrable ſtuff;
If damned Cuſtom have not braz'd it ſo,
That it is proof and bulwark againſt Senſe,
Que. What have I done, that thou dar'ſt wag thy tongue,
In noiſe ſo rude againſt me?
Ham. Such an Act
That blurs the grace and bluſh of Modeſty,
Calls Virtue Hypocrite, takes off the Roſe
From the fair Fore-head of an innocent love,
And makes a bliſter there. Makes marriage vows
As falſe as Dicers Oaths. O ſuch a Deed,
As from the body of contraction plucks
The very Soul, and ſweet Religion makes
A rhapſody of words. Heavens face doth glow,
Yea this ſolidity and compound maſs,
With triſtful viſage as againſt the doom,
Is thought-ſick at the act.
Que. Aye me, what act, that roars ſo loud, and thunders in the Index.
Ham. Look here upon this Picture, and on this,
The counterfeit preſentment of two Brothers:
See what a grace ſeated on his Brow,
Hyperions Curls, the front of Jove himſelf,
An Eye like Mars, to threaten or command
A Station like the Herald Mercury.
Now lighted on a Heaven kiſſing Hill:
A Combination, and a form indeed,
Where every god did ſeem to ſet his Seal,
To give the World aſſurance of a man.
This was your Husband. Look you now what follows.
Here is your Husband, like a Mildew'd Deer
Blaſting his wholſome breath. Have you Eyes?
Could you on this fair Mountain leave to feed,
And batten on this Moore? Ha? have you Eyes?
You cannot call it Love: For at your Age,
The hey day in the blood is tame, it's humble,
And waits upon the judgment: and what judgment
Would ſtep from this to this? What Devil was't,
That thus hath cozen'd you at Hoodman-blind?
O Shame! where is thy bluſh? Rebellious Hell,
If thou canſt mutine in a Matrons bones,
To flaming youth, let Virtue be as Wax.
And melt in her own fire. Proclaim no ſhame,
When the compulſive Ardure gives the charge,
Since Froſt it ſelf, as actively doth burn,
As Reaſon panders Will.
Que. O Hamlet, ſpeak no more.
Thou turnſt mine Eyes into my very Soul,
And there I ſee ſuch black and grained ſpots,
As will not leave their Tinct.
Ham. Nay, but to live
In the rank ſweat of an enſeamed Bed,
Stew'd in Corruption; honying and making love
Over the naſty Sty.
Que. Oh ſpeak to me, no more,
Theſe words like Daggers enter in mine Ears.
No more, ſweet Hamlet.
Ham. A Murderer, and a Villain:
A Slave, that is not twentieth part, the tythe
Of your precedent Lord. A vice of Kings,
A Cutpurſe of the Empire and the Rule.
That from a ſhelf, the precious Diadem ſtole,
And put it in his Pocket.
Que. No more.

Enter Ghoſt.

Ham. A King of ſhreds and patches.
Save me: and hover o're me with your Wings
You Heavenly Guards. What would you gracious figure?
Que. Alaſs he's mad.
Ham. Do you not come your tardy Son to chide,
That laps'd in Time and Paſſion, let's go by
Th' important acting of your dread command? Oh ſay.
Ghoſt. Do not forget: this Viſitation
Is but to whet thy almoſt blunted purpoſe.
But look Amazement on thy Mother ſits;
O ſtep between her, and her fighting Soul,
Conceit in weakeſt bodies, ſtrongeſt works.
Speak to her, Hamlet.
Ham. How is it with you, Lady?
Que. Alas, how is't with you?
That thus you bend your Eye on vacancy,
And with the Corporal air do hold diſcourſe.
Forth at your Eyes, your ſpirits wildly peep,
And as the ſleeping Souldiers in th' Alarm,
Your bedded hair, like life in Excrements,
Start up, and ſtand an end. O gentle Son,
Upon the heat and flame of thy diſtemper
Sprinkle cool patience. Whereon do you look?
Ham. On him, on him, look you how pale he glares,
His form and cauſe conjoin'd, preaching to ſtones,
Would make them capable. Do not look upon me,
Leſt with this pitious action you convert
My ſtern effects: then what have I to do,
Will want true colour; tears perchance for blood.
Que. To whom do you ſpeak this?
Ham. Do you ſee nothing there?
Que. Nothing at all, yet all that is I ſee.
Ham. Nor did you nothing hear?
Que. No, nothing but our ſelves.
Ham. Why look you there: look how it ſteals away;
My Father in his habit, as he lived.
Look where he goes even now out at the Portal. [Exit.
Que. This is the very Coinage of your brain,
This bodileſs Creation ecſtaſie is very cunning in.
Ham. Ecſtaſie?
My Pulſe, as yours, doth temperately keep time,
And makes as healthful Muſick. It is not madneſs
That I have uttered; bring me to the Teſt
And I the matter will re-word: which madneſs
Would gamboll from. Mother, for love of Grace,

Lay

Lay not a flattering Unction to your Soul,
That not your treſpaſs, but my madneſs ſpeaks:
It will but skin and film the Ulcerous place,
Whilſt rank Corruption running all within,
Infects unſeen. Confeſs your ſelf to Heaven,
Repent whats paſt, avoid what is to come,
And do not ſpread the Compoſt or the Weeds,
To make them rank. Forgive me this my Virtue,
For in the fatneſs of theſe purſy times,
Virtue it ſelf, of Vice muſt pardon beg,
Yea curb, and wooe, for leave to do him good.
Que. Oh, Hamlet,
Thou haſt cleft my heart in twain.
Ham. O throw away the worſer part of it,
And live the purer with the other half.
Good night, but go not to mine Unkle's Bed,
Aſſume a Virtue, if you have it not, refrain to night,
And that ſhall lend a kind of eaſineſs
To the next abſtinence. Once more good night,
And when you are deſirous to be bleſt,
I'll bleſſing beg of you. For this ſame Lord,
I do repent: but Heaven hath pleas'd it ſo.
To puniſh me with this, and this with me,
That I muſt be their Scourge and Miniſter.
I will beſtow him, and will anſwer well
The death I gave him: ſo again, good night.
I muſt be cruel, only to be kind;
Thus bad begins, and worſe remains behind.
Que. What ſhall I do?
Ham. Not this by no means that I bid you do:
Let the blunt King tempt you again to Bed,
Pinch Wanton on your cheek, call you his Mouſe,
And let him for a pair of reechy kiſſes,
Or padling in your neck with his damn'd fingers,
Make you to ravel all this matter out,
That I eſſentially am not in madneſs,
But mad in craft. 'Twere good you let him know,
For who thats but a Queen, fair, ſober, wiſe,
Would from a Paddock, from a Bat, a Gibbe,
Such dear concernings hide? Who would do ſo?
No, in deſpight of Senſe and Secrecy,
Unpeg the Basket on the Houſes top:
Let the Birds fly, and like the famous Ape,
To try Concluſions, in the Basket creep,
And break your own neck down.
Que. Be thou aſſur'd, if words be made of breath,
And breath of life: I have no life to breathe
What thou haſt ſaid to me.
Ham. I muſt to England, you know that?
Que. Alack, I had forgot: 'Tis ſo concluded on.
Ham. This man ſhall ſet me packing:
I'll lug the Guts into the Neighbour room;
Mother, good night. Indeed this Counſellor
Is now moſt ſtill, moſt ſecret, and moſt grave,
Who was in life a Fooliſh prating Knave.
Come, Sir, to draw toward an end with you.
Good night, Mother.
[Exit Hamlet tugging in Polonius.

Enter King.

King. There's matters in theſe ſighs.
Theſe profound heaves
You muſt tranſlate: 'tis fit we underſtand them.
Where is your Son?
Que. Ah, my good Lord, what have I ſeen to night?
King. What, Gertrude? How does Hamlet?
Que. Mad as the Seas, and Wind, when both contend
Which is the Mightier, in his lawleſs fit
Behind the Arras, hearing ſomething ſtir,
He whips his Rapier out, and cries a Rat, a Rat,
And in his brainiſh apprehenſion kills
The unſeen good old man.
King. Oh heavy deed.
It had been ſo with us had we been there:
His Liberty is full of threats to all,
To you your ſelf, to us, to every one.
Alas, how ſhall this bloody deed be anſwered?
It will be laid to us, whoſe providence
Should have kept ſhort, reſtrain'd, and out of haunt,
This mad young man. But ſo much was our love,
We would not underſtand what was moſt fit,
But like the Owner of a foul Diſeaſe,
To keep it from divulging, let's it feed
Even on the pith of life. Where is he gone?
Que. To draw apart the body he hath kill'd,
O're whom his very madneſs like ſome Ore
Among a Mineral of Mettals baſe
Shews it ſelf pure. He weeps for what is done.
King. Oh Gertrude, come away:
The Sun no ſooner ſhall the Mountains touch,
But we will ſhip him hence, and this vile deed,
We muſt with all our Majeſty and Skill
Both countenance, and excuſe.

Enter Roſincros, and Guildenſtare.

Ho Guildenſtare:
Friends both, go join you with ſome further aid:
Hamlet in madneſs hath Polonius ſlain,
And from his Mothers Cloſet hath he dragg'd him.
Go ſeek him out, ſpeak fair, and bring the body
Into the Chappel. I pray you haſte in this. [Exit. Gent.
Come, Gertrude, we'll call up our wiſeſt Friends,
To let them know both what we mean to do,
And what's untimely done. Oh come away,
My Soul is full of diſcord and diſmay. [Exeunt.

Enter Hamlet.

Ham. Safely ſtowed.
Gentlemen within. Hamlet, Lord Hamlet.
Ham. What noiſe? who calls on Hamlet?
Oh here they come.

Enter Roſincros, and Guildenſtare.

Roſ. What have you done, my Lord, with the dead body?
Ham. Compounded it with duſt, whereto 'tis kin.
Roſin. Tell us where 'tis, that we may take it thence,
And bear it to the Chappel.
Ham. Do not believe it.
Roſin. Believe what?
Ham. That I can keep your Counſel, and not mine own. Beſides, to be demanded of a Spunge, what replication ſhould be made by the Son of a King.
Roſin. Take you me for a Spunge, my Lord?
Ham. I, Sir, that ſokes up the Kings Countenance, his Rewards, his Authorities (but ſuch Officers do the King beſt ſervice in the end.) He keeps them like an Ape in the corner of his Jaw, firſt mouth'd to be laſt ſwallowed, when he needs what you have glean'd, it is but ſqueezing you, and Spunge you ſhall be dry again.
Roſin. I underſtand you not, my Lord.
Ham. I am glad of it: a Knaviſh ſpeech ſleeps in a Fooliſh Ear.
Roſin. My Lord, you muſt tell us where the body is, and go with us to the King.
Ham. The Body is with the King, but the King is not with the Body. The King, is a thing ——
Guild. A thing, my Lord?
Ham. Of nothing? bring me to him, hide Fox, and all after. [Exeunt.

Enter King.

King. I have ſent to ſeek him, and to find the Body:
How dangerous is it that this man goes looſe:

Yet muſt not we put the ſtrong Law on him:
He's lov'd of the diſtracted multitude,
Who like not in their judgment, but their Eyes:
And where 'tis ſo, th' Offenders ſcourge is weigh'd
But nearer the offence: to bear all ſmooth, and even,
This ſudden ſending him away, muſt ſeem
Deliberate pawſe, diſeaſes deſperate grown,
By deſperate appliance are relieved,
Or not at all.

Enter Roſincros.

How now? what hath befaln?

Roſin. Where the dead body is beſtow'd, my Lord,
We cannot get from him.

King. But where is he?

Roſin. Without, my Lord, guarded to know your pleaſure.

King. Bring him before us.

Roſin. Ho, Guildenſtare? bring in my Lord.

Enter Hamlet, and Guildenſtare.

King. Now, Hamlet, where's Polonius?

Ham. At Supper.

King. At Supper? Where?

Ham. Not where he eats, but where he is eaten, a certain Convocation of Worms are e'ne at him. Your Worm is your only Emperour for diet. We fat all Creatures elſe to fat us, and we fat our ſelves for Maggots. Your fat King and your lean Beggar is but variable ſervice, two Diſhes, but to one Table, that's the end.

King. What doſt thou mean by this?

Ham. Nothing but to ſhew you how a King may go a Progreſs through the gut of a Beggar.

King. Where is Polonius?

Ham. In Heaven, ſend thither to ſee. If your Meſſenger find him not there, ſeek him i' th' other place your ſelf: but indeed, if you find him not this month, you ſhall noſe him as you go up the ſtairs into the Lobbey.

King. Go ſeek him there.

Ham. He will ſtay 'till ye come.

Ki. Hamlet, this deed of thine, for thine eſpecial ſafety
Which we do tender, as we dearly grieve
For that which thou haſt done, muſt ſend thee hence
With fiery quickneſs: therefore prepare thy ſelf,
The Bark is ready, and the wind at help,
Th' Aſſociates tend, and every thing at bent
For England.

Ham. For England?

King. I, Hamlet.

Ham. Good.

King. So is it, if thou knew'ſt our purpoſes.

Ham. I ſee a Cherub that ſees him: but come, for England. Farewel, dear Mother.

King. Thy loving Father, Hamlet.

Hamlet. My Mother: Father and Mother is Man and Wife: Man and Wife is one fleſh, and ſo my Mother. Come, for England. [Exit.

King. Follow him at foot,
Tempt him with ſpeed aboard:
Delay it not, I'll have him hence to night.
Away, for every thing is ſeal'd and done
That elſe leans on th' Affair, pray you make haſte.
And England, if my love thou hold'ſt at ought,
As my great power thereof may give thee ſenſe,
Since yet thy Cicatrice looks raw and red
After the Daniſh Sword, and thy free awe
Payes homage to us; thou may'ſt not coldly ſet
Our Sovereign Proceſs, which imports at full
By Letters conjuring to that effect
The preſent Death of Hamlet. Do it in England,
For like the Hectick in my bloud he rages,
And thou muſt cure me: 'till I know 'tis done,
How-e're my haps, my joyes were ne're begun. [Exit.

Enter Fortinbras with an Army.

For. Go, Captain, from me to the Daniſh King,
Tell him that by his Licence, Fortinbras
Claims the conveyance of a promis'd March
Over his Kingdom. You know the Rendevouz:
If that his Majeſty would ought with us,
We ſhall expreſs our duty in his Eye,
And let him know ſo.

Cap. I will do't, my Lord.

For. Go ſafely on. [Exit.

Enter Queen and Horatio.

Qu. I will not ſpeak with her.

Hor. She is importunate, indeed diſtract, her mood will needs be pitied.

Qu. What would ſhe have?

Hor. She ſpeaks much of her Father; ſayes ſhe hears
There's tricks i' th' World, and hems, and beats her heart,
Spurns enviouſly at Straws, ſpeaks things in doubt,
That carry but half ſenſe: Her ſpeech is nothing,
Yet the unſhaped uſe of it doth move
The hearers to Collection; they aim at it,
And both the words up fit to their own thoughts,
Which at her winks, and nods, and geſtures yield them,
Indeed would make one think there would be thoughts
Though nothing ſure, yet much unhappily.

Qu. 'Twere good ſhe were ſpoken with,
For ſhe may ſtrow dangerous conjectures
In ill breeding minds. Let her come in
To my ſick Soul (as ſin's true nature is)
Each toy ſeems Prologue to ſome great amiſs,
So full of Artleſs jealouſie is guilt,
It ſpills it ſelf in fearing to be ſpilt.

Enter Ophelia diſtracted.

Oph. Where is the beauteous Majeſty of Denmark?

Qu. How now, Ophelia.

Oph. How ſhould I your true love know from another one?
By his cockle hat and ſtaff, and his ſandal ſhoon.

Qu. Alas, ſweet Lady: what imports this Song?

Oph. Say you? Nay, pray you mark.
He is dead and gone, Lady, he is dead and gone,
At his head a graſs-green Turf, at his heels a ſtone.

Enter King.

Qu. Nay, but Ophelia.

Oph. Pray you mark.
White his Shrowd as the Mountain-Snow.

Qu. Alas, look here, my Lord.

Oph. Larded with ſweet flowers:
Which bewept to the grave did not go,
With True-love flowers.

King. How do ye, pretty Lady?

Oph. Well, God dil'd you. They ſay the Owle was a Baker's Daughter. Lord, we know what we are, but know not what we may be. God be at your Table.

King. Conceit upon her Father.

Oph. Pray you let us have no words of this: but when they ask you what it means, ſay you this:
To morrow is S. Valentine's day, all in the morn betime,
And I a Maid at your window, to be your Valentine.
Then up he roſe, and don'd his cloths, and dupt the chamber door:
Let in a Maid, that out a Maid never departed more.

King. Pretty Ophelia.

Oph. Indeed la? without an Oath, I'll make an end on't.
By Gis, and by S. Charity:
Alack, an fie for ſhame.
Young men will do't, if they come to't,
By Cock they are to blame.

Quoth

Quoth she, before you tumbled me,
You promis'd me to wed:
So would I ha done, by yonder Sun,
And thou hadst not come to my Bed.

King. How long hath she been thus?

Oph. I hope all will be well. We must be patient, but I cannot chuse but weep, to think they should lay him i'th' cold ground: My Brother shall know of it, and so I thank you for your good counsel. Come, my Coach: Goodnight, Ladies: Goodnight, sweet Ladies: Goodnight, goodnight. [Exit.

King. Follow her close,
Give her good watch I pray you:
Oh this is the poison of deep grief, it springs
All from her Father's death. Oh Gertrude, Gertrude,
When Sorrows come, they come not single spies,
But in Battels. First, her Father slain,
Next your Son gone, and he most violent author
Of his own just remove: the people muddied,
Thick and unwholsome in their thoughts and whispers,
For good Polonius death; and we have done but greenly,
In hugger mugger to interr him. Poor Ophelia
Divided from her self, and her fair judgment,
Without the which we are Pictures, or mere Beasts,
Last, and as much containing as all these,
Her Brother is in secret come from France,
Keeps on his wonder, keeps himself in clouds,
And wants not Buzzers to infect his ear
With pestilent speeches of his Fathers death,
Where in necessity of matter beggar'd
Will nothing stick our persons to arraign
In ear and ear. O my dear Gertrude, this,
Like to a murdering Piece in many places,
Gives me superfluous death. [A Noise within.

Enter a Messenger.

Queen. Alack, what noise is this?

King. Where are my Switzers?
Let them guard the door. What is the matter?

Mess. Save your self, my Lord.
The Ocean (over peering of his List)
Eats not the Flats with more impetuous haste
Than young Laertes, in a riotous head,
O're-bears your Officers, the rabble call him Lord,
And as the World were now but to begin,
Antiquity forgot, Custome not known,
The Ratifiers and props of every word,
They cry, choose we? Laertes shall be King.
Caps, hands, and tongues, applaud it to the Clouds,
Laertes shall be King, Laertes King.

Queen. How chearfully on the false Trail they cry,
Oh this is the Counter, you false Danish Doggs. [Noise within.

Enter Laertes.

King. The doors are broke.

Laer. Where is the King, Sirs? Stand you all without.

All. No, let's come in.

Laer. I pray you give me leave.

All. We will, we will.

Laer. I thank you: Keep the door.
O thou vile King, give me my Father.

Queen. Calmly, good Laertes,

Laer. That drop of blood that calms,
Proclaims me Bastard:
Crys Cuckold to my Father, brands the Harlot
Even here between the chaste unsmitched brow
Of my true Mother.

King. What is the cause, Laertes,
That thy Rebellion looks so Gyant-like?
Let him go, Gertrude: Do not fear our Person:
There's such Divinity doth hedge a King,
That treason can but peep to what it would,
Acts little of his will. Tell me, Laertes,
Why art thou thus incenst? Let him go, Gertrude,
Speak man.

Laer. Where's my Father?

King. Dead.

Queen. But not by him.

King. Let him demand his fill.

Laer. How came he dead? I'll not be juggl'd with
To Hell Allegiance: Vows to the blackest Devil:
Conscience and Grace, to the profoundest Pit.
I dare Damnation: to this point I stand,
That both the Worlds I give to negligence,
Let come what comes: only I'll be reveng'd
Most throughly for my Father.

King. Who shall stay you?

Laer. My Will, not all the World,
And for my means, I'll husband them so well,
They shall go far with little.

King. Good Laertes:
If you desire to know the certainty
Of your dear Father's death, if writ in your revenge,
That Soop-stake you will draw both friend and foe,
Winner and Loser.

Laer. None but his Enemies.

King. Will you know them then?

Laer. To his good Friends thus wide I'll ope my Arms,
And like the kind life-rendring Pelican,
Repast them with my blood.

King. Why now? what noise is that?
Like a good Child, and a true Gentleman.
That I am guiltless of your Father's death,
And am most sensible in grief for it,
It shall as level to your Judgment pierce,
As day do's to your eye. [A Noise within. Let her come in.

Enter Ophelia.

Laer. How now? what noise is that?
O heat dry up my brains, tears even times salt,
Burn out the sense and virtue of mine Eye.
By Heaven thy madness shall be paid by weight,
'Till our Scale turns the Beam. O Rose of May,
Dear Maid, kind Sister, sweet Ophelia:
O Heavens, is't possible, a young Maid's wits,
Should be as mortal as an old Man's life?
Nature is fine in love, and where 'tis fine,
It sends some precious instance of it self
After the thing it loves.

Oph. They bore him bare-fac'd on the Beer.
Hey non noney, noney, hey noney:
And on his grave rains many a tear,
Fare you well, my Dove.

Laer. Had'st thou thy wits, and did'st persuade Revenge, it could not move thus.

Oph. You must sing down a-down, and you call him a down-a. O how the wheels become? It is the false Steward that stole his Master's daughter.

Laer. This nothing's more than matter.

Oph. There's Rosemary, that's for remembrance. Pray Love remember: and there's Pancies, that's for Thoughts.

Laer. A document in madness, thoughts and remembrance fitted.

Oph. There's Fennel for you, and Columbines: there's Rue for you, and here's some for me. We may call it Herb-Grace a Sundays: O you must wear your Rue with a difference. There's a Dasie, I would give you some Violets, but they withered all when my Father dyed: They say, he made a good end;

For bonny sweet Robin is all my joy.

Laer. Thought, and Affliction, Passion, Hell it self:
She turns to favour; and to prettiness.

Oph.

Oph. And will he not come again?
And will he not come again?
No, no, he is dead, go to thy Death-bed,
He never will come again.
His Beard as white as Snow.
All Flaxen was his Pole:
He is gone, he is gone, and we caſt away mone,
Gramercy on his Soul.
And of all Chriſtian Souls, I pray God.
God b'w'ye. [Exit Ophelia.

Laer. Do you ſee this, you gods?
